Scanned from the collections of
The Library of Congress

Packard Campus for Audio Visual Conservation www.loc.gov/avconservation

Motion Picture and Television Reading Room
www.loc.gov/rr/mopic

Recorded Sound Reference Center
www.loc.gov/rr/record

EQUITABLE

PRESENTS

THE AMERICAN BEAUTY GIRL

MARGARITA FISCHER

IN A POWERFUL DRAMATIC TALE
AS UNUSUAL AS IT IS ENTERTAINING

"THE DRAGON"

IF YOUR MOTHER ABANDONED YOUR FATHER-ATTRACTED BY ANOTHER MAN. AND YOUR FATHER'S LIFE WAS RUINED, HIS FORTUNE LOST, YOUR HOPES BLASTED, AND CAREER DULLED - WOULD YOU GO THROUGH LIFE CAUSING DEATH. UNHAPPINESS AND DESPAIR TO THOSE RESPONSIBLE FOR YOUR FATHER'S PAINS? OR WOULD YOU, TOO, BECOME A VICTIM OF THE DRAGON THAT BROUGHT MISERY TO YOUR HOME ?

RELEASED JAN. 3

EQUITABLE MOTION PICTURES CORPORATION

LEWIS J. SELZNICK, VICE PRES. AND ADVISORY DIRECTOR

RELEASING THROUGH

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

Triangle Plays Help The Box Office

The remarkable number of signed contracts received for the presentation rights of TRIANGLE PLAYS is due to the old axiom, "the purchase of any commodity by the middleman is made for just one reason—to make money for himself. It matters not whether the product be cheap or expensive, near at home or out of town, if the opportunity for profit is offered the purchase will be large!"

The rapidity with which the signed contracts have been coming in proves this beyond a doubt. The average exhibitor today, the exhibitor who can appreciate TRIANGLE PLAYS, is a shrewd, hard-headed business man who knows the best pictures when he sees them, the type of plays that appeal to his particular patrons, and the kind of plays that will turn the spasmodic picture-goer into a regular.

Such an exhibitor knows TRIANGLE PLAYS. He investigated them at the start and has watched their progress since the beginning. He knows the men who are back of this corporation, the men who have made a life study of the motion picture business and helped to transform it from a small beginning to the fifth largest industry in this country. Such an exhibitor has watched with particular care the quality of TRIANGLE PLAYS and by this time is convinced that the quality of the first few pictures has been constantly maintained and that if possible the latest pictures have been even better than the first.

The hard-headed exhibitor knows that it is to his advantage to present TRIANGLE PLAYS to his patrons, for he knows that they will appreciate their superior quality, that they will enthuse over the marvels of TRIANGLE PRODUCTION, and that increased Box Office returns will be the result. He cannot fail to appreciate the immense advantage of showing motion picture plays that have been a success at the Knickerbocker Theatre in New York.

HAVE YOU SIGNED YOUR CONTRACT?

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION
71 WEST 23rd ST. NEW YORK

Triangle Plays for the First Week of the New Year

The TRIANGLE releases for the first week of the New Year offer two particularly strong, gripping, and intense five-reel dramas, and a pair of Keystones that are in many ways the best that have yet been filmed.

"CROSS CURRENTS," in which Helen Ware makes her Triangle debut, is a gripping tale of a woman's sacrifice for the man she loves. Realizing he is growing weary of her she releases him so that he may marry another woman, but the shipwreck of a yachting party casts the two on a desert isle together and the old love rekindles. Happily they live together until the wife arrives with a rescue party, and knowing that the man's loyalty belongs to the wife the woman walks straight to a watery grave.

In "Between Men," W. S. Hart takes the part of a man who never forgets a favor. When an enemy threatens the man who befriended him with financial ruin, he responds to the call with alacrity. It's a fight to the finish both with brains and fists to save the fortune of the friend and win the hand of the daughter. The terrific hand to hand combat, the terrible Wall Street scene and the final victory combine to produce a play in which not a moment drags.

In many ways "Dizzy Heights and Daring Hearts" is one of the most wonderful Keystones ever filmed. Aeroplanes looping the loop, the thrilling chase of a biplane, the miraculous rescue from the top of a tower, and a 200 foot smokestack blown up are only a few of the thrills, and again we have Weber and Fields, those famous comedians, this time in "The Worst of Friends," a Keystone that is better than "The Best of Enemies," if that is possible.

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION
71 WEST 23rd ST. NEW YORK

French Battle Pictures, Five Reels, Obtained by Donald C. Thompson

"SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE"

Ask These Exchanges for Immediate Bookings

Progressive Motion Picture Company, 645 Pacific Building, San Francisco.

Progressive Motion Picture Company, Central Building, Seattle.

Famous Players Film Service, Inc., 12th and Penn Streets, Pittsburgh.

Famous Players Film Service, Inc., Consumers Building, Chicago.

Famous Players Film Service, Inc., 532 Walnut Street, Cincinnati.

Famous Players Film Company of New England, 31 Beach Street, Boston.

Famous Players Film Company of New England, 19 Congress Avenue, New Haven.

Wm. L. Sherry Feature Film Co., Inc., 130 West 46th Street, New York City.

Exchanges and Exhibitors in Other Territories Communicate at Once With

ARTHUR S. KANE

901 CANDLER BUILDING
220 WEST 42nd STREET

New York City

Pa Zays "When You do Something New do it RITE" — thatz WHY i got Kalem TO PUT me in THE moviez — WATCH FER me Siz. HOPKINZ (MYSELF)

TRADE KALEM MARK

THE BLACK CROOK

Magnificently Spectacular Adaptation of the Famous Extravaganza

In Five Parts —A General Film Company Release, Mon., January 10th

A Dazzling Twenty-Four Sheet Stand

Is included in the unusually complete line of four-color lithographs. Also two styles of one-sheets, two of threes and a six. Attractive heralds, newspaper cuts, etc.

The Special Music Provided at Cost Price Is the Best Buy Any Exhibitor Could Make, Not Only to Aid His Presentation of "The Black Crook," But For Later Use By His Orchestra.

KALEM COMPANY

235-239 West 23rd Street, New York City

"It's Distinctive!"—That is the Secret of "Stingaree's" Success—E. W. Hornung's Character Creation is Unique, His Stories of a Consistent Strength Never Before Attained in Series Productions.

The Purification of Mulfera

Eighth Episode in the series by the author of "Raffles" Lightens the Tense Dramatic Strength of the Other Issues by the Introduction of a Delightful Comedy Touch—Released Wednesday, January 12.

Remember—"the series hit of the year" costs you no more than an ordinary release. Twelve two-act episodes, each complete in itself, and released one every Wednesday. At any General Film Co. office or the Greater New York Film Rental Co.

Are You On the Mailing List for the New Kalem Bulletin? Better Write Now!

Striking 1, 3 and 6-sheet, four color lithographs on each issue. Other advertising aids, too.

KALEM COMPANY

235-39 WEST 23RD ST., NEW YORK, N.Y.

YOU are wasting your opportunities if YOU ignore advertising.

This Woman has

One ready to do good; Impossible?

THE RED

Pathé's big serial produced by Balboa, from scenarios by Will M. Ritchey

Complete in 14 episodes of 2 parts each

The PATHÉ

EXECUTIVE

25 WEST 45th ST

two right hands!

the other to do evil.
Not at all—see

CIRCLE

Featuring RUTH ROLAND and FRANK MAYO
Stories by Albert Payson Terhune
Widespread publicity

EXCHANGE inc.

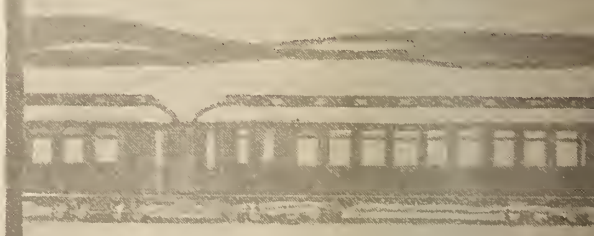
OFFICES
NEW YORK

Pathe and Henry W.

EXCUSE

A rip-roaring comedy drama with
GEORGE F. MARION
VIVIAN BLACKBURN
and GERALDINE O'BRIEN

George F Marion



A perpetual mileage of laughs without any stopovers

The PATHÉ EXECUTIVE
25 WEST 45th ST.

Savage present

ME!

This 5 part GOLD ROOSTER offering is from the phenomenally successful play by Rupert Hughes, which played to record crowds

Vivian Blackburn

It features nearly the entire original cast

RELEASED DEC. 31st

EXCHANGE inc.

OFFICES
NEW YORK

First Official French Government Motion Pictures of

FIGHTING IN FRANCE

READ THIS OFFICIAL LETTER

(Translation)

Minister of Foreign Affairs,
Office of the Minister.

Dear Mr. Powell: I herewith send you the cinematograph films you have selected. As I have already told you, these films have been taken from the "operateurs mobilises" at the front of the French army, with the authorization of the Great General Staff. It is, as you know, quite superfluous to affirm their authenticity, or to add that they have not been retouched. This is indisputable.

Accept, dear Mr. Powell, the expression of my heartiest best wishes.

FOURNOL (Bureau Chief).

These pictures were loaned by the government of France to through E. Alexander Powell, its war correspondent, for presentation in the United States and Canada.

The World

These are the only motion pictures exhibited to the Allied Diplomats at the French Embassy at Washington, Thursday, November 18.

FIGHTING IN FRANCE

has been playing to thousands every day at the Fulton and Forty-Fourth Street theatres, New York, and in the Keith theatres in New York and Brooklyn.

LEADING NEWSPAPERS

including Chicago Daily News, Boston Herald, Philadelphia Ledger, Cleveland Plain Dealer, Montreal Star, Quebec Chronicle, Ottowa Journal, Winnipeg Telegram, Minneapolis Tribune and New Orleans Times-Picayune have blazed the way in publicity as the official French pictures have been shown in these cities under their auspices.

STATES RIGHTS JUST RELEASED

Wire at Once for Privileges to

THE NEW YORK WORLD or MORRIS GEST

Princess Theatre New York City

Paramount
from the beginning to the present, has been characterized by conservative business methods. Its progress has been consistent and uninterrupted.
PARAMOUNT has larger plans mapped out—plans that mean benefit to the exhibitors and public as well as to PARAMOUNT—that is, PARAMOUNT'S policy. These plans will develop and become established as have other PARAMOUNT plans.
Paramount Pictures Corporation
ONE HUNDRED and TEN WEST FORTIETH STREET
NEW YORK, N.Y.
PARAMOUNT
ACHIEVEMENT
1916

THE BIG "A" FEATURES

Are Being Disposed of Rapidly on the A B C Plan

A Theme Worked Out in a Conscientious and Striking Manner

FIRST RELEASE

HIS TURNING POINT

FIVE REELS
FEATURING

LEATRICE JOY ZEIDLER AND ANDREW A. ROGERS

The Story of a Young Man Who Has Fallen Among Evil Companions and Is Reformed By the Influence of a Little Girl.

STATE RIGHT BUYERS AND EXCHANGE MEN

COMMUNICATE WITH US AT ONCE FOR OUR FEATURES ON OUR A B C PLAN

ASSOCIATED RELEASES, WEEK OF JANUARY 3, 1916

2 reel	Drama	Santa Barbara	"The Thought"	1 reel	Comedy	Atla	"Out of the Pan Into the Fire"
2 "	"	Ramona	"The Missing Link"	1 "	"	Federal	"Ike Meets the 'Gink' of Denmark"
2 "	"	Alhambra	"The Xmas Spirit of the Slums"	1 "	"	Banner	"Quitting by Request"
2 "	"	Empire	"The Master Rogue"	1 "	"	Deer	"False Rumors"

Associated Film Sales Corporation

ARTHUR BARD, Gen'l Mgr. - - - 110-112 West 40th St., New York City

COMING METRO EVENTS

METRO PICTURES

Again Speaking of Consistency:

From an Exhibitor, Bruce Godshaw, in the Exhibitor's Herald, issue of November 27, 1915—

"But how to induce the patrons to continue to come from a distance, with the climatical conditions and car fares as their points of consideration, is my continual problem. My wares must be consecutively attractive; there must be no chasms of apparent mediocrity between one night and the other unless there is a difference in the admission price. But if a uniform scale of prices prevails, a uniform program is necessary.

"To illustrate: If a Mary Pickford or a Francis X. Bushman production can be seen for a dime, is it reasonable to figure that as many people will come out to see a Bruce McRae, a Gail Kane or a Frederick Perry, etc.? Not ordinarily! But it is possible, I believe, if a "feature program" maintains a standard—throws out the inferior offering and creates a "confidence" in the output. For instance, I will cite the Metro program. While possessing many prominent stars, they have others of lesser importance, but the business holds up to within a few dollars of each other for me, whether it is a William Faversham, an Olga Petrova, an Emily Wehlen or a Mary Miles Minter. I am not on the "outs" with any film exchanges. My relations are equally friendly with all and I do not try to favor any in these articles, but I find much pleasure in being truthful when occasion demands, and in the instance of Metro I admit increasing business from week to week—because they have not had a poor release. They are clean, clever, novel and—best of all—the public is sharing my opinion. Metro night with me is secured. I am not compelled to spend time nor money in forcing an attendance for Metro night."

The experience of Exhibitor Godshaw is the experience of other Metro Exhibitors. QUALITY. PLUS CONSISTENCY WINS

METRO PICTURES

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

presents

Booth Tarkington's

THE TURMOIL

with

VALLI-VALLI

and GEORGE LEGUERE

A METRO wonderplay produced in 5 Acts by COLUMBIA PICTURES CORPORATION and directed by Edgar Jones

Released on the METRO Program January 10th.

METRO PICTURES

COMING METRO EVENTS

METRO PICTURES

Jan. 17	A Rose of the Alley	Rolfe Photoplays, Inc. Mary Miles Minter
Jan. 24	The Upstart	Rolfe Photoplays, Inc. Marguerite Snow & George Le Guere
Jan. 31	Man and His Soul	Quality Pictures Corporation Francis X. Bushman & Beverly Bayne
Feb. 7	Her Debt of Honor	Columbia Pictures Corporation Valli Valli
Feb. 14	Dimples	Columbia Pictures Corporation Mary Miles Minter
Feb. 21	Red Mouse	Quality Pictures Corporation Francis X. Bushman & Beverly Bayne
Feb. 28	The Lure of Heart's Desire	Popular Plays and Players Edmund Breese

Metro Pictures Corporation

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

Early forthcoming five reel productions to be released by David Horsley as Mutual Masterpictures, de luxe edition, are "The Bait" and "Vengeance is Mine!"

The former features William Clifford and Betty Hart, supported by a cast of well known players together with the Bostock animals and is scheduled for release January 22.

"Vengeance is Mine!" presents Crane Wilbur in a role that gives his abilities wide scope. An especially selected cast has been engaged for his support. "Vengeance is Mine!" will be released January 31, instead of January 26, as previously announced.

In the making of these features there is brought into play the unparalleled equipment of the complete David Horsley studios; absorbing stories written by trained and high salaried scenario writers; the wide knowledge of technical experts; the stage craft efficiency of competent directors; the ability of many popular players and the thrilling performances of the matchless Bostock animals. The effect of such a combination is the production of Masterpictures, de luxe edition, not only in name but in fact.

In addition to the release of such features Mr. Horsley will release every Friday, as heretofore, one of the humorous single reel Cub Comedies featuring the funniest man in America, George Ovey.

Bookings on all these David Horsley productions to be had at Mutual exchanges.

DAVID HORSLEY PRODUCTIONS

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATI

Announces

The first of the three-a-w

MUTUAL MASTERPICTUR
DE LUXE EDITION

WILLIAM RUSSEL
• AND • CHARLOTTE BURTO
— IN —

The THOROUGHBRE

A Stirring Drama in Five Reels

RELEASED THE WEEK
OF JAN. 17TH.

produced by America

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

Announces

For Release Week of Jan. 17th

An absorbing Play in Five Reels.....

WILLIAM CLIFFORD
· AND · MARGARET GIBSON

— IN —

The BAIT

.....A.....

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE
DE LUXE EDITION

Book through your nearest Mutual Exchange

produced by Horsley

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION
Announces

WOLVES OF SOCIETY

A MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE
DE LUXE EDITION
THREE-A-WEEK

A POWERFUL SOCIOLOGICAL DRAMA IN FIVE REELS

Book through an Mutual Exchang

A Mutual Productio

MUTUAL PROGRAM

UTUAL FILM CORPORATION
Announces

IN THE NAME OF THE LAW

A Powerful Feature Production in Three Reels Portraying the Attractive Star

GLADYS HULETTE

ONE OF THE THREE THREE REEL FEATURES RELEASED ON THE MUTUAL PROGRAM THE WEEK OF JAN. 11TH.

A Thanhouser Production

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

MUTUAL SPECIAL FEATURE

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION ANNOUNCES
A SENSATIONAL SCOOP!

FIGHTING FOR FRANCE

THE SAME WAR PICTURES THAT HAVE PLAYED TO PACKED HOUSES DURING THE LAST FEW WEEKS IN NEW YORK, CHICAGO BOSTON, SAN FRANCISCO AND LOS ANGELES. RELEASED JAN. 1ST TO EXHIBITORS EVERYWHERE. PRESENTED BY OFFICIAL AUTHORITY OF THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT

FIVE REELS!

RELEASED JAN. 1ST

WIRE YOUR NEAREST MUTUAL EXCHANGE NOW FOR PRICES AND DATES . . .

MUTUAL PROGRAM

The Gamble

A "Flying A" drama of the wheat fields. Forceful and picturesque. Two parts, featuring

HAROLD LOCKWOOD

May Allison William Stowell

Directed by Thomas Ricketts

RELEASE DATE, JANUARY 16th

Viviana

A two-part "Flying A" drama especially written with

VIVIAN RICH

Supported by GEORGE PERIOLAT and a special cast.

Directed by Reaves Eason

Release Date, January 10th

The Secret Wire

Two-part "Flying A" drama, with

HAROLD LOCKWOOD

May Allison William Stowell

Directed by Thomas Ricketts

Release Date, January 14th

Spider Barlow Meets Competition

Single reel "Flying A" comedy drama.

Winifred Greenwood Edward Coxen

George Field

Directed by Charles Bartlett

Release Date, January 14th

The First Quarrel

A "Beauty" comedy, with

Carol Halloway and John Sheehan

Directed by James Douglass

Released January 11th

Getting in Wrong

A "Beauty" comedy, with

Neva Gerber
Lucille Ward
William Carroll

Directed by Jack Dillon

Released January 15th

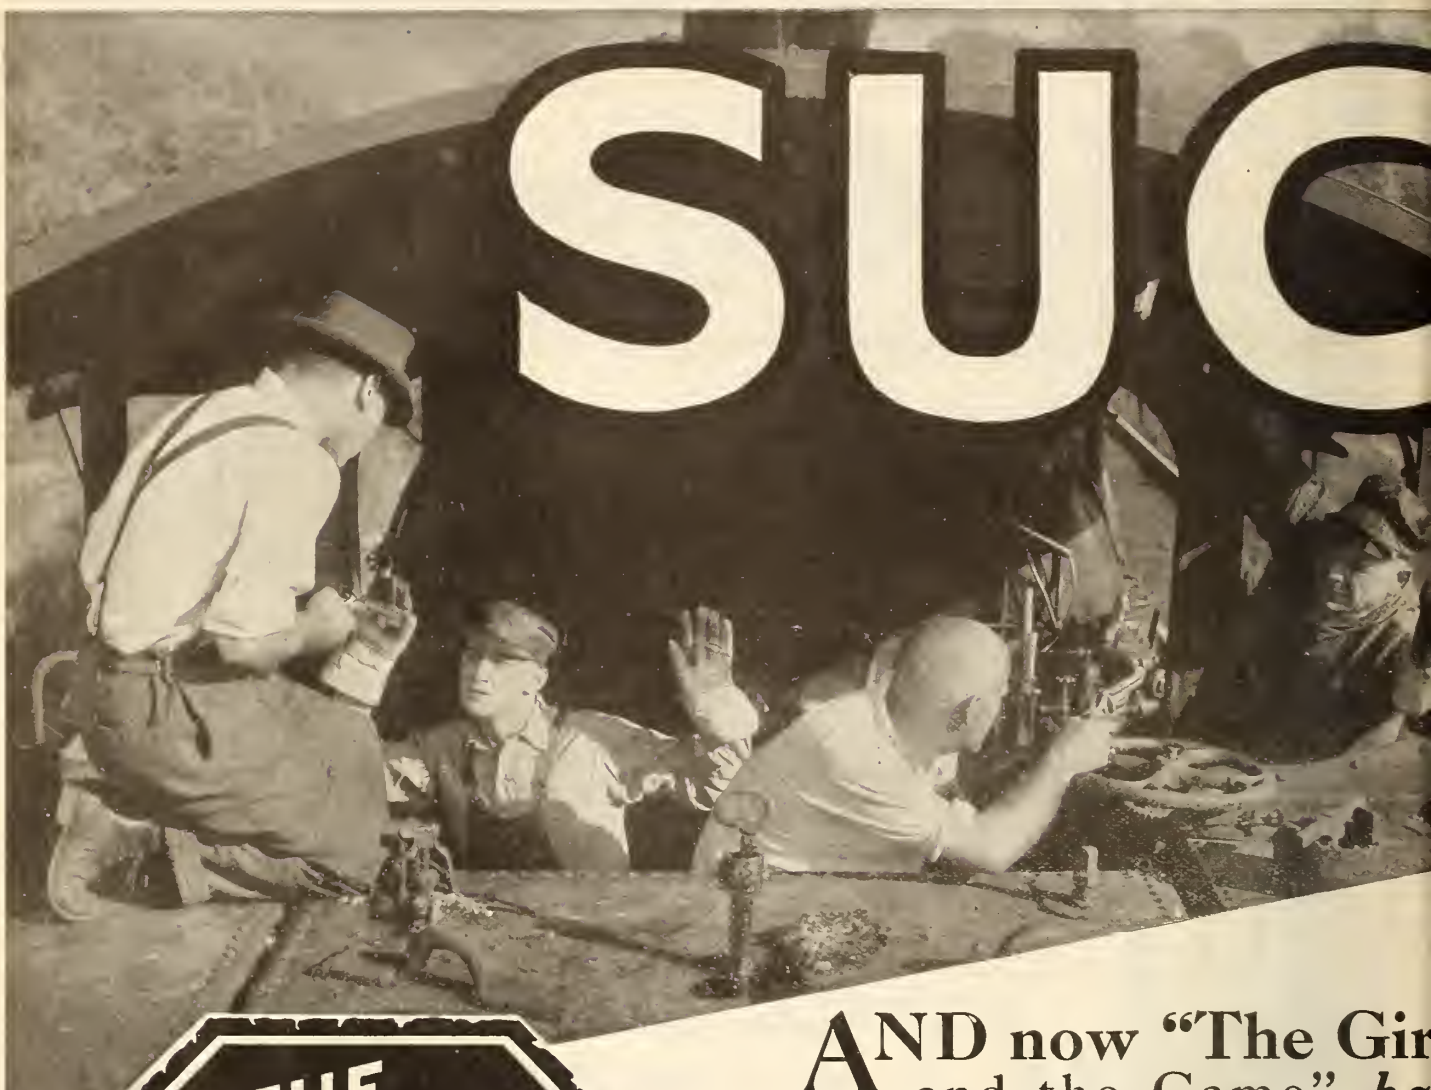
All "Flying A" and "Beauty" films are distributed throughout the United States and Canada exclusively by Mutual Film Corporation

American Film Company, Inc.

Samuel S. Hutchinson, President

Chicago, Ill.

MUTUAL SP



THE GIRL AND THE GAME

AND now "The Gir
and the Game" ha proved itself the greatest success o
the age. Thousands of theatres now hav shown the first chapters of this railroa film novel. Tremendous crowds, crowd crowds, have surged into theatres ever where to view Helen Holmes in this ne production of breath-taking thrills.

Everybody Everywhere Talks About This Railroad Novel

Helen Holmes' absolute fearlessnes
— her daring exploits — her expressiv beauty—her beautiful gowns—are the talk of a mi lion people, who are seeing the great picture an reading the wonderful story in the newspaper

IAL FEATURE

CESS!

The story of "The Girl and The Game" by Frank Hamilton Spearman, is appearing week by week, as the film is released, in more than 1,000 leading newspapers, including

New York World	San Francisco Chronicle
Pittsburgh Press	St. Louis Globe-Democrat
Atlanta Constitution	Cleveland Leader
Omaha Bee	Philadelphia North American
Buffalo Courier	Memphis Commercial Appeal
Indianapolis Star	Milwaukee Sentinel
Chicago Evening Post	New Orleans Times-Picayune
Detroit Journal	Los Angeles Tribune
Baltimore American	Dallas Journal
Boston Globe	Seattle Post-Intelligencer
Cincinnati Times-Star

And One Thousand Others

No other film production ever has received one-half the newspaper co-operation that has been accorded "The Girl and the Game." The leading papers all over the United States are publishing this thrilling story.

15 Weeks of Stupendous Thrills! 15 Weeks of Big Profits!

"The Girl and the Game" consists of fifteen two-act chapters. One chapter to be released each week. Each separate chapter is a succession of great big THRILLS! Thrills that are logical! Thrills with a punch! One-half a million dollars has been expended to make these thrills the greatest ever—to make them pull the crowds to your theatre. Book "The Girl and the Game" RIGHT NOW — before it is too late.

For complete booking information apply to "The Girl and the Game" department of any Mutual Exchange in America, or to "The Girl and the Game" department of Mutual home office, New York City.

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION

SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON, President

Publicity Office: 222 South State Street CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

MUTUAL PROGRAM

WATER STUFF

She couldn't swim. She needed the five dollars, though, that are paid to moving picture "extra" girls, and so she jumped. She screamed as she leaped from the burning vessel. Then the deep, dark ocean waters closed over her flaxen curls. It's a "Mustang" three-reel subject from Charles E. Van Loan's famous "Buck Parvin and the Movies" series that millions read in The Saturday Evening Post. Book published by George H. Doran Company—a comedy that nearly ends in tragedy, with

"Art" Acord

Larry Peyton Dixie Stratton
Queenie Rosson Ashton Dearholt
Directed by William Bertram

Released Jan. 15th!

Two-Reel "Mustang" Drama

The Hills of Glory

Helene Rosson E. Forrest Taylor
Directed by William Bertram

Released Jan. 17th

All "Mustang" dramas are distributed throughout the United States and Canada exclusively by Mutual Film Corporation.

American Film Company, Inc.

SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON
President

CHICAGO
ILLINOIS

MUTUAL PROGRAM

Slapsticks With A Reason

VOGUE COMEDIES

An Innocent Crook

Laugh? Why, man, they'll roar when you show your patrons this side-splitting comedy. It's the latest "Vogue" featuring that new, eccentric comedian—

Sammy???

Released the Week of Jan. 3rd

Another "Vogue" Comedy

Sammy's Scandalous Scheme

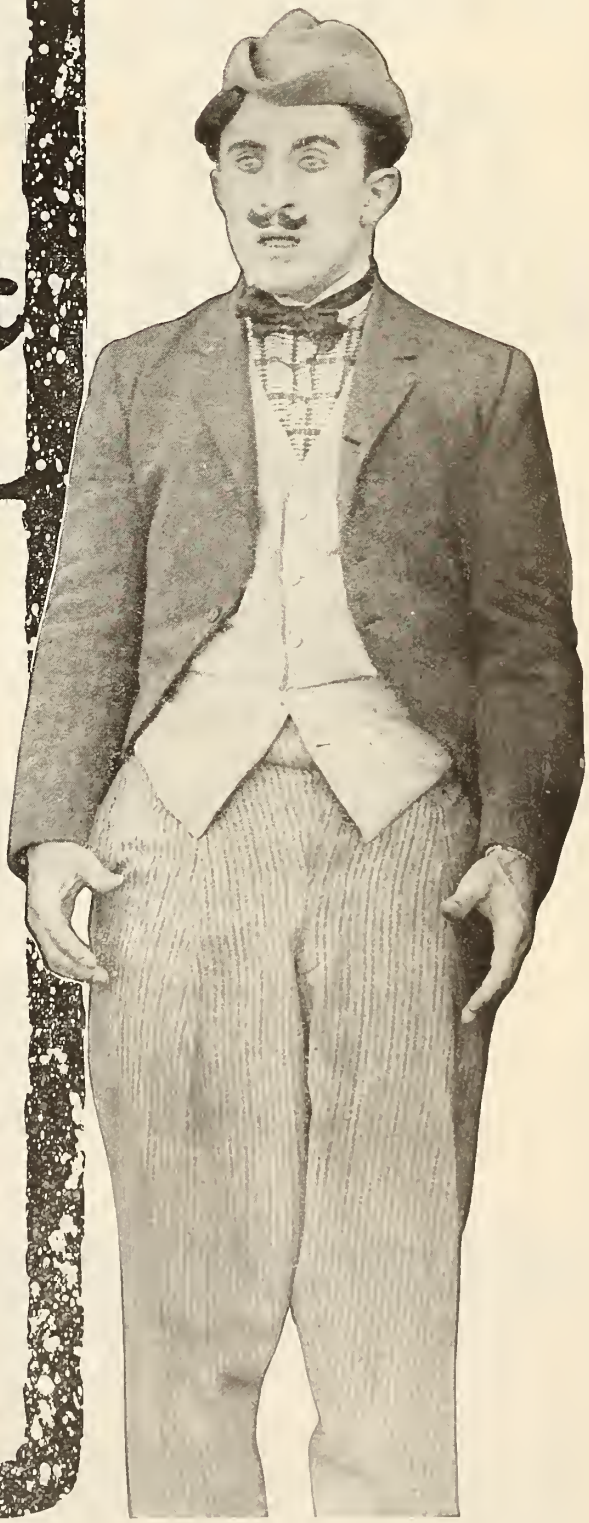
Released the Week of Dec. 27th

"Vogue" comedies are distributed throughout the United States and Canada exclusively by Mutual Film Corporation.

Vogue Films, Inc.

Executives: Joseph H. Finn, Samuel S. Hutchinson.

Publicity Offices—222 S. State St.
Chicago, Illinois.



MUTUAL WEEKLY

The PALACE

America's Greatest Vaudeville Theater

SHOWS THE

MUTUAL WEEKLY

Because it is the BEST by Actual Comparison with all others

You Can

Give your Patrons the same Reel News of the world FIRST just as shown at the Palace Theater New York

Compare all motographic weekly programs and see how the Mutual Weekly leads. Haytian Revolutionary scenes were shown by the Mutual October 28th, the same historic incidents now offered two months later by another news reel.

The Palace Theatre is the Pride of the United Booking Office. Every number on the bill must be the Best. That's why it shows the Mutual Weekly.

For particulars visit or write any Mutual Branch.
Manufactured for the MUTUAL PROGRAM BY GAUMONT.

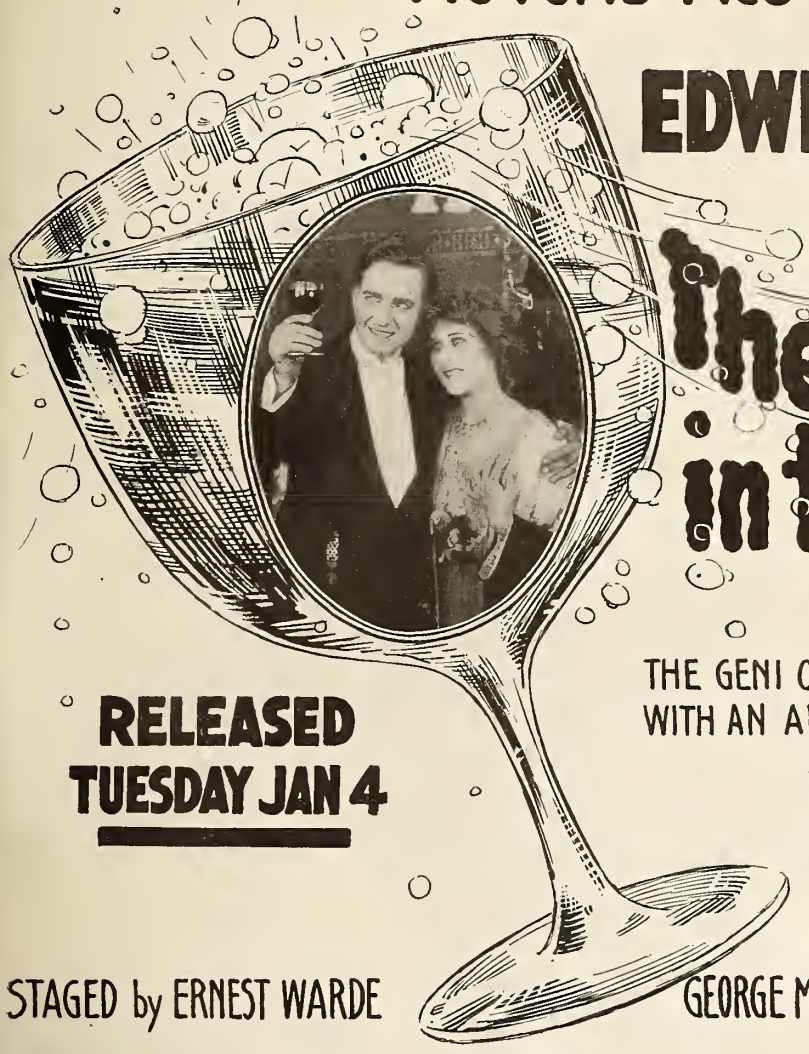
— MUTUAL PROGRAM —



EDWIN THANHOUSER
PRESENTS

the BUBBLES in the GLASS
IN 3 ACTS

THE GENI OF GRAPE GRAPHICALLY DRAMATIZED WITH AN ALL-THANHOUSTAR CAST, INCLUDING

HARRIS GORDON.....

THOS. A. CURRAN · KATHRYN ADAMS
ETHEL JEWETT LORRAINE HULING
GEORGE MARLO · MORRIS FOSTER · MADELINE FAIRBANKS

RELEASED TUESDAY JAN 4

STAGED by ERNEST WARDE

FALSTAFF COMEDIES

OPTIMISTIC ORIENTAL OCCULTS
Released in 1 Reel Monday, January 3

Featuring RILEY CHAMBERLIN.

HILDA'S HUSKY HELPER
Released in 1 Reel Thursday, January 5

With Louise Emerald Bates. Claude Cooper and Frances Keyes.

THANHOUSER FILM CORP.
NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y.

MUTUAL FILM CORP. SOLE DISTRIBUTORS FOR THE UNITED STATES, MEXICO AND CANADA

YOU are wasting your opportunities if YOU ignore advertising.

William

ROBERT B. MANTELL

America's Most famous actor

GREEN-EYED

Direction J. Gordon Edwards

THE GREATEST PICTURE DRAMA OF

FOX FILM

These Magazines Are Advertising Mary Page

Cosmopolitan
Ladies' World
McClure's
Harper's Bazar
Metropolitan
Vogue
Vanity Fair
McCall's Mother's Photoplay
Hearst's
Collier's
Leslie's
Sunset
Review of Reviews
Motion Picture Classic
Motion Picture Magazine
Modern Priscilla
Pictorial Review

The Strange Case of
MARY PAGE
IS A STORY OF AN UNCONQUERABLE LOVE

The Exhibitor Who Books This Essanay Series Presents

HENRY WALTHALL and EDNA MAYO

In a Powerful Feature
Every Week For Fifteen Weeks
No Series Before E'er Had a Cast Like This Gowns by Lady Duff Gordon (Lucile)

A Succession of Perfect Productions Backed by Nation Wide Advertising In Newspapers and Magazines

ESSANAY
"FIRST TO STANDARDIZE PHOTOPLAYS"
1333 Argyle Street, Chicago
George K. Spoor, President

LOOK AT THEM
AND
YOU WILL BOOK THEM

ESSANAY PHOTOPLAYS ARE ALL DISTINCTIVE

THEY POSSESS AN INDIVIDUAL CHARM

Book the latest

ESSANAY-CHAPLIN

"Charlie Chaplin's Burlesque on Carmen"

IN 2 ACTS

★★★★★★

G. M. ANDERSON'S

next great drama is

"Her Lesson"

IN 2 ACTS

RELEASED JAN. 4

THE PLOTS ARE FASCINATING LOGICAL

REALISTIC IN ACTION ARTISTIC IN SETTINGS

TRY THEM AND YOU WILL BE CONVINCED

"MILE-A-MINUTE MONTY"

Cartoon Laughs Jan. 5.

By LEON A SEARLE
the world famous cartoonist

"THE HOUSE OF REVELATION"

3-act drama Jan. 8

Presenting ELIZABETH BURBRIDGE and JOHN LORENZ

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

Essanay

presents

ANN MURDOCK

and

RICHARD C. TRAVERS

in

"CAPTAIN JINKS of the Horse Marines"

in 5 acts

A fantastic comedy
by Clyde Fitch.

Adapted from the great stage success and directed by Fred E. Wright.

ANN MURDOCK

BOOK ESSANAY'S GREAT FEATURE SUCCESSES

"A DAUGHTER OF THE CITY"
(5 Acts)
With MARGUERITE CLAYTON and E. H. CALVERT

"THE ALSTER CASE"
(5 Acts)
With BRYANT WASHBURN, JOHN COSSAR, RUTH STONEHOUSE, ANNE LEICH

"THE CRIMSON WING"
(6 Acts)
With E. H. CALVERT and RUTH STONEHOUSE

"THE RAVEN"
With HENRY B. WALTHALL and WARDA HOWARD

"IN THE PALACE OF THE KING"
(6 Acts)
With RICHARD C. TRAVERS, NELL CRAIG, ERNEST MAUPAIN, LILLIAN DREW, SYDNEY AINSWORTH and THOMAS COMMERFORD

"THE MAN TRAIL"
(6 Acts)
With RICHARD C. TRAVERS

"A BUNCH OF KEYS"
(5 Acts)
With JUNE KEITH, JOHN SLAVIN and WILLIAM BURRESS

"THE BLINDNESS OF VIRTUE"
(6 Acts)
With EDNA MAYO and BRYANT WASHBURN

"THE WHITE SISTER"
(6 Acts)
With VIOLA ALLEN and RICHARD C. TRAVERS

"THE SLIM PRINCESS"
(4 Acts)
With RUTH STONEHOUSE

"GRAUSTARK"
(6 Acts)

Trade Mark
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle Street, Chicago

Henry B. Walthall

and

Edna Mayo

are presented in

"THE MISLEADING LADY"

In 5 acts.

Adapted by H. S. Sheldon from the great stage success of Charles W. Goddard and Paul Dickey.

Directed by Arthur Berthelet.

The story of the kidnapping of a bride and a cave-man wooing in modern society

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle Street, Chicago

DEC 29 1915
©CI.B353250

"When You See it in 'The News' It's NEWS"

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
427 SO. FIGUEROA STREET

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

NEW YORK CITY
TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY WEST FORTY-SECOND STREET

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
110 SO. DEARBORN STREET

Volume XIII | JANUARY 8, 1916 | No. 1

What Is The Motion Picture?

RATHER a strange question this, to ask within this art and industry. But I wonder how many of us know just what the motion picture, simply and basically, is.

Also, and quite as important, I wonder how many newspaper editors know; which means, is the public getting a true impression of the picture and its sphere?

* * *

TO introduce an interesting slant upon the question and one which may lead to an answer, let us go back to the telephone.

Most people have heard the story of how Bell took his invention to the heads of the Western Union Telegraph Company. He went to them first, believing that they would, above all others, grasp the true import of what seemed to him a revolutionary idea.

But they didn't. They missed it by the width of this continent which the telephone now covers.

It was interesting, they told him—quite a clever idea. But it was a toy—a scientific toy. They advised him to go to some novelty concern. They, themselves, were engaged in a very serious business, namely the sending of messages by electric wires.

* * *

THEN came the phonograph.

Two men who backed the invention went to the Regina music box company, expecting to find there sympathetic imaginations.

But the music box company disapproved severely of the idea—that is, in a musical way. It was interesting enough in itself, quite clever in fact. But the squeaky instrument was only a toy—a scientific toy.

Some novelty manufacturers might be interested. As for themselves they were engaged in the artistic reproduction of music.

* * *

THESE instances are cited—not to prove that, if you have a good and new idea, the worst reception it can possibly have will come from those right in the field to which it pertains—but rather to introduce a third invention, the motion picture.

The motion picture was also regarded at first as a toy, a scientific toy. Some people thought it could be controlled like a toy or scientific instrument; and I fancy they were somewhat amazed to see it burst all bonds and spread out over the civilized globe like a thing of magic.

I fancy this same type of mind is still amazed at each new departure of the picture and is constantly wondering what the darn thing will do next.

The first evolutionary period of the picture, then, was the scientific novelty period.

Within the industry we have long ceased even to think of this "novelty" period. With the public this is far from true. The best indication of the latter situation is the coinage and continued use of the word "movies," which simply shows that a lot of people are still more interested in the phenomenon of pictures in motion, than in the pictures themselves.

* * *

THE word "movies" is just as silly and misrepresentative as would be the word "printies" applied to newspapers and magazines—if, for instance, the printing press were still new, still a striking novelty, and we were more interested in the phenomenon of type than in what the type said and did.

The novelty period of the motion picture may be said to have been followed by the theatrical period.

This is only natural since the exhibition of pictures was a "show" business, and in a very large sense, still is. It is also only natural that the theatrical men who were attracted to the production of pictures should look to the stage for their material, their policies, and their inspiration.

* * *

IT is far from my intention here to detract at all from the efforts of these theatrical men; they are largely responsible for the fact that pictures today are photoplays and not "movies"; nor from the stage, which has helped largely to give the picture its present artistic success.

But it is wrong, absolutely wrong to confound the motion picture with the stage. It is misleading to the public and to the picture itself. All the good the stage has done the picture will be equally met with harm, if we continue constantly to measure the one by the other.

* * *

WE can well cease all comparisons—or leave them to the discussion of drama leagues and other time-killing clubs and societies.

The motion picture is not to do away with the spoken drama—any more than it is to do away with books. It doesn't infringe upon the stage any more than do magazines, for instance.

It affects the stage only where and when it offers a more desirable amusement—like magazines, again, for instance—at less cost.

* * *

BUT the point is: the spoken drama is the spoken drama and the motion picture is itself. The two are entirely distinct.

The motion picture is a fundamental thing—a new

(Continued on page 97.)

Copyright, 1915, by Exhibitors' Times, Inc.

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
MOTION PICTURE NEWS EXHIBITORS' TIMES
Published on Tuesday Every Week by

EXHIBITORS' TIMES, Inc.

WILLIAM A. JOHNSTON.....President and Editor
HENRY F. SEWALL.....Vice-President
E. KENDALL GILLETT.....Secretary
H. ASHTON WYCKOFF.....Treasurer and Business Manager
WENTWORTH TUCKER.....Asst. Treasurer
R. M. VANDIVERT.....Advertising Manager
THEODORE S. MEAD.....Chicago Manager
J. C. JESSEN.....Los Angeles Manager
LESLEY MASON.....Managing Editor
WILLIAM RESSMAN ANDREWS.....News Editor

This publication is owned and published by Exhibitors' Times, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York. The offices and principal place of business are at 220 West 42d Street, New York City. The address of the officers is the office of the publication.

Entered as Second-Class matter at the New York Post-Office.

Subscription $2 per year, postpaid in the United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands. Canada, $3; Foreign, $4 per year. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent taking your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

89

Vol. XIII January 8, 1916 No. 1

Every Exhibitor's Opportunity

IF one stroke of your pen would kill censorship, would you hesitate?

Every exhibitor is, at this moment, in a position to do something which will cost him no more effort than a single stroke of the pen, and which will go a long way toward accomplishing the death of censorship over motion pictures.

* * *

IT is this:

Let the men who have the power to establish a censorship over you, know that you are not indifferent to it now—if you ever were—that you will not compromise with it; that you cannot prosper under it; and that you are ready to spend the money NOW that censorship would eventually cost you, to fight and resist its creation.

* * *

THE censorship movement would never have grown to such threatening proportions, had the theatre managers, exchange men and producers in this business taken any steps whatever, in the past, to combat it.

We have said this before, but it is worth repeating, even though past indifference has given place to present "preparedness."

* * *

THE motion picture industry has hitherto behaved as if it were "too proud to fight," on the question of censorship.

The film man has labored under the delusion that "peace at any price" was more desirable than a legitimate defence of the rights of any business man to regulate his own business, until he demonstrated, beyond a reasonable doubt, that he was unable to do so.

So the makers of state laws and national laws have heard only one side of the question.

They have had nothing to listen to but the calumnies, the mistatements, the distorted facts and garbled instances and uncorroborated testimony of the opponents and adversaries of the motion picture.

Not only that, but they have never been able to find anyone interested enough to offer a defence, an explanation, a contradiction. The motion picture, until now, has never once appeared, in the person of anyone to present its own case.

* * *

AND the price the "too-proud-to-fight" producer, the "peace-at-any-price" exhibitor has paid for his indifference is this:

Three state censorship laws, in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Kansas.

Twelve censorship measures introduced into twelve state legislatures last year, and one Federal censorship measure.

A bill to create a Federal motion picture commission now before Congress, revived from last session.

* * *

BUT "Preparedness" comes in as a trade policy with the New Year, and "Peace at any price" goes out with the old.

1916 will see every element in the industry in active warfare against censorship.

And the first step will be a hearing before the Committee on Education at Washington, at which every producer will personally be represented, to denounce censorship, and to demonstrate its injustice, its iniquity, its illegality before the law-makers of the nation.

* * *

YOU, as an exhibitor in Maine or Montana, in California or Connecticut, cannot be there in person.

But you CAN send your message to Congress upon the subject of censorship through your trade paper, which WILL be represented there, for the express purpose of representing you.

Turn to page 103 of this issue, upon which the blank coupon, ready for the expression of your sentiments, is printed.

Cut that coupon out and mail it today. Tomorrow may be too late.

* * *

EVERY coupon that is returned will be laid before the congressional committee, as proof that the entire motion picture business is as one on the question of censorship—proof that the fifth greatest and most powerful business in the country can defend itself as a great and leading business should; proof that the motion picture is a force to be reckoned with in the political councils of the nation, and not merely a helpless victim for the predatory ambitions of professional reformers.

It will take but a stroke of your pen.

Do it now.

"Unto Caesar the Things That Are Caesar's"

OWING to a misunderstanding, an article in the December 25 issue of Motion Picture News, headed "Demand for Film News in Dailies is Lasting," was erroneously attributed to P. R. Plough, as Photoplay Editor of the Philadelphia Evening Ledger.

In reality, Kenneth MacGowan is The Ledger's Photoplay Editor, and it was he who wrote the article. Incidentally, it ought to be said that Mr. MacGowan's motion picture department is one of the best in the country.

Motion Picture News makes the correction as a matter of justice to Mr. MacGowan no less than to Mr. Plough.

Censorship in Kansas Proves Its Own Uselessness

Only One and One-Half Per Cent. of Pictures Submitted for Examination to the Board Have Been Rejected, a Proof That Censoring of Motion Pictures Is Entirely Unnecessary—The Body Presiding Over the Destinies of Pictures in the State Shows Ignorance and Carelessness in Discharging Its Duties

Special to Motion Picture News

Kansas City, Dec. 23.

THERE is no need for the censoring of motion pictures in the State of Kansas. According to a report that has been issued by the Censorship Board, that covers the period from April 12, to October 1, inclusive, only about one and one-half per cent. of the pictures that have been submitted for censoring have been rejected.

This report sets forth that since the Censorship Law became effective on April 12, up to October 1, the censors had looked at 4,840 reels, and out of this number rejected only thirty subjects.

But despite this small number of rejections the exhibitors of the state have been compelled to pay into the treasury in censorship fees $14,164. It cost to look at these pictures $2,778.71, which leaves a clear income to the state of $11,385.29.

In addition to the above enormous expense that the exhibitors have been put to, they have been subjected to delays and in some instances, arrests and fines. In other instances closed houses, all because the Reverend Festus Foster, the traveling representative of the Censorship Board did not know what films had been censored.

Fined When in the Right

J. J. Marshall, of Manhattan, Kan., was arrested and had to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars because he ran a picture that Mr. Foster did not know had been passed by the Appeal Board over the heads of the censors.

The picture, "Despair," a three reel Essanay, was submitted to the censors on December 6 by the General Film Company. It was turned down.

Eight days later it was submitted to the Appeal Board, which consists of three persons. Two of the members said it was all right.

No receipt was given, as the film company had the receipt from the first censors showing that the money for the censoring of the picture had been paid.

In the bulletin, issued by the Censor Board, which shows what pictures have been passed and which have been rejected, "Despair" was listed as passed and approved. Mr. Marshall booked the picture and was arrested and fined for showing it. Another instance where an exhibitor was compelled to close his house for one night is that of S. A. Davidson, of Cherryvale. He booked "The Call of the Dance," a three reel Kalem for the night of December 16.

Censors Show Ignorance

On the morning of the sixteenth Mr. Davidson received a call from Mr. Foster, who told him that he could not run the picture because it had not been censored.

Mr. Davidson could not get another picture in time and was compelled to close his house and disappoint his patrons. Yet this same picture was passed on December 2.

The report that has been sent out by W. D. Ross, superintendent of public instruction and state motion picture censor, is filled with mistakes, and some of them are such that will cause damage somewhere.

For instance, in several cases they have the Universal Animated Weekly, listed as made by the Selig company and released by the Universal.

In other places in the book they have Paramount pictures listed as V-L-S-E. Many other mistakes could be pointed out.

Whether the censor board keeps an accurate record of its activities or not is a question. From the report sent out on films that have been passed, and those that have been rejected, it has not.

Some time this Board is going to run into a snag in sending out inaccurate reports, such as has just been sent out to the exhibitors and other interested parties.

J. E. Foland.

Film Jury Will Pass on Blue Bird Productions

Subjects Failing to Come Up to the Standard Set by the Officials of the Company Will Not Be Released—Date of Its First Meeting is December 29

THAT a jury composed of representative exhibitors is to pass upon the quality of all features produced by Blue Bird Photo Plays, Inc., has just been announced by the officials of that organization.

Furthermore, declare these officials, no subjects which fail to meet with the approval of the "exhibitors' jury" will be allowed to bear the Blue Bird trade mark.

The details of the plan were described to a representative of this publication by Sol. Berman, recently appointed New York manager.

According to Mr. Berman, the first jury meets on Wednesday, December 29, for the purpose of passing judgment on "Secret Love," the first of the five-reel subjects to be issued on the Blue Bird program, and "Undine," which follows it.

"Secret Love," based upon Frances Hodgson Burnett's powerful novel, "The Lass of Lowries," features Helen Ware.

"The decision to allow the exhibitors to decide whether or not our features contain sufficient merit to be issued was reached only after considerable thought had been given the matter," said Mr. Berman.

"The statement made by a certain film magnate recently to the effect that it is impossible to prevent 'weak sisters' from finding their way into a feature program caused us to determine that this should not hold good in our organization."

The New York manager of this newest feature organization then went on to say that his fellow officials fully realized their own inability to pass an impartial judgment on Blue Bird Features.

"The very fact that each subject cost us at least $25,000 is calculated to bias our opinion," he said.

As the result the "exhibitors' jury" plan was decided upon. This jury will consist of from twelve to fifteen exhibitors doing business in New York and vicinity.

Four weeks before the release date of a subject, it will be run for the inspection of this jury.

Thus, should the concensus of opinion be that the subject does not possess sufficient dramatic and box-office merit, it will be thrown out and another production substituted without disorganizing the program.

In dwelling upon this subject, Mr. Berman emphasized the fact that the jury would be composed of "representative exhibitors." By this, he stated, he meant the men who own the smallest houses as well as the individuals who operate the most important theatres.

Blue Bird service would be sufficiently elastic to enable every exhibitor in the country to use it.

Still another feature of the Blue Bird plan to guarantee the quality of its releases is to have a different jury pass upon the subjects each week.

At the same time exhibitors will be urged to attend these showings, even though they may not be on the jury for that particular week, so that they may observe just how the plan to provide them with 100 per cent. quality production works.

Switching from this subject for a moment, Mr. Berman told of the advertising campaign about to be instituted.

In addition to newspaper advertising, more than four hundred bill boards, every one of them so located as to dominate its territory, have been contracted for New York and Brooklyn. The rest of the country will be taken care of proportionately.

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURES AGAIN ON GENERAL

Under a special arrangement with the General Film Company, Knickerbocker Star Features have once more become a part of the General Film Program, replacing the three-reel Edison Friday release.

The first release of December 24, entitled "Every Girl," will be followed on December 31 with "The Mysterious Bride." Both of these features have Claire Whitney in the leading role.

The future Knickerbocker Star Features will consist of star plots, star casts and star photography, it is announced.

GLIMPSES OF "DAPHNE," "THE PRICE OF POWER," AND "WAIFS," COMING TRIANGLE PHOTOPLAYS FROM THE FINE ARTS AND KAY BEE STUDIOS

ILLNESS OF FARNUM HOLDS BACK PRODUCTION OF "BEN BLAIR"

Dustin Farnum, the Pallas-Paramount star, recently passed through the first serious illness he has ever experienced. For five days he was confined to his bed in his home in Los Angeles with malignant tonsillitis and for that many days not a morsel of food passed his lips.

His throat was so swollen and raw that he could not even swallow water or take soup or any liquid nourishment. However, he is recovering rapidly and will be back before the camera soon.

Mr. Farnum was expected to make the trip with others to a ranch of 289,000 acres near San Diego, where 50,000 head of cattle roam, for the filming of scenes in "Ben Blair," the latest Farnum-Pallas Pictures production.

The others had departed and Mr. Farnum was to follow immediately, but he was attacked so suddenly that even while he was planning to leave he was forced to take to his bed. Consequently, the scenes were held up for several days.

MARSHALL NEILAN GUEST OF COL. SELIG

Marshall Neilan, director of motion pictures, was in Chicago Monday, December 20, the guest of William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company. Mr. Neilan was en route from New York City to the Pacific Coast, where he will again direct Selig productions at the Los Angeles studios.

Mr. Neilan is not only famed as a director but has also won an enviable reputation as a motion picture star player. Several important plays have been handed to Mr. Neilan, who will start production just as soon as he arrives at Los Angeles.

IVAN PLAYERS TO REMAIN TWO WEEKS IN ATLANTIC CITY

A good many of the scenes in "A Fool's Paradise" being located in Atlantic City, Ivan Film Productions, Inc., sent forth its company of forty players to spend two weeks on the beach.

"A Fool's Paradise" stars Christine Mayo. It is said that prior to the departure for Atlantic City elaborate sets were erected in addition to those already erected for the use of Mr. Abramson.

Yuletide Brings Shifts in General Exchanges

Changes Extend from Down East to Southwest, Is Announcement Made Coincident with Arrival in New Orleans of E. J. Farrell, Newly Appointed Southern Division Manager

Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS

New Orleans, Dec. 24.

E. J. FARRELL, newly appointed southern division manager for the General Film Company, has just completed a circle of the officers which will henceforth come under his jurisdiction. He left Boston on December 3, and so arranged to end up in that city, his home, for the Christmas holidays.

Announcement of several important General shifts came coincident with his arrival in New Orleans, where he went to install H. G. Morrow, formerly of the Jacksonville, Fla., branch as manager of the New Orleans office.

Arthur Heyman, manager of the Washington, D. C., branch, has resigned and will be replaced by Mr. Koerpel, of the Albany, N. Y., office. Alfred Bevan, manager of the New Haven, Conn., office, will replace Mr. Koerpel.

A. L. Ehrgott, manager of the Bangor, Me., office, will be installed as manager of the New Haven office. George Newhall, superintendent at the Boston office of General, has been assigned to manage the Bangor office.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG AND PAUL CAPELLANI IN A STRIKING SCENE FROM THE WORLD FILM PRODUCTION OF "CAMILLE"

Mr. Farrell's first Southern stop was at Dallas, Tex., where he appointed David Prince manager there, replacing C. C. Ezell. In Houston he made no changes, but at New Orleans he installed Mr. Morrow to succeed John T. Ezell.

He left New Orleans on December 14, for Atlanta, which will be his headquarters; but the Christmas holidays he arranged to spend in Boston.

A broader and more liberal policy, consistent with good business judgment, is the General's aim for 1916, Mr. Farrell explained in the course of a conversation with a representative of MOTION PICTURE NEWS in New Orleans. He said:

"The General wants to act in the spirit of giving the exhibitor what he wants, rather than making him take what the regular program has to offer. For that reason a projection room will be installed at once in the New Orleans office of General.

"We are planning regular exhibition days, when the exhibitor may come and see what he is getting without having to rely on press notices. He may bring his friends, if he likes, and their criticisms will be welcomed. In every department of General the needs of the exhibitor will be the paramount feature.

"It is perhaps a little too early to announce any more plans for this territory, but I am going to try to drive home the argument that each exhibitor may help another exhibitor by co-operation; and likewise co-operation with the exchange which serves him will do much to eliminate his undesirable neighbor.

"I refer to the pay-in-advance system, which has worked to the best advantage of all concerned in the territories in which it has been tried."

Mr. Farrell is one of the oldest employees in point of service with General, and his advancement on December 1 to southern division manager by President J. A. Berst came as a recognition of his value to the company.

Famous Novelist Becomes Writer for Kalem Screen

George Bronson-Howard, Whose "God's Man" Has Given Him a Permanent Place in American Literature, Contracts to Supply Company With Original Stories, Beginning With "The Love Pirates," to Appear in Fifteen Two-Part Installments, Each Episode Complete in Itself

GEORGE BRONSON-HOWARD, novelist and playwright, has succumbed to the lure of the screen and has contracted to write a series of original stories for production in motion pictures.

The author of "Snobs" will write the stories for the next Kalem dramatic series under the title, "The Love Pirates," It will be staged in fifteen two-part instalments and, as with all Kalem series productions, each episode will tell a complete story in itself. Work of production began this week.

Though long ranked among the most prominent of literary lights, and easily the youngest American novelist of distinction, it is since the publication of "God's Man" that Bronson-Howard has been given unqualified recognition as among the American writers whose work is certain to live.

The Bronson-Howard series will not be an adaptation of anything already presented to the public. The title, "The Love Pirates," will give an idea of the theme the novelist has chosen to mark his debut as a writer especially for the screen. He has built his stories around two young women whose natural characteristics make the sobriquet "Love Pirates" more than appropriate.

The girls are fascinating creatures who live by their wits and wiles, choosing for their victims the wealthy and sophisticated, and showing them that there are those even more wise in the ways of the world. The stories will each detail a separate adventure which befalls the "Love Pirates" in preying on the blasé and self-centered idle rich.

Ingenious Swindling Scheme Exposed

Many of the ingenious schemes best known to police officials will be laid bare while the author, because of his wide experience as a newspaper man and in government service, has been able to present many of the lesser known artifices employed by sharp-witted schemers.

The Kalem organization is making elaborate preparations which assure "The Love Pirates" publicity backing on a scale equal to any yet attempted in the motion picture field.

The stories fictionized by Hugh C. Weir, will be syndicated in a list of newspapers covering this country and Canada, each story being published the week simultaneously with the release of the picture it concerns.

Because of the prominence of George Bronson-Howard's name, the original note to the stories and the recognized ability of Mr. Weir it has been possible to secure many newspapers for the syndicate list that have in the past looked askance on the publishing of fictionized motion pictures.

All of the large cities of the country are included in the list in addition to the medium and smaller sized cities. It is expected that the list will be ready for publication within a few weeks.

Not one star, but two, will be featured in the screen versions of the Bronson-Howard stories. Kalem has delegated the production of the series to the Glendale company under the direction of James W. Horne, which is responsible for the "Stingaree" series which Kalem pronounces "the series hit of the year."

Marin Sais and Ollie Kirkby, both of stellar magnitude, will share honors as possessors of the title "The Love Pirates."

Comedy Satiric in Nature

Or rare beauty, Marin Sais and Ollie Kirkby have both gained extensive personal following by their work in Kalem productions, notable among recent releases being "Stingaree" and the four-part feature, "The Pitfall."

The comedy is of the satiric nature to be expected from the author of "Snobs," and "The Red Light of Mars." Though barely in his thirties, and with a life filled with activity, by his prolific pen and broad vision George Bronson-Howard has succeeded in obtaining recognition as a novelist, dramatist and librettist.

Like many other leading literary men he is an ex-newspaper man. He served on the New York Herald, the Brooklyn Citizen, and the Baltimore American, after which he went to the Philippines in 1900 for a news syndicate.

While there he held office in the Customs and Constabulary service under the Philippine Civil Government, leaving there to accept a post in the army of the Chinese Imperial Service, where he drilled recruits and assisted in the reorganization of the forces of the Flowery Kingdom.

He served in Manchuria during the early days of the Russo-Japanese War as a correspondent for the London Daily Chronicle until he was deported by the Russians for getting uncensored matter through the lines.

Writes Nearly All of Popular

After a few years in newspaper and magazine work in California on his return to this country, he came East to engage in more ambitious work. His contributions to the Popular Magazine, which included the famous "Norroy, Diplomatic Agent," stories are well remembered. This serial has been translated into nearly every language. He wrote at this time "The Only Law," undoubtedly the first crook play, and the forerunner of the "Within the Law" type.

"The Only Law" was later revived under the title "The Double Cross," with such stars as Arnold Daly, Emmet Corrigan, and Florence Rockwell in the cast. "Snobs," the first starring vehicle of Frank McIntyre, was a big hit on Broadway and equally successful when adapted to the screen.

Turning to a lighter field Mr. Howard wrote the book and lyrics for two Winter Garden successes, "The Passing Show of 1912" and "Broadway to Paris." The following season he collaborated on another Winter Garden hit, "The Whirl of Society."

"Scars on the Southern Seas," "Sea Gold," a serial; "The Red Light of Mars," a play; "An Enemy to Society," the novel later successfully dramatized, and more recently, "God's Man," a novel, are other well known works from Mr. Howard's pen during the succeeding years.

Surely there are bright omens for the success of "The Love Pirates," following as it does, so sensationally successful a work as "God's Man," which critics have declared to be a masterpiece.

Plays of Tried Stage Worth for Essanay 1916 List

"Misleading Lady" to Make Eyes at Public in Comedy Lure, While "Captain Jinks of Horse Marines" Will Ride Rough Shod Over the Blues

ESSANAY is planning what the company regards as an unusually strong list of releases for 1916, and for January it has produced two plays that made a considerable success on the stage as well as shorter plays of standard worth.

The two multiple reel features are "The Misleading Lady," by Charles W. Goddard and Paul Dickey, and "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines," Clyde Fitch's comedy.

Ann Murdock was engaged by Essanay to take the leading feminine role in the later production with Richard C. Travers, who plays the title role. Fred E. Wright, Essanay director, arranged this stage production for the screen in five reels.

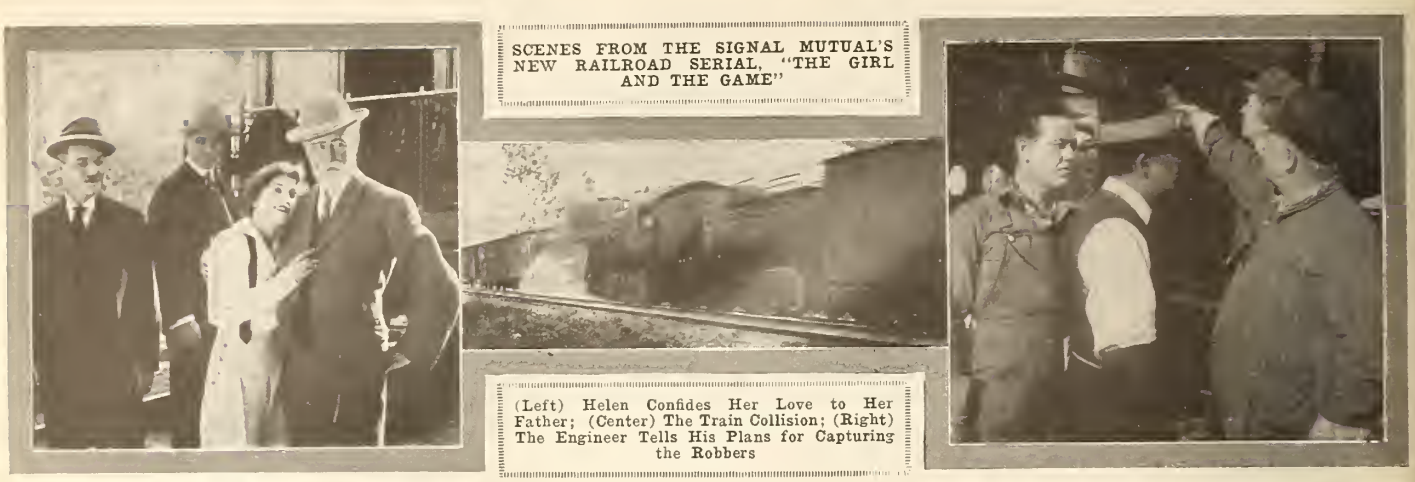
"The Misleading Lady," also in five acts, was adapted from the stage success by H. S. Sheldon and was directed by Arthur Berthelet. It features the well-known film stars, Henry B. Walthall and Edna Mayo.

Several three-act dramas are scheduled, including "The Prisoner at the Bar," which features Darwin Karr and Warda Howard and directed by Joseph Byron Totten; "The House of Revelation," featuring John Lorenz and Elizabeth Burbridge and directed by Charles J. Brabin; "Pieces of the Game," featuring Bryant Washburn and Nell Craig and directed by Clement Easton.

Among the two reelers are "Angels Unawares," featuring Ruth Stonehouse and Edmund Cobb, and "Her Lesson," featuring G. M. Anderson.

The fables of George Ade will be continued during the month and also the animated cartoons. The cartoons include besides those of Wallace A. Carlson on Dreamy Dun and on the news of the day, a cartoon by the noted cartoonist, Leon A. Searle.

Still another feature which will be released early in February is "Submarines of Society," a five act drama by Richard Goodall which features Marguerite Clayton, Lillian Drew, E. H. Calvert and Ernest Maupain, Mr. Calvert also directs the play.



SCENES FROM THE SIGNAL MUTUAL'S NEW RAILROAD SERIAL, "THE GIRL AND THE GAME"

(Left) Helen Confides Her Love to Her Father; (Center) The Train Collision; (Right) The Engineer Tells His Plans for Capturing the Robbers

BOARD OF TRADE ANNUAL MEETING SET FOR JANUARY 10

The Motion Picture Board of Trade of America will hold its annual meeting in the Blue Room of the Hotel McAlpin, New York, on January 10, at two o'clock. This is to be an especially important session; it is the first annual meeting, directors for the year will be elected, general business will be cleared up, and there will be an interchange of views on the condition of the trade, and the outlook and policy for the future.

J. W. Binder, executive secretary, 18 East Forty-first street, New York, has urged all members to be present, and those who find themselves unable to attend are earnestly requested to send their proxies to Mr. Binder.

Maryland to Have Get-together Meeting Soon

Election of Officers Will Take Place and Campaign for Activity Will Be Mapped Out for the Spring and Autumn Seasons

Special to Motion Picture News

Baltimore, Dec. 24.

IT is expected that a great deal of enthusiasm will be infused in the Maryland branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of America the first week of the new year.

On Tuesday, January 4, a luncheon will be held at which all the members of the Maryland League are expected to be present, and it will be known as a general get-together meeting.

At this meeting, officers for the year will be elected, and a general plan of activity mapped out for the spring and fall.

The get-together meeting is the outcome of the supper held on November 30. At the latter gathering, National President, Frederick Herrington, of Ohio, spoke of the importance of co-operation.

The words of the president have evidently taken root, as the coming meeting will be along the lines that he recommended.

Heretofore, the annual meetings of the National League have been held in July, but last July, officers were elected for six months only, as some of them were disinclined to continue in service for a longer period.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee, it was decided that it was advisable to change the time for the annual meetings from July to January, and the fact that the officers were elected for six months only, made this move possible.

The present officers of the league have practically all decided to decline renomination in order to permit more general distribution of honors.

During the three and one-half years existence of the Maryland branch, the officers have been in almost every case, re-elected, and it is felt that it would be better for the organization to discourage consecutive power.

For this reason, Marion S. Pearce has declined re-election. Just who will succeed him is not definitely known.

One of the active members of the league, who is being very persistently talked of as a successor to Mr. Pearce, is Guy L. Wonders, of the Wilson theatre, and one of the leading exhibitors of the city of Baltimore.

Other officers of the Maryland branch who will decline re-election, are: William A. Kalb, first vice-president; J. Thomas Bohannon, second vice-president; Frank H. Durkee, secretary.

Mr. Wonders is at present treasurer of the league. J. Howard Bennett, national vice-president for Maryland, has also declined renomination.

The meeting on January 4 will be held at mid-day, and will be preceded by a very elaborate luncheon, to be given at one of the hotels in the center of the city.

A. F. Gillaspey.

Hand Picked Plays for Vitagraph Comedy Gallopers

Hunt and Morrison Will Race Through "The Little Trespasser" on January 3, While Sidney Drew, Et Al., Will Hot-Foot It Over the Screen 4 Days Later

IN the list of releases announced by the Vitagraph Company for the week beginning January 3, for the new Personally Picked Program of a four-reeler and a one-reele comedy, released Monday, January 3, are "Who Killed Joe Merrion?" featuring Joseph Kilgour, S. Rankin Drew and Rose E. Tapley, directed by Tefft Johnson; and a Wally Van comedy, "When Hooligan and Dooligan Ran for Mayor," featuring the Vitagraph Comedy Four, Hughey Mack, Kate Price, William E. Shea and Flora Finch.

Also released on Monday, January 3, is a one-reel comedy, "The Little Trespasser," directed by C. Jay Williams, and featuring Jewell Hunt and James Morrison. On Friday, January 7, is a Sidney Drew comedy, by James Montgomery Flagg. The Saturday release is a Broadway Star Feature, "Tried for His Own Murder," produced by Van Dyke Brooke and featuring Maurice Costello and Leah Baird.

In "Who Killed Joe Merrion?" the story is told of a scapegrace son of a judge who promised his dying wife never to refuse to aid the son. A murder is committed and circumstantial evidence sends a man to life imprisonment.

The judge then finds evidence that his own son is the murderer although the killing was due to an accident. The convict escapes and stabs the judge, but later learning the truth, gives himself up to the law, while the son starts life anew.

Kilgour as the judge, Rose Tapley as his wife, and S. Rankin Drew as the son give their usual capable portrayals and other Vitagraphers are well cast. Beatrice Heron-Maxwell wrote the play which was picturized by Eugene Mullin .

On the same Personally Picked Program is "When Hooligan and Dooligan Ran for Mayor," showing Hughey Mack and William Shea as rival candidates. The comedy is typically Wally Van.

"The Little Trespasser," for release January 3, is a pretty comedy showing Jewell Hunt and James Morrison in pleasing roles. A poor girl trespasses on the estate of a wealthy man, and the son undertakes to scare her away. In the end, she captures him and in turn wins the father's consent to a marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew are seen in a one-reel comedy by James Montgomery Flagg, "His Wife Knew About It." In order to keep the cook with the family, the husband takes her to the theatre.

His wife knows about it, but some friends of the husband try to keep the truth from her and protect the husband's reputation.

"Tried for His Own Murder," is a three-reel Broadway Star Feature, produced by Van Dyke Brooke, featuring Maurice Costello and Leah Baird.

Five Features from Fox in First Month of Year

Ten Screen Stars of Note Will Appear in the Pictures Made by the Company, Including Theda Bara, Robert Mantell, Genevieve Hamper, Samuel Ryan, Ruth Blair, Clifford Bruce, H. Cooper Cliffe, Stuart Holmes, Claire Whitney and William E. Shay—Last of Month's Film Was Made in Jamaica

THE William Fox announcement for January, the first month of the New Year, embraces five feature pictures, with no less than ten nationally recognized screen stars, including Theda Bara, Robert Mantell, Genevieve Hamper, Samuel Ryan, Ruth Blair, Clifford Bruce, H. Cooper Cliffe, Stuart Holmes, Claire Whitney and William E. Shay.

Robert Mantell and his talented wife, Genevieve Hamper, will be seen in the first release of the year, "The Green-Eyed Monster," scheduled for January 2. It is a story of unusual dramatic power whose theme hinges on the curse of jealousy, written by Nixola Daniels and directed by J. Gordon Edwards.

In addition to the work of the players, it carries an added attractiveness in the location of the scenes which are laid in France and India.

Mr. Mantell, Miss Hamper and Stuart Holmes carry the story in the portrayal of the principal characters.

In lighter vein is the release for January 9, a visualized version of Richard Mansfield's stage success, "A Parisian Romance," featuring H. Cooper Cliffe as Baron Chevrial, the character made famous by Mr. Mansfield, and Dorothy Green as Rosa.

While following the stage version in its essential points, it enlarges and expands the story where even the most advanced stagecraft would fail, presenting a fuller conception of the author's ideals.

Back Stage Atmosphere

It is a story that admits of embellishment, rich settings and grouping of numbers of people, and of the "back stage" atmosphere of the theatre.

While the ending is sombre, there is much of the comedy element in "A Parisian Romance" that is brought out in the main by Mr. Cliffe, and this relieves in a measure the more tragic episodes.

Besides the two principals, others in the cast include Margaret Skirvin, Angelica Spier, Isabel O'Madigan, Harold Hartzelle, Dion Titheradge, Jennie Bidgood and eighty ballet girls recruited from the Metropolitan Opera House.

An air of newspaperdom pervades the release for January 16, which is entitled "The Fourth Estate," a dramatic film story that hits at forces that conspire to control the public press.

It was written by Joseph Medill Patterson and produced for William Fox by Frank Powell with Ruth Blair, Samuel Ryan and Clifford Bruce in the portrayals of the leading characters.

Story Filmed in Chicago

The story was filmed in Chicago, the plant of the Chicago Herald being used for the scenes representing the interior of a newspaper office.

The characters are men and women typical of the political and newspaper life of a great city, stories of them having been written and written again by every big city daily in the country.

The principal interest in "The Fourth Estate" will center in the scenes that show a big city newspaper in the course of its various stages of "going to press," scenes that visualize the actual making of a paper in an established big city plant.

Theda Bara will again shine in a vampire role in the release for January 23, a story of a Russian serf's beautiful daughter, who, trodden beneath the heel of a duke, bares her fangs to mankind. The story's title is "The Serpent" and fits well the character of Vania as played by Miss Bara. It was written and directed by R. A. Walsh, who employed an unusual cast of William Fox players in its enactment.

Besides Miss Bara, James Marcus, George Walsh, Carl Harbaugh, and Nan Carter will be seen.

The last release of the month. "The Ruling Passion," scheduled for January 30, was taken in Kingston, Jamaica, British West Indies, and produced for Mr. Fox under the direction of Herbert Brenon.

It is a story that opens in London, England, and shifts to India, where the most important scenes are enacted. Hypnotism plays an important part in the development of the plot, and it is because of this occult power the story has its being.

Kingston Suitable for Locations

The topography in and around Kingston lent itself admirably to the picturing of scenes in which the atmosphere of India was required, blending with the native Indian costumes in such manner as to give the greatest degree of realism obtainable without actually going to the country in which the action takes place.

Claire Whitney and William E. Shay are the principal players in the enactment of "The Ruling Passion," Miss Whitney being seen as Claire and Mr. Shay as Prince Ranjit Singhi.

Horsley to Supervise Features for Mutual Program

Producer on His Arrival in Los Angeles Will Watch Details of Subjects Made in His Studio for Release as Masterpictures, De Luxe Edition

DAVID HORSLEY left New York on Saturday of last week for his studios in Los Angeles. Immediately upon his arrival he will assume complete personal supervision of all productions being made, particularly those to be released as Mutual Masterpictures De Luxe Edition, as it is his desire that these shall be in fact "masterpictures."

Just prior to his departure Mr. Horsley inserted a few remarks about the new Mutual policy and also briefly covered the arrangements he had made for the production of his early forthcoming Masterpictures, De Luxe Edition.

"I am sure that the Mutual Film Corporation's recently announced policy of expansion as applied to the release of six features every week will be a tremendous success," he said. "As its aims have already been outlined in the trade journals whatever I might say in that strain will merely be a matter of reiteration.

"It points a way to greater profit for the exhibitor, which certainly is a desired objective point in the picture business, as far as the exhibitor is concerned, in these particular times.

"At this time we have two Mutual Masterpicture, De Luxe Edition, productions under way. Each, of course, is in five reels. One is called 'The Bait' and the other 'Vengeance Is Mine!' The former is a drama of the Northwestern woods, written by Theodosia Harris, chief of my scenario staff, and is to be released January 22. We will feature in this release William Clifford and Betty Hart, supported by an especially engaged cast.

A number of the scenes will bring in the Bostock animals, which will work under the training hand of Capt. Jack Bonavita.

"Crane Wilbur wrote the scenario for 'Vengeance is Mine!' and of all the scenarios he has written to date this, I think, is the best. Mr. Wilbur contributed most of the stories used in the releases in which he appeared to date.

"Mr. Wilbur will be featured in 'Vengeance is Mine!' and is also to be supported by a specially selected cast, many of them very well known people. This production is to follow 'The Bait' in schedule for January 31, having been chosen for the release date.

"Our casts betoken strength; we have the directors—men of ability—in Messrs. Broadwell, Fahrney, Bowman and Davis.

"And as to stories—another important phase—we are getting the best that money can buy. Theodosia Harris is a most successful writer. She has prepared and had produced a large number of works.

"Further along this line, our efforts in the direction to obtain good stories is exemplified by an arrangement perfected during my stay in New York with Mr. Roy L. McCardell, who, under the agreement, will write animal stories exclusively for me."

VITAGRAPH'S LEASE OF THEATRE NOT RENEWED

One of Broadway's best known picture houses, the Vitagraph theatre, will return to the legitimate this month. The Vitagraph Company will not renew the lease upon its expiration January 31, and the theatre will again be known as the Criterion.

CHAPLIN'S PLANS STILL UNKNOWN

Special to Motion Picture News

Los Angeles, Dec. 24.

Members of the Essanay-Chaplin company have recovered from the effects of making the fight scene in the tavern for the burlesque on "Carmen," and are now able to return to work and make the last few remaining scenes.

The producing organization will have this finished, and the subject will be shipped by the latter part of the week.

This is Charlie Chaplin's last Essanay subject under the contract made last year and no announcement could be secured from the studio staff as to the future with regard to this comedian and the company.

MARY BOLAND BEGINS WORK IN A TRIUMPH

Mary Boland begins work within a week at the Bronx studio of the Triumph, the Equitable's producing ally, in "Three Pairs of Shoes," an original photodrama which will be under the direction of Edmund Lawrence, whose work in "The Warning" attracted so much attention.

Mr. Lawrence has just finished "The Ransom," in which Julia Dean appears.

V-L-S-E to Place "H-V" Topicals in Every Corner

Distribution, Aided by Publicity in Hearst Publications, Will Consist of Two Releases, Tuesdays and Fridays, Approximating 1,000 Feet Each, Beginning Jan. 4

FOLLOWING the announcement that the new Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial would be released through the V-L-S-E, representatives of that organization made a very quick and effective canvass of the field, with the result that this news feature will have, they say, a wider distribution from its inception than any film of like character has ever obtained.

The first release will be on January 4. There will be two releases each thereafter, on Tuesday and Friday. Each release will consist of approximately one thousand feet of film.

Eight hundred feet of this film will be devoted to national and international subjects, the other two hundred will have to do with the local news of the particular zone in which it is displayed.

In addition to this, there will be "extras" such as newspapers issue. This means that when some great, important national or international happening occurs, the motion picture narrative of it will be rushed to those exhibitors who are regular users of this service.

With this special will go proper publication, advertising, and proper lobby and outdoor posters.

With all the pictures, there will be issued a one sheet poster, and a set of five original photographs, 11 x 14, with printed captions illustrating scenes from the reel.

As has been indicated in the announcements for this pictorial, it will be extensively advertised in all of the Hearst magazines and newspapers.

The first advertisement for the pictures appeared in the Hearst papers of Sunday, December 26. It occupied a full page. Quarter page advertisements are scheduled to appear daily thereafter.

In addition to these advertisements, the Hearst papers will print once a month a list of all exhibitors in their respective territories, showing the Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial.

This will be distributed afterwards in a handy booklet memorandum form, which is an innovation that it is thought will be welcomed by both the trade and the public for the reason that the great difficulty in the advertising of such features in the past, has been to inform the public where these might be seen.

The first release will be issued from New York and will contain a full one thousand feet. After the system of distribution has been effected, releases will be mde from Chicago and from San Francisco as well, each containing eight hundred feet of the same material which makes up the New York release, and two hundred feet of subjects of interest primarily to the particular sections of the country in which those cities are located.

V-L-S-E will use for this service its system of exhibitors' criticism reports, which have proved so helpful in judging the merits of their regular features.

These are blanks sent out with each film, having space for the exhibitor to make his comments upon how the film was received in his house. This will provide an absolute check on the kind of material for the news feature which finds most favor with the public.

Among the many novelties which have been introduced for this service in addition to the cartoons by Tom Powers and the exceptional fashion pictures which are to be run, will be a human interest department in which will be shown studies of men and women prominent in the public life.

The editing of this news service is under the direction of Ray Hall, who has his headquarters at the Vitagraph plant in Brooklyn. Mr. Hall for many years was in the general news service field, including such organizations as the United Press and the International News Service, and was formerly editor of the Hearst-Selig News Pictorial.

It was due to Mr. Hall's enterprise, that the Hearst-Selig News Pictorial carried the famous "scoop" on the Eastland disaster in Chicago, shipping prints to every exchange receiving this service, within seven hours after the Great Lake ship settled at its dock.

And Now It's Travel Lecturer Burton Holmes in Film

Best-Known Platform Speaker on "Forrin Parts," Whose Seven League Boots Have Taken Him 2,500,000 Miles, Will Show "Easy Chair Journeys" for Paramount

BURTON HOLMES, famous traveler and lecturer on travel, has been added to the Paramount forces. Through a contract just signed, his travel pictures will be released and booked solely through the Paramount exchanges, beginning in January.

BURTON HOLMES

Mr. Holmes will personally edit, assemble and manufacture these films, which will embody the same kind of views which he has been showing in connection with his "Travelogues." At the present time, it is announced, he has enough material to give to motion picture audiences, through Paramount, a new subject every week for more than a year.

Further details as to the exact nature of his first releases and the dates on which they can be seen will be made known soon.

"It is our aim to make the Paramount-Burton Holmes Travelpictures short, to offer plenty of variety, and to bring out the human interest in the life of the countries to be visited on what we might call 'Our Easy Chair Journeys,'" said W. W Hodkinson, president of the Paramount Pictures Corporation, in discussing the new arrangement.

Practically eight months of the year, Mr. Holmes devotes to the search for something new, picturesque, or awe-inspiring. With his two associates, Oscar Bernett Depue, lantern operator and camera expert, and Louis Francis Brown, business manager, Mr. Holmes is said to have traveled more than two and a half million miles.

He was the first lecturer to introduce an entire program of colored views, and the first to realize the value of motion pictures in illustration of travel.

He has brought his audiences genuine and original pictures where action was the keynote of interest, such as native dances, waterfalls, geysers, street scenes, pageants and parades, and religious ceremonials.

Besides placing at the disposal of Paramount his library of motion pictures, Mr. Holmes will continue his travels on the hunt for new subjects. He will also write the descriptive titles for all the films.

These travelpictures will take the theatregoers to all the interesting places in North America, from Alaska to Florida, and from Niagara to the Yosemite, as well as to the Orient, Europe, and so on to other interesting parts of the world.

Freuler Sees 1916 a Milepost in Film History

The Year Will Become Significant for the Advent of the Full-Blooded Scenario, Free from Gross Technical Flaws, and Appealing by Strength of Its Story—Awakening of the Lay Press to the Demand from the Public for News About Photoplays Will Be Greater Than Ever

"THE year just ending has been crowded with the most significant developments in the history of the motion picture industry. Young Nineteen Sixteen comes in with busy prospects. The last few months of 1915 have seen more really big things happen than any similar period in the development of the business," said John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation, the other day.

"A glimpse of the past may give us a peek at the future.

"I believe that 1916 will see yet further important developments in the scenario. The really great scenarios are yet to come. Mechanically the picture is rather a satisfactory product now and while important and revolutionary developments in that direction are of course always possible there do not appear t be any near at hand.

"Meanwhile the story, the real character and quality of the thought and matter conveyed by the film, will come in for a great deal more active attention.

"It is interesting to note that within the year 1915 we have seen almost every American author of prominence become a writer for the motion pictures. It is only a few weeks ago that the Mutual Film Corporation announced 'The Girl and the Game,' a special release, which is the first motion picture work of Frank H. Spearman, latest of the American novelists of note to come 'into the pictures.'

Entry of Prominent Authors in 1915

"This wholesale capture of authors by the motion picture can really be credited to the year 1915. It is true that there were a few who ventured with timidity and questioning into the film field in 1914, but those of that year were relatively so few in number that we may call them pioneers.

"The year 1916 by this token must be expected to develop the writers for the film drama into better artists, better builders with the materials of photoplay construction. They will learn to think in pictures.

"They will have gained conceptions of the range of both the limitations and the possibilities of the camera—and I am inclined to agree with President Hutchinson of the American Film Company, when he says the motion picture has no limitations of expression.

"With our master writers equipped with this knowledge of their newly adopted medium we can look forward to improvement of the film drama in terms that will make the great achievements of the past look relatively insignificant.

"If I were to attempt the somewhat difficult task of enumerating the other important developments of the year in the motion picture industry I should name:

"SERVICE BEYOND THE FILMS—The birth of a new relation between the distributors and the exhibitors of film, by which the exhibitors receive more than a mere supply of pictures; by which they receive aid in publicity, music cues, exploitation methods and general assistance in the successful operation of the motion picture theatre. This service betterment is reflected in the increase of the number of Mutual branches to the present total of sixty-eight covering the United States and Canada.

Admission Prices Boosted

"HIGHER ADMISSION PRICES—A strengthening trend toward higher prices of admission in a very large number of theatres, moving upward from the five and ten cent level to the class of ten, fifteen and twenty-five cent admissions—this resulting in part from the improving standards of the films and in turn resulting in the production of better films.

"BETTER PICTURE ART—Generally more active attention among manufacturers to the plots and photography of the picture drama, resulting in the enlistment of writers of ability and note for the production of scripts, meeting and encouraging a rapidly improving public taste in screen art.

"CENSORSHIP—The beginning of a public awakening to the evils and perils of censorship, exemplified importantly in a number of communities where public intelligence over-ruled the absurdity and prudery of censors who sought to bar 'Damaged Goods' and other great feature releases.

"AWAKENING OF THE LAY PRESS—The establishment of photoplay departments in many newspapers and other publications of general circulation, and a more intelligent treatment of the film drama among publications of all classes—a somewhat belated recognition of the increasing important number of readers who are anxious for the news of the films.

"Looking ahead to developments to come I can see nothing that looks more important than the necessity for growth and betterments in the business of exhibiting pictures. Great big important strides have been made in the construction of pictures, in the distribution of pictures, in the advertising of pictures—and now there is a very great deal up to the exhibitor.

Don't "Exhibit"—"Present" Pictures

"Certain investigations made near the close of this year by the Mutual Film Corporation, looking into the operating methods of many thousands of theatres in all parts of the country, convince me that the exhibitor has many more opportunities for growth ahead of him than he has achievements behind him.

"The art of 'presenting' pictures to the public is just beginning to be recognized. Those exhibitors who have developed the business of 'exhibiting' pictures into the business of 'presenting' them have reaped big profits. I have yet to hear of a well conducted motion picture house losing.

"The exhibitors as a class must be aroused to new efforts. The exhibitors as a vital factor in the industry are in danger of lagging behind both the development of the picture and the development of the public taste for the pictures.

"Great responsibility for the growth of the motion pictures as an art and as the material of an industry rests with the exhibitors.

"Nobody in the world knows how to run a perfect motion picture house. If there was any final and absolute standard or model the exhibitors' problem would be ended. But there are certain men in the vanguard of film theatre progress and from their experience and successes we may all take inspiration and gather new zeal.

"With this condition and these necessities in mind the Rothapfel-Mutual tour was conceived. I know that not every exhibitor can have a house on Broadway and that not every exhibitor can be S. L. Rothapfel. But I do know that the energy and ingenuity with which he made his beginning from that Forest City, Pa., village show into the brilliant achievement of the Strand in New York can inspire every exhibitor. Mr. Rothapfel and those who with him have achieved these remarkable successes have no patent on hard work and sincere application and thought, or the use of common business sense.

"The Rothapfel-Mutual tour has been concluded but a few weeks, yet I can say with considerable assurance that it has been a most effective contribution to the welfare of the motion picture theatre, and worthy of a place near the top of the column of 1915's film events.

"I have felt the keenest pleasure in reviewing the great array of reports that have borne to me the enthusiasm of exhibitors along the path of the Rothapfel-Mutual tour. I know now that the exhibitors to whom we must look as our representatives to the public have accepted this effort by the Mutual Film Corporation in the sincere spirit in which it was offered."

KULEE FINDS OLD OFFICES TOO SMALL FOR INCREASING BUSINESS

Kulee Features, Inc., is now occupying new and more extensive quarters in the Candler Building, New York. Business has grown so rapidly with this company, which began its career last summer with the twelve-star feature film "How Molly Made Good" as an initial offering, that more space has become an actual necessity.

The new office is on the same floor as the old office in the Candler Building. Alterations suited to the company's needs are just completed. Among other features of the new quarters will be a private projecting room—a luxury of which up to this time the Kulee Features have been in sad need.

"How Molly Made Good" has temporarily gone on the road after its six weeks' successful run in Gotham, and is making a name for itself and little Marguerite Gale. As for "Germany on the Firing Line," the German official record of the war which the Kulee Features Company is exhibiting, the film is attracting crowds in New York.

SCENES AND STARS FROM UNIVERSAL PHOTOPLAYS: Hobart Bosworth in "Two Men of Sandy Bar"; Myrtle Gonzalez in "Missy"; Flora Parker De Haven; "The Heart of a Mermaid"; Gretchen Lederer as the Duchess in "Two Men of Sandy Bar"

"FIGHTING BLOOD" FIRST FOX PRODUCED IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Dec. 24.

The first subject to be taken up by the Fox Company recently established here, will be entitled "Fighting Blood," from an original scenario by Oscar Apfel. The scenes for this are laid in Kentucky and the West, and afford Mr. Farnum the sort of a part for which he is best noted. Upon the completion of this the company will film "Hoodman Blind."

At this time it is not definitely known whether the Fox Company will have more than one producing company at the Coast, but it is understood that in all probability another director and company of players will come Westward soon.

Electrical equipment needed for special lighting effects is now in transit, and a large quantity of props and stage paraphernalia now on the way. All stage settings not shipped from the East will be made new.

Hush! It Was Rush in Slush at "U" from Snow Mush

Heavy Storm Keeps Members of Studio at Leonia, N. J., on the Jump, and Bad Weather Makes Homeward Journey to New York Anything but a Picnic

THE Coytesville studio of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company will be closed on the last day of December, and all companies working there will be transferred to the new plant at Leonia, N. J., the first of January.

Bert Adler, who has been in charge of the Coytesville plant, will become assistant to Manager Julius Stern at Leonia, where he will also be casting director. Mr. Adler has always been known as a hustler, and surely he will have something to do in his many and varied duties at Leonia.

The members of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company employed at the new studio at Leonia experienced some hardships on their first day at the new plant.

That happened to be the day of the big snow storm, and although New Yorkers could manage to get around New Jersey got a worse dose of bad weather and the actors and actresses found themselves snowed under when it came time to start the homeward journey.

For instance, Jack Cohn had loaned his rubber boots to a young fellow around the studio that he might shovel a path between the laboratory and the studio.

Incidentally, the young fellow got some snow in the boots, and when Cohn came to put them on he sent his perfectly dry foot in a boot with several inches of water at the bottom.

U. K. Whipple, who had been traveling back and forth in his new automobile, got about half way home when his machine stalled, and stayed in a snow bank until two o'clock the next afternoon.

Some of the folks were lucky enough to be carted in autos or teams to the ferry at twenty-five cents a ride. The next morning autos were charging fifty cents to take passengers to the studio.

Some of the acting people walked to the ferry, making the trip in an hour and a half, while those who took the electrics were stalled in the woods and had to walk the rest of the way.

Several stayed at the studio and utilized the props for the night. All in all, the Universalites at Leonia hope that this is not a forerunner of the hardships they will have to encounter the rest of their stay at Leonia, as they will never forget the first day at the new studio.

Romance Hovers Around House of Pathé in Its Rise

French Picture Making Establishment Was Founded 20 Years Ago by 4 Brothers Who Each Contributed Less Than $500, and It Now Pays at Least 2 $100,000 Salaries

THE story of the rise of the house of Pathé reads like a romance.

Twenty years ago it was founded by four brothers who each contributed 2,300 francs—less than $500 for each. After three weeks two of them withdrew.

Today Emile and Charles Pathé, the two who remained, are drawing $100,000 apiece in salaries, besides their profits.

Charles Pathé began in a small store with two of those primitive machines where one was privileged by depositing a coin to see a succession of tiny photos tumbling over one another, and giving the effect of life action.

Not long after, he purchased twenty machines, placed them in twenty different towns and, switched his pictures in weekly rotation.

From the profits he secured Lumiere's motion picture camera, then just completed, and began to take his own pictures ten or fifteen feet at a time. His wife feeding chickens, a railroad train entering a station, a man running—these were his early subjects. Gradually his films lengthened and his markets increased until they covered much of Europe.

Then the idea came to him that a story could be worked out on the screen. He hired Max Linder to work in comedies, and Louis J. Gasnier, a Parisian play producer, to direct these pictures. Here was born the photoplay of today. Mr. Gasnier is now vice-president and general manager of the Pathé in America.

Pathé's one-room factory of twenty years ago is represented in 1916 by a 14,000,000-franc factory in Joinville, France, with sisters in Montreuil, and other places, by others in England and the United States; the open air platform where the first picture plays were staged was the ancestor of the great modern studios in France, America, England and India; the selling force of one man is represented by scores of offices and exchanges in all parts of the world, with nearly forty in the United States alone; the Pathé news film has a lusty family in the Pathé News in the United States, the Pathé Gazette in Great Britain, the Pathé Journal in France, the Pathé Giornale in Italy, and another in Russia.

"CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS" RELEASED JANUARY 6

Mina scores another big laughable hit with their release of January 6, "Caught With the Goods." This picture is especially adapted for all married men whose vocation necessitates their journeying on railroad trains—especially the class who find it impossible to make their eyes and feet behave when they see a pretty girl across the aisle who (like themselves) has naughty eyes and naughty feet.

In this case a married man's left bower, his mother-in-law, catches him with the goods.

Boston Film Men Are Fully Satisfied With Year's Profits

Many an Exchangeman and Exhibitor Will Reserve a Table in a Lobster Palace and Sit the Old Year Out and Welcome in the New, With Its Promise of Still Better Business—No Cause for Complaint Anywhere in New England, and Outlook for Territory Is Very Bright

Special to Motion Picture News

Boston, Dec. 24.

THERE'S many a motion picture exhibitor and exchangeman in this vicinity who has hired a table for New Year's Eve; and this year both of them may sit the old year out with the satisfaction which comes from the recollection of twelve months of good business and the anticipation of twelve more of better.

For the film man in New England has had little to complain of the past year. Last winter he played to good houses; now he sees people entering his theatre who have never sat before the screen before.

Not only in numbers, but in quality, the motion picture audience is proving. And this throws its reflection into the till of the exchangeman, with the result that you can't find one who is looking toward the future with a frown.

It doesn't take any prophet to forecast the fact that 1916 is going to be, in the New England branch of the film industry at least, what the lazy and misled press agent would call a "banner year."

There were three events of unusual importance during 1915. These were the controversy over "The Birth of a Nation" and the resultant legislation in the Massachusetts Assembly; the special production of the Lasky-Farrar "Carmen" film at Symphony Hall; and the introduction of Triangle to the ranks of local competitors.

Fight United Film Men

The fight over the Griffith film, the Boston censor law which resulted from that fight, how the film was passed by the very board the agitation of the negroes brought into being—all these are things familiar enough to the follower of the News columns.

But the ultimate effect of that fight has not yet been felt. It should be remembered that wars sometimes unite a people. The Civil War did that for America. And it is significant that the fight over a film founded on Civil War events united the motion picture men of the Bay State. Their powers before this had been tested to some extent; but the negroes put up a real battle. Hence the Bay State film man has passed through the crucible. He has been tried and found not wanting in an emergency.

Therefore he is ready for whatever battle over censorship offers in the session of the legislature, which opens in early January.

He knows he can fight now. In January he will prove it, as soon as the enemy advances with both old and new censorship ammunition.

The Griffith film itself commanded respect for the screen where there had been no respect before. The Farrar film did the same thing. Mr. Lasky, Mr. Goldfish and Mr. Gest were building for the industry as a whole, as well as for one branch of it, when they engineered Miss Farrar's screen debut at Symphony Hall, the scene of her triumphs in concert.

No one has attempted to estimate how many picture patrons the "Carmen" film has made, nor how much Mr. Fox gained by presenting his Theda Bara version of it during the week the Lasky picture went on the Park's regular program.

But that the influence of the better picture is improving the quality of the audiences there can be no doubt whatever.

Effect of Triangle

Better pictures was what the public expected of the Triangle, and it has not been disappointed. Triangle features are being shown in one of the city's largest auditoriums, the Boston theatre, and in the new Fenway, which is perhaps the finest film house built in the city proper during the year.

The house is located in the Back Bay district, the residential section for a large proportion of the better class of public the film needs.

The coming of Triangle has also meant the opening of a new exchange, down in the Pleasant street district. The Big Four also added an office in Boston this year.

Just a run through that district will reveal the fact that pessimism as to the future cannot grow there. The exchange managers and their roadmen are on the jump most of the time. They report that conditions throughout New England reflect the prosperity felt in Boston, where the picture houses are playing daily to big crowds, despite the fact that the spoken drama is also having a good season.

But there is not in Boston any striking indication of rivalry between the silent and spoken drama. Both are offered freely and the Bostonian may choose between them.

What's Expected of Next Year

During the year Paramount came into the Park theatre, improved its clientele, vastly bettered exhibition conditions there, and then left. It would not be surprising if Paramount should come into town again, perhaps as a result of the Paramount-Klaw and Erlanger combination.

All in all, the year just past was so good that next year will have to be that "banner year" if it surpasses 1915.

Leslie H. Allen.

Ambrosio to Produce for American Market

Italian Producer, Who Has Acquired Rights to Six D'Annunzio Plays and Recently Came to New York to Dispose of Two Jolivet Films, Engages Hamilton Revelle

BRINGING over with him two six-reel feature productions, made in Italy and starring Rita Jolivet, well known to American amusement lovers, Mr. Ambrosio, one of the best known of Continental film producers, has been in New York since December 6. He is accompanied by Mrs. Shultz, his private secretary.

Mr. Ambrosio's immediate mission in this country is to market "Zwany" and "The Hand of Fatma," for which Miss Jolivet posed. The films were made in Italy about two months ago, and the supporting cast consists entirely of Italian screen actors and actresses.

These subjects are expected to find a welcome in America not alone because of the presence of Miss Jolivet in the cast, but also because of the elaborate style in which they were produced.

Mr. Ambrosio is also planning to enter the American market extensively. His films are already well known here. For this purpose he has engaged Hamilton Revelle, who has appeared in M. tr. productions and is a well known legitimate star.

Revelle will go to Italy next spring for appearance in a number of Ambrosio productions which will find their way to the American market.

In order to make these pictures thoroughly acceptable to American audiences, Mr. Ambrosio expects to secure an American director. Any peculiarities of acting and staging which might militate against the popularity of these pictures in America will thus be eliminated, Mr. Ambrosio believes.

For example, he finds that Americans are not always pleased with the vigorous gesticulations which make up a large part of the Italian screen actor's "dramatic vocabulary."

An American director would be able to correct this, and would also be able to provide genuine American scenes in pictures which call for this country as part of their locale.

Mr. Ambrosio has recently acquired the rights to six plays by Gabriel D'Annunzio, the Italian poet and dramatist. For the feature role in these an American star will be secured. Mr. Revelle may be assigned the task, though this has not been definitely determined.

The extensive Ambrosio studios, said to equal in size any studio in this country, will be employed in the production of the D'Annunzio subjects, and the dramatist himself will aid personally in their screening.

Mr. Ambrosio and his secretary will return to Italy on December 28.

ARCHITECTS STILL AT WORK ON GAUMONT STUDIO PLANS

As a preliminary for the large building operations planned by the Gaumont Company at Flushing, N. Y., a number of contracts have been let for tearing down the present studio and adjacent buildings.

The architects are still at work upon the plans of the new studio, which will be thoroughly modern.

Metro Believes It Has Picked Winners for 1916

Among Them Will Be a Series of 14 Pictures, Two Reels Long, Featuring Bushman and Beverly Bayne and Photo Drama Starring 13 Other Searchlight Players

"THE year 1916 is to be by far the most important year in the history of the development of motion pictures, and it is certain to be a year of the survival of the fittest."

This is the prediction of President Richard A. Rowland, of the Metro Picture Corporation, made in the course of an interview outlining the Metro plans for the new year.

Metro announces, as its permanent list of stars under long time contracts, Francis X. Bushman, Beverly Bayne, Mme. Petrova, Ethel Barrymore, Mary Miles Minter, Hamilton Revelle, Valli Valli, Martha Hedman, Mabel Taliaferro, Edmund Breese, Emmy Wehlen, Marguerite Snow, Julius Steger, Lionel Barrymore and Grace Valentine.

To this several have been added by contract, but the announcement will not be made in detail until after the first week in January.

A decided innovation for Metro will be a series of fourteen pictures, two reels in length, in which Francis X. Bushman will be the star, and Beverly Bayne, is to be featured with him. Each one of these pictures will be complete in themselves, but they will constitute a completed long story when they have all been shown. A celebrated author has completed the series, and at the proper time the details will be announced.

A general campaign of nation-wide newspaper advertising will supplement the most pretentious publicity campaign yet seen in motion pictures. Special campaigns have been outlined and will be conducted in behalf of the Bushman-Bayne series, and in connection with two other special series of two reel subjects in which two distinguished women stars will be featured.

Production of Metro photoplays will be carried on almost exclusively in the East, although the Quality Pictures Corporation will continue to hold its Los Angeles studio in readiness in case of need.

Metro now has studios at 3 West Sixty-first street, New York City, where the Rolfe, Photoplays, Inc., under the general management of Maxwell Karger, and Columbia Pictures Corporation under the general management of Charles Maddock, have been making pictures during the past six months; a studio in Fort Lee, N. J.; the Popular Plays and Players studio, at 238 West Thirty-fifth street; as well as the largest studio in the world under glass, and another local studio will be added to the list before March.

While special stress will be laid on the making of five reel feature subjects, there will also be one reel comedies and two reel subjects, in which the foremost Metro stars will appear.

The list of Metro productions for the year include a large number of original scenarios in addition to adaptations from famous plays and books already purchased by the scenario department.

"Metro looks forward," said President Richard A. Rowland, in speaking of the coming months, "to a great year because Metro enthusiasm, Metro spirit and Metro ability is concentrated as never before, on the making of good pictures.

"We are proud of our record, but we are by no means content to rest on it, and merely be satisfied with what has been done. The year 1916, will, I know by far, be the most important year in the development of motion pictures and it will be a year of the survival of the fittest.

"The public is no longer content with pictures that are partly good or fairly entertaining. They have been educated by the seeing of better pictures to a point where nothing but the best can possibly be expected to hold the old patronage and draw new patrons to the picture houses.

"We have been forced into the belief that Metro pictures are the pictures best suited to the masses and the classes and with quality, consistency and vitality as the three words of our creed we look forward with confidence to newer and greater things. Metro has set its own mark, blazed its own trail and the success that has come, we assume with modesty."

SELIG PREPARES BIG PUBLICITY MATTER FOR BEACH PICTURE

The Selig Polyscope Company is preparing a wealth of publicity material to accompany the release of "The Ne'er-Do-Well," which is to be released in ten or more reels shortly after the new year. Posters have been prepared and in addition there are heralds, press sheets and cut sheets.

Everything in the publicity line that will help the exhibitor has been prepared by the Selig Company. "The Ne'er-Do-Well" was written by Rex Beach, produced by Colin Campbell and features a cast of players, including Kathlyn Williams, Wheeler Oakman, Frank Clark, Eugenie Besserer, Sidney Smith and others.

BILL TO PREVENT TENT SHOWS IN ST. LOUIS

A bill to prohibit moving picture shows in tents in St. Louis, after September 1, 1917, was passed by the Board of Aldermen last week.

The bill, if signed by the mayor, will prohibit the opening of any such shows and decrees that all such existing ones cease after the date specified.

Harry Raver Believes in Conservative Advertising

Producer of "The Other Girl" Intends to Build Up a Line of Publicity Sure of Inspiring Confidence, as if He Had Given His Word Personally

HARRY R. RAVER, president of the Raver Film Corporation, believes in advertising his pictures conservatively. Recently he published an advertisement of his picture, "The Other Girl," in which he reviewed the film himself. He acknowledged that the picture was not without the ordinary faults. He also acknowledged its merits, and told what they were.

MARGUERITE SNOW AS BEATRICE MITCHELL, THE MINISTER'S WIFE, IN "THE UPSTART," METRO PICTURIZATION OF A STORY BY TOM BARRY

In explanation of this unique style of advertising, Mr. Raver said:

"I naturally thought a long time before I came out with such radically different copy than has been appearing. But then let's look at it this way. I might spend hundreds of dollars advertising a picture before I have seen it myself, while it is still in work.

"I might have told the motion picture people that it is the greatest picture ever produced, it is faultless; I defy anybody to find anything wrong with it.

"And then some critic might find some little detail off. After all the praise I have given it, this small bit of criticism is going to loom up like a house afire.

"Now, I come out and admit that it might be faulty that it perhaps isn't perfect. As a matter of fact, I have never seen a picture that wasn't defective in some way, such as consistent, even photography, perfect direction and printing.

"These flaws I feel free in saying can be found in every picture, perhaps not noticeable to the layman, but to the motion picture people apparent.

"While an advertising man or two might have taken exceptions to my style, it has not deterred me in my purpose.

"This conservative copy has brought more replies than anything I have ever attempted before.

"They have not only been replies of inquiry, but invariably contained a paragraph of congratulations because I did not attempt to use superlatives or overpraise my picture.

"It is merely living up to the slogan 'Truth in Advertising' and building a line of advertising in which they can have just as much confidence as they could in my word given to them personally."

ARBUCKLE AND MABEL NORMAND ON WAY TO EASTERN STUDIOS

The new Eastern Keystone company under the direction of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle will start from Los Angeles for New York on December 26. The celebrated Mabel Normand is the star, and prominent among the principals are Minta Durfee and Al St. John.

The company, while possibly making a few stands en route to film scenic views, expect to arrive in New York on New Year's Day or soon thereafter.

They will probably use Fort Lee studios but their work will not be confined to this city as they will handle a good many locations in various parts of the East.

This will be Miss Normand's first eastern film taking in three or four years. She is delighted at the prospect. While an Atlanta girl, Miss Normand's mother and sister live in New York and there will be a joyful family reunion about the first of the year.

FRANCES NELSON'S ROLE IN NEW DRAMA IS EMOTIONAL

Frances Nelson, who assumes the leading role in the film version of Jules Eckert Goodman's drama "The Point of View," is the most recent recruit of stellar rank to the World Film forces.

Her role in "The Point of View" is said to be well suited to her emotional powers.

Miss Nelson, who has just passed her nineteenth year, graduated from high school in St. Paul, Minn., not so very long ago. She has appeared in stock and legitimate attractions, and has also been featured in several film productions.

NOVELIST BACHELLER A DIRECTOR OF MIRROR

Irving Bacheller, the famous novelist and author, has become a member of the official family of the Mirror Films, Inc. Mr. Bacheller has been elected a member of the board of directors of the company and has agreed to give some of his time to the literary aspect of motion pictures as exemplified in the offerings which the Mirror company will make to the public beginning the first of the year.

U. S. CAMERA MAN PICKED TO FILM 4TH MIRROR SUBJECT

J. M. Blaney, for seven years the camera man in geographic survey exploration and photography for the Bureau of Navigation of the United States, has been engaged by the Mirror Films, Inc., to take the big scenes in its forthcoming feature films.

Since his work for Uncle Sam, Mr Blaney has been employed by numerous motion picture companies.

MYRTLE GONZALEZ TO RIDE IN FLOWER AUTO AT PASADENA

Myrtle Gonzalez, star of the Universal company, has been invited by the management of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses to participate in the floral parade on New Year's Day, entering a flower bedecked automobile.

Miss Gonzalez has consented to do so and the Universal City colors, green and gold, will predominate among the flowers which will cover her machine.

Miss Gonzalez, who is a native of Los Angeles and who has always lived in that region, has missed but few of the annual tournaments of the association.

KARPEN IS TITLE EDITOR FOR "U" PRODUCTIONS IN THE EAST

Manager Julius Stern of the Imp-Leonia studios has just announced the addition to his staff of a title editor, C. A. Karpen, who will have charge of writing and editing all titles and leaders for all the Universal Film Manufacturing Company's pictures made in the East. Mr. Karpen started in his new duties this week, at the new studio at Leonia.

ANN MURDOCK, ESSANAY STAR, YOUNGEST FROHMAN STAR

Ann Murdock, star of "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines," Essanay's film version of the Clyde Fitch comedy, is a well known stage celebrity. She is a member of the Charles Frohman forces—the youngest stellar member, it is said.

ANN MURDOCK

Some of her Frohman successes were "The Beautiful Adventure," "A Celebrated Case," and "Excuse Me." Her stage career has also included engagements under the Henry B. Harris banner.

In the photoplay version of "Captain Jinks" Miss Murdock plays the part of Trentoni, the prima donna. Richard C. Travers appears opposite her in the title role.

NOLA LEADING WOMAN INJURED IN "KIDNAPPING" STUNT

While making scenes requiring great skill in horsemanship in City Park, New Orleans, La., Leatrice Joy, leading woman for the Nola Film Company of New Orleans, which recently announced it would release its products through Associated, was painfully injured.

Miss Joy was being "kidnapped" by a gypsy horseman, and was riding at breakneck speed with her foot in one stirrup. The gypsy held her tightly with one arm, and maintained a grasp on the horse with the other.

The cause of the fall was due to the fact that the gypsy could not get a firm hold on the Japanese silk kimono that Miss Joy was wearing.

The gypsy fell across Miss Joy, although the horse leaped aside without touching the riders.

Miss Joy manifested the greatest nerve and gameness. Her only inquiry after the fall was this: "I hope we get a fine picture."

The spectacular fall was a great coup for the camera, which faithfully recorded the incident.

GAUMONT TO FEATURE SYDNEY MASON AND MARGUERITE COURTOT

The Gaumont Company will feature Sydney Mason with Marguerite Courtot in the Mutual Masterpicture Company to be directed by Henry J. Vernot at Jacksonville, Fla.

Before appearing upon the screen, Mr. Mason supported Blanche Walsh and Lillian Langtry. His last legitimate work was for Cohan and Harris in "Get-Rich-Quick-Wallingford."

In support of James O'Neil Mr. Mason first appeared before the camera at the Famous Players studio.

After engagements with Universal and Frohman pictures, he joined the Gaumont stock company.

In "The Devil's Darling" he played opposite Francine Larrimore. When Gaumont releases "The Secret Agent" next month, Mr. Mason will be seen in support of Robert T. Haines.

"ONE DAY" COMPANY SENT SOUTH BY MOSS

The players appearing in the B. S. Moss screen production of "One Day," a sequel to Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks," left New York last Saturday aboard "The City of Montgomery" with Savannah as their destination.

In addition to Jeanne Iver, the star of the organization, Director-General Hal Clarendon and head camera man H. M. Dean and the supporting company, there were in evidence the technical director and his staff, assistant camera men, property men and electricians, making in all a total of forty-two for whom passage was booked.

With the photographing of the few scenes to be enacted in and around Savannah, which necessitated the making of this trip, "One Day" will be in its completed form, and will be the January release of the Moss Motion Picture Corporation, which controls "The Salamander," selling on a state rights basis.

PITTSBURGH EXHIBITORS REALIZE IMPORTANCE OF ADVERTISING

Special to Motion Picture News

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 24.

The Pittsburgh exhibitors are gradually being educated to advertising and are buying more space in the newspapers than ever before in the history of the business in this section.

The daily newspapers are carrying a directory of the shows at the various theatres each day, and the Sunday editions are running columns of advertising and news matter for the motion picture fans in this section.

The exhibitors have found that the daily newspaper ad does them a world of good, and all who are now using the newspapers are getting their friends interested, with the result that the advertising is increasing right along.

This phase of the business had been sadly overlooked during the years that the business has been going on in this section, and with the exchanges and exhibitors waking up, they state they are now doing double the amount of business that they did before their theatres were publishing their programs in the daily papers.

Mutual Draws Upon Best Fictionists for Scenarios

Men Whose Yarns Have Appeared in The Saturday Evening Post, Scribner's, McClure's, Are Busy with Screen Contributions to the Company

IN its determination to present the very best in story and plot in the motion pictures released through its service, the Mutual Film Corporation is drawing upon the services of the best fiction writers of America.

One of the most frequent scenario contributors to the American Film Corporation at Santa Barbara, is Kenneth B. Clarke, the fiction writer whose short stories appear in the Saturday Evening Post.

Two photoplays by Mr. Clarke are now in the course of production at the American studios. "The Suppressed Order," a three part drama, in which Winnifred Greenwood, Edward Coxen, George Field and Sylvia Ashton play the leading roles, is from his pen. Also is the eccentric comedy "The Impossible Yarn of McQuirk."

"The Cactus Blossom," an American "Mustang" release of December 31, is also the picturization of one of Dr. Clarke's stories. In it, Anna Little and Frank Borzage play the leads.

The series of humorous motion picture stories by Charles H. Van Loan, which were published in the Saturday Evening Post, "Buck Parvin in the Movies," are be-released tri-weekly in the Mutual and Mustang Star Features, with Art Accord and Anna Little.

Five of the installments have already been released. They are "Man Afraid of His Wardrobe," "Buck's Lady Friend," "This Is the Life," "Film Tempo," and "Author! Author!" "Water Stuff," the sixth of this series is already nearly completed, and will appear in January.

A third well known fiction writer and contributor to the current magazines who has been engaged to write a series of Mutual photoplays, is Frank H. Spearman, the author of numberless railroad yarns, whose efforts at scenario writing are now being directed to the Signal Film Corporation's picturized novel, "The Girl and the Game."

Mr. Spearman is a contributor to Scribner's, McClure's and other periodicals of equal standing. He is the author of "Whispering Smith," "The Mountain Divide," "Held for Orders," "The Nerve of Foley," "Dr. Bryson," and other short stories and serials published in newspapers and magazines.

The first installment appeared December 27, "The Girl and the Game" will be released by the North American Film Corporation as a Mutual Special.

Then there is Roy McCardell, the New York newspaper man, and the winner of the $10,000 prize for furnishing the idea and the scenario for the spectacular serial, "The Diamond from the Sky," which recently finished its first run releases.

Mr. McCardell has been a frequent contributor to the scenario department of the American Film Company and the David Horsley Productions. Negotiations have just been completed between Mr. McCardell and Mr. Horsley, whereby Mr. McCardell will write a new series of picture plays to feature Crane Wilbur, the Horsley star, and the Bostock Animals.

Rufus Steele, another writer for the Saturday Evening Post, has contributed a worthy addition to the Mutual Program in the plot and story of "The Deathlock," a Mutual Masterpicture, to be released December 30.

"The Secret Agent," a Gaumont three-reel Rialto release featuring Robert T. Haines, is the filmization of a Saturday Evening Post story by Arthur E. Stringer.

"The Other Side of the Door," an American Mutual Masterpicture, to be released January 6 is taken from a book by the same name written by Lucia Chamberlain.

Rennold Wolf, the well known New York dramatic critic, and the author of many of the most popular musical and theatrical successes for several seasons back has written several comedies for the Gaumont Company.

"Hunting," a one-reel funny picture featuring Budd Ross, is the most recent offering from Mr. Wolf's pen to be filmed for Mutual release. This picture is scheduled for release December 26.

Edna Mayo as Girl Who Makes Way Like Walthall

Mary Page, Heroine of Essanay Release for January, Makes Same Kind of Fight for Recognition in Stageland That Actor Playing Chief Role Went Through Years Ago

BY a strange coincidence, in "The Strange Case of Mary Page," the Essanay series in which Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo are starred, Miss Mayo plays a part that coincides in many ways with the story of the life of Henry Walthall.

Mr. Walthall came to New York from a village in Shelby County, Alabama, seeking his fortune on the stage. He struggled for a hearing and finally got a place with a repertoire company touring the smaller cities. He had troubles and inconveniences galore until he finally fought his way to stardom.

Miss Mayo as Mary Page is a small-town Southern girl, who goes through many of the trying experiences that were Mr. Walthall's. But, being a girl, in love and pursued by a man she hates (and of whose murder she finally is accused) Mary Page has more trouble to combat than Mr. Walthall ever dreamed of.

The Essanay Company, for two years, has been planning to produce a moving picture series. At first they didn't have quite the star they believed necessary. They signed Mr. Walthall, settling that difficulty.

Then they had trouble finding a suitable story. After a long search they discovered it. The production of "The Strange Case of Mary Page" is the result.

It is announced that this tale is first a huge red-blooded love story. The thrills are many, but they are all consistent with the tale.

The first episode will be released the latter part of January.

"U" Board of Directors Votes Thanks to Laemmle

At Annual Meeting, Where All Officers Were Re-elected, Progress of the Company Is Also Reviewed—Officials Plan Bigger Film Output for 1916

AT the annual meeting held on December 15, in the executive offices, 1600 Broadway, New York City, the following were re-elected directors of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company: Carl Laemmle, R. H. Cochrane, P. A. Powers, Joe McKinney and John B. Stanchfield.

Carl Laemmle was re-elected president; R. H. Cochrane, vice-president; P. A. Powers, treasurer, and Joe Brandt, manager of the home office, was elected secretary.

The board of directors extended a vote of thanks to President Laemmle for the profits and success of the year 1915.

The progress of the company the past year was reviewed, especial mention being made of the nearly completed plant at Leonia, N. J., which will be the Universal City of the East. The increase in volume of business in 1915 was declared to have outdistanced the figures of any previous year.

With the new electrical studio at Universal City and the new Leonia plant, the Universal officials are planning a larger output.

Several prominent stars have been signed by the Universal, it is announced, and their names, together with a list of plays and books which Universal has contracts to film, will be made known shortly.

WIFE OF GAUMONT ACTOR DEAD

Mrs. Phin Nares, wife of a member of Gaumont's Casino Star Comedy Stock Company, expired December 20.

She had herself occasionally appeared in Casino productions with her husband.

LIVE WIRE EXHIBITORS

EDITOR'S NOTE.—It is the desire of "Motion Picture News" to include under this heading novel advertising ideas, successful schemes in the management, decoration and equipment of the theatre—everything, in fact, done by the exhibitor to stimulate his trade. We invite every exhibitor to write us about any new enterprise he has; also to come to us for advice or information along any line. Address: Editor, "Motion Picture News," 220 West Forty-second Street, New York City

INDIVIDUAL ADVERTISING OF PICTURES BRINGS GREATEST RETURN TO EXHIBITOR

EXHIBITORS who wish to get the greatest possible return from advertising ought to devote particular attention to their newspaper copy.

Effective newspaper ads cannot be written by everybody. Neither can they be written without a pretty accurate knowledge of the thing to be advertised. This is true of motion pictures no less than of other commodities. Could you imagine anybody writing an ad of a particular kind of soap when he didn't know whether it was laundry soap or toilet soap?

Pictures are not just pictures, any longer, and they can't be advertised successfully as just pictures. They have to be advertised as particular kinds of pictures—individually. If they are not, the newspaper reader's interest will not be aroused to its maximum. He may go to see the picture about which he has read in his paper, and then again he may not.

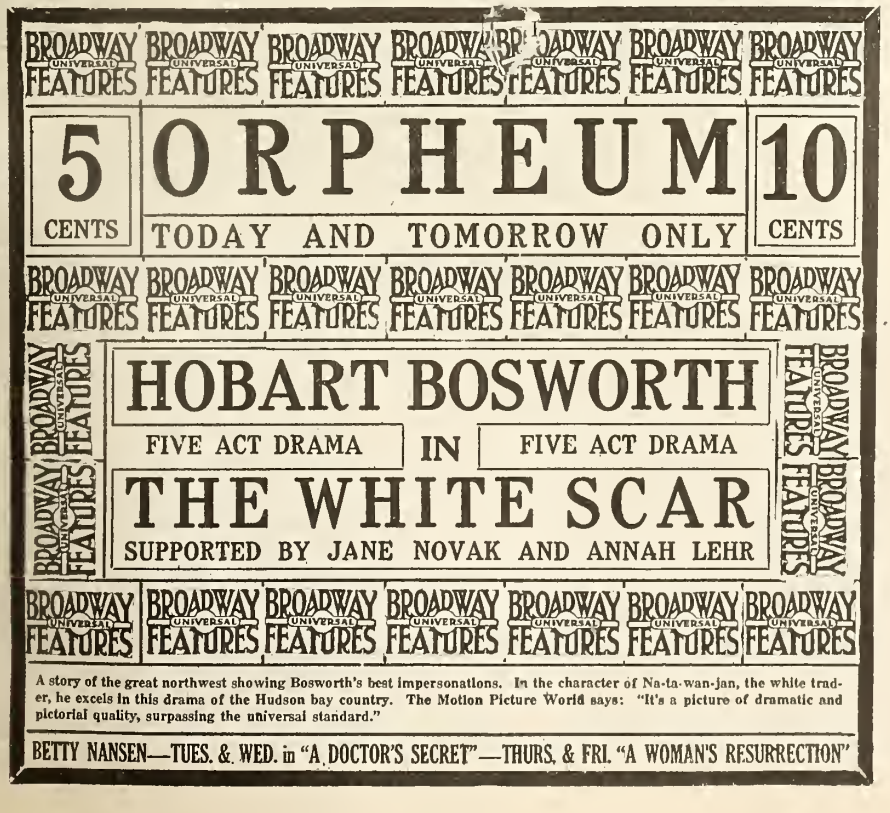
The man who writes picture theatre advertising for his local newspaper ought to find out as much as possible about the picture he is advertising. And then he ought to tell the newspaper reader, in as attractive a way as he can, what he has found out.

The most successful exhibitor advertising today is the advertising that arouses the reader's interest, first, and then makes him want to buy; that is, to buy a seat in the theatre. Such advertising must make the reader feel that the picture under discussion is his kind of picture. How can he feel that if the ad merely gives him the title, name of the star, name of the manufacturer, and a hastily written glimpse of the plot?

Look at the reproduction of the newspaper ad on this page. Note the large amount of space used, and note how it has been used. Is there anything interest-compelling in the ad? Wouldn't it have been better to say less about the trade mark and more about the picture? The use of the trade mark is excellent. But there is such a thing as overdoing it. No doubt this ad pulled a good many people into the theatre. It could have pulled a good many more if it had been written from a different angle—the angle of "The White Scar." There is, to be sure, a brief description of the picture, but there is nothing attractive in it.

Exhibitors ought to make a special case of every picture they advertise. Of course this takes time. But it is so important a matter that the exhibitor could well afford to devote both time and money to it—even to employing expert ability.

NEWSPAPER AD SERIES No. 2: ADVERTISING OF THE ORPHEUM, CANTON, OHIO



BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURES
5 CENTS
ORPHEUM
10 CENTS
TODAY AND TOMORROW ONLY
HOBART BOSWORTH
FIVE ACT DRAMA IN FIVE ACT DRAMA
THE WHITE SCAR
SUPPORTED BY JANE NOVAK AND ANNAH LEHR
A story of the great northwest showing Bosworth's best impersonations. In the character of Na-ta-wan-jan, the white trader, he excels in this drama of the Hudson bay country. The Motion Picture World says: "It's a picture of dramatic and pictorial quality, surpassing the universal standard."
BETTY NANSEN—TUES. & WED. in "A DOCTOR'S SECRET"—THURS. & FRI. "A WOMAN'S RESURRECTION"

MANUFACTURER PUBLICITY THAT REALLY HELPS THE EXHIBITOR

When the Selig Red Seal Play, "A Black Sheep" was released, the manufacturer called the attention of the Commercial Club of Tombstone, Ariz., to the fact that their town would be exploited in the picture. The club, appreciating the publicity that the town was receiving through the film, at once arranged for a special showing.

In "The Chronicles of Bloom Center" a real village named Bloom Center was uncovered in the Middle West and the series was shown there with great success simply because the Selig Company called the attention of Bloom Center exhibitors to the series.

There is no reason why every manufacturer should not make it a regular practice to let exhibitors know every time any picture has local advertising possibilities.

BOOK OF THEATRE TICKETS AS XMAS GIFT SUGGESTION

A new note in Christmas gift suggestions has been sounded by H. S. Clemmer, manager of the Clemmer and one of Spokane's "live wire" exhibitors. He has provided books of tickets to his theatre, neatly bound and in attractive form, offered at special holiday rates.

There are three kinds of books in the set, each filled with 11 tickets, 15-cent, 10-cent and 5-cent, respectively.

CAR STRIKE IN WILKES-BARRE AFFECTS PICTURES

Wilkes-Barre motion picture exhibitors are facing the hardest season in the history of the local trade. The city has been tied up by a car strike for two months and the exhibitors report business bad.

WEEK RUNS FOR THE SMALL TOWN EXHIBITOR

The manager of the Star Theatre in Kane, Pa., a town having a population of only 6,600, arranged for a Big Four week, and although his house has a seating capacity of only 225, his profits for the week were larger than those usually realized by a house of twice the capacity.

The Sales Department of the V-L-S-E is encouraging such runs on the basis that frequently a large percentage of a community does not have a chance to see the successes when they are first shown, and that if these are repeated at some future date, the exhibitor obtains the full value of the word-of-mouth advertising which was created during the original showing of the feature.

They therefore advocate that the strongest pictures should be re-booked and grouped into a solid week's showing backed by a liberal advertising campaign.

PASADENA EXHIBITOR CO-OPERATES WITH NEWSPAPERS

J. M. Root, of the Strand theatre, Pasadena, has just added a ladies' orchestra, under the direction of Inez Bushnell of Seattle, to his house.

Mr. Root thoroughly appreciates the advantage of co-operating with the press, and is one of the biggest newspaper space users in Southern California.

THE WEEK'S BEST LIVE WIRE STUNT

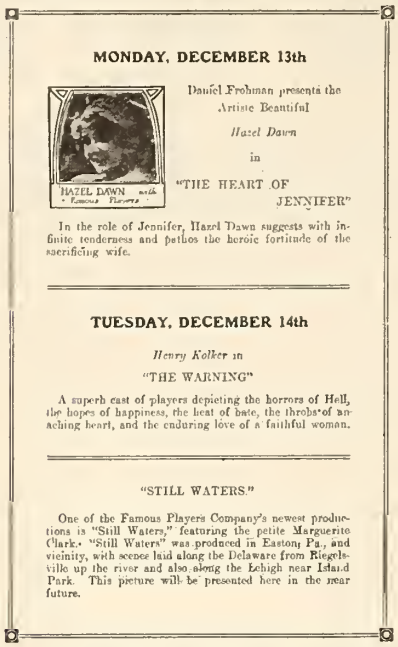
The recent experiment made by Manager J. L. Partington of the Imperial theatre, San Francisco, in featuring stage sets has been so successful that these will be a part of the program each week. Theatre-goers thought that the efforts put forward in this line when Geraldine Farrar was featured in "Carmen" and Mary Pickford in "Madame Butterfly" could scarcely be surpassed, but have been delighted to find that each succeeding week shows an improvement.

Recently the "Prince and the Pauper" was the attraction at this theatre, but instead of endeavoring to produce stage effects in line with the story, Manager Partington presented something novel, illustrating in a happy manner what can be done with local material. The closing of the Exposition was the theme of this stage set, the curtain rising on a beautiful picture of the Palace of Fine Arts and the Lagoon bathed in moonlight.

From the wings of the stage came an electriquette, the electric vehicles so popular at the Exposition, bringing a dainty miss who sang three songs. Behind the Palace of Fine Arts beams of colored lights played, the familiar aurora of the Exposition, and at the conclusion of the songs, Art Smith, the aviator, appeared high above the building, making one of his illuminated night flights.

So enthusiastically was this received by the audience, that Manager Partington has decided to devote added attention to special features of this kind.

HOUSE ORGAN SERIES No. 14: COMBINING HOUSE ORGAN AND HERALD



MONDAY, DECEMBER 13th

Daniel Frohman presents the Artistic Beautiful

Hazel Dawn

in

"THE HEART OF JENNIFER"

In the role of Jennifer, Hazel Dawn suggests with infinite tenderness and pathos the heroic fortitude of the sacrificing wife.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 14th

Henry Kolker in

"THE WARNING"

A superb cast of players depicting the horrors of Hell, the hopes of happiness, the heat of hate, the throbs of an aching heart, and the enduring love of a faithful woman.

"STILL WATERS."

One of the Famous Players Company's newest productions is "Still Waters," featuring the petite Marguerite Clark. "Still Waters" was produced in Easton, Pa., and vicinity, with scenes laid along the Delaware from Riegelsville up the river and also along the Lehigh near Island Park. This picture will be presented here in the near future.

(LEFT) TYPICAL PAGE OF THE HOUSE ORGAN OF THE LEHIGH ORPHEUM, SOUTH BETHLEHEM, PA. (RIGHT) FIRST PAGE OF A FOUR PAGE HERALD BOUND IN THE CENTER OF THE HOUSE ORGAN PROPER. THIS IS AN EFFECTIVE, AND INEXPENSIVE, METHOD OF ADVERTISING.

As the result of this it is not uncommon to see a one or two column story by the Strand publicity man, William A. Haas, in the Pasadena papers, and every attraction is given attention by the papers.

MAKING THE "CIRCUS" METHOD OF LOBBY DISPLAY EFFECTIVE

[Editor's Note: Second of a series of articles on picture theatre advertising by J. W. Martin, NEWS Milwaukee correspondent].

For the motion picture theatre which "circuses" all its attractions, the addition of a large number of mirrors upon the sides of the lobby is not a bad idea. These can be utilized for cutouts from lithographs which may be pasted upon the glazed surface and then lettered around with whitening.

Many well appearing signs can be worked up by this method.

A stretcher preferably of steel tubing may be erected upon which to hang a three-sheet or larger paper. This will do away with the necessity of tying and tacking up the paper and will prevent it from being blown about. In the wide shallow lobbies or fronts that are open to the street, an electric sign with changeable letters has proven very successful in many houses. Signs along the bottom of the box office are not always advisable. They are not only constantly being cut off from view of the street but cause blockades around the ticket window when people stop to look at them.

Just why more attention is not paid the lobby by theatre managers is difficult to say as it is not only his best advertising medium, but the one requiring the smallest outlay, yet nine times out of ten he neglects it and allows the doorman or janitor to "fix it up" according to their own "artistic ideas."

EMPLOYEES CO-OPERATE TO MAKE THEATRES SUCCESSFUL

The Clark and Rowland interests in Pittsburgh, Pa., will never suffer when it comes to loyalty of the attaches and their interest in the work of pleasing the public. The employees report all little defects in the services of the theatres and are watchful so as to get the best results with the least possible effort.

The managers of the various theatres have arranged a program whereby a dinner will be held monthly. They are to be "get-together dinners," and the managers will talk over various methods of improving the service in the houses and bettering conditions in regard to labor, projection of pictures, etc.

Mr. Clark will be one of the members of the dinner parties and will listen to the suggestions made and will pass final judgment on making the changes. A badge about the size of a dime, with the Clark and Rowland monogram on it, will be given to employees in the service more than six months. This button will entitle the wearer to admittance to any of the theatres owned by the company throughout the section.

EXHIBITORS: WHY NOT TRY THIS PLAN IN YOUR CITY?

Thomas D. Soriero has set an example in enterprise for Boston film exhibitors. As manager of the Park theatre, he has reached an agreement with the Shepard Norwell Company by which that department store devotes a whole window and a section in the middle of its newspaper advertising to exploitation of the films at the Park.

Mr. Soriero does the same thing in connection with the Gaiety theatre, Providence, R. I., and finds that it is a paying proposition.

AMONG THE EXCHANGES

NEW YEAR WILL FIND NEW FACES IN MANY NEW ORLEANS EXCHANGES

FOLLOWING two weeks of unprecedented activity and numerous changes of management among New Orleans exchanges, the new year will find new faces at most of the film offices.

Rumors that a general shake-up in New Orleans exchange circles would be accomplished, was followed by the visit of high officials of several important companies, and announcements of resignations, appointments and shifts followed in rapid succession.

The most important appointment is that of S. T. Stephens, who assumes charge of the Mutual Film Corporation's New Orleans office. Mr. Stephens, for more than a year manager for Fox Film there, wired in his resignation two weeks ago.

Negotiations to induce Mr. Stephens to stay with Fox followed. Sam Dembow, Jr., southern division manager for the Fox Film Corporation, was sent to New Orleans to talk things over with Mr. Stephens.

When it was realized that Mr. Stephens' decision was final, employees of the Fox office presented a touching testimonial to their departing manager. They called him into a side office and presented him with a beautiful opal and pearl tie pin.

Mr. Stephens' appointment followed the visit to New Orleans of Hunter Bennett, sales manager out of New York, and the subsequent resignation of Ross Hardenbrook as manager of the New Orleans office.

On the same day, the announcement was made that Maurice F. Barr had resigned as manager of the World Film Corporation.

Then, a quick shift was announced. Ross Hardenbrook assumed charge of the World, while Barr announced that he had connected with the Consolidated Film and Supply Company, as representative. It was erroneously announced last week that Mr. Barr had assumed charge of Universal features.

Sam Dembow announces that Spencer G. Sladdin, ex-newspaperman from New York, would temporarily assume charge of the Fox office until a permanent successor to Mr. Stephens is announced. Mr. Dembow has purposely lingered in the city to make this appointment, announcement of which is expected within a few days.

An important change at the New Orleans office of the General Film Company was accomplished by E. J. Farrell, who was recently appointed southern manager for that company.

John T. Ezell, manager for General for about eight months, was replaced by H. G. Morrow, who was manager of the General's Jacksonville, Fla., office.

Incidentally, Mr. Farrell made a broad and sweeping announcement of the General's new policy, which will be found in another column.

On the eve of Hunter Bennett's departure for New York City, a regular love feast was held at the office of the Mutual Film Corporation.

There were hints of a surprise in the air, and surprises they proved to be, both for the employees of the office and for Mr. Bennett.

Acting as spokesman, S. T. Stephens, the new manager-to-be, presented Mr. Bennett with a silver cigar case and match lighter. This came as a gift of the employees and of Al. G. Durning, manager of the Greater New York Film Rental Company, and a few other of Mr. Bennett's New Orleans film friends.

Again acting as spokesman, Mr. Stephens announced to the assembled employees that all salaries would be raised. The boost amounts to as high as twenty per cent. in most cases. Mutual's growth in New Orleans has been consistent.

The company now is housed in a large building remodelled especially for their needs. On the first of the year, new ideas in the selling of films are to be incorporated into the New Orleans office, it is broadly hinted.

Finishing touches are being made to additions to the Kleine-Edison office in the Nola Building. This company, a newcomer, apparently has made good in this territory.

Jack Auslet, treasurer of the W. I. Swain's Greater Shows, which are wintering in New Orleans, now is handling "The Christian," and reports that this eight reel feature is booked over Louisiana territory for a solid eight weeks.

"The Red Circle," Pathé's latest, is going strong in this territory and is receiving unprecedented advertising.

As this letter goes forward, it is strongly intimated that the next few weeks will witness an upheaval of motion pictures in New Orleans. It is said that the entrance of the bigger programs, a thing denied the largest city in the South and granted to many cities considerably smaller, is only a question of a short time.

Not only that, but it is a settled fact that New Orleans within a week will get a sure enough picture house modelled along New York lines, with a full orchestra and an exceptionally strong program.

DAY MADE EASTERN DISTRICT HEAD FOR FOX

Harvey B. Day has been appointed eastern district manager of the Fox Film Corporation, with supervision over Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Syracuse, N. Y.

GOLDSTONE AND KAHN SELL FILMS BY MERCHANDISE DISPLAY METHOD

"A traveling salesman goes into a city, spreads out his wares in a splendidly furnished room of a hotel, and invites the dealers in to buy. Why not the same method for the disposal of motion pictures?"

Manager Philip Goldstone of the World exchange in Omaha was talking.

He had tried the plan, and found that it worked well. He and A. Kahn, roadman in Iowa, planned to make the experiment in Des Moines, Ia.

Kahn went to the city after a correspondence campaign with the exhibitors and invited them in. He had a number of films with him, plenty of paper to show the class of advertising, and a good machine. He made sure of the very best projection, of the most comfortable chairs, and invited in not only the exhibitors, but the newspaper men.

They all attended, congratulated him over the idea, booked the pictures and became regular customers. The newspaper men went back to their offices and wrote stories praising the initiative displayed by Kahn and Goldstone.

Now Kahn is planning to follow out the same idea in other cities and Goldstone has given the plans to his other roadmen.

TWO MEN TO HANDLE "MARY PAGE" SERIES OUT OF KANSAS CITY

Manager R. O. Proctor, of the General Film Company, Kansas City, has installed a new projection room in his exchange. It is absolutely fireproof and will take care of his business nicely.

Two new regular roadmen and two that will handle the "Mary Page" series in that territory have been added to the staff of the General Film Company by Manager Proctor. George B. Reusor and A. Hewitt are the regular men and E. A. Barnhardt and H. E. Ulrich are the men that will sell the "Mary Page" series of the Essanay Company.

Martin and Estes, who have a number of state rights films and who recently purchased an interest in the Willis Wood theatre, Kansas City, have moved their offices from the Gumbel Building to the Willis Wood Theatre Building.

HIRSH BUYS NEW YORK RIGHTS TO CORBETT SUBJECT

Nathan Hirsh, president of the Pioneer Feature Film Corporation, 130 West Forty-sixth street, New York, has acquired the New York state rights to "The Burglar and the Lady," a five reel production featuring James J Corbett and Claire Whitney.

The feature will be released on December 28.

MANAGER FURNISHES "DIAMOND" FREE FIRST NIGHT

Ed Bierman, formerly with the World exchange in Omaha, is now doing state work throughout Iowa for the Essanay people.

To get exhibitors started to using "The Diamond from the Sky," Manager Taylor of the Mutual exchange in Omaha furnished the film free for the first night. The idea was a success.

Charles Manfra, formerly in charge of the advertising department of the Fox exchange in Omaha, has gone on the road under Manager Joe Levy. Manfra is well liked in Omaha and is keeping up his popularity outside.

"Co-operation between exchange managers and their salesmen" is an idea upon which Manager Philip Goldstone of the Omaha World exchange has been dwelling lately. By sending ahead letters and full information, boosting his salesman with the exhibitor, and doing his utmost to promote good feeling between the man on the road and the folks in the exchange, Goldstone has managed to keep his men with him for a long time.

EHRGOTT LEAVES BANGOR OFFICE OF GENERAL FOR NEW HAVEN

A. L. Ehrgott, who for the past three years has been the manager of the branch office of the General Film Company in Bangor, Me., has been transferred to New Haven, Conn., to take charge of the company's branch there, and while the Bangor trade regrets to lose him they congratulate him on his advancement and promotion to a larger and more lucrative field.

Mr. Ehrgott has built up the company's business in Maine in a most satisfactory manner, and both he and Mrs. Ehrgott made a great many friends, becoming very popular socially.

On his departure the employees of the office gathered at the railroad station to bid him farewell and presented him with a handsome desk watch as a remembrance.

He has been succeeded by George H. Newhall, of Lynn, Mass., who was connected with the Boston office of the General Film Company for the past five years. Mr. Newhall is not unknown in Bangor, having served as Mr. Ehrgott's assistant in 1913 and the appointment is a poular one.

SEATTLE V-L-S-E AWARDS GOLD WATCH FOR EXHIBITOR STUNT

The gold watch which Tom North, manager of the Seattle office of the V-L-S-E offered as a prize to the exhibitor receiving the most votes from his fellow exhibitors in the Seattle territory, for the best advertising devised and actually put into use on Big Four productions, was awarded Christmas Day to F. L. Stannard, manager of the Gem theatre, Wenatchee, Washington.

Mr. Stannard was not only one of the most prolific in the "stunts" which he originated to exploit the Big Four features, but his ideas are said to have been unusually effective.

One which gained for him the greatest comment, was a window display on the Lubin feature, "The College Widow," in which a reproduction of the Yale Bowl was shown with two foot-ball teams represented by dolls in foot-ball uniforms lined up for action.

The window was decorated with college flags and contained an attractive card reading: "See the big football game in 'The College Widow' at the Gem theatre today."

Mr. North in awarding the watch, announced that the contest had been productive of enlarged business for both the exchanges and the exhibitors. Several hundred ideas were presented as having stimulated business, and these were all distributed to the other exhibitors in the territory through the medium of the "V-L-S-E Pals."

TRAVELING EFFICIENCY MANAGER TAKES PLACE OF MUTUAL DISTRICT MANAGER

As the motion picture business more firmly establishes itself among the leading industries efficiency grows to be in greater demand not only in the theatre, but in the exchange.

B. M. Judell, efficiency manager in the Middle West for the Mutual Film Corporation, in Omaha the other day, emphasized the fact that more efficiency in all departments, and not more management, is needed.

The Mutual corporation recently did away with the district manager plan and now has traveling managers, or efficiency men.

The efficiency men now are constantly visiting the offices, looking not only into the detailed management of the exchanges, but into the general conditions as well.

Judell, while in Omaha, spent most of his days about the exchange with Manager Taylor. He constantly asked questions, jotting down every answer. Everything he noticed, he jotted down. He talked with every employe in the office and noted further details. These notes, he said, would be classified and sent in to the head office. There other experts would go over them.

At the theatres he talked with the exhibitors about what kind of pictures they liked best, what was lacking in different kinds of pictures, ventilation, and in fact everything. All the time he made notes. Not an exhibitor but could tell all kinds of faults with every make and every kind of picture.

Just before he left Omaha Mr. Judell said: "I've been all over the Middle West. Out here conditions were never better, and they are improving. I find newer, better and larger theatres, and the exhibitors as a class are fine, up-to-the-minute business men, every one a credit to his community. In Omaha particularly I am astonished at the amount of building now under way. Omaha is one of the most progressive cities I have met with, both as to motion pictures and general conditions."

BUTNER FINDS BUSINESS GOOD IN HIS SECTION

J. C. Butner, manager of the Boston office of the Mutual Film Corporation, reports business to be in a flourishing condition. As the old year dies he finds a steadily increasing demand for Mutual features and a growing interest in Mutual affairs since the announcement of the new policy.

Just now there are two of the large film houses on Washington street which are using first run Mutual features. These are the Washington Street theatre and the Old South theatre.

Mutual pictures have also been placed, among several other new exhibitors, in the Opera House at Lawrence, Mass., where they are shown preceding the regular stock and vaudeville programs.

PRIVATE SHOWINGS HELD FOR TORONTO RENTERS

A new custom is rapidly gaining ground in Toronto and that is for the exchange manager to arrange a private showing of his latest releases and invite a number of customers and others to view them, amid the comfort of some theatre not used for a matinee.

Several exchange men are doing this now in Toronto and the idea is finding great favor.

TINKER TAKES CHARGE OF PHOENIX IN MAINE TOWN

The Phoenix Film Corporation is opening a distributing branch at Ellsworth, Maine, under the management of Earle B. Tinker. Mr. Tinker while with the Phoenix formerly did a good business, and though he resigned to accept the management of the United office in Bangor, he soon returned to the Phoenix.

This company buys open market features, and is one of the important factors in the independent feature line in the east. Edward L. McEvoy is Boston manager, and the vice-president is Charles H. Duffy.

The Phoenix is distributing the Bernhardt film "Camille" successfully, and another winner is the Rupert Hughes play, "All for a Girl." This is a Maine story, and affords Manager Tinker a chance to give his patrons a "home" feature.

Mrs. Imogene Pettingill, formerly manager of the Strand theatre, Ellsworth, is now associated with Manager Tinker in the Phoenix Ellsworth, Me., branch.

LENNON PLACES UNIVERSAL SERVICE IN 8 GRIFFIN HOUSES

The Canadian Universal Company's Toronto manager, F. R. Lennon, stated that during the last two months he had placed Universal service in eight of the eleven houses controlled by the Griffin's Amusement Company in Ontario.

The towns covered include Thorold, Woodstock, North Bay, Belleville, Welland, St. Catherines, Hippodrome, Toronto and Owen Sound.

The Griffin Company is one of the pioneer amusement concerns in Canada and also one of the largest.

BYRD IS IN CHARGE OF FOX OFFICE AT DALLAS

William Byrd has been appointed manager of the Fox Film Corporation's branch at Dallas, Texas.

Mr. Byrd took full charge of the office on December 18.

ACTION SCENES IN "ROSE OF THE ALLEY," A METRO DRAMA IN WHICH MARY MILES MINTER IS STARRED

SYRACUSE, N. Y., IS CENTER OF MANY STAFF CHANGES

George Blackman, for more than three years in charge of the Syracuse, N. Y., office of the Mutual Film Corporation, has resigned to accept a position with the Universal in the eastern part of New York state.

Mr. Wolff, formerly manager of the Rex Film Exchange at Albany, has accepted a similar position with the Mutual Film Corporation at Syracuse, N. Y.

Morris Fitzer, of the Greater New York Film Rental Company at Syracuse, has resigned to accept a road job in the Eastern part of New York state with the Fox Film Corporation.

J. R. Jermain has been transferred from the managership of the Toronto Fox Film Office to Syracuse, N. Y., and C. C. Mc Kibbin, whom he succeeds, has accepted the position of manager of the Pittsburgh office of the Triangle Film Corporation.

Nelson Gallon has accepted a position with the Paramount Program, covering New York state. He succeeds Al. Davidson, who died last week.

NO LASKY "CARMEN" SHOWING FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA

Manager Soskin, of the Vancouver office of the Famous Players Film Service, Ltd., stated to the News correspondent last week that the Lasky production of "Carmen" will not be brought into British Columbia, as the recent newspaper agitation against the picture on account of Geraldine Farrar's alleged pro-German tendencies has destroyed its usefulness in that province.

It is worthy of note, however, that the production has been run with great success in Alberta, notably at the Allen Theatre in Calgary, and at the Rose in Regina, Saskatchewan.

VOIGHT PICKED FOR EXCHANGE BOARD MANAGER IN 'FRISCO

The Film Exchange Board of Trade of San Francisco has selected Fred Voight from a large field of aspirants to fill the position of manager, recently made vacant by the resignation of R. E. Stebbins.

Mr. Voight has had considerable experience in film exchange work, having been a special representative of the Mutual Film Corporation at the San Francisco office, and before then was an exhibitor.

Mr. Stebbins has been manager of the Board of Trade since its formation more than a year ago and left the position to engage in film exchange work, having affiliated himself with the Progressive Motion Picture Company.

EHRGOTT CONFERS WITH PRESIDENT BERST

A. L. Ehrgott, manager of the Bangor, Me., branch of the General Film Company, recently returned from New York, where he in common with other representatives of the company were called for a conference with the new president, J. A. Berst.

At this conference the new policy of the General Film was outlined to the men, which Mr. Ehrgott says is one of fewer releases and higher quality.

"Exhibitors with whom I have talked since returning seem to look with favor on our new policy," said Mr. Ehrgott to the representative of Motion Picture News. "They feel that it is a step in the right direction, and like all business men they are looking for the best that they can get for their money.

"There is no doubt that the people are becoming more and more critical, and they demand more from the film producers."

WOOD AND HARRINGTON APPOINTED FOR MUTUAL ON WEST COAST

Jay Harrington, salesman for the Mutual out of Seattle, returned from Spokane last week. Mr. Harrington was in Spokane territory for five weeks.

Orwin Woody has been appointed salesman for the Mutual out of Portland, Ore., succeeding J. Kirkpatrick, who recently resigned to go to Metro.

Carey Wilson, special representative of the Fox Film Corporation, is spending a few days in Seattle, looking over the local film conditions. After a few days there he will go to China and Japan in the interests of the company.

HOFFMAN ON TRIPS IN EAST AND MIDDLE WEST

N. H. Hoffman, general manager of the exchanges for the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, has been making two and three day visits to the important exchanges in the East and Middle West.

NEBRASKA EXHIBITOR PRAISES LASKY "CARMEN"

A. D. Flinton, president of the Kansas City Feature Film Company, Paramount exchange for Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa, is in receipt of a letter from A. Cinberg, of the Magnet theatre, Lincoln, in which, among other things, Mr. Cinberg says:

"I take this opportunity to tell you that of all the Paramount Pictures which we have shown, we have never had one receive so much praise as 'Carmen.' Personally, I think the Lasky Feature Play Company is to be greatly congratulated. 'Carmen' is absolutely perfect."

MUTUAL TO MOVE FROM PORTLAND TO BANGOR IN SPRING

William C. Green, manager for the Mutual in Maine, has decided to wait until spring before changing the Maine headquarters from Portland to Bangor. He has decided to go to Bangor then because of the advantage of the central location of the city.

This will be the fourth distributing concern engaged in the motion picture business in Bangor, the General, Universal and United all having branch offices there.

HARDENBROOK FINDS SOUTHERN CONDITIONS BRIGHT

Ross Hardenbrook, manager of the Mutual exchange in New Orleans, spent more than a week in Alabama and Tennessee. He was not selling pictures, but in his own words "looking the situation over."

He returned this week, and says that everywhere he visited he found conditions brighter and the exhibitors in a happier frame of mind than they have been for some time.

N. Y. FILM RENTAL OPENS CINCINNATI BRANCH

I. J. Schmertz, of New York City, during the past week opened the Cincinnati, O., branch of the Greater New York Film Rental Company.

These offices will occupy the third floor of the Oriel Building, at 412 Vine street. The second and fourth floors are occupied by the offices and shipping departments of the Fox Film Corporation.

Film News From Foreign Parts

Amendment to British Film Tax Lowers Import Duty

Special to Motion Picture News

London, Dec. 15.

THE British House of Commons has agreed to an amendment in the film import duties. Mr. Montagu, who brought the matter forward, moved amending proposals with regard to cinema films, so that the duty calculated on films of a standard width of 1⅜ inches, would be for blank films one third of a penny instead of a halfpenny per linear foot, and on negatives fivepence instead of eightpence, the duty on positives to remain at one penny. He explained that it appeared to be necessary to specify the standard width of film, to prevent evasion by importing films of double width and cutting them afterwards. It was estimated that the financial effect of the proposed alteration would be a reduction in the revenue of the tax by £50,000 to £100,000.

One member suggested that a better method for the calculation of the duty would be to take superficial measurements instead of lineal measurements. The amendment was agreed to, Mr. Lough remarking that the tax was working very badly, and it would be better to drop it altogether.

The first of the films of the troops, taken under the auspices of the War Office is expected about Christmas. The War Office consulted the film manufacturers association, who have undertaken the development of the film, which will be censored by the War Office and the general headquarters, and to distribute it to the trade.

The pictures will be taken by operators from Jury's and Gaumont's. Cinemas are being established for munition workers, and for some time now one of the biggest firms in the country has provided their workers with cinema entertainments.

Know Value of Recreation

It is evidently realized that it is not enough to pay good wages, and that the minds of the workers must be kept bright, and relieved after the strain of long hours in the factories.

The Trans-Atlantic All British comedies are forging ahead, and work has just been completed on a work featuring the famous comedienne, Louie Freear, whose success in "A Chinese Honeymoon" will be remembered by all theatre goers.

Whimsical Walker, the popular Drury Lane clown, who for many years has delighted London audiences, has been engaged for these comedies, and he makes his first screen appearance in "The Nut and the Kernel," which will be released on January 24.

The T. A.'s fourth All British drama is "The Devil's Bondman"—a really creditable production. One scene shows the complete destruction of a large motor car. This film is a worthy successor to "Hard Times," "Royal Love," and "The Woman Who Dared," the initial trio. The T. A. company has just released the first part of its serial "The Broken Coin."

The Juvenile Film Company's subject, "A Chip of the Old Block," depicting the antics of Chaplin's juvenile mimics has been most enthusiastically received and the film has promise of a glorious future. Metro films are being accorded encouraging support and those of Mary Miles Minter, the charming child actress, will soon win their laurels for such films as "Emmy of the Stork's Nest" and "There's a Silver Lining."

Prominent Stage Players in Films

A significant corollorary to the development of the British film industry is the interest which is being taken by eminent actors and actresses, many of whom are now playing in film drama. There was a time well within recollection, when practically the whole of the theatrical profession "cold-shouldered" the cinema, but recently a most active interest is being taken.

Lady Trec makes her first appearance on the screen in the Ideal Company's prize film, "Whoso Is Without Sin," the scenario of which was constructed by Miss M. Sherman, and adjudged to be the best among some hundreds.

Nearly five reels in length, the story, which is capably handled is a striking social drama, strong and human. It is written around the scriptural text "he that is without sin among you, let him be the first to cast a stone at her." To the second of his novels, which has been filmed, "Far from the Madding Crowd," Thomas Hardy has written a resume of the story, embodying the chief incidents in the film.

This is a production of outstanding merit, visualising some gorgeous and spectacular scenes. Florence Turner takes the leading role. Henry Ainley plays in "The Great Adventure," 5,000 foot drama; Sir John Hare in "Caste"; Derwent Hall Caine in "The Christian"; and in January, Sir George Alexander and Irene Vanbrugh will play in the ever popular "The Gay Lord Quex."

Three "Americans" Offered

The filming of a new Charlotte Bronte novel and another Dickens story is in contemplation.

The authorities have prohibited the importation of Danish films, presumably on the ground that Germans are suspected to be associated with, or are financing, some of these film ventures.

The American Company is presenting to the British public three new brands of films—American Distinctive Creations (the first of which are "The Quest," "Infatuation," "Miracle of Life," "Her Heart's Desire," "Clipper" Features ("The Great Question"), and Mustang films (first issues shortly).

There can be no gainsaying that the Famous Players version of Hall Caine's "The Eternal City," is a remarkable film, but this is also true of "The Christian," the novel by the same author, which has been interpreted for the screen by the London Film Company.

Taking over two hours to unreel, and probably to accommodate the theatres which prefer less lengthy films, it is intended, I understand, to issue the subject in two parts for exhibition in separate and successive weeks.

The trade press is most enthusiastic in its praise of "The Christian." The leading roles are taken by Derwent Hall Caine, who by this time will have arrived in America and Miss E. Ritson.

The Vitagraph Company in introducing the "Blue Ribbon" features has taken a very popular step, and if each of its films is of the same distinctive quality as "The Chalice of Courage," then its success is assured.

Spectacular Scenes Admired

The spectacular scenes, particularly the snow and mountain views, have won unqualified admiration, and there is no doubt that more subjects like this will be looked for. "Island of Regeneration" of the same brand is also noteworthy, and quite vindicates the high quality of the "Blue Ribbon." "Mortmain" is the next subject.

Messrs. J. D. Walkers World Films is issuing to the general public at a charge of 3d. per copy the journal known as the Review, published monthly in the interests of Famous Players, Lasky and Walkers films.

On the authority of the Daily Mail it is stated that the Chambers of Commerce are undertaking the showing of the picture "The Battle Cry of Peace," which is dubbed "frankly propagandist" telling the nation to "be prepared."

In one week no fewer than 18 four-part films are announced, to be released in January and February of next year. Most of them are British, but among the American, are Metro and Famous Players.

VIOLET AXELL SIGNED BY IVAN FOR "FOOL'S PARADISE"

The Ivan Film Corporation has engaged Violet Axell to play the part of the baby in its forthcoming production of " A Fool's Paradise."

Little Miss Axell is considered one of the cleverest and most successful of the juvenile screen players.

Cheese Cake

(No. 114 Straight from the shoulder talk by The President of The Universal Film Mfg. Co.)

From Moving Picture Weekly, January 1st, 1916.

There was once a man who loved cheese cake. He ordered it whenever he went into a restaurant and he kept asking his wife to have it at home. Like a perfectly good wife she made it a point to have cheese cake in the house all the time. She finally got in the habit of serving it for every meal. The waiters in the restaurants used to speak of him as "Old Man Cheese Cake" and they always put cheese cake at his place whether he ordered it or not.

He was almost cheese caked to death. He got such an overdose of it that he couldn't stand the sight, sound or smell of cheese cake. One whiff of cheese cake used to give him nauseritis of the parallelopipedon. When he died, they brought a piece of cheese cake into the room and he got up and left his death bed in a high dudgeon, whatever that is.

Try the same stunt with your own favorite dish some time and it will work the same way, whether your favorite is ice cream, pickled whale oil, stuffed waffles, pate de goose livers, corn meal slush or plain potatoes boiled with their etons on. You can get an overdose of ANYTHING, no matter how good it may have seemed to you in the beginning.

That's the situation with regard to features just about now.

The exhibitors thought the public's favorite dish was features. So, instead of giving them one, two or three features a week, they gave them one every day and in some cases two a day. The dear old public liked it at first, but the revolt came just as I predicted it would.

The public stomach finally reached such a condition that it turned a Japanese flip at the very thought of seeing features ALL the time. And when the public flips up in the air, be careful that it doesn't land on top of you when it comes down again.

The natural antidote of too much feature is the UNIVERSAL PROGRAM, and the very fact that the exhibitors are flocking to the program fast and excitedly, simply proves all that I have said and predicted.

I believe that the big houses will always use SOME features. How many a week I can't say, but possibly, one, two or three. The UNIVERSAL will probably make that many itself. The little house, however, has simply got to have a program and it must have the best program it can lay its hands on. This naturally means the UNIVERSAL AND NOTHING ELSE.

I'm already beginning to receive letters from exhibitors complaining that they can't get service from the Universal Exchanges, in certain towns because the opposition has "monopolized the Universal program." They've let their competitors beat them to it, so they call it a "monopoly." It's too bad. I'm sorry for exhibitors caught short of the market in this way, but heaven knows I warned them of what was coming. The rush for the Universal program is on in full blast. Are you going to grab it while the grabbing is good, or are you going to feed cheese cake to a public that is already cheese caked to death?

UNIVERSAL
FILM MFG. CO.

CARL LAEMMLE, President

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 BROADWAY, - NEW YORK

If you are not receiving Moving Picture Weekly regularly,—write the Editor, care of Universal Film Mfg. Co., 1600 Broadway, New York

To be Discontinued

This Brand Name

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURES

This Brand Name

The Name

"Red Feather" photoplays

With this Trade Mark

RED FEATHER PHOTO PLAYS
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Will Be Substituted

This will give the Exhibitors of the Universal Program an opportunity to advertise the best features on the market (RED FEATHER PHOTOPLAYS) and in a way that will prevent the public from confusing them with the regular Universal Program Features. The standard of the "Red Feather Photoplays" will be high. They will be far superior to the average widely advertised 4 or 5 reel feature. "Red Feather Photoplays" will be released at a price that will give the Exhibitor the greatest chance he has ever had to improve his show, popularize his house and add greatly to his profits. Write or wire your Exchange for full particulars and future releases immediately.

UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.

Carl Laemmle, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK

?

WHO'S BACK

Universal Film Manufacturing Co.

Carl Laemmle, President

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 BROADWAY - - - NEW YORK

Looking Ahead With The Producers

WORLD FILM ANNOUNCES PLANS TO PRODUCE BOOK AND STAGE SUCCESSES FOR THE NEW YEAR

THE first month of the new year finds the World Film Corporation and its staff of directors, players and scenic artists engaged upon an important group of feature pictures.

Clara Kimball Young is at work under the direction of Edwin August in a Russian five-part drama dealing with revolutionary plots and counterplots. Many of the exterior scenes were taken during the recent big snow storm.

Particular enthusiasm was aroused among the heads of the organization by the successful staging of a scene depicting the Kishineff massacre in which nearly a thousand people appeared.

Director August and his assistant scoured New York's Ghetto for types to be used in this scene, engaging many Russian refugees who had lived through the actual massacre or other terrible experiences at the hands of the Russian police and Cossacks.

Director Chautard and a company headed by Frances Nelson, June Elvidge and Douglas MacLean are producing the filmed version of Jules Eckert Goodman's "The Point of View." The pictorial adaptation by Emmett Campbell Hall maintains only the thread of the original play.

George Beban's original story of life in pastoral France and in the Parisian studios and salons is rapidly nearing completion under Director Tourneur.

Upon completion of her Russian picture, Miss Young and a carefully selected company of film favorites will go to Havana, Cuba, for the rest of the winter, producing two new feature plays of Spanish character.

Kitty Gordon is progressing rapidly with her first film venture at the Paragon studio under the direction of Frank Crane. This picture, an adaptation of H. C. Phillips' "As in a Looking Glass," affords Miss Gordon the opportunity to wear a marvelous array of gorgeous gowns and to display every phase of her dramatic talent.

Holbrook Blinn, Director Barry O'Neil and the company producing "Life's Whirlpool," an adaptation of Frank Norris' great American novel "McTeague" have returned from the South with every foot of the picture completed.

It is being cut and assembled for immediate release.

Director Oscar Eagle and his star, Robert Warwick, have nearly completed the final interior scenes of the five-part filmed version of Henry Russell Miller's successful novel, "The Ambition of Mark Truitt."

The title for this picture has been a much discussed matter in the World Film offices, but a final decision has been reached on "The Quest Eternal."

BLANCHE SWEET, IN "RAGAMUFFIN," WRITTEN AND PRODUCED BY DeMILLE

In a role that is entirely different from anything she herctofore has done on the screen, Blanche Sweet will be seen as the star in a new Lasky Feature Play Company's production entitled "The Ragamuffin," released through Paramount Pictures Corporation on January 17. William C. DeMille is the author of the photoplay and its producer as well.

Miss Sweet's peculiar charm and beauty in this production are made more piquant by reason of the character of her role in the early scenes when she appears as a "ragamuffin"—a mite of a girl whom opportunity overlooked and who is a victim of a crushing and demoralizing environment. Then follows the regeneration, dramatically made possible by a series of subtle changes.

"The Ragamuffin" will be Miss Sweet's first photoplay following her re-engagement for a long period by the Jesse L Lasky Feature Play Company.

LONG-HAIRED ACTOR CAST FOR POET ROLE IN A "U"

"The Poet's Progress" is the title of a poet's comedy with a novel plot, written by Walter MacNamara for Matt Moore and Jane Gail.

Miss Gail plays the role of a smiling slavey and Matt is the poet.

Mr. Moore is cast in Director Paton's Submarine picture, and for that part has to have long wavy hair. This long hair so impressed Mr. MacNamara that he wrote a poet photoplay for him, which is now being produced at Universal City Junior, Leonia.

"CRASH," FROM GOODMAN PEN, FOR RELEASE ON V-L-S-E

"The Crash," from the pen of Daniel Carson Goodman, will be a multiple reel offering from the Lubin studios on the V-L-S-E program early this month.

Richard Buhler and Rosetta Brice, who had the leading parts in "A Man's Making," will appear in the featured roles. The suporting cast includes Francis Joyner. The story concerns the struggle of a man against great odds. Jack Pratt is directing the subject.

GLIMPSES OF THREE WORLD FILM OFFERINGS: "THE RACK," "THE POINT OF VIEW," AND "THE IRON SCOURGE"

ALICE BRADY, FRANCES NELSON AND CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG ARE STARRED IN THESE FORTHCOMING PHOTOPLAYS

LOOKING AT STRIKING MOMENTS IN COMING FOX SCREEN DRAMAS: (ABOVE LEFT TO RIGHT) COOPER CLIFFE AND DOROTHY GREEN, IN "A PARISIAN ROMANCE." WILLIAM E. SHAY AND CLAIRE WHITNEY IN "THE RULING PASSION"

THREE FOX FAVORITES, ROBERT B. MANTELL, GENEVIEVE HAMPER AND STUART HOLMES AS THEY APPEAR IN "GREEN EYED MONSTER"; (BELOW) RUTH BLAIR IN A SCENE FROM "THE FOURTH ESTATE"

"ROSE OF THE ALLEY," METRO, PAINTS UNDERWORLD LIFE

"Rose of the Alley," a five part feature production in which little Mary Miles Minter is starred and Thomas J. Carrigan is featured, has just been finished at the Columbia Pictures Corporation studio, and will be released on the Metro program January 17.

"Rose of the Alley" is an original story of New York City's underworld. There is but one lapse of time in the entire production. It was written by Harry O. Hoyt, who recently joined the Metro forces.

All the exterior scenes, as well as some of the interiors, were made in New York City, giving a vivid picture of a phase of life in the metropolis which has figured prominently in the newspapers during the last few years.

One of the characters in the future is "Kid" Hogan, a former prize fighter, who plays the role himself.

One of the big and interesting scenes in "Rose of the Alley" is a gang fight in a dance hall. This picture was made in a famous dance hall, and a thrilling exterior scene shows a number of the gangmen leaping from the second story to the pavement.

Another shows a leap of a man from the fourth story of an apartment house. More than three hundred people are in one scene.

ROBINSON AND GADEN IN "AS A WOMAN SOWS"

No sooner had the announcement been made of the Mutual's new policy in regard to Mutual Masterpictures, edition de luxe, than Gaumont started two of its new stars to work upon one of these features at its winter studios at Jacksonville, Fla.

Gertrude Robinson and Alexander Gaden are now well into "As a Woman Sows." This feature was written by O. A. Nelson. It was he who wrote "The Devil's Darling," one of Gaumont's most popular productions.

"As a Woman Sows" will be released as a Mutual Masterpicture, edition de luxe, about the third week in January. With Miss Robinson and Mr. Gaden in this picture are Yvonne Chappelle, Mathilde Baring, Helen Marten, Charles W. Travis and John Reinhard.

"DEVIL-IN-CHIEF," SELIG, HAS HERO WHO IS NO ANGEL

"The Devil-in-Chief," featuring Tyrone Power, supported by Eugenie Besserer, Edith Johnson and Wheeler Oakman will be released through General Film Service by the Selig Company on January 10.

The story deals with a man who, once betrayed by a woman, vows vengeance on the entire sex. How he gains this vengeance and finally comes to the realization of the hideousness of his triumphs through the innocence of a young girl, combines to present a powerful story.

"MAN AND HIS SOUL" HELD BACK BY NOBLE ILLNESS

John W. Noble, who is directing the Metro feature production, "Man and His Soul," in which Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are starred, was obliged to stop work on the production for several days because of illness.

He was confined to his home with a severe attack of grip.

IVAN'S "FORBIDDEN FRUIT" SHOWN IN WURLITZER HALL

Wurlitzer Hall, which was erected by that well known musical organization for private performances, exhibited "Forbidden Fruit," the new Ivan photo play, for the first time to the field at large.

The performance took place at the Hall, 120 West Forty-first street, on Friday, December 24, at 10:30 A. M.

THEDA BARA GETS FIRST TASTE OF OUTSIDE WINTER WORK IN "SERPENT"

THEDA BARA, the Vampire woman of the screen, received her first taste of outside winter work during the few days the recent snow lasted.

Miss Bara, dressed as a Russian peasant, together with Director R. A. Walsh, who is producing the picture for William Fox, James Marcus, George Walsh, Carl Harbaugh, Nan Carter and other members of a large cast, worked in a scene set in the woods representing a winter scene in Russia.

The picture is "The Serpent," in which Miss Bara will be seen in a character entirely different from any she has heretofore essayed.

Director John G. Adolfi is on the home stretch in his directing of a William Fox feature in which Vivian Martin is starred. The picture is one of deep human interest dealing directly with the lives of the less favored many and is a direct departure from the recognized Fox feature, being a comedy drama bordering on the tragic.

Claire Whitney and William E. Shay have just completed their work in "The Ruling Passion," produced for William Fox by James McKay under the supervision of Herbert Brenon in Kingston, Jamaica. It is a picture of oriental mystery and mysticism in which hypnotism plays an important part.

Niles Welch, Isabel O'Madigan and Laura Lyman are supporting Vivian Martin working under the direction of John G. Adolfi at the Fox-Kalem studios in New Jersey.

Violet Horner and Walter Miller are working in "Terese Raquin," being produced for William Fox under the direction of Keenan Buel. Mr. Buel is one of Herbert Brenon's corps of directors at Kingston, Jamaica.

The picture version is a visualization of the famous French novel of the same name and, like the printed story, is essentially French in theme and treatment.

FROM THE AMERICAN STUDIOS FOR PRESENTATION TO DEVOTEES OF MUTUAL SCREEN OFFERINGS

SCENES FROM "THE HILLS OF GLORY," "MATCHING DREAMS," "TIME AND TIDE," AND "THE MENDER"

JANE GREY, LILLIAN GISH AND ORRIN JOHNSON WILL BE STARRED IN THREE TRIANGLES

THREE novelties, soon to be produced by Triangle, show the versatility of the scenario writers and the resources of the two big studios of Fine Arts and Kay-Bee. They are "Waifs," starring Jane Grey; "Daphne," starring Lillian Gish, and "The Price of Power," starring Orrin Johnson.

Miss Grey will be suported in "Waifs," a Triangle-Kay-Bee play, by William Desmond, J. Frank Burke, Truly Shattuck and others of Thomas H. Ince's most sterling players. It is an extremely powerful story of how a disgraced theologue finds himself in the slums and is redeemed from the depths by the influence of a dance hall girl.

The role of the dance hall piano player is taken by Miss Grey and is said to afford her even greater opportunities than she had in "Let Katy Do It," in which she appeared for the Fine Arts-Triangle. Mr. Desmond has the leading male role.

"Daphne," a new Fine Arts production starring Lillian Gish with Elliott Dexter in her support, is said to be a romantic drama with a "punch." So formless and tame are most cloak and sword dramas that such a novelty promises a revelation.

The play begins with the persecution of "Daphne" a gamekeeper's daughter, by Philip de Mornay, the scion of a duke. Follow the kidnapping of the girl, her imprisonment in the demi-monde quarter of Paris, her sale as one of the colonists' brides then trafficked out to Louisiana, and adventures with pirates on the Atlantic.

Through a complexity of circumstances Philip de Mornay is taken aboard the bride's ship, a captive from a pirate vessel they have captured. Girl and man proceed to Louisiana, she is sold to a colonist, and is about to be wedded to the creole when De Mornay appears. He has ceased to persecute her and she has learned to love him. So the nuptials are happily changed to the marriage of De Mornay and Daphne.

D. W. Griffith thought so highly of this scenario by Granville Warwick that he has associated with Miss Gish and Mr. Dexter some of the very best Fine Arts stock players. Among them are Walter Long who was Gus in "The Birth of a Nation" and Santa Anna in "Martyrs of the Alamo"; Howard Gaye, who played General Lee in "The Birth of a Nation"; Lucille Young, Richard Cummings and Jack Crosgrove. W. C. Cabanne is directing "Daphne."

Third in the Triangle offering is "The Price of Power," an industrial story of extraordinary force in which Orrin Johnson will be seen as a workman who fights his way up to the status of a cotton mill owner only to lose his sanity and under a changed personality become a striker against his own regime.

"The Price of Power" is descriptive of the terrible price John Belmont pays for having ground down his fellows in his rise to wealth. Associated with Mr. Johnson in the cast are Sam DeGrasse, Spottiswoode Aitken, Gladys Brockwell, Vera Lewis, Marguerite Marsh, F. J. McDonald, Clyde Hopkins and Daisy Robinson. Verisimilitude is lent to some of the big scenes by their staging in an actual cotton mill near Los Angeles.

VITAGRAPH PLAYERS OVERCOME BY "PROP" GAS

Lack of foresight on the part of a director recently came near causing the deaths of several players at the Vitagraph studios in Brooklyn, N. Y.

The scene under production was one in a series directed by William P. S. Earle. The villain is supposed to stupefy his victims in the adjoining room by the use of poisonous gas sent through holes in the wall.

Bottles and retorts filled with nitric acid and brass filings were sending noxious fumes through rubber tubes into an adjoining set, a fact which Earle and his assistant, George Plympton, failed to note.

Escaping fumes caused directors and cameraman to start coughing and then it occurred to Earle to warn others to keep away from the vicinity. Walking around the set, he found Van Dyke Brooke and Leah Baird sitting in chairs, unconscious.

They were carried into the open air and revived. All the players in the studio developed coughs from the fumes.

REA MARTIN SIGNS WITH MIRROR FILMS, INC.

Rea Martin, until recently starring under Oliver Morosco at the head of the southern "Peg o'My Heart" company, has been engaged to play ingenue parts for the Mirror Films, Inc.

Miss Martin will begin work with the Mirror company about the first of the year. She will appear before the camera under the direction of Captain Harry Lambart.

Miss Martin's screen experience has been varied for one so young. She has appeared in Biograph pictures, in Universal successes and for the Kalem company. Her most recent work was done in a picturization of the late Clyde Fitch's play, "The City."

In this she took the part created on the stage by Mary Nash. Miss Martin has a big following throughout the country.

TRAVERS VALE, LOUIS VALE AND FRANKLIN RITCHIE WITH "U"

Among the latest and best known of the photoplay folk to join the forces of the Universal Film Company at its Pacific Coast studios are Travers Vale, Louise Vale and Franklin Ritchie, director, leading woman and leading man, respectively.

Vale goes to the company with unusually fresh laurels. For two years he has been considered one of the most capable of the Biograph Company's staff of producers. Prior to his joining that company he was allied with the Universal, Mutual, and other companies.

This latest Universal producing company will stage two reel subjects for release on the regular program. The first of its production is to be a two-reel picture by Harvey Gates entitled, "The Chasm."

CASINO COMEDY FOR JANUARY 9 CHANGES NAME

The Casino Star Comedy for release on the Mutual Program January 9 has been changed from "The Girls' Color Scheme" to "Alias Mr. Jones."

This new play, which is from the pen of S. A. Van Petten, will feature "Budd" Ross, who has just become a Gaumont star.

JOE BRANDT IS MADE GENERAL MANAGER OF THE UNIVERSAL

Joe Brandt, manager of the home office of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, has just been made general manager of the Universal, in recognition of the excellent manner in which he has conducted the affairs of the firm since he was placed at the helm less than a year ago.

This appointment comes as a reward for the faithful manner in which he has managed and executed all the difficult and intricate business problems which daily come before the man who has charge of a concern the size of the Universal.

JOE BRANDT

Mr. Brandt started in three years ago in the publicity department, advancing step by step, until he is today one of the most important men in the entire film industry. He is a member of the New York bar, but prefers the motion picture business to the practice of law, and his success in his chosen line proves that he has made a wise choice.

Since the announcement of his appointment to the general managership of the Universal, Mr. Brandt has been receiving the hearty congratulations of his many friends in and out of the business.

STATESMAN SEES NO PEACE FOR HIM IN "OLIVE BRANCH"

Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Boston, Dec. 23.

The first citizen of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts will not appear on the motion picture screen. Governor David I. Walsh has turned down the World Film Corporation's offer to make him a motion picture star at a salary of $15,000 a week, with ten per cent. of the profits and ten per cent. more to be given to any charity he cared to name.

The World officials wanted the governor to play the lead in "The Olive Branch."

William Fox "De Luxe" Department Ready in 1916

Company Plans the Expenditure of Several Millions on Productions Made Under This Brand Within the Year—Annette Kellermann Subject Probably Released in April

IN its American or home market the most noteworthy feat which William Fox expects to perform during 1916 is the inauguration of the De Luxe department of his company. The productions to be made and being made under this newly organized department will cost several million dollars during the next year, it is announced, and for the first time in the history of the trade a single production is being made at a cost of $1,000,000, according to a statement from the Fox company.

This production, featuring Annette Kellermann and more than two hundred additional principal shows, it is said, not less than 25,000 active participating actors. It is being produced on the island of Jamaica, British West Indies, and in the making Mr. Fox has turned the complete direction and preparation over to Herbert Brenon.

This feature will be ready for the market in the spring, probably in April or May. The organization that had to be especially built and transported to Jamaica for the production of this picture has been fully described in recent issues of trade papers.

The first Fox De Luxe picture to be released outside of the schedule release is an eight reel picturization of Hall Caine's famous novel, "The Bondman." This initial De Luxe production features William Farnum, and in his support are seen Dorothy Bernard, Doris Wooldridge, Harry Spingler, and a company of people reported to number 2,000.

It will be ready for the market around the middle of January. In a number of cities it is likely to be shown in specially leased theatres backed with a symphony orchestra and handled by an executive staff.

Scarcely more than a year ago, William Fox was producing one five-reel feature film every two or three weeks, making use regularly of a single studio with occasional use of another rented property.

In contrast, today he is operating regularly five studios, and in addition has two other studios under lease for immediate occupancy.

His present five are located in Fort Lee, Cliffside and Jersey City, New Jersey, the fourth is the former Selig Edendale studio in Los Angeles, one of the largest plants in America.

This has been taken under lease with the option of purchase. The fifth studio is located in Jamaica and is said to be unparalleled anywhere in the world, both as to size, equipment and the number of people working in conjunction therewith.

Mr. Fox has just purchased sixteen acres of land on Long Island between Bayside and Flushing, on which will be erected the main manufacturing plant of his corporation. Work on this plant will be started not later than February, 1916.

Scenes of "My Lady Incog" Taken South Finished

Hazel Dawn Returns from St. Augustine, Fla., Where She Spent Two Weeks in Famous Players Company Under Direction of Sidney Olcott

HAZEL DAWN has just returned from St. Augustine, Fla., where she spent two weeks at the head of a Famous Players company under the direction of Sidney Olcott, where the principal scenes in her next production, "My Lady Incog," were taken. The play, is an original script written expressly for the star.

During the course of this swiftly moving story, the fair-haired star, under the name of Nell Carroll, becomes a detective who poses as the Baroness De Veaux, in order to catch some thieves.

The light-fingered gentry are operating on the inside of a big country place to which the supposed baroness goes as a guest. One of the thieves, becoming suspicious of the authenticity of the "baroness," decides to pose as her husband, the Baron de Veaux.

Totally dismayed by the announcement of the arrival of the baron, and not knowing whether or not the man is simply an imposter like herself, the detective decides to face him, acknowledge him as her husband, and rely upon chance to give her a clue.

There follows a remarkable battle of wits in which each of the contestants is fully conscious of the fact that he or she is masquerading.

Meanwhile, every clue that Nell Carroll can pick up points directly at young Teddy Van Wyck, the son of her hostess, as the thief. But the worst of it is that Nell has become very fond of Teddy and that he has fallen in love with her.

Nell nerves herself up to the point of sending for the police, but when they arrive, she flunks at the prospect of giving Teddy up to them, and lies to save him. That night, armed with a revolver, she trails Teddy down to the safe, prepared to catch him red-handed herself. But when Teddy flashes on the light, there are two other figures bending over the sofa—Rene Lidal, the "baron," and Hodge, the butler.

Teddy holds the thieves at bay until they suddenly leap upon him. As he goes down under the rain of blows, Nell, now thoroughly convinced of the innocence of the boy, shoots Lidal and brings the butler up short at the point of her revolver.

She holds them until the family arrives, together with the police—then she disappears with the police without disclosing her real identity.

Returning to her home, she proceeds to pay off the mortgage on her home with the reward which she received.

It so happens that the Van Wyck's were the people who hold this mortgage, and whose threats to force a sale has been the reason for her seeking employment. Not having been informed of the cancellation of the obligation, the Van Wyck's journey south to take possession of the Carroll home.

Here Teddy and Nell meet on very different terms.

New Laws And Court Decisions

This department is designed to keep the industry informed of all news concerning new or projected laws, Federal, State, County or Municipal, that may affect the business, and all events involving any branch of the trade with the authorities in all sections of the country

Ohio Censors Order Cuts in Over 20 Pictures

IF a screen heroine decides to leave this earth by the suicide route, she cannot jump off a dock any more when being shown at any Ohio showhouse, as the censors have decided that such scenes cannot be shown. The woe-stricken leading lady may wade into the water where it is shallow and keep on going until nothing remains but bubbles on the surface.

However, the present method is to fade out the picture just before the water reaches the shoulders. Then comes a final flash that says: "The End." Mary Pickford did this in an effective manner in "Madam Butterfly." Dorothy Green did the same in "Her Mother's Secret."

"The Cheat," starring Fanny Ward in the new Lasky play, which was shown recently at the Knickerbocker theater, Cleveland, was ordered cut by the Ohio censors, which said: "Cut out fight between man and woman to three feet; cut out scene where woman is branded with iron; cut scene of wounded man to five feet, and cut mob scene in court to five feet."

"Experience," which, when shown on the speaking stage, contained a scene in a gambling room, with a crowd gathered around the roulette table, cannot be exhibited on the screen until this interesting scene is eliminated.

All gambling scenes and a view of a roulette table were ordered cut out of "Father and the Boys" by the censors.

The censors hopped upon "He Was Only a Bathing Suit Salesman" and put him into the forbidden class—no reason given for tossing him into the discard. Other orders are:

"The Yellow Streak"—Eliminate the hold-up of the stage coach, murder and a scene "where man kisses girl while pointing two pistols at her." This film was shown at the Alhambra.

"Film Tempo"—This comedy film contains a sub-title to which the censors objected: "Chickens in this burg will have to roost high with that lady killer in town."

Gambling scenes are ordered cut out of "Idols of Clay."

"The Unfaithful Wife" must stand these cuts: Closeup view of man regaining consciousness in coffin after being buried alive, duelling scene where pistols are fired and where man is shot

"American Gentleman"—Cut out scene where man is bound and where gypsy sets fire to house.

"Stool Pigeon"—Take out scene where man is choked.

"Juror No. 7"—Eliminate bribery scenes.

"Lizzie's Shattered Dreams"—Cut out scene where girl strikes man over head with a mallet.

"Black Hole of Glenranald"—Cut out scenes where trap is sprung and men thrown into cellar; scene where brigands rob safe; scenes where brigands tie man to fence and threaten him, and scenes where brigands shoot citizens and militia.

"Her Mother's Secret"—Take out subtitle, "If he really loved you he would divorce his wife and marry you."

"His Majesty the King"—Cut out scene where firing squad shoots at man.

"Innocent Traitor"—Cut out kidnaping.

"There's Good in the Worst of Us"—Cut out all gambling scenes and scenes where women at dance hall drink at bar.

"The Greater Will"—Cut out scenes of girl smoking cigarettes.

"Bondwomen"—Eliminate all scenes showing the sale of cocaine.

"Thou Shalt Not Kill"—Cut out scenes of whiskey still.

"Bride of the Nancy Lee"—Cut out entire scene where man chokes another until he thinks him dead and then throws him into the water.

"Col. Steele, Master Gambler"—Cut out gambling.

"Man's Making"—Take out scene where man is thrown from yard-arm of ship.

"The Destroying Angel"—Many cuts include those of girl smoking.

"Village Scandal"—Cut out scene where man puts soup into plate at table with large syringe.

LA CROSSE, WIS., MANAGER WINS FIGHT IN SUNDAY OPENING CONTEST WITH CLERGYMAN

F. J. McWILLIAMS, manager of the new Strand theatre, La Crosse, Wis., recently won a legal fight to keep his theatre open on Sundays.

The issue was forced by the Rev. J. E. Watson, who secured a warrant against McWilliams, charging him with violation of the state law by running his house on Sunday, November 28. McWilliams, brought into court on the warrant, entered a plea of not guilty, and throngh his attorney, Albert H. Schubert, demanded trial by jury. The jury, on December 17, returned a verdict of not guilty.

A crowd that jammed the county court room to the doors heard the trial. Half a dozen clergymen were in the audience.

The defense introduced testimony to show that McWilliams had been turning over a portion of his Sunday receipts at the Strand to charity in La Crosse. In a similar case at Madison, Wis., the judge ruled that the operation of a picture theatre on Sunday was not a violation of the law if good pictures were displayed and especially when a part of the proceeds were given to charity.

The Rev. Mr. Watson disclaims any intention to start a municipal campaign for the closing of all theatres on the Sabbath. Asked before the trial if he would proceed against any other downtown theatres, he said:

"No, I do not know that they are violating the law. I have seen crowds coming out of them on Sunday and I know that they have advertised shows to take place but I do not know that a show was held; it might have been a church service. In this case against Mr. McWilliams I gave him warning before he invested his money. He had plenty of time to deliberate on the matter. He has gone ahead and I feel that I must proceed against him. It is this case only which concerns me."

Mr. Watson went to the old Wisconsin blue laws for the basis of his action. The case attracted widespread public interest in La Crosse.

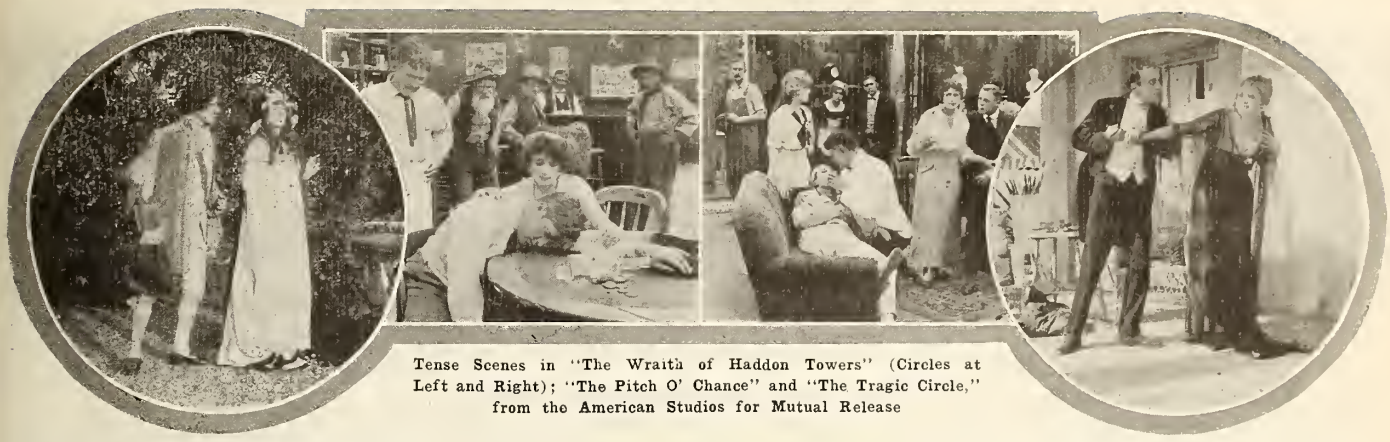
LENIENCY TOWARD SUNDAY OPENING IN QUAKER CITY EXPECTED

With the coming of a new administration, the Philadelphia city government on January 1, a more lenient attitnde toward Sunday opening for picture houses is expected.

Already plans are on foot to further this project, and those who claim to know confidently predict that within the year Philadelphia will see all picture theatres running on Snnday.

Several of the daily papers are in sympathy with the movement. Eli M. Orowitz, editor of Amusement, a new semi-monthly publication, suggested the idea of an amusement association, composed of theatrical and picture managers to agitate this subject.

Such an organization is expected to materialize in the immediate future.



Tense Scenes in "The Wraith of Haddon Towers" (Circles at Left and Right); "The Pitch O' Chance" and "The Tragic Circle," from the American Studios for Mutual Release

VITAGRAPH COMPANY SIGNS WITH FUNMAKER DANIELS

Frank Daniels, for years one of the foremost comic opera comedians on the American stage, has signed a contract to appear exclusively in motion pictures for the Vitagraph Company of America.

Arrangements have been completed to make the best use of Mr. Daniels' versatile talents as a funmaker, and to present him before the motion picture public in vehicles that are expected to win for him in motion pictures the reputation he now enjoys in comic opera.

Mr. Daniels' comedy work for the Vitagraph Company in the two Blue Ribbon Features, "Crooky," and "What Happened to Father," has made a distinct appeal to the public.

A series of shorter scenarios for the comedian have been selected by the Vitagraph Company, for the purpose of letting the public see Daniels more often and in a greater variety of humorous situations.

He will be under the direction of C. Jay Williams, one of the foremost comedy directors of the Vitagraph, who directed Daniels' two other films.

NORTH AMERICAN GETS 8,000 IDEAS FOR "DIAMOND" SOLUTION

It is roughly estimated that 8,000 suggestions for a sequel to "The Diamond from the Sky" already have been received at the main office of the North American Film Corporation in New York.

Letters are coming in by scores in every mail from contestants who announce that they are now working on their suggestions.

It is reiterated that only an idea is wanted, 1,000 words or less. Points to be considered are: What becomes of the diamond? What becomes of the child? What is the fate of Blair Stanley? What happens to Vivian Marsten?

MACKENZIE DIRECTS PATHE SUBJECT IN SCOTCH COSTUME

Donald Mackenzie, who is producing Fred Jackson's "Precious Packet" for Pathé, recently directed a scene while dressed in Scotch kilts and standing barelegged in the snow.

"Mae" took his company to Maine, and while filming some logging scenes as required by the scenario, fell into the icy water three successive times, putting every suit of conventional clothing which he had with him completely out of business.

Mac's mascot is a complete Highland outfit, sporran, kilts, befeatherd hat and all, and this he carries with him everywhere.

Shivering in his wet clothes he took to the kilts as a last resort. Probably never before has a Maine logging crew seen the bonnie costume of Scotland save in an artist's illustration.

MISS YOUNG WINS POPULARITY CONTEST

Clara Kimball Young, the World Film star, was the winner in a recent popularity contest conducted by a New York newspaper. She received 1,001,538 votes, while her opponents polled a total of 957,670.

A new eight cylinder car was the prize. Miss Young's nearest competitors were: Mary Pickford, 10,767; Hazel Dawn, 29,053; Pauline Frederick, 1,845; Anita Stewart, 13,493; Marguerite Clark, 1,871.

DE CIPPICO, GLORIA REPRESENTATIVE, RETURNS TO ITALY

G. de Cippico, World's representative for the Gloria Film Company, Turin, in this country for a short visit, has returned to Italy on the New York. Mr. de Cippico expects to return to the United States in February.

A GLIMPSE OF PRETTY VIVIAN MARTIN AS SHE APPEARS IN THE WORLD FILM PRODUCTION, "OVERNIGHT"

SELIG MAKES RESUME OF RED SEAL PLAY REPORTS

The Selig Polyscope Company has issued the following interesting resume of the records achieved by Selig Red Seal Plays, released through V-L-S-E during the past year:

"Selig Red Seal Plays released through V-L-S-E during 1915 are as follows: 'The Carpet from Bagdad,' 'The Millionaire Baby,' 'The Rosary,' 'A Texas Steer,' 'The House of a Thousand Candles,' 'The Circular Staircase,' 'A Black Sheep,' 'Sweet Alyssum,' 'I'm Glad My Boy Grew Up to Be a Soldier.'

"'The Rosary' probably achieved the greatest success of any photoplay released during 1915. Of reports received from five hundred exhibitors in the Selig offices not one reported losing business. 'The Rosary' is gaining in strength with every day and may yet near the incomparable record of 'The Spoilers.'

"All the other Selig Red Seal Plays released through V-L-S-E have enjoyed success, particularly 'The Carpet from Bagdad, 'The House of a Thousand Candles,' 'The Millionaire Baby,' 'Sweet Alyssum,' and 'A Black Sheep,' 'I'm Glad My Boy Grew Up to Be a Soldier' is proving unusually popular."

The Selig company states it is highly gratified because of the reception of Red Seal plays released during 1915 through V-L-S-E, and states there will be a consistent improvement in Selig productions in 1916.

BETTY SCOTT BACK AT ESSANAY STUDIO

Betty Scott, who played the part of Linda, the niece of Cornelia Alster, in Essanay's five-act feature, "The Alster Case," just returned to the studio after a severe illness.

Miss Scott was taken suddenly ill one day while at work, and it was necessary to take her home. She was confined to her bed for over two weeks and was threatened with pneumonia.

BESSIE LEARN IN FIVE REELER FOR MIRROR COMPANY

Bessie Learn, after a long association with the Edison Company as a star, has left that organization and joined the Mirror Films.

She will appear in five reel features after the first of the year.

In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. C. Jessen

Special to Motion Picture News

Los Angeles, Dec. 23.

ONE of the important changes of the week at Universal City is that with regard to the special feature company in which Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven are playing.

This producing organizations in the future will be in charge of Otis Turner, who for the past several months has been directing Kerrigan pictures.

By the end of the week the De Haven company will have completed "The Wrong Door," a five reel subject which has been made under the direction of Mr. DeHaven.

The Kerrigan company will in the future be under the direction of Harry Carter, and for a time his work will, to a more or less extent, be supervised by Mr. Turner.

Mr. Carter has been with the Universal for more than two years as leading man, and this follows a successful stage career.

A mining camp romance is embodied in the Universal subject, "The Wise Man and the Fool," made by the Lynn Reynolds company and featuring Myrtle Gonzalez.

The title is from a parable contained in a book given a young engineer by the girl the mine owner hopes to be his daughter-in-law. Supporting in this are Fred Church as the engineer, Val Paul as the mine owner's son, and Alfred Allen as the owner.

BUSINESS MANAGER GEORGE STOUT AND PUBLICITY MANAGER FREDERICK PALMER BIDDING ROSCOE ARBUCKLE AND MABEL NORMAND GOOD-BYE AS THEY LEAVE ON EASTERN TRIP

Arthur's Last Bachelor Days

"Arthur's Last Fling," is the title of a comedy with a moral portraying the last night of single blessedness of a debonair youth. This was written and produced by Rupert Julian, supported by Richard Sterling.

The Jaccard company last week made an unusual scene for "A Romance of the Horse Country," in which a great herd of western horses, heretofore never introduced to leather were stapeded. The scene was needed for the story, in that the heroine in this manner serves to prevent her lover from leaving the section to accept employment elsewhere. Hoot Gibson plays the lead in this opposite Olive Golden.

Cleo Madison apears in "Defiance," in the part of a country girl, who after being induced to marry a wealthy man to save the family property is disgusted with the life, and leaves to find the man who wooed her.

This is brought about in a purely accidental manner following many trials she encounters. Supporting in this are Ted Duncan, Edward Hearne, Willis Marks, and Adele Farrington.

VIVIAN REID AND EDITH JOHNSON (Selig)

The "Graft" company is now working on the seventh episode entitled "America Saved from War," from a scenario by Walter Woods. Hobart Henley, now greatly improved from a recent accident, plays the leading part in this subject, that of an attorney.

In this he uncovers a plot to wreck a foreign ship in an American harbor which would cause the United States to be drawn into the conflict with Europe.

A jitney serves to bring about the acquaintance of two young people, and thereby create the beginning of a romance for the Nestor comedy, "What a Nickel Did." In this instance the coin that should be the state seal of California, serves to aid a girl in distress on the street car.

Ray Gallagher is the "philanthropist," Betty Compson the recipient, and Stella Adams and Harry Rattenbury are the others in the cast. Scenario for the production is by Al. E. Christie, and the subject was produced by Horace Davey.

Kid Comedy from Nestor

Another Nestor comedy is entitled "The Tale of Two Kids," wherein two children, a black and a white one, trade dollies and

NELL SHIPMAN IN "GOD'S COUNTRY AND THE WOMAN" (Vitagraph Western)

babies. After much hysteria on the part of the two respective mothers, the tangle is straightened. Al. E. Christie is the cause of this mix-up.

If you can imagine a youth of the propensities of the bean stalk that grew for Jack, serving in the capacity of piano mover, you will appreciate just how well Victor Potel has been cast in "Hired, Tired and Fired," where he does the strong man act in this one reel joker, supported by Jean Bernoudy, Ed. and Eliene Sedgwick.

Fearful that he has committed murder when he learns of having struck a waiter at the club, a young man of wealth hides on a ship and is shanghaied.

When he attempts to induce the crew to take him back to land, offering to buy the boat, he is dubbed "chicken-hearted Jim," and this name serves as title for the two-reel subject made by Francis Ford, who plays the name part.

Later Jim whips all of the crew single handed, and breaks up the mutiny on the ship. Incidentally he wins the hand of the captain's daughter. The subject is a comedy and was filmed by Ford while at the home of his parents in Maine recently. Both of Ford's parents take part, and of he twelve characters in the photoplay, all ut one is named Ford—and there are none f the jitney bus variety, either.

Director Henry Otto is engaged in the naking of "The Daughter of Penance" from scenario by Olga Printzlau, adapted from he Charles Saxby story of the same name. This is of the nature of a costume play vith scenes laid in Spain.

The story has a very remarkable punch o it, being of the nature of a mystery drama, bordering on tragedy. The princi- pals are Edna Maison, who appears as the waif, Douglas Girrard, as her artist lover, Phyllis Daniels, O. C. Jackson and Marjory Dake.

Keystone Players en Tour

Sunday, December 26, the special Key- stone company headed by Mabel Normand and Roscoe Arbuckle, departed for a tour of the country, leaving in a special car over the Salt Lake Railway for the East, to arrive in New York on December 31.

Their itinerary, as mapped out for the present, includes several weeks in New York and other Eastern cities, then the tour to the coast will be taken up.

On this they will stop in many of the principal cities, and make exteriors as well as interiors for coming Keystone-Triangle subjects.

Included in the party besides the leading people will be Ferris Hartman as co-direct- or, Al. St. John, Minta Durfee, Joe Bor- deaux, and others.

Joe Murray of the Keystone publicity de- partment, will look after publicity on the way, and the party will be accompanied to New York by Charles Pike, general pas- senger agent of the Salt Lake Railway at Los Angeles.

Several subjects have been completed at the Keystone, and will be shipped within the next week or two. One is the second and last Weber and Fields subject which has not been titled. Practically all of the action takes place in a hair dressing estab- lishment. The first Sam Bernard story, "The Great Pearl Tangle," in which the fashion show of Paris is made a prominent part, is practically ready for shipment.

ctivity at Fox Edendale Studios

"In this the well known comedian is sup- orted by Minta Durfee, Harry McCoy, Harry Gribbon, Mildred Adams and Chuck eisner. The farce deals with attempted nuggling of a very valuable pearl neck- lace which causes no end of complications and domestic disturbances.

The other subject nearing completion is "Fatty and Mabel Adrift," the beach story, wherein the happily married couple buy ocean front footage, and wake up one morning to find they have floated away.

The Edendale studio leased by the Fox Film Corporation of W. N. Selig, is the scene of much activity. General manager W. R. Sheehan and coast manager, Harry Leonhardt, are personally supervising the improvements being made here, preparing the studio for use of additional companies.

A new stage 40 x 60 feet in being built, and the carpenter shops, scene painters docks, and wardrobe department, are all busy getting out quantities of props for future productions.

The first Fox company arrived here on a Sunday afternoon and began making scenes the following day. Since that time the company has been working continuously in the enclosed studio when weather did not permit them to take advantage of exterior locations.

This organization is in charge of Oscar Apfel, who is filming "The Fighting Par- son" with William Farnum in the name part. It is not definitely known which of the other Fox organizations will come to the Coast, but it is intimated that Jack Adolfi will probably be the next to take the Sunset trail.

Mae Bush, leading woman at the Key- stone, and Francis McDonald, heavy for the Signal Film Corporation, were married during the past week after a courtship of five days—say they.

Alfred A. Cohn, who has served as city editor of the Los Angeles Examiner, and written for photoplay publications under the nom-de-plume of K. Owen, has ac- cepted the position as associate editor of the Photoplay Magazine, published at Chi- cago, and takes up the new work January first.

NEW BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF UNIVERSAL CITY, SHOWING FRONT SECTION AND NEW ENCLOSED STUDIO AT RIGHT

Scream Club at Beefsteak Broil

Mr. Cohn in the past two or three years has paid particular attention to the mo- tion picture industry in Los Angeles, get- ting acquainted with many of the princi- pals and the technique of the work, and is a very able writer, qualified in every way for his new position.

The semi-occasional dinner of the Scream Club was given Thursday evening of the past week when the members and their friends, numbering thirty in all, were guests of Ed. Maier, president of the Maier Brewing Company, at a beefsteak broil, given at Mr. Maier's private banquet room at the brewery.

Frederick Palmer, of the Keystone pub- licity department, was chairman of the meeting, and at his suggestion Mr. Maier was voted an honorary Screamer. This was ladies' night, and the other guests were song writers of national fame who are now working in scenario departments at Coast studios.

Following the very delightful dinner the evening was spent in dancing. The guests, besides the members of the Scream Club, were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams, Jean Harvez, and Hampton Del Ruth, of the Keystone scenario department, Vincent Bryon, of the Essanay-Chaplin company; "Happy" Anna Robinson, of vaudeville fame; Carlyle Ellis, special writer of the Triangle Film Corporation; Al. A. Cohn, Photoplay Magazine; Lorraine Otto, and Helen Bunting.

Connie Miles, who has been in charge of the publicity department at the National Film Corporation studio, and for the past three months at the Morosco-Pallas stu- dios, has resigned the latter position to ac- cept the management of Anna Held, who following a tour in vaudeville, will return to Los Angeles to fulfill picture engage- ments.

Mr. Miles is a former Middlewest and Coast newspaper man, and conducted the first motion picture department of a coast newspaper.

The Palo Alto Film Corporation produc- ing organization has completed its first five reel subject, "Wanda of the Red Street," from a scenario by Nell Shipman, which will be released as a Mutual Masterpicture. The company has taken up the filming of the second subject, and to secure a good title, introduced a contest among the stu- dents of Leland Stamford University at Palo Alto.

Several thousand printed synopsis of enry McRae Receiving a Gold Watch from Los Angeles Shriners—Universal Cowboys as Hosts. (Front) F. Trefz, Field Secretary, U. S. Chamber of Commerce; Senator Robert N. Bulla, Arthur Kinney and Frank Wiggin, of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce

the photoplay were distributed among the students, who have until January 31 to submit a title. The scenario for this is also from the pen of Miss Shipman.

Russell Featured in Five Reeler

William F. Russell is to be featured in special five-reel Mutual Masterpictures produced at the American Film Company's studio at Santa Barbara. Director Charles Bartlett has been assigned to the Russell company, and Charlotte Burton selected as leading woman.

The change in atmosphere has caused a hardship for the Rolin Film Company, makers of Phunphilm brand for Pathé, in that practically all of their past week's work has been destroyed by static.

This subject is being remade, and by special effort on the part of Director Hal Roach and members of the producing company, this can be accomplished without delay in the releasing.

In this subject, Beebe Daniels, ingenue, promotes the greatest thrill when she rides a runaway horse bareback with but a halter rope to steer it.

ROSCOE ARBUCKLE AND MABEL NORMAND IN "MABEL AND FATTY ADRIFT" (Keys'one-Triangle)

This is a part of a chase which ends with a long roll into a very soft collection of choice California mud, in which Hal Lloyd as Luke, and Del Lampton, the Rolin Fat boy, try the new treatment.

Members of the Rolin producing company this week learned of the marriage of W. H. Doane, assistant manager, and induced the benedict to royally entertain them.

From the National studio comes the announcement that Paul Gilmore, who has just completed one of the two leading parts in "The Other Girl," produced by the Raver Film Company, has been engaged to appear in the leading part of the five-reel subject "The Havoc," shortly to be produced. Allen Hale will be in charge of the direction. Rube Miller, late of Keystone, and director of Kalem comedies, has been added to the National Comedy Company.

"His White Lie" Directed by Coyle

A drama partly of rural, and partly metropolitan setting with a political ending and a murder mystery throughout, is being made at the Biograph studio under the direction of Walter Coyle. The working title for this is "His White Lie."

Exteriors are being taken at Arcadia, Whittier, and Sierra Madre, California, and represent Eastern as well as Western locations. The leading feminine parts are taken by Clara McDowel and Gretchen Hartman, and are of a highly emotional character. The other parts are taken by Charles Mailes, little Zoe Bech, and Charles Pearley.

Director William J. Bowman believes that he has discovered in Oliver C. Allen, specially engaged for the Horsley Mutual Master Picture "The Bait," a cowboy who will have an unusually successful motion picture career. Allen has had the real Western training, combined with a stage and motion picture experience.

"Jerry in the Movies" is the title of a one-reel Cub comedy just finished by Milton Farney, in which many studio scenes are shown, and the second Cub Comedy company has finished filming "At the Circus," in which subject practically all of the Bostock trained animals take part.

Director Bertram and company of American players spent several days here, making scenes at the Horsley studio, in several of which animals were used. Art Acord was pitted with the boxing kangaroo, Fitzsimmons, for several rounds for a forthcoming subject.

Charles Kaufman, who has been cameraman for the past ten years, serving first with G. M. Anderson, then with the Selig company, and since has been with very successful organizations including the Dorsey Around-the-World Expedition, has been engaged by Thos. H. Ince and is operating the camera.

In several scenes for a forthcoming Ince production a very valuable knife with steel blade and twenty-four carat gold handle given Kaufman by the Maharana of Udoipur, Sate of Meiwer, India, when he visited there on his tour around the world. He made the only motion pictures that have been taken in this province, and but one other photographer has ever made scenes in this district.

"Battle Cry of Peace" Shown

Announcements have been made of several important bookings in Los Angeles. The Vitagraph subject, "The Battle Cry of Peace," was shown at the Trinity Auditorium, beginning Monday, December 20, for a period of three weeks.

Two performances daily, matinee and evening. Matinee top rices will be twenty-five cents, while in the evening fifty cents will be charged. This is the first showing of this subject south of San Francisco.

LLOYD HAMILTON, OF KALEM COMEDY COMPANY, JUST BEFORE HIS RETURN TO THE SCREEN

"The Ne'er-Do-Well," Selig production of twelve reels, began a run of two weeks on December 20 at Clunes Auditorium, and it is expected the booking will be re-engaged for two additional weeks.

Another important change among local theatres is that with regard to Tally's Broadway theatre which has been showing Paramount pictures since the program was placed on the market.

On December 28 the Tally theatre will show the Lubin subject, "The Great Divide," and following this Manager Tally will adhere to the open market policy. The Paramount subjects will be shown at the Superba and Woodley theatres.

Paul Dickey, playwright, author and director, has been added to the directors staff at the Lasky studio, where he will write and direct his own productions. Two of his best known plays are "The Misleading Lady" and "The Ghost Breaker."

Director Al E. Christie Describing a Scene to Ethel Lynn, Billie Rhodes and Betty Compson—Reynolds' Universal Co. on Mount Wilson, Showing, Left to Right, Director Reynolds, Val Paul, Myrtle Gonzales, Cameraman Hill, Alfred Allen and Frank Newburg

SCENES FROM TWO COMING LASKY RELEASES: "PUDDIN' HEAD WILSON" AND "TENNESSEE'S PARTNER"

Rehearsals for "To Have and to Hold," rom the story by Marion Johnston, and tarring Mae Murray, have been taken ip at the Lasky studio, with George Melord in charge of the direction.

Samuel Goldfish, treasurer and general nanager of the Lasky company, is in Los Angeles, outlining a campaign for the purpose of raising money for the Actors' Fund. Mr. Goldfish will return to New York shortly before the new year, and will e accompanied by Mr. Lasky, who will remain in New York for a short visit.

Harte Story Finished

Scenes for the famous Bret Harte story, 'Tennessee's Partner," starring Fannie Ward, have been completed at the Lasky studio. In her next production Miss Ward will be under the direction of Frank Reicher.

Director Cecil B. DeMille of the Lasky company has taken up the production of 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which will feature Charlotte Walker.

A new ventilating system which changes he air every three minutes, is being installed in the new laboratory now being erected at the Lasky studio. A feature of he new laboratory is the big experimental room for the use of the photographers which will contain every known photographic device.

Anita King, the Paramount Girl, will make her next screen appearance in "The Traveling Salesman," which will star Victor Moore.

A large company of Vitagraph players under the direction of William Wolbert, and including Webster Campbell, Mary Anderson, Corinne Griffith, Anne Schaefer, Otto Lederer and Frederick Hiller as the principal players, left this week for Truckee, in Northern California, where they will make snow scenes for a three-reel picture.

Farming was taken up this week at Universal City following the first good rain of the season, and a number of teams are at work plowing the unused ground in which grain will be planted. From the yield it is expected that the expense of maintaining the horses and cattle at Universal City will be greatly decreased.

Norwegian Album for Miss Schaefer

Anne Schaefer, of the Vitagraph company, is in receipt of a Christmas present which has been in transit for more than a month, coming from an admirer in Norway. It consists of a beautiful album containing Norwegian scenes collected by a young woman who expresses the desire that "Lady Anne" will some day visit that fair country.

The Vitagraph studio in the past few days has been the rendezvous for many political job seekers for the reason that a man named William Duncan is a California congressman and the same name as the Vitagraph leading man. This is only one of the misfortunes that has befallen Duncan, the photoplayer, for recently the police were looking for a murderer of the same name, and friends of the screen artist told the officers where "Vitagraph Bill" could be located.

"The Little Apache" is the title of a photoplay by Grant Carpenter soon to be put into production at the Fine Arts studio with a cast headed by Mae Marsh and Robert Harron. Lloyd Carpenter will in all probability be in charge of this production, he being at present engaged in finishing "Hoodoo Ann" with the same leading players.

Another scenario now practically completed and ready for production is that by Frank E. Woods and Bernard McConville, entitled "The Brotherhood of Justice." This vehicle will serve to star Wilfred Lucas in a Fine Arts Triangle subject.

The Fine Arts Company filming "Martha's Vindication" by Ella Woods, and with a cast headed by Norman Talmadge, Tully Marshall, and Seena Owen, under the direction of C. M. and S. A. Franklin, has been spending considerable time at locations in small hamlets in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

"Love Among Thieves" is to be a three-reel photoplay now being made at the Selig Zoo with an unusual cast in which Wheeler Oakman, James Bradbury and Guy Oliver play the principal male parts, and Grace Darmond, Vivian Reed, Emma Glenwood, and Eugene Bresserer, appear in the feminine roles.

The photoplay is an adaptation from the short story of the same name by Grace McGowan Cooke, adapted for the screen by Emma Bell. T. N. Heffron is in charge of directing this story, which deals with the life of an impoverished aristocrat whose daughter is forced to become the social secretary of a wealthy society woman. The photoplay has a number of new punches and a decidedly clever counterplot.

Clifton Adopts Flower Story

Wallace C. Clifton, editor of the Selig Zoo producing organization's scenario department, is preparing an adaptation from the Elliott Flower story, "The Girl With the Lantern," which recently appeared in Pearson's Magazine. This is a railway story, and is classed as a dramatic light comedy. The production will be filmed under the direction of Colin Campbell.

How yellow journalism when brought home to an editor caused him to change the policy of his publication is shown in the photoplay "Her Scoop," being produced by the Rex Universal Company.

Louise Welch appears as the newspaper woman, Marjorie Allison the editor's wife, Hayward Mach the editor and Lon Chaney the other newspaper reporter.

The 101 Bison Universal Company is making "When Night Yields to Dawn," in which the eternal triangle again serves as the centerpiece for a plot laid in America and the jungles of Africa.

Principal parts are taken by T. D. Crittenden, Madame Bourgeois and Edith Hoskins, and Paul Bourgeois is directing this production.

William S. Hart and company of players, which include about fifty of the full blood Indians recently employed by Ince, now in the vicinity of Boulder Creek working on a Canadian Northwestern picture, are experiencing the hardships of winter, as the mercury falls to near the zero point every night. Storms have been numerous and serve to add to the company's hardships.

Ince Orders Three Autos

Orders have been placed for three carryall fully enclosed automobiles with a capacity of thirty each by Thomas H. Ince, which will be used to convey players in make-up from the new Culver City studios to Inceville, a distance of about twelve miles.

Enid Markey, who has played leads in several Triangle Kay-Bee subjects, has been selected as star for a coming Ince picture which will be made by Raymond B. West. In this she will be the heroine of a modern war story written by C. Gardner Sullivan.

A circus wintering at Venice, California, has been leased for several weeks, and is in daily use in the making of scenes for a Kay-Bee Triangle subject being made by Charles Swickard and starring H. B. Warner.

Director Reginald Barker is busy at the NYMP studios making the first few scenes for a subject that will star Master Willie Collier, son of the well known comedian.

JUST TO MAKE TALK

By LONGACRE

It appears that the title of the last Essanay-Chaplin comedy, "A Night at the Show" was a misprint; it should have been "A Knight at the Show," for it has been allowed to squirt out from certain sources of publicity that Charles Chaplin has made such an impression in England that he is to be knighted.

Ya-as. His Majesty, ye know, has had quite a bit of fun out of the bally bounder—in point of fact, ye know, Chaplin has been having the whole English public on a bit, and they are beginning to realize that they have been spoofed, but all in good fun.

So his Majesty has decided to call in the ragamuffin, lay a cane across his back, push a brick in his face, and pronounce him Sir Charles. All this comes from authoritative sources, quite under the rose, you know, and which really couldn't be revealed; but it's all quite true—at least, one of these press persons assures us that it's quite the fact, and is being talked of quite generally about the clubs.

Of course, knighting, and all that sort of thing, are very well, but they would never do with us; yet in England—well they do things a bit differently there, and since we know the press person quite well—in point of fact, personally, as it were, we dare repeat almost his exact language as though—well, as though it were our own language, you know. You understand what we mean? Rather cleverly put, we fancy.

"Jimmy" Cruze has also tried to break into fame as one of those cross-country telephoners. He now holds the record as the only person who has telephoned from San Francisco, to Marguerite Snow, at the Folic Metro studios in New York, to wish her a Merry Christmas, and all that sort of thing. The reason he selected Miss Snow from among the 6,000,000 New Yorkers, is that Miss Snow is his wife, and he is proud of it. And everyone who has heard of the long distance conversation seems inclined to commend "Jimmy" both for his thoughtfulness, and for being proud of his wife.

As proving that a skilled scenario writer gets accustomed to doing his work that he can knock off a five-reel script with his left hand, we cite the case of John Blanch [illegible] editor of Pathé, to whom this department has made previous reference.

Last week Mr. Clymer received a command to write a five-reel comedy. It was one of those rush orders—it had to be done the next morning, and it had to be done. Mr. Clymer promised it would surely be done. He had moved to Bayside L. I. just the previous day, and had not learned to adjust himself to the environments of a commuter's life. Late in the evening he sat down to write the comedy. At the end of the third scene the lights went out.

Investigation showed there was trouble with the feed wires, and no more light was in prospect for some time, so, slipping into one of his wife's kimonos, Mr. Clymer dashed over to the next house, and rang the bell furiously. When a sleepy voice answered him, he asked for a couple of candles.

It happened that his neighbor is a prosperous and popular undertaker, and the daughter of the house brought him two of these long undertakers' candles—you know the kind that are kept flickering alongside the gates-ajar piece, and figure in the bill at two dollars each.

"Heavens!" exclaimed the photoplaywright, "must I write a comedy by the light of undertakers' candles?"

JOHN B. CLYMER

"I do not care," replied the neighbor. "You may write a tragedy or a patent medicine advertisement, but take the candles and let me sleep."

The absurdity of the situation impressed our hero, and is said to have resulted in several unexpected features in the comedy.

The patient pedestrian who stands at Broadway and forty-second street, New York, and gazes slantingly upward toward the north-east, will see on the eleventh floor of the Longacre Building, a window with the word "ME" in large gold letters covering it.

Policemen engaged in breaking up the crowds engaged in watching the phenomenon have supposed that the window was one of the offices of the late Progressive party, and this theory was strengthened by the discovery that the next window to the right bears the letters "TR" in similar type.

But there is a strong anti-climax in the third window, which bears a simple "O." Consequently an investigation has been started by the department, with this result: "ME" is the office of Arthur James; "TR" is the office of Richard A. Rowland; "O" is the office of "Joe" Engel, and when the three gentlemen stand side by side and combine their window signs, as well as their abilities, they have "METRO." As a matter of fact, the windows all belong to the new Metro offices. Clever, eh, wot?

Andres de Segurola, who has picked up considerable money, singing bass around the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, has taken out a license as a scenario writer. Mirror Films, Inc., has purchased one of his first works, which will be known as "The Sin of Napoleon," and will be produced early in the year at the new Mirror studios at Glendale, L. I.

Terry Ramsaye, the genial and popular publicity promoter of the Mutual Film Corporation, officiated this week at the opening of the new Mutual projection room, on the fifteenth floor of the offices at 71 West Twenty-third street, New York.

The first picture shown on the new screen was the American Masterpicture: "The Other Side of the Door."

Not only is there money in pictures for the shrewd and able man, but there is money in "stills" for the popular screen actress. Marcia Moore, ingenue of the DeGrasse Universal company, being duly sworn, deposes and says that upon receiving and opening a letter last week she found a request from an admirer for a photo of herself, with an enclosure of eight one dollar bills to pay for it.

Miss Moore figured that the man must have wanted the picture badly, and so she sent him a selection of three—and returned the eight dollars.

Gaumont is keeping busy pretty much all over the continent. Richard Garrick, managing director of the companies now working at Jacksonville, Fla., has just visited New York, bringing with him the film of the new Mutual Masterpicture, "The Idol of the Stage," soon to be released.

So pressing was business at the southern studios, that Mr. Garrick merely registered an appearance in New York, and turned around and went back to work.

Another addition to the collection of Gaumont stars at Jacksonville is Marguerite Courtot, who joined the forces last week.

Three rumors regarding the future plans of Mary Pickford appeared on Broadway this week. One is that she will remain with Famous Players for another year; another is that she will not remain with Famous Players after the first of the year; the third is that maybe she will remain, etc., after all.

The keen edge was taken off the speculation over these rumors, by the suspense created by Maurice Costello. Now that he has left Vitagraph and neglected to give out a statement of his line of march for the coming year the Screen Club, Friars, and the boys "drug store set out" at Bayside, L. I., are busily mapping out a course for him.

Teddy, formally known as Theodore Solomon, who once extinguished a fire in the Universal offices where he operates, by using his alert brains, is now the proud possessor of a son. Yes, both mother and child are doing well. Teddy is wondering which of the Universal brand names should be thrust on the helpless infant. He strongly favors "Imp."

Art is long—too long, it seems, by about 2,000 feet. This is the amount of film which will be cut from Triangle's "Don Quixote," in which De Wolf Hopper makes his screen bow, before it is released to exhibitors; thus it will go out as a five-reel feature. The picture is art of a real type; it has captured and held on the screen the atmosphere of Cervantes' story and of the mediaeval time which it represents in remarkable degree, and the work of De Wolf Hopper and Fay Tincher is unusual.

The presses having been held for three hours, the scribe, by scouring the various lanes, byways and alleys of the city, has obtained signatures to the following set of New Year's resolutions:

Adolph Zukor—To present Pauline Frederick in a play which shows a woman as she could be, instead of how she sometimes is.

Arthur James—To get the word Metro into the papers somewhere, somehow, sometime.

Louis J. Gasnier—To produce serials and series pictures as part of the regular program.

Max Karger—To use up the prismatic spectrum in a search for titles for new pictures.

P. A. Parsons—To keep all persons of similar name out of Ludlow street, and other jails. (If this is at all obscure, Mr. Parsons' telephone number is Bryant 8360.)

S. L. Rothapfel—To become manager of his own theatre.

John R. Freuler—To put out a few five-reel features each week of the new year.

Samuel Goldfish—To find time for a trip to Los Angeles.

W. E. Shallenberger—To draw a new map of the world, and make Arrow Film the center of population.

J. Stuart Blackton—To start a publicity campaign for "The Battle Cry of Peace."

William Fox—To star Theda Bara in a photoplay.

Edwin Thanhouser—To produce more Masterpictures than any other studio for the Mutual Program.

S. G. Bradford.—To do the same for the honor of the Gaumont studios, and more, if possible.

Kane Gets War Films from Man in 38 Battles

Thompson, Cameraman Who Has Seen More Fighting Than Average Soldier, Now at Front and Knows What It Is to Be Wounded, Though Non-Combatant, Snapped Pictures

FIVE reels of actual scenes in the great European war will shortly be presented by Arthur S. Kane. These scenes were secured by Donald C. Thompson, one of the most successful of war photographers, who has just returned from the war zone.

These pictures, it is anonunced, will show actual trench fighting, the bursting of shells, and genuine battle views on the Western front. It is entitled "Somewhere in France."

To take these scenes, Thompson, who has been successively with the British, French, Belgian, German, Austrian, Serbian, Bulgarian, Russian, and Turkish armies, risked his life numerous times. He has been in thirty-eight engagements, and was wounded at Dixmude. He was under fire for six days with the British army on the retreat from Mons.

E. Alexander Powell, the famous war correspondent, whom Thompson met in Belgium and with whom he shared the perils of flying shells and bullets, describes the photographer thus in his book "Fighting in Flanders":

"He had not only seen war, all military prohibitions to the contrary, but he had actually photographed it.

"Thompson is a little man, built like Harry Lauder; hard as nails, tough as rawhide, his skin tanned to the color of a well-smoked meerschaum, and his face perpetually wreathed in what he called his 'sunflower smile.' . . . He has more chilled steel nerve than any man I know, and before he had been in Belgium a month his name became a synonym throughout the army for coolness and daring.

"It is no exaggeration to say that he saw more of the campaign in Flanders than any individual, military or civilian—'le Capitaine Thompson,' as he came to be known, being a familiar and popular figure on the Belgian battle line."

Thompson is already famous for his photographic exploits in the service of the Illustrated London News, the London Daily Mail, the Chicago Tribune, and the New York World. The two last named newspapers have shown his war firms in this country recently. Thompson is now a member of the staff of Leslie's and under contract to the Paramount Pictures Corporation. He will return to Europe within a few weeks to secure more war pictures, going this time to Salonica, the present base of the Allies in the Balkan campaign.

DONALD C. THOMPSON IN "WAR PAINT" ON SERBIAN FRONT

Further details as to the release of "Somewhere in France" will be made known by Mr. Kane.

MARGUERITE CLAYTON, E. H. CALVERT AND BETTY SCOTT IN A STRIKING SCENE FROM "A DAUGHTER OF THE CITY," ESSANAY PHOTOPLAY OF MODERN SOCIETY

LOS ANGELES FILM COLONY HAS A NEW SOCIAL CLUB

Special to Motion Picture News

Los Angeles, Dec. 24.

Los Angeles is again the home of a social club composed of those engaged in the motion picture industry, and the opening night of the new club rooms at 547 South Broadway, Thursday, December 9, was marked with a high-jinks in which practically every vaudevillist playing in Los Angeles during the week did his bit.

A midnight luncheon was served, and there was a program of continuous refreshments. Fred Mace, Jean Harvez, Charles Fais, and Al. W. Filson were in charge of arrangements for this, and acquitted themselves in such a creditable manner that they will in all probability be made the permanent officers of the organization.

The club, composed principally of actors, has more than fifty charter members, and the campaign now in progress is expected to bring in an additional fifty, the maximum decided upon for charter members. Later the initiation fees will be raised fifteen dollars. The present quarters are in a very desirable location, and the leases of the building are such that additional space can be had as the club grows.

TOO MUCH KEROSENE MAKES FOR DANGEROUS REALISM IN BURNING BARN

Special to Motion Picture News

San Francisco, Dec. 24.

What might easily have been a serious accident occurred at San Rafael, Cal., on December 16 when Beatriz Michelena, star of the California Motion Picture Corporation, was trapped in a burning barn near the studio of this concern which pictures were being made.

A feature of the plot of the story was the rescue of the heroine from a burning barn, where she had been confined by bandits, but too much kerosene was used in the fire and the building, with the star within, was a mass of flames before the fact was scarcely realized.

In response to her cries a hole was cut in the rear of the structure and she was carried out by William Pike, both being slightly burned about the face and arms.

"Help the Exhibitor to Make a Profit"—Selznick

Vice-President of World Film Sees in Co-operation and Service Only Method to Get Satisfactory Results for Manufacturer and Theatre Manager

"CO-OPERATION and service, first, last and all the time. This is the full measure of a producer's or a distributor's duty to the exhibitor and not till he has fulfilled his obligations in this respect can he be said to be dealing absolutely squarely with his customers."

In these words Lewis J. Selznick, vice-president and general manager of the World Film Corporation and vice-president and advisory manager of the Equitable Film Corporation, crisply gives what may be termed his "1916 Gospel of Good Faith."

Mr. Selznick himself confesses that a cardinal point of his creed in dealing with World and Equitable exhibitors; be they big or little, is "Service."

The World Film News is a specially prepared press-sheet which, by arrangement with newspapers throughout the country, will receive interested attention to its contents, thus securing for the exhibitor publicity which cannot be overestimated in value and also valuable hints and advice prepared by experts as to how to utilize the press matter, cuts, sample ads, posters and window cards to the fullest advantage.

In addition, for its exchange managers, salesmen and other employees there is published "Steps to Success" a live-wire publication edited by Assistant General Manager Harry C. Drum, who embodies weekly in it the fruits of his experience in the sales field and as an executive.

"To use a homely but expressive old phrase," continued Mr. Selznick, "my policy is 'live and let live.' The exhibitor is, when all is said and done, a retailer. Like other retailers he tries to sell his goods at the highest possible price consistent with fairness.

"The sole difference between the exhibitor and Jones the butcher and Smith the grocer is that the theatre owner deals in amusement. Now, till comparatively recently the basic facts concerning this commodity of 'amusement' were not well understood.

"My personal dealings with exhibitors had shown me that as a class they were far above the average in enterprise and intelligence. But they had been treated 'yellow dog' fashion and didn't see what they were going to do about it except submit with what meekness they could muster.

"Without seeming to brag, I hope, it seems to me that World Film was the first to go forth to the exhibitor bearing the magic slogan of 'Co-operation—service.'

"By service I mean just what great manufacturing concerns give to the retailer who handles their goods. Nowadays the dealings between a big concern and the retailer do not cease when the sale is consummated.

"Great industries realize that in order to make their profits they must help the retailer to make his. That's good sound business logic. And that is what I am trying to do. I want the name of World Film, and my name personally, to stand back of every inch of film our studios turn out or which we distribute. I want the exhibitor to feel that he has behind him all the resources of a vast concern with unlimited assets and that he can count upon us to aid him and counsel him in every way as to how he can make the most money handling our goods.

"A simple creed isn't it? But it is the ferment of the yeast that is at work everywhere in the business world today."

Cinema Camera Club Holds Third Annual Ball

Large Number of Film Folks Turn Out for the Event—Anita Stewart and Augustus Phillips Lead the Grand March—Ban Put on Publicity Stunts

THE third annual ball of the Cinema Camera Club of America, Inc., proved to be the most successful social affair in the history of the organization. Owing to the overwhelming number of patrons at last year's ball, the officials selected Palm Garden, Fifty-eighth street and Lexington avenue, New York, as the most suitable place in which to hold their latest get-together gathering.

Early in the evening until early in the morning the spacious floor, which was gayly decorated in honor of the occasion, swarmed with numbers of film professionals whose hosts were the valuable gentlemen whose business it is to wind the cranks of the cameras.

The leaders of the grand march were Anita Stewart and Augustus Phillips, Virginia Norden and Carl Gregory, Leonie Fulgrath and Edward Earle, Grace Williams and Richard Neal, and Edith Storey and her brother.

Various of the eastern companies were represented by players, cameramen, directors and publicity men. There were no wild publicity stunts staged, it having been decided upon that the ball should be without the commercial aspect, but Director Eugene Noland, of Thanhouser, quite spoiled Leon J. Rubenstein's idea of subduing the name of Thanhouser by tendering a dinner to various of his friends late in the evening.

Among those present were, Anita Stewart, Edwin August, George Fitzmaurice, Lucien Andriot, Lucien Tangnay, John Van Den Berock, Clara Whipple, Renee Glendening, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Physioc, Joseph F. Physioc, Frank Crane, Frank Beresford, Mr and Mrs. George Lessey, Mr. and Mrs. G. White, Mr and Mrs. Robert Hastings, L. Howard, Sam Trigger, H. McKenzie, Miss A. White, Katherine Walters, John Lehmberg, Cecile Dougherty, C. C. Solomon, Miss Kaziah Cooper, Mrs. Nellie Anderson and Beatrice Anderson.

Otto Brantigan, George Lane, Billy Hall, Ned Van Buren, Alan Crosland, Ethel Fully, Eugene Noland, Gladys Leslie, George Wright, Irving Cummings and mother, John Arnold, Edna Vinton, Robert Curely, Victor Vinton, George De Carleton, Jesse Goldburg, Rosa C. Helk, Marshal Farnum, Joe Smiley, Howard Tobin, Samuel Goldburg, Leah Baird, Paul Scardon, Arline Pretty, William Goldburg, Shannon Fife, Mary Charleson, Richard Tucker, Phillip Massi, Mildred Mason, Thomas McKnight, Eliza Goodall, Theodore Creighton, Viola Dana, Leonie Flugrath, John Collins, Richard Neal, Grace Williams, Herbert and Madame Blache, Richard Ridgley, Dorothy Greene, Fred Thompson, Carl Gregory, Louise Worden, Fred Beck, Augustus Phillips, Mabel Trunnelle, Mrs. Erald Martin, Frances Whitewell, George Wright, Bing Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Jacobi, Manuel Chappele, Mr and Mrs. Will S. Davis, Bill Harvey, Milton Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Fox, and Gladys Marshall.

LATEST PORTRAIT OF FAY TINCHER, WHO APPEARS WITH DE WOLF HOPPER IN "DON QUIXOTE" (Triangle)

GRACE ELLISTON IS THE STAR OF METRO'S "BLACK FEAR"

To dispel any doubts that may exist in the minds of exhibitors and the public, it is announced by the Metro Pictures Corporation that Grace Elliston is the star of its production "Black Fear."

Two other players of prominence were featured with the famous actress, but they were not starred. Metro had no other idea than that Miss Elliston was the star and is the star of "Black Fear."

The Press, Press Representative and the Picture—XIII

How the New Orleans "Times-Picayune" Makes Its Photoplay Page Doubly Interesting to the Newspaper Reader by Adopting a Constructive Attitude Toward the Picture Industry As a Whole, Not Forgetting Items of Routine News—A Plan Which Other Newspapers Ought to Adopt

AN example of careful editing is presented in the Sunday photoplay page of the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

The page before us—that of December 19 last—contains evidence that the editor has a sense of perspective, and that he has both a friendly and a critical attitude toward the picture industry. When we say critical we don't mean hypercritical, or hostile. We mean that the editor has a knowledge of values—which is what genuine criticism proceeds from.

For instance, this quotation from a story about a new picture theatre: "Just at present the motion picture industry is undergoing that change that follows all enterprises which jump into such startling prominence as to dazzle speculators and induce them to indulge in wild flights and feast on the spectacular elements in the business.

"The conduct of this greatest of all amusement enterprises is being systematized and placed upon a sound industrial basis. Better pictures are being demanded and being made. A better class of people are making attendance at picture theatres one of their regular diversions, and, naturally, better houses for the exhibition of pictures must follow."

Another story, headed "Motion Picture Producers Are Now Trying to Find Firm Basis for the Industry," treats of what the editor calls the "stage star craze" in pictures.

One may or may not agree with his line of argument. But the important thing is that he is not content to make his photoplay page a mere symposium of press notices. Instead, he adopts a more original, more constructive attitude by devoting space to the real problems of the industry. Such an attitude is a credit to the newspaper and the editor, as well as a service to the motion picture.

We should like to see other newspapers interest themselves in the problems of the industry as a whole. Some newspapers are doing it, but too many are not. Mind you, these comments in the Times-Picayune are, in every case, built on news items. They are specific. There is nothing lofty or airy about them.

Neither does the editor neglect the "straight news" of the industry. He runs a column of short items in which an astonishing amount of news is covered in a comparatively brief space. Every single story shows the editor's personal touch. There are also a number of longer items, all calculated to interest readers.

"Vitagraph News Service" Makes Appeal to Editors by Its Short Items

"VITAGRAPH NEWS SERVICE," the press sheet of the Vitagraph Company, has two distinct features: it is issued twice a week, and it specializes in short items.

The advantages of the first are apparent. We imagine the impelling motive is a desire to supply editors with news as soon as possible after it "breaks." This is an A-1 idea, for no other reason than that it is essentially a newspaper idea.

That is, it is an indication that motion picture manufacturers are beginning to see the light. You can't approach a newspaper successfully on any other basis than the newspaper's own ground.

So it is also with the short item. Remember that a photoplay editor receives every week a mass of press sheets; that he must select his material from the field as a whole. He is interested in a particular press sheet, not for the sake of the press sheet, but with an eye on the industry in toto.

Therefore, he hasn't got the time or the inclination to wade through long, poorly written stories, containing much fiction and little fact. What he wants is a variety of stuff, put up in brief, snappy form.

Few photoplay editors are anxious or willing to rewrite motion picture publicity. The publicity ought to be written so that it does not have to be rewritten. It will have to be edited, of course, but there is a vast difference between editing a story and rewriting it.

Now when your publicity is built on the short item, it must confine itself to the presentation of facts, very largely, and to one fact in one item. There is little or no opportunity for padding. The short item also appeals to the man with the paste pot and shears because it is not a "space killer." He can use a number of short items to far better effect than he can use a long story. Bear in mind that he is under the necessity of running picture news other than your own. If your items are brief, they stand a much better chance of fitting his page.

This is not an argument for the complete elimination of the long story. It is an argument for boiling down publicity to the facts. Sometimes a long story is justified, but not often.

It is a good scheme to do as Vitagraph does: make the short item predominate.

SERVE AND SERVE WELL

VITAGRAPH NEWS SERVICE

ISSUED TWICE WEEKLY IN THE INTEREST OF NEWSPAPERS AND MAGAZINES BY THE SERVICE DEPARTMENT VITAGRAPH COMPANY OF AMERICA

NO RIGHTS RESERVED

UP TO THE MINUTE AND A LITTLE AHEAD

Vol. 1 TO BE RELEASED AFTER DECEMBER 3, 1915 No. 6

VALET IS NEW LUXURY OF PROMINENT FILM STAR

Lillian Walker Has Dress Stolen—Now Keeps It In Safe

Antonio Moreno of "The Island of Regeneration" fame, got on the "Vitagraph Special" recently, a morning train on the Brighton Beach Line usually caught by most of the Vitagraphers, smiled at his friends and then suddenly turned 'round and looked as if he had lost his last friend. He then made a rush for the cars ahead and used right back again without finding the object of his search. By this time the train had stopped at a downtown station, and the last seen of Tony was when he was beating a hasty retreat down the "L" stairs. About four hours later he arrived at the studio appearing "all in" with a frightened looking individual whom he introduced as: "Mr. Cornelius Farbado —my new valet." And Tony later explained that Cornelius was the cause of his seeming insanity on the train as he thought he followed him in, but it seems "Far," as Cornelius likes the girls to call him, got lost in the crowd

Lillian Walker, of the Vitagraph dimples, says she knows that accidents are liable to happen in the best regulated families, and sometimes robberies, but cannot conceive why she should be selected as a victim to the extent of being relieved of a pure white broadcloth dress when she wanted it to wear on a special occasion. Miss Walker needed some new photographs and when the result of the first sitting did not please her she suggested the re-

PRIMA DONNA TO APPEAR IN $300,000 PRODUCTION

Her Own Salary of $100,000 to Go To Red Cross and Other Charities

Edna May, the former "Belle of New York," whose re-entrance into the limelight was announced recently by the Vitagraph Company of America, is to appear in a $300,000 production, according to a conservative estimate of the entire cost of the feature film. The name of the picture is not yet disclosed, but Miss May is now being filmed daily at the Flatbush studio in closed scenes.

The stupendous cost of the production takes into consideration the $100,000 which Miss May will receive and which she will turn over to Red Cross and other worthy charities; the cost of her gowns which are the finest example of maidate's art; the salaries of her directors and assisting players; and various other expenses of cameramen, props, settings, etc. This amount, however, does not include the income of Albert E. Smith, treasurer of the Vitagraph, who will personally supervise the filming of the production and whose daily income is a matter of conjecture. He is known to be many times a millionaire.

Since the sailing of her husband to Europe on Saturday, Miss May has devoted herself more assiduously to her new work and shows an interest and enthusiasm that egister well on the camera. After eight years of society life, when she retired from the stage as the wife of a New York millionaire, this opportunity of again appearing before the theatre-goers who knew and loved her as "The Belle of New York," is novel and attractive to her.

Many elaborate preparations are now being made by the Vitagraph Company to make the production set a new record in various ways, and to take its place in the art as a film classic.

VITAGRAPH STARS IN MANY NEW PRODUCTIONS

Champion Wolf-Dogs Used In Big Western Feature Film

Among the various teams of wolf-dogs and malamutes gathered at Big Bear Valley, Cal., for Vitagraph Director Rollin Sturgeon's latest feature film of the West, are the famous John Johnson Siberian wolf-dog teams, which won the Alaska Derby for six years in succession. These dogs are the most beautiful and best trained team in the world. The leader, Kelma, is the only known blue-eyed Siberian and holds the world's record for both speed and endurance.

Neil Shipman, the leading woman in a new Western Vitagraph feature, is an expert skier and snowshoer. She formerly lived in Alaska, and a recent fall of snow near Big Bear Valley has given her practice in these sports.

Little Mary Anderson and Webster Campbell, Vitagraph stars, are working under the direction of William Wolbert in an original comedy in which several papas claim Mary as their child.

The most beautiful girl in the Santa Monica Bay district, in California, is Corinne Griffith, of the Vitagraph Company. She won a beauty contest at a big dance held recently.

The Vitagraph plant at Santa Monica is almost demolished, and most of it has been removed to the new location at East Holly-

FORD RAPS WAR FILM

The statement accredited to Henry Ford to the effect that all big preparedness advocates are financially interested in munition securities, is a direct slap at "The Battle Cry of Peace," in the opinion voiced today by J. Stuart Blackton, author of

ACTOR GOES TO JAIL

The loss of a tiny key to open a pair of handcuffs recently placed Harry Northrup, of the Vitagraph players, in a most embarrassing position and necessitated his going to the police station in a fantastic Italian uniform

REPRODUCTION OF THE UPPER HALF OF THE VITAGRAPH PRESS SHEET

ZANFT WILL PICK STAGE STARS FOR FOX

John Zanft, general representative of seven of William Fox's theatres in Greater New York, has in addition to these important duties, been made personal representative of Mr. Fox to meet and deal with theatrical stars who wish to discuss their possible appearance in motion picture features of the Fox Film Corporation.

Enjoying, as he does, a wide acquaintance with theatrical celebrities it is to be expected that Mr. Zanft will bring quite a number of new film but dramatically famous personalities into motion pictures.

Mr. Zanft's new work for Mr. Fox as his personal representative in the arrangements preliminary to engagements for Fox Film Corporation pictures is supplementary to the general engagement of players by his other well-known aide, Samuel Kingston, whose offices are with the company's headquarters in Forty-sixth street, New York.

WALSH, DIRECTOR AT TWENTY-SIX

R. A. Walsh, who directed the production of "Carmen" for William Fox, and who has just finished a Russian feature picture, "The Serpent," in which Theda Bara is starred, is the youngest expert director in pictures, having just passed his twenty-sixth birthday.

HERALD COMPANY IS SALES AGENT OF MOVCA COMEDY CARTOONS

The Herald Company, 126 West Forty-sixth street, New York City, has taken over the sales of the Comedy Cartoons produced by the Movca Company, San Francisco.

F. J. Sanguinetti, special representative of the Movca Company, who is now in the East, declares that the company will soon have twenty subjects ready to release on a state rights basis. The Pacific Coast and Greater New York territories have already been sold.

John C. Terry and H. M. Shields, well-known artists, are drawing the cartoons, which number 2,500, to a split reel.

BERNHARDT SINKING RAPIDLY, UNIVERSAL HEARS

The Universal offices in New York have just received word from Paris that Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who is ill there, is sinking rapidly. A cablegram from Mr. Downie, the Universal representative in Paris, on Monday, December 27, reads:

"Reported sinking rapidly; her relatives state not hopeless, although extremely weak."

Mme. Bernhardt is to be featured by the Universal in "Jeanne Dore," a picture which was taken recently under the supervision of Mr. Downie. It will be released soon.

"Selling of Film Service Becoming a Science"

Says John W. Grey, Who Points Out That Modern Sales Methods Are to a Degree Supplanting Old Publicity Tactics and the Press Agent

WHY modern principles of merchandising are supplanting the old, haphazard methods which obtained in the film industry, is pointed out by John W. Grey, of the Vitagraph Company. In this connection Mr. Grey discusses the decline of the press agent as a factor of first importance.

"The selling of film service," says Mr. Grey, "has resolved itself into a science. The haphazard methods pursued heretofore, the trade bunk, the superlative as a sales aid, are on the wane. This condition is brought about by three things: First, the calibre of the men engaged in the film business has changed; second, competition has become so strong that doing business on a shoe string is no longer possible; and third, a merchandising man has gradually supplanted the press agent as a factor.

"A. E. Smith, president of the V-L-S-E, treasurer of the Vitagraph Company and treasurer of the General Film Company, was the first man to realize that the old selling methods were obsolete. To him full credit is due for creating an organization along the lines of the V-L-S-E and employing men expert in promotion rather than "dyed in the wool" film followers. He was undoubtedly the first man to see that the sale of film service, which includes the method of pulling patronage, the ways and means of advertising and the judicious use of posters and lobby display, had to change. You note that the phrase "film service" is used rather than "films," as the business has undoubtedly resolved itself into a sale of service.

"Service is an intangible commodity and is a word that is very often abused. When all is said and done, film service only resolves itself into the following: It means a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of selling and merchandising; it means trade aid of the highest order; it means aid to the exhibitor in disposing of his product. The old method of giving the exhibitor the film and letting him use his own discretion in advertising and promotion has gone by the board and the more timely method of having experienced sales managers in exchanges instead of film men is gradually supplanting the aforementioned means. A sales manager is primarily an analyst. When once a sale is consummated, he is not through with his customer, but evolves means to hold him. In other words, the consummation of a sale is the beginning of a service and not the end of the transaction. The present day exchange manager, as used in the V-L-S-E, believes that in making money for the theatre he is making money for himself and his firm and he is constantly striving to accomplish this end.

"Heretofore, the only method pursued in selling a film was to send reams of copy of trade publications and newspapers and trust to luck that these stories would interest the exhibitor to the extent of having him book the film. As the demand was greater than the supply, this method succeeded and it is only of late that the selling campaign has been in vogue. Instead of attempting to foist reams of press copy on the trade paper, Mr. Smith has considered the value of straight advertising as against trade publicity.

"We believe and realize that the press agent is a necessary adjunct to a big film organization and the spice of a good scoop is equivalent to the entré in the dinner of dignity.

"In addition to trade paper advertising, one of the most essential points in the new way of promotion is the direct communication with the exhibitor. It has been the experience of Mr. Smith that a personal direct-to-the-consumer campaign by means of follow-up is absolutely essential to give the exhibitor an inside knowledge of the film that he is to get. By this means the exhibitor is given the information first-hand and if this follow-up is conducted in a comprehensive straightforward manner, the exhibitor will search for the exchange and book the film instead of waiting to have the salesman look him up. Of course, this means of selling is far more expensive than the old way.

"But in the end the exhibitor is better satisfied, has more confidence in the manufacturer and feels that he is getting value received, a condition that never existed heretofore."

"Fighting for France" a Special Feature for Mutual

Company Will Release on January 1 Five Reel War Picture Taken on the Battle Fields of Europe—Picture Is Free from Bias

"FIGHTING FOR FRANCE," five reels of real war pictures taken on the battlefields of Europe, will be released by the Mutual Film Corporation as a Mutual Special Feature, January 1.

These pictures have had their advance showings in New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles under the auspices of the Hearst Newspapers. These films are the official war records taken by the cameramen put into the field by the French government. They are to be given their general circulation in the United States through the Mutual Film Corporation by special arrangement with the French authorities.

In the five cities where these films have been shown they have established a new record of success for war films.

"Fighting for France," while frankly a picture of the activities of the Allies, is devoid of the bias and spirit of propaganda which has pervaded so many war picture releases.

The five reels to be released as a Mutual Special Feature represent the cream of selection from the hundreds of reels of film taken by the war photographers of France.

These pictures show the great battlefields of the western front, the miles of seething, surging trenches "the white hot gashes of France," the great guns in the miles of batteries, the swift flying scout aeroplanes and the big eagle like battleplanes laden with bombs. All the desperate business of war is exposed on the screen.

In striking close-ups the great generals and leaders of the war are shown. King George of England, King Albert of Belgium and Czar Nicholas of Russia are shown as they have appeared at the various fronts.

The battle fleets are shown under fire. There are close and thrilling views of the bombardment in the Dardanelles. There are absorbing, breath-taking pictures of a big submarine at work. The camera caught the swirl of the deadly torpedo and its white boiling wake of bubbles.

"Fighting for France" has had a big run at the La Salle theatre in Chicago and at the Tremont Temple in Boston, and in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

"PA'S FAMILY TREE," E. AND R. COMEDY, READY JANUARY 7

"Pa's Family Tree," the second subject of the E. and R. Film Company released on a state rights, will be ready for exhibitors on January 7. Advance showings of the picture to buyers and members of the trade press have called forth numerous commendations.

The plot of "Pa's Family Tree" is novel and gives the cast an opportunity to "put across" many diverting comedy moments. Napoleon and Sally, the trained chimpanzees which scored so many hits on the vaudeville stage some time ago, are seen at work with the same exhibition of cleverness which characterized their acting in previous subjects released by the E. and R. company.

UNCLE SAM INCORPORATES; WILL EXPLOIT STAGE SUCCESS

The Uncle Sam Film Corporation, with offices in the World Tower Building, New York, has been incorporated by several business and theatrical men. James Knight has been elected president.

Arrangements are being made to begin operations the first of the year.

Negotiations are pending with men who have seen a number of years of active service in the motion picture field, and several plays which have been successful on the legitimate stage, are under consideration.

Negatives of superior quality will be purchased outright from responsible manufacturers, and exploited on the state rights plan by sane, safe, and sound methods.

WEIR TO FICTIONIZE KALEM'S "LOVE PIRATES"

Hugh C. Weir, well known as the author of the romantic novels, "Miss Madelyn Mack, Detective," "The Mistress of Mysteries," "The Conquest of the Isthmus," "Cinders," and "With the Flag in Panama," has been engaged by the Kalem Company to fictionize the new series "The Love Pirates," by George Bronson-Howard.

Mr. Weir is also a contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, Everybody's, Collier's, Munsey's, and other leading magazines.

STAGE OF GAUMONT STUDIO, SOUTH JACKSONVILLE, FLA., FILLED WITH EXTRA PEOPLE ENGAGED FOR "THE IDOL OF THE STAGE," MUTUAL MASTERPIECE DE LUXE

Kalem Railroad Films Have Seven Years' History

"Hazards of Helen" Culmination of Specialized Effort, Since 1909, By Company Which Leased Entire Railroad for Production Purposes Even in Those Days

KALEM'S popular railroad serial, "The Hazards of Helen," is the culmination of seven years' specialization in railroad films.

Back in 1909, Kalem was frequently the lessor of a railroad solely for the purpose of making screen stories of the rails. One incident of this kind attracted the attention of the big New York dailies, and the New York Herald sent a special writer and staff photographer to the Kalem studio to secure a story about railroad pictures. The story was given full page space in the Herald's Sunday Magazine of August 8, 1909, headed: "Hired An Entire Railroad to Stage A Drama."

Many actors and actresses who have since become prominent in photoplays of various descriptions appeared in these early Kalem pictures. It was the Kalem Company, too, which first, it is said, built its sets right in railroad yards. The advantage of this "stunt" was, of course, that it made possible the showing of actual railroad scenes through the windows. Painted drops were banned.

"Keep Forbidden Topics Off the Screen"—Spiegel

Equitable President Would Steer Pictures Away from Salacious Subjects, and Cater to the Higher and More Sensitive Feelings of Theatre Audiences

TOPICS forbidden in polite society should be kept off the screen, is the belief of Arthur H. Spiegel, President of the Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation. He believes that those topics, which one would not bring up at a house gathering, are just as objectionable to men and women who attend the theatre together.

"These are the corners of fildom that must be swept clean," said Mr. Spiegel. "They have been the hiding place of so many careless cleansers that they are clogged and becoming more dangerous to the health of the industry, each fleeting moment.

"As the final word in the selection of material, I have pledged myself to keep the Equitable pictures free of the least taint of lasciviousness and salaciousness.

"'A Daughter of The Sea,' 'The Senator,' and 'The Better Woman' are three striking illustrations of what a picture, without the semblance of lascivity, can do to attract. The reports from exhibitors throughout the country denote that these pictures have earned as much for our company and the theatres playing them, as has either 'Should a Wife Forgive' or 'Divorced,' both of which have been big money makers and both of which were based on the unfaithfulness of man and woman.

"Many years ago, it was considered actually a sin to read a novel and the boys and young men were left either to the puerile stories given out in the Sunday Schools or to the nickel libraries, which could be folded conveniently for the pocket and so read under a desk leaf, or behind the geography at school," continued Mr. Spiegel.

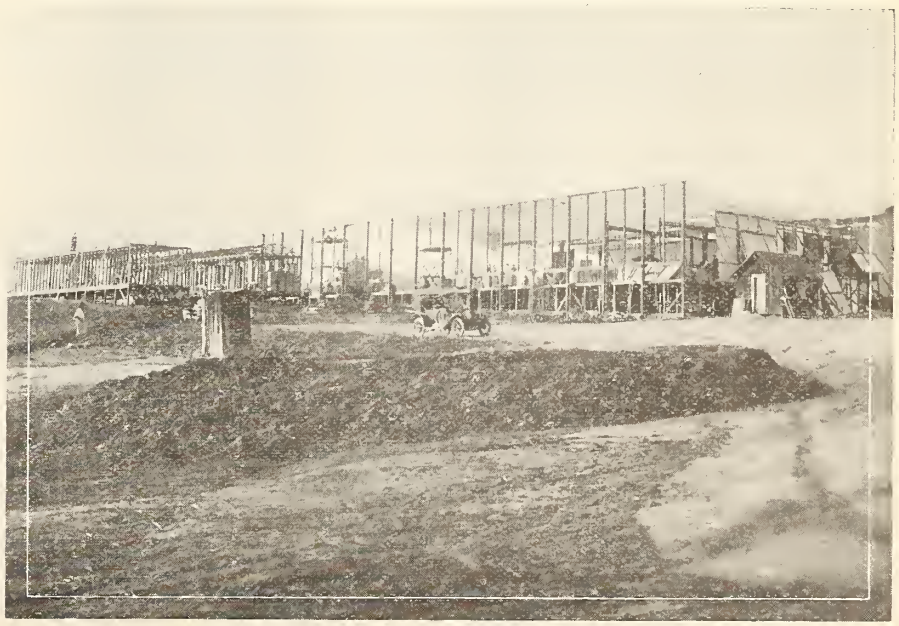
"I do not argue for a catering to the puritanical spirit of witchcraft days—but the catering to the higher and more sensitive feelings in men.

"It will come. It is seen in the attracting to the screen of such remarkably brilliant writers as Harriet Ford, Rachael Crothers, C. Haddon Chambers, and Richard Le Gallienne."

KING BAGGOT SITS TO SCULPTOR FOR BRONZE BUST

King Baggot, the Universal star, has been sitting for a sculptor, and has favored MOTION PICTURE NEWS with a plaster copy of the original bronze.

The plaster is finished in bronze color, and stands eight inches high. It makes a most acceptable holiday gift. The sculptor is Andrew C. McHench.



A VIEW OF VITAGRAPH'S NEW STUDIOS AT HOLLYWOOD, CAL.

JOE FARNHAM'S FATHER PINS FAITH ON "RACE SUICIDE"

G. Fred Farnham, a newcomer to the picture industry, who has as a recommendation the fact that he is the father of the only Joe Farnham, in speaking of the marketing of the new six-part feature picture, "Race Suicide," which is being disposed of on the state rights basis, expresses a complete satisfaction at the complete reception which has been accorded to the picture.

Mr. Farnham said: "I am more than gratified with the reception accorded 'Race Suicide' since the announcement of the picture, and judging the discussion already accorded the picture, from its title only, I am convinced that here is a boxoffice winner.

"The picture has an excellent cast, Ormi Hawley, Earl Metcalfe, Octavia Handworth and Kempton Greene, and has been produced upon a lavish scale. Thirty bids have been received for 'Race Suicide.'"

"The Play's the Thing," Morosco Reminds Industry

Stars and Players Can Only Build Up Worthy Skyscrapers of Artistic Achievement Before the Camera on Bedrock of Master Scenario Writers

DISCUSSING the future of the motion picture, Oliver Morosco, president of the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company, said recently in an interview:

"As New Year's day appears to be the proper time to make resolutions, it seems to me that it would be an excellent idea for producers, and others as well, to resolve to imagine every day a New Year's day and start each new twenty-four hours with the same progressive spirit that the first day of each year seems to generate momentarily.

"There are still those conservatives who go astray about motion pictures in assuming that because the invention has in some instances been unsatisfactorily utilized it is not proved capable of the most wonderful utilization.

"They fail to appreciate the unlimited artistic possibilities of the moving picture—and these wonderful possibilities are what the new year holds forth.

"What Bernard Shaw recently said is true. The moving picture is incalculably potential. It is availing of human curiosity and human imagination as no other medium has ever availed before. Speaking the universal language, it is the greatest instrument of popular suggestion that has ever been devised.

"However inadequately its material has been governed up to the present, its power is unquestionable. Tomorrow holds a world of unconquered depths for the silent drama.

"Already the photoplay has reached a stage where scenarios from novels, plays and short stories, however famous, are quite insufficient. I do not object to dramatizations—my own plays are being presented on the screen for Paramount patrons, and I have assisted in their preparation—but the photoplay has arrived as an art, and it demands original treatment, the imagination of a poet, and the dramatic vigor of a master-craftsman of the theatre.

"The solid bedrock foundation of the successful photodrama of tomorrow will be the scenario or play itself. Without such a ground-work stars and directors will topple, but with such a foundation directors, stars and players in general may build worthy skyscrapers of artistic achievement before the camera.

"Tomorrow must, and surely will, produce imaginative geniuses whose fame will rest wholly on their photodramas. It is not enough that they condescend to 'come over' from other branches of literary or theatrical endeavor.

"That 'condescension' is an insult to a great and established medium of human expression.

"You and I will live to see the day of a Pinero, a Jones, a Bernstein and a Thomas of the screen—men who will become world-famous for the depth, power, sincerity and compelling truth of their photoplays.

"But they will be specialists; they will not do pictures on Thursdays and Saturdays and literary and theatrical work the rest of the week.

"And this same comment applies to actors, for has it not already been demonstrated that the screen actors who have won the greatest popularity have done so through absolutely specializing before the camera?

"And when we have reached the stage of great screen authors, we producers will cast their parts just as carefully as the legitimate manager of today searches the stage world for suitable players and personalities to breathe life and reality into an author's written pages.

"Another year will find the photoplay developed to an even greater and finer degree of art and tomorrow people will look back on present productions as admirers of Coburn, Genthe and Hill now look back on their early tin-types.

Lasky Gives Pre-Showing of "Golden Chance"

First Picture from Company Co-Starring Cleo Ridgely and Wallace Reid and Set for Release on January 13, Is Run Off in Wurlitzer Projection Room

ALTHOUGH 3,000 miles away, Cleo Ridgely and Wallace Reid were the principal guests at a private advance showing and reception held this week in New York.

The stars, who are making their first appearance under the management of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company as co-stars in "The Golden Chance," a Paramount release announced for January 13, were in California.

The advance showing at which each star was applauded was held at the Wurlitzer theatre, in the building in New York where the Lasky executive offices are.

Advance showings of the Lasky productions are not held as a general rule, but the wish to see the first picture in which Miss Ridgely and Mr. Reid appear as co-stars was so general on the part of officers and members of the Paramount organization and many Paramount exhibitors in New York that the exhibition was arranged.

Previously, word had come east from the Lasky studios at Hollywood, Cal., that "The Golden Chance," written by Jeanie Macpherson, possessed many sensational features.

Cecil B. DeMille directed the production. Coming immediately after Mr. DeMille's production of "The Cheat," in which Fannie Ward is the star, "The Golden Chance" by reason of the employment of a number of original lighting and dramatic effects created more than the customary anticipation.

"The Golden Chance" relates the experiences of a young woman of refinement who, after a few miserable years as the wife of an undesirable, suddenly by chance is thrown into contact with men and women of her own kind.

A young millionaire falls in love with her, but she keeps her true identity under cover until confronted by her own husband, who is discovered burglarizing the house in which she is staying as a guest.

The dramatic climax of "The Golden Chance" comes with a fistic encounter between the young woman's husband and the youth who is infatuated with her.

THE AUTHOR AND STARS OF THE NEW KALEM SERIAL, "THE LOVE PIRATES"

OLLIE KIRKBY GEORGE BRONSON HOWARD MARIN SAIS

SCENES FROM "THEIR LAST PERFORMANCE" (Thanhouser); "FOOLISH FAT FLORA" (Falstaff); AND "UNA'S USEFUL UNCLE" (Falstaff)

VIM READY REFERENCE DIARIES FOR EXHIBITORS

Vim Films Corporation, producers of the Vim comedies, is distributing gratis to exhibitors and patrons of Vim comedies, a unique book of 192 pages which will be a big help to the exhibitors as a ready reference diary for past and future bookings.

It will also enable him to keep tabs on his opposition, as well as a record of his own day and night receipts, including the daily weather conditions.

Should there be any exhibitor overlooked, his demands will be supplied at the offices of the Vim Films Corporation, 326 Lexington avenue, New York City.

HELEN HOLMES NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH IN SPEED LAUNCH

Helen Holmes, heroine of "The Girl and the Game," the Signal Film Corporation's new railroad novel, narrowly escaped drowning off Ventura, Cal., the other day, when a speed launch she was driving in a race with a fast express was swamped by a wave.

In attempting to rescue her Director J. P. McGowan became entangled in a mesh of ropes thrown to them from nearby boats. A launch from the U. S. S. Hancock finally rescued the star and her director, both suffering from exhaustion.

AMERICAN CORRESPONDENT GETS FIRST GERMAN PICTURES IN SERBIA

Edward Lyell Fox, war correspondent and author, is back from Europe, where as special envoy for the American Correspondent Film Company, he took the first motion pictures of German operations in Serbia.

Armed with a military pass, and accompanied by Jack Everets, cameraman and a Bulgarian combination cook and interpreter, Fox set out from Sofia for the Serbian front, the camera equipment and provisions being carried along on an antiquated ox cart. Scenes in connection with the fall of Pirot and Nish were secured.

Everets was left to take additional pictures in Serbia, and Fox went to Constantinople, where he secured permission from Envey Bey to picturize the Turkish activities on the Gallipoli Peninsula.

Returning via Berlin, he secured there scenes depicting life in the detention camps.

At Vienna, he arranged to get films showing the fall of Belgrade, the Izono front and the Tyrol. These pictures he brought back with him. The later Serbian films are expected here in a few weeks.

EDWARD LYELL FOX

"VENGEANCE" FOR RELEASE ON JANUARY 26

"Vengeance Is Mine!" a five-reel David Horsley production, with Crane Wilbur, will be released as a Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe Edition production on January 31, instead of January 26, as originally announced.

MAURICE CYTRON JOINS HORSLEY STAFF

Maurice Cytron has joined David Horsley's staff of assistant directors and has been assigned to Director Bowman's company, now producing "The Bait," which is to be the first Horsley-Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe Edition release. He was associated with Mr. Bowman when the latter was directing plays starring Francis Bushman at the Quality studios.

Mr. Cytron's first work in motion pictures was with the Lubin company in Arizona as assistant director to Romaine Fielding, who was producing Western dramas. This was six years ago.

Later he was with Selig at Los Angeles as assistant to Benton L. King. A six months' engagement with the Eclair company at Fort Lee, N. J., was followed by a contract with Essanay and then the Quality company.

Before taking up picture work Mr. Cytron was on the stage as a player, appearing with a number of traveling and stock organizations.

While acting as assistant director for pictures he stepped in occasionally and played parts, notably in "Rosemary" and "Pennington's Choice."

His knowledge of the duties of an assistant director will help Mr. Bowman in the production of such pictures staged by the latter.

CLUNE'S LOS ANGELES, CROWDED FOR "NE'ER-DO-WELL" SHOWING

According to a telegram received Tuesday, December 21, by William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company, "The Ne'er-Do-Well," in nine reels, opened on the evening of December 20 in Clune's Auditorium, Los Angeles, Cal., and the "S. R. O." sign was shown early.

The word "great" is used in commenting upon the production. "The Ne'er-Do-Well" was written by Rex Beach and produced by Colin Campbell. Beach also wrote "The Spoilers" and "The Spoilers" was produced by Campbell.

Scenes in "The Ne'er-Do-Well" were filmed in Panama, where Mr. Selig escorted a special company to the Panama Canal Zone.

Screen Examinations

"THE RACK"

(Brady-World Film—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

THREE married couples herein move about in a society drama of many angles, which basically results in just another version of the eternal triangle. But there are the other three characters there, all of them prominent in the story's development, who add originality and pleasant flavor to "The Rack."

Thompson Buchanan, the author, has overcome the natural handicaps such a large dramatis personæ entails, save for slight confusion in the first few scenes. And this really should not be laid at the author's door, but to the close resemblance of two of the leads. However, the confusion is overcome in less time than it takes to tell, and thereafter the plot moves with a clarity and evenness that results in a most striking picture.

A well-meaning wife and a jealous husband, a flirtatious wife and a trusting husband, an unfaithful husband and an unsuspecting wife, are the characters which furnish the sextangular plot.

The unfaithful husband, Freeman, preying upon the susceptible mind of the flirtatious wife, Effie McKenzie, causes the breaking up of that family. And later he turns his attentions to the well-meaning wife, Blanche Gordon, with the result that her husband leaves her.

Blanche accompanies Freeman to a cafe, intending to effect a reconciliation between him and his wife, but instead Freeman persists in his unwelcome attentions.

A mysterious hand shoots Freeman, and evidence points to either Blanche or her husband as guilty, and consequently the former has to suffer a grilling cross-examination in court.

When her husband sees Blanche attempting to defend him, and little by little implicating herself, he awakes to her love for him and is about to accuse himself of the crime, when McKenzie, the husband of Freeman's first prey, confesses the deed and clears both Gordon and his wife of suspicion.

The picture has been most ably staged by Emile Chautard. His settings are admirable. They are stable appearing, mindful in this way of the former foreign product, and they are likewise very appropriate, erected with obvious care to detail.

Flash backs have, perhaps, been employed unnecessarily in a few instances, but on the whole the scenic arrangement is highly commendable. The photography is very good.

Alice Brady, appearing as Blanche, gives a variedly brilliant interpretation of the part. Her naturalness in the first scenes is charming, but when undergoing the cross-examination in court she arises to the emotional demands of the part in adequate style.

Milton Sills, playing the husband, Gordon, is a worthy opposite. Chester Barnett, however, as Freeman, takes the honors of the male portion of the cast. As the swaggering braggadocio, Barnett plays with an ease and skill that stamps him a finished actor. Doris Kenyon as Effie McKenzie is very attractive, while June Elvidge plays the other wife.

"The Rack" is without doubt the best of recent World Film features. It's a William A. Brady number, and that partially accounts for its success.

"LOVE'S PILGRIMAGE TO AMERICA"

(Broadway Universal Feature—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

LULU GLASER, featured in this comedy, adds an estimable commercial quality by her name, besides appearing to advantage. The production was made in the East by Lawrence Marston, who worked on a scenario by May B. Havey.

Miss Havey's product is simple, relying for much of its humor on a formidable selection of subtitles, the merit of which may be judged from the following examples: "I'm a perfect devil at checkers; "She may have been a flower once, but I think she's gone to seed"; "You'll either marry him or be his wife"; "Marry that advance agent of famine! I'd shrivel up and blow away."

The rest of the lines follow the general form of these, although it must be said in their defense that some of them are not as humorous.

The picture sets out in a manner that quickly touches the risibilities of the observer. The fun retains its dash and uproariousness for much of the five reels. Toward the end it lags a bit, as five-reel comedies quite often do; but considered in its entirety, "Love's Pilgrimage to America" is a comedy, equal in every respect to the former numbers of that sort released on the Broadway Universal Feature program.

The plot concerns the adventures of two lovers, who have run away to America to escape the eternal choices of their fathers. They encounter sundry troubles in the land of the more or less free until finally things are adjusted over in England for their happy return.

In general the direction is suitable. The settings are fitting. The photography is a little hazy at times, but good enough not to interfere with the enjoyment of the story. The action once in awhile takes a slapstick turn and these moments nicely vary the monotony that would otherwise be created if the subtitles were left to run an uninterrupted course.

Tom Richard's opposite Miss Glaser; Thomas Keeswald, Henry Norman, Sarah Brundage and Adila Comer play effectively in the major supporting roles.

DE WOLF HOPPER, FAY TINCHER AND OTHER TRIANGLE PLAYERS IN SCENES FROM "DON QUIXOTE," A FINE ARTS PRODUCTION

SCENES FROM THE HEPWORTH CO.'S PRODUCTION OF "IRIS," SIR ARTHUR PINERO'S FAMOUS PLAY

"IRIS"

(Hepworth Film—Six Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

THIS screen version of Sir Arthur Pinero's famous play, made in England by the Hepworth Film Manufacturing Company, London, and given its American trade showing at the Wurlitzer theatre, New York, December 15, is a superior piece of work.

In settings, in direction, and in photography, it excels. But the conspicuous, outstanding merit is found in the acting.

It is very evident that English photoplay actors have mastered one art of expression—or else have come into it instinctively—which is too little practiced in this country, and that is: The portrayal of emotion through restraint.

Only actors who are genuine adepts at pantomime can do that successfully. If they attempt restraint for the sake of restraint, their impersonations will end by lacking animation. They will be wooden. What they must do is to start with the emotion, realize it completely, and then hold the full force of the emotion in leash; put it through a refining process.

Well, that is what you see in "Iris." It reaches its climax, so far as this picture is concerned, in the work of Alma Taylor, whose characterization of "Iris," an intensely lovable woman, brought up in luxury, and by nature weak, is a fine bit of art; as delicate as Miss Taylor's own beauty.

"Iris" goes to her downfall through a succession of missteps, until finally, hounded by circumstances before which she is helpless, she is thrown out on the street by Maldonado, the millionaire whose mistress she became, because she was too weak willed to live in comparative poverty until the return of Trenwith, her beloved, from Canada. This, after Trenwith had returned, discovered her shame, and left her to it.

Thus Pinero; but the Hepworth people have given the story a happy ending by giving "Iris" back to Trenwith through his forgiveness of her wrong-doing, a conclusion which, while it lacks the tremendous dramatic force of the original denouement, will undoubtedly be more pleasing to the majority of spectators.

Henry Ainley, as Maldonado, and Stewart Rome, as Trenwith, are thoroughly acceptable. Chrissie White, Violet Hopson and Percy Manton are other principals whose work contributes to the picture's success.

There is an air of refinement about the whole thing, which is reflected in the settings.

The English lake country furnishes some beautiful exteriors. Dissolves are used frequently with fine effect.

"A WELSH SINGER"

(Turner Films—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

HERE is an English made photoplay of certain and ready appeal to American audiences. It is as wholesome as the Welsh countryside, which forms its early locale; and the simplicity of Allen Raine's story, comprehending gentle humor, pathos and lifelike characterization, ought to be a relief to the picture goer.

Through it moves Florence Turner as Mifanwy, a Welsh girl whose experience leads her from the life of a shepherdess to that of a circus trouper, and finally into fame as a London opera singer. Miss Turner's screen ability is already celebrated far and wide, but never has her appealing, almost pathetic charm been accorded a better vehicle of expression.

She is seconded by a cast whose acting is of pleasing finish. Henry Edwards, who produced the picture, is the male lead, in the role of Ieuan, Mifanwy's foster brother, who, after forgetting the little shepherdess in the heydey of his fame as a sculptor, becomes one of the audience at her premiere.

Unaware of her identity he falls in love with her. Not until she has hurried back to Wales from London, resumed her shepherdess' dress, and greeted him there, does he realize who she is.

Such non-recognition would spoil the effect of many pictures. But so naturally is it done here that the spectator grants it indulgence first, and ends by wondering how he could have thought it improbable at all.

For variety of sets there are English hills and dales, a circus, a London concert audience, several rich interiors, and a theatre fire. This last is a fairly well-worked piece of realism, though not so elaborate as similar scenes in some American productions.

Typical of the excellent photography is a view of a path in a forest, half veiled by deep shadows under luxuriant trees; and the final scene, across a valley, showing Ieuan and Mifanwy, her hair flying in the wind, silhouetted against the evening sky.

Others in the cast are Dorothy Rowan, Percy Manton, Elaine Sleddall, Uva Venning, Amy Lorraine, Ruth Mackay and Campbell Guillan.

14,000 GALLONS OF WATER CARRIED THREE MILES FOR PALLAS SUBJECT

TO secure the rainsoaked effect of the country road running through the Whitecaps settlement in "The Gentleman from Indiana," the new Pallas Picture starring Dustin Farnum, Director Frank Lloyd had to use over 14,000 gallons of water. And every gallon had to be hauled by auto trucks from a well three miles away.

The fleet of trucks used that day resembled the mobilization of some European army under orders to reach the frontier by morning. Producing mud and pools of water in a California desert under an able-bodied California sun in September, the hottest of all California months, has ceased to be one of Frank Lloyd's favorite occupations.

FRANK T. BAILEY, who has been associated with Ralph Ruffner in the management of the Liberty theatre in Spokane, since the withdrawal of William Cutts six months ago, has withdrawn from active connection with the theatre. Mr. Ruffner remains in sole charge. Mr. Bailey is a stockholder of the Liberty Amusement Company, which built the Liberty and other northwest theatres. He will retain his interest in the corporation.

LOOKING AT THREE EQUITABLE RELEASES: "BABETTE OF THE BALLY HOO"; "HER GREAT HOUR," AND "THE RANSOM"

"THE DRAGON"

(Equitable—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

RUSSELL E. SMITH worked out a good scenario from this story of New York life by Perley Poore Sheehan. It holds the interest, despite an occasional lapse into somewhat remote regions of fancy.

But the piece is really a romance, and you can't measure romance by a yard stick, or make it a matter of mathematical calculation. The story is this: Messalla, the incarnation of innocence, lives in an old house in Washington Square with her father who has lost his fortune and his wife through the lure of Fifth Avenue, that thoroughfare being The Dragon. Messalla determines to find her mother and in doing so brings death or calamity to those who wrought her father's ruin. She finds her mother in the home of a millionaire, and reunites her parents.

MESSALLA VISITS THE FASHION SHOP

In each case Messalla is an unconscious agent of evil. For example, she carries around for several hours a package containing a bomb, finally depositing it in the house of the millionaire. The house is blown up after Messalla and her mother leave.

The plot is filled with incident, moves with fair rapidity, touches life at various angles, and contains color enough to please most audiences. Margarita Fischer is the star, and acts acceptably. In the latter scenes where she is called upon to impersonate mother and daughter alternately, she is a little awkward, but on the whole her work is good. Thomas J. McGrane gives a finished bit of acting as the millionaire. Katherine Calhoun, Bennett Southard, Joseph Harris, Harry Leighton, and Sheridan Block are the other principals

As for sets, we have never seen interiors of greater beauty or depth than this picture presents. Description would not do them justice The exteriors are mostly views of New York streets and buildings Harry Pollard directed, and directed well.

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD"

(Famous Players-Paramount—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

SAYS the program: Daniel Frohman presents a faithful picturization of Denman Thompson's immortal rural classic." The phrase deserves quotation because it is a fairly apt description of the picture. It is the old classic to the life, and so faithfully has the original been followed, that the atmosphere is with us on the screen to a greater extent than is usual in such offerings.

But Denman Thompson is gone; "The Old Homestead" without him is like a wistful memory, and no matter how capable the acting or how careful the settings, there can never again be a complete presentation of that which hung so much upon the personality of one man.

The countless thousands who knew Denman Thompson as Joshua Whitcomb, however, will want to see the picture, and most of them will be well pleased. So many things have been possible to the camera which were impracticable on the stage. For instance, the real Grace Church is used for the famous meetings of the old man and his son, and other actual views about New York are employed where on the stage these could be merely suggested.

The story of the play hardly needs repetition to any American. The peaceful country life which is broken up when the son leaves, and the old man's weary search for him, which is rewarded on Christmas eve, are as a Hans Christian Andersen story in many a home. It is for this reason that the picture version should have a strong drawing power all over the country.

Excellent photography has come to the aid of the producer in his presentation of his pastoral scenes, and they all have a charm which will be felt alike in city or country. Frank Losee does faithful and sincere work as Joshua Whitcomb, as does Creighton Hale as Reuben. The most charming figure in the picture however, is Louise Huff, as Ruth Stratton. Denman Moley, Mrs. Corbett, Horace Newman, Thomas Wood, Margaret Seddon and Russell Simpson are also in the cast.

CHRISTMAS NUMBER OF "UNIVERSAL WEEKLY" IS BEST ISSUE BY GULICK

THE MOVING PICTURE WEEKLY has just issued its Christmas number with a fine two-color Christmas cover with a Santa Claus on the cover, drawn by Harry Bressler, the artist of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. The "Weekly" abounds with pleasant articles and special stories.

Digby Bell, who has just completed the making of George Ade's comedy, "Father and the Boys" for the Universal, has an excellent interview by Peter Pepper, while several pages are devoted to the description of the new studio at Leonia.

Following this description is a photo of the original Imp company of players, including at that time, King Baggot, William E. Shay, Jack Harvey, David Miles, Mrs. Smith, mother of the Pickfords, and Mary, Lottie and Jack Pickford, Mr. Laemmle, of the Universal giving the Pickfords their first picture work.

The announcement of another Universal contest, to be called "The Handsome Man" contest is also announced to begin January first, while the Fashion Review, review of latest Universal releases and special matter about the new serial "Graft" go to make this one of the most interesting photoplay magazines issued, and is a tribute to the efforts of its editor, Paul Gulick.

Rather than give you Yuletide greetings

Rather than extend our wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year

We proclaim the continuance of the best in photoplay productions.

Furthermore, we consider that giving the exhibitor

Productions of merit only,—throughout the coming year

Is a far greater consideration than extending our best wishes.

ALBERT E. SMITH
J. STUART BLACKTON

VITAGRAPH

The best recommendation for
Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Features
Is the public attitude toward them.
From our first release,
"The Juggernaut"
Up to and including
"A Price for Folly"
Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Features
Have played to maximum crowds wherever shown

The release for January 3rd is

"Thou Art The Man"

It is a heart-interest,
heart-throbbing drama—
A lesson of goodness, of greatness, of overcoming evil.
It is a story of a life love—
Laid in the land of parched throats, of fever, of cholera.
From the pen of George Cameron, author of "A Million Bid,"
Produced by S. Rankin Drew Featuring Virginia Pearson and Joseph Kilgour,
This six-part Blue Ribbon Feature
Will prove to be epoch making.
See this on the screen—
And you will book it.

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

Imagine This For a Situation!

Imagine Being Arrested and Tried for Your Own Murder!

This, in part, is the plot of the BROADWAY STAR FEATURE

"Tried For His Own Murder"

Released January 8th

Situations of this kind are of the variety that lend heart-interest to Broadway Star Features and make them the best three reelers in the world. Maurice Costello plays the dual role and is supported by such eminent screen stars as Leah Baird, Van Dyke Brooke, Harry Fisher and George Stevens.

THE STORY

Irene Garnder, a blind girl, and her invalid father are mountaineers. Ransford, on a shooting trip, visits their section. John D'Arcley, a cynic, comes to the woods and marries Irene. He has an operation performed which restores her sight. Her manner leads him to believe that she loves Ransford, so D'Arcley leaves his wife. On his way out of the country, he comes across the body of a suicide and exchanges clothes with the man. Irene mourns her husband, who is supposed to be the suicide. Ransford tries in vain to marry Irene, who later meets D'Arcley, but does not recognize him. Ransford discovers that D'Arcley's thumb-print coincides with the thumb-print found on the dead man. D'Arcley is arrested for his own murder. Irene accidentally puts her hands on D'Arcley's face and recognizes him as her husband. She realizes that this is the man she loves. He is freed.

Stories of this type make
BROADWAY STAR FEATURES
the best three reelers in the world

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA

EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

A STUPENDOUS

"The Battle Cry of Peace" is now being shown in every city and hamlet in the United States.

The phenomenal run at the Vitagraph Theater, New York City, where this picture played for twelve weeks to capacity crowds, has nearly been duplicated in the following cities:

Chicago, Olympic Theater.
Boston, Majestic Theater.
Philadelphia, Metropolitan Opera House.
San Francisco, Columbia Theater.
Washington, D. C., Strand Theater.
Denver, Colo., Paris Theater.
Salt Lake, Utah, American Theater.
Dallas, Tex., Hippodrome.
Baltimore, Auditorium.
Omaha, Neb., Boyd Theater.
Dayton, Ohio, Colonial.
Cleveland, Ohio, Metropolitan.

Hundreds of other cities have played

The Battle Cry of Peace

By J. STUART BLACKTON

and as an example of its wonderful success we quote the following office communication from the New York office of the V-L-S-E:

" 'The Battle Cry of Peace' ran three weeks at Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo. Largest business in the history of the house. Has asked for indefinite protection with the idea of running it Sundays at his big vaudeville house.

"Proctor played to capacity ten days in Albany and Troy.

The VITAGRAPH

SENSATION

On the third day in Troy, advertised ten o'clock opening. Crowd was so large that he was forced to open the doors at 8:30.

"Played two weeks at Proctor's 23d Street Theater, also at 125th Street, an unheard of thing for a picture at either one of these houses. Played one week in Mount Vernon to capacity business. Broke his house records in Schenectady.

"Is just starting a two weeks' engagement in Rochester to-morrow. Preliminary showing to the Mayor and other officials aroused tremendous enthusiasm.

"Is playing at Academy of Music in Brooklyn to more than satisfactory business at top prices.

"Upwards of 100 applications from other theaters in Brooklyn as soon as available. Success in New York territory greater than any picture ever released not excepting 'Quo Vadis' or the 'Birth of a Nation.' "

This Call to Arms Against War

By J. STUART BLACKTON

is now being shown in every city and hamlet in the United States. If you would take advantage of the wave of Preparedness and Patriotism that is overwhelming the country, book "The Battle Cry of Peace" immediately.

A sufficient number of prints are now on hand in every V-L-S-E office to take care of you.

CO of AMERICA

PERSONALLY · PICKED PROGRAM

JANUARY 10th

"THE SURPRISES OF AN EMPTY HOTEL," Four-Part Drama
Produced by Theodore Marston — Written by Archibald Clavering Gunter Featuring Charles Richman, Arline Pretty and Other Eminent Vitagraph Stars

and

"A CRIPPLE CREEK CINDERELLA," - - - Comedy-Drama
Featuring William Duncan, Carleton Weatherby and George Stanley

REGULAR RELEASES

THE LITTLE TRESPASSER

Comedy-Drama ..... Monday, Jan. 3rd
Presenting Jewell Hunt, Harry Fisher and James Morrison

HIS WIFE KNEW ABOUT IT

Comedy ..... Friday, Jan. 7th
Featuring Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew

TRIED FOR HIS OWN MURDER

Drama ..... Saturday, Jan. 8th
An All-Star Cast, Including Maurice Costello, Leah Baird, Van Dyke Brooke, George Stevens and Harry Fisher

THE PERSONALLY PICKED PROGRAM coupled with REGULAR VITAGRAPH releases will give an exhibitor all that can be desired in the way of photoplay entertainment.

But we do not ask you to pick our subjects in the dark. We want you to see them on the screen.

VITAGRAPH That's all you need to know about a film.

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA

EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

HEART-INTEREST • the KEY-NOTE of NEWS.

Of all the publications in the world, those under the control of William Randolph Hearst handle news from the HEART-INTEREST side.

This is because of the fact that HEARST employs the brains of the newspaper industry.

A NEWS REEL SHOULD CONTAIN HEART-INTEREST.

The telling of the story should be done in an interesting manner.

THIS MEANS MEN TRAINED IN THE PROPER INTERPRETATION OF NEWS.

For over four years the Hearst organization has been training news camera men. These men know news. They have been experimenting for four years and have arrived at a state of perfection that other news weeklies must strive to meet.

HEARST-VITAGRAPH
NEWS PICTORIAL
(Formerly • HEARST-SELIG • Now Better)

EVERY CITY EDITOR ON EVERY HEARST PUBLICATION IS WORKING FOR YOU.

HEARST CITY EDITORS HAVE THEIR FINGERS ON THE PULSE OF THE POPULACE.

When a story breaks, the Hearst Publications get this story and the cameraman is assigned from the city desk.

HEARST-VITAGRAPH

We do not depend upon outside sources for our news.

We accumulate it, gather it and get it direct.

This is because of the fact that the men behind HEARST-VITAGRAPH are all experts in their lines.

Every man is a trained news man.

HEARST-

NEWS

(Formerly HEARST-SELIG

THE NAME VITAGRAPH STANDS FOR EFFICIENCY IN MOTION PICTURES.

The facilities of its enormous plants are such that the HEARST-VITAGRAPH News Reel will BEAT ALL OTHERS IN THE FIELD FROM TWO TO THREE DAYS.

At the gigantic Vitagraph plant the famous TOM POWERS CARTOONS (animated by Raoul Borne) are made.

Tom Powers is the man who makes millions laugh. His little "joys and glooms" will caper for your audiences.

The Tom Powers cartoons will be an innovation in animated cartoons.

Five hundred newspapers today are using the great Tom Powers cartoons. Every one of these newspapers is an advertisement for your theatre.

VITAGRAPH

PICTORIAL

Now Better)

THE STUPENDOUS V·L·S·E ORGANIZATION WILL DISTRIBUTE HEARST-VITAGRAPH

Every office in the country will have a sufficient number of prints to give a great number of theatres a top run of this service.

The first release of HEARST-VITAGRAPH NEWS PICTORIAL will be early in January.

Wire, write or 'phone the nearest V-L-S-E exchange.

HEARST-VITAGRAPH
NEWS PICTORIAL
(Formerly·HEARST-SELIG·Now Better)

"THE SURPRISES OF AN EMPTY HOTEL"

(Vitagraph-Personally Picked Program—Four Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

FIRST melodrama and then comedy and romance intermingled is the general order of things in "The Surprises of an Empty Hotel," by Archibald Clavering Gunter.

It is on the whole a satisfactory picture, as its comedy is of quite an original sort and its romance is indulged in by two thoroughly competent and attractive players, Charles Richman and Arline Pretty.

The scenario is handicapped slightly at its outset owing to the number of threads it takes up and drops suddenly, but the story proper is presented compactly, and by reason of its unconventional atmosphere, enjoyably.

The story tells of a romance between a moderately well-to-do miner and the rich widow of the copper king, who was wont to mistreat the other man during his business dealings with him.

MARCHMONT PERSUADES LUCIE TO EXTEND HER VISIT

There is an imposter, who attempts to carry off the widow's riches. The two lovers are finally left to enjoy each other.

The comedy, as said before, is of a quality quite original. The lovers meet as the only guests of a huge hotel, deserted by its former patrons because of an epidemic of diphtheria.

The spectacle of the two lone guests wandering about in the spacious foyer and dining in a room intended to accommodate several hundred, strikes a very funny chord, creating a weird atmosphere of humorous contrast.

Theodore Marston's direction is in general aspect commendable. The possibilities of the script have been adequately realized in most instances. The settings are good. A real hotel has been utilized, and the results are as realistic as one could ask for.

The acting of the principals is fitting, while the support given by Leo Delaney, William Dunn, Charles Eldridge, Robert Gaillard and Ethel Corcoran is, as usual, up to the mark of Vitagraph stock players.

"THE NATURE MAN"

(Broadway Universal Feature—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

AS a novelty this subject of the Universal company ranks quite by itself. It features Joseph Knowles, who once went out into the Maine woods with nothing about him manufactured by human hands and existed for several weeks by employing advanced prehistoric methods in killing game and building shelters.

This picture was made in the wilds of California, and Knowles re-enacts his previous experiences before the camera lens. To say the least his struggle for existence against the terrific forces of nature are very interesting. He builds a fire by friction, fashions a canoe, traps various species of wild animals, animals that really are wild, that startle by their ferocity, and besides he travels through many beautiful places in the California mountains.

His is an entertaining career and the Universal has done well to exploit his semi-miraculous deeds in motion pictures. For a change from the cut and dried order of feature dramas and comedies "The Nature Man" neatly fills the bill.

Wonderful scenes, beautiful in their wild grandeur and immeasureable depth, have been caught by the camera. Water falls, mountain torrents, wooded slopes, lofty crags and about every other variety of western beauty are reproduced.

In most every instance are they supported by good photography. At times the general tone is a little dark, but the scenes are not of a sort to be belittled by even wretched camera work, and "The Nature Man" possesses consistently good camera work.

These things of course are not found in "The Nature Man," but the adventures are really thrilling. The titling might be improved by the omission of several of the many introductory messages.

IDA SCHNALL, UNIVERSAL, WITH A COPY OF HER FAVORITE MAGAZINE. SHE WILL BE SEEN IN "UNDINE"

What Is The Motion Picture?

(Continued from page 43.)

institution. It is an invention—basically new and distinct. It is a twentieth century vehicle of expression, as new and revolutionary as was the art of printing.

It has to do with the stage, with books, with magazines, with newspapers, with painting—but it is none of these. It is itself.

* * *

WE call it the fifth industry—and so it is. It is powerful, wonderful as an industry. It is greater than many other great industries and it calls for their economies, their expert promotion, their hard and fast efficiencies, their able executives.

But it is even more than the first industry. It is the fifth estate.

Burke placed the fourth estate of printing above all the elements of government in power. The publication is vast in power today but so also is the new and fifth estate of the motion picture. The screen today talks to millions daily and to increasing millions—and to these millions it will talk in the many ways of motion photography as the printed page talks in the ways of type.

* * *

IT is a new art—the motion picture: but we can afford to lessen this realization of its artistry in order to grasp the fuller one—that the motion picture is a new and different vehicle of expression—world wide in operation and population wide in appeal.

Its task is nothing less than the shaping of modern thought and culture. It is a broad institution—as broad as humanity itself; it is an ingrained part of our daily life and progress. Let us know it for what it is—what it basically is; and then we shall know how to use it and how not to misuse and misrepresent; how not to cramp its progress.

WM. A. JOHNSTON.

"DESTRUCTION"

(Fox—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

IN a vehicle excellently adapted to her, Theda Bara shows the full force and power of her methods. The vampire type, which she has so often portrayed has been developed to the extreme, and the potency of such a woman for the wrecking of life and property and working her own destruction is well brought out. The strength of the theme is enhanced by its handling, and by excellent direction and mounting; there are some scenes in the picture which are almost tremendous, and thrills are plentiful.

Among these are a startling fire scene, unusually faithful scenes of factory interiors, and a strike riot which is a fine piece of realism. W. S. Davis, the director, has had a hard task, but he has worked hard on it, and the result should be a source of considerable satisfaction to him.

THE VAMPIRE AT WORK

A girl of the vampire type sets her trap for a wealthy manufacturer. In the meantime, she meets the man's son, who is present when the girl's car runs down and injured her own mother. She renounces the aged woman, declaring she knows nothing of her, but the young man, who has come to the woman's aid, is inclined to believe her story rather than the girl's. When he next sees his father he finds the elder man in the grip of the girl, and later they are married.

Then, fearing the step-son's hostile attitude, the bride sets out to ruin him. At the same time she conspires with her lover to murder her husband. She learns that he is subject to nervous ailment, and a severe shock will prove fatal. She attempts to produce this shock by stirring up a strike at the factory.

The plan is foiled by her stepson, who arranges peace with the strikers, and the woman then resorts to poison, which finally does its work.

In her efforts to ruin the young man, she learns he has befriended the wife of a drunken employe at the factory, and she inflames the mind of this man, a powerful animal, against the youth. When his rage reaches his height the real destruction begins. The man wrecks his own home, burns the factory, and finally causes a fire in the home of his late employer, which consumes the house, and in which the vampire herself perishes.

The acting of Miss Bara is not always pleasant, but it is of her usual style, and is wondrously effective. She is ably supported by Joseph Furney, Warner Oland, J. Herbert Frank, Callon Maccy, Frank Evans, Gaston Bell and J. Walker. Bernard Chapin is the author of the piece.

"THE BURIED TREASURE OF COBRE"

(Selig—Three Reels)

REVIEWED BY WILLIAM C. ESTY 2nd

THE story of this release is credited to Richard Harding Davis, and it is characteristic. International intrigue, Southern American politics, treasure trove, and love are woven into the plot. The director managed to find some scenery wholly un-Californian and almost South American. This happy find furnishes admirable atmosphere for the unfolding of the tale.

Harry Mestayer and Will Machin are very wisely cast and do very good work. The others in the cast, Frank Clark, Virginia Kirtley, Louis Cody, Fred Hearn, and Richard Morris, are adequate.

Richard Everett is appointed United States Minister to Amapala, with a view to forcing President Mendoza to sign a treaty to extradite criminals. In Amapala he meets Chester Ward and his sister Monica, American expatriates. A secret service agent discovers that Ward is a refugee from justice who is conducting a counterfeit scheme with the connivance of Mendoza. The President refuses to sign the extradition treaty, knowing that his associate Ward will be deported if he does.

Everett proves to Mendoza that he knows the relations existing between him and Ward. The President signs the treaty, and Ward commits suicide. Monica finally consents to marry Everett.

"MR. McIDIOT'S ASSASSINATION"

(L-Ko-Universal—Two Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

HENRY LEHRMANN offers in this number, to be released January 23, two reels of unsullied comedy, quite void of the slapstick and containing much "business," effected by a pair of most capable comedians.

Ray Griffith and Dan Russell, comparatively new arrivals at the L-Ko studio, seem to have a brilliant sense of comedy values along such lines. They are capable men and will undoubtedly add much to the popularity of these pictures.

"Mr. McIdiot's Assassination" offers them a picture quite unlike the usual run of Mr. Lehrmann's comedies. There is no strenuous slapstick work, and no wild chase through town and country.

The picture has a plot, and it is interesting, though of a familiar sort, but the work of Griffith and Russell is responsible for the greater number of the picture's merits. They furnish laughs that come unaccompanied by blushes.

McIdiot, having lost in love, goes to the Murderers' Association, and pays a large sum to have his life ended. Then, horror of horrors, he discovers that his girl still loves him, and consequently he is in fear that his life will be forfeited from him at any minute; but the proprietor of the Murderers' Association decides to mend his ways and consequently the lovers are left unmolested.

Louise Orth as the girl presents an attractive appearance, while the few remaining roles are carried by players who have been well tutored. Save for the fact that the photography in the print shown was poor in a few places, the picture is by all odds the best of two-reel L-Kos.

"ACROSS THE RIO GRANDE"

(Bison-Universal—Three Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

THIS picture edges its way into the feature class because of the thrilling feats of horsemanship performed by a large number of Universal cowboys.

Riding, in these days of thrilling pictures, must be unusually clever, daring and sensational, in order to stir the picture patron who is familiar with railroad smashups, sinking of ships, blowing up of mines, and the like.

"Across the Rio Grande" does and will stir the most supersaturated thrill-seeker by its continuous and wilding riding, falling, and its many scenes showing fighting on horseback.

In other respects, chiefly in regard to plot, this Bison feature is an average Western melodrama, but plain plot and old situations melt into insignificance before the terrific onrush of Jaccard's band of cowboys.

Because of being mistreated at the hands of the villain and spurred on by the love of his employer's daughter, a mine superintendent who has allowed wine and women to get the better of him, manages to regenerate himself with the aid of Texas rangers, who do battle with the villain's followers.

"Across the Rio Grande" is a real old-fashioned Western, modernized in a way, because no old picture was ever as thrilling, but the exciting melodramatic moments are there, brought out well by a cast that deserves credit en masse rather than individually.

Olive Fuller Golden, William Gettinger, William Canfield, Neal Hart, Bud Osborne, Joe Rickson and Peggy Coulray have the named roles, but the death-daring collection of cowboys and Mexicans deserve much credit for making the picture a success.

TO AUTHORS

One That Can Be Continued Indefinitely—or On Which An Equally Strong Sequel Can Be Built.

WE WANT A 14 EPISODE SERIAL

FEATURING A WELL KNOWN INGENUE STAR

APPOINTMENT CAN BE MADE WITH ADVERTISER
BY LETTER TO XXX, MOTION PICTURE NEWS

PUBLISHER OF ILLINOIS DAILY DISCUSSES SCREEN PUBLICITY WITH EXHIBITORS

SOMETHING new in the manner of promoting motion picture publicity was sprung recently when J. David Stern, publisher of the News-Record, at Springfield, Ill., invited all the motion picture theatre owners of that city to a noonday luncheon at the Illinois hotel.

The exhibitors were met by members of the News-Record's editorial and advertising staff, and for more than three hours they discussed motion picture publicity.

The exhibitors were asked for suggestions for improving the motion picture news, and members of the newspaper force offered suggestions with regard to write-ups on current attractions, advertising and motion picture news in general.

Exhibitors present seemed to feel that suggestions which had been made and accepted with regard to handling motion picture matter in the paper would result in increased public interest.

The exhibitors present at the luncheon were: Sam Harris, Majestic; Benjamin Rovin, Amuse-U; H. O. Shaw and W. W. Watts, Vaudette and Gaiety; Edward Kunz, Grand and Princess; Mrs. A. J. Marshall, Empress; Harry T. Loper, Lyric; Isadore Burnstein, Capital and Family Circle; H. A. Shapiro, Chatterton.

HORSLEY'S AXETITLER USED IN "COULD A MAN DO MORE?" A CENTAUR

FOR the first time since his productions have been distributed through the branches of the Mutual Film Corporation, David Horsley has made use of his own invention, the axetitler, a device by which the words of the character, or characters, in the scene being shown are printed directly on the film.

The introduction of this novelty was made in the Centaur Star Feature, "Could a Man Do More?" a three-reel drama featuring Crane Wilbur, and released Wednesday, November 24 on the Mutual program.

The introduction of the axetitler is an interesting novelty which will be used in other David Horsley productions through Mutual from time to time.

NOTICE

No Bookings Accepted
IN Greater New York
UNTIL FEBRUARY 1ST.

BOOKED BY
WILLIAM FOX CIRCUIT
MARCUS LOEW CIRCUIT

Can Accommodate Upper New York State and New Jersey Exhibitors

FOR BOOKINGS
NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY
ADDRESS
D. J. McGOWAN, 110 West 40th St., New York

THIRTEENTH KNICKERBOCKER TRIANGLE PROGRAM

("Dizzy Heights and Daring Hearts"—Keystone—Two Parts. "The Conqueror"—Kay-Bee—Five Parts. "Don Quixote"—Fine Arts—Five Parts.)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

TWO new Triangle pictures held the screen at the Knickerbocker during holiday week, the third angle being supplied by "Don Quixote" which was thus given its second week's showing. A full review of this Fine Arts subject will be found in the issue of January 1.

"Dizzy Heights and Daring Hearts," the Sennett-Keystone number produced by Walter Wright is notable for thrills, trick photographic work and an intelligent burlesque characterization of the melodramatic villain given by Chester Conklin.

A BREATHING SPELL

Conklin is a comedian who knows the humorous value of an exaggerated twist of the moustache, a shrug of the shoulders or a swing of the cane. Common points they are in all villain's roles and their very conventionality burlesqued by Conklin is creative of a large measure of comedy.

The thrills are as usual real ones and worked into a good story. They are aided by various magical devices of the camera. Aeroplanes turn slow somersaults, and skim through the air only a few feet above rushing automobiles, the hero is rescued from a high chimney by the heroine who dashes by in an air machine, and the chimney is subsequently blown up, burying nefarious Conklin in its ruins.

AT THE CLIMAX

It is certainly an excellent comedy that lets no opportunities slip by. Cora Anderson, William Mason, Nick Cogley and Dave Anderson furnish intrepid and likable support.

"The Conqueror," presenting Willard Mack as an Ince star for the second time, is a strong picture by reason of its fundamental element which is "struggle" of a vivid variety. "Struggle" some dramatists aver is the underlying principle of a good play, or in fact of any play. "The Conqueror" is all "struggle," and that main principle of the story is enlarged and dwelt upon to such an extent that the picture is indeed a powerful one.

It is the struggle, bitter until just before an enforced happy ending of aristocracy versus commonalty, each class being represented by a moneyed man.

C. Gardner Sullivan has shaped his scenario with customary precision and power. His characters are well defined and by clever manipulation of his material he has divided the spectator's sympathy between the self-made man and the ultra aristocrat.

Sullivan's story advances logically until Horn, the self-made man brings Madison, the aristocrat to his feet. Horn, who agrees to save Madison from utter ruin, for Viva Madison's daughter and finally he procures her unwilling consent to marry him. Then he insults her, saying that he has bought her and she in turn insults him and refuses to wed.

Here is the natural ending of the story. Horn has accomplished his cynical mission of bringing the most snobbish family in the city to his feet.

Horn restores his despised enemy's fortune and by so doing receives the gracious attentions of Viva, which ultimately is rather unbelievable owing to the former hateful attitudes of the two. But then hate, of course, can turn to love as easily as love to hate and after all a happy ending is the happiest.

Willard Mack as Horn plays with pronounced force and interprets Gardner's cynical character in most satisfying style. You can see all the pent up bitterness of years of hard battle with the rich surging within him—you can see his hateful attitude toward the aristocracy that shuns and insults him.

J. Barney Sherry as Madison gives one of his sterling characterizations and Enid Markey as Viva plays her part of the haughty daughter with customary skill. Margaret Thompson and Louise Brownell fill the other major roles.

Reginald Barker's direction is good save for the fact that he has cast his supporting players in more than one part, but in essential respects he has done his work in a style typical of Ince's men, which is a style abounding in clarity, straightforwardness and general excellence.

"SAVED FROM THE HAREM"

(Lubin-Unit—Four Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

THE title leads one to believe that the body of this picture is good old melodrama, and the title is not exactly misleading, save for the manner in which the picture has been produced and the various skilful touches given the story by the authors, Wilbert Melville and Julian Louis Lamothe, which facts after all alter the case considerably.

THE EUROPEAN AMBASSADOR MAKES AN IMPRESSION

We must speak first of the humorously drawn characters. They are burlesqued to an exaggerated degree, but the comical possibilities lying in each such character have been realized to their fullest extent.

Ezra Hickman, leading citizen of Kankakee, Ill., U. S. A., is the main comedy character. Persuaded by his wife he ventures to Washington to seek a job, and he gets it, but imagine this eccentric Westerner wandering through the fashionably peopled halls of the White House, in ludicrous clothing, and affecting raw and ungainly actions.

Melvin Mayo is strikingly clever in this role. Martha, his wife, on the other hand, who pushes her reticent husband to the front and completely dominates him in questions pertaining to the management of the household, is responsible for humor of a different sort.

Adelaide Bronti plays this part in a manner hardly less brilliant than her opposite.

When the spectator isn't being amused in "Saved from the Harem," he is being thrilled either by way of the plots' exciting situations or the spectacle of dauntless American troops, who rescue the heroine from the living death of the harem.

These moments are all truly exciting, mainly because of the desperate character of the villain, the lord of the harem. This gentleman wipes his feet on the American flag, but for a finale we see him being forced to salute it. This seems like fiction, but, anyway, it is pictured with stirring realism.

Speaking of the American troops, chiefly officers and sailors of the fleet, they are brought before the lens a number of times and act like born troopers, toward the close.

L. C. Shumway as the American officer, and Violet Mac Millan as the daughter, of Hickman, play very well indeed, and George Routh as the villain deserves credit for his forceful impersonation of the part.

Wilbert Melville, director, has handled the scenario in very good style. The battle scenes are fine, and the entire picture well set. The climax is strong and throughout there are several realistic touches that speak well for Melville's knowledge of human nature.

BIDS ASKED FOR WORK ON GAUMONT BUILDINGS

IN order to begin rebuilding the Gaumont studios upon an enlarged scale at Flushing, N. Y., by the first of the year, the architects are now rushing the working drawings.

Under the open-air stage there will be dressing rooms for 200 people. The present studio will be demolished, and the stage will extend from the present executive building almost to the factory which faces on Park Place. It is estimated that the entire expenditure for new ground, buildings and equipment will be $200,000.

BEAVER STUDIO FOR RENT

New, modern, up-to-date daylight studio. One hour from Times Square. New stock of scenery and lighting system. For terms and dates write or phone.

BEAVER FILM CORPORATION

W. Lindsay Gordon, President and Manager.

Phone, 527 New Dorp. Dongan Hills, Staten Island, N. Y.

WE ARE ACTIVE

in every branch of the film line. Titles, trick and animated drawings, cartoons and animated trade marks. Developing, printing, tinting and toning stock. "The End." "Part 1-2-3-4-5-6." Write us for prices. We are at your service.

ACTIVE MOTION PICTURE COMPANY, Inc.

1103 West Randolph Street, CHICAGO

"Agents for the Cosmograph Projector"

A LIVE FIRM WANT TO REPRESENT AMERICAN PRODUCTIONS in GREAT BRITAIN and the REST of THE WORLD

A square deal and the best service

Address James Starr, Exclusives, Excelsior Building, Denmark Street, Charing Cross Road, London, England. R. G. Knowles and James Starr, Proprietors. Refer to Gus Hill, Columbia Theatre Building, and Harvey Watkins, Palace Theatre Building, New York.

Offices For Rent

Outside offices for rent in the most desirable buildings in the Times Square district — the Candler Building, 220 West 42nd Street and the new Film Building, 7th Avenue and 49th Street.

Smaller office spaces—also outside—for rental as low as $400.00 a year are available.

For further details, Apply to

Motion Picture News

220 West 42nd Street
New York City

M·I·N·A COMEDIES Large Laughable Laughs

EVERY THURSDAY ON GENERAL FILM PROGRAM. BOOK THEM

TABLOID REVIEWS FOR THE BUSY EXHIBITOR

PRODUCTIONS FROM ALL PROGRAMS

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

"The Avenging Shot." (Biograph. Two reels. Tues., Jan. 4.)—A striking drama, well produced, beginning in a mystery and ending in a sudden clearing away of the clouds. An old curio dealer keeps in a drawer of his desk a pistol, from which one of the cartridges was discharged twenty-years before. He fondles the pistol, expecting every day that its time for use would come. Finally it does. He enters his shop to find his pretty daughter, the light of his life struggling in the arms of a brutal stranger. Then it develops that the first shot had slain her mother, and all these years he had treasured the pistol hoping to avenge her with it. The stranger is laid low by a shot from the doorway to the old man's rooms. Vera Sisson, Charles H. Mailes, Jack Mulhall and G. Raymond Nye head the cast.

"The Skating Rink." (Biograph. Three reels. Wed., Jan. 5.)—This is a good and timely comedy, in which Gertrude Bambrick carries off the palm as a comedienne of unusual charm. The skate manufacturers, on the verge of bankruptcy, send out their star salesman to make one last stand. He follows two of the village belles, and learns that their father is in the grip of a mortgage shark, who threatens to foreclose on their barn. The salesman turns the barn into a skating rink, and soon the whole town becomes absorbed in the new fad. The mortgage shark also becomes a devotee, and challenges the owner of the barn to a race, with the mortgage as a prize. . The shark loses, and in revenge he sets fire to the barn. There are unusual comedy situations when the little slavey of the family calls out the fire department and the blaze is extinguished. Others in the cast are Madge Kirby, Jack Mulhall, Louise Owen, Dave Morris, Clarence Barr and Gus Pixley.

"Brought Home." (Essanay. Two reels. Tues., Dec. 28.)—Will be reviewed in a later issue.

"Her Lesson." (Essanay. Two reels. Tues., Jan. 4.)—Mr. G. M. Anderson will probably appeal to more audiences with his well known "Broncho Billy" work than the drawing-room school of acting that this picture calls for. His support, consisting of Ruth Saville, Rodney Hildebrand, Lloyd Bacon and Eva Heazlett is fair.

The capitalist realizes that his wife is drifting away from him, and that an interloper is about to flee with her. He calls in the young man with whom his wife is enamored, and offers him twenty-five thousand dollars to leave the country for two years. The follow accepts the offer, and the woman, who has overheard the conversation, enters the room. She spurns her erstwhile lover, and begs the forgiveness of her husband, which he gladly grants.

"Mile a Minute Monty." (Essanay. Split reel, with scenic. Wed., Jan. 5.)—An animated cartoon, not shown for review. There are 500 feet of scenes taken in the Canadian Rockies included.

"The House of Revelation." (Essanay. Three reels. Sat., Jan. 8.)—Not shown for review; the story is: Lady Denning is in love with Sir Charles Raleigh, but for an unknown reason fears him. Sir Charles loses an arm while rescuing Lady Denning's brother in a battle in Flanders. When he returns he discovers that an ancestor of his had had a quarrel with an ancestor of Lady Denning's. This quarrel had culminated in the suicide of Lady's Denning's forebear. This explains his loved one's antipathy, but her aversion for him is turned into love when she hears how her brother's life was saved by him. In the cast are John A. Lorenz, Elizabeth Burbridge, John Junior and Jack Milton.

"Crossed Clues." (Kalem. Fri., Jan. 7.)—This is one of the most thrilling of the episodes of the "Ventures of Marguerite" yet released. It continues the girl's experiences with foreign spies. This time the spies steal the secret of a chemical compound which Bob, Marguerite's sweetheart, has invented, and which is of especial interest to the government. In attempting to stop them, Marguerite is captured, and smuggled on board a fast sloop, on which they make their escape. She manages to leave word for Bob of where she is being taken, and he and Secret Service men pursue the spies in a fast motor boat. They are overtaken and Marguerite rescued after she has had several thrilling escapes from death in the water. Marguerite Curtot, Roland Bottomley, Richard Purdon, Forrest Cummings, Hassen Mussali, and Joe Sullivan are in the cast.

"The Honor of the Road." (Kalem. Two reels. Wed., Jan.5.)—This episode of the "Stingaree" series is built about the sheepherders of Australia. A ranchman, after a dispute with his partner, kills him, then makes it appear that Stingaree, the notorious bushranger is the murderer. For the "honor of the road" Stingaree sets about to clear his name of the stigma. This he does by leading the inspectors, who are seeking him, to the cabin of the real murderer, where suspicious evidences are found. Stingaree, at the risk of capture continues to weave the chain of evidence around the real murderer, and finally, in a burst of remorse, he confesses. In several of the scenes nearly a thousand sheep are shown, adding excellent "color" to the picture. True Boardman, Thomas Lingham, Frank Jonasson, Paul C. Hurst, Edward Clisbee, Marin Sais and Ollie Kirkby are in the cast.

"The Convict King." (Lubin. Three reels. Thurs., Dec. 30.)—This is very strong melodrama. novel because of the total absence of love story and in that the author, Dudley Glass, has sacrificed a complete happy ending to gain his point. The action is rapid moving, and is fraught with a good many sensational moments. Melvin Mayo, Jay Morely, George Routh, L. C. Shumway and Adda Gleason, the reliable quintet of the Lubin western forces give performances of sterling quality in the leading parts.

"No Smoking." (Lubin. Sat., Dec. 25.)—A very funny picture written by Mark Swan featuring Billie Reeves, who attempts to hide from his rich aunt the fact that he is wedded to the smoking habit. The situations that arise from such a plot are indeed funny, while the players carry their parts in capable style. Carrie Reynolds and Jessie Terry are also in the cast.

"This Isn't the Life." (Lubin-Unit. Wed., Dec. 29.)—David L. Don as the upstart millionaire who doesn't enjoy wealth. Pretty girls aid the picture considerably while as a whole it contains fun enough to warrant it a good reception.

"The Buried Treasure of Cobre." (Selig. Three reels. Mon., Jan. 3.)—Reviewed at length elsewhere in this issue.

"Spooks." (Selig. Sat., Jan. 8.)—The Bloom Center players bring in a touch of the supernatural in this picture. The action is more interesting than the last few of this series, and there are some good laughs in the film. The regular cast, including Sidney Smith, John Lancaster, Ralph McComas and William Hutchison, is intact, and in addition there are Archie Mallott, Mrs. Watson and Cecile Holland.

A band of itinerant spiritualists visits Bloom Center, and Chubby Green frightens those going to the seance by dressing up as a ghost. The mediums are going in great shape, when some real spirits invade the meeting and precipitate a riot. One of the spiritualists falls into some mortar, and is covered with white. His co-workers mistake him for another ghost, and flee before him down the railroad tracks.

MUTUAL PROGRAM

"Foolish Fat Flora." (Falstaff. Thurs., Dec. 30.)—This is a good burlesque on the eternal effort to reduce. Flora, an extremely stout person, tries every method; while swinging Indian clubs one of them flies out the window and hits the gardener; the hose flies around in his hands and the stream hits Flora's husband, there is a fight, and both men go to jail. Later Flora reads of the system of taking exercise, eating and sleeping on the floor; she tries it, and her antics only result in the neighbors having her arrested. In a cell she greets her husband, who blames his plight on her, and the trouble continues indefinitely. Arthur Cunningham, George Mack, Charles Emerson and George Welch are in the cast.

"Jerry's Revenge." (Cub. Fri., Dec. 31.)—George Ovey's antics are amusing in this fast comedy. Jerry, resolved on revenge, because his sweetheart, Amy, shows partiality for a lieutenant, meets Professor Knutt, and gets from him a mystic ring, with which he can hypnotize anyone at a moment's notice. By the use of the ring he gets two policemen into a fight, hypnotizes the lieutenant, and causes his arrest for committing breaches of the peace, and finally overcomes a prince who is about to call on Amy's father, and changes clothes with him. His career as the prince is satisfactory until Professor Knutt seeks the return of the ring, and this results in Jerry's pursuit and capture, and his landing in the same cell with the outraged lieutenant. Assisting George Ovey in the cast are George George, Louis FitzRoy, Robert Kenyon, Jefferson Osborne, Janet Sully, and Belle Bennett.

"Matching Dreams." (American. Two reels. Mon., Jan. 3.)—Those who remember "The Substitute Minister" know how good Vivian Rich and Alfred Vosburgh can be when paired in a cast. The colorless plot does much to hamper their efforts, but the picture as a whole is a good release. Others in the cast are Sylvia Ashton and Jimsy Maye. Reaves Eason was the director.

Martha Weaver, an artistic but poverty-stricken dressmaker, makes a gown for a rich girl. This patron is unable to pay for the outfit, so gives her horse to Martha. The dressmaker is out riding on this mount when she meets Hugh Clayton, a rich young man. He is interested in her, but when he asks her name, she remembers her Shakespeare well enough to reply "Rosalind." Clayton plays Orlando until Martha one day confesses her humble employment. Clayton takes her in his arms, notwithstanding her modest circumstances.

"Sammy's Scandalous Scheme." (Vogue. Two reels. Mon., Jan. 1.)—This initial Vogue comedy introduces Sammy Burns, the eccentric comedian. In his imitation of Charley Chaplin he demonstrates that he is not only a wizard of mimicry, but also an acrobat of no mean attainments. Dot Farley, who plays opposite him, is a satisfactory ingenue. The first reel drags somewhat, but there is enough action in the second thousand feet for anyone. The fun is frankly of the slapstick variety.

M-I-N-A COMEDIES
"From Blackstone to Stone"
RELEASED DECEMBER 30th ON GENERAL FILM PROGRAM.

IF ONE STROKE OF YOUR PEN WOULD KILL CENSORSHIP WOULD YOU HESITATE?

THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY

THE question of Federal censorship of motion pictures is before Congress again this year. The same bill which had not been reached when the last Congress adjourned has been introduced once more.

When Congress assembles on January 3, it will come up for passage.

A powerful combination is behind the censorship bill to put it through—to load the motion picture with a new and subtle form of special taxation—to create jobs paying up to $4000 a year, in salaries alone, for hundreds of political camp-followers.

What have you done about it?

If you are not awake to what this state of affairs means, you are lagging behind the rest of the business.

Exhibitors, exchange men and producers have this year resolved that such a measure shall not go through, if they can prevent it.

They have already demanded a hearing of the Congressional Committee in charge of this bill, a chance to fight censorship fairly and in the open and purge themselves of the charges which have been falsely made against them.

Will you add your voice to this hearing and help to make it a success? A stroke of your pen will do it.

MAIL THE ATTACHED COUPON, FILLED OUT AND SIGNED, TO MOTION PICTURE NEWS AT ONCE

COUPON

PROTEST AGAINST CENSORSHIP

Motion Picture News,
220 W. 42d Street, N. Y. City.

Gentlemen:

I, ..., the undersigned, believing that censorship of motion pictures is wrong in principle, un-American and undemocratic, do hereby protest against House Resolution No. 456 and Senate Bill No. 2204, and I request that the Committee on Education grant a hearing on these bills so that the real sentiment of the people affected by them can be expressed.

Name .....

Theatre .....

City and State .....

Sammy's girl, Dottie, is infatuated with the screen performances of Charley Chaplin, and poor Sammy cannot make any headway with this formidable rival in the field. He dresses up as Charlin, and goes to Dottie's house, where he wrecks the place. Dottie is disillusioned concerning the film hero's charms, and Sammy is ace-high once more.

"Billy Van Deusen's Shadow." (Beauty. Tues., Jan. 4.)—Dual personality achieved by double exposure is no longer a novelty to movie fans, but it is used with good comedy effect in this release. Billy Van Deusen, played by John Steppling, has his usual trouble in his latest affair of the heart. Carol Holloway and Marie Van Tassel help along with the fun in their usual finished style.

Mrs. Smudge and her daughter Flora are social climbers of the first water. When they discover that Billy Van Deusen is a prominent clubman, Flora becomes almost saccharine in her behavior toward him. But Mrs. Smudge sees him in waiter's garb in a famous restaurant, and believes that she has been imposed upon. In reality the man she sees is Billy's double. The aspiring mother and her heart-broken daughter go to Europe. Billy wanders into the cafe, and is mistaken for his double, and much misunderstanding and merriment ensues.

"The Homesteader." (Centaur. Two reels. Thurs., Jan. 6.)—The Bostock animals are used effectively in a story of the western mountains and plains. Carey Graves, a young school teacher, advised to go west for her health, takes a homestead in Nevada. She is immediately pursued by Osborne, a wealthy landowner, who looks upon all women as his natural prey. She does her best to avoid him, and is shielded as much as possible by Wells, a young farmer who has fallen in love with her. One day, out in the foothills, Carey discovers a puma lair, and fondles the cubs lovingly. Osborne comes upon her, and seizes the opportunity to force his attentions on her. The mother puma appears, springs upon Osborne and wounds him seriously, but Carey's screams attract Wells, who is hunting nearby, and he shoots the beast. Osborne, nursed back to life by Carey and Wells, offers to marry the girl, but she tells him she loves Wells. The two are married with Osborne's grateful assistance. Margaret Gibson, John Oaker, Roy Watson and Jane Keckley head the cast.

"The Hills of Glory." (Mustang. Two reels. Fri., Jan. 7.)—This is a world-old story with modern variations and several good thrills. E. Forrest Taylor uncorks some of his well known hero stuff, and Helene Rosson, in the guise of an unsophisticated mountain girl, does some good character work. The heavy is a bit too heavy in his villainy. The remainder of the cast consists of Roy Stewart, Beatrice Van, and Charles Newton. The directing was done by William Bertram.

Justus McCanna, a prominent physician, is vacationing in the mountains of Kentucky, when he meets Cherry Blossom, a girl of the hills. His marked attention to the girl causes Matt Sipe, a rival, to attempt to murder him. When Justus thinks he is going to die he insists on being married to Cherry. When he later recovers, it is necessary for him to go to the city on business, and he forgets his humble wife. When a child is born, the girl takes it to the city, and tries to find Justus. She goes to his home, but, overawed by the luxury, she leaves before she can see her husband. She goes back to her native mountains, and is hounded by Sipe, when her husband arrives on the scenes. After a thrilling fight on the edge of a precipice, Sipe is thrown over the abyss.

"Time and Tide." (American. Fri., Jan. 7.)—The plot of this comedy is not excruciatingly funny, nor is the acting very conducive to laughter. Alfred Vosburgh and Nell Franzen are players of sterling worth, but this kind of vehicle is not the kind they are most suited to. Reaves Eason was the director.

William Lang, a wealthy widower, is captivated by a charming widow, who is more interested in his bank roll than in him. Realizing this, his son Ned writes the widow a note, stating that Lang has lost his entire fortune. The woman immediately loses interest, and the father is enraged at his son's interference. To get revenge, William forbids Ned to go with the girl he is engaged to. Ned maroons his father on a rock, and leaves him there until the tide subsides. Meantime he has persuaded a minister to marry him to the girl of his choice.

"To Be or Not to Be." (Beauty. Sat., Jan. 8.)—Not shown for review; the story is: Ignatius Ienkyns is the world's greatest tragedian. He admits it, yet has to play on the ten, twent', thirt' time. His company after weeks of "all work and no pay" threatens to disband. To add to the actor's troubles, the sheriff threatens to jail him for past due hotel bills, and Ignatius flees. He recoups his fallen fortune by discovering the whereabouts of a large sum of money hidden by a defunct miser, and after paying his bills, returns in triumph to the stage. In the cast are Orral Humphreys, Gladys Kingsburg, Mary Talbot, Johnny Gough, and Ed. C. Watt. The director was Ed. Watt.

PATHE EXCHANGE INC.

"Lonesome Luke, Social Gangster." (Phunphilms. Split reel)—Luke is especially funny, when his efforts to escape the police, who want him for shooting craps, land him in an automobile beside a young thing who is in search of a dancing partner. His pal also finds a dancing partner, and in trying out their steps in public, jealousy gives rise to a fight, the police are called, and Luke is recognized as the man they have been seeking. His dancing days are ended, but not until the establishment is wrecked. On the same reel is "Where the Trees Are Stone," a chapter of the "Seeing America First" series, which furnishes some striking views of the petrified forest of Arizona.

"Chasing 'Em Out in the Open." (Starlight)—Heinie and Louie have been given some fast work to do in this comedy. Hiding in a barn, they observe a young man concealing a large roll of bills. They get the money and begin an elaborate scheme of spending. A lot of it goes for food and then they buy out a hairdressing establishment. They do the work themselves, and get along to their own satisfaction until an exceptionally pretty girl comes in. Then a fight starts, there is a pitched duel, in which both Heinie and Louie flirt with death until the minions of the law compel them to league together and flee for safety. They find themselves again back in the stable from which they started.

"The Red Circle." No. 3. (Balboa. Two reels)—In "Twenty Years Ago," the mystery of the red circle, a badge of crime, which appears on the hand of June Travis, is explained. The old nurse tells June of her birth in a western camp. On the same day a son was born to Jim Borden, the famous criminal, soon afterward a gang of outlaws attacked the town, and Mrs Borden and Travis were killed. Jim Borden left town hastily, and the children became mixed, leaving June, in reality the daughter of Borden, and inheritor of the criminal mark. Ruth Roland is featured as June Travis.

"Pathé News, No. 103—1915." (Pathé)—Huge piles of merchandise congest the piers at Brooklyn; heavy falls of snow put the horse and the auto out of service, and oxen are used to distribute milk at Roseland, N. J.; resourceful British soldiers use empty jars to make bombs at Ypres; British soldiers learn to use asphyxiating gases at Ypres; continued smuggling of opium and cocaine calls forth energetic action by the Oklahoma City police; hundreds glide on the frozen lakes in New York city parks; the Allies' answer to the Zeppelin menace.

UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

"Universal Animated Weekly, No. 198." (Wed., Dec. 22.)—Bender, Grandall and Mathewson, baseball stars, trap shooting; a vast herd of geese; children's prohibition parade in Dorchester, Mass.; Al. Jennings, ex-train robber; receiving wireless messages from Germany in Chicago; intimate pictures of army life with the English, French, Russian, Servian and German troops; skating at the Hotel Biltmore, N. Y. C.; cartoons by Hy Mayer.

"Universal Animated Weekly, No. 199." (Universal. Dec. 29.)—Echoes of Wilson wedding; Stock yards glutter with cattle, sheep and goats at Chicago; Baron Yei-Iehi Shibusawa, with party of Japanese notables, visits Universal City, Cal.; sailing ship Pero D'Alm Quer finds a sandy berth at Mantoloking, N. J.; board of health removes prohibition against sale of horse flesh at New York City; Capt. Louis Lane and John Borden to wrest riches in furs from Polar regions; French Algerian troops lend their aid to strengthen position against the enemy; British recruits are put through strenuous drills; giant air craft carries army observers aloft to spy on enemy; span weighing 468 tons, part of two-million dollar bridge, is placed in position over Columbia river at Vancouver, Wash.; lost submarine, submerged for twenty-five years, is raised from river bottom at Chicago; ice skating at Biltmore Hotel Ice Gardens, New York City. Cartoons by Hy. Mayer.

"Graft." (Universal Special Feature. Fourth episode. Two reels. Week of Jan. 3.)—After Bruce Larnigan (Hobart Henley) has resigned from the District Attorney's office and after he has been confined to the hospital as a result of a fight with employees of the Grain Grafter, his brother Tom (Harry Carey) takes up the fight with the members of the Trust.

Carey by his performance in this number "The Power of the People" creates immediately a favorable impression. He engages in a number of fights in the latter part of the episode, physically and mentally and acquits himself with gusto in all encounters.

The end of the instalment finds the head of the grain trust so disheartened by the strenuous activities of Tom Larnigan that he takes his life.

Credit is given for the suggestion of this episode to Reginald Wright Kauffmann. The good acting and direction both continue.

"Landon's Legacy." (Broadway Universal Feature. Five reels. Mon., Jan. 3.)—Reviewed at length in issue of Jan. 1.

"Jed's Trip to the Fair." (Nestor. Mon., Jan. 3.)—Al Christie has used a plot almost identical to this some time previous. Its situations are the same as well. Eddie Lyons and Betty Compson are the country lovers and Lee Moran the villainous confidence man.

"The Gray Sisterhood." (Adventure No. 2 of Lord John's Journal. Gold Seal. Three reels. Tues., Jan. 4.)—This number presents action that is quite exciting although at times rather vague. The romance and mysterious adventures between Lord John and Maida Odell continue, this time the hero rescuing the girl from the Gray Sisterhood, an organization she joined, the head of which desires to obtain a mummy she has in her possession. A true thrill is added in the latter scenes when William Garwood and Stella Razetto jump from a wall of considerable height to an automobile moving along below.

"Shattered Nerves." (Rex. Tues., Jan. 4.)—A cleverly told dream of a business man broken under nervous strain. It is funny in all its phases, and the fun incidentally is of a new, unconventional sort. Ben Wilson succeeds well in the principal part, that was created by Anthony Kelly.

"The Heart of a Mermaid." (Victor. Three reels. Wed., Jan. 5.)—A fantastical drama embellished with a goodly portion of delightful comedy. The young man wants the unconventional girl and in his dreams one comes to him in the shape of a mermaid, but he finds her a constant nuisance because of her unconventionality and when he awakes is glad he is to marry an ordinary mortal. Mary Fuller, Glen White and Paul Panzer are the leads in this picture, which was prepared by Elaine Sterne.

"The Underworld." (Laemmle. Wed., Jan. 5.)—A comedy that shapes itself after the manner of a melodrama over most of its length, but which ends with a most humorous touch. Rupert Julian is credited with both the authorship and the direction, his cast including himself, Elsie Jane Wilson, Hal Cooley and Rena Rogers being quite competent while the large gathering of supporting players act well.

"Missy." (Laemmle. Two reels. Thurs., Jan. 6.)—A comedy-drama by Lynn Reynolds, making an admirable vehicle for Myrtle Gonzalez. As the wild, free girl of the back woods who gets a taste of society that doesn't appeal, Miss Gonzalez appears to fascinating advantage. The scenes and photography are excellent. Frank Newburg, Alfred Allen, Val Paul and Josie Sedgwick are also in the cast.

"Building Up the Health of a Nation." (Powers. Split reel. Thurs., Jan. 6.)—This half reel shows Bernarr MacFadden, the noted physical culturist in a series of poses and exercises, that advantageously demonstrate his strength, besides acquainting others with a simple way to remain healthy and strong. It is the first of a series and is interesting besides instructive. On the same reel with "Carl Emmy's Dogs."

"Carl Emmy's Dogs." (Powers. Split reel. Thurs., Jan. 6.)—A pictured vaudeville showing stunts of trained canines, averagely interesting and at times quite startling. On the same reel with "Building Up the Health of a Nation."

"The Law of Life." (Imp. Three reels. Fri., Jan. 7.)—An adaptation by May B. Havey from a story by Carl Werner produced by Henry Webster with King Baggot, Edna Hunter, Ned Reardon, Elsie MacLeod and Clara Beyers in the principal parts. The picture has been put on in such a crude manner that any moral force the story contained has just about vanished. It is amateurish in general aspect and unconvincing in character while the scenario takes big jumps, allowing little for the passage of time. The acting of Baggot and Miss Hunter is reliable, but "The Law of Life" is poor.

"Flivvers Art of Mystery." (Nestor. Fri., Jan. 7.)—Another English comedy based on a very simple yet uproarious plot. Flivver goes to the show and sees a magician turning his tricks and then attempts to work them off on his family with disastrous results. The picture is of the sort in which the climax of each comic incident can be anticipated, and in this case the effect is continuous laughter.

"The Trail of the Tigress." (Bison. Two reels. Sat., Jan. 8.)—A sensational melodramatic number, containing a rapidly moving story in which wild animals are introduced in several scenes. The direction is correspondingly good save for those scenes in which a group of men fire shot after shot at a group of animals, none of them taking effect. Paul Buorgeois, Betty Schade and Rosetta Masteni are the leads.

Too Busy to Edit a Big Ad! Too Busy Booking and Selling State Rights!

SUPREME FILM COMPANY

6th Floor, 207 So. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, U. S. A.

Produced In The Great Golden West By The
REELPLAYS CORPORATION

Yes, We Had To Move! "The Cowpuncher" Did It! Some Picture! Some Business!

QUALITY means EVANS means PERFECTION

We Do Particular Work for Particular People
Developing and Printing ONLY

Evans Film Manufacturing Company
Numbers 416-418-420-422 West 216th Street
Telephone 6881 Audubon NEW YORK CITY

When the critics all agree that a film is great don't you think you will miss the opportunity for securing in your territory something worth while if you have not secured the rights of

MARVELOUS MACISTE. The Giant of Cabiria — In 6 Parts

HANOVER FILM CO.
Suite 904, Columbia Theatre Bldg.
Broadway at 47th St., New York City
Phone Bryant 9544

SCENARIO WRITERS! ATTENTION!

I desire to get in touch with the ten best scenario writers in these United States—writers of forty-two centimeter caliber, who have been writing and disposing of four and five reel original material. I am willing to make extraordinary proposition to the photoplay writers worth while. State full list of accepted and produced stories.

Address

ALLEN BOOTH
P. O. Box 1623
Los Angeles, - California

M·I·N·A COMEDIES — YOU Laugh While THEY Run
EVERY THURSDAY ON GENERAL FILM PROGRAM. BOOK THEM

"Uncle Sam at Work, No. 3." (Powers. Sat., Jan. 8.)—This number of the educational series entitled "A Day with the Fleet," though partly familiar to the public is very interesting in its entirety, showing many instructive and entertaining episodes connected with the daily life of Uncle Sam's Blue Jackets. A series of remarkable night scenes showing the flashes from the big ships' guns brings the reel to a close. The photography of the first half is quite poor.

"Those Female Haters." (Joker. Sat., Jan. 8.)—The nephew and his uncle vow never to marry and cover the vow with a forfeit of $50,000, which the one who falls first is to pay to the other. Both are inveigled into marrying and so all's square. This was written and produced by Allen Curtis, while William Franey, Gale Henry, Milburn Moranti and Lillian Peacock get the most from their parts, resulting in a very good Joker.

"Billy's Reformation." (L-Ko. Two reels. Sun., Jan. 9.)—In a story of good quality and humorously tangled situations, Billie Ritchie here disports himself supported by almost all the L-Ko company. Louise Orth, Gene Rogers, Ray Griffith, Fatty Voss, Henry Bergman and Reggie Morris are chief of the assistant funmakers. The last reel closes with several hair raising stunts staged on a high roof. Billie Ritchie's admirers will like this as he is always prominent.

"Blind Fury." (Laemmle. Sun., Jan. 9.)—A western melodrama, ultra sentimental and generally unconvincing because of the far-fetched character of the scenario by J. E. Jenks. Leon Kent directed besides appearing in one of the major parts, while Jack Livingston and Mina Jeffries lend support of a fair sort.

CORPORATIONS

By arrangement with the Corporation Trust Company, 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City, N. J., the company has supplied MOTION PICTURE NEWS with the following special incorporation service:

In Delaware:

EASTERN MOTION PICTURE COMPANY; $350,000; motion picture films, reels, slides; incorporators: Herbert E. Latter, Wilmington, Del.; Norman P. Coffin, Wilmington, Del., and Clement M. Agier, Elkton, Md.

ATLAS THEATRE COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH; $50,000; conducting places of amusement; incorporators: Morris Einstein, Leon Einstein, Joseph Stybr, Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE PHONOIDOGRAPH COMPANY; $300,000; Dover, Del.; manufacture of moving pictures, photographic, telephone and electrical apparatus and devices; incorporators: Joseph F. Curtin, Samuel B. Howard, S. A. Anderson.

THEATRES COMPANY; $600,000; Wilmington, Del.; conducting places of amusement of all kinds; incorporators: Herbert E. Latter, Norman P. Coffin, Wilmington, Del.; Clement M. Egner, Elkton, Md.

HIBERNIAN FILM COMPANY; $300,000; Dover, Del.; to conduct a general film exchange business; incorporators: William Boyd, W. I. N. Lofland, George W. Morgan, Dover, Del.

MONARCH FILM PRODUCING COMPANY; $200,000; Dover, Del.; manufacture of moving picture films; incorporators: William Boyd, W. I. N. Lofland, George W. Morgan, Dover, Del.

PARK AMUSEMENT MANUFACTURING COMPANY, INC.; $100,000; Wilmington, Del.; conducting amusement places of all kind; incorporators: K. M. Dougherty, Ferris Giles, L. S. Dorsey, Wilmington, Del.

In Illinois:

DAILY MOVIE NEWS; moving pictures; $400,000; Chicago, Ill.; incorporators: Edward R. Newmann, Geo. S. Pines, Richard R. Klein, 111 W. Monroe street, Chicago, Ill.

ARMSTRONG AMUSEMENT COMPANY; operate a place of amusement; $25,000; Arlington Heights, Ill.; incorporators: Michael Koerner, W. F. Lauerman, Frank Schude, Arlington Heights, Ill.

In Maine:

BRIDGEWATER THEATRE COMPANY; Bridgewater (Aroostook Company), Me.; $10,000; operate theatres and places of amusement; incorporators: W. W. Packard, A. M. Stockpole, Sr., Bridgewater, Me.

In New Jersey:

CITY THEATRE COMPANY, 106 Second street, Passaic, N. J.; operate theatres, etc.; $50,000; incorporators: Morris Gold, 178 Sherman street, Passaic, N. J.; Harry Hecht, 185 Madison street, Passaic, N. J.; Walter R. Hudson, Totowa Borough, Paterson, N. J.

MOORE AMUSEMENT COMPANY, Presbyterian avenue and Boardwalk, Atlantic City, N. J.; amusement enterprises; $25,000; incorporators: Louis E. Stern, Joseph Corio, Elizabeth R. Powell, Law Building, Atlantic, N. J.

THE LEADER AMUSEMENT COMPANY, 419 Market street, Camden, N. J.; $2,000; amusement enterprises; incorporators: Jennie Effinger, Herbert Effinger, Leon Effinger, 419 Market street, Camden, N. J.

NORTH JERSEY SHORE AMUSEMENT COMPANY, 733 Mattison avenue, Asbury Park, N. J.; conduct places of amusement; $125,000; incorporators: Jarvis Everett Newman, Asbury Park, N. J.; Forman T. Bailey, Edwin Longstreet, Manasquan, N. J.

In New York:

MERIT FILM CORPORATION; $5,000; conduct motion picture exchange, theatres, etc.; Simon H. Kugel, 1758 Union street; B. Benj. Schiff, 8124 13th avenue; Sophia B. Jettleson, 240 Hart street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

OTTO HEINEMAN PHONOGRAPH SUPPLY COMPANY, INC.; $750,000; phonograph, dictaphone and talking machine business; printing, publishing, advertising, theatrical; C. F. Russam, 45 Broadway, New York; John L. Lotsch, 953 St. John's Place, Brooklyn; Albert Lindenberg, 246 W. 103rd street, New York.

THE VANITY FAIR FILM COMPANY, INC.; $5,000; conduct motion picture business; theatrical, phonographic and optical goods.

EDGEMERE AMUSEMENT CORPORATION; $2,000; motion picture theatres, etc.; Louis Kramer, 25 Maple Place,; Edw. Kastner, 19 Fairview avenue. Rockaway Beach; Louis Gordon, Boulevard and Frank avenue, Edgemere.

KRUGER-BOECKMANN COMPANY, INC.; $15,000; realty and conduct places of amusement; Wm. F. Kruger, Lena M. Kruger, John W. Boeckmann, Olcott, Niagara Co., N. Y.

NO. 150 ST. NICHOLAS AVENUE, INC.; $10,000; hotels and restaurant keepers, liquor dealers, theatre managers; Geo. A. Knobloch, 556 W. 180th street; Sidney Sencer, 461 W. 159th street; Susan Helman, 363 E. 51st street, New York.

FIFTEENTH STREET AMUSEMENT COMPANY, INC.; $2,500; deal in motion picture theatres, films, etc.; Chas. Klasky, 315 6th avenue; Regina Ammerman, 489 14th street; Rudolph Sanders, 423 16th street, Brooklyn.

THIRTIETH STREET AMUSEMENT COMPANY, INC.; $5,000; produce theatrical performances of all kinds, etc.; Benj. A. Levine, New Victoria Hotel, New York; Harry Herzog, Henry Borenstein, Spring Valley, N. Y.

YANKEE AMUSEMENT CORPORATION; $5,000; motion pictures, etc.; theatres; Edmund H. Hoffman, Edmund H. Hoffman, Jr., 320 Eighth avenue; Frank C. Chumasero, 62 New York avenue, Brooklyn.

SCHENECTADY-HUDSON THEATRE COMPANY; $35,000; own and operate theatres, real estate; Chas. F. Veeder, Chas. J. Campbell, John J. McMullen, Schenectady.

THE LESCO PRODUCING COMPANY, INC.; $10,000; general theatrical business; Helen White, 172 Fordham street, City Island, N. Y.; Meyer Klein, 817 West End avenue; Alex. Werner, 52 W. 119th street, New York.

BLUE BIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INCORPORATED; $1,000; general motion picture business; general photographic business; Wm. V. Saxe, 56 E. 80th street; Paul J. Dubois, 1405 Amsterdam avenue; Edwin H. Collins, 370 Broadway, New York City.

WERTSNER & KING, INCORPORATED; $5,000; advertising; conduct theatres and motion picture enterprises; Geo. S. Wertsner, 79 Herman street, Germantown, Pa.; Charles R. King, Georgia M. King, 69 W. 93d street, New York City.

EXCELLO FILM COMPANY, INCORPORATED; $1,000; manufacture and deal in motion picture films, etc.; advertising; Jos. Hirschman, Edw. W. Drucker, Maurice Levi, 299 Broadway, New York City.

WALBILTAN PHOTO PLAY COMPANY, INCORPORATED; $10,000; conduct, etc., moving picture shows, theatres and Turkish and Russian bath business; Jos. Greenbaum, 445 Claremont Parkway, Bronx; Pope B. Billups, 110 W. 37th street; Jos. A. Tanner, 226 W. 134th street, New York City.

WARD PRODUCING CORPORATION; $10,000; motion picture and theatrical; C. E. Sterrett, 71 W. 23rd street; G. Sullivan, 854 Seventh avenue; F. E. Gribbon, 245 W. 135th street, New York City.

PERMA RECORDING LABORATORIES CORPORATION; $300,000; record master records; deal in talking machines, records, pianos, players; novelties, motion picture apparatus, etc. A. M. Wattenberg, Max Freedman, A. S. Levy, 233 Broadway, New York City.

THOMAS-OBERKIRCH COMPANY, LIMITED; $100,000; motion picture and theatrical business; Wm. M. Thomas, 536 W. 145th street; Frank Oberkirch, Robert Magrane, 220 Broadway, New York City.

ANASTAR REALTY CORPORATION; $500; realty, brokerage, construction, hotels, theatres, etc.; Henry H. Morris, 3810 Broadway; Jas. E. Kent, 322 St. Nicholas avenue, New York City; Theodore Schulte, 535 Evergreen avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

SYNICO FILM PRODUCTION COMPANY, INCORPORATED; $100,000; realty for use as public amusement park or resort, theatrical or music hall, motion picture, etc.; Edgar W. Nye, 1482 Broadway; Lyman E. Warren, Chas. A. Burr, 261 Broadway, New York City.

CLARIDGE FILMS, INCORPORATED; $5,000; motion picture business; Louis H. Hiller, 112 Riverside Drive, New York City; Agnes Egan Cobb, Rockville Centre, L. I.; Paul A. Chase, 2612 Broadway, New York City.

PLAZA FILM CORPORATION; $2,000; motion picture business.

In Pennsylvania:

THE RESNICK AMUSEMENT COMPANY; operating moving picture theatres, etc.; $5,000; John O'Donnell, A. D. Resnick, Patrick C. Donohue, Philadelphia, Pa.

In Virginia:

THE SPARTAN FILM CORPORATION; manufacture and dealing in motion picture films, reels, machines, screens, raw film, etc.; $50,000; Alexandria, Va.; incorporators: L. G. Grossman, John H. Williams, Oswald E. Camp, R. Mason Rogerson, Washington, D. C.

THE FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

Producing successful dramas re-enacted before the recording eye of the camera by actors and under directors who have created artistic and box office successes in the "legitimate."

EIGHTEEN EAST FORTY-FIRST STREET, NEW YORK

WILLIAM L. SHERRILL, President

M-I-N-A COMEDIES

Get 'em While They're Hot!

EVERY THURSDAY ON GENERAL FILM PROGRAM. BOOK THEM

"NO GREATER LOVE"

A Selig Red Seal Play Inroducing MISS REGINA BADET, the Bernhardt of Filmland, in the Role of "Sadunah, the Dancer"—A Drama of Daring Intensity, Revealing the Wonderful Power of Mother-love. See the Gorgeous Gowns, the Dance of The Five Veils—the Wonderful Scenic Effects!

SELIG RED SEAL PLAYS!

The Carpet From Bagdad—The Millionaire Baby—The Rosary—A Texas Steer—House of A Thousand Candles—The Circular Staircase—A Black Sheep—Sweet Alyssum—I'm Glad My Boy Grew Up To Be A Soldier.

The Red Seal of Quality! Book Through V. L. S. E.

SELIG POLYSCOPE COMPANY, CHICAGO
AND EVERYWHERE

NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS

PHUNPHILMS

Produced by Rolin

Released by Pathé Exchange, Inc.

Direction of Hal Roach

Lonesome Luke	Harold Lloyd
Snub	Harry Pollard
Mazie Nut	Gene Marsh
Ethel	Bebe Daniels

Rolin Film Company, Los Angeles

D. Whiting, Gen. Mgr.

Comedies that Are

Calendar of Current and Coming Releases

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

RELEASES OF CURRENT WEEK

REGULAR PROGRAM

Monday, January 3, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—The Lesser Evil, D., 1000 (Re-issue)..... 19820
SELIG—The Buried Treasure of Cobre, D., 3000..... 19815
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune, No. 1, News, 1000..... 19819
VITAGRAPH—The Little Trespasser, C.-D., 1000..... 19818

Tuesday, January 4, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—The Avenging Shot, D., 2000..... 19824
ESSANAY—Her Lesson, D., 2000..... 19821
KALEM—The Missing Mummy, C., 1000..... 19823

Wednesday, January 5, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—The Skating Rink, C.-D., 3000..... 19829
ESSANAY—Mile a Minute Monty, Cartoon and Scenic, Split Reel..... 19828
KALEM—The Honor of the Road (Seventh of the "Stingaree" Series), D., 2000..... 19826

Thursday, January 6, 1916.

LUBIN—Vengeance of the Oppressed, D., 3000..... 19832
MINA—Caught with the Goods, C..... 19836
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune, No. 2, News, 1000..... 19835

Friday, January 7, 1916.

KALEM—Crossed Clues (Eleventh of the Ventures of Marguerite), D., 1000..... 19848
KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURES—Paying the Toll, D., 3000..... 19837
VIM—This Way Out, C., 1000..... 19842
VITAGRAPH—His Wife Knew About It, C., 1000..... 19841

Saturday, January 8, 1916.

ESSANAY—The House of Revelation, D., 3000..... 19843
KALEM—When Seconds Count (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D., 1000..... 19850
LUBIN—Billie's Headache, C., 1000..... 19846
SELIG—Spooks (Seventh of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C., 2000..... 19851
VITAGRAPH—Tried for His Own Murder, D., 3000..... 19847

UNIT PROGRAM

Monday, January 3, 1916.

VITAGRAPH—Who Killed Joe Merrion? D., 4000..... U 1020
When Hooligan and Hooligan Ran for Mayor, C., 1000..... U 1024

Wednesday, January 5, 1916.

LUBIN—Sorrows of Happiness, D., 1000..... U 1025
His Lordship, C., 1000..... U 1029

RELEASES OF COMING WEEK

REGULAR PROGRAM

Monday, January 10, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—In the Aisles of the Wild, D. (Re-issue), 1000.....
KALEM—The Black Crook, D., 5000.....
SELIG—The Devil in Chief, D., 3000.....
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune, No. 3, News, 1000.....
VITAGRAPH—When Linn Came Home, D., 1000.....

Tuesday, January 11, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—No Release Reported for This Day.....
ESSANAY—Angels Unawares, D., 2000.....
KALEM—Guardian Angels, C., 1000.....

Wednesday, January 12, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—The War of Wealth, D., 3000.....
ESSANAY—The Fable of the Two Philanthropic Sons, C., 1000.....
KALEM—The Purification of Mulfera (Eighth of the "Stingaree" Series), D., 2000.....

Thursday, January 13, 1916.

LUBIN—The Bond Within, D., 3000.....
MINA—Comedy, 1000 (Title Not Decided).....
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune, No. 4, News, 1000.....

Friday, January 14, 1916.

KALEM—The Tricksters (Twelfth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D., 1000.....
KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURES—Drama, 3000 (Title Not Decided).....
VIM—Chickens, C., 1000.....
VITAGRAPH—When Two Play a Game, C., 1000.....

Saturday, January 15, 1916.

ESSANAY—Pieces of the Game, D., 3000.....
KALEM—The Haunted Station (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D., 1000.....
LUBIN—No Release Reported for This Day.....
SELIG—No Sir-ee Bob (Eighth of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C., 2000.....
VITAGRAPH—By Love Redeemed, D., 3000.....

UNIT PROGRAM

Monday, January 10, 1916.

VITAGRAPH—The Surprises of an Empty Hotel, D., 4000
A Cripple Creek Cinderella, C., 1000.....

Wednesday, January 12, 1916.

LUBIN—The City of Failing Light, D., 4000.....
A Bath Tub Mystery, C., 1000.....

*Selig-Tribune News Monday's release in the East is Thursday's release in the West; Thursday's release in the East is the following Monday's in the West.

"VIM"

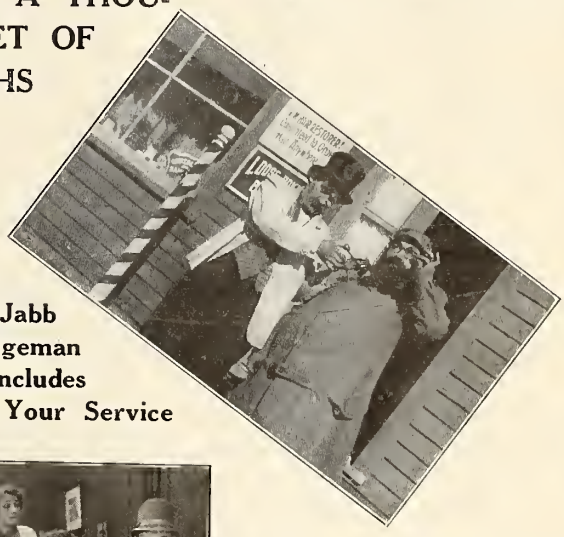
COMEDY FILMS

"CHICKENS"

Vim Comedies released every Friday thru the General Film Company

Vim Comedies released every Friday thru the General Film Company

EVERY WEEK A THOUSAND FEET OF LAUGHS



Poke and Jabb
Your Exchangeman
Until He Includes
Vim Comedies in Your Service

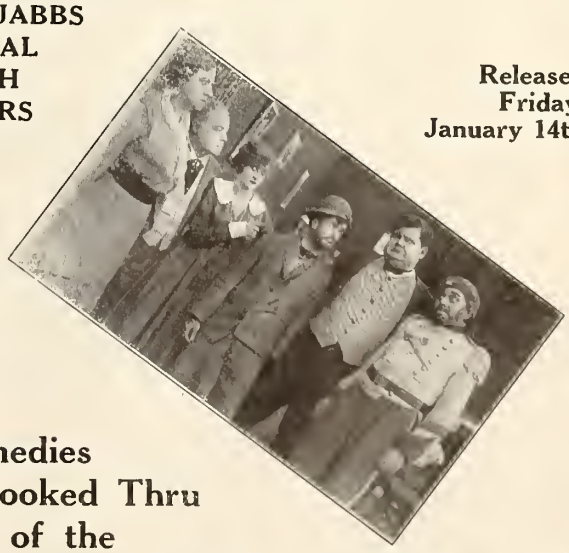
VIM COMEDIES HAVE NO COMPETITORS

VIM COMEDIES MAKE THE WORLD LAUGH

POKES & JABBS ORIGINAL LAUGH MAKERS

Released Friday, January 14th

Released Friday, January 14th



Vim Comedies
Can Only Be Booked Thru
the Offices of the

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

Calendar of Current and Coming Releases

MUTUAL PROGRAM

RELEASES OF CURRENT WEEK

Monday, January 3, 1916.

AMERICAN—Matching Dreams, C.-D., 2000..... 04348
FALSTAFF—The Optimistic Oriental Occults, C., 1000. 04350
VOGUE—An Innocent Crook, C., 2000..... 04351

Tuesday, January 4, 1916.

THANHOUSER—The Bubbles in the Glass, D., 3000... 04352
GAUMONT—See America First, No. 17, Sc., Split Reel, and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart..... 04356
BEAUTY—Billy Van Duesen's Shadow, C., 1000..... 04357

Wednesday, January 5, 1916.

RELIANCE—The She Devil, D., 3000..... 04358

Thursday, January 6, 1916.

CENTAUR—The Homesteader, D., 2000..... 04361
FALSTAFF—Hilda's Husky Helper, C., 1000..... 04363
MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly, No. 53, News, 1000..... 04364

Friday, January 7, 1916.

MUSTANG—The Hills of Glory, D., 2000..... 04365
AMERICAN—Time and Tide, D..... 04367
CUB—Jerry in the Movies, C., 1000..... 04368

Saturday, January 8, 1916.

MUTUAL—Society Wolves, D.., 3000..... 04369
BEAUTY—To Be or Not to Be, C., 1000..... 04374

Sunday, January 9, 1916.

CASINO—Alias Mr. Jones, C., 1000..... 04375

RELEASES OF COMING WEEK

Monday, January 10, 1916.

AMERICAN—Viviana, D., 2000..... 04376
FALSTAFF—Belinda's Bridal Breakfast, C., 1000..... 04378
VOGUE—Comedy (Title Not Reported), 1000..... 04379

Tuesday, January 11.

THANHOUSER—The Name of the Law, D., 3000..... 04280
GAUMONT—See America First, No. 18, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart., Split Reel..... 04383
BEAUTY—The First Quarrel, C., 1000..... 04384

Wednesday, January 12, 1916.

RIALTO—The Secret Agent, D., 3000..... 04385
VOGUE, Comedy (Title Not Reported), 1000..... 04388

Thursday, January 13, 1916.

CENTAUR—Marta of the Jungles, D., 2000..... 04389
FALSTAFF—Reforming Rubbering Rosie, C., 1000..... 04391
MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly, No. 54, News, 1000..... 04392

Friday, January 14, 1916.

AMERICAN—The Secret Wire, D., 2000..... 04393
AMERICAN—Spider Barlow Meets Competition, D., 1000..... 04395
CUB—Jerry in Mexico, C., 1000..... 04396

Saturday, January 15, 1916.

MUSTANG—Water Stuff, C.-D., 3000..... 04397
BEAUTY—Getting in Wrong, C., 1000..... 04400

Sunday, January 16, 1916.

AMERICAN—The Gamble, D., 2000..... 04401
CASINO—Ham and Eggs, C., 1000..... 04403

UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

RELEASES OF CURRENT WEEK

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Power of the People (Fourth Episode of "Graft"), D., 2000.. 01105

Monday, January 3, 1916.

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURE—Landon's Legacy, D., 5000..... 01089
NESTOR—Jed's Trip to the Fair, C., 1000..... 01090

Tuesday, January 4, 1916.

GOLD SEAL—The Gray Sisterhood (Adventure No. 2 of Lord John's Journal), D., 3000..... 01091
REX—Shattered Nerves, C., 1000..... 01092

Wednesday, January 5, 1916.

VICTOR—The Heart of a Mermaid, D., 3000..... 01093
LAEMMLE—The Underworld, C.-D., 1000..... 01094
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Weekly No. 200, News, 1000 01095

Thursday, January 6, 1916.

LAEMMLE—Missy, D., 2000..... 01096
POWERS—Physical Culture, Lesson No. 1, Ed., and Carl Emmy and His Dogs, Vaud., Split Reel..... 01097

Friday, January 7, 1916.

IMP—The Law of Life, D., 3000..... 01098
NESTOR—Flivver's Art of Mystery, C., 1000..... 01099

Saturday, January 8, 1916.

BISON—On the Trail of the Tigress, D., 2000..... 01100
POWERS—Uncle Sam at Work, No. 3 ("Are We Prepared?") 01101
JOKER—Those Female Haters, C., 1000.....01102

Sunday, January 9, 1916.

LAEMMLE—Blind Fury, D., ... 01103
L-KO—Billie's Reformation, C., 2000..... 01104

RELEASES OF COMING WEEK

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—Grinding Life Down (Fifth Episode of "Graft"), D., 2000..... 01122

Monday, January 10, 1916.

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURE—Love's Pilgrimage to America, D., 5000..... 01106
NESTOR—The Boy, the Girl, and the Auto, C., 1000.... 01107

Tuesday, January 11, 1916.

GOLD SEAL—The Boob's Victory, C.-D., 2000..... 01108
REX—His Return, D., 1000..... 01109

Wednesday, January 12, 1916.

VICTOR—Man and Morality, D., 3000..... 01110
L-KO—Gertie's Busy Day, C., 1000..... 01111
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Weekly No. 201, News, 1000..... 01112

Thursday, January 13, 1916.

LAEMMLE—No Release This Week.....
BIG U—"X 3," D., 3000..... 01113
POWERS—The Rubber Rompers, Vaud., and Transporting Timber in Sweden, Ed., Split Reel..... 01114

Friday, January 14, 1916.

REX—Her Defiance, D., 2000..... 01115
VICTOR—The Ring and the Rajah, D., 1000..... 01116
NESTOR—Flivver's Good Turn, C., 1000..... 01117

Saturday, January 15, 1916.

BISON—Across the Rio Grande, D., 3000..... 01118
POWERS—Uncle Sam at Work, No. 4 (Uncle Sam's Proteges at Work and at Play), 1000..... 01119

Sunday, January 16, 1916.

REX—The Little Mascot, D., 2000..... 01120
L-KO—Flirting a la Carte, C., 1000..... 01121

FIRST

Motion Picture News is today the first trade publication:

First to the Pacific coast, reaching Los Angeles Friday afternoon for complete distribution on Saturday.

First to every theatre in the United States and Canada, reaching them within the week of publication with all information and service complete for the coming week.

First to every prominent newspaper in the country, with all the news and the very latest news out of New York and the other producing and distributing centers—before every motion picture page goes to press.

A greatly increased value is thereby given to the news pages and to the advertising announcements of

"THE PAPER THAT'S READ"

RELEASE DATES FOR READY REFERENCE

ASSOCIATED SERVICE

Week of December 20, 1915.

Her Reception, D., 2000.....Santa Babara
Beyond the Shadow, D., 2000.....Ramona
Mother's Vision, D., 2000.....Alhambra
The Devil and the Kingdom, D., 2000....Empire
The Angel Man, C., 1000.....Federal
Ike on the Mountains, C., 1000.....Atla
Never Again, C., 1000.....Banner
Billy Comes Home, C., 1000.....Deer

Week of December 27, 1915.

The Powers That Be, D., 2000....Santa Babara
The Gift, D., 2000.....Ramona
Close Quarters, D., 2000.....Alhambra
Let There Be Light, D., 2000.....Empire
He Who Laughs Last, C., 1000.....Atla
Ike Flivvers with Ford, C., 1000.....Federal
Skating on Thin Ice, C., 1000.....Banner
A Peaceful Agitator, C., 1000.....Deer

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

BIOGRAPH

12—16. Cupid Entangled,. Com.-D.....1000
12—17. Fate, D. 1000
12—20. The Failure, D. (Re-issue).....1000
12—21. Packer Jim's Guardianship, D.....2000
12—22. The Tides of Retribution, D.....3000
12—27. Heridity, D. 1000
12—29. The Woman of Mystery, D.....3000
1916.
1— 3. The Lesser Evil, D., (Reissue)....1000
1— 4. The Avenging Shot, D.....2000
1— 5. The Skating Rinks, C-D.....3000

EDISON

12—10. Her Inspiration, D.....3000
12—11. The Lone Game, D.....1000
12—15. History of the Big Tree, Ed., The Black's Mysterious Box, and the Hicks in Nightmare Land, Cartoons .....Split reel
12—17. The Hand of the Law, D.....3000
12—18. Santa Claus Versus Cupid, Com.-D..1000

ESSANAY

12—16. Snakeville's Champion, C.....1000
12—17. Broncho Billy's Marriage, D.....1000
12—18. A Christmas Revenge, West D....2000
12—21. The Danger of Being Lonesome, D..2000
12—22. Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 3, Cart. and Scenic, Split reel.....1000
12—25. The Woman with a Rose, D.....3000
12—28. Brought Home, D.....2000
12—29. The Fable of the Heir and the Heiress, C. 1000
1916.
1— 1. Prisoner at the Bar, D.....3000
1— 4. Her Lesson, D.....2000
1— 5. Mile a Minute Monty, Cartoon and Scenic .....Split reel
1— 8. The House of Revelation, D.....3000

KALEM

12—15. To the Vile Dust (Fourth of the "Stingaree" Series), D.....2000
12—17. The Secret Message (Eighth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
12—18. The Wrong Train Order (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000
12—21. The Bandits of Macaroni Mountains, C. 1000
12—22. A Bushranger at Bay (Fifth of the "Stingaree" Series), D. 2000
12—24. The Oriental's Plot (Ninth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
12—25. A Boy at the Throttle (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000
12—28. The Caretaker's Dilemma, C.....1000
12—29. The Taking of Stingaree (Sixth of the "Stingaree" Series), D.....2000
12—31. The Spy's Ruse (Tenth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
1916.
1— 1. At the Risk of Her Life (an Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000
1— 4. The Missing Mummy, C.....1000
1— 5. The Honor of the Road (Seventh of the "Stingaree" Series), D....2000
1— 7. Crossed Clues (Eleventh of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
1— 8. When Seconds Count (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURES

12—31. The Mysterious Bride, D.....3000
1916.
1— 7. Paying the Toll, D.....3000

LUBIN

12—11. Bashful Billie, C.....1000
12—13. The Moment Before Death, D.....1000
12—14. The Great Detective, C.....1000
12—15. The Inner Chamber, D.....3000
12—16. A Thief in the Night, D.....2000
12—17. Sweeter Than Revenge, D.....1000
12—18. An Unwilling Burglar, C.....1000
12—23. Beyond All Is Love, D.....3000
12—25. No Smoking, C.....1000
12—30. The Convict King, D.....3000
1916.
1— 1. A Ready Made Maid, C.....1000
1— 6. Vengeance of the Oppressed, D....3000
1— 8. Billie's Headache, C.....1000

UNIT PROGRAM—LUBIN

12—29. Saved from the Harem, D.....4000
12—29. This Isn't the Life, C.....1000
1916.
1— 5. Sorrows of Happiness, D.....4000
1— 5. His Lordship, C.....1000

MINA

12—16. When the Big Show Struck Squeedunck, C. 1000
12—23. The Little Puritan, C.....1000
12—30. From Blackstone to Stone, C.....1000
1916.
1— 6. Caught with the Goods, C.....1000

SELIG-TRIBUNE NEWS PICTORIAL

Issued every Monday and Thursday.

RELEASE DAYS

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

Monday—Biograph, Selig, Vitagraph, Vita-Unit.
Tuesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Selig.
Wednesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Lubin Unit.
Thursday—Essanay, Lubin, Mina.
Friday—Edison, Essanay, Kalem, Vim, Vitagraph.
Saturday—Essanay, Kalem, Lubin, Selig, Vitagraph.

MUTUAL PROGRAM

Monday—American, Falstaff, Novelty.
Tuesday—Thanhouser, Gaumont (Cart. and Sc.), Beauty.
Wednesday—Reliance, Rialto, or Centaur, and Novelty.
Thursday—Centaur, Falstaff, Mutual Weekly.
Friday—Mustang, American, Club.
Saturday—Clipper (Am.), Thanoplay, or Mustang, and Beauty.
Sunday—Reliance, Casino, Thanhouser.

UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

Monday—Broadway Universal Feature, Nestor.
Tuesday—Gold Seal, Rex, Imp.
Wednesday—Victor, L-Ko, Animated Weekly.
Thursday—Laemmle, Big U, Powers.
Friday—Imp, Victor, Nestor.
Saturday—Bison, Powers, Joker.
Sunday—Rex, Laemmle, L-Ko.

SELIG

12—16. The Golden Spurs, D.....2000
12—18. Jungle Justice, D.....1000
12—20. Perkins' Pep Producer (Sixth of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C...2000
12—20. Hartney Merwin's Adventure, D.....1000
12—25. The Sacred Tiger of Agra, D.....1000
12—27. The Making of Crooks, D.....3000
1916.
1— 1. The Manicure Girl.....1000
1— 3. The Buried Treasure of Cobre, D...3000
1— 8. Spooks (Seventh of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C.....2000

VITAGRAPH

12— 6. Her Last Flirtation, C.....1000
12— 7. Wasted Lives, D.....3000
12— 8. Sonny Jim's First Love Affair, Com.-D. 1000
12— 9. Sam's Sweetheart, D.....1000
12—10. Roony's Pipe Dream, C.....1000
12—11. Hughey of the Circus, C.....2000
12—13. Benjamin Bunter, Book Agent, Com.-D. 1000
12—14. A Question of Right or Wrong, D..2000
12—15. The Faith of Sonny Jim, Com.-D....1000
12—16. The Flower of the Hills, D.....1000
12—17. The Deceivers, C.....1000
12—18. A Man's Sacrifice, D.....3000
12—20. Levey's Seven Daughters, C.....1000
12—24. Is Christmas a Bore? C.....1000
12—25. The Thirteenth Girl, D.....3000
12—27. He Got Himself a Wife, C.....1000
12—31. By Might of His Right, C.....1000
1916.
1— 1. The Wanderers, D.....3000
1— 3. The Little Trespasser, C-D.....1000
1— 7. His Wife Knew About It, C.....1000
1— 8. Tried for His Own Murder, D....3000

UNIT PROGRAM—VITAGRAPH

12—27. The Making Over of Geoffrey Manning, D. 4000
12—27. The Pest Vamooser, C.....1000
1— 3. Who Killed Joe Merrion? D.....4000
1— 3. When Hooligan and Dooligan Ran for Mayor, C.....1000

VIM

12—31. Ups and Downs, C.....1000
1916.
1— 7. This Way Out, C.....1000
1—14. Chickens, C. 1000
1—21. Frenzied Finance, C.....1000

KRITERION PROGRAM

Re-Releases Week of November 22, 1915.

The Adventurer, D., 2000.....Paragon
Billy Now a Medico, C., 1000.....Santa Barbara
Environment, D., 2000.....Alhambra
A Disappointed Suitor, C., 1000.....Thistle
The Bigot, D., 2000.....Santa Barbara
Oh, Those Kids! C., 1000.....C. K.
Struck Oil, D., 2000.....Monty
Poor Little Rich Man, C., 1000.....Punch
None So Blind, D., 2000.....Trump
Krit Komic Kartoon, Cart., and Making a Great Newspaper, Ed., Split reel.....Pyramid
His Pardner's Sacrifice, D., 2000.....Navajo
The Painted Anarchist, C., 1000.....Alhambra

Re-Releases Week of November 29, 1915.

The Witness, D., 2000.....Paragon
Billy Puts One Over, C., 1000....Santa Babara
Big Hearted John, D., 2000.....Alhambra
Sherlock Boob Detective, C., 1000..Santa Babara
The Keeper of the Flock, D., 2000..Santa Babara
The Unloaded 45, C., 1000. .....C. K.
The Western Border, D., 2000.....Monty
Catching a Speeder, C., 1000.....Punch
Father and Son, D., 2000.....Trump
Such a War, C., 1000.....Pyramid
A Mask, a Ring and a Pair of Handcuffs, D. 2000 .....Navajo
Syd, the Bum Detective, C., 1000.....Alhambra

MUTUAL FILM PROGRAM

AMERICAN

12— 3. Spider Barlow Cuts In, C.-D.....1000
12— 6. The Water Carrier of San Juan, D..2000
12—10. A Broken Cloud, D.....1000
12—13. The Solution of the Mystery, D....2000
12—17. In the Sunset Country, D.....2000
12—20. The Clean Up, D.....2000
12—24. Yes or No, D.....1000
12—27. The Tragic Circle, D.....2000
12—31. The Mender, D.....1000
1916.
1— 3. Matching Dreams, C-D.....2000
1— 7. Time and Tide, D.....1000

BEAUTY

12— 7. Pretenses, C. D.....1000
12—11. Nobody's Home, C.....1000
12—14. A Girl, a Guard and a Garret, Com.-D. 1000
12—18. Two Hearts and a Thief, C.....1000
12—21. Making a Man of Johnnie, C.....1000
12—25. That Country Girl, Com.-D.....1000
12—28. Kiddus, Kids and Kiddo, C.....1000
1916.
1— 1. Settled Out of Court, C.....1000
1— 4. Billy Van Dusen's Shadow, C.....1000
1— 8. To Be or Not to Be, C.....1000

CASINO

12— 5. A Tangle in Hearts, C.....1000
12—12. Curing Cissy, C.....1000
12—19. Cissy's Innocent Wink, C.....1000
12—26. Hunting, C.....1000
1916.
1— 2. Leave It to Cissy, C.....1000
1— 9. The Girl's Color Scheme, C.....1000

FRENCH OFFICIAL WAR FILMS

FIGHTING WITH FRANCE

OR

THE ALLIES ON THE FIRING LINE

WONDERFUL SCENES DIRECT FROM THE FRONT

The Flower of the French and English Armies in Action

THE BATTLE OF THE VOSGES

Heroic French soldiers falling before your eyes. Thousands shedding their blood on fields of ice and snow to save France.

CANADA'S CRACK REGIMENT

The beginning and end of "PRINCESS PAT'S OWN." 1128 responded, only 93 returned.

A RUSSIAN BATTLEFIELD you will remember as long as you live.

7000 feet of Thrilling, Sensational Pictures
Packing theatres to overflowing wherever shown

THEATRE MANAGERS

Wire immediately for bookings. One week bookings shortest time considered.

STATE RIGHT BUYERS

Wire, phone or call immediately for your territory.

Address

FRENCH OFFICIAL WAR FILMS

Room 1503, 110 West 40th St. New York City

BRYANT 5426

RELEASE DATES FOR READY REFERENCE

CENTAUR
12—16. The Arab's Vengeance (Animal D.)..2000
12—23. The Winning of Jess (Animal D.)...2000
12—30. The Terror of the Fold (Animal D.)..2000
1916.
1— 6. The Homesteader, D.....2000

CENTAUR STAR FEATURES
12—22. The Mystery of Carter Breene, D....3000

CLIPPER
12—11. Curly, D. 3000
1916.
1— 1. The Wrath of Haddin Towers, D...3000

CUB
12— 3. A Shot Gun Romance, C.....1000
12—10. Doctor Jerry, C.....1000
12—17. The Knockout, C.....1000
12—24. Hearts and Clubs, C.....1000
12—31. Jerry's Revenge, C.....1000
1916.
1— 7. Comedy (Title Not Reported).

FALSTAFF
12—16. Bill Bunks the Bandit, C.....1000
12—20. When William's Whiskers Worked, C.1000
12—23. Toodles, Tom and Trouble, C.....1000
12—27. Una's Useful Uncle, C.....1000
12—30. Foolish Fat Flora, C.....1000
1916.
1— 3. The Optimistic Oriental Occults, C.1000
1— 6. Hild's Husky Helper, C.....1000

GAUMONT
12—14. Seeing America First, No. 14 (Pittsburgh and the Steel Mills), Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart. .....Split reel
12—21. See America First, No. 15, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Car. Split reel
12—28. See Aemrica First, No. 16, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart., Split reel 1916.
1— 4. See Amcrica First, No. 17, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart. .....Split reel

MUSTANG
12— 4. Film Tempo, C.-D.....3000
12—10. There's Good in the Worst of Us, D..2000
12—17. In the Sunset Country, D.....2000
12—24. The Pitch o' Chance, D.....2000
12—25. Author! Author! Com.-D.....3000
12—31. The Cactus Blossom, D.....2000
1916.
1— 7. The Hills of Glory, D.....2000

MUTUAL WEEKLY
Issued every Thursday.

NOVELTY
12— 8. The Army and Navy Football Game, 1915 1000
12—13. The Book Agent, C.....1000
12—15. A Musical Mix-Up, C.....1000
12—20. The Fiddler 1000
12—22. The Innocent Sandwich Man, C., and Between Lakes and Mountains, Sc. Split reel

RELIANCE
12— 8. Her Mother's Daughter, D.....3000
12—12. The Wayward Son, D.....2000
12—19. The Bankhurst Mystery, D.....2000
12—26. The Law of Success.....2000
1916.
1— 1. The Law of Success, D.....2000
1— 5. The She Devil, D.....3000

RIALTO
12— 1. Lessons in Love, C.....3000
12—15. The Ace of Death, D.....3000
12—29. A Prince of Yesterday, D.....3000

THANHOUSER
12—12. Her Confession, D.....1000
12—14. An Innocent Traitor, D.....2000
12—19. The Necklace of Pearls, D.....1000
12—21. Ambition, D. 3000
12—28. The Last Performance, D.....3000
1916.
1— 4. The Bubbles in the Glass, D.....3000
1— 8. The Woman in Politics, D.....1000

THANOPLAY
11— 6. Mr. Meeson's Will, D.....3000
11—27. The Valkyrie, D.....3000
12—18. His Majesty the King, Com.-D.....3000

VOGUE
12—27. Sammy's Scandalous Schemes, C.....2000
1916.
1— 4. An Innocent Crook, C.....2000

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC.

The Pathé News—Issued Twice Every Week.

Week of December 27, 1915.

New Adventures of Wallingford, No. 13, C., 2000 .....Pathé
Col. Heeza Liar, Nature Faker, Cart., California's Rocky Shores, Col. Sc. (See America First) Split reel.....Photocolor
Lonesome Luke, Social Gangster, C., and Where the Trees Are Stone (See America First) Sc., Split reel.....Phunphilms
Chasing 'em Out in the Open, C., 1000..Starlight
The Red Circle, No. 3, "Twenty Years Ago," D, 2000.....Balboa
Excuse Me, C., 5000.....G. R. Plays

Week of January 3, 1916.

New Adventures of Wallingford, No. 14, Com. D., 2000.....Pathé
Old Unchanging Holland, Col. Sc. and Quaint Dances of Japan, Dances, Split Reel .....Photocolor-Globe
Luke Leans to the Literary, C., 1000..Phunphilms
The Red Circle, No. 4, D., 2000.....Balboa
Ach! Such Crimes! C., 1000.....Starlight
The King's game, Com. D., 5000.....G. R. Plays

Week of January 10, 1916.

From Kabylis to Constantine, Col. Sc., and Unfamiliar Fishes, Ed., Split reel .....Photocolor-Globe
Luke Lugs Luggage, C., 1000.....Phunphilms
Madame X, D., 6000.....G. R. Plays
The Red Circle, No. 5, D., 2000.....Balboa
From Bad to Worse, C., 1000.....Starlight

UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

ANIMATED WEEKLY
Issued every Wednesday.

BIG U
11—24. The Trap that Failed, D.....1000
12— 9. The Sacrifice of J. Jonathan Gray, D..3000
12—16. Col. Steele, Master Gambler, Com. D..1000
12—30. Babbling Tongues, D.....1000
1916.
1— 2. The Honor to Die, D.....3000

BISON
11—20. The Heart of a Tigress, D.....3000
11—27. A Desperate Leap, D.....2000
12— 4. The Connecting Link, West.-D.....2000
12—11. The Lion's Ward, Animal D.....3000
12—18. His Real Character, W. D.....2000
12—25. When Rogues Fall Out, D.....3000
1916.
1— 1. The Dawn Road, D.....2000
1— 8. On the Trail of the Tigress, D.....2000

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURES
11—29. The Supreme Test, D.....1000
12— 6. The White Scar, D.....5000
12—13. The Primrose Path, D.....5000
12—20. "Father and the Boys," Com.-D.....5000
12—27. The Nature Man or a Struggle for Existence, D. 5000
1916.
1— 3. Landon's Legacy, D.....5000

GOLD SEAL
11—30. The Phantom Fortune, D.....3000
12— 7. Idols of Clay, D.....3000
12—14. Lord John in New York (Adventure No. 1 of Lord John's Journal), D.4000
12—21. "Christmas Memories," D.....3000
12—28. As the Shadows Fall, D.....2000
1916.
1— 4. The Gray Sisterhood (Advent. No. 2 of Lord John's Journal), D.....3000

IMP
11—26. Man or Money? D.....3000
11—30. Safety First and Last, C.....1000
12— 7. Slim, Fat or Medium, C.....1000
12—10. The Little Lady Across the Way, Com. D. 2000
12—14. Almost a Papa, C.....1000
12—17. The Vacuum Test, D.....1000
12—21. When Love Laughs, C.....1000
12—31. A Tribute to Mother, D.....2000
1916.
1— 7. The Law of Life, D.....3000

JOKER
11— 6. His 20th Century Susie, C.....1000
11—20. Chills and Chicken, C.....1000
11—27. Dad's Awful Crime, C.....1000
12— 4. Title Not Yet Decided.
12—11. Slightly Mistaken, C.....1000
12—18. Title Not Reported.....
1916.
1— 1. Lemonade Aids Cupid, C.....1000
1— 8. Those Female Haters, C.....1000

LAEMMLE
12— 2. Gilded Youth, D.....3000
12— 3. The Devil and Idle Hands, D.....1000
12— 5. Does It End Right? D.....1000
12—16. The Bride of Nancy Lee, D.....2000
12—18. The Water Clue, D.....1000
12—22. The Great Fear, D.....1000
12—23. One Hundred Years Ago, D.....2000
12—28. The Evil of Suspicion, D.....1000
12—30. The Little Upstart, D.....3000
1916.
1— 5. The Underworld, C-D.....1000
1— 6. Missy, D. 2000
1— 9. Blind Fury, D.....1000

L-KO
11—21. Ready for Reno, C.....1000
11—24. Stolen Hearts and Nickels, C.....2000
12— 1. Lizzie's Watery Grave, C.....1000
12— 5. A Saphead's Revenge, C.....1000
12— 8. Sin on the Sabbath, C.....2000
12—12. Lizzie's Shattered Dreams, C.....1000
12—15. Blackmail in a Hospital, C.....1000
12—19. The Doomed Groom, C.....1000
12—22. From Beanery to Billions, C.....2000
12—26. Greed and Gasoline, C.....1000
12—29. A Scandal at Sea, C.....1000
1916.
1— 2. Pants and Petticoats, C.....1000
1— 9. Billie's Reformation, C.....2000

NESTOR
11—26. Saved by a Skirt, C.....1000
11—29. Operating on Cupid, C.....1000
12— 6. Their Quiet Honeymoon, C.....1000
12—10. Keeping It Dark, C.....1000
12—13. Her Speedy Affair, C.....1000
12—17. Where the Heather Blooms, C.....2000
12—20. Love and a Savage, C.....1000
12—25. When Three Is a Crowd.....1000
12—27. Some Chaperone, C.....1000
12—31. Flivver's Terrible Past, C.....1000
1916.
1— 3. Jed's Trip to the Fair, C.....1000
1— 7. Flivver's Art of Mystery, C.....1000

POWERS
12— 9. The Frolic of the Marionettes, and Nature's Monstrosities, Vaud. and Ed. .....Split reel
12—23. Howard's Monarchs of the American Forest, Vaud., and Wild Bird Life, Ed. .....Split reel
12—25. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 1.....1000
1916.
1— 1. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 2 ("How Uncle Sam Gets His Coin").....1000
1— 6. Physical Culture, Lesson No. 1. Ed., and Carl Emmy and His Dogs, Vaud. .....Split reel
1— 8. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 3 ("Are We Prepared?").....1000

REX
11— 7. Such a Princess, Juv. D.....3000
11— 9. The Parson of Pine Mountain, D.....1000
11—13. The Circus, C.....1000
11—14. Liquid Dynamite, D.....1000
11—18. The Ring of Destiny, West.-D.....2000
11—21. The Mystery of the Locked Room, D.3000
11—28. The Kingdom of Nosey Land, D.....3000
12— 5. Under a Shadow, D.....2000
12—10. The Power of Fascination, D.....1000
12—12. Juror Number Seven, D.....2000
12—19. The Bachelor's Christmas, D.....3000
12—24. The Terrible Truth, D.....1000
12—26. Stronger than Death, D.....2000
1916.
1— 4. Shattered Nerves, C.....1000

VICTOR
11—12. Promissory Notes, D (A Story of Real Life, No. 1).....1000
11—17. Lil' Nor' Wester, Sea Coast, D.....3000
12— 1. He Was Only a Bathing Suit Salesman, C. 3000
12— 8. The Awakening of Patsy, D.....1000
12—15. The Widow's Secret, D.....2000
12—24. "The Tale of the C," Com.-D.....3000
12—29. Father's Child, C.....3000
1916.
1— 5. The Heart of a Mermaid, D.....3000

INIMITABLE

CHARLIE—FATTY—MABELLE

and other world-famous comedians. They live, breathe and do all sorts of laugh-producing stunts in COMEDY CARTOONS

20 DIFFERENT SUBJECTS NOW READY FOR RELEASE

ONE EACH WEEK

LENGTH 500-600 FEET EACH. ONE SHEET POSTER WITH EACH SUBJECT.

Produced by Movca Film Studios, San Francisco

Drawn by John C. Terry and H. M. Shields, World Renowned Cartoonists.

STATE RIGHTS FOR SALE

Live Wire Independent Exchange Men, here is an opportunity for a genuine clean up.

SECURE YOUR FRANCHISE FOR ENTIRE OUTPUT OF

THE GREATEST COMEDY CARTOONS

NO PROGRAM CARRIES THEM.

SOME OF OUR WINNERS

CASEY AT THE BAT
CHARLIE THROWS THE BULL
CHARLIE THE CHEF
CHARLIE'S BUSTED ROMANCE
CHARLIE IN CUCKOO LAND
CHARLIE IN INDIA
CHARLIE THE BUSY BARBER
CHARLIE IN THE WILDS

YOUR TERRITORY MAY BE OPEN—WIRE, WRITE OR PHONE TO

HERALD FILM CORPORATION

SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

126 W. 46th St. Phone Bryant 6681 NEW YORK CITY

FEATURE RELEASES—CURRENT AND COMING

FOX FILM CORPORATION

11— 8. The Blindness of Devotion.....5 reels
11—14. A Woman's Past.....5 reels
11—21. The Broken Law.....5 reels
11—28. The Galley Slave.....5 reels
12— 5. The Unfaithful Wife.....5 reels
12—12. Her Mother's Secret.....5 reels
12—19. A Soldier's Oath.....5 reels
12—26. Destruction .....5 reels
1916.
1— 2. Green-Eyed Monster .....5 reels
1— 9. A Parisian Romance.....5 reels
1—16. The Fourth Estate.....5 reels
1—23. The Serpent .....5 reels
1—30. The Ruling Passion.....5 reels

KLEINE-EDISON FEATURE SERVICE

GEO. KLEINE
11— 3. The Sentimental Lady.....5 reels
11—17. The Politicians .....5 reels
12— 1. Canavan .....5 reels
12—15. Bondwomen .....5 reels
EDISON
10—13. The Magic Skin.....5 reels
11—10. Children of Eve.....5 reels
12—8. The Destroying Angel.....5 reels

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORPORATION
10—11. Emmy of Stork's Nest (Mary Miles Minter) .....5 reels
11—15. The Woman Pays (Valli Valli)....5 reels
12— 6. A Yellow Streak (Lionel Barrymore and Irene Howley).....5 reels
POPULAR PLAYS & PLAYERS
10— 4. The Song of the Wage Slave (Edmund Breese) .....5 reels
10—25. My Madonna (Mme. Petrova).....5 reels
11—29. Barbara Frietchie (Mary Miles Minter) .....5 reels
B. A. ROLFE PHOTOPLAYS, INC.
10—18. The Final Judgment (Ethel Barrymore) .....5 reels
11— 1. Her Reckoning, or Tables Turned (Emmy Wehlen) .....5 reels
11—22. One Million Dollars (William Faversham) .....5 reels
12—13. The House of Tears (Emily Stevens) .....5 reels
12—27. Black Fear (Grace Elliston).....5 reels
QUALITY PICTURES
11— 8. Pennington's Choice (Francis X. Bushman and Marguerite Snow).5 reels
12—20. Rosemary (Marguerite Snow).....5 reels

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES

42. The Brink (N. Y. Motion).....4 reels
43. The Miracle of Life (American).....4 reels
44. His Wife (Thanhouser).....4 reels
45. The Seventh Noon (Mutual).....4 reels
46. The End of the Road (American).....5 reels
47. Inspiration (Thanhouser).....5 reels
48. The Strife Eternal (Mutual).....5 reels
49. The Forbidden Adventure (Mutual)...5 reels
50. The Buzzard's Shadow (American).....5 reels
51. The Mill on the Floss (Thanhouser)...5 reels
52. The Painted Soul (Mutual).....5 reels
53. The Deathlock .....5 reels

PARAMOUNT PICTURES

FAMOUS PLAYERS
11—15. Bella Donna, D.....5 reels
11—29. The Prince and the Pauper.....5 reels
12—23. Denman Thompson's Old Homestead .....5 reels
12—27. Lydia Gilmore .....5 reels
1916.
1— 3. The Foundling .....5 reels
1—10. Mice and Men.....5 reels
1—20. Nearly a King, C.....5 reels
1—24. My Lady Incog.....5 reels
1—27. The Spider, D.....5 reels

JESSE LASKY COMPANY
12— 2. Mr. Grex of Monte Carlo.....5 reels
12— 9. The Unknown .....5 reels
12—13. The Cheat .....5 reels
12—20. The Immigrant .....5 reels
12—30. Temptation, D. .....5 reels
1916.
1—13. The Golden Chance, Com. D.....5 reels
1—17. The Ragamuffin .....5 reels
MOROSCO PHOTOPLAY COMPANY
12— 6. "Jane" .....5 reels
1916.
1—16. Tongues of Men.....5 reels
PALLAS
12—16. The Reform Candidate.....5 reels
1916.
1—31. The Call of the Clumberlands.....5 reels

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION

KAY-BEE-INCE PRODUCTIONS
12—19. The Winged Idol (Katherine Kaelred) .....5 reels
12—26. The Edge of the Abyss (Mary Boland, Frank Mills, Willard Mack).5 reels 1916.
1— 2. Between Men (W. S. Hart).....5 reels
1— 9. The Corner (Willard Mack-Geo. Fawcett) .....5 reels
FINE ARTS-GRIFFITH PRODUCTIONS
12—19.—Jordan Is a Hard Road (Dorothy Gish and Frank Campeau).....5 reels
12—26. The Penitentes (Orrin Johnson)....5 reels
1916.
1— 2. Cross Currents (Helen Ware).....5 reels
1— 9. Let Katy Do It (Jane Grey and Tully Marshall) .....5 reels
KEYSTONE-SENNETT PRODUCTIONS
12—19. Fatty and the Broadway Stars (Roscoe Arbuckle) .....2 reels
12—19. Crooked to the End (Fred Mace)...2 reels
12—26. A Submarine Pirate (Sid Chaplin)..4 reels
12—26. The Hunt (Ford Sterling).....2 reels
1916.
1— 2. Dizzy Heights and Daring Hearts..2 reels
Worst of Friends (Weber & Fields).2 reels
1— 9. The Great Pearl Tangle (Sam Bernard) .....2 reels

VITAGRAPH-LUBIN-SELIG-ESSANAY, INC.

VITAGRAPH
12—13. The Price for Folly.....5 parts
12—27. What Happened to Father.....5 parts
1916.
1— 3. Thou Art the Man.....6 parts
1—10. My Lady's Slipper .....5 parts
1—17. Green Stockings .....5 parts
1—24. The Island of Surprise.....5 parts
1—31. Kennedy Square .....5 parts
LUBIN
12— 6. The Man's Making.....5 parts
12—20. The Great Divide.....5 parts
SELIG
11—15. Sweet Alyssum .....5 parts
12—13. I'm Glad My Boy Grew Up to Be a Soldier .....5 parts
1916.
1—10. No Greater Love .....5 parts
ESSANAY
11— 1. The Crimson Wing.....6 parts
11— 8. The Raven .....5 parts
12— 6. The Alster Case.....5 parts
12—20. A Daughter of the City.....5 parts

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

BRADY
11—29. The Sins of Society.....5 reels
12—27. Over Night .....5 reels
EQUITABLE
11— 1. The Better Woman.....5 reels
11— 8. Should a Wife Forgive.....5 reels
11—15. The Cowardly Way.....5 reels
11—22. A Daughter of the Sea.....5 reels
11—29. Not Guilty .....5 reels
12— 6. The Warning .....5 reels
12—13. The Labyrinth .....5 reels
12—20. Sealed Lips .....5 reels
12—27. The Dragon .....5 reels
FROHMAN
11—12. Body and Soul.....5 reels
HARRIS
11— 8. Hearts of Men.....5 reels
SHUBERT
11— 1. Bought .....5 reels
11—15. A Butterfly on the Wheel.....5 reels
12— 6. The Gray Mask.....5 reels
12—13. The Siren's Song.....5 reels
12—20. Camille .....5 reels

FEATURES FOR STATE RIGHTS

ALL FEATURES BOOKING AGENCY
Right Off the Bat.....5 reels
CONTINENTAL PHOTOPLAY CORPORATION
Sept.—A Continental Girl.....5 reels
CORT FILM CORPORATION
The Melting Pot.....5 reels
The Whirl of Life (The Castles)...6 parts
COSMOFOTOFILM COMPANY
Incomparable Mistress Bellairs.....4 parts
Liberty Hall .....3 parts
The Black Spot.....4 reels
Victoria Cross .....4 reels
O-18 .....4 reels
DRA-KO FILM COMPANY, INC.
Aug.—York State Folks.....5 reels
GREAT NORTHERN FILM COMPANY
Through the Enemy's Lines.....4 reels
The Evangelist (W. Pstlander).....4 reels
The Heart of Lady Alaine.....4 reels
A Woman's Honor.....4 reels
HANOVER FILMS
Dec.—Marvellous Maciste .....5 parts
ITALA FILM COMPANY
Cabiria .....
Treasure of the Louzats.....4 parts
Jules Porel—Serpent .....3 parts
IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS, INC.
Aug.—A Mother's Confession.....5 reels
Nov.—The Concealed Truth .....5 reels
K. & R. COMPANY
July—Silver Threads Among the Gold.....5 reels
LIBERTY MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
Sept.—An American Gentleman.....5 reels
Oct.—For $5,000 a Year.....5 reels
Oct.—The Struggle .....5 reels
LINICK AND MELCHIOR
Was She to Blame? (Elm Features) 5 parts
F. O. NIELSEN
Guarding Old Glory.....5 reels
Just Out of College.....5 reels
Thorns of Passion.....4 reels
Little Sunset .....4 reels
The Spoilers .....9 reels
All for a Girl.....5 reels
OCEAN FILM CORPORATION
Nov.—Life Without a Soul.....5 parts
PHOTODRAMA COMPANY
How Molly Made Good,.....6 reels
PHOTOPLAY RELEASING COMPANY
Aug.—Sarah Bernhardt at Home.....2 parts
PROHIBITION FILM CORPORATION
Prohibition .....5 parts
REELPLAYS CORPORATION
The Cowpuncher .....8 reels
STANDARD NEWSFILM, INC.
Are We Ready? .....4 reels
STERLING CAMERA & FILM CO.
Land o' the Lost.....5 reels
The Game of Three.....5 reels
SUN PHOTOPLAY CO., Inc.
The Princess of India.....5 reels
WORLD SERIES FILM CO.
1915 World's Championship Series.
(Boston Am. vs. Phila. N.)....3 or 5 reels

MAKING SUCCESS MORE SUCCESSFUL

IN nine months, V-L-S-E has made its productions synonymous with DEPENDABILITY.

Probably no other institution in any field ever achieved more instantaneous success.

Starting with "Graustark," "The Juggernaut," "The Rosary," "The College Widow," and running right through the schedule with such features as "The Island of Regeneration," "The Blindness of Virtue," "The House of a Thousand Candles," "The District Attorney," this organization has provided a continuous output of film dramas that have broken attendance figures, return booking records and high admission precedents everywhere.

And now comes 1916. We enter the year full speed ahead with a line-up of releases that must command the consideration of every thoughtful exhibitor. Bookings immediately available include:

"THE GREAT DIVIDE," a Lubin Sovereign play, with Ethel Clayton and House Peters of which W. Stephen Bush, Editor of the Moving Picture World, says, "Judged by the most exacting standards of the V-L-S-E, this picture surpasses the most successful features released within the last few months."

"NO GREATER LOVE," a Selig Red Seal play, with Regina Badet, the widely famed French emotional actress as "Sadunah," the dancer. "Passionate mother love," says William C. Esty 2nd, in the Motion Picture News, "is the basis of the story. The acting is exceedingly vivid."

"THOU ART THE MAN," a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature with Joseph Kilgour as a rich man who covets Virginia Pearson as a poor clerk's beautiful wife. Reviewed by the Morning Telegraph, as a production than which "nothing could be better."

"THE MISLEADING LADY," an Essanay feature, with Henry B. Walthall, "The Mansfield of the screen," and Edna Mayo, in a story of primitive passions, brute force and overpowering mastery.

Merely forerunners, these, of a service for the entire year, charged with the highest-tensioned drawing power that brains, ingenuity and capital can devise.
And then, for added measure, the Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial, issued through the nineteen branch offices of this organization bi-weekly. Made up of 1,000 feet of quick-actioned, dynamic-interest pictures, gathered by one of the world's greatest news organizations from the far corners of the earth, the nation and your own community. Obtainable with, or without, the regular Big Four pictures.

To urge upon you the advantage of making the most of the business-building certainties which V-L-S-E offers you for 1916, would be a reflection upon your good judgment. May we simply suggest, therefore, that you see to it that others do not "speak first"?

V. L. S. E. Inc.

LUBIN

FIVE REEL UNIT

LUBIN - UNIT PROGRAM JAN. 3, 1916

EXQUISITE

JUNE DAYE

IN

"SORROWS of HAPPINESS"

An Original Heart Drama

By

ANTHONY P. KELLY

DIRECTED BY JOSEPH KAUFMAN

DAVE DON COMEDY

"HIS LORDSHIP"

DIRECTED BY

EDWIN McKIM

REGULAR PROGRAM

JAN. 6TH 1916

"VENGEANCE of the OPPRESSED"

3 ACT DRAMA

FEATURING

EDWARD SLOMAN

JAN. 8TH 1916

BILLIE REEVE'S COMEDY "BILLIE'S HEADACHE"

DIRECTED BY

EARL METCALFE

GENERAL FILM LUBIN RELEASES

LUBIN

Presents

Raymond Hitchcock

in

"THE WONDERFUL WAGER"

Written by GEORGE HOBART

Adapted by DANIEL ELLIS
AND MARK SWAN

HITCHY AT HIS BEST

3 REELS OF RIOTOUS COMEDY

Directed by
RENE PLAISSETTY

RELEASED
MONDAY JAN. 3RD 1916

BOOK THROUGH
V. L. S. E.

BIG FOUR
V L S E
FEATURE PLAY

YOU are wasting your opportunities if YOU ignore advertising.

NOW READY!

AFTER FIVE YEARS IN THE LARGEST THEATRES
AND SEVEN MORE IN LEADING STOCK COMPANIES
AUGUSTUS THOMAS' UNIQUE DRAMATIC SUCCESS

"THE
OTHER GIRL"
IN 300 SCENES WITH 400 PEOPLE

—INTRODUCING—
TWO STARS OF NATIONAL POPULARITY

JAMES J.
CORBETT
THE PEOPLE'S HERO ACTOR

PAUL
GILMORE
MATINEE IDOL OF A DOZEN SUCCESSES

AND A SPLENDID CAST OF WELL KNOWN PLAYERS WITH WILLIAM MULDOON WORLD'S CHAMPION WRESTLER AND INTERNATIONAL AUTHORITY ON HEALTH BUILDING

AN ABSOLUTE NOVELTY

DESIGNED FOR PUBLIC ENTERTAINMENT AND MONEY EARNING

SCENES ACTUALLY SHOWN:

MULDOON'S FAMOUS TRAINING FARM
CORBETT'S FIRST FIGHT AT SCHOOL
EXCITING AUTO ACCIDENT ON CROWDED BROADWAY
CORBETT'S FIRST PROFESSIONAL BATTLE
BROADWAY'S NIGHT ELECTRICAL DISPLAY
MILLIONAIRE PATIENTS AT MULDOON'S FARM
CORBETT TRAINING FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT
AND A BIG, HUMAN STORY IN 293 OTHERS

TERRITORY WILL BE SOLD FOR CASH
TELEGRAPHIC INQUIRIES ANSWERED PROMPTLY
ADDRESS

RAVER FILM CORPORATION

110 WEST 40th STREET, NEW YORK

AT LAST—

TWO REAL WAR PICTURES that have created a profound impression wherever shown!

TWO REAL WAR PICTURES that are booking faster and selling faster than any other war pictures

A new State right plan that gets the State right buyer the money quick

THE BATTLES OF A NATION

6 Reels of Action

Opened at the Park Theatre, New York, to capacity, then to the Casino Theatre, Washington, the week before Xmas, to the biggest business in the history of this theatre for this time of the year.

Showing the actual

Bombardment of WARSAW

THE WARRING MILLIONS

6 Reels of Action

Opened at the Olympic Theatre, Chicago, to more people than ever before passed through the doors of this historic playhouse. Police reserves called to handle the crowds! Same capacity business in other cities!

Showing the actual

BATTLE and Fall and Capture of IVANGOROD

A FEW BOOKINGS OPEN FOR FIRST CLASS HOUSES

The BUFFALO-TIMES MOVING PICTURE SYNDICATE DEPT.

TIMES BUILDING - - NEW YORK CITY

DEPOPULATING THIS EARTH!!!

Is it WAR, or is it

RACE SUICIDE

A six part motion photo-story showing enough conclusive proof to make your audiences debate; discussion means an interest which has its answer in the box-office

With this cast of photo-play idols

ORMI HAWLEY
EARL METCALFE
OCTAVIA HANDWORTH
KEMPTON GREENE

To be sold outright on

STATE RIGHTS BASIS

JOS. W. FARNHAM

Room Six Hundred and Seven
Two Twenty West Forty-Second Street
New York City

Accessory News

SECTION OF MOTION PICTURE NEWS DEVOTED TO THE CONSTRUCTION, EQUIPMENT AND OPERATION OF THEATRE, EXCHANGE AND STUDIO

START THE YEAR 1916 RIGHT ORDER
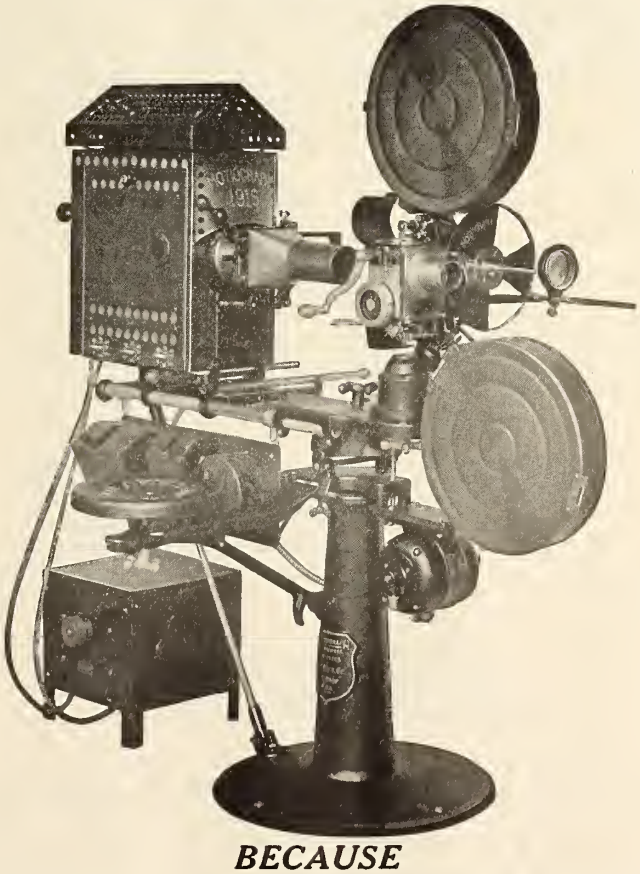
THE 1916 MODEL MOTIOGRAPH
WHY?



BECAUSE
It is simple and easy for your operator to operate.

BECAUSE
It will give a flickerless and rock-steady picture.

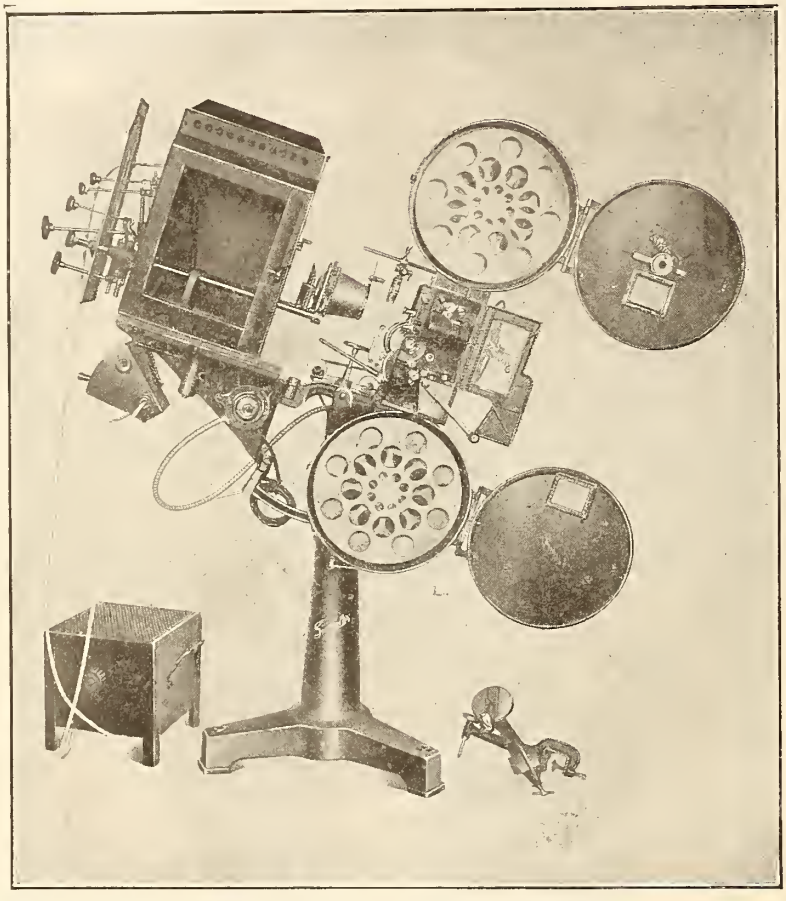
BECAUSE
in
PRICE, QUALITY and PROJECTION
It has no equal

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO., 568 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

Eastern Office
19 West 23rd St., NEW YORK CITY

Western Office
833 MARKET ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Simplex the ONLY PROJECTOR that has a device for setting the shutter while the machine is in motion.



Every operator knows what it means to start his show and then find that his shutter is out of time or does not synchronize with his intermittent movement.

The shutter setting device of the Simplex is simple as is everything else about the machine; by simply turning the knob on the back of the mechanism either to the right or left the shutter can be adjusted while the machine is in motion.

Simplex

The machine that has all the needed devices and adjustments that every other projector has and THEN SOME.

Simplex

Trade Mark Pat'd

The PROJECTOR that received the UNANIMOUS APPROVAL of the
U. S. GOVERNMENT WAR DEPARTMENT
GRAND PRIZE—PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

Send for Catalog "N"

MADE AND GUARANTEED BY

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.

317 East 34th St. New York

Construction, Equipment and Operation

Accessory News

Section of Motion Picture News

Everything for Theatre, Exchange and Studio

Motion Picture Projection Simplified

By J. H. Hallberg

Continuation of Answer to Question No. 43

In incandescent lamps using the old carbon filament the body of the filament is quite large and considerable power is expended in bringing the carbon wire up to incandescence. Therefore, longer time is required with the old carbon filament, possessing comparatively low efficiency, to effect cooling with consequent drop in candle power to allow the eye to perceive a change.

It is also well to remember that for very high candle power lamps using much power on account of a thicker filament being used, the interruptions are less noticeable. With small lamps of from 2 to 8 candle power, with carbon filament, a smaller or thinner wire is used. Therefore, on a 25 cycle system the small lamps of low candle power show flicker very plainly.

With the new Tungsten, or as they are called, "Mazda" Incandescent Lamps, a much finer wire is used for the filament. Fig. 31. The efficiency of the Tungsten filament is four times higher, about, than the efficiency for the old carbon filament. This means that it takes about one-quarter as much power to produce the same amount of illumination with the Tungsten filament as previously used with the carbon filament.

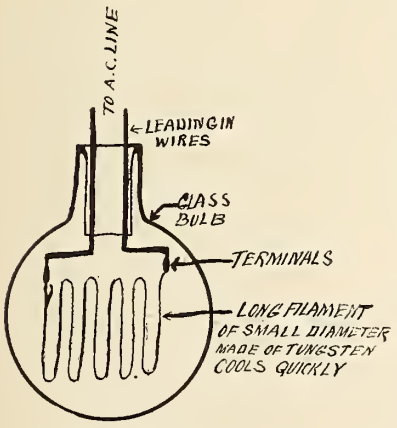


FIG. 31

Another point bearing on our present discussion is that due to the fact that with the Tungsten filament the wire is brought to a higher state of incandescence or temperature it also follows that it cools off quicker than the old carbon filament.

Considering the foregoing you must understand that with the Tungsten filament for a given candle power lamp, the flicker on a 25 cycle system will be much greater than with the carbon filament lamp. As a matter of fact, for a given size small lamp of maybe 4 candle power where you would not observe flicker at 33 cycles you could easily observe flicker on such a lamp with the naked eye when using a Tungsten filament when operating on as high frequency as 40 cycles.

44—Judging by the foregoing discussion it would seem that the higher the operating efficiency of an illuminant of a given candle power the greater the effect upon the steadiness of the illumination due to a reduction in the number of cycles upon which such lamp or illuminant is operating. Is this a fact?

Ans.—Yes! that is one of the points which I want to impress upon you, and which you must remember because in dealing with an electric arc the flicker effect due to the reversal of current through the arc is much more noticeable to the naked eye. I cannot impress this too strongly on you.

45—Why does the reversal of the current effect the illumination from an electric arc to a greater extent?

Ans.—When an electric arc is maintained between two carbon points, in order to properly consume the carbon there must be a certain amount of space between the carbon points.

The distance between the points varies under different operating conditions and also with the purpose for which the illumination is required. The distance also varies with the nature of the current and the number of amperes flowing over the arc and the nature of the electrodes.

Disregarding these details for the time being, it is sufficient to state and for you to remember that there must always be an air space between two carbon points in order to allow the arc to properly consume the carbon.

Now, we have brought down our argument or discussion to an air space between two carbon points across which the arc must be maintained.

Suppose we send an impulse of current from the upper carbon to the lower, the circuit will be established if the two carbons are touching each other.

Suppose we now, slowly separate the carbons to a given distance of say, one-quarter of an inch, with D. C., we would have a steady flow of current across the air space and the vaporized carbon is of such nature that it will allow the current to flow over the one-quarter inch long air gap between the carbon points and it will continue to do so as long as the carbon points are intact and as long as they are maintained at the same distance (one-quarter of an inch) and as long as the current is maintained steady as originally provided.

Copyright, 1916, by J. H. Hallberg

"BERGER'S Classik" STEEL CEILINGS

In Your Theatre Would Mean Utmost Safety and Beauty

A pretty theatre acts as a magnet to the theatre-going public. The variety of artistic designs and the many decorative possibilities offered by Berger's "Classik" Steel Ceilings compare favorably with the most expensively moulded plaster —yet costs much less and are incomparably more durable and safe.

They are fire-retarding, cannot crack, chip or fall down. They're real "safety first" ceilings.

Perfectly constructed and give permanent satisfaction.

Our interesting "Classik" Book D.M.N. shows many beautiful installations and designs. Send for a copy and look it over carefully.

The Berger Mfg. Co., Canton, Ohio

Branches: Boston New York Philadelphia Chicago St. Louis Minneapolis San Francisco
Export Dept.: Berger Bldg., New York City, U. S. A.

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, Inc.
220 WEST 42d STREET, NEW YORK CITY

The screen on which the picture is projected is the particular bit of equipment about your theatre which makes for either the comfort or discomfort of your patrons. If it's a RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, there is no eye-strain and no discomfort, If it's any other kind of a screen, you're taking chances.

Some projection surfaces "eat current" in a way which would suggest that their manufacturers had had the screen's enormous appetite in mind when the screen was made. RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREENS have been thought out as a means of giving maximum results at the minimum of cost.

CANADIAN DISTRIBUTORS:
Allfeatures, Ltd., No. 56 King St., W. Toronto, Can.
Allfeatures, Ltd., Scala Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Can.

Now we have established what we call the electric arc, which is really an imaginary wire, or filament composed of vaporized carbon, glowing at very high intensity compared with the ordinary incandescent lamp.

Now, instead of applying D. C. flowing in one direction, over this air gap between the carbon points, we will apply A. C., changing or reversing 60 times per second or operating at a frequency of 60 cycles, as it is called. Under this condition the arc stream is no longer maintained across the air gap between the two carbon points at a uniform temperature and consequent glow.

JENKINS PLANS TO ESTABLISH DEMONSTRATING UNDERSEA STUDIO ON PACIFIC COAST, WITH INGENIOUS APPARATUS FOR GETTING EASY EFFECTS

C. FRANCIS JENKINS is in New York arranging for the establishment of a demonstrating under-water studio on the Pacific coast.

The device consists of a large cast-iron work-chamber for the photographer and his camera. Access to the work-chamber is through a tubular extension reaching above the surface of the water, and down which the cameraman climbs on an iron ladder. Here he works behind a plate-glass window, and with as much comfort as in a land studio.

The machine will be located in the clear water of a sheltered bay, and connected to the shore by a foot-bridge.

From the rocks, or from a brass-railed platform, forming a part of the outfit, the actors dive into an "honest-to-goodness ocean" to do their act, with no danger of collapsing glass tanks.

The white, sandy floor of the bay will be properly marked, as in a land studio, so that the actors may keep within the field of the lens.

Fencing nets will be anchored around the marked floor to keep the fish and other denizens of the sea, within the range of the camera, to give realism to the scene.

This studio will be fitted up in a first class manner, with dressing rooms ashore, and all other needed accessories, and will be rented to directors for such scenes under water as their scenarios call for, a scene which puts the "punch" in the picture.

For example, directors working on scenarios calling for mermaids will not be obliged to be content with the ridiculous anomaly of a beautiful creature, half-fish and half-girl, lying high and dry on a rock-bound coast, but can photograph her in her native element with the beautiful scintillating effect incident to photographs under water.

Other similar studios will be established in other localities as the demand arises.

Mr. Jenkins explains that, in the motion picture industry there has been too much mystery, and unwarranted exaggeration of the alleged difficulties of making pictures under water, whereas, as a matter of cold fact, it is not difficult or uncommon. It is only a matter of clear water, suitable apparatus, and working when the sun is near the zenith.

Of clear water there are abundant locations, and travelers will instantly recall Catalina, the Carolinas and West Indies; while of clear inland water pools there are many like Lake Tahoe, Crater and Crystal lakes.

ACTIVITIES AMONG THEATRE OWNERS IN THE GOLDEN STATE

L. UHLIG has purchased the Berry-Grand theatre at Whittier, of C. H. Keip.

E. J. Spencer, owner of the building occupied by the Strand theatre on Fifty-fourth street, Los Angeles, has taken over the management of the house, succeeding H. Cornfeld, who has gone to New York City. Mr. Spencer has added a new Powers 6B machine, made other improvements, and has opened to big business.

R. Peronnet and William Tremawan, owners of the Pavillion theatre at Grass Valley, have let the contract for the remodeling of a building forty feet wide and one hundred and thirty-six feet long, which will be converted into a theatre having a seating capacity of twelve hundred, a standard stage for vaudeville, and every modern improvement.

A clear picture

is as essential as a good scenario. Because the basic product is right the clearest pictures are on Eastman Film. Identifiable by the stencil mark in the margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Make Your Pictures Please All Your Patrons

When everyone speaks well of the quality of your pictures—their clearness and sharp detail —then you have an asset that is beyond price.

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses

get the full value of every film, and your patrons get an ample money's worth—they come again and again. Bausch & Lomb objectives and condensers are accepted as the standard by exacting operators and are regularly supplied with Edison and Nicholas Power Machines. You can have them, too — any film exchange can supply you.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.
569 ST. PAUL ST., ROCHESTER, N, Y,

Leading American manufacturers of Photographic Lenses, Microscopes, Projection Apparatus (Balopticons) and other high grade optical products.

How About Your Carbon Stock???

The WISE EXHIBITOR knows the situation of the market.

He knows also the goods because he tested them thoroughly.

Therefore,

MARCUS LOEW'S Theatrical Enterprises

placed with us an important order.

We got the first shipment from Europe a few weeks ago, and today many exhibitors everywhere in the United States our carbons and are well satisfied.

USE

Why? Because it is the quality they require. Because they know there will be no shortage.

Read next week what an EXHIBITOR in a prominent position, well known to many of you, thinks of our IMPORTED

FABRIL CARBONS

HABICHT, BRAUN & CO.
FILM DEPARTMENT

161-163 Hudson Street
Uptown Shipping Office:
145 W. 45th St., Room 1013
NEW YORK

Chicago: 109-111 West Ohio Street

Pittsburgh: 441 Market Street

Projection

Operating Electricity

Questions Answered

Repairing Equipment

Edited by J. H. Hallberg

Who Will Answer All Questions You Send in, No Matter How Simple or How Difficult

INTERMITTENT MOVEMENT PATENT AND ITS VALUE

L. M. Matson, Marysville, Wash.:—Attached herewith drawings and copy of patent that I have just received on an intermittent movement.

Kindly give me your opinion on the invention. Do you suppose any concern would be interested in this device?

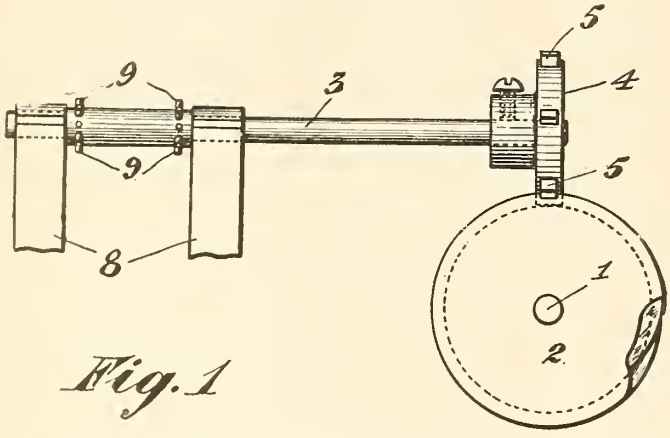

Fig. 1

Ans.—Your letter of recent date, together with the specifications covering your invention, have been noted with much interest. It is difficult to give an opinion on such a device as your new intermittent movement by merely judging the patent drawings. Therefore, I would rather reproduce your letter and drawings, Fig. 1 and Fig. 2, together with the claim as appearing in U. S. patent specification, No. 1,159,791, as issued to R. F. Page, so that those who are more skilled in the art as manufacturers of projector machines and cameras will have opportunity to see the drawings and study the claim.

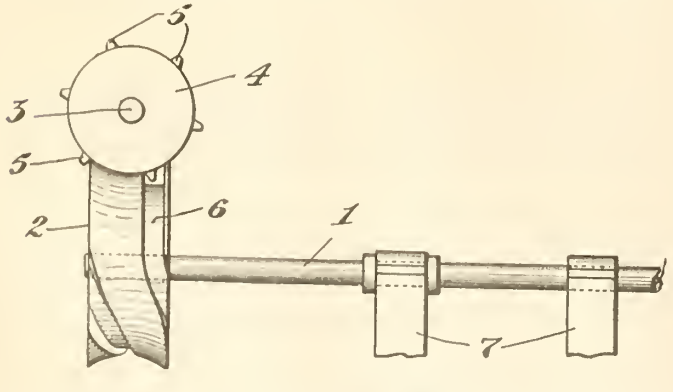

Fig. 2

Claim: In a mechanism for transmitting intermittent movement from a drive shaft to a driven shaft and for preventing overthrow of the driven shaft, the combination of a cylindrical wheel having parallel ends secured to the drive shaft, the said wheel having a uniformly concave peripheral face, a cylindrical wheel upon the driven shaft which is at right angles to the first-mentioned wheel, and whose face fits the concave face of the first-mentioned wheel, a cam track in the first-mentioned wheel which parallels the edge of that wheel for a portion of its length and has a helical portion therein, radially projecting studs of uniform cross section upon the wheel which is on the driven shaft, each of which studs is adapted to travel in the said cam track and to be forced out of the helical portion thereof as another of the said studs is entering the other end of said cam track, whereby the wheel upon the driven shaft is allowed to remain stationary during a portion of the rotary movement of the other wheel, is advanced a distance of one stud space for each revolution of the wheel upon the driven shaft, and is then intermittently rotated without overthrow or back lash.

CEMENT FOR PATCHING OLD FILMS; COLORING LEADERS

H. W. M., Ottawa, Ills.:—We have a lot of old film which I would like to use for leaders, as you know is often necessary.

Now I am using cement put out by the General Film Company, and find it better than any I have ever used, but it will not stick this old film, on account of its age. What I want to know is this: Is there any way to treat this old film so as to make a patch with it?

Please give me what information you can on this subject. Also how are films colored as used by some exchanges for leaders?

Ans.—There are many different kinds of film cement on the market, some of which work well with all kinds of film; others can be used with only certain kinds of films.

Not knowing what kind of film you have, I cannot guarantee results, but if you will use what is known as the Edison film cement or another special film cement made by the Eastman Film people, you should have no difficulty in patching any film you may have.

The Edison film cement I found to be splendid, and it costs one dollar net, per pound bottle.

The Eastman cement costs about two dollars per pound bottle, but I believe the Edison cement will answer your purpose.

Moving Picture film is tinted just the same as an ordinary lantern slide is tinted or colored. In order to tint a film, stretch it on a suitable holder, emerse in water until the emulsion becomes soft, then wash the film in a solution containing the coloring desired. Any photographic supply store can supply coloring for this purpose.

As a matter of fact, a solution of water with any transparent coloring matter solved therein will answer the purpose. Any of the aniline dyes would do, although some of the aniline colors fade out if exposed to the light continuously, but for a film leader I believe they would be entirely satisfactory.

After the film has been emersed in the bath containing the coloring it is well to remove it and wash it again in clean water and simply hang it up to dry.

In some instances it is well to put a small amount of glycerine with the water containing the coloring, or in the last wash water, so as to keep the film from getting too brittle, due to drying too quickly.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

WHEN YOU USE

SPEER CARBONS

REGENT THEATRE COMPANY
Billings, Montana.

October 14, 1915.

Gentlemen:—

Your letter of October 8th received, also shipment of carbons.

Referring to your request for the opinion of our operator on your product, we are pleased to advise that your "SPEER" carbons are fully as good as any imported carbon we have ever used, in fact, our operator advises that they settle much quicker than imported carbons and give fully as good a light and we are very much pleased with them.

Again assuring you your carbons are very fine, we remain,

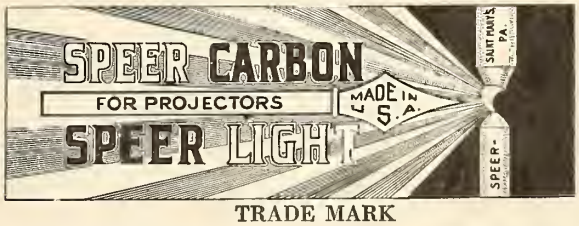
Yours very truly,
REGENT THEATRE COMPANY,
E. C. O'Keefe.

FIRST COME FIRST SERVED

NET CASH PRICES

½x12, cored, pointed both ends, $37.50 per M. (1,000 in a case)
9/16x12, cored, pointed both ends, $40.00 per M. (1,000 in a case)
⅝x12, cored, pointed both ends, $50.00 per M. (1,000 in a case)
¾x12, cored, pointed both ends, $70.00 per M. (1,000 in a case)
⅞x12, cored, pointed one end, $115.00 per M. (500 in a case)
1x12, cored, pointed one end, $150.00 per M. (500 in a case)

We Fill Sample Orders for 100 Carbons at the Above Pro Rata Prices



TRADE MARK

Our Speer Carbons are absolutely guaranteed to give satisfaction or money back.

Speer Carbon Company Dept. "N"

(Makers of carbon for Electrical purposes during the past 25 years)

Saint Mary's, Pa.

For Sale by Leading M. P. Machine Distributors, Including the Following:

J. H. Hallberg, 36 East 23rd St., New York, N. Y.
E. E. Fulton Co., 154 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
Kleine Optical Co., 166 N. State St., Chicago, Ill.

furnished for ——

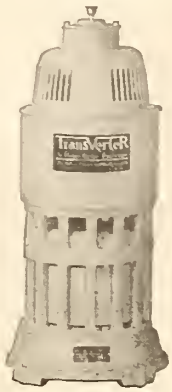
Single or Double Arc

Single, two or three phase circuit

110, 220, 440 Volts

A. C. to Controlled D. C.

D. C. to Controlled D. C.



TransVerteR

TRADE MARK

is a complete—upright electrical unit, that furnishes the best possible direct current light for motion picture projection and may be installed and operated in any projection booth.

Better pictures, bigger profit and perfect automatic arc regulation.

Send for booklet "The Perfect Arc"

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.
Department N, Cleveland, Ohio, U. S. A.

"A GOOD RESOLUTION —GET A "MINUSA"

We Wish You A Happy and Prosperous "New Year"

You can make MANY good resolutions for 1916, but the BEST resolution you can make is to get a REAL SCREEN—the MINUSA GOLD FIBRE SCREEN. "Built By Brains." No other resolution you can make will so benefit you FINANCIALLY and MENTALLY. Financially because it means crowded houses DAILY. Mentally because you will have no more complaints about CLOUDY pictures and you'll DISCOUNT all your bills.

A "MINUSA" screen shows an INCOMPARABLY Brilliant, Natural picture, and DOESN'T TIRE THE EYES.

The "MINUSA" will save FIFTY PER CENT of your light bill, which therefore makes it a GIFT from the Electric Light Company.

No doubt you have sworn a solemn oath to MAKE GOOD in 1916, but why worry when the means is so close at hand. Get a "MINUSA" and you'll be both HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS in 1916. It's a good resolution—make it TODAY!

Write or Wire for Samples and Prices.

The ORIGINAL GOLD FIBRE SCREEN—Perfected.

MINUSA CINE PRODUCTS COMPANY

SAINT LOUIS | SAN FRANCISCO | NEW YORK

SCREENS BUILT BY BRAINS

WHY THERE CANNOT BE A "CARBON TRUST" IN THE UNITED STATES NOW

CERTAIN facts have recently been brought to the attention of MOTION PICTURE NEWS, which should likewise be brought to the attention of exhibitors throughout the country.

Statements have been made to the effect that there is a carbon trust. This statement is ridiculous, as will be seen from the following.

There are four representative houses importing carbons today—the Charles L. Kiewert Company, handling Bio carbons; Hugo Reisinger, handling Electra; Jones & Cammack, carrying the Reflex brand, and Habicht, Braun & Company distributing Fabril.

Of these importers Reisinger and Kiewert are receiving small shipments at long intervals. Jones & Cammack and Habicht, Braun & Company have a considerable supply on hand, and are receiving further allotment because they are not importing brands manufactured by belligerent countries.

The American carbon manufacturers are the Speer Carbon Company and the National Carbon Company, both of which have taken up the motion picture field comparatively recently.

All these companies are in active competition so that the statement that there is a carbon trust is ridiculous.

A further statement has been made to the effect that the English government does not consider carbons contraband, and therefore does not hold up shipments between neutral countries. This may be true, but the implication is that German carbons can be sent at any time from Germany through Denmark, Norway or Sweden to the United States. If this were the case, why is it that the Hugo Reisinger and Kiewert companies are not receiving their regular shipments?

The German manufacturers may try to get their carbons into the United States by way of some neighboring neutral country, but, nevertheless, upon looking into the actual conditions, it will be found that thousands of cases of carbons are actually being held up, and are not allowed to be shipped.

It is impossible to imagine any organization better equipped to handle the importation of German carbons than the above-mentioned companies, and in the opinion of MOTION PICTURE NEWS, if they cannot get in their shipments, certainly others cannot.

If any exhibitor or group of exhibitors are considering undertaking that which the Kiewert and Reisinger companies have found to be practically impossible, MOTION PICTURE NEWS should like to hear of it, as this publication may be able to make suggestions which would be valuable to them.

Before making such an attempt or going into such a combination, the advice of MOTION PICTURE NEWS is to look into the matter very thoroughly, and not to invest any money or devote any time in such an undertaking without the most careful study and investigation.

ARC CONTROLLER BOOKLET GIVES DETAILS OF FIRE DECREASING MECHANISM

THE Speed Controller Company, of 257 William street, New York City, is sending out a booklet entitled "The Arc Controller." In it is given a complete description of this piece of mechanism, showing the way in which it decreases fire risk and increases the efficiency of the lamp and other salient features.

From personal investigation as well as from statements made by leading theatre owners, this instrument cannot be too highly recommended, for it fulfills fully the various claims which are made for it.

OPERATORS IN MACON, GA., ELECT OFFICERS FOR THE COMING YEAR

MOTION picture operators at the houses in Macon, Ga., recently met and elected officers to serve during 1916. C. L. Leonard was named president; L. Avant vice-president; J. E. Buff, corresponding secretary; J. H. Willis, financial secretary; J. O. Morgan, business agent; and C. L. Leonard and J. O. Morgan, trustees.

On Christmas Day the operators held their annual banquet.

TEXAS AIRDOME CLOSES FOR THE WINTER

THE Garden airdome, Longview, Texas, of which H. R. Yates is manager, has closed for the winter season. Yates announces that he will not run a winter show, but will reopen next spring.

PROGRESS OF THEATRE CONSTRUCTION IN VARIOUS STATES

WILLIAM SCHWAB, of Wantagh, who until lately was a partner in the motion picture enterprise at Bellmore, has taken a lease on Erastus E. Haff's Avon theatre, at Broadway and Avon Place, Amityville, and has opened for business.

Frank A. Bennett, who recently terminated his lease of the Garlock Opera House, in Phelps, has opened a moving picture house in Mohawk.

John F. Augar and several associates have broken ground for a picture house on Corn Hill, Utica. It will be located on the southeast corner of Arthur and Neilson streets. It is said the cost will be approximately $15,000. The building will be fireproof and have a seating capacity of 600 to 800, all on the ground floor. There will be no balcony. The building will front on Neilson street and will extend back 95 feet on Arthur street, and about 110 feet along the line of the West Shore Railroad.

Newburgh's newest moving picture theatre is soon to be built by the Paragon Theatres Corporation, owners of a chain of 100 small theatres throughout New York State. The cost will be about $10,000. The theatres are built on a co-operative plan, and stock in the local theatre will be offered to the Newburgh public. The number of owners will be restricted to 100.

A deal was perfected recently whereby the five-year lease of the Strand theatre, Watertown, was sold by Harry Stowell to James Baker and George W. Waldo. Mr. Baker resides at Dexter, but is well known as an auto liveryman in the former city. The purchase price was not mentioned.

Three "taxpayer"stores and a two-story moving picture theatre will be built from plans by S. B. Eisendrath and B. Horowitz at 623 to 627 Eighth avenue, New York City, extending in an "L" to 303 and 305 West Fortieth street. The improvement to be made for M. R. Ryan at an estimated cost of $46,000 has been leased to the Bofan Amusement Company for a term of years.

Activities in Ohio

The Savoy, Cleveland, opened recently. Although built to accommodate 1,200 people, Mr. Garfield is limiting the number of seats to 1,000, so insuring plenty of room for patrons to move about and sit in comfort.

Two years ago Moorman and John, contractors and builders, erected a $50,000 moving picture theatre in Oakley, and the venture was so disastrous that the firm went into the hands of a receiver. Recently the receivership was lifted, through an entry presented by Attorneys Nelson and Hickenlooper, the receivership having been so profitable that all the debts of the firm were paid in full.

Progress in Pennsylvania

The Kensington Amusement Company, M. Stiefel, president, has taken over the Iris, a large house at Alleghany and Kensington avenues, Philadelphia. As this company already has the Lafayette, a few blocks distant on Kensington avenue, they purpose to run the latter as a five cent house, reserving the Iris for a ten cent policy. The Iris has been redecorated and new chairs put in. It opened under the new management on December 25, with Milton Rogasner as manager.

The Manheim theatre, 5123-25 Germantown avenue, Philadelphia, situated on a lot 50 x 201 feet, together with a small lot of 15 x 56 feet in its rear, has been conveyed by the Manheim Amusement Company to John Courduff for a price not disclosed. The assessed valuation of the theatre is $25,000, and it is subject to a mortgage of $14,000. The seller has taken $18,000 of the purchase price on mortgage.

The Tulpehocken theatre, at the corner of Tulpehocken street and Germantown avenue, Philadelphia, has been rechristened the Rialto. Under the new management the plays will be booked through the Stanley Company, and a policy of feature pictures will be inaugurated.

The Frolic theatre, near Fifty-second and Wyalusing avenue, Philadelphia, recently was sold by the Loyal Building and Loan Association to Theodore Johnson for a nominal sum subject to a mortgage of $40,000.

Johnson in turn conveyed the property to Harry Altshuller for a nominal consideration, with a mortgage of $65,000. This theatre, which has changed hands several times in the past year, is on a lot 78 feet wide by an irregular depth, and is assessed at $65,000.

AMERICAN SEATING COMPANY

Exclusive Manufacturers of

Furnishings for Theatres, Schools, Churches and all Public Buildings

When you want Opera Chairs, remember we have

5,000 CHAIRS

ALWAYS IN STOCK

in 6 different styles in Imitation Mahogany and Circassian Walnut finishes, assuring you satisfactory selection and

IMMEDIATE SERVICE

Other designs of Upholstered and Unupholstered Chairs unlimited in number, furnished in 25 to 50 days after receipt of specifications, depending on character of chairs selected.

Our Consultation Service, specializing in designing economical arrangements for theatre seating is tendered to you without any charge whatever.

Descriptive literature on request.

For prompt attention address:

General Offices: 1012 LYTTON BUILDING, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Sales Offices in all principal cities

REFLEX

(Made in Switzerland)

The Quality Carbons of the World

Reflex D. C. Carbons have a Specially Constructed Negative with Copper Coated Core.

The letter below comes from an operator in the Middle West:

"I received the carbons and after giving them a good tryout, find them the best I ever used. They burn long, with no flame, and give a nice snow white light."

You, Mr. Manager, and you, Mr. Operator, we know you want the best carbon on the market. You cannot get that "snow white light" unless you use Reflex. Send in your order now.

¾ x 12 plain cored, $10.00 per 100 carbons.
⅝ x 12 plain cored, $7.50 per 100 carbons.
⅝ x 6 copper coated cored, $3.75 per 100 carbons.
½ x 6 copper coated cored, $2.75 per 100 carbons.

If your dealer cannot supply you with Reflex carbons send cash with your order, or instruct us to ship C.O.D., and we will fill sample orders in lots of not less than fifty each in all the above sizes.

Watch our weekly advertisements and benefit by the experience of others.

JONES & CAMMACK

SOLE IMPORTERS

12 Bridge Street New York City

Building and Furnishings

Edited by Nathan Myers

Seat Equipment Is Vital Subject for Theatre Owner

NOW that we have digested our Christmas dinner, and are in a happy frame of mind, let us discourse over our Christmas cigarette on the subject of theatre seats, the planning of seating arrangement, relation of seating to screen and stage, arrangement of aisles, etc.

First the seats themselves, as to construction, materials, and accessories will receive our attention. Successive experiences of seating manufacturers, theatre architects, contractors and managers have brought about a constant change in the seats that are offered, just as the product of most manufacturers is changing.

The ends and intemediate standards must be strong for they bear their share of the stress when a heavy person leans back in an effort to obtain comfort. The foot of such standards should be so designed that two bolts to each fore and back section can be placed in the concrete, so far apart that the concrete even if not the best will hold the strain. Unless these feet are so designed, the journeyman will argue that only one expansion bolt can be placed to a section, for fear that the two would be so close that neither would hold to the concrete. For wood floor construction, this is not of such consequence.

The standards should be of such build that they will allow a proper support and brace for the seat back.

Few give due attention to the hinge of the seat. It is not part of the ornamentation of the seating. It is only used when lowering and raising the seat, but use a cheap hinge and see how quickly the bolts fall out and the seat drops. Note how it binds and brings damaging stress on the seat. Let the hinge be of ball bearing type with such elasticity about the bearings that the seat may be moved with ease, that it will not drop down and that it will not squeak.

The seat and the seat back must be appropriate to the house which is to receive it. Some gorgeous creations in design, material and comfort are to be had, and with them all intermediate qualities down, to the all-steel arrangement.

We might rightfully emphasize that a far better, more commodious and higher priced seat is being placed in theatres than ever in the past. While we shall all strive to run along with the tide of advancement, we must however bear in mind the fact that differentiates the motion picture house from all other theatres: It is that the former is comparatively dark, and during this darkness much damage is done.

It therefore behooves the architect to look to such material in seating as will stand the greatest wear and tear. Upholstery must be used sparingly, for sooner or later the material will be found cut with pen knives, and hat pins. The upholstery tacks are pulled out and the gimp torn off. In some cases it is the simple result of disregard for other's property, and in other cases it might be the work of the sub-conscious nervous patron.

The back and seat if of veneered wood should not be of less than five ply and should not be less than seven-sixteenths of an inch in thickness. Lesser dimensions will result in a seat or back of too great a flexibility, with the result that the material will break at its fastenings and that the stress on the glue between the various layers of the material will be too great, so that the outer layers will split off.

If this back is once started, the patron soon helps the damage along by picking at the loose veneer.

Where the patronage is rather of a hard class of people an all-steel combination is best, steel standards, steel seats and steel backs. Many theatres are not being so equipped.

Where seats are located in the balcony, there is no need of hat guards or foot rests. Orchestra seats may be supplied with these accessories. If they are not supplied the patrons in the front might be annoyed intentionally or accidentally by those in the back. Hats are often kicked from their racks.

If the hat guard and foot rest are supplied, they should be of steel and of no other material. They should be securely bolted to the standards, and not simply slipped into a socket made to receive it. Great annoyance and loss will be avoided if these attentions are given. Rather omit the guard rest entirely if a substantial and well secured article is not provided.

The hat wires or hat racks are always needed and cost but a little, but they must be well anchored at the back.

Aisle and number plates are not needed in the general picture house. When supplied they should be nickel-plated brass with black figures. They should not be nailed into place. The nails are easily removed and the plates stolen. Brass screws should be used and when once set they should have their heads either hammered or filed down so that the screws cannot readily be removed.

Lest we overtax the patience of our readers with too long an article for one issue, we will continue our discourse in our next issue.

CLAREMONT, NEW YORK, A NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE, SEATING 1,300, THOROUGHLY MODERN

THE Claremont theatre, 135th street and Broadway, is a New York neighborhood house, conducted under an enterprising management which is thoroughly alive to the necessity of providing its patrons with comfortable and attractive surroundings, as well as good pictures.

The theatre, built in 1914, seats 1,300 persons. Electricity is used for lighting throughout, and steam for heating. The auditorium is attractively finished.

EXTERIOR OF THE CLAREMONT THEATRE, NEW YORK CITY

Particular attention is given by the Claremont to its music, excellent results being obtained from the installation of a Hope-Jones Unit Orchestra (Wurlitzer).

A modern projection machine is employed. The length of the throw is 150 feet. A painted screen has been found to give good service.

The lobby dimensions are generous enough to afford rapid handling of crowds. The box office is equipped with a National Cash Register sales machine. Expensive frames are used in lobby displays.

In addition to its lobby displays, street boards, auto service, newspapers, a program mailing list, and heralds, provide the theatre with advertising media.

The Wallingford Amusement Company owns the theatre, and F. J. Dollinger is the manager. General, Mutual, Pathé and other features are shown, at 10 and 15 cents.

THEATRE PROGRAM DESCRIBES IN A PAGE THE SCREEN USED FOR THE PICTURES

IN the program of the Belmont theatre, Fifty-second street, above Market, West Philadelphia, where Triangle plays are being shown, a full page is devoted to the screen upon which the pictures are projected, which in this case is that manufactured by the Luna-Lite Company.

This is the kind of advertising which pays, for every patron should be put in touch with the various features of any given house, whether it be the seating arrangement, the screen, decorations, lighting effect or whatever it is, for it is these points which are talked about outside of the theatre.

The mere fact that a patron is told that such and such an equipment is the best obtainable, makes an impression upon him, and he will go out and tell his friends about it, whether he knows exactly what he is talking about or not. This is human nature and exhibitors will profit by giving all their improvements as much publicity as possible.

This is not theory, but is working out every day among the progressive houses.

ROTHAPFEL SUPERVISES THE BOSTON THEATRE, INSTALLING NEW STAGE SETTINGS

WHEN the patrons of the Boston theatre, Boston, recently attended the show there they saw an entirely new stage setting which had been installed under the personal direction of S. L. Rothapfel. Mr. Rothapfel went over from New York to make direct changes in this theatre which will make the house better adapted to showing Triangle photoplays.

The first thing he did was to remove the ornate stage setting and install one which is plainer and much more effective as a sounding board for music as well as a framework within which the screen is set.

He brought with him soloists from New York. Also, the Fadettes women's orchestra were augmented by the addition of several players. Mrs. Caroline B. Nichols now has thirty players under her baton. A choralcello has been installed.

All in all, the projection, lighting, stage and musical effects have been vastly improved, even through changes which are largely experimental and only anticipatory of greater improvements to come in this, the largest of Boston film houses, later.

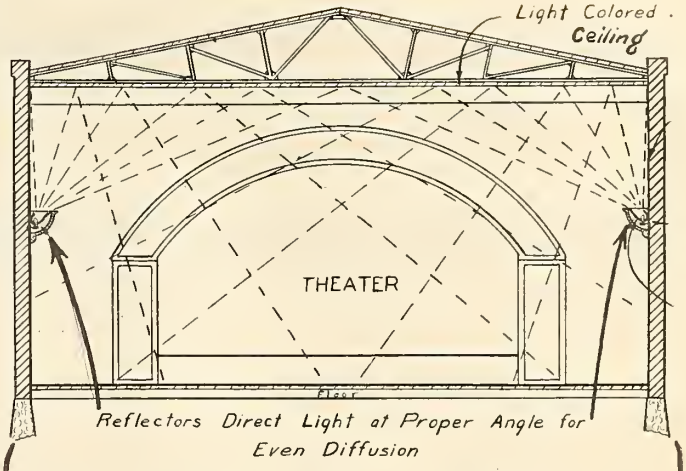
INDIANAPOLIS WILL HAVE $225,000 HOUSE IN SPRING

THE building committee of the Monument Realty Company, which will erect a $225,000 motion picture theatre in the Circle, Indianapolis, to be known as the Circle theatre, expects to let a contract soon to wreck the buildings on the site of the new theatre and clear the ground for the structure.

A. L. Block, of the building committee says the plans were practically complete and that there is to be no undue delay in the construction work of the theatre. Every effort will be made to have the structure completed for dedication as early next spring as possible.

HAMBURG, ENGSTROM & CO. FURNISHES OIL PAINTINGS FOR FROLIC LOBBY

HAMBURG, ENGSTROM AND COMPANY, of Chicago, has just furnished the Frolic theatre, Fifty-fifth and Ellis avenue, with ten three-hundred-dollar oil paintings to decorate its lobby with good effect.



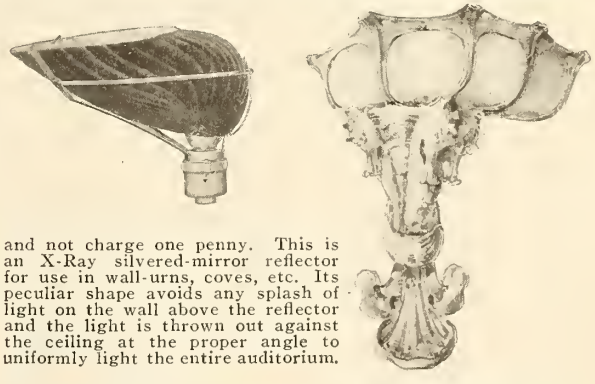
Beautify Your Theatre With Artistic Lighting

If you met a man who had lighted 2,000 theatres, you would be glad to have his advice about lighting your house, because his advice would be worth dollars to you.

He could tell you how to obtain original effects—the kind that get your house talked about—at no increased cost.

He could tell you about the newest in lighting—how to light during the show so as not to interfere with projection—how to flood the interior with sunlight from hidden lamps—how to make a low-ceilinged house look spacious—how to get away from fixtures hanging from the ceiling.

That man is in our engineering department—and he'll gladly tell you all he has learned in lighting over 2,000 theatres and not charge one penny. This is an X-Ray silvered-mirror reflector for use in wall-urns, coves, etc. Its peculiar shape avoids any splash of light on the wall above the reflector and the light is thrown out against the ceiling at the proper angle to uniformly light the entire auditorium.



CONCEALED LIGHTING With X-Ray Reflectors

is the new way in theatre lighting. Strikingly beautiful effects are assured, whether the ceiling is high or low and the cost for this original way of lighting is no more than with the common-place method.

Consult our theatre lighting specialist. Write for information about this effective lighting. Fill out the coupon below and let him tell you all about it. The information will be invaluable to you, because it is based on actual experience in lighting over 2,000 theatres. It's free. Fill out the coupon and get it—NOW.

NATIONAL X-RAY REFLECTOR CO.

Chicago 244 W. Jackson Blvd.
New York 21 West 46th St.

National X-Ray Reflector Co.
Gentlemen:—
Please send me full information about lighting my theatre with X-Ray Concealed Lighting. Width of theatre ..... ft. Height ..... ft. Length ..... ft. Color of Ceiling ..... Want dim light during pictures and bright during intermission.

Name .....

Address .....

Directory of New Theatres

This department is designed to be a weekly guide to all sales, leases, construction and remodeling of photoplay theatres. If you are building, selling, leasing or renovating, kindly communicate it at once for publication.

ARIZONA

R. W. McCRACKIN, who for the past two years has conducted theatres in the Panama Canal Zone, is preparing to open a theatre with four hundred seats at Tempe. Equipment for this house has been purchased through the Los Angeles branch of the G. A. Metcalfe company, and includes Powers 6-A machines.

CALIFORNIA

T. I. King has purchased the Sunbeam theatre at 4722 Pasadena avenue, Los Angeles, of Messrs. Gore and Lustig.

A number of Los Angeles theatres which have been closed recently are soon to be re-opened. Included in this list are the Georgia Street theatre at Ninth and Georgia, to be opened by J. M. Foley; the Palace at Forty-ninth, and Moneta by J. A. Schoor; the Playhouse at 1237 West Seventh by W. R. Burns, and the Victoria on West Pico street by H. C. Hetherington.

The Creation theatre at 2200 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles, has been sold by C. W. McKee to George Lanzby; and J. A. Menard has purchased the Brooklyn at 2235 Brooklyn avenue, Los Angeles.

Extensive alterations are to be made shortly to the theatre building on Broadway, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, Oakland, owned by the Eva Estate. The architects are Charles Mau and F. W. Dingwell, Macdonough Building.

Cohn Brothers have announced that work will be started shortly on a two story theatre building on Adeline street, near Alcatraz, Berkeley, the structure to cost about $40,000. The architects are Richardson and Burrell, Albany Building, Oakland.

The Progress theatre at Woodland, has been opened by L. Parlen, who formerly conducted another theatre in that town.

The Diamond theatre has been opened in the Glen Park district of San Francisco. This house was formerly known as the Glen Odeon, and has been closed for some time pending the completion of alterations.

A Simplex machine has been installed in the Thalia resort on Pacific street, San Francisco, and moving picture entertainments will be given nightly.

W. S. Webster has given up the Strand theatre at Sacramento, and this is now being conducted by the Dippenbrock Estate.

CANADA

The Globe theatre, Toronto, opened on Christmas day. It is on the south side of Queen street, opposite the Municipal Buildings, in the very heart of the business section. Heating, ventilating and cooling apparatus are of the highest order, and two projection machines keep the reels constantly unwinding. Admission will be charged from ten cents to twenty cents, with a ten cent matinee. Several of Toronto's prominent legal men are said to be behind the venture.

The Dominion Theatre Company of Vancouver recently opened as its fourth house the new Dominion theatre in Nanaimo, on Vancouver Island. The theatre seats eight hundred, has a large stage, and is modern throughout. An orchestra of four pieces has been installed. J. R. Muir went to Nanaimo for the opening, and reported capacity business. George Beattie, formerly manager of the Empress theatre in Vancouver, is in charge of the new house.

INDIANA

C. E. Naughtin, of Walkerton, has bought the Lyric theatre at Waterloo.

Local films are being produced at Washington, Frankfort, Clinton, Lebanon and Evansville.

A new fibre screen has been installed at the Royal theatre at Warsaw.

The Theatorium at Newcastle, has been taken over by R. A. Cannan. Ernest Hodgsett is the manager.

Henry Paff has bought an interest in the Vaudette theatre at Michigan City. He will be associated with C. J. Coyle in the management of the theatre.

The Bell theatre at Warsaw has been renamed the New Grand theatre, and is running photoplays regularly.

Mrs. Mary Kircher, proprietor of the Rex theatre at Decatur, has sold it to W. A. Dull, of Willshire, Ohio. He is the proprietor of a theatre at Willshire, which he will continue to operate, and his son, M. B. Dull, will manage the Rex theatre.

KANSAS

Work has started on a motion picture theatre at Augusta. It will be completed this month.

There is to be a picture house erected in Concordia, by Doctor Caton. He will lease the building to George Beach, proprietor of the Lyric theatre of that city.

The old Fowler Building at Lucas, owned by Lewis O'Brien, is being remodeled, and will be used as a motion picture theatre.

The Hetrick theatre of Chanute, has opened.

On January 5 the Palace Picture theatre at Wichita will open. L. M. Miller is the manager.

KENTUCKY

The Masonic theatre, one of the largest playhouses in Louisville, has been leased for motion pictures by R. V. McRae and M. A. McRae of Detroit.

The McRaes are members of the family of that name controlling large interests in the Scripps-McRae news syndicate. This is their first venture in the theatrical business. High class motion pictures will be shown and an orchestra of twenty pieces will furnish music.

The interior of the theatre will be redecorated. The color scheme will be French gray, gold and old rose. The Messrs. McRae are planning a chain of motion pictures theatres with Louisville as headquarters.

The Triangle program was shown for the first time at Frankfort, December 20, in the Capital theatre, which was recently leased and reopened by the Broadway Amusement Company of Louisville. Music was furnished by an orchestra of six pieces, under the direction of C. B. Riddell. Admission is five and ten cents.

As a result of a deal closed recently, Lewis Judy and Marvin Gay, who have been conducting the Paramount theatre at Mt. Sterling, assumed the sole management of the Tabb theatre on December 20, and I. F. Tabb, who has been managing the house, has retired from the motion pieture field.

The Uno Moving Picture Company, recently organized at Pineville, is remodeling the Rink in that town, and will open the place as a motion picture theatre at an early date.

William S. Russell is the new manager of the Majestic theatre, Shelbyville. Mr. Russell's sister, Mrs. Pearl R. Nolan, is associated with him and has charge of the box office.

LOUISIANA

August Barbay, of Plaquemine, was awarded contract for reconstructing and remodelling the Grand theatre in that city. Finishing touches to the theatre were made before Christmas Day, when the initial feature was shown. Two new Edison machines are installed.

MAINE

Fire in the nickel theatre building in Belfast caused a property loss of about $5,000 recently. It is supposed to have started from

START THE NEW YEAR RIGHT

By putting an American BEAUTY ELECTRIC RADIATOR in that frigid ticket booth. How can you expect your cashier to smile a cheerful greeting to customers when she is blue with the cold. Perhaps your pianist needs one also. Only $5.00 each Circular on request.

SEASONABLE AND STAPLE GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION FOR THE PICTURE THEATRE

E. E. FULTON CO.
156 W. LAKE ST. CHICAGO

We have in stock everything to equip a modern theatre

American Slide Company installs two Powers 6B motor driven machines in new Majestic Theatre, Columbus, Ohio. Ask them what they think of them.

We carry in stock a complete line of Powers machines and repair parts, and can ship orders in a moment's notice. Just try us and see. We are agents for

VELVET GOLD FIBRE SCREEN,
Let us demonstrate it to you.
AMERICAN SLIDE COMPANY, 165½ N. High Street, Columbus Ohio.

WHAT IS ITS NAME?

Are you looking for a motion picture machine that is fireproof, flickerproof, durable and dependable? A machine easy to operate, reasonable in cost, with repair bills infinitesimally small? Hundreds of seasoned and successful exhibitors and thousands of experienced operators will tell you it is the American Standard Motion Picture Machine you want—the MASTER MODEL. They know its merits through close association with the machine.

Start the New Year right. Send for our new circular describing this wonderful projector.

AMERICAN STANDARD MOTION PICTURE MACHINE COMPANY
One Hundred Ten and Twelve West Fortieth Street, New York

PRINTING and DEVELOPING

IN TWELVE HOURS

PROMPT—EXPERT—DEPENDABLE

4c. PER FOOT
COMPLETE TITLE
5c. PER FOOT

OUTPUT 1,000,000 FEET PER WEEK

Liberty Motion Picture Laboratories
GERMANTOWN PHILADELPHIA PENNSYLVANIA

Tear out this advertisement, write your name on the margin, mail it to us today, and you will receive particulars by return mail.

American Beauty Electric Heater

This new Electric Heater is ideal for use in your ticket seller's booth where heat is needed. It is light and takes up very little room; can be attached to any electric light globe.

PRICE, ONLY $5.00

In exposed offices for ticket sellers, etc., where space is limited and heat is necessary.

Write for our special price list of Theatre Supplies

EXHIBITORS SUPPLY CO., 122 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

THE STERN MANUFACTURING CO.

extends Seasonable Greetings to all Motion Picture Supply Dealers and Exhibitors, taking this means of expressing our sincere thanks for helping us make this year the most prosperous of all our 16 years in existence; and hoping that the coming year will be one of peace and happiness to all.

SAMUEL STERN, 109 N. 10th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

SHADOW BOX SCREENS

The last word in picture screens. Incased in Black Shadow Box. Inexpensive. We received orders for forty-two of these in one day.

EUGENE COX SCENE PAINTING STUDIOS
1734 OGDEN AVE., CHICAGO

We are now showing some new and very elaborate stage settings for MOVING PICTURE THEATRES. Our representative can call on you with models. Write us.

FOR ARTISTIC LOBBY DISPLAY AND STAGE DECORATIONS

Install our line of Artificial FLOWERS, TREES, VINES, LEAVES, GARLANDS, WREATHS AND PALMS.

Estimates made and theatres decorated under contract by our expert.

Our 32-page catalogue No. 3, illustrating in colors the latest artificial flowers for Theatre decoration FREE.

FRANK NETSCHERT COMPANY, INC.
61 Barclay Street New York City

Printing and Developing

AMERICAN FILM LABORATORIES, Inc.

"The Tiffany of the Film Trade"

THE FINEST FILM LABORATORIES AND STUDIO IN THE WORLD

A Happy and Prosperous New Year

LOUIS B. JENNINGS
Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

EDWIN S. PORTER
Vice-President

69-71 West 90th Street

Telephone Riverside 1410 New York City

a defective chimney. The picture theatre was on the ground floor and badly wet down. The loss to the lessees, Maddocks and Knowlton, is considerable. The Colonial theatre, another picture house, which is in the adjoining building was threatened, but no damage was done.

The Bijou theatre in Bangor has taken full Universal service for the motion picture part of its program which is given in connection with the vaudeville.

A. J. Dorr has opened the Grand Army hall in Bucksport for three nights a week. A new picture theatre is building in Bucksport at the present time, but is yet incomplete.

MISSOURI

John and Samuel Ernie will open the theatre being built at 2841 Pestalozzi street, St. Louis, with an all picture program early in the new year. The house will seat eight hundred, and will be a five-cent house on five days of the week, and a ten-cent house on the other two days, when the bill will include a special feature. The theatre cost $10,000 to build.

August Roettger, of the Fairy theatre, 5654 Easton avenue, St. Louis, has been giving his patrons four serials a week, and now intends putting on another. Mr. Roettger says that his patrons take to serials, and he can not show too many to please them. The Fairy is noted for its champion motion picture fan, Mrs. Barbara Guentert, who has missed only two performances in the last seven years.

Another new theatre is being planned for St. Louis, on the suburban right-of-way, between Goodfellow and Hamilton avenues. The residents of the neighborhood, which is known as the Cabanne District, have organized a company, who will build the theatre, and an airdome on a lot adjoining the site selected for the building. The plan is to have the theatre ready at a moment's notice for a performance when the weather is cool or too rainy for an outdoor show.

The Marquette theatre, at Eighteenth and Franklin avenue, St. Louis, has been enlarged recently to accommodate the increasing number of patrons attending the shows in that popular house. The Marquette is not yet two years old.

The Euclid theatre, at 4869 Easton avenue, St. Louis, is again under the management of the proprietor, J. J. Macklin. Mr. Macklin had rented out the house last year, but just recently he decided to again take over the management himself.

A theatre is to be erected on the corner of Thirty-sixth and Troost avenue in Kansas City. It will seat 900, and will be completed in March.

The new Linwood theatre was opened at Thirty-first and Prospect avenue in Kansas City, on December 18.

A picture house is to be erected in Columbia, to cost $35,000. It will be completed about the middle of March. T. C. Hall of Moberly is the owner.

Excavation has begun for the erection of a picture play house in Tarkio, next to the Commercial Hotel.

MONTANA

Mrs. F. F. Flint has bought the interest of Dan Geneon in the Kahn and Geneon picture theatre at Terry.

The Inter-Mountain Photoplay Company has bought the Purcell theatre at Helena.

OKLAHOMA

The new Liberty theatre on Robinson street in Oklahoma City will be ready for opening on February 1.

The Lyric motion picture house in Wellston, has been opened.

J. L. Duncan, of Afton, is remodeling the front of the Electric theatre.

Work has started on the New Empress theatre at Chickasha.

Manager Woods of the Metropolitan theatre at Lawton, will shortly erect a theatre in that city to cost $5,000. It will be constructed of cement blocks and have a frontage of fifty feet by a depth of 140 feet. It will seat nine hundred.

OREGON

J. D. Strauss and H. W. Dean have bought the controlling interest in the Crystal theatre at Astoria.

Edgar Ayers has leased the Home theatre at Heppner, to Jess and Viney Hale.

A fire destroyed the Wexford theatre at Salem, Oregon. The estimated loss is $5,000, which is covered by insurance.

S. A. Cardinier will open a moving picture theatre in his new building at LaGrande.

WOULD YOU CARE

If we could show you how to MAKE MORE MONEY? How to substantially increase your receipts at a small outlay?
We have a proposition of interest to all Moving Picture Exhibitors and Managers, that has never been placed before them.
We will sell you a NEW GENUINE POWER'S, NEW 1916 MOTIOGRAPH, EDISON OR A SIMPLEX MACHINE, guaranteed for one year from date of sale, on easy monthly payments.
Drop us a line today and we will tell you all about our plan.

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY CO.

6th Floor Cambridge Building
N. W. Cor. 5th and Randolph Chicago, Illinois
Distributors of the
Power's, Motiograph, Edison and Simplex Machines and Genuine Parts

THEATRE AND EXCHANGE MAILING LIST SERVICE

We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc.
N 42

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO.

80 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK Phone, 3227 Chelsea
425 ASHLAND BLOCK, CHICAGO Phone, 2003 Randolph
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

NATHAN MYERS

Architect

WOOLWORTH BUILDING
Broadway & Park Place New York City
COURT THEATRE BUILDING
Market & High Streets Newark, N. J.

Telephones
Newark .....Market 5254 Long Island.....Sayville 41
New York.....Barclay 6274 Residence .....Waverly 2670

Graduate of College of Architecture, Cornell University
Twenty Years Individual Practice
Consultant to other architects and to builders

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Hallberg's 20th Century Motor Generator

Changes A. C. to D. C. at less cost, yet greater efficiency than any other.
Ask for descriptive circular

Power, Simplex and Baird Machines and Minusa Gold Fibre Screens

LEWIS M. SWAAB
1329 VINE STREET, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

TRIANGLE PLAYERS

AND BIG DIRECTORS IN VARIOUS SIZES

All the Big Feature Players

as well as the popular Film Stars can be obtained in our LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES

Size 22x28 75c each Size 11x14 20c each

SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS $3.00 per thousand. Print your announcement on correspondence side and mail them weekly. PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8 x 10, all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.
GRAVURE FOLDERS, containing pictures of all the prominent players, including feature stars, $8.50 per thousand.
SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of all the players, 600 names, 40c. each.
TRANSPARENCIES, ALL SIZES, from 50c. to $2.50.
FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS from $8.00 to $25.00, according to size and frames.

KRAUS MFG. CO.
220 W. 42nd St. - N. Y.
12th Floor, CANDLER BUILDING

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples free. Write us giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

Speedco Arc Controller

will feed your projection arc—save money—and maintain better illumination than you have ever known.

Let us send you booklet "B"

SPEED CONTROLLER COMPANY, Inc.
257-259 William Street New York

FEASTER DEVICE

FOR PROJECTORS

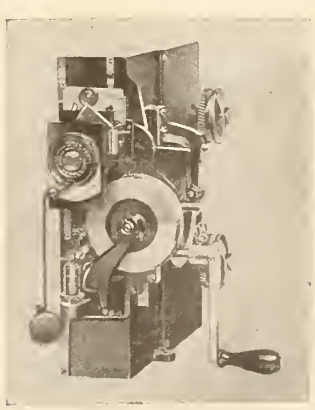
ELIMINATES REWINDING

QUICKLY ATTACHED IN PLACE OF UPPER MAGAZINE

Saves Time—Labor—Money—Breakage—Delay—Noise and Fire Risk.

Ask Your Dealer.

FEASTER CORPORATION
1482 Broadway, New York



THE UNIVERSAL CAMERA

For Motion Photography

The mechanism is as carefully and scientifically constructed as the movement of a standard watch.

The Universal assembled without the case. Front view showing the lens, flywheel, shutter and aperture adjustment, and the one-to-one crank shaft.

Demonstrational Catalogue on request

The Universal Camera Company
24 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, U. S. A.
1209 Times Bldg., New York

Represented by
Atlas Educational Film Company
821 Market Street, San Francisco, Cal.

CASTEEL THEATRE CHAIRS

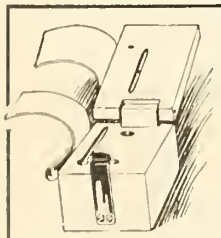
Made only by

WISCONSIN SEATING FACTORIES

"A Decided Innovation in Theatre Chairs"

Factories in
New London
Pt. Washington
Sheboygan
Grafton, U. S. A.

Address:
Theatre Chair Sales Dept.,
NEW LONDON,
WISC., U. S. A.



CLEAN FILMS are absolutely necessary to get 100% results from any subject. The really CLEANS—every particle of dirt and grease comes off like magic. The soft felt pads are moistened with a harmless cleaning fluid that makes old films like new. Write for folder and low price proposition today.

LELAND Film Cleaner

S. B. LELAND, Montpelier, Vt.

EDISON MACHINE
$65.

Including upper and lower magazines, electric burner, new Simplex rheostat asbestos cord, rewind and lenses to fit measurements, everything ready to run a picture, guaranteed first class condition, for $65. Will ship subject to inspection. Many other bargains in Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Opera and Folding Chairs of all kinds, new and slightly used, at bargain prices. Roll tickets 7½c. a thousand. Film Cement and Oil 15c. bottle. All makes of carbons. We are the largest THEATRE SUPPLY HOUSE west of Chicago.

LEARS THEATRE SUPPLY CO.
509 Chestnut St. St. Louis, Mo

WRITE FOR OUR NEW CAT.
NOVELTY SLIDE CO.
67 W. 23d St. New York

Harry J. Koehler has purchased a lot 60 x 140 feet at Fifty-fifth and Woodland avenue, Philadelphia, from Ida L. Sithen and F. G. Shisler for $35,000, to build a motion picture theatre at a cost of $175,000.

Mrs. J. Effinger, who already owns the Leader theatre at 4102 Lancaster avenue, Philadelphia, has commissioned Hoffman and Company, architects, to get bids on their plans for a new theatre for her.

The lot, already owned by Mrs. Effinger, is on Germantown avenue and Venango streets, 67 x 129 feet.

The Sun theatre, Wilkes-Barre, one of the largest and best equipped motion picture houses in that section of Pennsylvania, has been transferred to the Treon Company. The Treon Company, of which Michael Comerford is the head, already controls the Bijou, Savoy and Star in Wilkes-Barre.

M. E. Comerford, directing head of the Treon Company, which controls several theatres in northeastern Pennsylvania and New York State, has purchased the Merchants and Mechanics Bank property in Scranton. He intends to erect a motion picture house on the site. The price paid for the site was $130,000. The property is located in the central city. It has thirty-four feet frontage and is 100 feet deep. The plot adjoins another parcel of ground owned by Mr. Comerford. The proposed theatre will have three open sides, giving unsurpassed exits in case of fire.

Charles Goldstone has, in connection with Samuel Mellen, acquired the Franklin theatre at Girard avenue and Fifty-second street, Philadelphia, making the third in one year, the other two being the Garden, at Fifty-third and Lansdowne avenue, and the Rittenhouse, at Fifty-third and Haverford avenue. All theatres have been fixed up for the season, and now an entire renovating of the Franklin is taking place. The walls are redecorated, new carpets laid, a new Gold Fibre screen put in, and an up-to-date Simplex machine installed. A five-piece orchestra, directed by Daniel McPoyle, is one of the new attractions.

The St. Clair Opera House, Greensburg, was damaged $8,000 by fire recently which originated in the boiler rooms and undermined about one-half of the first floor.

Walter M. Kieffer, proprietor of the Onyx moving picture house, Reading, has sold his equipment to R. C. Kern, of Philadelphia, who leased the property with an option for its purchase.

The newly erected theatre of Nichlas Ciotola, on East Diamond avenue, Hazleton's newest moving picture house, opened its doors recently undr the management of William Schallas.

The Grand theatre, located in the Buchanan block on Long avenue, near South Mill street, Newcastle, is the latest photoplay house in that city to offer attractions to the moving picture goers of that city. James Passius and Gus Caravasios are the proprietors.

RHODE ISLAND

Leon Camire has opened a motion picture house in the Music hall, Franklin, and from now on will give shows every evening during the week with matinees Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays.

TENNESSEE

An important motion picture transaction took place in Chattanooga recently when John C. Twinam, manager of the Bijou theatre, purchased from Howell Graham the Theato and Alhambra picture theatres.

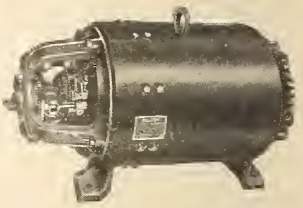
It is understood that the film houses will continue to be operated on the same admission scale as when Mr. Graham had charge of them. The Triangle-Keystone pictures will be shown at the Theato and Alhambra, it is said. These pictures were originally engaged to be shown at the Bijou.

The Royal, South Chattanooga's new motion picture theatre, was formally opened to the public Wednesday, December 8. This is one of the finest film houses in the South. The cost of its erection was $15,000. Messrs. Weiner and Bloch are the proprietors.

The Lyric, Chattanooga's oldest amusement house, has opened again for the presentation of feature pictures. The first offering was D. W. Griffith's drama, "The Escape."

The Gay theatre, Knoxville, was formally opened to the public November 29, with the Triangle film service. Young lady ushers, an innovation in Knoxville, with Triangle caps, showed the patrons to their seats. An orchestra of eight pieces furnished music. The admission prices are ten and twenty cents.

HALLBERG
20th CENTURY MOTOR GENERATOR



$249

For 30 to 70 Amp. D. C. Capacity

$20 extra for control for (2) 30 to 40 amp. arc's—or $50 extra for control for (2) 30-40 amp. arc's on fine switchboard with volt and amp. meters and special field rheostat—No live part on front of board.

For 110 or 220 volt, 60 cycle, 2 or 3 phase A. C. Line. For single phase, $40 extra.

Weight, 450 lbs. Height, 15" Width, 15" Length, 28"

OTHER SIZES AND STYLES OF ALL KINDS — QUOTED UPON REQUEST

Distributor of
Power's-Simplex-Baird
M. P. Machines

Send for Free Circulars and Catalogues, but for Hallberg's Big 100-page Catalogue, send 25 cents.

I EQUIP THEATRES COMPLETE AND CARRY ALL MAKES CARBONS AND SUPPLIES.

Send $2.50 for latest Operator's Book, "MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY."

J. H. HALLBERG Swedish Electrical Engineer
34 East 23d St. The House of Quality New York

TEXAS

The Yale theatre at Wortham has been sold by Allie Jones to a company composed of A. W. Holton, T. H. Hood, J. C. Hackney and Harry Hood. The theatre is being put in first class condition.

The Polk street motion picture theatre, Brownsville, the building for which was recently completed, is now open to the public. The management of the new house intends to cater largely to the tastes of the Mexican residents of the fourth ward.

Work has started on the construction of a motion picture theatre for the Twenty-third infantry at Fort Crockett, Galveston.

Plans were filed with the building inspector at Houston recently for a three-story reinforced concrete moving picture theatre, to be built at Prairie and Milam streets at a cost of $35,000. The building is to be erected by Hugh Hamilton.

WASHINGTON

Thomas Miller has sold the Grand theatre at Camas, to Mr. Kiggins and Mr. McGill.

Sam Rathman succeeds William Hawthorne as manager of the Electric theatre at Lynden

The Peerless Theatre Attractions has opened an office at 218 Seneca street, Seattle, in charge of Mr. Susmein.

Two former legitimate houses in Spokane have been leased for film purposes in the last fortnight. The Spokane is one, but the new management and service have not been announced. The Empress is the other. Charles Packeritz, a former Seattle exhibitor, has reopened it with General Film service, changing three times a week.

Mr. Von Herberg, of the Liberty theatre, has left Seattle on a "See America First" trip. His first destination was San Francisco, where he planned to spend a few days at the Panama Pacific Exposition before its close. After that his route includes the principal cities of this country, where he will gather new ideas to be used in the Coliseum theatre, now nearing completion.

The Class A and Grand moving picture theatres, at Pullman, opened recently.

WISCONSIN

E. C. Bracken, 753 E. Johnson street, Milwaukee, intends the erection of a motion picture theatre shortly. The theatre is planned to cost $100,000, to be of fireproof construction, 100 x 132.

Downer theatre, Milwaukee's newest photo playhouse, opened to the public recently. The building is located at Downer avenue and Belleview place, and in point of construction is in keeping with its surroundings. The structure is fireproof, an up-to-date system of ventilation has been installed, insuring a continual change of air through an improved fan system, and the seating capacity is 1,200. A pipe organ is one of the features of the theatre. The interior decorations are artistic.

Genuine Pipe Organ Show Pipes
for Theatres equipped with Organs or one man Orchestras, installed very inexpensively.
JEROME B. MEYER, Manufacturer
Factory & Office 125 Austin St.
Milwaukee Wisconsin

Everybody's out of doors at night. Tell them your story with a FEDERAL ELECTRIC SIGN.
FEDERAL SIGN SYSTEM (ELECTRIC).
Lake and Desplaines Sts., Chicago.

MENGER & RING, Inc.
Manufacturers of
POSTER and LOBBY DISPLAY FRAMES
304 W. 42nd Street New York

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE OR FOR RENT
Completely equipped Motion Picture Studio in New York City. Modern Studio Lighting System. Full line of equipment and scenery. For particulars, address MARSTON & CO., 30 East 42d Street. Tel. Murray Hill 540.

WHERE TO BUY
COSTUMES
Miller-Costumier, 236 South 11th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
PRINTING, DEVELOPING
Centaur Film Co., 670-682 Ave. E., Bayonne, N. J.
REWINDERS
Williams, Brown & Earle, Inc., 913 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.
UNIFORMS
Fechheimer Bros. (Union-made), Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SALE
Moving Picture Theatres in the South. Capital necessary $35,000. Write for particulars.
CONSOLIDATED FILM & SUPPLY CO.
New Orleans, Louisiana

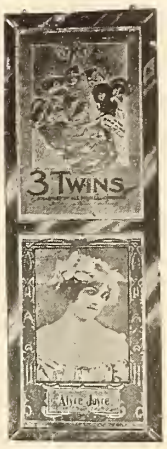
Make Your Lobby Display Attractive

There is nothing more fascinating to the public than a bright brass frame to display your photos or posters.

We make Lobby and Theatre Fixtures and Brass Rails of every description.

Don't fail to visit our Showrooms.
Write for catalog.

THE NEWMAN MFG. CO.
717 Sycamore St., Cincinnati, Ohio
Branch Factories and Show Rooms:
101 Fourth Ave., New York, N. Y.
106-108 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
Coast representative, G. A. Metcalfe, 117 Goldengate Avenue, San Francisco, California.



"A WORD BOX TO THE WISE IS SUFFICIENT!"
"WORD BOX" will prove there is no need of having empty seats in your picture house.
A PAINLESS METHOD TO EXTRACT money from eager fans who will flock in
AND FILL ACHING VOIDS!
in the middle of your theatre. By giving away

"WORD BOX"

you offer a magnet with a pull like a Locomotive. But the fans won't know about your show unless you
"UNSCRAMBLE YOUR BRAINS!"
and give them a chance to earn one of those most dear rewards for playing with "WORD BOX." They will run all the way up from one to one thousand TWENTY JITNEY PIECES!
Write for information. Take down your side curtains!
THE RAIN IS OVER!
"WORD BOX," 504 Forrest Building, Philadelphia, Pa.
*It spells "Happy New Year" every day!

OPERA CHAIRS
Complete Line
Prompt Shipments
Write for Catalogue with Direct Factory Prices
Peabody School Furniture Co.
802 W. Fourth St., North Manchester, Ind.

R. M. SHAW COMPANY
HOLSTON BUILDING KNOXVILLE, TENN.
Selling Motion Picture Machines, Screens, Chairs & Supplies of the very best sort

FOR SALE
MOVING PICTURE MAILING LISTS
Only complete one to be had, numbering 22,000; price, $40.00; itemized by states, or $3.50 per thousand for states you want. Postage guaranteed.

1173	Film Exchanges	$4.00
149	Manufacturers and Studios	1.00
210	Moving Picture Machine and Supply Dealers	1.50

Write for particulars
Trade Circular Addressing Co.
166½ West Adams Street, Chicago
Franklin 1183 Estab. 1880

Music and the Picture

Edited by Ernst Luz

This department is maintained for the exhibitor's assistance with a view of suggesting proper musical illustrations for current photo plays. MOTION PICTURE NEWS will be pleased to help solve any difficulties the exhibitors may have with their musical programs. All communications should be addressed to the Music and the Picture Department.

GUATEMALAN MARIMBA BAND DRAWS CROWDS TO SEATTLE THEATRE

TO say that President Cabrera's Guatemalan Marimba band made a hit at the Clemmer, Seattle, would be drawing it mild. The big audiences positively refused to let the players off at any performance as long as they could be forced to play. Manager Clemmer seems to have got an attraction this time.

The marimba was an unknown instrument in North America until the opening of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. President Cabrera sent his royal band of marimba players to entertain guests at the Guatemalan building. No sooner had this wonderful music been heard than it became the rage.

People from Seattle returning from the exposition told how crowds squatted on the floor of the building, about the swarthy musicians, and listened for hours to the rhythms that are like those of the wind instruments, with fine, perfectly-tuned strings hidden somewhere in their throats.

The marimba players introduced themselves to Seattle with Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" and aroused tremendous enthusiasm. The applause lasted several minutes and was only stilled when the band began the next number.

These musicians play all sorts of music, classical scores, ragtime, waltzes, South American boleros, popular United States songs, and those impressive, quaint, intensive, naturally-evolved South sea folk lore harmonies, of which the Hawaiian native songs are an example. But the wonderful thing is that the marimba instruments give new and marvelous combinations of sounds that have strange heart tones in them, entirely new to this part of the world.

The only instrument used by these musicians with which we are familiar is a bass viol.

This supplies the deep undertones for the other sounds that give the impression of those sea sounds we used to listen to in the conche shells when we were children.

"Her Mother's Secret" and a Wallingford comedy were the photoplay features at this entertainment.

GREAT NORTHERN, PHILADELPHIA, INSTALLS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA WITH MERCERAU AS LEADER

THE Great Northern, at Broad and Erie avenues, Philadelphia, the first picture theatre to run the full Triangle program in Philadelphia, has the finest orchestra in the city, outside of the business section.

Known as the Great Northern Symphony Orchestra, the engagement of Victor Mereerau, leader of the Bellevue-Stratford Orchestra for the past twelve years, as conductor, insures the artistic calibre of the music. Others of the principal players have established reputations in the musical field.

The orchestra is composed of Vincent Savine, first violin, who has toured the country with Victor Herbert, and has just ended an engagement with the Martini Symphony Orchestra; J. Griems, 'cello, formerly of the Boston Symphony Sextette; Andrew Luck, bas viol, formerly of Wassilli Leps Symphony Orchestra; Ignatius Kavanagh, piano, late of the Stanley theatre; M. Fleming, who is well known as a flutist; T. Thorbahn, clarinet, and Joseph Alexander, tympani, a Russian artist.

BARTOLA DESIGNS NEW INSTRUMENT TO SELL BETWEEN $8,000 AND $9,000

THE Bartola Musical Instrument Company is designing a new instrument to sell at between $8,000 and $9,000 which will far surpass anything they have yet built. The first one of these large instruments will be installed in the Grand Opera House at Oshkosh, Wis., some time around the first of the year.

Dr. E. H. Miller, of the Yale theatre, Maywood, Ill., has supplanted his five-piece orchestra with a Bartola A. A.

Charles Abrams, owner of the Acme theatre, 3410 Ogden avenue, Chicago, has purchased a Bartola orchestra.

Charles Pacini, of the Majestic theatre, Kenosha, Wis., is replacing his orchestra with a Bartola Grand.

W. J. West, owner of the West theatre, Galesburg, Ill., was in Kansas City last Monday looking over the new motion picture theatre which has just been erected in that city, with a view of leasing it.

J. B. Hogan, who has recently severed his connections with the Majestic theatre, Beloit, Wis., and has just bought the McGavocks Brothers' theatre, was in Chicago last week re-arranging the film service for this theatre.

HOUSTON, TEXAS, TO HAVE $35,000 CONCRETE THEATRE

A THREE-STORY, reinforced concrete moving picture theatre to cost $35,000 is to be erected by Hugh Hamilton at Louisiana and Prairie streets, Houston, Texas. The structure is planned to contain offices on the second and third floors of the front, the theatre auditorium to take up the rear. The Central Contracting Company has been awarded the contract.

Under the supervision of the Woman's Club of Houston, Texas, a special children's matinee was held at the Isis theatre, one of the Fichtenberg houses, on December 15. "'Twas the Night Before Christmas" and "On Christmas Eve" were the attractions.

PROMINENT NEW YORK MUSICIAN TO PLAY $10,000 ORGAN IN NEW HAVEN THEATRE

RICHARD HENRY WARREN has just been engaged to play the $10,000 organ in the Olympia theatre, New Haven, Conn., managed by John Curran. Mr. Warren went to New Haven from Boston, where he has been playing the organ at the Scollay Square Olympia.

Previous to his theatrical work he was a prominent church organist at St. Bartholomew's, New York City. His organ recitals are a big drawing card at the Olympia here.

MUSICAL EQUIPMENT FOR THE FOREST HILL, CAMDEN, N. J.

JAMES F. McCLELLAN is proprietor of the Forest Hill theatre at Haddon and Kaign avenues, Camden, N. J.

Although in a residential district on the outskirts of the city, this picture house, accommodating seven hundred people, has a regular musical equipment of piano and violin, both played by experts.

The prices are five and ten cents. Fox, Metro, World and Universal features are used.

Of IMPORTANCE To EXHIBITORS

READ THIS!

J. P. Seeburg Piano Co.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

We are very much pleased with the results we are getting from our Seeburg Pipe Organ. It was due entirely to your aggressive selling methods that our opposition was overcome, and we finally consented to purchase the instrument. We actually feel under obligations to you for literally pushing us into one of the best investments we have made since we entered the motion picture game.

Yours truly,

JAS. ZINKL.

PARK THEATRE, Milwaukee.

Let us give you the name of a Seeburg owner near you

SEEBURG PIPE ORGANS GET RESULTS

Write Now for Particulars

J. P. SEEBURG PIANO CO.

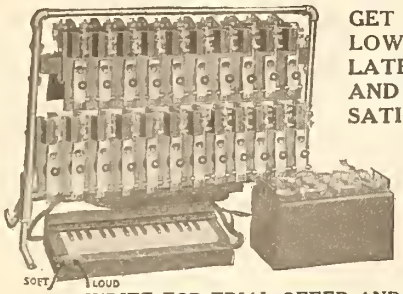
Manufacturers

1004 Republic Building, CHICAGO

Branches

BOSTON	PITTSBURGH	NEW YORK	ATLANTA	SAN FRANCISCO
M. Steinert Sons	431 Liberty St.	127 W. 65th St.	65 No. Pryor St.	52 Turk St.
162 Boylston St.

FILL THOSE EMPTY SEATS DOUBLE YOUR RECEIPTS



GET THE OTHER FELLOW'S CROWD with the LATEST STREET, LOBBY AND PIT MUSICAL SENSATION, A DEAGAN UNAPHONE, WITH AND WITHOUT SWELL BOX. TWO MANAGERS, WITH FOUR SHOWS EACH, HAVE EIGHT UNAPHONES IN DAILY USE. LOSSES HAVE CHANGED TO PROFITS. WHY NOT YOU?

WRITE FOR TRIAL OFFER AND CATALOG "F"

J. C. DEAGAN, Deagan Building 1782 Berteau Avenue Chicago, Ill.

Prominent Heads of Film Corporations have induced LEO EDWARDS to enter the Movie Field for the purpose of furnishing proper incidental music with ATMOSPHERE.

Address all communications:

Leo Edwards, Astor Theatre Bldg.

B'WAY AND 45TH ST. NEW YORK CITY

Tel. Bryant 2566

Atlantic City's Newest Organ

The Bijou Theatre, at the busiest point along the Boardwalk, has opened the latest addition to the Kimball Organs in America's most famous Resort.

The advertised daily afternoon and evening recitals on this Orchestral Organ, in connection with the high class pictures shown, have materially increased the box office receipts.

The Kimball Theatre Organ has every MUSICAL accessory and no unmusical traps and noise makers.

W. W. KIMBALL COMPANY Established 1857 CHICAGO

Eastern Office, 507 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

A. B. C. DRAMATIC MUSIC

Don't be without the New Modern Melo-Dramatic Music for Picture Playing
9 Sets now ready.

Set No. 1 consists of a heavy misterioso. Agitato and Plaintive, for scenes of Incendiarism or premeditated murder.
Set No. 2 consists of a long Heavy Dramatic Descriptive and Hurry. Good for scenes of heavy plotting or mysterious action leading to fights or tumult.
Set No. 3 consists of an Agitato-Hurry and Lamentation. Good for fights, riots, etc., ending in despair or death.
Set No. 4 consists of a Light Agitato and Andante movement. Good for quarrels or agitation in society dramas.
Set No. 5 is a Burglar scene opening with the sneaky music, then agitato, hurry and Plaintive. Contains four different numbers.
Set No. 6 consists of a misterioso and Allegro Hurry. Used for plotting ending in great confusion or fights.
Set No. 7 is an Indian scene of three numbers. An Indian mystical opening a fight or battle hurry, closing with an Indian plaintive.
Set No. 8 is a fight and chase scene. Opens with a Hurry, going directly into a concert galop for the chase.
Set No. 9 is a three numbered Storm scene. A.1 is a Storm Hurry. B.2 is an Allegro Agitato. C.3 a Plaintive Andante as an Aftermath.

No picture player can afford to be without these numbers. All numbers arranged for Piano, Organ, One Man Orchestra Player or Orchestral combinations from 2 to 35 pieces.

Prices:—Small Orch. Including Organ and Cello.....25 cents each Set
Full Orch. .....35 cents each Set
Piano Solo and Accom.....10 cents each Set
Extra Parts ..... 5 cents each part

PHOTO PLAY MUSIC CO., Publishers.
New York Theatre, 1539 Broadway, New York City

TRIANGLE PICTURES SCHEDULED FOR SHOWING IN INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Dec. 24.

ONE of the most important announcements made recently in the Indianapolis motion picture industry was the announcement this week by Edward G. Sourbier that he had signed a contract with the Triangle Film Corporation for the exclusive showing in Indianapolis of the Triangle program, beginning Sunday, December 12.

All the leading programs will then be shown in downtown Indianapolis theatres. The Colonial theatre and Regent theatre, under the management of Bingham, Crose and Cohen, have the Metro, Fox, the best of the V-L-S-E and the Pathé Gold Rooster. The Isis and Alhambra theatres, under the management of Barton and Olsen, have the Universal, Paramount and World pictures. These are all downtown theatres.

The Keystone theatre, while seating less than six hundred persons, is located in North Illinois street, near the Terminal station, and is near the heart of the downtown district, being in what is known as "Movie Row." It is one of the newest and most up-to-date of the smaller theatres.

NEW OREGON THEATRES ARE IN PROSPECT

OTIS BROOKS, 1568 E. Glisan street, contemplates the erection of a two-story building, with full basement, on E. 16th and Gleisan streets, Portland. The building will be of brick and concrete construction, to be used as a moving picture theatre.

The Dronia League has rented the Whep theatre on 23rd street, Portland.

Geo. Werner and Rudolph Keller have leased the Antlers theatre at Rossburg.

The New Orpheum theatre at Dalles opened in charge of O. O. Smith.

AMERICAN SEATING INSTALLS CHAIRS IN FIVE ST. LOUIS HOUSES

E. T. OFTELIE, branch manager of the American Seating Company, reports having contracted for the seating of the following theatres in St. Louis: The Webster, Twelfth and Clinton streets; the Pauline, Union and Lillian streets; the Zuzak, 4551 Virginia avenue; the Peerless, 1911-15 South Broadway, and the Karzin, 1618 Market street.

All of these will open their doors to the public Christmas week.

WASHINGTON, D. C., OPERATORS TO HOLD BALL ON FEBRUARY 1

MOTION picture operators of the national capital will hold their fifth annual ball Tuesday, February 1, at old Masonic Temple, Washington.

An attractively printed program is being prepared. The arrangements committee anticipates that the affair will be the most successful of its kind ever held in Washington.

INDUSTRIAL MOVING PICTURE COMPANY HAS NOT BOUGHT PHOTOPLAYS STUDIO

WATTERSON R. ROTHACKER emphatically denies the rumor which has been circulated about that the Industrial Moving Picture Company of Chicago has purchased the United Photoplays Company Studio. The Industrial Moving Picture Company has used this on occasions but has never considered either leasing it or buying it.

SPEEDCOS INSTALLED IN SIX MARCUS LOEW THEATRES IN BOSTON

THE Speed Controller Company, New York, has just announced that it has received orders for six Speedcos for Marcus Loew's Boston houses, two for the St. James, two for the Globe, and two for the Orpheum.

QUAKER CITY HOUSE CHANGES HANDS

THE brick motion picture theatre on the east side of Fifty-second street, 32 feet north of Stiles street, Philadelphia, has been conveyed to Harry Altshuler by Theodore Johnson for a nominal consideration and a mortgage of $65,000.

Music Plot For Metro Feature, "Black Fear"

By Ernst Luz. Projection Time Seventy Minutes.

THIS plot is adapted so as to make it possible for the pianist, one man orchestra player, organist or orchestra leader to make some prior preparation for playing the picture. The numbers suggested need not be used; similar numbers, or numbers suggested by the Notes will do as well. It is intended that no unnecessary expense be added for exhibitor or musician.

PART 1.

	Description of Music	Number Suggested	Cue to stop number.
1.	Mysterioso (Diabolical)	"A. B. C. Dr. Music No. 10"—A1 (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	"Cocaine begins its act of destruction."
2.	Inter (Cl. Hurried)	"Pittoresque" (G. Schirmer)	Messenger boys brought into court room.
3.	Desc. (Hy.-Path.)	"Twilight" (Chappell & Co.)	"The Stock Market goes against Mr. Elsmere"
4.	Inter-Trot	"Sweet Violets" (J. Remick & Co.)	"I'll see what can be done, etc."
5.	Desc. (Hy.-Path)	"Heart's Aflame" (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	Ely enters telegraph office after leaving his auto.
6.	Hurry	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—A1	After "I'm just getting even," etc.
7.	Desc. (Hy.-Path.) Short	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 4"—B2	Connects 1 and 2.

Part 2.

			"Evening" (Quick).
8.	Inter-Trot	"Bo-Peep" (J. Remick & Co.)	Father and son embrace at window.
9.	Dr. Andte	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—B2	After vision of death-bed scene.
10.	Inter-Trot (Short)	"Bo-Peep" (J. Remick & Co.)	Mary walks up to father in room adjoining ballroom.
11.	Dr.-Hy.-Andte.	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—B2 (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	Ely jumps out of window.
12.	Agitato (P)	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—A1	"The busy world waits not," etc.
13.	Desc. (Hy.-Rom.)	"Spring Dreams" (Leo Feist)	Connects 2 and 3.

PART 3.

			Concert.
14.	Neutral (Cl. Hy.)	"La Boheme" or "La Tosca" (Ricordi & Co.)	Connects 3 and 4.

PART 4.

			Concert.
15.	Desc. (Hy.-Path.)	"Lilacs" (Leo Feist)	Concert.
16.	Waltz Lento (Hy.-Leg.)	"Le Poeme" (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	Mary drugged by Ely awakes.
17.	Hurry	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—A1 (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	Mary faints after fight.
18.	Dr. Hy.-Andte.	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—B2	"You and your company are responsible," etc.
19.	Hurry	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—A1	Ely shot by Lillian.
20.	Dr. Hy.-Andte	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—B2	"Life's flame," etc.
21.	Diabolical Mysterioso	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 10"—A1	Connects 4 and 5.

PART 5.

			Fade out of hell scene.
22.	Desc. (Hy.-Path.-Ag.)	"Sleepy Hollow" (W. Jacobs)	Concert.
23.	Waltz Lento (Hy.-Leg.)	Artist's Reverie" (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	Well after policeman in street holds up hand.
24.	Hurry	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—A1 (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	After Mary rushes into court room.
25.	Dr.-Hy.-Andte.	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—B2	Vision of Mary asleep in chair.
26.	Hurry	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—A1	End of struggle vision.
27.	Dr.Hy.-Andte.	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—B2	Vision of Lillian in room with Ely.
28.	Hurry	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—A1	After vision of Lillian shooting Ely.
29.	Rom. Andte.	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 4"—B2	To End.

Music Notes.—This picture is intensely dramatic, giving an opportunity for the playing of good heavy music, from No. 12 to 17. These numbers cover about twenty-eight minutes. Selections from the Operas, "La Boheme," "La Traviata," "La Tosca," or "Jocelyn" will hold the required temperament and all play 17 minutes or more. When not using a selection for No. 14, sufficient slow heavy dramatic numbers must be used to cover 16 or 18 minutes.

The Melodramatic numbers 1, 6, 9, 11, 12, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 24, 25, 26, 27 and 28 are very essential, these being the important psychological points in the picture and things happen very fast. When properly used, this picture will demonstrate the value of the A. B. C. method in music for picture playing.

The picture in itself is very strong, with proper music; it is everything that can be desired in picture entertainment. No. 2 should be a classy intermezzo of hurried temperament. Nos. 3, 5, 13, 15 must be slow legato numbers having a pathetic or romantic appeal. Should be serious and dramatic numbers. Nos. 4, 8, 10 should be intermezzo trot numbers, but must not be popular song numbers.

No. 16 should be a slow legato waltz lento in positive minor key. No. 22 must be a slow number, with an agitated as well as pathetic effect. No. 23 is the same as 16. No. 29 should not be a heavy number, but have a strict romantic appeal. Very short. Sixteen bars are sufficient.

With the exception of the melodramatic effects, the picture is good for the organ throughout.

Mr. Exhibitor: When you are bewildered by the conflicting claims of manufacturers hear

THE BARTOLA ORCHESTRA

and the music problem will be solved. A postal card will bring our catalogue.

CHAS. C. PYLE, General Sales Agent 710-711 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Factory, Oshkosh, Wisconsin

HEADQUARTERS FOR MEN AND WOMEN MUSICIANS

ORCHESTRAS under our management playing in many of the principal photoplay theatres. To have real music you want AN ORCHESTRA. No mechanical instrument can ever take its place. At liberty

IMPERIAL LADIES' ORCHESTRA SMITHONEAN QUINTETTE (all men)

We furnish from pianist to orchestra of fifty pieces. Eminent artists, vocal and instrumental.

GEO. W. SMITH, Mgr., 1493 Broadway, New York City

Suite 315. Telephone:—Bryant 3574.

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

TABLE OF CONTENTS

WHAT IS THE MOTION PICTURE? (Wm. A. Johnston) 43

EDITORIALS 44

Kansas Censorship Proves Its Own Uselessness..... 45
Famous Novelist Becomes Writer for Kalem..... 47
Five Features from Fox in First Month of Year..... 49
Freuler Sees 1916 a Mile Post in Film History..... 51
Boston Film Men Satisfied with Year's Profits..... 53
The Press, Press Representative and the Picture—XIII... 79
Film Jury Will Pass on Blue Bird Productions..... 45
Yuletide Brings Shifts in General Film Exchanges..... 46
Plays of Tried Stage Worth for Essanay in 1916..... 47
Maryland to Have Get Together Meet on Fourth..... 48
Handpicked Plays for Vitagraph Comedy Gallopers..... 48
V-L-S-E Will Place H-V Topicals in Every Corner..... 50
Now It's Travel Lecturer Burton Holmes in Film..... 50
Hush! It Was Rush in Slush at U from Snow Mush..... 52
Romance Hovers Round House of Pathé in Its Rise..... 52
Ambrosio to Produce for the American Market..... 53
Metro Believes It Has Picked Winners for 1916..... 54
Harry Raver Believes in Conservative Advertising..... 54
Mutual Draws Upon Best Fictionists for Scenarios..... 56
Edna Mayo as Girl Who Makes Way Like Walthall..... 56
U Board of Directors Votes Thanks to Laemmle..... 56
William Fox De Luxe Department Ready in 1916..... 69
Scenes of "My Lady Incog," Taken South, Finished..... 69
Kane Gets War Films from Man in 38 Battles..... 77
"Help the Exhibitor to Make a Profit"—Selznick..... 78
Camera Club Holds Third Annual Ball..... 78
"Selling of Film Service Becoming a Science"..... 80
"Fighting for France" a Special Feature for Mutual..... 80
"Keep Forbidden Topics Off Screen"—Spiegel..... 81
Kalem Railroad Films Have Seven Years' History..... 81
Lasky Gives Pre-Showing of "Golden Chance"..... 82
"Play's the Thing," Morosco Reminds Industry..... 82

DEPARTMENTS

Live Wire Exhibitors 57
Among the Exchanges..... 59
Film News frm Foreign Parts..... 62
Looking Ahead with the Producers..... 66
New Laws and Court Decisions..... 70
In and Out of West Coast Studios..... 72
Just to Make Talk 76

REVIEWS

Across the Rio Grande (Bison-Universal)..... 98
Buried Treasure of Cobre, The (Selig)..... 98
Destruction (Fox) 98
Dragon, The (Equitable)..... 86
Iris (Hepworth) 85
Mr. McIdiot's Assassination (L-KO-Universal)..... 98
Nature Man, The (Universal)..... 97
Old Homestead, The (Famous Players)..... 86
Rack, The (World Film)..... 84
Saved from the Harem (Lubin)..... 100
Surprises of an Empty Hotel (Vitagraph)..... 97
Thirteenth Knickerbocker Triangle Program..... 100
Welsh Singer, A (Turner Films)..... 85
General Film Program 102
Mutual Program 104
Pathé Exchange 104
Universal Program 106

RELEASE CHARTS

Release Charts 108, 110, 112, 114, 116

ACCESSORY NEWS SECTION

Motion Picture Projection Simplified..... 125
Projection 128
Building and Furnishing..... 132
Directory of New Theatres..... 134
Music and the Picture 140

Developing
Printing
Titles

Standard
Filmprint
Corporation

120 School Street
Yonkers, N. Y.

Telephone
4600 Yonkers

JANUARY 15, 1916

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRAD

PARAMOUNT PROGRAM

THE NAME OF LASKY
MEANS
PERFECTION
IN PHOTOPLAY
PRODUCTIONS

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
JAN 7 1916

W. Stephen Bush says about "The Cheat"—"Features like this one put the whole industry under obligations to the Lasky Company"

LASKY

JESSE L. LASKY FEATURE PLAY CO.
485 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY
JESSE L. LASKY PRES. SAMUEL GOLDFISH TREAS. CECIL B. DE MILLE DIR. GEN'L

LASKY

VOLUME XIII NUMBER 2 PRICE 10 C

UNIVERSAL-PICTURES-PRESENT

That Great Dramatic Story of the Double Standard of Morals

"A Soul Enslaved"

FEATURING

CLEO MADISON

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURES

Written by Geo. Bronson Howard – Adapted for the screen by Adele Farrington

BIGGER, better and more brilliant than the features for which the average producer would charge you a prohibitive rental, "A Soul Enslaved" will pack your house at every performance.

Released on the Universal Program at a REASONABLE RENTAL — it will give you a BIG, GENEROUS PROFIT. Wise Exhibitors are awaking to the fact that packed houses that do not show a profit are the sure result of booking features at the inflated and unfair prices asked by the average feature producer.

To get in touch with money-making features write or wire your Exchange for booking and release date of "A Soul Enslaved" and other releases under the Broadway Universal Features Brand.

UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.

CARL LAEMMLE, PRESIDENT

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 BROADWAY - - - - - - - - NEW YORK

PARAMOUNT PICTURES

DANIEL FROHMAN
Presents
The irresistible

MARGUERITE CLARK

In an exquisite picturization of the celebrated romantic comedy,

"MICE and MEN"

By Madeleine Lucette Ryley.

In Five Parts, Released Jan. 10th.

Produced by the

FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM Co.

ADOLPH ZUKOR, President,

DANIEL FROHMAN, Managing Director EDWIN S. PORTER, Treas. & Gen. Mgr.

507 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK

Canadian distributors—FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM SERVICE, Ltd.
Calgary—Montreal—Toronto

48 FAMOUS FEATURES A YEAR

48 FAMOUS FEATURES A YEAR

YOU are wasting your opportunities if YOU ignore advertising.

SHUBERT FILM CORP.
PRESENTS
CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG
IN

CAMILLE

With PAUL CAPELLANI
THE GREATEST FILM SENSATION OF THE YEAR
Directed by A. CAPELLANI

WORLD FILM CORPORATION
LEWIS J. SELZNICK VICE-PRES. & GENL MGR.

EQUITABLE

OFFERS FOR THE FIRST TIME IN FILMS
THE RECENT STAR OF "BUNTY PULLS THE STRINGS" ETC.

MILLY McINTYRE

IN

HER GREAT HOUR

A PLAY OF SUSTAINED INTEREST - GREAT AND CONVINCING PLOTS

WRITTEN AND PRODUCED BY S·E·V· TAYLOR

RELEASED
JANUARY 10TH

EQUITABLE MOTION PICTURES CORPORATION
LEWIS J. SELZNICK, VICE PRES. AND ADVISORY DIRECTOR
RELEASING THROUGH
WORLD FILM CORPORATION

THE BLACK CROOK

The Spectacle That Has Been Advertised By Two Generations

To Aid You, Mr. Exhibitor:

The complete line of advertising matter is headed by a Twenty-four-sheet stand of dazzling beauty that you must not fail to see. Also two styles of one-sheets, two styles of three-sheets, and a six-sheet. In addition, Special Music has been prepared for this spectacular feature by Walter C. Simon, which is being offered to exhibitors at the low price of fifty cents. This score will greatly enhance your showing of "The Black Crook" and will also prove of value to your orchestra later. It gives you $2.00 worth of music for 50 cents.

In Five Parts

A General Film Release, January 10

KALEM COMPANY

235-239 West 23rd Street, New York City

The Two-Reel Series with all the Attributes of a Feature—That's "Stingaree."—Pocket the extra rentals and profit by its big advertising possibilities and consistent, uniform merit.

A Duel in the Desert

Ninth Episode in the Series by E. W. HORNUNG, creator of "Raffles," has the fascinating desert for a background and the red-blooded action of strong men on their mettle for its theme. Released Wednesday, January 19th.

Remember that you can get "Stingaree" at any General Film Company branch office or the Greater New York Film Rental Company. Twelve two-act episodes, one released every Wednesday, each telling a complete story.

Are You on Our Mailing List for the New Kalem Bulletin? Better Write Now!

Striking 1, 3 and 6-sheet, four color lithographs on each issue. Other advertising aids, too.

KALEM COMPANY

235-39 WEST 23RD ST., NEW YORK, N.Y.

There is Only One News Reel

Hearst-Vitagraph

For over four years the term "News Reel" has been mis-used—abused. Never before January 1st, 1916, has the full significance of these words been realized.

A news reel meant a hodge-podge of scenes—in some cases a flash of real news—but generally a motley assembly of topics, poorly chosen.

ONE IN TEN

Thus far we have received ten thousand feet of negative from our camera men. This film comes from every corner of the globe. Out of ten thousand feet we have selected eight hundred. We scrapped the balance of the negative because it did not contain the type of news strong enough for Hearst-Vitagraph. The subjects were strong enough for news reels of the old type but not the kind of news that has made William Randolph Hearst the greatest journalist in the world.

THE INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE is a part of the Hearst-Vitagraph organization. They supply pictures to nearly every paper in the country. They have the greatest aggregation of camera men in the world. This is one reason why Hearst-Vitagraph will contain the latest, most up-to-the-minute, most startling news of the world—the kind of news that will bring your patrons back week after week.

AND HEARST-VITAGRAPH WILL BEAT ALL OTHER NEWS REELS IN THE FIELD FROM THREE TO FIVE DAYS.

Order from V. L. S. E. NOW!

HEARST-
NEWS-PICTORIAL.

IT IS ADVERTISING

Any organization can make claims to the superiority of their news reel

BUT THE ADVERTISING IS THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR.

From the signing of the contract between Hearst and Vitagraph (each the greatest factor of its respective field) the success of this news reel was assured.

The publicity and advertising campaign on Heart-Vitagraph will be the most gigantic ever launched in connection with a news service reel. William Randolph Hearst controls the largest papers in the country The International News Service, in conjunction with the International Film Service, supplies stories, photographs and news materials to over two hundred papers These papers will advertise your business. Imagine what publicity in over two hundred newspapers could do for you. Imagine the cost of this campaign if you had to pay for it

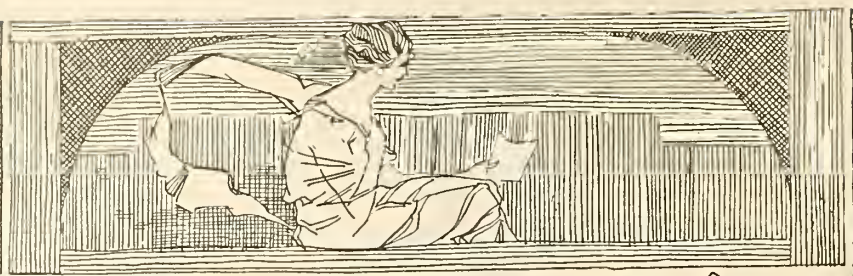
THERE IS NO EXTRA CHARGE FOR THIS ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN We consider it as part of the service.

BEFORE RELEASE DATE EVERY PUBLICATION IN THE UNITED STATES WILL BE TALKING ABOUT HEARST-VITAGRAPH THEY WILL BE THINKING HEARST-VITAGRAPH THEY WILL BE LOOKING FOR YOUR POSTERS AND ADVERTISING ON HEARST-VITAGRAPH. PAGE ADVERTISING HAS ALREADY APPEARED IN THE LEADING HEARST PAPERS. THIS IS ONLY A FORERUNNER OF THE GIGANTIC CAMPAIGN OUTLINED BY HEARST AND VITAGRAPH.

Are YOU Going to Be the Exhibitor Who Shows Them?

VITAGRAPH

(Formerly HEARST-SELIG-Now Better)



PERSONALLY · PICKED PROGRAM

Produced under the personal supervision of

ALBERT E. SMITH AND J. STUART BLACKTON

January 17th

"MRS. DANE'S DANGER"—Four-part Drama

Produced by Wilfrid North

Featuring LILLIAN WALKER and Other Eminent Vitagraph Stars and

"BITTERSWEET"—Comedy

Produced by Rollin S. Sturgeon, presenting an all-star cast

REGULAR RELEASES

"WHEN LIN CAME HOME"

Drama—Monday, January 10th

Featuring George Holt and J. Carleton Weatherby

"WHEN TWO PLAY A GAME"

Comedy—Friday, January 14th

Featuring Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew

"BY LOVE REDEEMED"

Three-part Drama—Saturday, January 15th

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE

Featuring Garry McGarry, Belle Bruce, Jewell Hunt and Anders Randolf

You Can't Get Better Than the Best

For fifteen years VITAGRAPH has led the world in photoplays.

For many years others have strived to reach the pinnacle of perfection that has been acquired by the oldest producer.

For many years VITAGRAPH has set the pace.

That is Why We Can Say—See Them On the Screen—and Know You Will Book Them if You Do.

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA

EXECUTIVE OFFICES

EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.

NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

A Mental Deficient Restored to Normal by an Operation

It is the heart-interest situations that makes a story successful or unsuccessful

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES

Have heart-interest situations—They are the best three-reelers in the world

Big love redeemed in the story of a brutal father who makes a mental degenerate out of his own daughter by hitting her over the head

Should this father be tried for murder?

A wonderful operation restores the daughter's mentality—The father eventually reaps his reward.

THE STORY

Nell, a motherless young girl, is continually abused by her brutal father, who is trying to make a thief out of her In a fit of rage he one day hits her over the head with his revolver and, thinking he has killed her escapes Four years later Nell has apparently recovered, but in reality suffers from bone-pressure, caused by the blow, and in consequence is now a petty criminal John, a lad of her own age and her only friend, is heartbroken as he sees the girl going slowly down the crooked path of life, and the remarkable two-sided nature of the girl comes out as she rushes to help a woman struck down by an auto, then surreptitiously rifles her pocketbook John secures a position with Allen Drew, an artist, and when the latter needs a pickpocket model, John gets Nell the job While she is posing, the artist's best friend, Dr Strong, a famous surgeon and student of criminology, calls and Nell succeeds in picking his pocket unobserved; but her theft is discovered, and John interests the surgeon in her case The doctor operates, and Nell recovers normal mentality She secures a position as a maid, but her Nemesis, her father, appears and tries to force her to help him rob the safe. A struggle follows which results in the accidental death of her father Then John receives the reward of his faith and love by Nell's promise to become his wife

When you get heart-interest in conjunction with a novel theme—You have a high grade photo-play

STORIES OF HEART-INTEREST WITH NOVEL THEMES MAKE

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES

THE BEST THREE-REELERS IN THE WORLD

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA

EXECUTIVE OFFICES

EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.

NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES

A Wonderful Stage Success

"GREEN STOCKINGS"

Played one of the longest runs in the annals of photo-play history in New York.

It was one of the most successful comedies ever run on the stage.

It has played in every city in the United States.

"GREEN STOCKINGS" is now a BLUE RIBBON FEATURE.

It is five reels of comedy, featuring the greatest screen comedienne

LILLIAN WALKER

This Blue Ribbon Feature will undoubtedly establish a precedent for motion picture comedies.

Wilfrid North has succeeded in opening up a new era in comedy direction.

Produced under the personal Supervision of

ALBERT E. SMITH and J. STUART BLACKTON

This five-part VITAGRAPH BLUE RIBBON FEATURE will prove to be a novelty in the comedy field.

We suggest seeing this on the screen at the nearest V. L. S. E. exchange

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

THE BIG IDEA BEHIND THE BIG FOUR

IT would be a misstatement to say that we are not anxious to sell Big Four features.

It would be a greater misstatement to say that our anxiety to sell Big Four features is ever permitted to overshadow our consideration of your best interests.

The elimination of Pot-Luck in booking features, and the elevation of Certainty was the controlling idea back of the organization of this combination.

For this reason, we have urged with all the earnestness we command, the "Open-Booking" policy—the policy which permits the exhibitor to select that which is best suited to his patronage, and reject that which is not—and we have been untiring in our efforts to have him see personally every picture before booking it. In other words, we seek only to sell a picture on its merits.

When it is not possible for the exhibitor to view a production, he has our assurance to so truthfully represent it, that he will never have occasion to question either our good faith or our judgment.

Based unqualifiedly on this principle, we offer this week, for the consideration of the progressive, quality-building exhibitor:

ANITA STEWART and EARLE WILLIAMS, front-rank favorites, in a five-part VITAGRAPH BLUE RIBBON feature, "MY LADY'S SLIPPER," by CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY. A captivating heart-interest love story, replete with the lure of a beautiful woman's eyes and the romance of an adventurer.

NANCE O'NEIL, America's gifted emotional actress, in a five-part LUBIN SOVEREIGN PLAY, "SOULS IN BONDAGE," from the pen of DANIEL CARSON GOODMAN, author of that most-talked-of novel, "Hagar Revelly." A vivid, breath-catching problem play that will make you think and feel better for the thinking.

ANN MURDOCK, dainty darling of comedy triumphs such as "A Pair of Sixes," and RICHARD C. TRAVERS in CLYDE FITCH'S master farce, "CAPTAIN JINKS," produced by the ESSANAY COMPANY. A shaft of sunshine, radiating sprightliness and good cheer and filled with the invigoration of a breath of cool, fresh air.

REGINA BADET, Parisian sorceress, in a five-part SELIG RED SEAL PLAY, "NO GREATER LOVE." A play upon the heart strings of which James S. McQuade, the veteran staff writer of "The Moving Picture World," says, "Whoever views 'No Greater Love' on the screen will be the subject of a spell that is akin to the magical."

To round out this feast of genuine, restige-building entertainment, the Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial in 1,000 feet of rapid-fire highlights of the news of the world and your own community—

And a two part riotous comedy of the "Ford Flivver," with Raymond Hitchcock as supreme potentate of a galaxy of fun-makers, produced by the Lubin Company, and labeled, "The Wonderful Wager."

Just an average week's contribution to the welfare of the success-seeking exhibitor!

He who runs may read its moral.

V. L. S. E. Inc.

WHAT THE HOME FOLKS SAID

An advance showing was given all last week to his old friends in Topeka, Kansas, by Donald C. Thompson of his French Battle Pictures

"SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE"

They Packed the Largest Theater in Town All Week. The Verdict, Voiced by the Newspaper of Governor Arthur Capper of Kansas

To movie fans who are inclined to sidestep all motion pictures that are of news or historical nature, the Thompson pictures not only held their interest because they depicted the greatest tragedy the world has known, but because of the mechanical element, which showed that the pictures had been made by an expert. The depth and clearness of the pictures were remarkable.—The Topeka Daily Capital, Tuesday, December 28th, 1915.

See Leslie's Weekly Big Page

716, current issue, dated December 30th, for six enlargements from Thompson's Film.

Better Ask Quickly About Territory

ARTHUR S. KANE

901 CANDLER BUILDING
220 WEST 42nd STREET

New York City

Paramount-Bray Cartoons

furnish that bit of variety necessary to a successful program.

"COLONEL HEEZA LIAR'S WATERLOO."
(Released January 6th, 1916.)

Listen to the murmur of mirth that ripples through your audience when a BRAY CARTOON is announced.

Nothing ever shown on the screen has produced so much real amusement for audiences as the BRAY CARTOONS. They are known and loved by men, women and children. Just say BRAY, that tells the story.

With each of these cartoons, there will be a short DITMARS Film, showing some of the animals of the famous New York Bronx Zoo.

January releases are:

Jan. 6 COLONEL HEEZA LIAR'S WATERLOO—Cartoon
Comedy by J. R. Bray.

Jan. 13 HADDEM BAAD'S ELOPEMENT—Cartoon
Comedy by L. M. Glackens.

Jan. 20 INBAD THE SAILOR—A Silhouette Fantasie
By C. Allan Gilbert.

Jan. 27 THE POLICE DOG—on the Wire—A Cartoon
By C. T. Anderson.

WRITE OUR NEAREST PARAMOUNT EXCHANGE TODAY ABOUT BOOKINGS.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

EXHIBITORS!

Do you know that PARAMOUNT gives you the privilege of the only real system of consistently improving your performance that has yet been devised? A system, mind you, carefully worked out in every detail.

The PARAMOUNT exhibitor already has the best pictures yet produced in the history of motion pictures—PARAMOUNT PICTURES are excelled by none.

But the PARAMOUNT exhibitor himself, by his own voice, determines what class and kind of pictures shall or shall not be released on PARAMOUNT Program.

Do you know that he even decides what producers shall make pictures for his theatre, what stars shall play in them, and even what the character of the subjects shall be?

Statistics compiled from reports sent us by the exhibitor tell us unfailingly what he wants—in subject, style and star—then PARAMOUNT and the producers cooperate to supply just the pictures he wants for his theatre.

This is the most efficient kind of team work between exhibitor and producer, and is bound to keep on producing good results.

Write our nearest exchange to tell you more about this PARAMOUNT Quality Service.

Paramount Program

Paramount Pictures

Paramount Pict

FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH

NEW YORK.

Big Things in America to be first in

Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel-Pictures

Burton Holmes is the most famous traveler and lecturer in the world.

He was one of the first men to visit foreign climes with the motion picture camera.

With his associates he has traveled more than 2,500,000 miles.

For ten weeks in October, November and December Burton Holmes attracted capacity audiences in the following $2.00 theatres and halls:

Orchestra Hall	seating	2580	Chicago
The Odeon	"	1890	St. Louis
Carnegie Hall	"	1968	Pittsburg
Academy of Music	"	2662	Philadelphia
Albaugh's Lyceum	"	1338	Baltimore
Candler Theatre	"	1056	New York
Pabst Theatre	"	1752	Milwaukee

In January and February he appears at

Carnegie Hall	seating	2662	New York
Symphony Hall	"	2569	Boston
Academy of Music	"	2350	Brooklyn
New National Theatre	"	2000	Washington

These travels in film are now to be released exclusively through PARAMOUNT Exchanges. Burton Holmes himself will personally direct the preparation of these releases.

Nothing comparable ever before offered the motion picture public.

Exhibitors may now present to their patrons these celebrated travels which heretofore have not been available to them because of the great demand upon Mr. Holmes' time. Even the smallest town may have the PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES TRAVEL-PICTURES.

This series will appeal especially to teachers and educators, parents and pupils, while everyone will wish to take these travels on the screen.

First release:	Feb. 7	"The Cliffdwellers of America"
	" 14	"The Grand Canyon"
	" 21	"A Day with a West Point Cadet"
	" 28	"Our Middies at Annapolis"

You should have these pictures. Write our nearest exchange.

ures Corporation
AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
CITY, N.Y.

Paramount Pictures

Paramount Program

Great Screen Attraction

Great because it continues to please the public—people go to see it, enthuse over it, tell their friends, go a second time, and then wait for a return booking of it in their town.

Exhibitors have found this famous production one of their best box office attractions.

What is it?

GEORGE BEBAN

in

"An Alien"

Produced by Thos. H. Ince

It played a long run at the Astor Theatre in New York in the early spring, and has been playing to big houses throughout the United States ever since.

A Philadelphia patron wrote us:

"Just a line to inform you what the writer, as well as a number of his friends, thinks of the production 'An Alien.'

"You have produced some fine films, but this is in a class by itself. Mr. George Beban has put something on the screen that heretofore I have never seen. The way he gripped the audience here in Philadelphia was wonderful. His performance was the only photoplay production that I've heard opinions expressed as being really equal to the spoken drama. More productions of this calibre would be welcomed."

Secure bookings from your nearest Paramount Exchange. Write today.

SELECT FILM BOOKING AGENCY, Inc.

485 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES

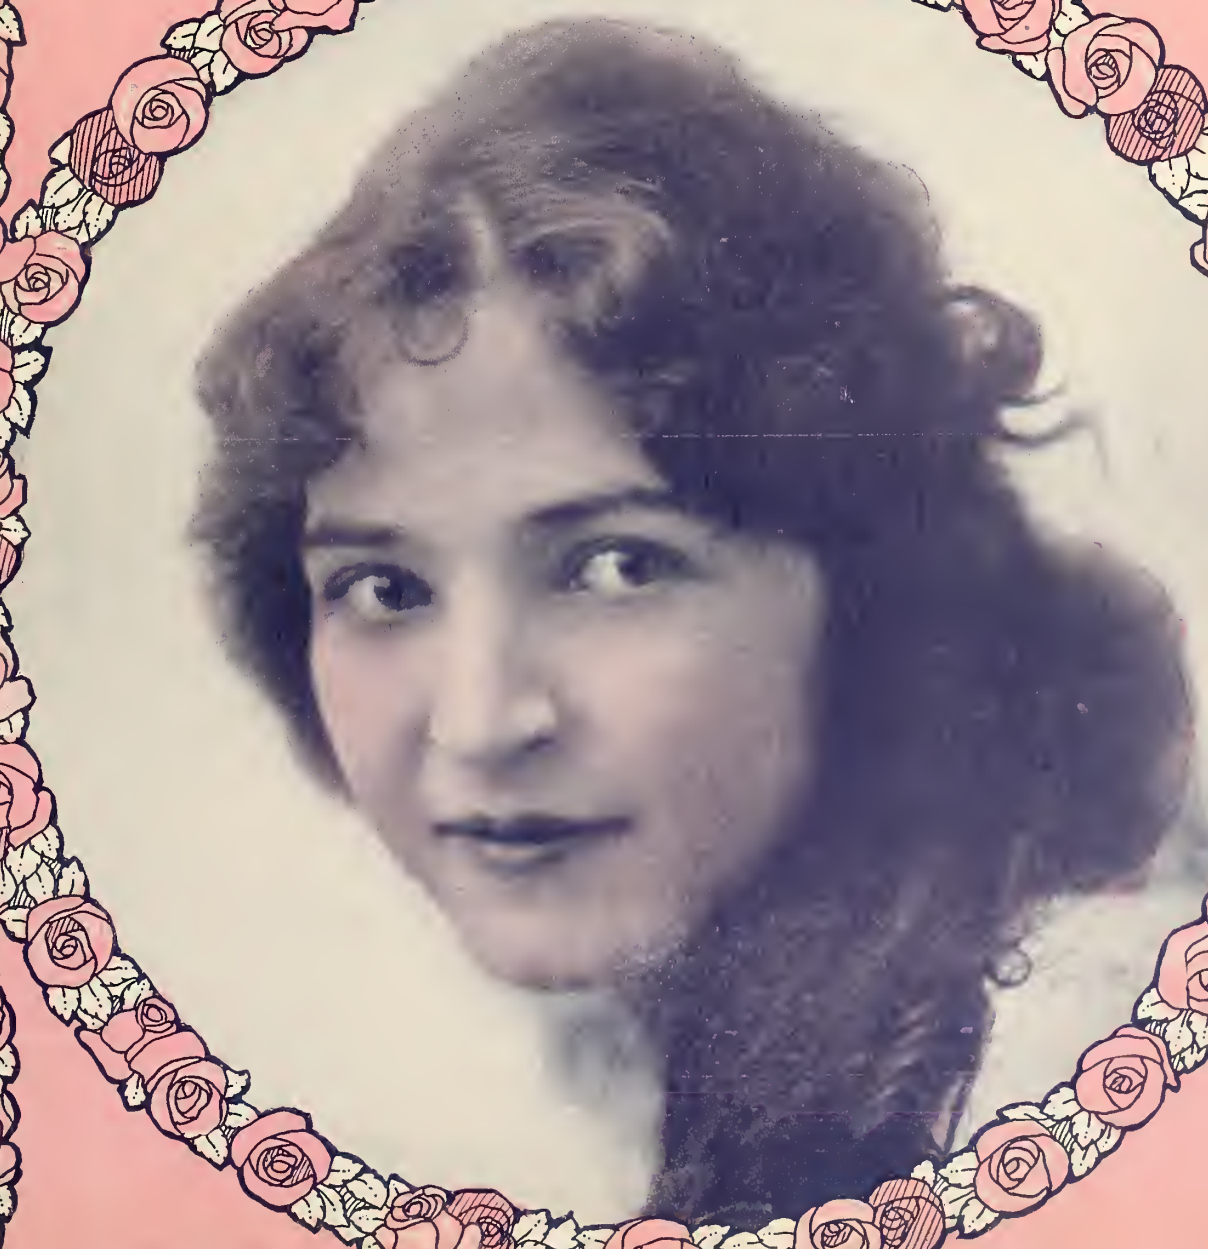
DE LUXE EDITION

AS A WOMAN SOWS

FEATURING THE BROADWAY STAR

GERTRUDE ROBINSON

ONE OF THE THREE SENSATIONAL MASTERPICTURES – EACH IN FIVE REELS – RELEASED THE WEEK OF JAN. 24TH THROUGH 68 MUTUAL EXCHANGES · PRODUCED BY GAUMONT



MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

LORD LOVELAND DISCOVERS AMERICA

FROM THE STORY BY THE WILLIAMSONS
FEATURING THE BROADWAY STAR

ARTHUR MAUDE

FIVE REELS RELEASED THE WEEK OF JANUARY 24TH THROUGH 68 MUTUAL EXCHANGES

PRODUCED BY AMERICAN

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION ANNOUNCES

BETRAYED

A DRAMA OF DEEP HEART-INTEREST
FEATURING THE ATTRACTIVE SCREEN STAR

GRACE DE CARLTON

ONE OF THE THREE MUTUAL
FIVE REEL FEATURES RELEASED
THE WEEK OF JANUARY 24

PRODUCED BY THANHOUSER:·

MUTUAL PROGRAM

IN THE EIGHT MILLION DOLLAR
MUTUAL PROGRAM

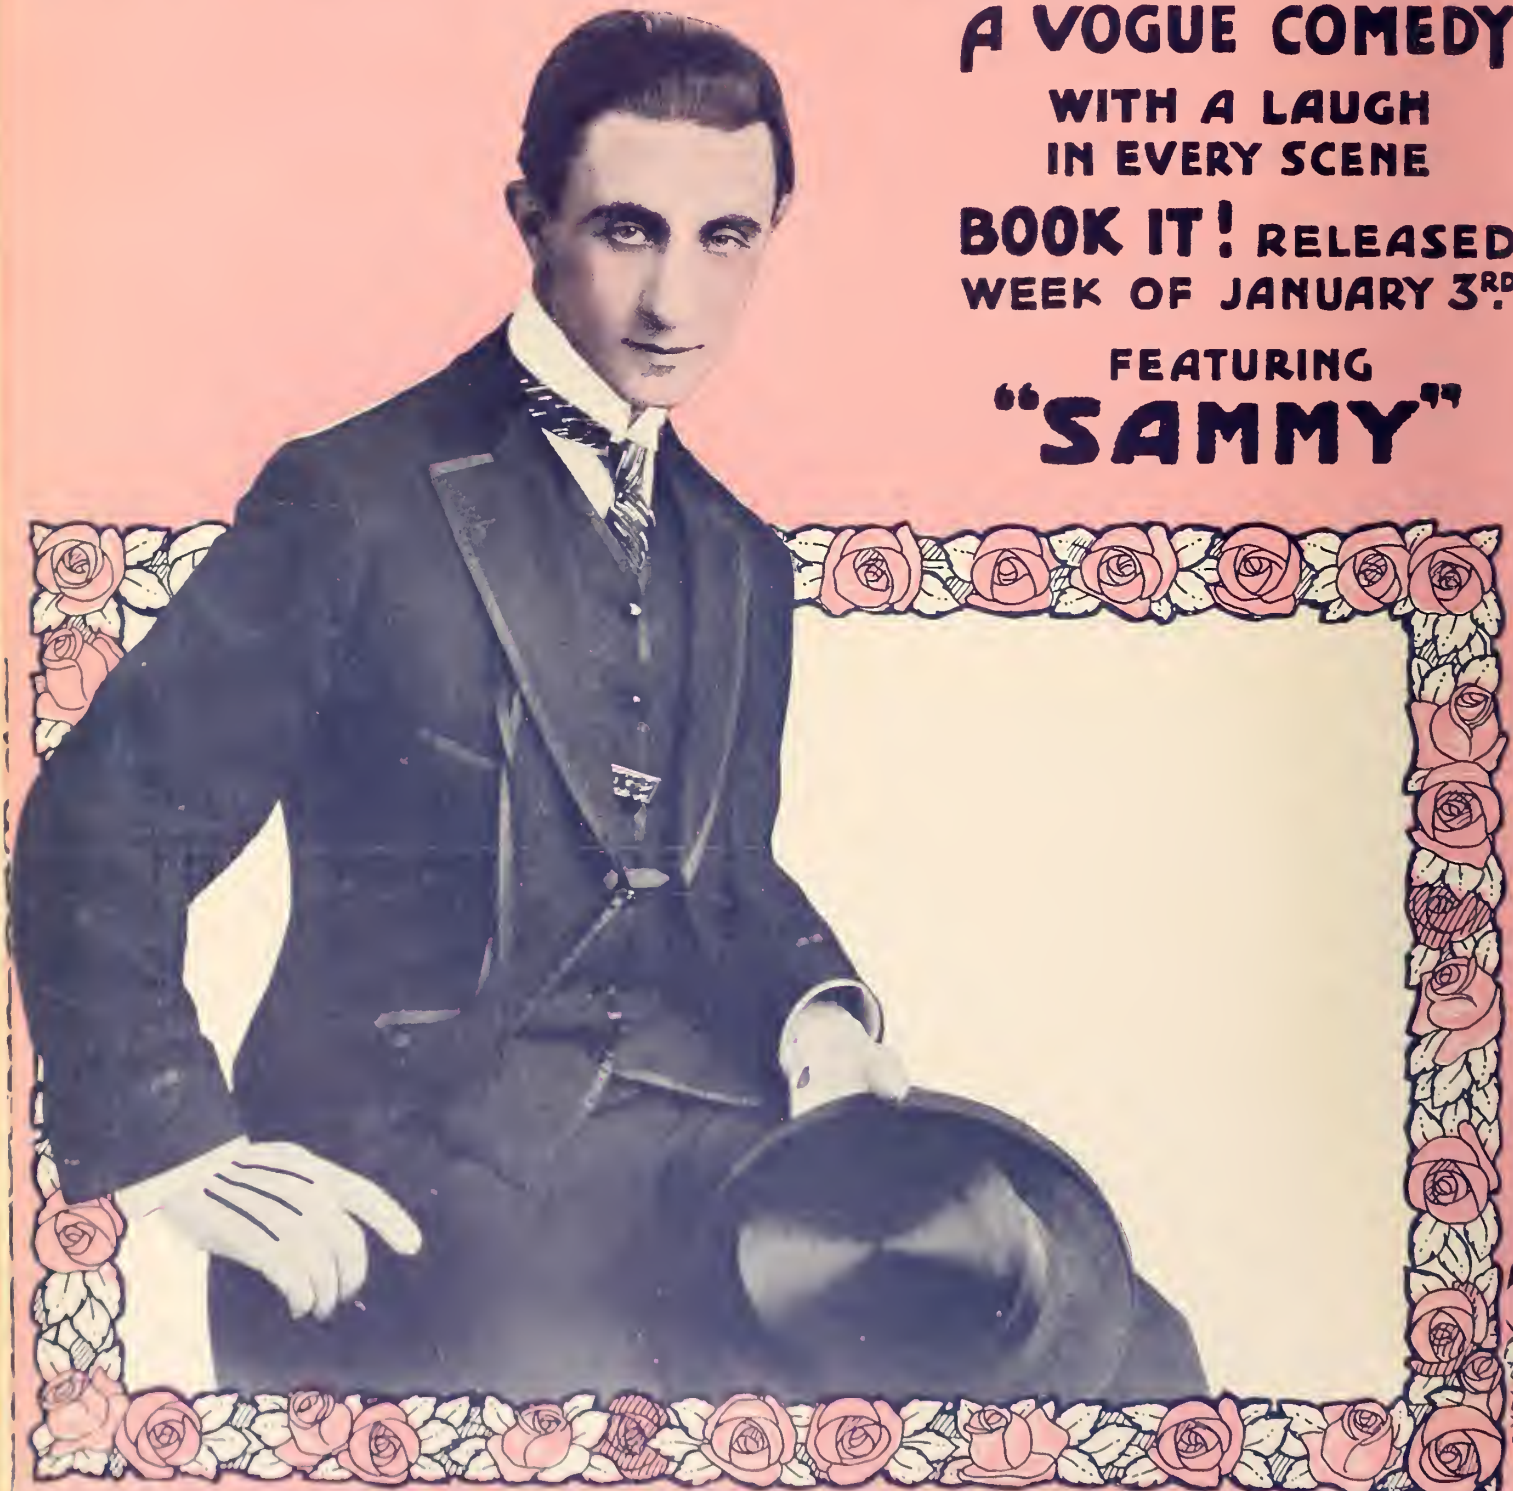
AN INNOCENT CROOK

A VOGUE COMEDY

WITH A LAUGH
IN EVERY SCENE

BOOK IT! RELEASED
WEEK OF JANUARY 3RD

FEATURING
"SAMMY"



MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

GAUMONT CO. PRESENTS

THE IDOL OF THE STAGE

A SPECTACULAR MELODRAMA IN FIVE REELS FEATURING THE NOTED BELASCO STAR···

RELEASED WEEK OF JAN. 31 THROUGH 68 MUTUAL EXCHANGES

MALCOLM WILLIAMS

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

AMERICAN FILM CO. INC. PRESENTS

THE THOROUGHBRED

AN INTEREST-COMPELLING DRAMA WITH A STRONG MORAL. RELEASED THE WEEK OF JAN. 17TH THROUGH SIXTY-EIGHT MUTUAL EXCHANGES

FEATURING THE POPULAR STARS

WILLIAM RUSSELL AND CHARLOTTE BURTON

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

AMERICAN FILM CO. INC. PRESENTS

THE WHITE ROSETTE

A ROMANTIC DRAMA OF MEDIAEVAL AND MODERN TIMES FEATURING THE POPULAR SCREEN STARS

HELENE ROSSON

— AND —

E. FORREST TAYLOR

FIVE REELS RELEASED THE WEEK OF JAN 31ST THROUGH MUTUAL EXCHANGES

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

DAVID HORSLEY PRESENTS

THE BAIT

A MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE
IN FIVE REELS. A STUPENDOUS DRAMA
FEATURING THE BEAUTIFUL STAR

MARGARET GIBSON

AND THE FAMOUS BOSTOCK ANIMALS

RELEASED WEEK OF JAN. 17TH.
THROUGH 68 MUTUAL EXCHANGES

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

GAUMONT CO. PRESENTS

HIS WIFE'S DOUBLE

A NEW STORY IN WHICH A DUAL ROLE IS REMARKABLY PORTRAYED BY CHARMING . .

FIVE REEL . .
MUTUAL RELEASE
WEEK OF FEB 14TH.

MARGUERITE COURTOT

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

EDWIN THANHOUSER PRESENTS

THE SUPERB

FLORENCE LA BADIE

HEROINE OF THE MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY

IN... THE FIVE FAULTS OF FLO

THE UNUSUAL STANDARD OF EXCELLENCE ESTABLISHED BY THIS OFFERING MAKES THE USE OF SUPERLATIVE ADJECTIVES INADEQUATE-AND UNNECESSARY. THE STAR AND THE PLAY ARE PRESENTED FOR THEIR OWN STERLING VALUE

THANHOUSER
FILM CORPORATION
NEW ROCHELLE. N.Y.

SCENARIO BY LLOYD LONERGAN
AUTHOR OF THE $1,000,000 MYSTERY-
AND PHILLIP LONERGAN

STAGED BY GEORGE FOSTER PLATT

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES

DE LUXE EDITION

FLORENCE
LA BADIE

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

DAVID HORSLEY PRESENTS

"VENGEANCE IS MINE!"

A TENSE DRAMA WITH CAPITAL PUNISHMENT AS ITS THEME. SUPERBLY ENACTED BY AN ALL-STAR CAST HEADED BY POPULAR

CRANE WILBUR

FIVE REELS RELEASED
WEEK OF JAN 31ST

MUTUAL PICTURES

Wild Jim, Reformer

A powerful two part American "Mustang" drama of early Western life —

Featuring

Jack Richardson
Lizette Thorne
E. Forrest Taylor

Directed by Frank Cooley

Released Jan. 21st

Other New American Releases

The Silent Trail

Two-part "Flying A" Drama

Nan Christy Ashton Dearholt

Directed by Charles Bartlett Released Jan 18th

The Thunderbolt

Single Reel "Flying A" Drama

Helene Rosson E. Forrest Taylor

Directed by William Bertram Released Jan. 21st

Johnnie's Birthday

American "Beauty" Comedy

Carol Halloway John Sheehan

Directed by James Douglass Released Jan. 19th

Mischief and a Mirror

American "Beauty" Comedy

Neva Gerber Wallace McDonald

Directed by Archer McMackin Released Jan. 23rd

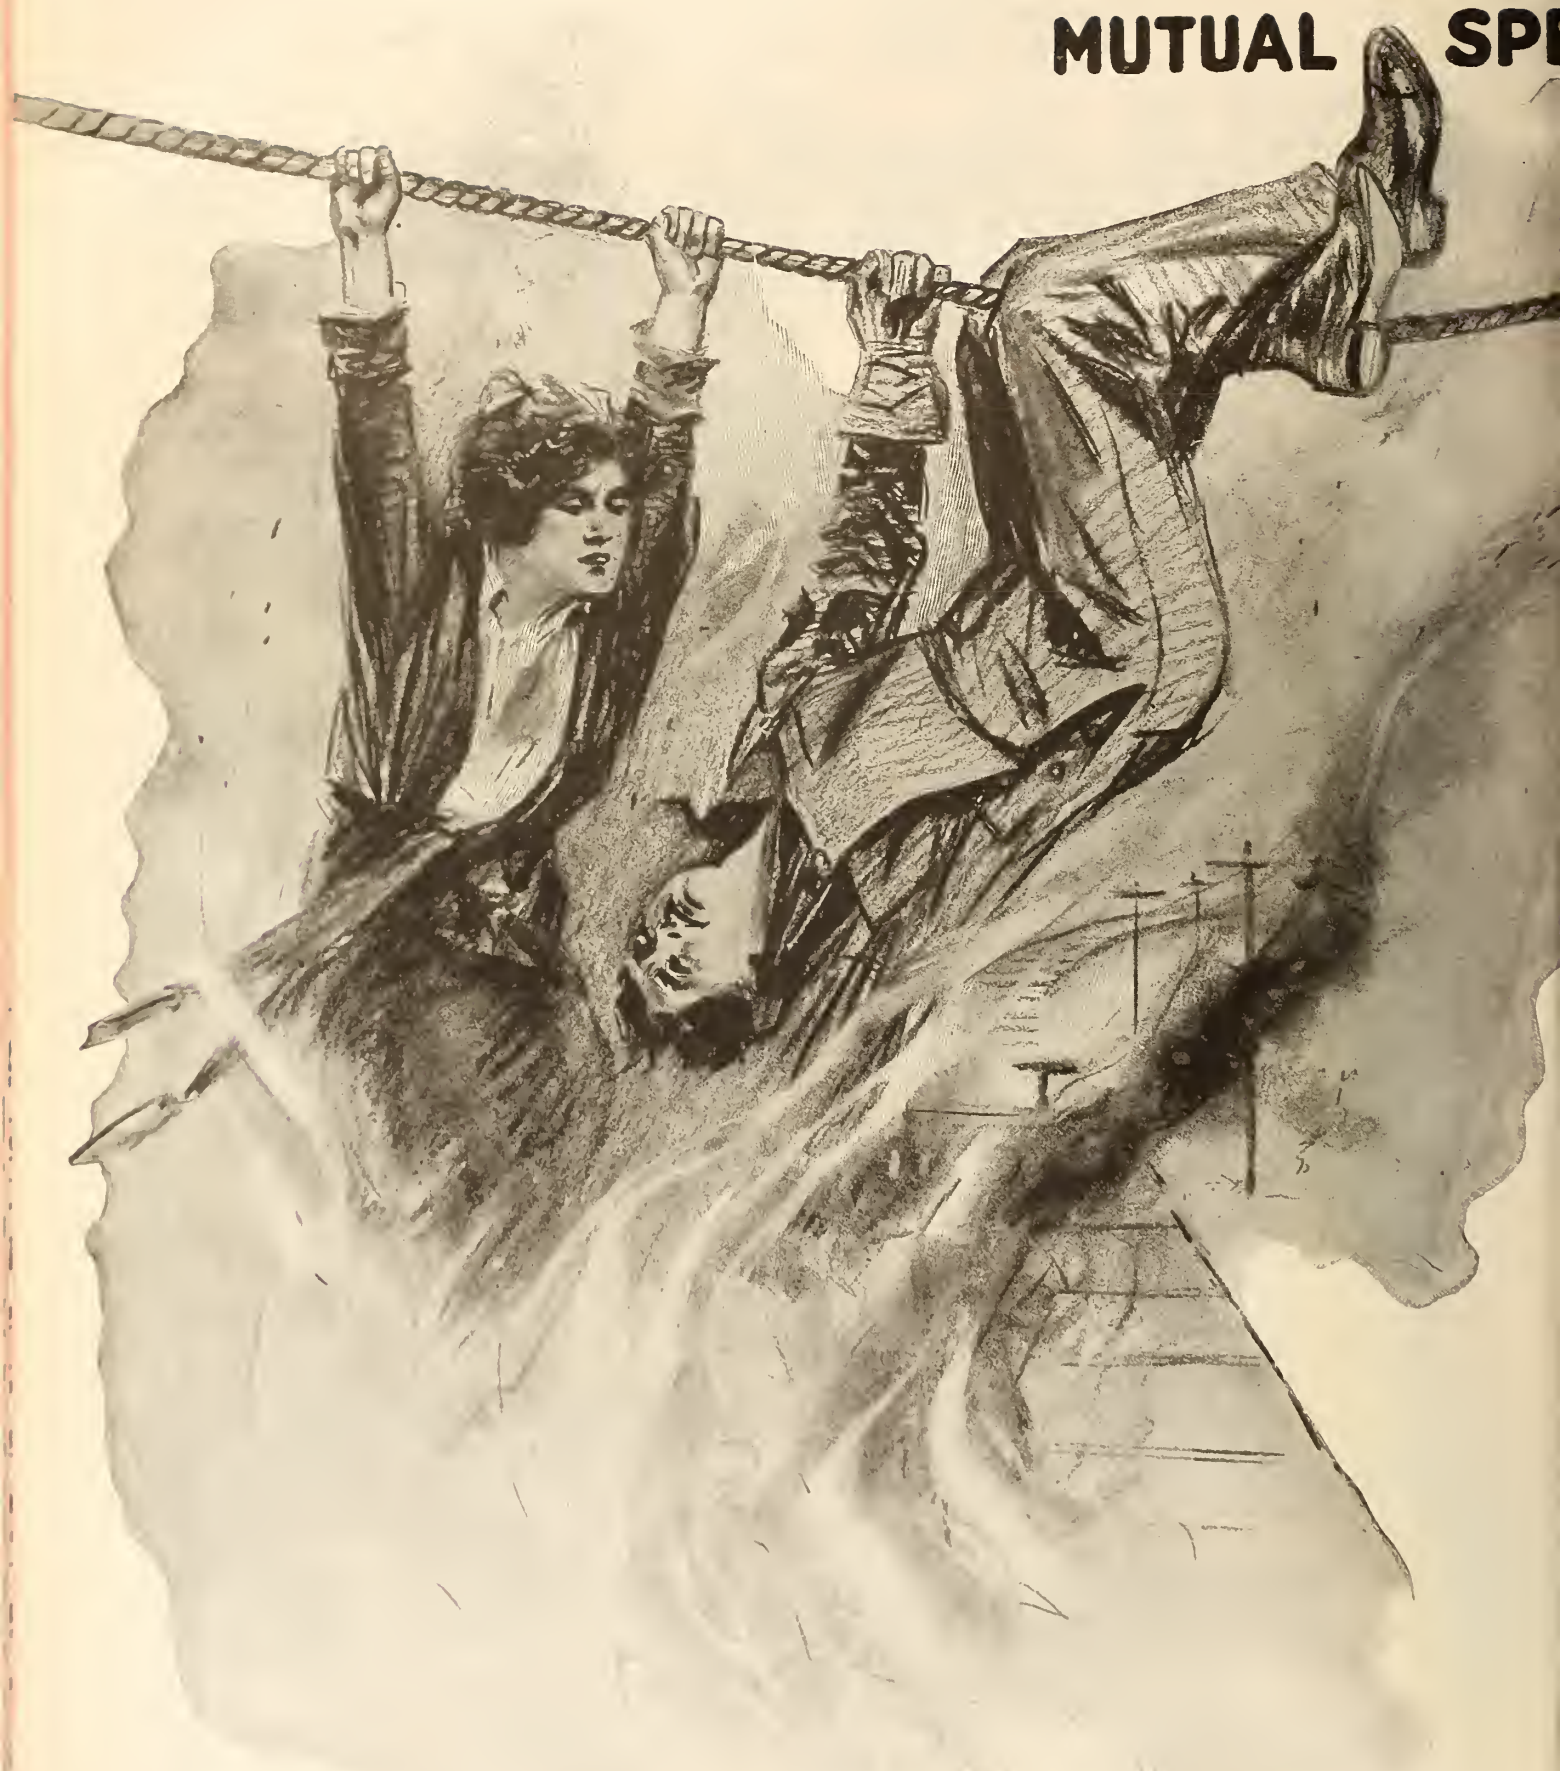
Special Notice! The Mutual 12-page color insert elsewhere in this issue contains an announcement relating to The Thoroughbred, a five reel American Mutual Masterpicture, De Luxe Edition, to be released Jan. 17th. Read it carefully.

Each of these releases distributed throughout the United States exclusively by Mutual Film Corporation.

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, Inc.

SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON
President

Chicago, Illinois



MUTUAL SPE

CIAL FEATURE

THE GIRL AND THE GAME

Big Scenes— Terrific Action!

Never before have such tremendous thrills been experienced. Each chapter of "The Girl and the Game" is chock full of thrills — thrills of vital human interest, with a beautiful girl as the heroine. The illustration is but one of the outstanding thrills in chapter three.

Helen Holmes, the fearless film star in this great railroad film novel, is drawing great crowds every day in hundreds and hundreds of theatres. The public stares, open mouthed, at this girl's most wonderful daring.

This Great Story in 1,000 Big Newspapers!

Leading newspapers all over the United States are publishing Frank H. Spearman's wonderful story, "The Girl and the Game," and their millions of readers are literally carried away with the story of this motion picture masterpiece. Among the big newspapers printing this great story are:

New York World	Detroit Journal	Philadelphia North American
Pittsburgh Press	Baltimore American	Memphis Commercial Appeal
Atlanta Constitution	Boston Globe	Milwaukee Sentinel
Omaha Bee	Cincinnati Times-Star	New Orleans Times-Picayune
Buffalo Courier	San Francisco Chronicle	Los Angeles Tribune
Indianapolis Star	St. Louis Globe-Democrat	Dallas Journal
Chicago Evening Post	Cleveland Leader	Seattle Post-Intelligencer

Kansas City Journal, and nearly a thousand others!

Arrange now for your showing of "The Girl and the Game." A new, two-act chapter released each week. Three chapters now are appearing. There are fifteen chapters in all. Don't overlook this big special feature. Act!

For booking information apply to "The Girl and the Game" department of your nearest Mutual exchange, or write "The Girl and the Game" department of the Mutual home office, New York City.

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION

SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON, President

Publicity Offices: 222 South State Street CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

MUTUAL SPECIAL FEATURE

Going Like A House Afire!

THE DIAMOND FROM THE SKY

A Picturized Romantic Novel
By Roy L. McCardell

"Like a house afire!" That's the way an exhibitor expressed it the other day, and he hit the nail squarely on the head.

Neighborhood exhibitors now are reaping big profits with this spectacular production of great big thrills! Each two-act chapter is, in itself, a powerful success. The entire production has proved itself a gold mine.

Book It Now And Make Money!

You neighborhood theatre men—don't let this opportunity slip. Big money awaits you. Go to your nearest Mutual exchanges for new and special booking information. Act Now!

North American Film Corporation
John R. Freuler, Pres. 71 West 23rd St., New York City

MUTUAL PROGRAM

EDWIN THANHOUSER PRESENTS

GLADYS HULETTE

IN

A 3-ACT DRAMA

"IN THE NAME OF THE LAW"

A STUDY IN VIRILE TYPES! SENSATIONAL, DASHING ACTION! A SURPRISING TALE OF THE STRANGE DEEP BACK-WOODS WITH ITS STRANGER MEN AND THEIR DEEDS.

RELEASED TUESDAY JAN. 11TH

STAGED BY EUGENE NOWLAND FROM THE STORY BY CLINTON H. STAGG

FALSTAFF COMEDIES

FALSTAFF FILMS — THE SPIRIT OF A NATION

BELINDA'S BRIDAL BREAKFAST — RELEASED MON., JAN. 10

WITH BARBARA GILROY

REFORMING RUBBERING ROSIE — RELEASED THUR., JAN. 13

A NEAT, SURE-FIRE FUN-FILM

THANHOUSER FILM CORP.

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y.

MUTUAL FILM CORP. SOLE DISTRIBUTORS FOR THE UNITED STATES, MEXICO AND CANADA

How can an advertiser continue advertising? By giving YOU value.

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE

Great Scott! It's a Woman! Look!! She leaps!!!

EDWIN THANHOUSER
PRESENTS

"THE WOMAN IN POLITICS" 5 Reels

WITH MIGNON ANDERSON, GEORGE MARLO AND A UNIFORMLY EFFECTIVE CAST

This Production is Sensational, Timely and Vital!
It will prove the box-office surprise of the day!

STAGED BY W. EUGENE MOORE STORY BY LLOYD LONERGAN

THANHOUSER FILM CORP.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.

MUTUAL FILM CORP., SOLE DISTRIBUTORS FOR THE UNITED STATES, MEXICO AND CANADA

In YOUR home town
a newspaper is telling the story of

THE RED CIRCLE

In YOUR home town
many persons are reading that story and want to see

RUTH ROLAND

and FRANK MAYO in this great
PATHÉ serial

What do the thousands of dollars being spent in advertising these
Balboa-made pictures mean to you?

BUSINESS!

The PATHÉ EXCHANGE, Inc.

EXECUTIVE OFFICES
25 West 45th Street, New York

"THE PICTURES THAT

Call Henry Ford an illusionist, a fanatic or the greatest self-advertiser ever—the fact remains his judgment changed him in a few short years from a working man to one of the greatest money powers of to-day. Ford has passed judgment on these greatest of all war pictures.

This is what he told the New York Reporters in an interview before sailing "to end the war":

THE PICTURE

THE HORRO

(3 REELS, RELE

THE PATHÉ

EXECUTIVE
25 WEST 45th ST.

WILL STOP THIS WAR!"

HENRY FORD.

"The other day a moving picture plant showed me a picture of war. I saw a field covered with dead. Wounded men were kicking in agony. Other men came on and stripped them of their clothes. Then came wagons and the dead and half dead were piled on like so much cordwood. If pictures like that would be shown to the people war would be stopped."

From the New York Journal

Friday, December 3, 1915

FORD SAW IS

RS OF WAR

ASED JAN. 17th)

EXCHANGE, Inc.

OFFICES

NEW YORK

PATHÉ OFFERS THE KING'S

George Probert

A GOLD ROOSTER Play
in 5 parts, featuring
PEARL WHITE
GEORGE PROBERT
and SHELDON LEWIS

Sheldon Lewis

Supported by a cast each one of whom is worthy to be featured. "THE KING'S GAME" is a virile drama in which James K. Hackett starred for two seasons. It was written by George Brackett Seitz

Production of Arnold Daly, and direction by Ashley Miller. RELEASED JANUARY 7th

The PATHÉ EXECUTIVE
25 WEST 45th ST.

GAME

PEARL WHITE

EXCHANGE inc.

OFFICES
NEW YORK

WILLIAM H. COOPER

THE DISTINGUISHED

SUPPORTED BY A

AN ENTIRE OPERATIC BALLET

IN RICHARD GREATEST A PARISIAN

FOX FILM

FOX PRESENTS

CLIFFE

ENGLISH ACTOR

NOTABLE CAST AND

OF

FIFTY

BEAUTIFUL

GIRLS

MANSFIELD'S SUCCESS ROMANCE

CORPORATION

Triangle Plays Pull Record Crowds

The Holiday Slump loses its terror for the man who has the kind of goods the public wants. People buy the best values.

Actual proof of the success of TRIANGLE PLAYS has been given during the past week. Following is a telegram which was sent on Christmas Day to our District Superintendent in Philadelphia by Mr. E. H. Hulsey, of Texas, one of the most prominent theatre owners of the South, who operates the Old Mill Theatre in Dallas, and many others:

Dallas, Texas, December 25th.

Mr. Arthur Lucas,
TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION,
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Submarine Pirate" broke our house record today. Did nearly a hundred dollars more than * * *. House seats fifteen hundred. From three o'clock this afternoon to nine tonight we were never able to get all people in with show lasting only one hour and a quarter. E. H. Hulsey.

"Nothing succeeds like success" is an old saying that applies to the moving picture business as well as any other. The more successful the concern, the more rapidly and easily are orders received. The stream of TRIANGLE contracts persists, the dollars continue to flow into the box office of TRIANGLE Theatres.

ARE YOU GETTING YOUR SHARE OF THE PROFITS?

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION
71 WEST 23rd ST NEW YORK

Triangle Releases for Week of January 9th

"Let Katy Do It," the first TRIANGLE PLAY in which the favorite Jane Grey appears, is filled to the brim with that sort of heart interest that will bring men and women back to see it the second time. There is a strong human note in it that brings the patron to the Box Office Window. Sensational in its tense moments, sympathetic in its emotional scenes, "Let Katy Do It" has not a torpid moment anywhere. New York critics applauded every foot of it.

In "The Corner," the vital drama of industrial conditions in which Willard Mack appears, the main theme is the savage conflict that grows out of a high living cost forced upon the workers of a community by the rapacity of a capitalist, played by George Fawcett. This is a big, strong, vital drama with a punch in every scene. You can get every class of theatre patron interested in it, and keep them interested, which is a more difficult problem.

As for the Keystones, there is nothing more to be said save that when you have run the first show you'll find the second one crowded. Keystone has never touched anything better than "The Great Pearl Tangle," with Sam Bernard, and when it comes to "Fatty and Mabel Adrift," the big top note of successful comedy has been reached. Both are lobby crushers.

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION
71 WEST 23rd ST NEW YORK

BIG "A" FEATURE

HIS TURNING POINT

FIVE REELS
FEATURING

LEATRICE JOY ZEIDLER AND ANDREW A. ROGERS

FIRST RELEASE ON THE A B C PLAN

THE A B C PLAN IS THE ONLY PLAN THAT IS PROFIT ABLE TO THE EX-CHANGEMAN AND EXHIBITOR

GET IN TOUCH WITH US AND
WE WILL SEND YOU
IN DETAIL FULL INFORMATION

Associated Film Sales Corporation

ARTHUR BARD, Gen'l Mgr. 110-112 WEST 40th ST., NEW YORK CITY

COMING METRO EVENTS

METRO PICTURES

IS THIS EXHIBITOR SATISFIED?

OTTOWAY THEATRE CO.
Incorporated
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

December 3rd, 1915.

Metro Pictures Co.,
Chattanooga, Tenn.

Gentlemen:-

Under date of December 1st, we authorized your representative, Mr. J. W. Day, to have the price of our film service increased 16 2/3 per cent, beginning January 1st, 1916; and we further advised him that we hoped to be able to grant you an additional increase some time during the first of the new year, and if business continues to meet with our expectations you may expect to be advised of this additional increase at any time.

We wish to say that this voluntary increase in rental is being given through no motive other than we wish to show some concrete evidence of our appreciation of the consistently good shows that you have been giving us and of the courteous treatment and the cordial co-operation that your office has always shown us.

We are METRO enthusiasts, and should there ever an occasion arise that you would like to refer some exhibitor to us, we assure you that we would deem it a pleasure to answer any inquiries with reference to your service.

Trusting that the coming year will bring you abundant success, and with best regards, we are

Yours very truly,
Ottoway Theatre
by
J. W. Andrews

MOTION PICTURES CORPORATION

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

presents

MARY MILES MINTER

in

THE ROSE of the ALLEY

supported by Thomas J. Carrigan and an admirable company.

A vital drama of New York's underworld by Harry O. Hoyt shot through with the golden thread of romance"

Directed by Charles Horan, produced by

ROLFE PHOTO PLAYS INC.

Released
on the METRO
Program
Jan. 17th
METRO PICTURES

COMING METRO EVENTS

METRO PICTURES

To assure Metro Exhibitors of diversity in subjects slight changes have been made in the order of our new releases. The correct list of coming Metro Events is as follows:

Jan. 24	Her Debt of Honor	Columbia Pictures Corporation VALLI VALLI
Jan. 31	Man and His Soul	Quality Pictures Corporation FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN & BEVERLY BAYNE
Feb. 7	The Upstart	Rolfe Photoplays, Inc. MARGUERITE SNOW & GEORGE LeGUERE
Feb. 14	Dimples	Columbia Pictures Corporation MARY MILES MINTER
Feb. 21	The Bribe	Quality Pictures Corporation FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN & BEVERLY BAYNE
Feb. 28	The Lure of Heart's Desire	Popular Plays and Players EDMUND BREESE

The Strange Case of
MARY PAGE
IN FIFTEEN POWERFUL EPISODES

With
HENRY B. WALTHALL
and
EDNA MAYO

Essanay
1333 Argyle Street, Chicago
George K. Spoor, President

LOOK AT THEM
AND YOU'LL BOOK THEM

Ask the Exhibitor who uses Essanay and he will tell you that you can book its photoplays without looking at them.

But Essanay wants you to look at them. Essanay wants you to see their distinctive quality, their individual charm, their fascinating and logical plots, the artistic settings and realistic action.

Essanay believes in its pictures; it is proud of its productions; therefore it wants you to see them and judge for yourself.

★★★★★★

Don't Fail to Book the Latest

ESSANAY-CHAPLIN

"Charlie Chaplin's Burlesque on Carmen"

2 Acts—to be released soon

WATCH FOR

G. M. ANDERSON'S

Latest Drama

"Her Lesson"

In 2 Acts—Released Jan. 4

★★★★★★

"PIECES OF THE GAME"

3 Act Drama—Jan. 15

Presenting

Bryant Washburn

and

Nell Craig

"ANGELS UNAWARE"

2 Act Drama—Jan. 11

Presenting Ruth Stonehouse and Edmund F. Cobb

"THE FABLE OF THE TWO PHILANTHROPIC SONS"

By George Ade

Comedy—Jan. 12

ESSANAY

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

George K. Spoor, President

"The Misleading Lady"

Presenting

HENRY B. WALTHALL

and EDNA MAYO

in Five Acts

Adapted by H. S. Sheldon from the great stage success of Charles W. Goddard and Paul Dickey. Directed by A. Berthelet.

HENRY B. WALTHALL

EDNA MAYO

"The Raven"
"Graustark"
"The Man Trail"
"A Bunch Of Keys"
"The Alster Case"
"The White Sister"
"The Crimson Wing"
"The Slim Princess"
"A Daughter Of The City"
"The Blindness Of Virtue"
"In The Palace Of The King"

Book Essanay's Great Multiple Reel Features

Trademark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT

"CAPTAIN JINKS OF THE HORSE MARINES" IN 5 ACTS

ANN MURDOCK

RICHARD C. TRAVERS

ANN MURDOCK AND RICHARD C. TRAVERS

are presented in Clyde Fitch's fantastic comedy, which made such a wonderful stage success. The photoplay is filled with genuine, sparkling humor and comic situations. Arranged and directed by Fred E. Wright.

TRADE MARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

JAN -6 1916
©CLB353681

"When You See it in 'The News' It's NEWS"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
427 SO. FIGUEROA STREET

NEW YORK CITY
TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY WEST FORTY-SECOND STREET

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
110 SO. DEARBORN STREET

Volume XIII JANUARY 15, 1916 No. 2

Just a Good Story

THE other evening I saw a feature picture which held me spellbound from beginning to end.

Perhaps this effect was heightened by the fact that the feature was preceded by two utterly inane pictures —not strikingly inane, but simply of the kind to be expected from our grist and grind of two hundred and thirty reels per week.

But to analyse the feature.

* * *

THE acting was excellent; the work of the star, because of some kind of inspiration, seemed to exceed greatly his best efforts upon the spoken stage. The photography —of course—was excellent.

Acting and photography are highly important essentials of the better picture, but neither excelled to the degree in which the picture was remarkable. There must have been some other element that stamped the picture as extraordinary. And so there was.

It was the story.

The picture actually contained a story. Not a big story. Not a story that carried a great thought nor pointed a great moral. Not a classic. But just a corking good story.

* * *

JUST a story like we expect to find in our favorite magazine and failing to find which we transfer the same faith to some other. Just the kind of good story the magazine editor looks for and gets—in order to maintain his magazine's circulation.

And the particular achievement of the picture was this: That from the screen was unfolded, step by step, a narrative shown as subtly, told as absorbingly, detailed as finely as type could express it. More than this, the story was more vividly, more effectively, more satisfactorily told.

* * *

THE picture proved this important accomplishment to be possible. You sat with tense interest through every moment of it. It proved that the screen can tell a story better than cold type, and without recourse to stage traditions or to the strained effects of photography.

There was not a spectacle in it—not even a burning house. There was no sex appeal; no sensationalism; nothing morbid. Nothing of this sort was needed, infact —because the story was so good.

* * *

ITS other refreshing quality was the absence of the old, hackneyed "business" of the stage—which the stage, by the way, the stage of today shouldn't be blamed for since it has ceased to indulge in such obvious tricks. There's scarcely a "tank town" but would hoot at them. We have them in pictures unfortunately because they are transplanted by directors who can no longer get jobs for doing them on the stage.

In this picture the acting was screen acting, just as the story was a screen story. Like the story the acting relied upon nothing save the new and wonderfully expressive opportunities afforded by motion photography.

The characters made themselves felt; they went about their business as such characters would in real life.

* * *

I WAS interested enough to find out how the story was obtained.

It was the work of three men: a director who takes his work seriously and who evidently regards the motion picture not as a beaten path but as a new art worth working for; a newspaper man who knows how to set forth a story; and a studio manager, who has a grip upon his craft from every angle.

Let us credit equally the efforts of all three. The point is that each has an abiding belief that the story is the first essential to a successful picture.

* * *

"AND, thank heavens!" added the newspaper man, "we had time to work it out. It takes time and we took it. First we made the skeleton of the story and then filled in every detail. Every bit of it was finished before we attempted production."

Which preparation is essential to any picture with a good story. You cannot expect much from a story which is written overnight, because the salary of an expensive star begins the following morning; nor from the story of a picture rushed along to catch a release; nor from a picture padded out to make footage.

These fatal mistakes have been made partly because the story has been considered inconsequential and partly because of too hasty organization and a good deal of insincere production.

* * *

NOW that feature production and distribution is so much more organized there should be far fewer pictures without a real story. There will be no such pictures if every producer sees the motion picture for what it really is.

It is not a cheap amendment device; it is not a substitute for the stage; it is not a matter of junk to be merchandized by the foot, like so much ribbon; it is not the plaything of the business adventurer.

* * *

IT is a brand new way to tell stories and facts to the millions. It is a new and very vital art. It asks for new genius, new effort. Its appeal is that it be studied by itself and for itself, that it be evolved from within and not by the wornout tricks of other trades.

It asks for just what the picture I saw was given—a screen story and screen acting. WM. A. JOHNSTON.

Copyright, 1916, by Exhibitors' Times, Inc.

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
MOTION PICTURE NEWS EXHIBITORS' TIMES
Published on Tuesday Every Week by

EXHIBITORS' TIMES, Inc.

WILLIAM A. JOHNSTON.....President and Editor
HENRY F. SEWALL.....Vice-President
E. KENDALL GILLETT.....Secretary
H. ASHTON WYCKOFF.....Treasurer and Business Manager
WENTWORTH TUCKER.....Asst. Treasurer
R. M. VANDIVERT.....Advertising Manager
THEODORE S. MEAD.....Chicago Manager
J. C. JESSEN.....Los Angeles Manager
LESLEY MASON.....Managing Editor
WILLIAM RESSMAN ANDREWS.....News Editor

This publication is owned and published by Exhibitors' Times, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York. The offices and principal place of business are at 220 West 42d Street, New York City. The address of the officers is the office of the publication.

Entered as Second-Class matter at the New York Post-Office.

Subscription $2 per year, postpaid in the United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands. Canada, $3; Foreign, $4 per year. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for MOTION PICTURE NEWS at less than these rates. Have the agent taking your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

Vol. XIII January 15, 1916 No. 2

A Scenario Copyright Law—The Right Kind of Legislation

ANY line of business wants but little legislation here below, but what little it does get should be of the right kind.

Superfluous and prejudicial legislation has been aimed right and left at the motion picture for the past few years, but the amendments to the copyright law of the United States, embodied in the measure just introduced into Congress by Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, will correct a condition that has become highly aggravated in this business, and they will be heartily welcomed by every producer of reputation.

* * *

THIS is an example of the right sort of legislation—as good an example of that kind of law-making as censorship is of the wrong kind.

There never was any reason, real or imaginary, why a motion picture script should not enjoy the same protection that a book, a story, a drama, or any other work of art enjoyed.

But at the time the copyright law was passed, motion pictures were unknown, and when it was amended, the entire business was in so crude and formless a state that the amendment was drawn to apply to nothing but finished productions, and it was allowed to go through in that state.

* * *

PROBABLY no one then took the trouble to consider the possible importance or dignity of the scenario writer, or considered the story as anything more than an excuse for making a motion picture.

Those were the days when pictures were a novelty, when nobody expected anything of them but the illusion of motion, like the story of the dog who walked on his hind legs. There was no expectation that it would be done well. The wonder was that it could be done at all.

* * *

TO say that a revolution has taken place since then is a mild statement. The motion picture has ceased to be a novelty and has become an art. The screen is no longer a crowd-collecting device. It is recognized as a story-telling medium equal in its breadth and variety to the stage or the printed page. And the writer of screen stories is now admitted to be eligible to the title of "author," just as much as the novelist or the dramatist.

That is the fundamental significance of the scenario copyright amendments.

* * *

EQUALLY important, though of course much more obvious, is the fact that this amendment will bring the script thieves, the story pirates and the screen plagiarists up with a round turn. The real disgrace of the motion picture business has not been, as the reformers believe, the alleged immorality of scenes or stories put upon the market. It has been the total defenselessness of the author—and with him, the reputable producer—against the predatory instincts and practices of the light-fingered who would not admit that the property laws extended to the story and the script.

* * *

THIS, among other things, has been responsible for keeping many an able and gifted author from entering a field which offered him everything but the protection to which he had been accustomed elsewhere.

It may be a sad commentary upon human nature that laws are necessary to curb and eradicate such practices. But that they are thus essential nobody will deny.

* * *

AND the solid motion picture industry should line up behind the measure in Congress to see that it goes through for the benefit of that element of the picture which is coming to be recognized as the supreme and all-important factor in its success—the story.

The Pulse of the Industry

AS another example of the comprehensive service afforded its readers, MOTION PICTURE NEWS calls especial attention to the columns of "Corporation Statistics," printed each week at the end of "Tabloid Reviews."

These statistics are gathered from every State capital in the country by the Corporation Trust Company, 15 Exchange Place, Newark, N. J. They are authoritative in every sense of the word, and, in their entirety, constitute a finger on the pulse of the industry. New incorporations, changes in capital stock, dissolutions and other facts are noted.

NEWS readers, by referring to this department each week, can gain information useful to them in a business way. Tabulated in convenient form, it is also a guide to the financial health of the fifth industry in the nation.

Mr. Lindsay and the Motion Picture

IN his book, "The Art of the Moving Picture," published by the Macmillan Company, New York, Vachel Lindsay offers a striking interpretation of the motion picture's artistic mission, and its place in social progress.

The book is primarily for the picture goer. Mr. Lindsay assumes the role of critic and seer, and assumes it well. Some of his comments on specific pictures are extraordinarily illuminating. Many of his prophesies are captivating.

He writes out of a positive enthusiasm for the future of the screen. He understands well its peculiar domain.

Lawful Regulation Versus Lawless Censorship: A Solution of the Congressional Crisis

A Simple Amendment to the Federal Penal Code Will Cure the Evils Censorship Professes to Attack, and Will Place the Interests of the Industry Under Court Protection, Thus Saving It From the Operations of Irresponsible, Inefficient Censors — Motion Picture News Presents Its Plan in Detail.

A CRITICAL moment in the history of the motion picture business is at hand—the moment when, once and for all, this question must be answered:

"Shall there be a country-wide Federal censorship of motion pictures, or can the business rid itself of the incubus?"

* * *

THAT question is now before the business, and before the legislative branch of the Federal government, in the form of the measure introduced into the House of Representatives by Congressman Hughes, of Georgia, and into the Senate by Senator Hoke Smith, providing a Federal Motion Picture Commission to be a branch of the Bureau of Education in the Department of the Interior.

A public hearing will undoubtedly be granted by the Committee on Education, to which the bill has been referred.

In the result of that hearing the men of the motion picture business can and should have an influential hand.

* * *

WHAT does the present attitude of Congress toward the motion picture industry mean?

We take it to be, obviously, this: that Congress has raised in its mind the question, whether the motion picture business should not be subjected to Federal regulation, and that the opponents of the motion picture have seized the opportunity to offer censorship to Congress as the form of regulation to be adopted.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS does not believe that Congress is primarily, or secondarily, convinced that censorship and nothing else will meet the picture problem. But it does believe that regulation of SOME kind will be demanded and put through.

* * *

AND to select and demand the justest and the least burdensome of regulation is not only the privilege of the motion picture business men, but their duty.

In other words, Congress will consider a substitute for censorship, but it will not altogether abandon the idea that the motion picture should and must submit to Federal regulation, as the other great businesses of the country have submitted.

Right there lies the opportunity of the motion picture to save itself from censorship.

* * *

ANY constitutional lawyer will tell you that the Federal Government can only exercise control over any business in its national, or interstate aspects. Every other phase of business, as of life, is subject only to regulation by the several states.

Consequently, it is upon their operation as factors in the trade and commerce between the various states that the Federal Government has based its regulation of other forms of business. And it is as articles of interstate commerce that the Government aims to regulate motion picture films.

* * *

BUT why should a special mode of regulation, taking the form of censorship, be forced upon the motion picture?

There is already in existence a system of regulation for interstate commerce which has been tried, tested and proven. It has been found just and valid in the courts. It has demonstrated its efficiency from the standpoint of the Government.

If the motion picture must be subjected to regulation, why should it not, at least, be granted the privilege of being regulated in the same manner as are other forms of business?

* * *

HAD the existing mode of regulation been outgrown, or been found inadequate, Congress would then be justified in resorting to new methods. But the facts all testify to the effectiveness and adequacy of the present means of Federal control.

Because inquiry and investigation has established the truth of the foregoing statements, MOTION PICTURE NEWS offers the course of action which is outlined below to the motion picture industry as a course which can successfully be pursued in the present crisis at Washington, and which will be productive of the most favorable results which can be obtained.

* * *

SECTION 245 of the Federal Penal Code is as follows: "Whoever shall bring, or cause to be brought into the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, from any foreign country, or shall therein knowingly deposit or cause to be deposited with any express company or other common carrier for carriage from one state, territory, or district of the United States or place non-contiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, to any other state, territory or district of the United States or place non-contiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or from any place in or subject to the jurisdiction of the United States through any foreign country to any place in or subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or from any place in or subject to the jurisdiction of the United States to any foregn country, any obscene, lewd or lascivious, or any filthy book, pamphlet, picture, paper, letter, writing, print, or any other matter or indecent character . . . or whoever shall knowingly take or cause to be taken from such express company or other common carrier any matter or thing, the depositing of which for carriage is herein made unlawful, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both."

* * *

THE act is a complete parallel of Section 211, which forbids the sending of matter of a similar character through the mails.

As it stands, at least one of its provisions could be interpreted to cover any such case that might arise in connection with motion pictures.

To make assurance doubly sure, however, and to set at rest the doubting and the uncertain who need more explicit protection, an amendment of Section 245, inserting the words "motion picture film or print" before the phrase "or any other matter of indecent character," will specifically render this business subject to all the provisions and penalties of the act.

THIS law is aimed at precisely the same conditions that censorship professes to correct.

But it leaves the enforcement of its provisions to the courts, where it belongs, and not to an irresponsible body of men, who are not required to have—and therefore usually will not have—the necessary ability, training and experience to render decisions just and accurate in accordance with the facts.

Under Section 245, amended as MOTION PICTURE NEWS recommends, any dispute between the people and a producer is referred at once to a regularly constituted judge, whose business and ability it is to comprehend facts and their significance, weigh evidence, and interpret the law as he knows its meaning to be.

* * *

THAT the motion picture manufacturer will enjoy due process of law, and his full rights before the courts; that his case will be tried in accordance with the accepted principles of judicial procedure, and his own pleadings be entertained at their full value—this is what such a form of regulation guarantees, and this is just what censorship denies.

* * *

TO say that censorship is un-American and undemocratic is a statement that, unsupported by facts and reasons, has no weight at all with a Congressional lawyer.

But the reasons we have just enumerated are the real reasons why censorship is un-American; why it is at variance with the principles of common law; why the courts will, we are firmly convinced, finally declare it to be unconstitutional.

This is not the first occasion MOTION PICTURE NEWS has taken to point out this fundamental, inalienable weakness of censorship as a method of State control.

* * *

IN the issue of May 16, 1914, under the caption "An Insult and an Injustice," we made this indictment of censorship:

"Consider what censorship means.

"The law forbids the exhibiton of immoral, obscene or harmful pictures.

"The motion picture censor's attitude of mind is that every picture that every manufacturer makes is immoral, obscene or harmful until the contrary is proven.

"And he forces the manufacturer to produce every picture before him and prove that it is not harmful, immoral or obscene.

"That is to say, the manufacturer is forced to prove that he is innocent before there is any evidence against him to show that he is guilty!

* * *

"SUCH censorship overthrows the fundamental unwritten statute of American law, which holds that a man is innocent, in the eyes of the law, until he is proven guilty. . . . The producer very soon finds that he is before a drum-head tribunal. The censor is prosecutor, judge and jury, all in one. The producer has no counsel. He can offer no witnesses. He cannot take the stand in his own behalf.

"His judges are controlled by neither precedent nor law.

"They act under a statute which empowers them to make law out of their own prejudices.

* * *

"IMAGINE a system of justice under which every business man was compelled to come into court, before entering upon any transaction, and pay the costs of a proceeding to prove that he was guiltless of any illegal intent, on a purely arbitrary summons, unsupported by a shred of evidence!

"That is what censorship by statute does to the motion picture producer."

* * *

THE proposition that we have here outlined will be laid before the Board of Trade for its consideration. It does not in any sense involve the abandonment of the fight against a censorship law. Rather it makes the need of it more imperative. It merely provides a tangible substitute, which can be supported with reasons and arguments that will appeal to the Congressional mind, because they have a legal weight and force, which the lawyers of Congress cannot fail to appreciate.

In such a policy as this, consistently and practically pursued, MOTION PICTURE NEWS believes the salvation of the motion picture from censorship lies.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew with Metro for Comedies

Comedian to Produce One-Reel Subjects in the Vein for Which He Has Already Become Well Known on the Screen

THE Metro Pictures Corporation announces that Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew have joined the Metro family of screen stars. Mr. Drew will produce one reel subjects on the Metro program.

The coming of Mr. and Mrs. Drew to the Metro forces marks the fourth addition of the Barrymore-Drew family now under long contract with Metro, the others being Ethel Barrymore, and her brother, Lionel.

The new Drew comedies, one of which will be presented each week, will be of distinctive type in which Mr. Drew has become well known. They will be high class comedies, not farces or burlesques, it is announced.

The contract covers a period of years, and calls in its first provision, for a series of fifty two comedies. The first release is scheduled for the final week in February. There will be one comedy each week thereafter one reel in length, and Mr. and Mrs. Drew will be starred in each feature. Metro will surround these two stars with an exceptionally strong supporting cast, it is announced.

The new releases, which were hinted at in announcement made by Metro later in November, will be called Metro-Drew comedies.

Mr. Drew will begin production within the next few days, as soon as a company of players can be engaged. The comedies will be made in one section of the Sixty-first street studio, where Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., and the Columbia Pictures Corporation are now producing Metro pictures. Mr. Drew now has in hand the first group of ten comedies, which were made from original stories, and are ready for production. Metro promises a specific announcement regarding these comedies and the personnel of Mr. Drew's supporting cast, at an early date.

Mr. Drew was well known on the American stage, before he went into motion pictures. He has appeared abroad more than any other member of the Barrymore-Drew clan, and is a favorite in England, Australia, South Africa, and other foreign lands, where his new Metro comedies will be presented. He was at the head of theatrical enterprises abroad for many years, as well as in his native land. He was the first to give Ethel and Lionel Barrymore a position on the stage, and they received their early training under the personal direction of their uncle.

STAGE STARS FOR "BLUE BIRD" MUST HAVE SCREEN EXPERIENCE

Stars and near stars of the legitimate stage who have never appeared in motion pictures, or who have failed to impress the exhibitors and photoplay patrons with their work, need never apply for engagements at the office of Blue Bird Photo Plays, Inc.

This is the gist of a statement issued by the officials of that organization the other day. In line with the company's policy to guarantee the quality and drawing power of its features, no player who has failed to come up to the exhibitors' attraction standard will ever be engaged, according to the statement.

It is expected that the executive of of the new organization will be ready for occupancy on or about January 1. These offices are on the seventh floor of Mecca Building, in the quarters now occupied by the V-L-S-E, at 1600 Broadway, New York City.

Biggest Americans Greet Nation Through "U" Weekly

Universal Issues Special New Year Edition of the "Animated," a Reel Entitled "The Spirit of 1916." Comprising Good Will Messages From Men in the Public Eye to the American People, Headed by President Wilson, Secretary of State Lansing and Other Members of the Cabinet

AS a special New Year edition of its Animated Weekly, the Universal Film Manufacturing Company is releasing a reel entitled "The Spirit of 1916," containing messages of good will from the biggest men in public life to the people of the United States.

It was President Laemmle's idea that the Universal should act as spokesman for men of international importance in expressing their views for prosperity during the coming year. Accordingly he sent personal messages to them, requesting that they send him in return messages which the Animated Weekly could convey to the people.

They responded readily. In addition to a message which President Wilson sent, Mr. Laemmle also received a personal letter from the President, wishing Mr. Laemmle "the greatest success with the idea."

Some of the messages follow:

"Hot Springs, Va., Dec. 30.

"Mr. Carl Laemmle,

"President Universal Film Manufacturing Company,

"1600 Broadway, N. Y.

"I sincerely join with my fellow citizens in praying that God may grant unto us during the year 1916 the blessings of abundant and rewarding prosperity and that he may give us as a nation the guidance we need in playing the very difficult role we are now endeavoring to play amidst the confused affairs of a world dominated by war.

"In maintaining our position as the foremost neutral nation in the world we must not only guide our government wisely but must ourselves as individual citizens, seek to attain that high standard of individual justice and probity which has been the ideal of the nation from the day of its independence.

"God grant that the American people may continue to enjoy peace and that they may presently see its blessings return to all the other nations of the world. I wish you all a very Happy New Year.

"WOODROW WILSON."

"On behalf of Great Britain, I wish to convey to the people of the United States best wishes for a Happy New Year and may the prosperity of the country be of long duration.

"SIR CECIL SPRING-RICE,
"British Embassy, Washington, D. C."

"I desire to convey my felicitations to the people of the United States for a happy and prosperous New Year.

"J. VON BERNSTORFF,
"German Embassy, Washington, D. C."

"The optimism of America is justified by business conditions. This has been a happy Christmas and we enter the New Year with the confidence that it holds in store larger opportunities and more generally diffused prosperity than any previous year in the history of our country.

"Better wages and shorter hours is the concrete expression that increased wealth is to be distributed. I have just signed an order increasing the wages of most of the twenty-five thousand employees in the Navy Yards beginning January 1. My Christmas greeting is 'grow old along with me; the best is yet to be.'

"JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
"Secretary of the Navy."

"May our Republic, at peace with itself, lead the nations of earth in peace and preparedness, so that peace may abide among all the people and faiths and races on earth, through the good will and brotherliness of man.

"RABBI STEPHEN S. WISE."

"The year 1915 has witnessed a conflict unparalleled in history, whether measured by numbers engaged, by destructiveness of implements employed or by cost in life and treasure. Our nation has wisely maintained neutral neutrality and refused to be drawn into the war.

"Our first duty during the coming year is to remain the leader of the neutral nations so that we may as a friend of all the belligerents exert the largest possible influence in bringing the warring nations to an honorable and permanent peace.

"May the horrors of the present struggle hasten the day when throughout the world reason will be substituted for force in the settlement of disputes between nations.

"WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN."

"Good will means peace as we in America know peace; it also means prosperity. Therefore, let us send a message of good will to the uttermost parts of the earth.

"ALBERT S. BURLESON,
"Postmaster-General."

"The people of the United States have no hatred in their hearts, for they are without fear. They have no envy, for no one can add to their wealth. They wish an undisturbed opportunity to prove that a democracy opens a wider door to individual happiness than any other form of government.

"FRANKLIN K. LANE,
"Secretary of Interior."

"You may express my earnest hope for the people of our country that their New Year shall be prosperous, full of fruits of peace and industry, and that our vision may be broad, our courage high, our hands skillful and our hearts generous.

"WILLIAM C. REDFIELD,
"Secretary of Commerce."

"God grant that the American people may continue to enjoy the inestimable blessings of peace and prosperity during the New Year; that the soul of the nation may always be exalted above material resources; that patriotism may never die; that love of country may always transcend personal interest; that peace may be restored to stricken Europe; that the American people may have a noble part in this restoration and that they may always be foremost in helping the distressed and in useful service to humanity.

"WILLIAM G. McADOO,
"Secretary of the Treasury."

"The Empire State, having shared with the other States of the Union the prosperity of the past year, shares with them now in the hope that the coming year may bring prosperity to all and peace on earth.

"CHARLES S. WHITMAN,
"Governor of the State of New York."

"In a democracy such as ours the officials are the servants of the people, while in an autocracy they are the masters. President Cleveland expressed our system in his graphical way when he made the statement 'that a public office is a public trust,' which was still more graphically stated by President Roosevelt in his expression 'a square deal,' which means equal rights for the little man as well as for the big man, for the individual no less than for the great corporations.

"OSCAR S. STRAUS,
"Public Service Commissioner,
"City of New York."

"I believe that the year 1916 in the United States will be the most prosperous year that any country has ever experienced in the history of the world. Let us pray and work to the end that this condition may not be a temporary but an abiding one and that peace and industry may bring us happiness. In the words of Tiny Tim 'God bless us everyone.'

"CHAMP CLARK,
"Speaker of the House of Representatives."

"May the blessings of liberty and justice, peace and prosperity spread their benign influence throughout the world during the coming year.

"W. B. WILSON,
"Secretary of Labor."

"The optimism of the people of this city and the country generally is justified by business conditions. The year that is nearing an end has been one of the most prosperous in the country's history, and we have every reason to be happy over the outlook. I heartily congratulate the Animated Weekly on its good will edition.

"JOHN PURROY MITCHEL,
"Mayor, New York City."

"My New Year's wish is that the people of our own and of every other land should realize that nothing is right unless right and justice prevail. That all personal effort and all national effort should be exerted for that purpose and that no personal sacrifice or national sacrifice is too great to achieve that end.

"LINDLEY M. GARRISON,
"Secretary of War."

CONSTANCE COLLIER FILM NEXT MOROSCO-PARAMOUNT

In its next offering to Paramount patrons, the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company presents, for the first time in films, Constance Collier, in "The Tongues of Men," taken from the stage success of the same name, which was presented for the first time in New York in October, 1913, with Henrietta Crosman in the leading role. A spectacular interest is included in this screen play, it is announced, through the filming of the grand opera scenes in a real metropolitan playhouse, the Morosco, at Los Angeles.

Supporting Miss Collier, Oliver Morosco has selected a cast headed by Forrest Stanley, as Rev. Penfield Sturgis, who denounces from the pulpit the grand opera "Zaporah" and its prima donna, notwithstanding the fact that he has never witnessed the performance. Other important roles are entrusted to Herbert Standing, Lamar Johnstone, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Helen Eddy, and Elizabeth Burbridge. Frank Lloyd staged the latest Morosco offering. "The Tongues of Men" will be released on the Paramount program January 6.

ESSANAY EXHIBITS DANCERS IN PICTURE JUST TAKEN

The big scene of an Essanay picture, directed by L. C. Windom and acted by Ruth Stonehouse and Richard C. Travers, in the featured roles, was made on the floor of the Hotel Sherman ballroom, Chicago, the other night, rushed to the studio, brought back, finished and shown in two hours to the crowd which had witnessed the filming. It was Essanay's offering to the Chicago Examiner's "Movie Night," a Christmas charity.

One section of the floor had been set aside for the occasion. Heavy arc lights had been placed in an interior set by carpenters, electricians, and property men during the afternoon.

When the scene was finished, the film was sent by automobile to the studio, developed there, and rushed back. Then more than 1,000 people saw the completed picture of the scene they had watched being taken.

NOTED JAPANESE FINANCIER VISITS UNIVERSAL CITY

One of the recent distinguished visitors at Universal City was none other than Baron Eiichi Shibusawa, Nippon's leading financier and known as the "Rockefeller of Japan."

He was accompanied by other Japanese notables who were entertained by Vice President and General Manager H. O. Davis. George Shima, millionaire Japanese potato king of California and Koyama, Vice-Consul at Los Angeles accompanied the party, which later was feasted by the Chamber of Commerce.

CHATTANOOGA THEATRES FILE BANKRUPTCY PETITION

A voluntary petiton in bankruptcy has been filed in the federal court at Chattanooga, Tenn., by the Mountain City Amusement Company. The Theato, Alhambra, Colonial and Crescent motion pictures are operated by this company, Howell Graham being the general manager.

Assets are claimed to the value of $32,816.50, while the liabilities are scheduled at $13,923.66. Of the liabilities the amount of $8,141.01 is on notes.

Under the head of assets it is set forth that $6,000 is for stock in the Southern Amusement Company, of Birmingham, Ala., and $26,816.50 is the value of equipment of the Theato, Colonial, Alhambra and Crescent theatres.

Included in the list of creditors are the General Film Company, Mutual Film Corporation and Pathé.

JUNE ELVIDGE SOON TO BE A STAR FOR WORLD

June Elvidge, of World Film, after only six months' experience before the camera, is soon to be featured in a five-part society drama.

Miss Elvidge joined the World Film stock company at Fort Lee, N. J., last June, after two years at the Winter Garden, and made her film debut in "The Lure of Woman." Then came a better part in "The Butterfly on the Wheel," and a still better one in "The Sins of Society."

JUNE ELVIDGE

Now she is sharing the leading role with Frances Nelson in the World Film's production, "The Point of View." She will shortly be advanced to stardom.

CARLETON AND BOSWORTH IN ARIZONA FOR "YAQUI"

Lloyd Carleton and Hobart Bosworth are still in Tempo, Ariz., where they went last week to make exterior scenes in the production of a five reel film version of Coolidge's story, "The Yaqui."

KULP TO GO INTO BUSINESS FOR HIMSELF

W. W. Kulp, manager of the Cleveland branch of the Fox Film Corporation, has resigned. He plans to go into business.

HAVLIN COMPANY TO MAKE PICTURES IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Dec. 31.

Havlin Photoplays, Inc., is a new firm lately organized in St. Louis with the object of producing motion pictures. Stewart Havlin, one of the promoters, was formerly connected with a producing company in Los Angeles, and in organizing the new company has secured the backing of the Business Men's League of St. Louis, which body has assisted materially in interesting St. Louisans in the project, and in procuring the site for a studio.

A capital stock of $150,000 has been subscribed, and work will probably be started about December 1. The company will file articles of incorporation in the state of Missouri.

PHILLIPS, EDISON ACTOR, MARRIED

There had been rumors from time to time, as rumors go, that Augustus Phillips, Edison, has deserted the role of benedict, but he had denied it as quickly and vehemently.

But when, last week, Phillips appeared at the studio with a broad smile which was altogether too fatherly for the heavy parts he's been doing lately, Director John H. Collins forced him into a corner and Augustus was seemingly greatly relieved when he got out, "Yes, and he's an eight-pounder!"

Augustus looked particularly gleeful when he announced that the young actor looked just like his dad.

PEORIA, ILL., HEADQUARTERS FOR BARKER-SWAN FILM

The Barker-Swan Film Company, of Chicago, will open their studio, plant and general offices in Peoria, Ill. The company already has contracted for a studio building, which is to be 66 by 100 feet, two stories high and will cost about $50,000. Edwin L. Barker, president, is in Peoria directing the building work.

Cameramen of the company are pleased with scenic effects in Peoria, and believe that scenes for all kinds of pictures can be secured there. All films to be turned out will bear the legend, "Made in Peoria."

EDITH STOREY CAST FOR WEBB COMEDY, VITAGRAPH

Edith Storey, Antonio Moreno, Rose Tapley and George Stevens are working in a one-part comedy written by Kenneth S. Webb and being produced for the Vitagraph Company under the direction of George D. Baker, who directed the action of such well-known Blue Ribbon Features as "A Price for Folly," "A Night Out," and "The Dust of Egypt."

CEBU, P. I., TURNS OUT FOR PICTURES

Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Cebu, P. I., Dec. 16.

The Empire theatre, which has recently been reopened here, is being well patronized. Films from the best firms are shown. The theatre itself is regarded as the handsomest in Cebu.

Treatment, Not Source, Makes a Good Photodrama

"It Makes No Difference Whether a Play or a Novel Is Adopted, or Whether the Subject Produced Is an Original Scenario Prepared Especially for the Screen," Says Zukor, "There Is Only One Important Point —Has the Finished Product Screen Value?"

THERE is no question of more vital importance to the motion picture industry than the very old, but ever new, one—what does the public want? The subject is constantly before the exhibitor and the producer, and it is one which is always open to a difference of opinion.

The average exhibitor bases his knowledge of the public upon his personal experience, which must of necessity be circumscribed and limited in its local extent.

Therefore his views must be considered as referring to his individual community rather than to the public as a whole.

The producer, on the other hand, must attempt to strike a general average in his films which will approximate the desires of the largest number of persons.

Therefore the opinion of a man who was one of the first owners of motion picture theatres in the country and is at the same time the organizer of the pioneer feature film producing company, is of peculiar interest at this time.

The comprehensive knowledge of the situation which arises from this position gives particular force to the opinion of Adolph Zukor, in whom is vested this dual interest.

Zukor a Pioneer Exhibitor

Though it is not generally known, in addition to being the founder and president of the Famous Players Film Company, Mr. Zukor is also a pioneer exhibitor, as he was one of the first exhibitors in New York City and also owned one of the first chains of photoplay theatres ever formed.

"There is just one way of determining what the public wants," declares Mr. Zukor, "and that is to take the consensus of opinion of as many exhibitors in the country as possible.

"This opinion should be based solely upon the actual record of the results obtained by showing various types of film in their respective theatres.

"It is in accordance with this view that the Famous Player Company receives from the Paramount Pictures Corporation, its releasing medium, weekly reports on every feature that is produced.

"This report covers every section of the country and a similar index extends to the foreign nations as well. From a careful study of its averages, it is simple for the producer to determine exactly what kind of films are well received and those of inferior popularity.

"There is no more effective method devisable for the obtaining of accurate and detailed information of a really comprehensive nature. No one exhibitor, however judicious or well informed, can ever draw proper conclusions from his own limited field of observation.

One-Man Observation Insufficient

"The producer who attempts to determine on his own initiative just what the public wants, or who attempts to force the public to want what he thinks that it ought to want, is predestined to come to grief.

"That the frankly suggestive film is a detriment to the industry as a whole there can be positively no question, inasmuch as it spurs the censors to increased activity and gives the agitators for censorship grounds upon which to base their arguments.

"Our records show that clean comedies and the powerful dramas of the better sort are the supreme favorites today. The lasting success of films of this type and the heavy demands for the appearance of the stars in them proves beyond doubt that the public today is getting what it wants.

"Any new attempt to gauge 'what the public wants' by different standards than those of the country-wide reports on the successes of the immediate past and of the present is doomed to failure.

"Individual reports are also made on the productions grouping them according to the star which appears in them. In this way we are enabled to keep strict account of the popularity of Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clark, Pauline Frederick, Hazel Dawn, and John Barrymore, and to see at a glance in what type of play they are best received.

Swinging of Dramatic Pendulum

"The constant tendency of our popularity pendulum to swing toward the stronger dramatic plays and toward the lighter comedies has determined our policy for the coming year.

"So far as the source of material is concerned, experience has shown that to be of no importance whatever. It makes no difference whether a play or a novel is being adapted, or whether the subject which is being produced is an original scenario prepared especially for the screen. There is just one point of importance—has the finished product real screen value; is it a good photoplay?"

Bay State Exhibitors Meet to Safeguard Industry

Massachusetts Exhibitors at January 11 Meeting Will Lay Plans to Defeat Hostile Measures Which Will Be Proposed in Legislature

Special to Motion Picture News

Boston, Jan. 1.

AN important meeting of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of Massachusetts will be held on January 11.

New officers will be elected and there will be a discussion of whatever action seems necessary to be taken to safeguard the industry in the Bay State against the numerous motion picture bills which will be sent to the coming session of the general assembly.

In connection with the election of officers it can be stated that Ernest H. Hortzman, president of the league, will not stand for re-election. Mr. Hortzman's regime has been most beneficial for the organization.

Under his leadership membership in the league has steadily increased and the financial condition of it has improved so that now the organization is entirely out of debt.

At all times the president has been ready to serve the league in every way within his power. It goes without saying that he could have another term for the asking.

But he feels that he has served long enough, that some one else should now shoulder the responsibility of the place. Hence he will not consider a renomination.

Hortzman Energetic in Ball Promotion

The recent motion picture ball was one proof of what Mr. Hortzman and those who worked around him have done to further the interests of the league.

The class of guests from other cities, from the studios and officers of the big producers, surpassed those who usually attend such balls. Anybody who had ever been to the best film ball the country ever offered anywhere, and then came to the last Boston ball, will admit that the Massachusetts exhibitors lead all and follow none in this event.

And the success of this ball was due to a large extent to the untiring efforts of Mr. Hortzman.

No definite plans have yet been laid for fighting the various bills for censorship and other matters connected with the film industry.

It is understood, however, that the bill which will be most strenuously pushed in the legislature, will rule that no film can be shown for more than thirty minutes without an intermission of five minutes.

The sponsors of the measure believe that concentration of the eye on a film for more than half an hour is injurious to the sight. If passed, this measure would bar or at least split up most of the big feature films shown in the Bay State, and without doubt the league will be ready to fight the measure when it puts in its appearance.

Leslie H. Allen.

HERALDS FOR "FORBIDDEN FRUIT" ARE ALLEGORICAL IN DESIGN

The publicity department of the Ivan Film Productions has turned out something somewhat different in the quality and appearance of heralds as an aid to the exchanges throughout the country, exploiting the regular monthly Ivan releases.

For the January release, "Forbidden Fruit," special allegorical drawings were made depicting the Garden of Eden and its first inhabitants. These illumine the outside cover of the folder and the snake and fruit device is used on the inside to frame pictures of the cast and scenes from the play.

Printed in several colors, this herald has created a great deal of most favorable comment among exhibitors who have examined it and studied its contents.

BRONSON-HOWARD JOINS LASKY SCENARIO STAFF

George Bronson-Howard, one of the best known writers in America, whose most recent book, "God's Man," is breaking all records, left New York this week to join the literary and photodramatic staff of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, making his headquarters in the future at the Lasky studios at Hollywood, California.

Bronson-Howard is the author of a number of novels and plays, of which "Snobs" was one. It had a long run on Broadway and subsequently appeared on tour for several seasons.

It has since been picturized by the Lasky Company, with Victor Moore as the star, Bronson-Howard, who is still a young man, will devote himself exclusively in his writing for the screen to photoplays for the Lasky Company.

ETHEL TEARE CAST FOR LEAD IN NEW KALEM COMPANY

Special to Motion Picture News

Los Angeles, Dec. 31.

A new comedy company has been formed at the Hollywood Kalem studio which will feature Ethel Teare, who for the past year and a half has been leading woman with the Ham and Bud comedy company.

The new company will produce light comedies in one reel. Porter Strong will be the leading man opposite Miss Teare, and L. S. Gottschalk is in charge of the direction.

PARAGON STUDIO COMPLETED THIS WEEK

The new Paragon studio and its adjoining printing plant at Fort Lee, N. J., will be completed this week. It is the largest studio in the East and the most modern in every detail.

Director Frank Crane and the Kitty Gordon company are already using the new glass building and three more World Film organizations will be working there in another week or two.

ASSOCIATED OFFERS REWARD FOR RETURN OF STOLEN REELS

The Associated Film Sales Corporation wishes to announce that four reels have mysteriously disappeared from their office, "The Woman He Married," two reels; "Beyond the Trail," one reel; "Fatty's Nightmare," one reel.

A liberal reward will be given for their return or for information leading to the apprehension of the guilty parties.

HORNE BEGINS WORK ON FIRST "LOVE PIRATE" EPISODE

Special to Motion Picture News

Los Angeles, Dec. 31.

James Horne, director of the Glendale Kalem studio, is now filming the first episode of the new series, "The Love Pirate," featuring Marin Sais and Ollie Kirkby.

Miss Kirkby will be remembered by her work in "The Mysteries of the Grand Hotel" series.

Bill in Senate for Better Scenario Copyright Law

Amendments to Present Statute Are Intended for Protection to Authors Without Deposit in Congressional Library of Story Printed in Book Form

Special to Motion Picture News

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.

AUTHORS of scenarios will be enabled to secure the protection afforded by the copyright laws for their works if the bill (S. 2740) recently introduced into the Senate by Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, which has been read twice and referred to the Committee on the Library, becomes a law.

The bill provides for an amendment of the several sections of the existing law which would make an opening for the inclusion of scenarios. Section 5 of the law, providing that the application for registration shall specify to which of the classes of work named therein in which copyright is claimed belongs, has had added to it in this bill class "(n) Scenarios."

Section 9 is to be amended to read as follows: "Sec. 9. That any person entitled thereto by this Act, may secure copyright for his work by publication thereof with the notice of copyright required by this Act:

"Provided, however, that any person entitled thereto under the provisions of this Act may secure a copyright for a scenario by typewriting the same with notice of copyright required by this Act; and such notice shall be affixed to each copy thereof published, typewritten, or offered for sale in the United States by authority of the copyright proprietor, except in the case of books seeking ad interim protection under Section 21 of this Act," continues the measure.

Section 11 would then provide that copyright may also be had of a scenario, of which copies are not reproduced for sale, by the deposit with claim of copyright of two typewritten copies of the title and description, with cast of scenes without prints or other identifying reproductions thereof, but the privilege of registration of copyright secured hereunder will not exempt the copyright proprietor from the deposit of copies, under succeeding sections of the law, where the work is later reproduced in copies for sale. The next section provides that after copyright has been secured by publication or typewriting of the work, with the notice of copyright as provided for in previous sections, there shall be promptly deposited with the Register of Copyrights, in Washington, D. C., copy, print, photograph, or other identifying reproduction, together with a claim of copyright.

A failure to comply with this provision will serve to void any action or proceeding for infringement of copyright.

The penalty clause of the existing law is also to be amended so as to provide for damages resulting from infringement of copyright in the case of scenarios so protected.

As the copyright law now stands, such protection cannot be secured for a scenario unless the same is printed in book form.

Earle A. Dyer.

Christie's Nestorites Will "Register Absence"

Comedy Organization Fails to Renew Contract on Its Expiration at End of the Year and Will Accompany Its Chief in a Body to Another Program, Not Yet Announced

Special to Motion Picture News

Los Angeles, Dec. 31.

THE most talked of subject in filmdom this week was caused by the statement given out by Al. E. Christie to the effect that the entire Nestor comedy producing organization would leave the Universal at the completion of Christie's contract, December thirty-first.

Mr. Christie in Los Angeles is always spoken of as the father of the Universal company, in that he was the head of the first producing organization which came to Los Angeles and served as a nucleus of what is now the Universal Film Manufacturing Company's producing organization.

He arrived in Hollywood, Thanksgiving, 1911, and has been with the Universal since that day. A small part of the time he made dramas but practically all of the four and more years has been spent in the filming of one and two-reel comedies.

During this time Mr. Christie has surrounded himself with a number of screen favorites and successful motion picture people who form the present Nestor organization of two companies.

In all there are thirty-nine, the principals of which are Al. Christie and Horace Davey, directors; Charles Christie, business manager; Anton Nagy and Al. Cawood, cameraman, and the following players:

Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran, Ray Gallagher, Betty Compson, Ethel Lynn, Neal Burns, Jane Waller, Billie Rhodes, Harry Rattenberry, Stella Adams, Gus Alexander, Harry Lyons, and George French.

"My contract with the Universal company ends with this year," Mr. Christie said, "and beginning with 1916 I will produce comedies for one of two or three releasing organizations whose propositions I am now considering.

"At this time I cannot make a statement as to what program the subjects will be released on, but they will be known as Christie Comedies, and all of my present organization have assured me that they will be members of my staff."

J. C. Jessen.

HILL MADE A UNIVERSAL DIRECTOR

Robert Hill, who has been for the past few years assistant to Director Lucius Henderson of the Imp-Universal Film Manufacturing Company, has been promoted to a directorship, and is already at work on his first production.

In his company Paul Panzer is leading man, assisted by Sydell Darling, Edith Roberts, Wallach Clark and Frank Smith. The first picture under Mr. Hill's direction has been staged in the Adirondacks, in which one of the fiercest fights ever staged in the snow took place between Paul Panzer and Wally Clark.

Mr. Hill is a thoroughly experienced man, having had excellent tutelage under Mr. Henderson.

Short Pictures for Long Profits, Is Wright's Belief

Kalem Official, Back from Tour Among Exhibitors of Boston, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, Bases His Opinion on Close Canvass of Business Done by Theatre Managers on Each City, and Predicts Waning Interest in Multiple Subjects

WILLIAM WRIGHT, of the Kalem Company, has just returned to New York, after a tour among the exhibitors of Boston, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, and the regions tributary to these cities, and is more than ever convinced that the program of short pictures is the thing.

In his opinion, the days of the "long" picture are numbered. In giving his reasons for this belief to MOTION PICTURE NEWS, this week, Mr. Wright said:

"The day before starting on my recent trip I met a New York film man and told him of my plans. 'Going West?' he said, 'Well, you are not picking a good time. Business is rotten throughout the Middle West. In know, because I have just returned from Chicago myself.'

"It was not a very encouraging start, though I was a bit reassured when I learned that my informant had only been in Chicago about a week and he was judging conditions throughout the entire Middle West by what he had heard from exhibitors visiting that city and from the local exchange men.

"Now, while you can't get a true line on business conditions by remaining in New York, you can be just as greatly deceived when you travel if you just take the information that drifts to you and do not give the time or trouble necessary to dig deeper and find the why and wherefor of each statement made to you.

Took in Big Cities

"My recent trip occupied the better part of a month, and included the territory bound by Boston, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh.

"I listened to exchange men and exhibitors and made it a point to go out of my way to meet even more exhibitors than I would encounter in the ordinary course of events. With the trip over I am able to agree with my informant above and say in one breath, 'Business is rotten.' But in the next breath I must say, 'Business is good.'

"That sounds contradictory—but here is the answer. In all the cities I visited I found only one story—the exhibitor running a general program made up of short releases is making money, in some instances big money. But the great majority of exhibitors running long films, so-called features, are not making any money, and in many cases they are losing money.

"While at the exhibitors' ball in Boston on December 1, I met one instance that will give you the proof of this contention in a nutshell. I talked there with a gentleman who operates eleven theatres, two of them very large houses.

"In these two big houses he is running features and he tells me that he is just about clearing expenses. In his nine smaller theatres he is offering his patrons a regular program and he is cleaning up from $150 to $400 a week profit at each small house.

"Though this example presents the situation in unusually concrete form, it was this same story that I found repeated with varied details in all the other cities I visited. Mind you, I do not say that there are no feature theatres making money.

The Long and the Short of It

"That would be foolish. But in every instance I found that the only exhibitors making any money with long films were the very largest houses that are selecting their features very carefully and operating their theatres in a very high-class manner.

"But the houses of this class are so few and far between that they are of no value in seeking indications of the general business outlook. A safer guide is the condition of the medium-sized houses that have been vainly striving to play the feature game.

"Running long features at high rentals, profiting by all the wonderful 'exhibitor co-operation' of which we hear so much, these houses have found it a nip-and-tuck struggle to keep receipts within the reach of the steadily mounting expenses.

"You will notice that I am speaking only from the exhibitor's viewpoint. I will leave it to others to thresh out the time-worn argument of whether the patrons really want the varied program or the long picture.

"The prime reason for the return of so many exhibitors to the short picture is the hopelessness of attempting to keep expenses and receipts balanced while playing the feature maker's fiddle.

"But while they may have been running their houses at a loss, they have learned one important lesson. They have ripped the tinsel from the feature argument and have narrowed it down to the one strong point—advertising.

Picking Subjects for Program Runs

"In planning to return to a general program of short releases these exhibitors intend to pick out each week pictures of superior quality that they can feature in the same manner that they have been boosting long films, for they feel that they can get just as much business as formerly while their profits will be augmented by the difference in cost between the regular program service and their feature service.

"I found many exhibitors doing this already on our two-reel Stingaree stories. Several of the exhibitors I met called my attention to the fact that in the name of E. W. Hornung, author of this series, they had just as big an advertising card as had ever been presented by them in connection with a long film, while the beauty of it was that the releases were condensed.

"In a similar manner, I found other exhibitors featuring the daring personality of Helen Gibson, who appears in our railroad pictures, while many were planning advertising to profit by the return of Lloyd V. Hamilton to the Ham Comedy Company.

"In Pittsburgh I found one house in the downtown district running a feature program that is however made up of medium length pictures. Across the street from this house were other theatres running long pictures.

"The first named had from twenty-five to 50 per cent. more people in it when I called than the houses offering long films, and their prices were the same.

Says Short Film Is Backbone

"If this is not conclusive, in St. Louis I found a situation that would make our friends of the long film sit up and take notice. A new theatre that has recently opened in the heart of the town is paying higher rental for General program service than it would have to pay for the best feature service on the market, and the house was doing more business than any other theatre I visited while in the city.

"Taking it all in all, don't you agree with me in my conclusion that from now on the long film will wane and that the backbone of the picture business will be the short picture so rapidly coming into its own?"

Gaumont's Five Reel Edition de Luxe Nearly Ready

The First, "As a Woman Sows," Featuring Gertrude Robinson and Alexander Gaden, Will Give Exhibitors a Chance to Begin to Reap Profits on January 24

THE three Gaumont companies already at work filming Mutual Masterpieces, edition de luxe, have their plans well enough in hand to warrant an announcement of the first releases of these five-reel features on the Mutual Program.

The first one to be presented will be thrown upon the screen January 24, when Gertrude Robinson and Alexander Gaden make their debut as Gaumont stars in "As a Woman Sows," written by O. A. Nelson.

Other five-reel productions for the Mutual Program which will follow from the studios of this company are "The Idol of the Stage," starring Malcolm Williams; "The Drifter," starring Lucille Taft and Alexander Gaden; and "His Wife's Double," starring Marguerite Courtot.

The final Rialto Star Feature which Gaumont will release at the present time is Arthur Stringer's "The Secret Agent." This multiple-reel photodrama will be released January 12. Robert T. Haines is the star.

The Casino Star Comedy of January 9 is called "Alias Mr. Jones." It was written by S. A. Van Petten to fit "Budd" Ross, whose work as a star has been favorably commented upon by the reviewers.

The week following Mr. Ross will be seen in "Ham and Eggs," a Casino Star Comedy written for him by Harry Palmer, the cartoonist who animates "Keepin' Up With the Joneses," for the Mutual Program.

Striking Scenes in the William Fox Production of "A Parisian Romance," Starring H. Cooper Cliffe

Dorothy Green Is Prominent in This Picturization of Richard Mansfield's Famous Stage Success

"SIS HOPKINS" COMPANY AT PARTY BEFORE SOUTHERN TRIP

The "Sis Hopkins" comedy company left New York on New Year's Day for Jacksonville, Florida, where the production of the new Kalem comedies begins at once. A farewell party was held by members of the company at the Nineteenth street studios New Year's Eve.

In addition to Rose Melville, creator of Sis Hopkins, and Director Robert Ellis, the company which has gone South includes Frank Minzey, Olive West, Arthur Albertson, Henry Murdock, Richard Purdon, and cameramen and other assistants.

IVAN COMPANY ISSUES HOUSE ORGAN

Ivan Filmessage, monthly publication of the Ivan Film Corporation, has made its appearance.

It is a neatly printed, four page house organ, carrying a general statement of the Ivan policy, the story of the company's growth, news about its most recent release, "Forbidden Fruit," and other data for exchange managers and exhibitors. It is well illustrated.

VANCE THEATRICAL STORY ON "V" LIST

A five-part story of theatrical life is the latest Louis Joseph Vance picture to be produced by the Vitagraph.

It was picturized by Marguerite Bertsch and will be released in the near future.

Mansfield's Wonderful Baron Chevrial Is a Fox Role

H. Cooper Cliffe Will Assume Part in "Parisian Romance," Which Brought Great American Actor His First Fame—Picture Released January 9

IN the William Fox production of "A Parisian Romance," Richard Mansfield's name is for the first time associated with a motion picture story. Baron Chevrial was one of Mansfield's greatest impersonations, and Mr. Fox obtained the rights for the picturization of the theme and the use of Mansfield's name from his widow after efforts that are reported to have covered many weeks.

H. Cooper Cliffe assumes the role which Mansfield made famous. The picture will be released Sunday, January 9.

The Fox corporation announces that no expense was spared in making a story for the screen that would bring out all salient points, either in the portrayal of characters or scenic embellishments.

The florist's bill, for example, is said to have totaled over a thousand dollars. As many of the important scenes were taken in the atmosphere of the theatre, a stage was built in the studio.

Eighty ballet girls added to the charm of the action. When a rich library set was requred, a chateau in France was dismantled of its tapestries, rugs and bronzes, according to the Fox announcement, and shipped to America.

On Christmas Day a hurry call was sent to director, cameramen and players, summoning them to the studio, in order that a number of exterior scenes might be enacted, thus making the picture ready for the release date.

Fourteen hundred feet of negative were clicked off, representing over a dozen scenes.

The complete cast includes H. Cooper Cliffe as Baron Chevrial, Dorothy Green, his co-star, as Rosa, Margaret Skirvin as Therese, Angelica Spier as Marcelle, Isabel O'Madigan as Mme. de Targy, Clarence Heritage as M. Beauchamp, Harold Hartzelle as M. de Targy, Dion Titheradge as Henri de Targy and Mrs. Cecil Raleigh as Mme. de Lavelle.

Trade Press Men Play Role of Interviewers for Film

Hard Working Gleaners in the Reportorial Harvest Field Ask Doris Gray Questions in Dumb Show for Thanhouser Picture, Featuring Boston Beauty Prize Winner

REALISM, of course, is constantly striven after by all directors, but many of these valuable gentlemen believe the sole mark of the reporter is a stenographer's note book. Not so Director George Foster Platt, who is at work producing "What Doris Did," a five reel picture featuring Doris Grey, the recent beauty prize winner of Edwin Thanhouser's contest at the Boston Ball.

Mr. Platt, at the suggestion of Leon J. Rubenstein, gathered unto him various of the trade journal representatives, absolutely forbidding them to have anything to do with stenographers note books, and disguised them as Boston reporters to play in the picture, which will reproduce several of the Arena scenes.

In a certain scene, these pseudo actors sallied forth before the camera lens and asked Doris where she was born, how old she was, what sort of flowers she preferred, and what she liked most to do and have received a reply in the negative to all these questions, they sallied out again and the scene was over.

Rubenstein as usual arrived in Times Square on the morning of the eventful day captaining three taxis. He gathered the press men and several other notables who appeared prominently at the ball, including Hal Forde, Cissy Fitzgerald, Captain Charles E. Kimball and Edward Earle.

Previous to the taking of the scene lunch was served at the Pepperday Inn, and a very good lunch it was. The scene was over when the clock registered about six and then some few departed for New York in a hurry, while those who waited for Captain Kimball to appear in a dozen odd varieties of closeups, were conveyed to Times Square and tendered a dinner at Wallick's by genial Ruby in his role as director general of festivities.

And it may be added last but not least, Doris Grey in person fulfilled all expectations excited by the Boston papers concerning her charming beauty.

OMAHA WELFARE BOARD READY TO BEGIN CENSORING

With $20,000 to start with, the Welfare Board of Omaha, whose duties are to superintend the presentation of all public amusements, begins the first of the year. It has its first case with a motion picture exhibitor yet to meet.

Just how far the board will attempt to extend its powers of censorship is of interest not only in Omaha, but throughout the state in a number of other towns now contemplating welfare boards.

The Press, Press Representative and the Picture---XIV

Right Kind of Publicity and Right Kind of Photoplay Editor Brought Together by Right Kind of Press Agent, as in Case of Metro Christmas Greetings Stunt Sent by Arthur James to New Orleans Item from Metro. Make Ideal Combination for "Press, Press Representative and Picture" Results

WHEN the right kind of motion picture publicity gets to the right kind of photoplay editor, the occasion is a happy one for everybody concerned.

That is what happened the other day. The party of the first part was Arthur James, Metro publicity director; the party of the second part, R. E. Pritchard, moving picture editor of the New Orleans Item.

James, being a newspaper man himself, knew the editorial desire for seasonable stories at Christmas. He knew also how difficult it is sometimes to get them. So he did what every publicity man in this business ought to do: put himself in the shoes of the photoplay editor. In other words, he gave the newspapers what they wanted, not merely what he wanted them to have.

Merry Xmas, All You Movie Maids and Men,
FROM THE
Item's Daily Movies
How Some Favorites Of Film World Are Enjoying Christmas

NEW ORLEANS ITEM'S CHRISTMAS PHOTOPLAY PAGE

He wired in care of photoplay editors the Christmas greetings of Francis X. Bushman, Beverly Bayne and Mary Miles Minter to newspaper readers.

This clever piece of publicity met instant response in the Item office. Pritchard took it, played it up with cuts of the three stars, and ran the telegrams in a cleverly written story of his own.

Mary's Letter to the Item

The Mary Miles Minter message, for example, read as follows:

"Motion Picture Editor, Item,
New Orleans.

"Merry, merry Christmas to New Orleans, the place I would have selected to be born in if I had been consulted. (Signed) Mary Miles Minter."

The Bushman and Bayne telegrams were in similar vein. Pritchard completed the circle for which James had drawn the first segment by printing this paragraph at the end of the story:

"And all the more interesting are these messages, for we told you a few days ago that Bushman and Miss Bayne are soon to visit us in person and speak from the stage at one of the Pearce theatres. And we are betraying no secret, though we have been holding it back for a time, when we tell you that another one of our charming visitors who is to be with us early is Mary Miles Minter, and she'll receive the homage that is due her."

But Pritchard went even further than that. He gave the Christmas tone to his whole department in the Item of December 25. A banner across the department that day greeted his readers thus:

What Is Wanted by Dailies

"Merry Xmas, All You Movie Maids and Men." Then followed a short editorial addressed to motion picture players, producers, and fans. A column of short items, headed "How Some Favorites of the Film World Are Enjoying Christmas," gave the department still greater timeliness, as did an illustrated story captioned, "Anna Held Sends Postals to 3,000 French in Trenches."

The moral of the whole incident is this, and it is one which all motion picture publicity men should grasp: the newspaper wants newspaper stuff. It wants timely stuff. It wants stuff that has a direct message for its readers. It wants stuff with a local angle, if possible.

It is quick to recognize originality in publicity, provided the news idea is uppermost. The newspaper is not a magazine, neither is it a three volume novel. It doesn't care anything at all about the publicity man's opinions of his pictures and stars. The newspaper hires editorial writers and pays them salaries to write opinions. What it wants is news. When it gets news, it has got what it wanted.

That is what it got from James, in this instance. You see how Pritchard used it. You see how it fitted his needs. The moral is perfectly plain.

"Public Is Tired of Flabby Stories"—Horsley

Centaur President Declares Picture-Goers Are Weary of Seeing Films Lacking Plot and Motive—Gives Own Scenario Writers Time to Work Out Suitable Vehicles

DURING his recent visit to New York, David Horsley, in an interview with representatives of the trade journals, called attention to the necessity of better stories in the films.

He pointed out that the theatre-goer was growing weary of the pictures that had no motive for existence—pictures that neither entertained or educated and served no purpose except to fulfill pre-arranged schedules.

At the time Mr. Horsley ventured the remarks, he maintained at his studios in Los Angeles a staff of scenario writers of proven ability—men and women who had contributed a comparatively large number of photoplays and had registered successes with them.

The new policy of expansion of the Mutual Film Corporation, distributing the David Horsley productions, increased Mr. Horsley's output and in order that the best results in his pictures might be accomplished Mr. Horsley decided to seek another contributor.

It is his rule that his scenario writers be given plenty of time to work out suitable vehicles for his people, a rule which is commendable and worthy of its enforcement. Hence his decision.

As the best man for the place Mr. Horsley selected Roy L. McCardell, author of "The Diamond From the Sky," and many other successful photoplays. An arrangement was made with him whereby he is to write animal stories exclusively for Mr. Horsley.

Mr. McCardell's first scenario under this arrangement has just been completed and work on its picturization will shortly be in progress. It will be used for the third of Mr. Horsley's animal productions to be released as Mutual Masterpictures, de luxe edition, as two scripts had already been prepared by his Los Angeles scenario department and production started.

In the order named will be released "The Bait," a story of the great Northwest, written by Theodosia Harris and in collaboration with William J. Bowman, featuring William Clifford and Betty Hart; "The Soul's Cycle," also by Miss Harris, featuring Margaret Gibson, and then Mr. McCardell's contribution. The release dates are respectively, January 22, February 12 and March 6.

LOUISE HORNER, NEW HORSLEY PLAYER, IN "JERRY IN THE MOVIES," CUB COMEDY

"The Little Lady of Lions" is the title of Mr. McCardell's scenario.

WALDO WALKER BECOMES ASSISTANT MOROSCO DIRECTOR

Waldo Walker, formerly of the publicity department of the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company studios in Los Angeles, has been made assistant to Director Frank Lloyd. Mr. Walker has had a varied career, starting out as a newspaper and magazine writer.

He "broke into" the Century Magazine with his first story while a student at the University of Chicago, and subsequently contributed to various Eastern magazines, being perhaps best known for his Green Book series of stories on "Sammy's," a noted Chicago theatrical cafe, which he wrote under the name of Bailey Lane.

At college Walker was a member of the Dramatic Club of the University of Chicago, and appeared in both amateur and professional theatrical productions. At night he worked as manager of the Chicago Telephone Company, and on leaving college his employers induced him to abandon an artistic career by appointing him day manager of the north side exchanges.

Unable, however, to resist the lure of the footlights, Walker returned to the stage, going out with the Eastern road company of "A Stubborn Cinderella," the musical hit of a few seasons ago. After various engagements and also further excursions in the newspaper and magazine field, he went to the Pacific Coast and entered into the motion picture field by becoming connected with the Morosco film offices.

Marie Doro Signs Long Contract with Lasky

Stage Favorite, Who Added to Her Popularity in a Screen Version of "Morals of Marcus," Will Begin Work After Completion of Another Famous Players Photo Drama

ALL reports and rumors as to the screen future of Marie Doro, a star under the management of the late Charles Frohman, were put to rest this week with the return to New York of Samuel Goldfish, executive head of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, who announced that the Lasky firm had secured the services of the star for a period of years.

The contract will not go into force immediately, as Miss Doro will complete another production for the Famous Players Film Company. It will be a picturization of "Dipomacy," and will be a Paramount release.

Miss Doro already has acted in two Paramount pictures, the Famous Players' productions of "The Morals of Marcus" and "The White Pearl," and she has just completed a Fine Arts photoplay entitled, "The Wood Nymph."

The New York stage will not see Miss Doro again for a long, long time. She will act in the Lasky productions at the studio in California.

This winter will be the first season in years she has not starred on Broadway. Last winter she co-starred in "Dipomacy" with William Gillette and Blanche Bates.

Marie Doro's training under the Frohman management extended over a period of years, during which she appeared as leading woman with Mr. Gillette—later to star with him—and as a star with Charles Cherry.

She is a beautiful American type, dark complexion and slightly built. One of her biggest stage successes was in the title role of "Oliver Twist" in the all-star revival several years ago.

MARIE DORO

No announcement as yet has been made as to the role in which Miss Doro will make her debut as a Lasky star.

No Paper-Leaf Palms for World Tropical Scenes

Selznick Establishes Studios in Cuba for Exteriors Requiring Scenic Environment of the South and Will Have Accommodations for Three Companies

WITH the announcement of the departure at an early date of Clara Kimball Young and Company for Cuba comes the news that Lewis J. Selznick, vice-president and general manager of the World Film Corporation, has completed plans for the establishment on that island of a studio and general picture plant to be known as the World Film's tropical annex.

Negotiations have been closed for the long lease of large sections of land near Santiago and the Dykeri mine district. The property includes stretches of sea coast, acres of jungle and cane fields, and a variety of tropical settings.

Mr. Selznick, in announcing the new plan, said: "Many pictures involve scenes of a tropical character, and in addition it is impossible to take exteriors of any picture during the winter months in this climate, except those demanding such settings as we have here.

"The work of constructing our tropical annex will begin this month. It will be large enough to accommodate at least three companies at a time. On our property are locations available for almost every sort of scenic environment."

The World Film also announces the near completion of "Life's Whirlpool," the filmed version of Frank Norris' novel, "McTeague." Holbrook Blinn, Director Barry O'Neil and the company have returned from Alabama, where exteriors were taken.

The final scenes of George Beban's new picture are about finished. Director Tourneur expects to have the picture cut and assembled within a few days.

Kitty Gordon is reported progressing rapidly in her first picture.

EDNA MAYO AS SHE APPEARS IN A SCENE FROM ESSANAY'S "THE STRANGE CASE OF MARY PAGE"

JOSE "PLEASED WITH IRON CLAW"

Edward José, who won his spurs by the Gold Rooster Plays, "The Beloved Vagabond," "The Closing Net" and "Nedra," has been asking Pathé for a serial for some time.

He was a very happy man when he was given "The Iron Claw," Pathé's next serial, especially as his cast was to be composed of Pearl White, Creighton Hale and Sheldon Lewis, who gained much public favor as a result of the "Elaine" serials.

Mr. José will personally supervise "The Iron Claw" with Carrol Fleming as his director.

PARAGON PLANS FAIRY STORY FOR NEAR RELEASE

One of the first releases of the new Paragon Films, Inc., which will be produced under the personal direction of [illegible] Tourneur, vice-president and general manager of the company at the Paragon studios, now nearing completion in Fort [illegible] N. J., will be a spectacular fairy tale.

In his selection of the subject the director has read 135 books of fairy tales in English, Dutch, German, French, Russian and Swedish. His final decision has not yet been made.

ILLUSTRATING THREE VITAGRAPHS: "THE SURPRISES OF AN EMPTY HOTEL," "A CRIPPLE CREEK CINDERELLA," AND "WHEN TWO PLAY A GAME"

"WID'S" SHOWS GROWTH IN XMAS ISSUE

The Christmas issue of Wid's Films and Film Folk, published by Wid Gunning, Times Building, New York, contains the usual number of film criticisms, written in "Wid's" pointed style. It also carries a goodly number of advertisements, mostly holiday greetings from screen players and directors.

The issue is fine evidence of the growth of the magazine, which, in the short space of four months, has made a distinctive place for itself in the motion picture field.

A "January Thaw" of Good Things from Vitagraph

Company, Free from Any "Winter of Discontent," Plans 5 Blue Ribbons, 5 Personally Picked, 5 Broadway Star Features and 9 One-Reel Subjects for the Month

AN elaborate program of releases is scheduled to go to the exhibitors from the Vitagraph Company of America, during the month of January. Five Blue Ribbon Features, five of the Personally Picked Program, five Broadway Star Features and nine one-reel subjects of marked originality and interest, comprise the total releases for January.

The Blue Ribbon features, include "Thou Art the Man," a story of intense dramatic suspense, written by Mrs. Sidney Drew (George Cameron) produced by Wilfrid North, and featuring Lillian Walker in an all-star Vitagraph cast; "My Lady's Slipper," with Anita Stewart and Earle Williams, written by the Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, and produced by Ralph Ince.

"The Island of Surprise," featuring William Courtenay, Eleanor Woodruff, Charles Kent, Zena Keefe and Julia Swayne Gordon, produced by Paul Scardon; and "A Night Out," a splendid comedy with May Robson as the leading character, produced by George D. Baker, comprise the multiple-reel releases of the month.

In the personally Picked Program, a four-part drama, "Who Killed Joe Merrion?" is coupled with a one-reel comedy, "When Hooligan and Dooligan Ran for Mayor." "The Surprises of an Empty Hotel," is coupled with "A Cripple Creek Cinderella." "Mrs. Dane's Danger," is combined with "Bittersweet." "Britton of the Seventh," and "Jane's Husband," are booked together. "A Tie," a four-reel comedy, is issued with "The Hoyden."

The Broadway Star Features include "The Wanderers," featuring William Duncan, George Holt, and Mary Ruby, produced by William Wolbert; "Tried for His Own Murder," featuring Maurice Costello and Leah Baird, produced by Van Dyke Brooke; "By Love Redeemed," featuring Jewell Hunt and Garry McGarry, produced by C. Jay Williams; "The Secret Seven," featuring Leo Delaney and Carolyn Birch, produced by William Humphrey; and "The Ruse," featuring Joseph Kilgour, Harry Morey and Naomi Childers.

The other releases for January are: "The Little Trespasser," with Jewell Hunt and James Morrison; "His Wife Knew About It," with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew; "When Lin Came Home," with George Holt and Miss Wolbert; "When Two Play a Game," with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew; "Them Was the Good Old Days," with Kate Price and John T. Kelly; "A Telegraphic Tangle," with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew; "The Cold Feet Getaway," with Harry Fisher and Albert Roccardi; "Peace at Any Price," with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, and "Jane's Bashful Hero," with Edith Storey and Donald MacBride.

Red Feather Productions Name for "U" Broadways

General Manager Brandt Makes Change to Avoid Confusion of Brand Title for Features from the Company with Its Program, Almost in Similar Words

THE first announcement Joe Brandt made after becoming general manager of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, was a change of name under which the Universal features will be released shortly.

Heretofore, all the big features of the Universal have been released on a program called Broadway Universal Features, but as many people confused the regular Universal program with the Broadway Universal program, Mr. Brandt thought it would be best to have a non-conflicting name.

He therefore has decided upon using the name Red Feather Productions the first of which will show Violet Mersereau in "The Path of Happiness," to be released January 31.

Exchange managers had been reporting for some time that theatre proprietors had been complaining that their patrons were confusing the big Universal features with the regular Universal program, not differentiating between the two.

Many people would see a release on the regular program, and when they saw a feature advertised, would connect it with the one and two-reel releases, thereby creating a false impression and hurting the big feature.

Mr. Brandt is confident that this change will appeal in like manner to both exchanges and th[illegible] managers, and will serve to as[illegible] ätregoers in differentiating bet[illegible]e two.

[illegible]st feature to be released under the [illegible]ther Productions will be a novelty [illegible] of the wilds of the woods, with [illegible]ry Benham supporting Violet Mersereau. This will be followed by productions even bigger than anything that has ever appeared on the Broadway Universal Feature program.

The program will include, in the very near future, King Baggot's initial appearance on the feature programs, as well as Mary Fuller, Jane Gail, Harry Benham, Paul Panzer, and the other Universal stars who have appeared in the Broadway features.

For the first time King Baggot will make a picture for release in the feature program. He has preferred to do the one and two-reelers which have made him famous, rather than going into the making of the longer pictures. The constant demand for his appearance on the feature program has prompted him to make the change.

Beginning with the advent of the Red Feather Productions King Baggot will appear regularly on that program.

FORT SHELLED BY BRITISH FLEET FOR REALISM IN FOX SCENE

One of the big scenes in the Annette Kellermann picture, in production by William Fox at Kingston, Jamaica, under the direction of Herbert Brenon, will be the bombardment of historic Fort Augusta, restored to a resemblance of its original military importance, by Mr. Fox's army of employes now on the island.

In its destruction for moving picture purposes, the British West Indian fleet, stationed off Jamaica, will use real powder and shells and all the paraphernalia of war.

BRANDT BACK FROM QUAKER CITY

General Manager Joe Brandt of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company has just returned from Philadelphia, where he went to look after some important business connected with the Universal serial which is to follow "Graft."

Notice!

(Special Announcement by Carl Laemmle, President Universal Film Manufacturing Company)

We have changed the brand name of Universal Broadway Features to "RED FEATHER PHOTO PLAYS."

The change takes effect with the release entitled "The Path of Happiness," in which Miss Violet Mersereau is starred.

In doing this we change nothing but the name. The pictures will be every bit as good as the high standard already established by our Broadway Universal Features; and even better if we can make them so.

The change is made solely to avoid confusion.

Exhibitors have complained that their patrons were constantly confusing our Broadway Universal Features with the one, two and three reel pictures of our regular program and that as a result they lost much of the benefit that they would otherwise derive from the use of our five reel productions. The fact that Broadway Universal Features were a part of the regular program only added to the confusion.

In addition to this several small companies have been using the word Broadway so indiscriminately that it lost its significance and distinctiveness. Originally the word Broadway was used to indicate that the picture contained a Broadway star or that it was a dramatization of a Broadway play; but so many pictures have been called "Broadway" attractions even when they had no right or title to the name, that the Universal decided to drop the meaningless word entirely.

To give the Universal features a name that would make it easy for everyone to understand that they are in a class by themselves we hit upon the name "RED FEATHER PHOTO PLAYS."

It is a name that anyone can pronounce; one that everyone can remember and one that lends itself to all sorts of advertising ideas.

Therefore, to repeat for the sake of emphasis, the big once-a-week feature on the regular Universal program will be a "RED FEATHER." And you may have it at a reasonable advance over the regular program service price just as you have had the Broadway Universal Features.

When you see the pictures, soon to be released under this new name, you will realize why we are so sure of establishing the standing of "RED FEATHER PHOTO PLAYS" in a shorter time than it ever took to establish any brand of pictures on the market.

"RED FEATHER PHOTO PLAYS" will be made by the Universal's wonderful staff of directors, using the tremendous list of real stars employed by the Universal as well as stage stars and stage plays and well known books.

Get these facts fixed in your own mind and then let your patrons know about "RED FEATHER PHOTO PLAYS."

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO. CARL LAEMMLE, President "The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern In the Universe"

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

A Smashing Start For the New Year

EXTRA

Universal Animated Weekly Scores a Tremendous Scoop

Biggest Men of the entire world Contribute their expressions to the Universal Animated Weekly—for

AGAIN—as is only natural—the enterprising staff of the great UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY puts over another colossal smash all for the profit of Universal Exhibitors. . . . It's an achievement never before recorded in moving pictures. . . . It's an accomplishment that stands absolutely unique and alone in the annals of News Weeklies. . . . On Tuesday, January 4th, 1916, the UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY will release a SPECIAL This special consists of 500 feet of film on which will appear the expressions of the most prominent men in all walks of life, to the people of the United States for the coming year.

To give you a faint idea of the class of men whose expressions will be seen in the 500-foot SPECIAL, just note the following: Ceeil Spring-Riee, British Ambassador; Charles S. Whitman, Governor of New York; Count ' on Bernstorff, German Ambassador; Wm. G. McAdo , Sec'y of the Treasury; Wm. C. Redfield, Sec'y of Commerce; Franklin K. Lane, Sec'y of the Interior; A. S. Burleson, Post Master General; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, New York; Josephus Daniels, Sec'y of the Navy; Osear S. Straus, Chairman New York City Public Serviee Commission; Lindley Garrison, See'y of War; Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives; W. B. Wilson, Sec'y of Labor; Mayor John Purroy Mitchel of New York, and Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States.

Imagine what it will mean to be able to announce that in your House will be projected upon the screen the messages indieating "The Spirit of 1916" from the biggest and most prominent men in the world, together with the pictures of these prominent men.

It's the first time in the history of moving pictures such a thing has ever been accomplished, and it remained as usual for the UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY to put it over, proving onee more that "When it is something worth while" you'll always find it first in the U. A. Weekly.

Wire your nearest Universal Exchange for booking. You ean't aet too quick; you have not one seeond's time to lose. ACT now—within the hour. Get this masterpiece scoop for your House. Get busy—get busy—get busy—NOW!

GET BUSY

UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.
Carl Laemmle, President
"The Largest Film Mfg. Concern in the Universe"
1600 Broadway - - - New York

BOOK IT NOW

RED FEATHER PHOTO PLAYS

PRESENT

"A Knight of the Range"

Featuring that Brilliant Broadway Star and Screen Idol

Harry D. Carey

Ably supported by a Brilliant Cast
-Including-
Olive Golden : Peggy Coudray

If thrills make a picture, this equals ten of them. If a strong plot and vigorous acting make punches, this is full of them. If you and your patrons are interested in the sort of picture that COMMANDS applause BOOK this remarkable feature, and boost it to the limit. The story is old as the human heart. The settings and scenes are as big, vigorous and wholesome as the great West. One of the most magnificent Western pictures ever released.

Bookings may be arranged with your nearest Universal Exchange. Write or wire for release date and get in on the big money.

Back Again
Who's Back?

Florence Lawrence's BACK

Universal Film Manufacturing Co.

Carl Laemmle, President

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 BROADWAY - - - NEW YORK

LIVE WIRE EXHIBITORS

EDITOR'S NOTE.—It is the desire of "Motion Picture News" to include under this heading novel advertising ideas, successful schemes in the management, decoration and equipment of the theatre—everything, in fact, done by the exhibitor to stimulate his trade. We invite every exhibitor to write us about any new enterprise he has; also to come to us for advice or information along any line. Address: Editor, "Motion Picture News," 220 West Forty-second Street, New York City

APPEAL TO CURIOSITY AS A METHOD OF EXHIBITOR ADVERTISING

THERE are two general ways of driving the point home in newspaper advertising of motion pictures. One is to use the bludgeon, the other is to use the stiletto.

In the first, you hit the reader on the head, stun him, and make him come to the theatre to recover from the effects of the blow. In the second, you edge the publicity knife gently into his curiosity, open it up,

NEWSPAPER AD SERIES NO. 3

Is He Innocent or Guilty?
An accident deprives Mortmain of his hand. A wonderful surgeon grafts another hand to the stump. It is the hand of a murderer. How does Mortmain escape from the web of circumstantial evidence that engulfs him?
You should see—
"MORTMAIN"
A weird fantastic melodrama written by Arthur C. Train, and vitagraphed under the Blue Ribbon Banner featuring—
ROBERT EDESON
This five-part feature will be shown at—
Savoy Theater
Today and Saturday

ADVERTISING OF THE SAVOY THEATRE, EUGENE, OREGON and bring him to the theatre to get his curiosity healed.

Both of these methods are effective, if they are cleverly employed. It is all in the writing and typography of the ad. In both, the personal appeal must be uppermost.

Take as an example of the second method, the ad shown in reproduction on this page. This ad belongs to what is known as the "teaser" class. It is aimed directly at the reader's curiosity. It leaves him with a large question mark in his mind.

This picture lends itself easily to this kind of advertising, a fact which re-emphasizes the point we were discussing last week—every picture ought to be advertised in an individual way. It ought to be considered apart from every other picture that was ever produced. And the exhibitor should size up the picture, and build his advertising accordingly.

Study the ad reproduced here. Note its phrasing, its lay out, its illustrations. It is not a perfect ad, but it is a distinct advance over the wooden publicity used by many exhibitors.

FILMS SHOWING POSTAL SERVICE RUN IN ST. LOUIS

The Lindell theatre, Grand and Hebert streets, St. Louis, secured the films of the workings of the St. Louis Post Office, made early last spring for the San Francisco exposition, which have just returned to St. Louis, for a three days' run.

A special performance was given and the city officials were invited to attend, and films showing the United States postal service on land and sea were shown with the permission of Postmaster General Burleson.

DALLAS EXHIBITOR ADVERTISES BY BOOTH AT STATE FAIR

One of the largest motion picture exhibits on record was that of W. D. Nevills, owner of the Washington theatre, Dallas, who secured a space 100 x 40 feet in the Exhibition Hall of the Texas State Fair, in Dallas.

Mr. Nevills runs the Fox program in Dallas; he devoted the entire space of his booth to a display of Fox paper, photographs and signs. The display was visited by hundreds of thousands of persons during the two weeks, most of whom were given souvenirs.

The result of Nevills' advertising campaign at the Fair was that he played to crowded houses day and night continuously.

COLORED INSERT IN NEWSPAPER IS BUSINESS GETTER

Working in connection with The Nonpareil, of Council Bluffs, Ia., Manager Marcus of the Majestic theatre successfully advertised his theatre's program for the week, recently.

In every paper taken out by the carriers or sent through the mails was a colored page, separate from the paper, advertising the program. When the reader picked up the paper and opened it, the program fell out. It was read before the paper was read, and could not be overlooked. Business that week was fine.

A MANUFACTURER LIVE WIRE STUNT USEFUL FOR EXHIBITORS ALSO

The Signal Film Corporation, producers of "The Girl and the Game" pulled a good live-wire stunt the other day. It is one which exhibitors of railroad stories can use to advantage.

The Signal sent out invitations to a trade showing of "The Girl and the Game" serial. These invitations were in the form of a train order, and read as follows:

Copper Range & Tidewater Railroad Co.

Train Order No. 1.

To all motion picture exhibitors, Southern California and Arizona divisions:

"The Girl and the Game," extra, will run special at Alhambra theatre with rights over all your other business from 9.30 a. m. to 11 a. m., Wednesday, December 22.

Signal Film Corporation.

Exhibitors and friends must have a copy of this order.

Conductor, S. S. Hutchinson; engineer, J. P. McGowan; train, Signal Film; complete, 15 chapters; operator, Helen Holmes.

This is a first-class publicity stunt, easily adapted to local picture houses. All the exhibitor has to do is to secure a copy of a train order from a local railroad office, and build his ad on the Signal announcement as a model. It should look as much like a train order as possible. Send one out as an insert in each copy of the house organ, or mail separately.

MIDNIGHT MATINEES POPULAR AT SAN FRANCISCO

The management of the Portola theatre at San Francisco has featured two midnight performances in connection with its two weeks' run on "Damaged Goods," each having been a great success. These shows commenced fifteen minutes before midnight and did not come to an end until half-past one in the morning. Hundreds of people who could not secure admission to the theatre in the daytime or in the evening took advantage of the opportunity to view the film at this unusual hour.

POSTAL CARDS AN INEXPENSIVE METHOD OF ADVERTISING

Mart & Son, managers of the Star theatre, Grinnell, Ia., went to the postoffice in Grinnell and bought a big bunch of postal cards at one cent each. Then they had printed on the blank side a few facts about the picture they were featuring, and sent out the cards to patrons and others without having to put on postage. It was a cheap and successful idea.

HINTS TO EXHIBITORS ON THE USE OF SLIDES AND HERALDS

(Third of a series of articles by J. W. Martin, Milwaukee correspondent of MOTION PICTURE NEWS.)

The direct appeal to the people is an extremely valuable form of advertising and the one that the exhibitor falls down on most often. The great value of the direct appeal to the patron lies in the fact that everyone reached is interested in photoplays and that no circulation is lost on uninterested people. House advertising, however, in the true sense of the word is not a business builder, its main object being to hold the patronage already secured through lobby and newspaper work.

The one form of theatre advertising that has been most abused is slide advertising. Exhibitors seem to think that the public has paid its money to see a slide show exploiting the merits of coming attractions and that the photoplays are only incidental to the program. This idea is not only bad for the slide as an ad medium but for the house as well. A few slides shown at the close of a program will do much good, though quite a few exhibitors have eliminated all slides from the screen on the theory that the public pays to see photoplays, not slides. Slides if used, should contain well-written copy, and not a jumble of words and a poorly pictured scene usually streaked with color as do so many of them. A few well-written slides judiciously exhibited at the end of the program are most effective, but more than six are useless as they tire the patrons who come to see photoplays and not a magic lantern show.

Heralds as they are gotten out at the present time with a long uninteresting synopsis and a few badly illustrated scenes are only a nuisance as they make work for the janitor when he cleans up and make the house unsightly by littering the floors and aisles. A herald well made up with a few attractive cuts, preferably blocked out figures, the name of the stars, the play's title, and a brief history of the play or what it is about, all told in a dozen lines or more, will be read with interest and often taken home.

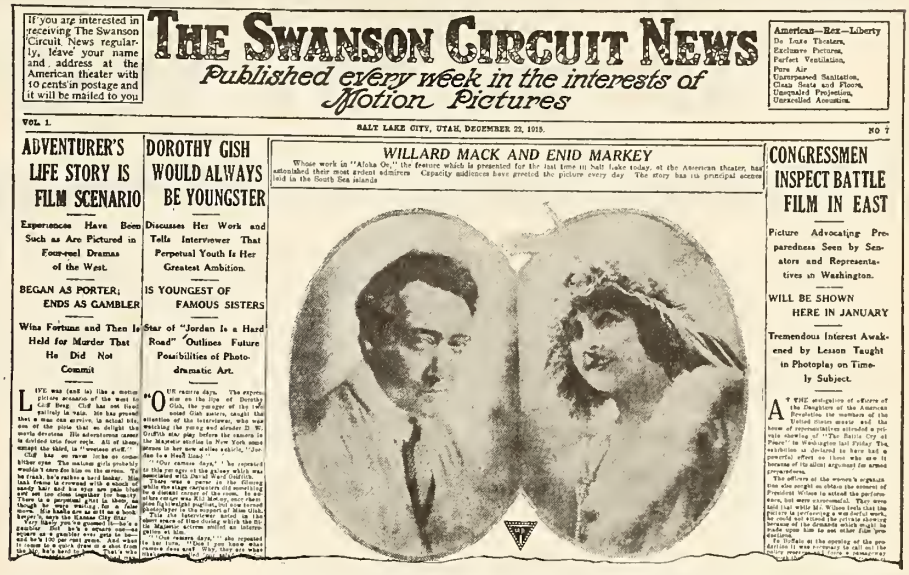
CONGRATULATIONS TO EDITOR NORTH ON V-L-S-E PALS

MOTION PICTURE NEWS extends its congratulations to Tom North, of the Seattle V-L-S-E Exchange, on his special Christmas Edition of V-L-S-E Pals.

Of course, the exhibitors of his territory appreciated it, read it through, found it highly interesting. How could they do otherwise, after Managing Editor North had assembled a lot of timely stories, embellished with excellent cuts, in a twelve-page magazine? It is printed in two colors—red and green—and every page has a genuinely attractive holly border.

Maybe Mr. North doesn't know it, but we read every issue of his publication. It always holds some new interest for us. We are not overstating the case when we say that it is in the very front rank of publications of its kind. In many respects it has no equal in its field.

HOUSE ORGAN SERIES No. 15: ANOTHER WEEKLY THEATRE NEWSPAPER



If you are interested in receiving The Swanson Circuit News regularly, leave your name and address at the American theater with 10 cents in postage and it will be mailed to you

THE SWANSON CIRCUIT NEWS

Published every week in the interests of Motion Pictures

American—Rex—Liberty
De Luxe Theaters,
Exclusive Pictures,
Perfect Ventilation,
Pure Air
Unsurpassed Sanitation,
Clean Seats and Floors,
Unequaled Projection,
Unexcelled Accoustics.

VOL. 1. SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, DECEMBER 22, 1915. NO 7

ADVENTURER'S LIFE STORY IS FILM SCENARIO

Experiences Have Been Such as Are Pictured in Four-reel Dramas of the West.

BEGAN AS PORTER; ENDS AS GAMBLER

Wins Fortune and Then Is Held for Murder That He Did Not Commit

DOROTHY GISH WOULD ALWAYS BE YOUNGSTER

Discusses Her Work and Tells Interviewer That Perpetual Youth Is Her Greatest Ambition.

IS YOUNGEST OF FAMOUS SISTERS

Star of "Jordan Is a Hard Road" Outlines Future Possibilities of Photo-dramatic Art.

WILLARD MACK AND ENID MARKEY

Whose work in "Aloha Oe," the feature which is presented for the last time in Salt Lake today, at the American theater, has astonished their most ardent admirers. Capacity audiences have greeted the picture every day. The story has its principal scenes laid in the South Sea islands

CONGRESSMEN INSPECT BATTLE FILM IN EAST

Picture Advocating Preparedness Seen by Senators and Representatives in Washington.

WILL BE SHOWN HERE IN JANUARY

Tremendous Interest Awakened by Lesson Taught in Photoplay on Timely Subject.

This is another bit of testimony to the popularity of the newspaper form for house organs. It comes from Salt Lake City, and covers the activities of the Swanson Circuit of theatres—the American, Rex and Liberty. Besides the theatre ads., The News carries a limited amount of outside advertising. It is not permitted to interfere with the main purpose of the paper. Note the excellent make up, and the attractiveness gained by proper use of cuts

The exhibitor wants to remember nevertheless that the value of the present type of herald as an advertising medium is very low. One of the reason for this is the fact that it is almost impossible to read in the dimly lighted auditorium and the intermissions, if any, are not of sufficient length to permit a careful reading of the herald. If the exhibitor will place the money he is spending on heralds into a house organ, he will be giving his patrons something that they will enjoy reading and incidentally have an advertising medium that gives a good return on the money invested.

RE-MAKE NEWSPAPER FOR PICTURE ADVERTISEMENT

One of the most unique bookings which has ever been reported from an exchange man, is that made by Tom North, manager of the Seattle office of the V-L-S-E, and R. C. Montgomery, a salesman of that office.

Messrs. North and Montgomery called upon Mr. Clemmer, manager of the Clemmer theatre, of Seattle, one evening during the week, about 7 o'clock, to discuss with him the merits of Big Four productions.

The conference lasted until after 10:30, without any decision having been made. At 1 o'clock in the morning, Mr. North was called out of bed by the telephone, and found Mr. Clemmer on the other end of the wire. Mr. Clemmer said that upon retiring, he had thought over the arguments made by the V-L-S-E representatives, and had decided to install Big Four pictures for the next performances, if possible.

Mr. North arranged to meet Mr. Clemmer and his business manager, Mr. Bertelson at the V-L-S-E office immediately, and at 1:30 o'clock the three had drafted a quarter-page advertisement to appear in the Seattle papers of that day. They reckoned, however, without the mechanical force of the local morning papers, for when they had reached the offices of these publications, they found that the presses were already running.

By the use of considerable pressure, however, Mr. North succeeded in having the presses stopped and one form torn down and recast, with the advertisement of the Clemmer theatre. The three then returned to the V-L-S-E office, where they arranged for the lobby display, bill-posting, etc.

At 11 o'clock that same morning, the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, "The Caveman," was projected for a run of two days, with such good results that the V-L-S-E service has been established permanently in this house.

"'NEWS' MOST VALUABLE MAGAZINE ON THE MARKET"

West Palm Beach, Florida, Dec. 9.
William A. Johnston, President,
Motion Picture News,
New York City.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed you will please find check for two dollars to cover a year's subscription to Motion Picture News, the most valuable magazine on the market today, in my opinion. It is not only valuable to exhibitors, but to the manufacturer and to the public at large.

The manufacturer can always get points, although he may not admit it. As for the exhibitor, it is the greatest help he could possibly get from any source and really teaches him tricks of the trade which he could never possibly learn from experience. You have our very best wish for your continued success.

Very truly yours,
Southern Motion Picture Corporation,
EDGAR W. RUFF,
President and General Manager.

AMONG THE EXCHANGES

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT MUCH IN EVIDENCE IN QUAKER CITY FILM CIRCLES; HENNESSY LEAVES FOX

THE new home of the Mutual Exchange, 251 North Twelfth street, Philadelphia, was delayed in completion, consequently C. G. Powell and his staff of coworkers are still in the throes of "getting settled." Mr. Powell says their large amount of business, particularly now that the new De Luxe Mutual Masterpictures are soon to appear, keeps them hustling so hard, there hasn't been time as yet to "spruce up," but they expect to have a model exchange in a few weeks.

J. E. Hennessy has resigned as manager of the Fox Films Exchange. No successor has as yet been appointed. For the present Harvey Day, district manager for Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Syracuse, will be in command, assisted by Ben Abrams of the New York Fox forces.

Mr. Abrams paid a short visit to Philadelphia last week on his return from a trip through Canada. In the latter region conditions were found very good and Mr. Abrams reports particularly successful business for Fox.

Especially interesting to Philadelphians is the fact that Mr. Abrams established the very first feature exchange in the Quaker City in 1910, when he started Warner's Features at 1202 Race street.

In one office the Christmas spirit was much in evidence. George Beihoff had a little celebration in the World-Equitable Exchange on Christmas Eve, when all twenty of the staff each received a personal gift from Mr. Beihoff.

Besides this there was good cheer and a jolly time. This came as a big surprise, albeit a pleasant one, to the workers.

The recent deal by which Harry Schwalbe of Electric Theatre Supply Company, acquired the Philadelphia franchise for Triangle has in no wise affected the Triangle office, which has its hands full managing the new theatres in the districts out of Philadelphia, which are daily taking up the service.

The latest of these are the Third Street Theatre of Easton, C. B. Buss, manager, and the City Square theatre, Atlantic City, E. J. O'Keefe, proprietor. At the latter place, the initial performance last Sunday, comprising "The Lamb" and "My Valet," drew a capacity audience. These conditions prevailed all three days of the showing.

Other theatres are the Savoy in Wilkes-Barre and the Victoria in Scranton, both owned by M. E. Comerford, who has acquired the Triangle program for this chain of theatres.

Interest in the Paramount offices is just now centering around the new Lasky release of Geraldine Farrar in "Temptation." This picture has returned in triumph from its visit to the censors without a blow, and so is all ready for its first Philadelphia appearance which, as usual with all Paramount releases comes off at the Stanley next week. "Temptation" will be given a whole week's run.

From advance bookings Herbert Given anticipates as big or even bigger popularity for this second Farrar picture as for Carmen.

Austin Interrante, of the Greater New York Film Rental Company, and of Variety Films Corporation, both of which he manages at 1339 Vine street, has returned to his post after a ten day's absence. Mr. Interrante was called to New York by the serious illness of his wife. During his absence Karl Kinzler, of the New York office was in charge.

"Lost in the Arctic," a Variety Film release of many thrills and much aducational value, will be seen in Philadelphia on the New Year. Already much interest is being aroused in this true story of polar experience and it is being heavily booked at the best theatres.

The Christmas MOTION PICTURE NEWS has excited praise from members of the film colony in Philadelphia. All agreed that it was an edition of a trade journal like nothing that had gone before.

MEADE OF V-L-S-E IN NEW ORLEANS FOR EXTENSION PLAN

C. A. Meade, southwestern manager of V-L-S-E-, with headquarters at Dallas, was a visitor in New Orleans exchange circles last week.

The Big Four is looking for an extension of its organization, and Mr. Meade's visit to the Crescent City is not an unusual one. Announcement of the opening of a Big Four exchange is not unexpected.

WESTCOTT MARRIES SOCIETY GIRL OF ST. PAUL

E. A. Westcott, Minneapolis manager for the Fox Film Corporation, and Eleanor Boucher, a society girl of St. Paul, arrived in Chicago from their homes and were quietly married.

"Just a plain elopement with mother's consent," explained the bride, "but father objected." Mr. Westcott established the Minneapolis office.

RARIDAN WILL MANAGE FOX OFFICE IN CLEVELAND

J. R. Raridan, who has been assisting in the Detroit office of the Fox Film Corporation, has been transferred to the Cleveland office, which he will hereafter manage.

Mr. Raridan was formerly photoplay editor of the Cleveland Leader. A. I. Shapiro, who was married on December 19 to a New York girl, has returned to Detroit, where he is manager of the Fox office.

SIX EXCHANGES IN MEMPHIS FORM PROTECTIVE ORGANIZATION AGAINST UNJUST TAXATION

ON Saturday, December 18, representatives of six Memphis exchanges met at the office of the Consolidated Film and Supply Company for the purpose of forming an organization for mutual protection. The particular business of the moment was the important question of securing a reduction of the original amount of a special tax bill proposed by the city of Memphis, the bill having already been up for second reading.

This bill proposed to tax all concerns engaged in the manufacture, distribution or sale of moving picture films one hundred dollars per annum. As exchanges in Memphis are already paying a high state and county special tax, in addition to merchants privilege and other regular taxes, this proposed city tax was deemed exorbitant.

It was quickly decided at the meeting to place the matter in the hands of an attorney, who would represent the film men at the third and final reading of the bill. As a result, through the efforts of the attorney employed, and the prompt action of the organization, the tax was reduced to twenty-five dollars per annum, a figure certainly more reasonable than the original tax proposed.

It was suggested that the organization not stop at a membership of exchange men only, and plans are under way to form an organization to take in exhibitors and parties directly interested.

Thos. H. James, of the Consolidated, was elected temporary chairman, and C. M. Brown, of the Mutual, temporary secretary. Those present at the meeting were: Fred F. Cresswell, World Film Corporation; A. L. Parker, General Film Company; Abe Kauffman, United Program Film Service; Thos. H. James, Consolidated Film and Supply Company; N. M. Bernstein and I. M. Cohn, Monarch Film Service; Fred Suzore, supply dealer.

A final election of officers is expected at the next meeting, when a name will be chosen for the organization. An invitation will be extended exhibitors to become members, and regular business dispatched.

The purpose of the organization will be of a protective nature, and arrangements made to protect the interests of exhibitors and exchanges in cases such as above cited.

BOSTON OFFICE OPENED TO BOOK GRIFFITH SUBJECTS IN NEW ENGLAND

The All Feature Booking Agency which controls the state rights for a number of Griffith productions and has been booking them direct to Greater New York and New England theatres from its New York office in the Masonic Building, has just opened an office in Boston at 53 Church street, to take care of the New England territory.

In addition to the Griffith features, which include "The Escape," "The Avenging Conscience," "The Battle of the Sexes," and six other subjects with casts which include the same players appearing in "The Birth of a Nation," the All Feature Booking Agency will book four five reel Pawnee Bill features produced on Major Gordon W. Lillie's buffalo ranch in Oklahoma, and also the new Sarah Bernhardt feature, showing the famous actress in private life at her summer palace on Belle Isle, Brittany, entitled "Sarah Bernhardt at Home," and "Right Off the Bat" in five parts.

Harry K. Brin, formerly manager of the Continental Exchange of Seattle, and recently manager of the All Feature's New York offiee, will have charge of the new Boston exchange, assisted by Harry Jewel, well-known in Boston film circles.

SIMPSON IN CHARGE OF TRIANGLE AT 'FRISCO

Ben F. Simpson arrived in San Francisco three days before Christmas to take eharge of the San Francisco office of the Triangle Film Corporation, having been selected to succeed C. Mell Simmons, who has been in charge there since the opening of the branch.

Mr. Simmons has not decided just what he will do but will remain there for a time and rest following his recent illness. His many friends in the exhibiting field regret to see him part company with the Triangle as he has worked hard to place this service there and has met with unusually successful results.

UNGER SUCCEEDS SELDEN AT METRO IN 'FRISCO

A change has been made in the management of the San Francisco branch of the Metro Picture Service, opened there a few weeks ago, Mr. E. Selden having been succeeded by J. J. Unger, an Eastern film man of wide experience.

Harry Cohen, who has been busy on the Coast for some time getting the new offices in shape, was in San Francisco just before Christmas from Los Angeles to get Mr. Unger started in his work and then left for New York.

The Los Angeles branch has also had two managers since it was opened, H. Lustig now being in charge there.

FAIRMOUNT CO. HANDLES BLUE BIRD FILMS IN PHILADELPHIA

The Fairmount Feature Film Company, located at 1304-6 Vine street, Philadelphia, of which George W. Bennethum is manager, will handle the releases of the Blue Bird Photo Plays, Inc., in that territory.

TANDY BUYS WHEELAN INTEREST IN TEXAS PARAMOUNT

C. E. TANDY, general manager of the Southern Paramount Pictures Company, with exchanges in Atlanta, Charlotte, N. C., and New Orleans, has been in Dallas, Texas, for the past ten days; and it is stated upon high authority that he has purchased the controlling interest in the Texas Paramount Pictures Company, of Dallas, from J. D. Wheelan.

It is said that G. B. Logan, who was associated with Mr. Tandy in the Dallas office of the Paramount, about a year ago, when Mr. Tandy was in charge, will be the new manager, succeeding LeRoy Bickel.

J. D. Wheelan, has been manager of the Mutual exchange in Dallas, and owned a large block of stock in that Texas corporation. When John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual, was in Dallas, however, Mr. Wheelan sold out his holdings to the New York office, or individuals connected with it.

Since Mr. Wheelan retired as manager, the Mutual has a number of new people at the various desks. C. A. Clegg, who has been handling Masterpictures, is "manager in charge of the Dallas office"; but it seems that D. E. Boswell, recent district manager of the United, is slated for the managership. John R. McIlheran, recent manager of the Picture Playhouse office, is handling Masterpictures.

LeRoy Bickel has resigned from the managership of the Paramount, and street corner gossip is that Mr. Bickel will be associated with Mr. Wheelan in a new film enterprise to be announced within a few days. No definite information can be secured from either relative to their plans.

Diaz Callahan, roadman for the Paramount, has a similar position with the World Film Corporation.

W. M. Byrd, who has been working with the title of assistant manager, now signs his name as "Manager of the Box Office Attraction Film Rental Company," the Texas concern handling Fox film.

The United Program Film Service have installed a late model Rex film renovator, in their offices at 1917 Main street, Dallas.

A new $5,000 negro motion picture house will soon be in operation in Houston, Texas. It is now in the course of construction.

D. E. Boswell, connected with the Dallas office of the Mutual Film Corporation, is visiting the sub-offices in Houston, San Antonio, El Paso and Amarillo.

A number of the film exchanges are trying to arrange their work so that they will not have to work on Christmas Day, getting out their orders, paper and so routing their film that office work will be unnecessary on that day. It will be a holiday with some offices, all right, but they are working night and day to make it so.

The Motion Picture Journal is the name of the weekly successor of the Southern Theatre News, a trade paper that has been in circulation in this territory for a year or so.

Al Raymond has joined the Mutual forces on the road, as likewise did E. C. Leeves. Mr. Raymond has been with the Triangle, and Mr. Leeves with the Metro.

ROBINSON HOLDS BANQUET FOR MANAGERS AND OWNERS IN EASTERN MAINE

MANAGERS and owners of motion picture houses in Eastern Maine were the guests of the Famous Players Film Company of New England, distributors of Paramount Pictures, at an informal gathering and supper tendered them at the Bangor House in Bangor, Me., a few days ago by George K. Robinson, special representative of the company, and M. Ross, who represents the company in Maine.

Mr. Robinson was the principal speaker and he gave a general idea of what the Paramount Corporation had done and is doing and what it intends to do; told of its rapid growth and the high standing it had attained among the exhibitors and the public; spoke of how the pictures were made and distributed; about the national and local advertising done and how it is operated.

He gave much valuable advice as to how an exhibitor should conduct his theatre, such as giving what is advertised, the deportment of the attaches, the cleanliness and temperature of the house, the advertising, and advised each manager to try and convince every patron that he conducted his theatre for their special benefit, and that they were the ones who should to a certain extent run his business.

He also spoke about the importance of good music, and of the educational value of pictures. He said also that they were of more value and importance in the smaller towns than in the cities, as it brought right to their back doors great theatrical stars, and plays, and also the cities of the world with their inhabitants and industries, modes of living, and their architectural and horticultural splendors, which people in such towns could not enjoy any other way.

Mr. Robinson was followed by Stephen Begrett, manager of the Bijou and Park theatres in Bangor, who discussed various methods and problems of motion picture house management. There was a general exchange of views on various phases of the business from which the managers carried away many valuable ideas.

Among other things contemplated at this meeting was a moving picture ball, an entirely new project for Maine. Preliminary steps have been taken and it is expected that the date will be fixed soon. The Paramount Pictures have agreed to send down some of their well-known actors, and Bangor people will enjoy the novelty of seeing in the flesh some of their screen favorites.

CANADIAN "U" PICKED TO HANDLE BLUE BIRD SUBJECTS

The Canadian Universal Film and Supply Company of Montreal, has contracted with the Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., to handle all products of that company in Canadian territory,

GENERAL'S OFFICES IN PITTSBURGH GIVES BRANCH MORE SPACE

The General Film Company's new offices in Ninth street, Pittsburgh, have been opened and are the finest this company has had since opening in that city. The new offices are at 121 Ninth street, and give the company more than three times as much room as before.

The building in which they are located is 37 by 140 feet and is four stories high. It is well adapted to the motion picture business and will make one of the best offices for a firm of this character that are to be found in the city.

The first floor of the building is being used as offices and have been fitted out in a lavish manner. The second floor is for the storage of films, the third for the poster department and the fourth for slide making.

All the slides used by the General Film Company in the United States will be made in this department and shipped from Pittsburg to the points where they are needed.

It is rumored in Pittsburgh that Mr. Mildner, who is in charge of the Pittsburgh office, is to be shifted to Cleveland. Who his successor will be is not known.

GOFF VISITS MIDDLE WEST V-L-S-E BRANCHES

A. W. Goff, assistant general manager of the V-L-S-E, left New York last week for a tour of the Big Four exchanges which will take him to Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Chicago and St. Louis.

Mr. Goff's visit to these offices of the Big Four, is eagerly looked for by the branch managers of the V-L-S-E, for the reason that the new sales director can advise from a practical as well as a theoretical viewpoint, having conducted branch offices, throughout the entire section of the country in which he will travel.

As a matter of fact, the V-L-S-E's assistant general manager has represented film interests in every part of the United States except the South, and a large part of Canada.

Mr. Goff will spend part of his time in promoting the cause of open bookings, of which he is one of the most ardent apostles.

H. AND B. RENTAL OPENS IN PITTSBURGH

The H. and B. Film Rental Company is the latest addition to the film exchanges in Pittsburgh. The exchange was opened at 441 Market street, by William C. Pierce, who is a well known motion picture exchange manager in the city.

The company has sixty-three features on hand ready for business, and it is said that a large amount of the new fims will be received shortly. The company has received the support of many of the exhibitors in Pittsburgh since opening, and stated that business was good.

FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM SERVICE TO HAVE HOUSE ORGAN

The Famous Players Film Service, Inc., of which James Steele, vice-president of the Paramount Pictures Corporation, is head, and of which Charles S. Nordlie is general manager, has just instituted a publicity and advertising department under the direction of Walter H. Jackson and Walter L. Hill.

This new department will be of great assistance in advancing the publicity and advertising work of Paramount.

About the middle of January, Messrs. Hill and Jackson expect to issue a house organ to be called Paramount Inspiration, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that this magazine will prove of great benefit to all the Paramount exhibitors in the territory of their offices.

ACTIVITIES OF DENVER EXCHANGE MEN INDICATE THAT THE CITY IS RIGHT ON THE MAP

LOUIS GOLDSTEIN has assumed the duties of manager of the Denver Universal Exchange. Mr. Goldstein is from Butte, Montana, and was manager of that office for the past three years. He was a Denver man, and his numerous friends among the exchanges and exhiibtors in that territory are very glad to welcome him back, and are looking forward to a great campaign under his leadership.

Manager Cohan, of Denver's Paramount Exchange, sure picked a live wire when he appointed J. W. Scott as roadman. Mr. Scott has been connected with Denver exchanges for six years, serving Paramount for the past two. As a new business getter he is a wonder.

Joe Ashby, one of the best liked exchange managers in the Inter-mountain territory, who was connected with the Swanson and Universal Exchange of Denver for the past seven years, has resigned his position as manager to enter a new field which, he feels, will offer him better opportunities.

Harry Lustig, who has been connected with the Mutual Film Exchange for the past two years as manager, has left for San Francisco to accept a position with the Metro Film Corporation.

Roscoe Moore, the Denver manager of the United Film Service, is doing wonders as a "new business getter." Moore has doubled the business of United in that territory in the short time he has been manager.

William Morrison, widely known in the show business, has joined the Denver Universal forces in the capacity of roadman. Morrison first broke into the film business with Al. Hirston in a little office on the corner of Third avenue and Fourteenth street, New York City. He is a live wire and should prove a valuable addition.

Ward E. Scott, former assistant to Manager Lustig of the Denver Mutual office, upon the resignation of the latter Scott was made manager. O. Carlson was also advanced to head booker from the position of bookkeeper.

YATES FINDS BIG DEMAND FOR "U" SUBJECTS

Under the progressive spirit of Manager Yates, the Washington, D. C., Universal film exchange is doing bigger business than before, despite the heavy influx of feature companies.

"Our serials especially are being eagerly sought," commented Mr. Yates, "But this is because the Universal series are what the public is interested in—modern affairs which they can appreciate. 'Graft,' is enjoying no idle days, while 'Uncle Sam at Work' has created a scramble as to early bookings.

"This latter is proving the most popular of all Universal series, for it appeals to the young American as well as the older minds. Just at present when all eyes are centered on Uncle Sam, both at home and abroad, the workings of our various branches of government are what the people want to know.

"I have had a number of children come here to enquire when 'Uncle Sam at Work' would appear at the theatre in their neighborhood. Certainly it has struck a responsive chord.

"The fact that these films have had a previous showing has increased the popularity of this subject and the new films to be added will keep the government shop up-to-date.

"The Broadway Features are going big, too. Nineteen sixteen indeed promises to be a Happy New Year to Universal, at least in this territory."

KOERPEL MANAGER OF GENERAL IN CAPITAL

J. A. Koerpel has become the new manager of the Washington, D. C., General Film exchange. Mr. Koerpel was formerly manager at these same offices, so he scarcely needs an introduction on his re-

George Smiley, of the Exhibitors' Co-operative Booking Agency, is spending a part of the holiday season with his wife and family at Island Heights, N. J.

A recent visitor to the Washington Fox Exchange was L. J. Rogers of New York. Mr. Rogers goes from the home offices of the Fox Corporation and after a survey of the Washington territory pronounced the exchange a significant activity of the Fox family.

DAY IN CHARGE OF FOX EXCHANGE IN PHILADELPHIA

Harvey L. Day, the Fox district manager, is making his headquarters in Philadelphia until a new manager is appointed for that office.

The Fox Philadelphia office has decided to book its pictures independently in the future. It will be known soon which theatre is to have first run of the Fox releases in the Quaker City. A contract has just been signed with the Poli of Scranton, by which that theatre will run Fox features three days each week for a year.

MURPHY BUYS ASSOCIATED FOR NEW YORK AND NEW ENGLAND

Fred B. Murphy, the only independent service man in New England and owner of the United Film exchange in Boston and four other cities, has again branched out by purchasing the New England and New York state rights to the Associated Film service.

Mr. Murphy is one of the best known film men in that vicinity.

Film News From Foreign Parts

HUGON STARTS BOYCOTT AGAINST AMERICAN-MADE FILMS IN FRANCE

Special to Motion Picture News

Paris, Dec. 20.

I HAVE met Mr. Hugon the Kinema editor of the Journal, who for many months has carried on a strong campaign against American films in France.

"What is the reason, I inquired, of your waging such a fight against American films?"

"You want to know why I object to the enormous quantity of American films exhibited at our kinemas?" asked Mr. Hugon. "It is quite natural, I am surprised that all the papers are not doing the same. Do you believe that their films are of greater interest than our own?

"Some of their pictures are certainly very nice and I never objected to their films being shown in our country. What I do object to is having five or six American films in a program of eight. For many years we have had American films. They used to go very well with our audiences.

"We buy films in England, Italy and Russia. It is only right and fair that we should. These countries are buying a great deal of our products, but what about America? Our American friends have decided not to buy any more of our films, pretending that they do not suit their tastes.

"The only country in the world where our films don't suit the public! I am therefore decided to fight against the import of American films, as long as their market remains closed to our production. Not long ago the English picture houses looked more like Americans. Out of eight films on a program, one was sure to find six Americans. I met a friend who is greatly interested in the kinema business on the other side of the channel, and I was told that they are doing everything there to eliminate the importation of American films in England too.

"He told me that the development of the purely British film-making industry is becoming almost phenomenal. Films manufactured by British firms based on scenarios by British authors, and enacted by British actors and actresses for the British public is the motto, and success is rising by leaps and bounds. Like the British, our motto ought to be, 'French films for the French public.'"

Theater de Vaudeville a Film House

The great event of the season in Paris took place last Thursday, when the Theatre de Vaudeville, one of the finest Parisian theatres, was opened as a kinema. Long before the rising of the iron curtain the big place was crowded and it looked more like a Premiere at the opera. Mr Porel, the manager of the theatre, appeared on the stage to explain the change of policy.

"We are not in a state of mind to go to a theatre just now," he said. "Had I invited you to witness a theatrical performance, not one of you would have turned up. But we all go to the kinemas. These are the places we like to go and to watch the pictures in front of us without having to listen to the artists. The kinema is more like a rest cure for unstrung nerves."

Then the long-awaited film "Cabiria" was projected on the screen. It is undoubtedly a great film and ought to draw large audiences.

At the Theatre des Varietiés, another house on the Boulevards, they are not yet giving a full kinema show, but a part of it. In a revue called "Ceux de cez chez nous" (between ourselves), written by the well known author Sacha Guitry, a very interesting film is to be seen, showing celebrated personages like Rodin, Rostrand, Anatole France, Mirbeau, Henry Robert, Saint Saëns, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, in their unofficial homes. This is certainly the most interesting part of the Revue.

Funds Raised for War

As in Great Britain, where the kinema trade had arranged a so-called kinema day in aid of the Ambulance Fund, and where over 30,000 pounds were raised, the French syndicate of the kinema trade has decided to have a kinema day. Every manager has agreed to hand the full takings of one day's receipts during the month of December.

The import of Danish films to Great Britain has been totally prohibited.

A film called "La Marraine du Poilus" (Poilu's Godmother), is one of the biggest successes just now at nearly all the kinemas in Paris. It is a most amusing topical.

A film specially ordered by the French Government to be shown at every kinema for the next three weeks will call attention of the public to the war loan. Some effective posters are to be seen.

In spite of the war French firms are doing everything to secure foreign markets. The Eclair and Eclipse companies are sending an official to Russia with this purpose. Mr. Monta, one of our film dealers, is shortly leaving for the same country.

I had an opportunity to see a few good films last week, amongst them "Double Pleasure," with our well known artist Mlle. Mistinguette. It is one of the best films seen for a long time. "Un pauvre homme de Genie," with Mr. Krauss in the principal role, is a very interesting drama.

"L'Autre Mère," by a new Italian firm, is a most exciting picture. A bayonet atack by hundreds of Bersaglieris on a high mountain is one of its features.

Even Monte Carlo is going in for kinemas. At the celebrated Casino, where the greatest artists used to appear, a kinema season is advertised.

"Marche Nuptial," adapted from Henry Bataille's drama, has been filmed by Cinés, with Mme. Carmine Gallone, the celebrated Italian actress, in the chief role. Since "Quo Vadis?" it is the best film made by this firm.

G. Kaczka.

HONDURAS TOWN RENTS FILM FROM PANAMA ON 50 PER CENT. BASIS

"THERE is but one motion picture establishment in the Tegucigalpa consular district, viz, the Teatro de Variedades, in this city," Consul E. M. Lawton, stationed at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, writes in the "Commerce Reports." "A number of causes combine to prevent the industry from being more successful, among which are poor transportation facilities, the small purchasing power of the masses, the sparse population generally, and the lack of electric service in all the other interior towns.

"In this city performances are given three or four nights per week, commencing at 8:30 or 9 p. m. and lasting until midnight or after. Approximately 1,500 meters (about 4,900 feet) of film are shown nightly.

"The prices of admission vary with the quality of the film. Old films, of the regular stock sketches, are sometimes displayed at prices ranging from 10 to 30 cents United States currency, depending on the location of the seats. Other nights, when such well-known films as 'Les Misérables' are run, the prices are trebled; and for ordinary new films the usual charge is about 50 cents for the best seats.

"No attempt has been made here to try continuous performances or the 'tanda' idea of Mexico. The Tegucigalpa consulate has been endeavoring to interest persons in establishing small theatres with popular price continuous performances.

"One firm, which is equipping a restaurant with a Japanese garden, has asked to be informed about films and accessories, and another firm has inquired for apparatus which can be operated by a portable light for use in towns where there is no electric service.

"With outfits of that sort a service might be established in some eight or ten towns within a reasonable radius of this city. The local theatre rents its films from Panama on a basis of 50 per cent. of the receipts. So onerous is this charge that the question naturally arises, why would it not pay some American manufacturer to send a representative to tour Central America and contract with the established theatres for film service?

FROM FAMOUS PLAYERS FOR PARAMOUNT PATRONS: SCENES FROM "THE OLD HOMESTEAD" AND "LYDIA GILMORE"

"There are probably 20 or more theatres in the five Republics that could use films for an average of 20 programs per month, and one central office, say in Guatemala City, could attend to the distribution and service generally.

"The writer has no positive knowledge of conditions outside of the Tegucigalpa consular district except as told by the owner of the local theatre, but the latter is greatly interested in the development of some such plan and states unequivocally that such a project is much needed and could be made very successful.

"All classes of pictures are popular, including comic, tragic, cowboy, chases, historical, war, and detective stories. Perhaps the most popular are Wild West scenes, where feats of horsemanship and quick gun play are generous components. All reading matter should be in Spanish."

The addresses of three Tegucigalpa firms interested in motion picture apparatus or films may be had from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington, D. C., or its branch offices. In writing refer to file No. 69,500.

BRITISH FILM INTERESTS ORGANIZE TO STOP PRICE-CUTTING

Special to Motion Picture News

London, Dec. 20.

An important agreement has been entered into with respect to the open market in Great Britain by the constituent elements in the British film trade. The signatories to this agreement are: First, the manufacturers; second, the importers and agents, and third, the renters.

The object of the agreement is to eliminate cut-price films. A price of ten cents a foot, no more, no less, is fixed on imported film, and seven cents on film produced in Great Britain or by Pathé Freres.

The agreement also determines the life of a picture in Great Britain. This is fixed at nine months. After that period the film is to be destroyed.

It is interesting to note in this connection that such an agreement is possible in England, even to the extent of imposing fines for violation of the agreement, whereas it would not be possible in the United States because of the anti-trust laws.

The British agreement provides for infractions as follows: A fine of 100 pounds; offenses of an exaggerated character may lead to expulsion from the association upon a four-fifths vote of the signers.

A scale of minimum rental charges for the exhibitor is also fixed. The agreement applies only to films released on the open market, with the exception of topicals. It went into effect November 1, and is to be tried out for a period of three months.

"DEVIL'S DARLING" AUTHOR SELLS GAUMONT ANOTHER SCRIPT

For production as a Mutual Masterpicture, edition de luxe, the Gaumont company has just purchased a scenario from Marjorie Howe. Her "The Devil's Darling," a Gaumont release, is one of the most popular Rialto Star Features on the Mutual Program.

"Nation's" Run Longest in New York Stage History

Griffith Spectacle Ran for Forty-five Weeks at the Liberty, Showing to 616,000 People, with a Supplementary Engagement of 14 Weeks at Brighton Beach

WITH the passing of D. W. Griffith's spectacular production "The Birth of a Nation," from the Broadway circle, is ended the most phenomenal run ever made by any atraction in the history of the New York stage.

This new form of artistic expression was introduced to New York at a special performance on March 2, 1915, at the Liberty theatre. The public performance followed the next evening.

The new offering leaped into immediate favor and started in upon a career that was destined to set all records at naught. The venture was a complete departure from all traditions of the metropolitan stage.

The run at the Liberty theatre continued forty-five weeks without a break. The total number of consecutive performances there was 620. During the summer months there was a supplementary engagement at Brighton Beach, which is part of the metropolitan theatrical district.

This engagement was for fourteen weeks with 182 performances, making a total of 802 consecutive performances in New York. In addition to this there have been eighty-four performances of the spectacle in theatres in Brooklyn and the Bronx.

These, however, are not counted in the consecutive run. In round numbers 616,000 people saw the production at the Liberty theatre; 196,000 witnessed it during the run at the seashore and approximately 60,000 people have attended performances of it in the outlying theatres of Greater New York, making the total attendance to date for this city 872,000.

By computing this with the census reports for New York City, it will be seen that approximately one in every seven residents of the city has attended the local presentations. The uniform scale of prices for the run was from twenty-five cents to two dollars at nights and twenty-five cents to one dollar at the matinees. The average was about seventy-five cents a head.

It will be seen by this that New York paid over $600,000 for this one form of entertainment. This is a record never reached by any other attraction in the same space of time in any city in the world.

Anyone conversant with New York theatricals is aware that the local theatre depends to an appreciable extent upon transient trade. The record of "The Birth of a Nation" is the more remarkable when it is known that simultaneous with the New York run engagements were also under way in other important points of the country.

It ran for three hundred performances in Boston, the record there; two hundred and eighty performances in Los Angeles, California, the local record; one hundred and fifty times in San Francisco; two hundred times in Philadelphia; over one hundred times in Pittsburgh, a local record; one hundred and sixty times in St. Louis, a local record, and has turned four hundred and twenty-eight consecutive performances in Chicago, which is second to the longest run ever known there.

At the same time other companies have been touring the country. To date it is conservatively estimated that nearly five million people have seen the great production in America.

It is also passing through a London run which totals nearly twenty weeks. Additional companies are being formed for Australia and South America, while two others are touring Canada at present.

As soon as the conditions warrant in Europe, additional companies will be sent on tour in Russia, France, Germany, Spain and Italy.

Looking Ahead With The Producers

"THE UPSTART," METRO, READY JAN. 24; "MAN AND HIS SOUL" NEARLY COMPLETED

METRO announces the completion of its first satirical comedy, "The Upstart," in which Marguerite Snow is starred, and the near completion of interiors for "Man and His Soul," a five part feature, in which Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne have the leading roles.

"The Upstart," from the Rolfe studios, will be released on the Metro program January 24. In Miss Snow's support appear George Le Guere, in a feature role, while James Lackaye, the comedian, is also prominent. It is a picturization of a successful stage play of the same name by Thomas Barry, which enjoyed a run last season at the Maxine Elliott theatre, New York, and afterwards went on tour.

Its story deals with a young married man, who becomes fanatical on the subject of divorce. He leaves his wife to go forth to reform the world.

His wife proceeds to divorce him, and "The Upstart's" father, realizing his son is a crank, arranges for him to visit a minister, who, he hopes, will have a good influence on the boy.

But "The Upstart" plans a hoax, involving the elopement of the minister's wife with a chauffeur, in order to prove his contentions on separation and divorce, with results said to be amusing.

The origin, development and importance of conscience is brought out in "Man and His Soul," which John W. Noble, assisted by William Bailey, is producing for the Quality Pictures Corporation. The exteriors will be made in Florida.

The story combines allegory with present day events. The development of conscience, through the ages, with many historical events, is presented, it is announced.

When the action reaches modern times, the central figure of the theme, essayed by Bushman, is introduced. According to advance reports, there are many elaborate scenes in the production, one of which shows a big factory destroyed by fire, more than a thousand persons being employed in the scene.

"FOOL'S PARADISE" IN PRODUCTION AT FROHMAN STUDIO FOR IVAN

"A Fool's Paradise," Ivan Abramson's latest work, especially written for the screen is now being produced by him at the Frohman studio for the Ivan productions. The author and director of "Forbidden Fruit," "Concealed Truth" and other Ivan successes has assembled an exceptional company to portray "A Fool's Paradise."

The cast is headed by Chrystine Mayo, who portrays a vampire role; Paula Shay, James Cooley, Jack Clarke, for a long time Gene Gauntier's principal man, and Joe Burke.

"A Fool's Paradise" is the Ivan regular monthly release scheduled for February.

ELEANOR ROBSON IN FOX ROLE SHE CREATED ON STAGE

One of the most important feature pictures now being produced by William Fox is "Merely Mary Ann," Israel Zangwill's delightful comedy drama that was successfully presented on the legitimate stage by Eleanor Robson.

Dainty Vivian Martin will be seen as the slavey in the film version, the part originally created on the stage by Miss Robson.

John G. Adolfi is the director in charge of the production.

"PUDD'NHEAD WILSON" IS FIRST LASKY-TWAIN PHOTODRAMA

Announcement has been made by the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company that the first of a series of picturizations of Mark Twain's works to be produced by the company will be "Pudd'nhead Wilson," with Theodore Roberts as the star, which will be released January 31, on the Paramount Program.

Unusual interest is attached to this picturization of the Mark Twain masterpiece, since it is the first of the author's works to be made into photoplay form by the Lasky company.

Arrangeemnts were completed recently by Samuel Goldfish, in behalf of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, by the terms of which the exclusive right to all the famous American humorist's works was obtained by the Lasky company for screen reproduction.

"Pudd'nhead Wilson" will be followed by "Tom Sawyer," "Huckleberry Finn," A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," and many others.

MARIE DORO BEGINS WORK ON "DIPLOMACY"

Marie Doro, whose marriage to Elliott Dexter was announced recently, returned to New York this week from Los Angeles and is now in the Famous Players studio at Fifty-sixth street, engaged in the production of that company's adaptation of Sardou's celebrated play, "Diplomacy," in which she is to star shortly.

Mr. Dexter has been engaged to appear in the production with Miss Doro, playing Julian Beauclerc, the role which he enacted on the stage in the revival of the play at the Empire theatre last year when Miss Doro co-starred with Blanche Bates and William Gillette.

SCENES TYPICAL OF A COMING METRO: "THE UPSTART," IN WHICH MARGUERITE SNOW IS STARRED

GLAMPSES OF CURRENT AND COMING V-L-S-E PRODUCTIONS FROM THE FOUR MANUFACTURERS

(Left to right) HENRY B. WALTHALL, STAR IN "THE MISLEADING LADY"; EARLE WILLIAMS AND ANITA STEWART IN "MY LADY'S SLIPPER"; REGINA BADET IN "NO GREATER LOVE"; RAYMOND HITCHCOCK IN "THE WONDERFUL WAGER"; ROBERT EDESON, STAR IN "ONE NIGHT"

SHE HAS AN "AUTO-BOUDOIR DE LUXE"—GET THAT?

Helen Holmes, star of "The Girl and the Game," has an auto-boudoir de luxe. In order to make the quick changes necessary in the filming of the big Mutual-Signal special feature the daring star has rigged up a portable dressing room, by converting a limousine to the purpose.

The car is equipped with running water, a dressing table and all the appurtenances needed by a leading woman in pictures. It is electric lighted and heated.

HELEN HOLMES

The accompanying picture shows Miss Holmes just stepping out of the car after a change of costume which she made between locations. Recently she suffered a severe cold following a plunge into the ocean because of a lack of a place to change. The portable boudoir is the result, affording as it does, all the comforts of home afield.

SAVAGE'S "EXCUSE ME" NEEDS NOT EVEN MILD APOLOGY IN FILMS

Vivian Blackburn, who is featured in the Pathé-Henry W. Savage film production of "Excuse Me," is the daughter of an army officer who was stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

As everyone knows, army circles have a society of their own with a strong caste feeling. The youthful Miss Blackburn had a mind of her own and possessing an ardent ambition to go upon the stage she defied conventions, and cut the Gordian knot by going to New York.

There she was fortunate enough to secure an engagement with May Irwin and stayed with her for one season. Then followed engagements with John Drew and three seasons with Anna Held.

She was in the original company of "Everywoman," and for two seasons played with the original company of "Excuse Me."

As the Fencing Girl, Miss Blackburn will be remembered by very many persons.

"Excuse Me" as a Pathé Gold Rooster play shows nearly the entire cast of the original production.

"THOU SHALT NOT COVET," SELIG, READY FOR RELEASE ON FEBRUARY 7

"THOU SHALT NOT COVET," is the title of a Selig Red Seal play to be released through V-L-S-E on Monday, February 7.

The story written by James Oliver Curwood, features Tyrone Power and Kathlyn Williams, supported by a company of players including Guy Oliver and Eugenie Besserer. The play, in five exciting acts, was produced by Colin Campbell.

There is one climax costing $25,000, in which an ocean-going ship strikes a derelict and founders at sea with its cargo of human freight.

Thousands of men, women and choldren are seen struggling for the life boats, and springing from the decks of the sinking ship into the water.

The stoke hole of the vessel is shown with the water rushing into the furnaces and the stokers vainly fighting for life. Thousands of people participate in this wonderful series of scenes.

Among the other climaxes in this production are the following: A sensational battle with real African tribesmen; a fight to the death between a Royal Bengal tiger and a hyena; a desperate fight between Kathlyn Williams and an enraged leopard; a plunge by Kathlyn Williams from the back of a runaway horse; and scenes in Egypt and darkest Africa.

The drama "Thou Shalt Not Covet," is based on Exodus XX-17, "Thou Shalt Not Covet Thy Neighbor's Wife." How a man in love with the wife of his neighbor overcomes temptation and reunites a loving couple is graphically portrayed.

Tyrone Power and Kathlyn Williams, according to critics, perform the best character roles in their artistic careers as stars in these productions.

SIGNAL AT WORK ON "SEDITION"

The new feature company of the Signal Film Corporation, under the direction of Ray Myers and the supervision of J. P. McGowan, are making their first five reel subject entitled, "Sedition," by L. Genez. The leading parts are taken by Rhea Mitchell and Hal Cooley.

The Signal company, filming "The Girl and the Game," serial, is now busy on the fifth episode.

FIRST GOODMAN PLAY ON SCREEN FOR WORLD

The first of Jules Eckert Goodman's plays to be adapted for the screen is "The Point of View," originally produced in Daly's theatre, New York.

Work has begun at the World Film Corporation's Fort Lee, N. J., studio on the film version, made by Emmett Campbell Hall.

Director Emile Chautard is producing this new five-part feature, with a cast including Frances Nelson, June Elvidge, Jessie Lewis, Mildred Havens, Douglas MacLean, Frederick Truesdell, Joseph Flannagan, John Hyland and Henry Thornton.

PEARL WHITE RETURNS TO SCREEN IN "THE KING'S GAME"

"The King's Game," the five-part Pathé Gold Rooster release for January 7, signalizes the return of Pearl White to the screen after a long vacation which began last spring with the completion of "The Romance of Elaine."

"The King's Game" is adapted from George Brackett Seitz's original play which was the starring vehicle of James K. Hackett for two seasons. The cast is noteworthy, containing as it does besides Miss White, George Probert and Sheldon Lewis. The picture is the production of Arnold Daly and was directed for Pathé by Ashley Miller.

SCENES FROM NEW TRIANGLE PRODUCTIONS: (Left to Right) H. B. Warner and Robert McKim in "The Raiders"; Raymond Wells, Lucille Young and Fred J. Butler in "The Flying Torpedo"

Elmer Clifton, Bessie Love and Mary Alden in "Acquitted"; William Desmond and Bessie Barriscale in "Bullets and Brown Eyes" (Below) Lewis Stone and Walter Edwards in "Honor's Altar"

FASHION SHOW ADDS INTEREST TO A VITAGRAPH RELEASE

A fashion show staged in one of Fifth avenue's modiste's show-rooms and giving glimpses of the latest creations worn by thirteen beautiful models, is one of the interesting features in a new Vitagraph release, "The Thirteenth Girl."

The fashion show was prepared jointly by the Vitagraph Company and J. M. Giddings, the latter loaning thirteen of his best models and himself designing creations which they wore to splendid effect.

"The Thirteenth Girl," which was filmed under the direction of Theodore Marston, and which features Arline Pretty in the title role, is a three-part Broadway Star Feature.

JAN. 24 FOR "AS A WOMAN SOWS"

The first Mutual Masterpicture, edition de luxe, which Gaumont will release on the Mutual Program, "As a Woman Sows," has just been completed by Director William F. Haddock at the Jacksonville, Fla., studios.

Gertrude Robinson and Alexander Gaden are featured in this production. It will be on the screen January 24. "As a Woman Sows" was written by O. A. Nelson.

LUMLEY HARE OPPOSITE KITTY GORDON FOR WORLD

Lumley Hare, the English leading man who has been seen in so many successful Broadway plays, is under contract with the World Film Corporation.

His first screen appearance will be in support of Kitty Gordon in "As in a Looking Glass."

MAUDE GILBERT FEATURED IN FOX SUBJECT

Maude Gilbert and William Tucker are being featured in a William Fox feature, directed by W. S. Davis, at the Fox-Kalem studios in New Jersey. In the cast are Kittens Reichart, Anna Findlay and Warner Oland.

"BIG COMERS" ON INCE KAY-BEE LIST NUMBER SIX; "D'ARTAGNAN" AND "HELL'S HINGES" AMONG THEM

THOMAS H. INCE'S prophecy that the Kay-Bee studio would keep six plays ahead of the requirements made by the Triangle film service, has been amply fulfilled.

Mr. Ince enters the new year with a list of attractions, among which, now ready for presentation in New York or on the way from Los Angeles to New York, are "The Green Swamp," "Peggy," "D'Artagnan," "Honor's Altar," "Hell's Hinges," "Waifs," "The Raiders" and "Bullets and Brown Eyes."

This represents a late fall and early winter of extraordinary activity. The four plays in which Bessie Barriscale appeared culminated in "The Green Swamp," with Bruce McRae in the leading male role, and "Honor's Altar," wherein her opposites are Walter Edwards and Lewis S. Stone. Her next medium is "Bullets and Brown Eyes," a Russian romantic story featuring William Desmond and Wyndham Standing as the leading man.

In "Hell's Hinges," William S. Hart portrays Blaze Tracy, a strong Western character who copes successfully with the difficult problems of life in a frontier town.

Mr. Hart is supported by a strong cast that includes Jack Standing, Clara Williams, Alfred Hollingsworth, Robert McKim and Louise Glaum.

A striking scene in the play is the destruction by fire of the entire village of Hell's Hinges, an episode for the taking of which no less than thirty-eight buildings in the vicinity of Inceville went up in smoke.

H. B. Warner has been working with Ince on the production of two new plays in which the popular star of "Alias Jimmy Valentine" will be featured. The first one —working title "The Raiders"—is a Stock Exchange story in which the hero, played by Warner, saves his fiance's father from financial ruin.

The second one, now in preparation, is an East Indian story with the colorful atmosphere of Delhi, where the Indian mutiny centered.

"Peggy," starring Billie Burke; "D'Artagnan," starring Orrin Johnson; and "Waifs," starring Jane Grey, are the other big comers on Ince's list. As reserve trumps he has in making new plays featuring William Collier, Collier's son, Buster, and Charles Ray.

KLEINE FINISHING "DEVIL'S PRAYER BOOK"

Finishing touches were added last week to "The Devil's Prayer-Book," a Kleine feature with Alma Hanlon, Arthur Hoops, Frank Belcher and Ruby Hoffman. This is the feature that was especialy written by Max Marcin, author of "The House of Glass," now playing at the Candler theatre, as the starring vehicle for Miss Hanlon.

Miss Hanlon has availed herself of the many opportunities for sparkling work yielded by Marcin's script. She will be seen in three different roles in "The Devil's Prayer-Book," a young mother, a girl of fourteen and a young woman of twenty-five. It is released January 5, as the first Kleine offering on the Kleine-Edison Program for the new year.

"THE RUSE" TO BE READY IN EARLY JANUARY

A three-part Broadway Star Feature, written and produced for the Vitagraph Company by Eugene Mullin, entitled "The Ruse," in which Harry Morey, Joseph Kilgour, Naomi Childers, Charles Kent and Denton Vane are seen in pleasing parts, will be released during the early part of January.

DRINK CURSE IN UNDERWORLD, FOX THEME

Robert Mantell, Genevieve Hamper, Henry Leone and Stuart Holmes are at work on a William Fox feature picture, whose theme is the curse of drink, with its scenes laid in the slums of the French capital.

The company is at Kingston, Jamaica, working under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards.

FROM THE AMERICAN STUDIOS FOR THE ENTERTAINMENT OF MUTUAL PATRONS: Scenes from "Viviana," Two Reel American; "Water Stuff," Three Reel Mustang; "The First Quarrel," Beauty; "The Secret Wire," Two Part Flying A; "An Innocent Crook," Vogue

"SAMMY VERSUS CUPID" MAY MAKE BURNS "THE VOGUE" WITH COMEDY LOVERS

Sammy Burns will soon be seen in a one-reel vogue comedy, "Sammy Versus Cupid," which will permit him to display his athletic prowess.

A pretty girl is involved. Sammy is in love with her. She, however, like a real American-minded girl, refused to marry a man who seemed physically unable to protect her through life, and Sammy, in this stage of the story, seems to merit the young lady's scorn.

But she reckons without Sammy. He begins a course of physical training that would seem like a vacation to recruits in the navy. He does some stunts never seen before on the screen. Nothing seems impossible to him. He engages in boxing bouts, with regular "pugs"; he wrestles, and wins, and just naturally takes the honors all along the line.

The picture teems with ludicrously funny situations and there is a screaming climax when Sammy gets a decision in a wrestling bout with Josh Benny, who tips the scales at 360.

Of course, his success in athletics spells success in love and the lady capitulates to the prowess of the man she once had scorned.

NIGH PICTURE WILL BE CALLED "HER DEBT OF HONOR"

It has been definitely decided to name Director William Nigh's new Metro feature picture, "Her Debt of Honor," which is now within a few scenes of completion at the studios of the Columbia Pictures Corporation, 3 West Sixty-first street, New York City.

Mr. Nigh not only wrote the five-part feature, but for the first time since joining the Metro forces, he is playing a prominent role in it. Before becoming a director Mr. Nigh was starred in feature pictures produced by the Old Majestic company in California.

He graduated into motion pictures after a successful career in musical comedy. He was also a successful playwright, having written "Off the Road," and other well known plays and musical comedies.

Valli Valli is starred in "Her Debt of Honor," and William Davidson, who was seen in a prominent role with Lionel Barrymore, in "A Yellow Streak," has the leading heavy role.

"ISLAND OF SURPRISE" WILL BE RELEASED AS BLUE RIBBON

William Courtenay will shortly make his appearance as a Vitagraph star in a five-part picturization of the Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady's novel, "The Island of Surprise." It will be released as a Blue Ribbon Feature.

The location is laid in the South Sea Islands. The Vitagraph company announces that it has been six months filming the scenes.

In Courtnay's support appear Eleanor Woodruff, Zena Keefe, Charles Kent, Julia Swayne Gordon and others. Carl Scardon directed the picture.

"THE CITY," FITCH PLAY, ON WORLD SCREEN THIS MONTH

"The City," acclaimed at the time of its stage production as the late Clyde Fitch's masterpiece, has been screened by the World Film Corporation, and will be released this month.

It is announced that the original story is maintained intact, with the addition of scenes of an elaborate character. Thurlow Bergen, Broadway and stock star, has the principal role.

FIGHTS BETWEEN WILD BEASTS AND HUMANS IN A CENTAUR

Several scenes of combats between humans and animals are shown in "Marta of the Jungles," a Centaur Feature released on the Mutual Program, January 13. The story, which is by Theodosia Harris, is laid in the veldts of Africa.

The cast, headed by Margaret Gibson, includes Stephen Batty and Roy Watson. The Bostock animals appear in the animal scenes under the direction of Capt. Jack Bonavita.

THREE STARS IN PICTURES FROM PALLAS FOR PARAMOUNT PATRONS

LENORE ULRICH DUSTIN FARNUM FLORENCE ROCKWELL

BLUE BIRD
PHOTO PLAYS
The world's finest screen productions
BLUE BIRD
PHOTO PLAYS

BLUE BIRD PHOTO PLAYS

Announces as the first production

The Divine
Sarah Bernhardt

in the great French
DRAMA

"Jeanne Doré"

from the pen of TRISTAN BERNARD

Being the drama in which the world's greatest tragedienne made her last appearance

BLUE BIRD
PHOTO PLAYS

BLUE BIRD PHOTO PLAYS

Announce the following forthcoming productions

Helen Ware
in
"Secret Love"

"Undine"
A Picturization of
"NEPTUNE'S DAUGHTER"
in which
LOIS WEBER and PHILLIPS SMALLEY will appear

"The Devil's Bride"

"Rupert of Hentzau"
by ANTHONY HOPE
Author of
"THE PRISONER OF ZENDA"

BLUE BIRD
PHOTO PLAYS

BLUE BIRD PHOTO PLAYS

Already pronounced the SUPREME of artistic
ACCOMPLISHMENT
of the Silent Art

Booking reservations now being apportioned in all the foremost cities throughout America

Chief EXECUTIVE OFFICES
1600 Broadway
NEW YORK

BLUE BIRD
PHOTO PLAYS

ILLUSTRATING METRO PHOTOPLAYS, IN WHICH MARY MILES MINTER, VALLI VALLI AND FRANCIS BUSHMAN ARE FEATURED

REVIEWS INFLUENCE PICTURE BUYERS, SAYS ROUBERT

Believing that the system of selling state rights franchises affords better opportunities for profit to manufacturer, exchangeman and exhibitor, William L. Roubert, vice-president and general manager of the Aurora Film Plays Corporation, has decided to release "The Waif," the first feature produced by his company, on that basis.

This decision follows three separate offers from as many large distributing corporations for the exclusive rights to Aurora's new five-reeler.

That trade paper comments have much to do with the attitude of film buyers toward a new production was strongly exemplified in the case of "The Waif."

Not one of the three distributing organizations which bid for the feature had a representative at the private showing of the picture.

All three of them admitted that it was the trade paper reviews which led them to ask that the feature be run off in their respeetive projection rooms.

REAL COSTUMES, VINTAGE OF '70s, IN ESSANAY-FITCH PLAY

Some of the costumes actually worn in the '70s are being used in the production of Essanay's five-act comedy, "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines," taken from the fantastic comedy of Clyde Fitch, in which Ann Murdock and Richard C. Travers star.

Several of the actors, in hunting through attics, were able to discover suits and dresses worn by parents and relatives back in Grant's times. These were eagerly sought for the play, as Essanay had considerable difficulty in getting models of costumes of the period.

VIOLA DANA GETS CHANCE TO DANCE

Viola Dana, the dainty little Edison artist, will at last have in the Kleine-Edison feature "The Innocence of Ruth," the chance she has been seeking for a long time —an opportunity to do a bit of dancing.

Miss Dana was taught to dance by a famous danseuse now retired. She has won a number of prizes for exeelling in ballroom dances. In the feature "The Innocence of Ruth," she ranges over some four or five different dances.

Metro Sends Bushman and Beverly Bayne South

Fifty Exteriors Will Be Taken for Two Quality Features, "Man and His Soul" and "The Red Mouse," in Jacksonville, Fla., Where Players Will Remain 3 Weeks

ANOTHER Metro company of players, the third so far this season, headed by Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, left for the South this week, where more than fifty exteriors will be made for two two Quality-Metro features, "Man and His Soul" and "The Red Mouse." The group of artists will go on a special car direct to Jacksonville, Florida, where they will work from two to three weeks.

"Man and His Soul" is scheduled for release on the Metro program January 31, while "The Red Mouse" will not be presented to the public until some time in February.

John W. Noble, who is directing Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne in these Quality-Metro productions, accompanied the party on their special car. Bill Bailey, assistant director, associated with Mr. Noble, was sent several days in advance, to obtain the necessary locations for exteriors.

Most of the exteriors will be made for the five-part production, "Man and His Soul." The theme of this photodrama deals with conscience. In an allegory the creation of the world is shown. Then is seen a realistic sand storm, one of the big scenes which will be made in Florida. In the midst of the storm is shown the birth of conscience.

The next scene, which also will be made amid the everglades and foliage of the southland will be the Garden of Eden, where eonscience again appears and possesses Adam and Eve.

Down through the ages, the development of conscience is demonstrated, until the present day is reached. Conscience is then seen atop a skyscraper in New York City, looking over the great city and weeping that the city is almost entirely devoid of conscience.

In another scene a factory is burned to the ground. This scene will be made on the outskirts of Jasksonville, and more than 1,000 people will be used.

Besides Mr. Bushman, Miss Bayne, Mr. Noble and Mr. Bailey, others in the party include J. W. Davidson, Etta Mansfield, Fred Sittenham, Edward Brennan, H. O. Carleton, cameraman; Marty Malone, assistant cameraman, and J. W. Powers, Mr. Bushman's valet.

"News'" Modest Bow to Friends for Xmas Bouquets

"On Behalf of Myself and the Members of the Company," We Say, Stealing from Mr. Belasco's Curtain Speech, "the Publication Acknowledges Greetings by Wire and Letter"

TO its many friends who by wire and letter sent holiday greetings, MOTION PICTURE NEWS makes grateful acknowledgement and reciprocates with the season's hearty good wishes.

Among those who sent greetings to the NEWS were: Famous Players Film Company; W. N. Selig; Waterson R. Rothacker, president, Industrial Moving Picture Company; M. E. Hoffman, A. L. Haase, E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, J. F. Skerrett, Arthur J. Lang, E. J. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Binder and family, Nicholas Power, The Union Chapter of Alpha Delta Phi, Al W. Filson, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Oswald Brooks, Edward W. Humphreys, Educational Films Corporation of America, Mary Charleson, Joe Brandt, William Barry; The Chronicle-Press of Orange, N. J.; William Parsons of the National Film Corporation; J. W. Williams, Sidney, Australia; E. L. Masters and Harry Reichenbach.

The Motion Picture Board of Trade; L. W. Atwater of the Precision Machine Company; Edward Earl; Coles Picture Machine Corporation; L. J. Gasnier, Wedgewood Nowell, Hugo Reisinger, Curt H. Reisinger, Charles A. DuBosch, Frederiek Dessin, Novelty Slide Company, Julian M. Solomon, Jr., William Nolle, B. P. Schulberg, The Standard Engraving Company, Edwin Bower Hesser, Jackie Saunders, Paul Gulick, The Technical Press, C. J. VerHalen, Laurence A. Lewin; H. H. Van Loan; Chicago Branch of the V-L-S-E; Letha Walters, O. F. Spahr, Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Raver, Edwin Thanhouser, Henri Hoffman; Fred B. Murphy of the United Film Service; Pete Schmid, Arthur James, Jack Cunningham, Carl L. Gregory, Universal Film Mfg. Company, Famous Players New England Exchange, Billy Rhodes, Tom Terriss, Philip Mindil and John W. Grey.

New Laws And Court Decisions

This department is designed to keep the industry informed of all news concerning new or projected laws, Federal, State, County or Municipal, that may affect the business, and all events involving any branch of the trade with the authorities in all sections of the country

Detroit Politician Tries to Block "Nation" Showing

AN ordinance which threatened to be very destructive to the motion picture theatres as well as the industry, was "killed" at a hearing in the Council Chamber of Detroit on Monday evening, December 20, by reason of the fact that every exhibitor in the city was there in person to oppose it, thereby showing the strength of the Detroit exhibitors as an organization.

The ordinance in question was introduced by Edward Barnett, member of the council, the main object being to prevent the showing in Detroit of the "Birth of a Nation."

Mr. Barnett has a large negro voting population in his ward, and he was persuaded to use his best efforts in preventing the feature being put on the screen of any Detroit theatre.

The best way, he thought, to "kill" this feature, would be to introduce an ordinance that would prohibit the showing of any picture that created race hatred, or race riot.

So, while he was framing his proposed ordinance he went a step further, and made it read: "any picture that is immoral, obscene, lascivious or of an indecent character, or purporting to represent any hanging, lynching, burning or placing in a position of ignominy of any human being, the same being incited by race hatred."

Big Crowd at Hearing

The ordinance went on to provide that, "any officer of a civic, charitable or social organization could make complaint to the corporation counsel for violation of the ordinance, whose duty it shall be to prosecute."

The council chamber was filled with exhibitors, theatre owners, members of the negro race to the number of fifty, ministers, and politicians. Those in favor of the ordinance had their first chance to speak.

They argued that such pictures as the "Birth of a Nation" created race hatred against the negro. They said the ordinance was not aimed at the moving picture industry but rather at the "Birth of a Nation."

Then followed a number of speakers who were opposed to the ordinance. The first was A. J. Gillingham, speaking for fifteen exchanges.

"If this ordinance is permitted to pass," he said, "anyone can go out and object to any film whatever, causing the film men endless trouble and seriously harming their business.

"It would put us under the censorship of every one who chose to object to anything; subject us to the whimsical ideas of all sorts of persons. There is no occasion for such a clause as the ordinance aims at immoral plays.

Immoral plays are not allowed under the present laws and are not shown here. No new law is needed for that purpose. The one effect of this ordinance is that it will cause intense annoyance and business damage to men who have invested millions of dollars in the film business."

Henry J. Guathard, of the Majestic theatre, spoke for the larger theatres, and Peter J. Jeup for the small exhibitors, both opposing strongly the ordinance.

Mayor's Secretary Favors "Nation"

A letter was then read from Edward Fitzgerald, secretary to the mayor, who had viewed the "Birth of a Nation" in Chicago. The report described the whole production as wonderful and beautiful. The most exacting critic could find no fault with the first act, he said.

The second act, however, he said, contained a number of scenes that might be objected to. The suggestion was made that children be not allowed to see the film should it be shown here.

Alderman John C. Lodge declared that he agreed with every word that had been said by the speakers against the "Birth of a Nation," but that he did not believe the Barnett ordinance was the panacea they believed it was.

"The ordinance would only clutter up the law books of the city," he said. "These things should be up to the mayor."

Alderman Barnett withdrew the ordinance with the consent of the attending negroes and ministers, who said they would be satisfied to let the final decision regarding this particular film rest with the mayor. The result was a great victory for the Detroit motion picture exhibitors.

And now the mayor is trying to make up his mind what to do regarding the "Birth of a Nation," which is scheduled to start an indefinite run at the Detroit Opera House January 3.

Several delegations of negroes and ministers have appeared before Mayor Oscar B. Marx and asked that the film be prohibited on the ground that ii would create riot and stir up strife between the whites and blacks.

J. J. McCarthy, general manager of this film for D. W. Griffith, has also appeared before Mayor Marx, declaring that the opponents of the film have been misinformed, that the film has been passed by every legalized censor board, including the National Board of Censors, and that it has enjoyed record-breaking runs in other large cities.

The mayor has reserved the right to announce his definite decision at a later date. He says he wants plenty of time to think it over.

EQUITABLE IN BATTLE TO MAKE PENNSYLVANIA CENSORS SEE LEGAL RIGHTS OF "SEALED LIPS"

THE Rolfe photoplay on the Metro program, "Black Fear," has been turned down flat by the Pennsylvania censors. No action having been taken in the matter, the picture cannot be shown in the state. Grace Elliston, Edward Brennan and Grace Valentine are the three stars thus cut out of a present vogue in these regions.

The World release, "The Rack," was turned down on first review, but went through on an appeal.

In this connection, the Equitable release of "Sealed Lips" was given the disapproval stamp a few days ago. This photoplay, based on Maxwell Gray's "Silence of Dean Maitland," the powerful book which made such an impression when it appeared a decade or so ago, was found objectionable because a clergyman falls from grace, though atoning with his life later on in the story.

The Pennsylvania board said it threw discredit on the Episcopal clergy. All appeals being in vain, the Equitable at once put the matter in the hands of its lawyer, Murdock Kendrick, of 1420 Chestnut street.

The case was brought up before Judge Martin of Common Pleas Court No. 5, who consented to look at the picture if absolutely no one was present besides the persons involved. This cut out the newspaper people completely.

After the picture was reviewed at the Bluebird theatre, the case was heard in court. No decision has yet been rendered.

A movement is on foot for all the Philadelphia exchanges to get together and engage an experienced attorney by the year to handle all disputed censor cases. Such action, if it materializes, would save both time and money, to say nothing of worry to the hard-working exchange managers.

NO MORE COMMON DRINKING CUPS IN CAPITAL

The use of the common drinking glass and the common towel is doomed in the District of Columbia for the members of the Board of Commissioners have issued new regulations which are to go into effect on February 1.

It is provided that no person shall provide or expose for common use, or permit to be provided or exposed for common use in any place of amusement in the District of Columbia any article that may be used for drinking purposes unless the same has been thoroughly cleansed since last used, nor shall any person provide or expose any towel or similar article unless such article has been thoroughly cleansed since last used.

Any person violating these provisions shall be punished, the regulations state, on conviction thereof, by a fine not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

Quite a number of theatre managers in the Washington, D. C., territory has already installed slot machines from which, by the insertion of one cent, an individual drinking cup may be obtained, but all have continued to keep a drinking mug or cup for those who do not care to patronize the slot machines.

But the common drinking cup will have to go now.

Again, it will be incumbent upon theatre managers to supply individual towels in the rest rooms, if they desire to continue such service, and either laundry bills will be boosted or the business of the paper towel manufacturers will be increased.

ACADEMIC CHECK ON "NATION" BALKED BY EXHIBITOR STAND

The classical city of Berkeley, Cal., the home of the University of California, which, by the way, is the second largest institution of learning in America, has a Board of Censorship.

This body has been busy during the past ten days attempting to prevent the presentation of the "Birth of a Nation" at the T. and D. theatre. Despite the recommendations of college professors the board, which consists of five members headed by the chief of police, listened to the protests of a negro society and ruled that the film could not be shown.

The owners of the film thought otherwise, as did the managers of the theatre, and preparations were made to put on the production regardless of the order. When it was seen that such a determined stand was being taken the board reconsidered its stand and decided that it might have taken the wrong attitude, finally withdrawing the ban on the film and thus save itself from being made a party to injunction proceedings.

IOWA TOWN TO FIGHT SUNDAY CLOSING

Ministers at Charles City, Ia., by means of an injunction closed up the Sunday afternoon motion picture theatres.

The theatre managers are fighting the move and claim they will be successful in reopening their places on Sunday.

NEW ORLEANS FACES CENSORSHIP UNDER WAY THROUGH ACTION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

AS has been predicted freely for the past year, New Orleans now faces what apparently is a determined censorship movement.

Eighteen federated women's clubs, through their presidents, have sent a telegram to their senators and representatives at Washington, asking them to use their efforts to secure the passage of the bill for the censorship of moving pictures now before Congress.

Mrs. J. D. Wilkinson, president of the Louisiana State Federation of Women's Clubs, in a speech before that body in Shreveport, La., recently made the assertion "that the National Board of Censorship is composed of members named by the different film manufacturers; such censorship is not enough; we must have local bodies."

New Orleans has long escaped censorship, or even an intimation of censorship. It is different now. Once upon a time New Orleans had an association of exhibitors, even an association of exchange men. Both organizations now have sunk into innocuous desuetude. It is high time (to relapse editorially) that both were becoming operative.

These are the New Orleans and Louisiana organizations in the movement:

Algiers Civic League, New Orleans City Federation, Macabees, Travelers' Aid Society, Louisiana Sunshine Society, New Orleans Woman's Club, Women's Auxiliary to the Railway Mail Association, Cooperative Presidents' Club, Sophie B. Wright Cooperative Club, Chi Omega, Consumers' League, Council of Jewish Women, Era Club, Gretna Civic League, High School Alumnae, Home Institute Alumnae, Hebrew Benevolent Society, Newcomb Alumnae, Normal School Alumnae and the Alden Branch of Sunshine.

COLORED PEOPLE IN VANCOUVER, B. C., PROTEST AGAINST "NATION"

The Negro Christian Alliance and the Wilberforce Lodge No. 9141 of the Grand United Order of Oddfellows have forwarded to the mayor and city council of Vancouver and to the Hon. William J. Bowser, attorney-general of British Columbia, resolutions protesting against the proposed showing of "The Birth of a Nation" in that city, claiming that the film is offensive to the colored race and that it has been the cause of race riots in several American cities.

The state of Ohio, the Supreme Court of Minnesota, and the cities of Tacoma, Washington; Ottawa, Memphis and other cities are mentioned as having banned the film, owing to danger arising from like causes.

SEATTLE EXCHANGE ORGAN PRAISES NEWS' CHRISTMAS ISSUE

Tom North, manager of the Seattle V-L-S-E Exchange, ran the following editorial in V-L-S-E Pals:

"Without a doubt the Christmas number of the 'Motion Picture News' is one of the finest and best issues we have ever seen. It is just teeming with live, interesting matter. It is one number that every exhibitor should keep long after he has thrown all others away.

"Beginning with William A. Johnston's article 'On The Threshold of 1916' and right on through the interviews with the various heads of the big releasing companies and with men connected in various capacities either directly or indirectly with the motion picture business, there will be found more good, sound, sensible reading under one cover than one could find anywhere else.

"It is certainly an up-to-date, live, brilliantly edited and intensely interesting issue and in behalf of our Pals we are wishing Brother Johnston and his associates a very Merry Christmas and a Most Happy and Prosperous New Year."

ONE CENT TAX IN SIGHT FOR QUEBEC

The poor tax, or the theatre one-cent tax, is in sight for Quebec City. The city council on December 17 decided to ask the legislature of the province for the necessary power to collect one cent from every citizen every time the said citizen goes to an entertainment where a fee is charged.

This, therefore, applies to the larger houses as well as the small picture houses. Although an idea similar to this was proposed as a national means for obtaining revenue, when the question of a war tax was raised and settled by the federal government some time ago, the town officials in the eastern capital state that lack of local funds is their sole reason for seeking to impose this tax.

Although there will likely be considerable opposition to the measure, it is fairly certain that it will become law, if pushed with any degree of firmness.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA., LEANS TOWARD SUNDAY CLOSING

No action has been taken toward Sunday closing of motion picture theatres in Council Bluffs, Ia., further than asking the city attorney to draw up a proposed ordinance. The question was debated between two literary societies in the High School of the city recently and it has been widely talked about among the church people.

The saloons of the city are closed January 1, when the entire state goes dry, and the contention is that all kinds of theatres should not only be closed on Sunday, but should be censored at all times.

LAW PASSED TO PREVENT REPETITION OF "NATION" EFFECT

A new ordinance, resulting directly from the exhibition of "The Birth of a Nation," has been passed in Omaha forbidding the display of any moving pictures which may arouse racial hatred or heap ignominy upon any race.

OKLAHOMA CITY FACES CENSORSHIP

The question of appointing censors for pictures is now before the city council and the Mayor of Oklahoma City, Okla.

In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. C. Jessen

Special to Motion Picture News

Los Angeles, Dec. 30.

GEORGE CLARE, JR., son of the well known English actor, and himsef for twenty years a member of some of the best known Eastern stock companies, last week made his picture debut at the Horsley studios, where under the direction of Ulysses Davis he is to appear in the role of Cyrus, in the production of a five reel feature, "The Soul's Cycle," by Theodosia Harris.

It is also in this production that George C. Stanley, likewise a legitimate actor with considerable experience, for the first time appears in pictures. Greco-modern is perhaps the only term which may properly be applied to this production, events of the past being reincarnated and being shown in a modern form.

Robert Broadwell this week completed his first picture since joining the Horsley studio staff of directors. The story is entitled "When Vengeance is Mine," and was written by Crane Wilbur who also appears in the leading role. The story is primarily a preachment against capital punishment.

Norbart A. Myles, who for the past six months has been playing heavy leads with J. Warren Kerrigan at Lake Tahoe and at Universal City, last week, joined the Horsley studio producing staff as director of comedies. Billy Armstrong, well known English actor, will be featured in these productions.

Director Milton Fahrney last week took into the fold of his comedians, Louise Horner, a former comedienne of the legitimate stage.

Bowman Back from Catalina Island

William J. Bowman has returned from a three day trip to Catalina and the Santa Rosa Islands, where he went with his company to make exteriors for the production of his five reel feature, "The Bait."

William Clifford plays the leading role in this production, and is supported by Betty Hart, Bernard Montague, Edward Alexander, Oliver Allen and Maurice Cytron. The story is one of intrigue, and is laid in the North country.

Maurice Cytron, former director and actor with the Essanay company, has joined the Horsley studios as assistant director in the company of William J. Bowman.

David Horsley last week engaged the services of Roy McCardell, the newspaper man who broke into the film business with his serial feature, "The Diamond from the Sky." McCardell's work at the Horsley studio will be confined chiefly to the preparation of scenarios featuring the animals of the Bostock jungle.

The Sierra Film Company, one of the youngest on the Pacific Coast, has just competed its first comedy. M. J. Brandenstein is backing the venture and directing the action.

The name of A. H. Frahlich has been added to the payroll at the Rolin studios. Mr. Frahlich has been engaged to play juveniles.

Fourth Episode of "Lord John"

Out at the Universal studios, E. J. LeSaint has begun the production of the fourth episode of "The Journal of Lord John," a series which Harvey Gates is adapting for screen purposes, from the story by C. N. and A. M. Williamson. William Garwood is featured in this, and Stella Razeto, Laura Oakley, Albert MacQuarrie and Carmen Phillips support.

Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, last week arrived at the Pacific Coast studios of that organization. What Mr. Laemmle's coming may presage is still a matter of conjecture. Mr. Laemmle himself chooses to remain silent on the subject.

James Dayton, a well known free lance scenario writer of the Los Angeles colony, Tuesday morning of last week was found in an unconscious condition on the car tracks a short distance from Venice. Dayton was seen by the motorman of a Los Angeles bound car just in time to avoid crushing him.

How he got on the car tracks, or how long he had been there, Mr. Dayton was unable to say. It is generally accepted that the unusual strain of the past few weeks, during which time he has been overloaded with work, proved too much for him and his nerves snapped under the tension.

Otis Turner has given instructions for the building of a number of sets to be used in a forthcoming five reel production in which he will direct the action of Carter DeHaven and his wife, Flora Parker DeHaven.

The story is of the comedy dramatic type, and deals with the efforts of a boy's family to regain his friendship after having amount of money.

Psychological Punch for "Ill Born"

The Smalleys have began the production of a five reel feature by Franklin Hall and Lucy Paton. The story has a strong psychological punch and will be released under the title, "The Ill Born." The scenario for this production was written by Lois Weber, co-director, and will be produced with Marie Walcamp and Juan de la Cruze in the leading roles.

Hobart Henley, whose recent auto accident caused his resignation from the stellar role in Richard Stanton's production of the "Graft" serial, is improving rapidly, and is expected to step back into his place at the head of the cast with the production of the tenth installment.

Henry McRae, former director general with the Universal City studios, has left for a flying trip to Chicago, where he will spend a few days with his wife and little son, before returning to Los Angeles to make ready for his trip to Honolulu and the Orient. Mr. McRae several months ago sent his boy East, where he might secure the services of a specialist for a nervous disorder from which the boy was suffering. Since that time he has not seen either the child or his mother. Upon his return to the Pacific Coast, Mr. McRae will start to work immediately, making what American scenes are necessary for the productions he is to finish in the Orient.

VITAL MOMENTS IN CHAPTER 3 OF "THE GIRL AND THE GAME," SIGNAL RAILROAD SERIAL—RELEASE THROUGH MUTUAL BEGAN DEC. 27

Rumor has it that shortly after the first of the year a number of new producing companies are to be added to the force of the Western Biograph players. Thus far no one in authority has been persuaded to compromise himself by any flat statements. The rumor, however, seems rather too persistent to be ignored.

Though their force is small, the E. and R. Jungle Film Company is wasting no time in the matter of productions. Already this week it has completed there one reel comedy by Frances Caroline Willy entitled "Uncle's Little Ones," featuring the two chimpanzees, Napoleon and Sallie.

Lillian Browne Leighton, who has been playing in the Selig productions of "The Chronicles of Bloom Center," was engaged by the E. & R. R. for this one production. William Crinley plays opposite. They have also practically completed another one reeler by the same author under the title of "What Do You Think of That?"

Fritzi Brunnette Feature in "Badgered"

Fritzi Brunette is being featured in the one reel Selig subject entitled "Badgered," which is being produced by Director William Robert Daly.

LENORE ULRICH BIDDING GOOD-BYE TO FORREST STANLEY AT THE PALLAS STUDIOS, LOS ANGELES, JUST BEFORE HER DEPARTURE FOR MEXICO

Inceville, the home of Kay-Bee Triangle productions, this week was the scene of a very spectacular explosion, when a solid three-story building constructed of concrete, brick and timbers, was dynamited and then burned to the ground for realistic effects in scenes for the Triangle Kay-Bee subject starring William Collier.

Three hundred persons took part in these scenes, several cameras were used, twenty-five sticks of dynamite and three kegs of black powder were needed to shatter the structure, which represented an office building. Six weeks were required for the construction of the building, which was practical in every way.

Bessie Barriscale of the NYMP studios, returned last week from a prolonged vacation in the mountains. Her next production will be a drama of domesticity by James Montgomery, well known playwright, recently engaged by Thomas H. Ince.

The principal male roles are taken by William Desmond, Los Angeles matinee favorite, and Franklin Ritchie, former leading man of the Biograph company, who has been specially engaged for this production.

Andrews Cuts Into Parenthood

U. S. "Dell" Andrews of the Ince studio's cutting department staff, is this week receiving congratuations from all members and employes of the studio, as he has just become the father of an eight-pound baby daughter.

Telegraphic reports from William S. Hart of the NYMP studios, who with a company of players, cameramen and Indians went to Boulder Creek to make scenes for a current Triangle Kay-Bee feature, are to the effect that the company are still snowbound, and it will probably be several weeks before their return. During their sojourn they have obtained some very spendid snow effects.

William Collier, Jr., son of the noted comedian, who is being presented by Thomas H. Ince as star in a coming Triangle Kay-Bee feature, this week while working in scenes, narrowly escaped injury when he was thrown from his horse and tossed into the air.

Thomas H. Ince will soon offer another tri-star combination in the coming Triangle Kay-Bee feature entitled "Honor's Altar." The three leading parts are taken by Bessie Barriscale, Lewis Stone and Walter Edwards, who also directed the production. The scenario was written by C. Gardner Sullivan.

A private yacht, the property of Howard Hickman of the NYMP corporation, was used during the past week for sea scenes in the feature starring Frank Mills.

In "The Sorry Scheme of Things," the five reel American picture being made at Santa Barbara, May Allison, in the leading feminine role, has twenty-seven changes of costume. Miss Allison says: "I wear about everything from an expensive fur coat to a nightie."

The Richard Stanton Universal "Graft" serial company is now working on the sixth installment.

"Ben Blair," under the direction of Wm. D. Taylor, the Pallas director, is nearing completion despite the fact that Dustin Farnum, who is being featured, is still ill. Winifred Kingston is playing opposite Mr. Farnum.

Activities at Griffith Studios

At the Fine Arts studios, Lloyd Ingraham is at work on the production of a film drama, adapted from Grant Carpenter's fiction story, "The Little Apache." The story is rather odd in its conception, dealing with a young American artist who, while studying in Paris, meets and falls in love with "the little Apache," the product of a hopeless environment. Mae Marsh appears in the title role with Robert Harron playing opposite, in the character of the young artist.

In the production of "Daphne," Lillian Gish is this week being starred in the title role at the Griffith studios. The role assigned Miss Gish is that of a little French girl, an eleventh hour heroine, whose timely rescue of the Duke of Mornay results in a love interest that forms the theme of the story. Elliott Dexter plays opposite Miss Gish, and the two are supported by Walter Long, Joseph Singleton, George Pearce, W. E. Lawrence, Lucille Young, Richard Cummings, Howard Gray, Jewell Carman, Pearl Elmore and Jack Cosgrove.

Co-directors C. M. and S. A. Franklin this week took their entire company of Fine Arts players to Mount Lowe, where they made a number of exterior scenes in their production of a Triangle feature, "Martha's Vindication." The party included Norma Talmadge, Tully Marshall, Seena Owen, Charles West, Kate Toncray, Millard Webb, Frank Good, Ralph Lewis and George Pearce.

Wilfred Lucas was this week named for the stellar role in the production of a film drama by Frank E. Woods and Bernard McConville which will be released under the title, "The Brotherhood of Justice." The story deals with an organization of men founded to right a series of fancied wrongs from which they could expect no redress through medium of the courts.

LOUISE WELCH (Universal)

Fairbanks in Farce Comedy

In "His Picture in the Paper," written especially for him by Anita Loos and John Emerson, Douglas Fairbanks is soon to make his third appearance before picture audiences of this country. The story is of the farce comedy type and deals with the efforts of a young American to conform to the ideas of an exacting vegetarian parent.

De Wolf Hopper is at work in the stellar role of a comedy drama entitled, "Sunshine Dad." Eugene Pallette plays the role of the son. Edward Dillon is directing the production.

Nell Shipman, who is being featured in Rolin S. Sturgeon's production of "God's Country and the Woman," after a five days' stay in Los Angeles, has returned to the snow-covered mountains of the Bear Lake regions where the company is at work on exterior scenes for their production. The party expects to remain at least two weeks longer in the mountains before all their exteriors are made. Upon their return to the Vitagraph studios they will take up the making of the interiors.

More than five hundred men and women, members of the Gamut club of Los Angeles, and guests, assembled in the club house of that organization on the evening of Wednesday, December 22, to attend the club's annual "Christmas Jinks," given in courtesy to the actors-away-from-home who happened to be playing at Los Angeles studios and theatres during the holidays. The members and guests began assembling at an early hour and from nine thirty until eleven, when the closing of the show houses would enable the thespians to gather for the Jinks, the time was devoted to a concert of a varied nature, to suit the most catholic of tastes. When the greater part of the guests had arrived, places were taken for the grand march which led to the dancing pavilion.

Dancing began about eleven and lasted until the wee small hours when machines arranged for by the club members, conveyed the guests to their homes. In accordance with a precedent established five years ago, an honorary member was admitted to the organization. Victor Moore, of the Lasky company, was chosen for this honor, and after the ceremonies, was called upon for a speech. Being of contrary disposition, he insisted that he was no embryo William Jennings Bryan and expressed a desire to substitute a song for the requested speech. After some good natured argument, the substitute was accepted.

Features of "Christmas Jinks"

During the course of the evening, musical selections were rendered by various of the Orpheum stars, including Reine Davies, the Annapolis Five and James Diamond and Sybil Brennan. Thomas Wilson, late of the Griffith studios, also sang and Henri Le Bonti sang a number of songs that have made John McCormack famous. Refreshments were served, of course, sometime about midnight.

A unique feature of the entertainment lay in the fact that for the first time in the history of the organization, a limited number of outsiders were invited to the "Jinks." Among these favored ones were the members of the Scream Club, an organization of film company publicity men and trade paper representatives of Los Angeles.

SCENES IN AND AROUND THE NEW STUDIO OF THE WESTERN VITAGRAPH COMPANY AT HOLLYWOOD

After a brief visit at the Hollywood studio of the Lasky Film Company, Samuel Goldfish, treasurer and general manager, has returned to New York. Although his stay was of short duration, he found time to organize a committee of motion picture executives to raise money to add to the support of the Actors' Fund. The first of the meetings was held in the office of Mayor Sebastian of Los Angeles, and was attended by the heads of many of the motion picture studios of the city, together with members of the Chamber of Commerce and Los Angeles representatives of motion picture trade journals. At this meeting Jesse L. Lasky was appointed chairman of the committee which is to meet after the holidays to deliberate on ways and means of raising the desired funds.

Cecil B. De Mille has begun rehearsals in his production of a film version of the John Fox story, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Thus far, the only member of the east to have been officially announced is Charlotte Walker, who is to appear in the feature role.

Dickey to Direct Victor Moore

The announcement is made that Paul Dickey, co-author of "The Misleading Lady," is soon to begin the direction of Victor Moore. Thus far no decision has been reached as to the vehicle to be chosen for Moore.

The Lasky company which is engaged in the production of a filmization of the novel, "To Have and to Hold," has left the Hollywood studios for a stay of two weeks on Catalina island, where exterior scenes in the picture are to be staged. Owing to the recent fire which swept the island clear of all houses, a small passenger steamer has been chartered to serve as hotel for the troupe while working on the island. Mae Murray is to appear in the stellar role with Wallace Reid opposite.

William C. De Mille this week began the production of another subject featuring Blanche Sweet. The play is based upon the anarchistic movement which forms a background for the plot of the drama which runs through it.

The evening of Monday, December 20, was "Lasky night" at Quinn's Superba theatre in Los Angeles, held to mark the change of that theatre's program to exclusive Paramount service. Practically all of the Lasky players were present and a short address was delivered by Theodore Roberts at the opening of the bill.

The new laboratory at the Lasky Hollywood studios, designed by and constructed under the watchful eye of Alvin Wyckoff, head photographer, has been completed and will be in operation within the week.

Frank Reicher, who has just completed a filmization of the first of the Mark Twain subjects, "Pudd'nhead Wilson," is taking a short vacation prior to beginning work on another picture.

Ayres Convalescing from Illness

Sydney Ayres, producer at the U studios, is in San Francisco, convalescing from an attack of bronchitis contracted while in the snows of the Bear Lake country, making exteriors in the production of F. McGrew Willis' three reel story of the Canadian northwest, "John o' the Mountains." Doris Pawn, who has been playing opposite Ayres for the past year, has taken advantage of his absence to go east to visit her mother.

As a result of an auto accident in the streets of Los Angeles on Christmas eve, Capt. Duchallu Dalton, of the Fine Arts producing staff, is lying in the Sisters' Hospital in a serious condition. It is alleged that James J. Gormley, owner and driver of the car, after running down and possibly fatally injuring Miss Florence G. Whitman, attempted to turn the machine too sharply into a side street, ran up over the curb and collided with a telephone pole, hurling to his death Charles Harron, member of the Fine Arts stock company and brother of Robert Harron, another occupant of the car and seriously injuring both Dalton and Gormley.

TYPICAL SCENES FROM "VENGEANCE IS MINE," A COMING HORSLEY PRODUCTION

GLIMPSES OF FIVE EQUITABLE STARS WITH THEIR DIRECTORS. (Top Left) Frank Sheridan and John Ince. (Below) Muriel Ostriche and Charles M. Seay

(Center) Gail Kane and E. Mason Hopper

(Top Right) Emmett Corrigan and Frank Powell; (Below) S. E. V. Taylor and Molly McIntyre. These Ten Members of the Equitable Forces Are Actively Engaged on Productions

SEVENTEEN PARISIAN GOWNS WORN BY REGINA BADET

The gowns worn by Regina Badet, the French emotional actress, who stars as Sadunah, the dancer, in the Selig Red Seal play, "No Greater Love," released through V-L-S-E on January 10, are worthy of more than ordinary mention. They were all manufactured in Paris, and there are seventeen new and beautiful creations.

Miss Badet destroys one expensive garment in a daring plunge head first from the top of a cliff, hundreds of feet downward into the waters of a lake.

Miss Badet also wears a collection of costly jewels in her artistic dance of the Five Veils which is featured in this drama. The story concerns the love of a mother for her only daughter and she sacrifices everything for her daughter's happiness.

MILWAUKEE MANSION USED IN "MISLEADING LADY"

The summer home of George Sullivan, one of Milwaukee's wealthiest citizens, was used in Essanay's five-act feature, "The Misleading Lady." The home is located at Fox Point, a short distance from Milwaukee, and in architecture the style of an enormous log cabin is closely followed. The structure alone cost $25,000.

Equitable Is Ready with 12 Stars for Next Quarter

Eight Directors Are at Work on Picturizations of Well-Known Novels and Plays, and Original Scenarios by Harriet Ford, Rachel Crothers and Roy McCardell

THE Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation announces for the forthcoming quarter twelve stars in picturizations of the same number of novels, stage plays of recent vintage, and a few original stories from the pens of such writers as Harriet Ford, Rachel Crothers, Roy McCardell, and Richard Le Gallienne. Eight directors are at work on features soon to be released by Equitable.

The productions announced for release during the months of January, February and March are:

Margarita Fischer in "The Dragon"; Molly McIntyre in S. E. V. Taylor's drama, "Her Great Hour," which was also produced by the author; Marie Empress in "Behind Closed Doors"; Julia Dean, who will make her Equitable debut in "The Ransom," under production by Joseph A. Golden and Edmund Lawrence of the Triumph staff; Gail Kane in "Her God," which is being filmed at Naco, Arizona, under the direction of E. Mason Hopper; Frank Sheridan, Arthur Ashley, and Mary Charleson in "The Struggle,' which John Ince is producing at Mount Kisco, N. Y. The exteriors for this picture will be taken in the West.

Two other features are announced for the first three months of the year: Emmett Corrigan in "The Chain Invisible," initial screen play by Richard Le Gallienne, for which Frank Powell is busy assembling casts and securing locations, and the exteriors for which will be taken in the West and South; Carlyle Blackwell in Samuel Hopkins Adams' tirade against fake nostrums, "The Clarion," scenes for which are being made under the direction of James Durkin, at Jacksonville, Fla.

The Equitable's announced offerings for April are: Muriel Ostriche in "Babette of the Ballyhoo"; Marguerite Leslie, former leading woman for Sir Henry Irving, in "The Pain Flower," and Mary Boland, in "Three Pairs of Shoes."

Charles Seay, directing Miss Ostriche, is traveling through the South, he and his company being the guests of an itinerant circus.

Harry Handworth is producing "The Pain Flower" at Flushing, Long Island, with several out of town places figuring in Handworth's itinerary for the exteriors.

Joseph A. Golden and Edmund Lawrence are at work on the Mary Boland subject.

S. E. V. Taylor will begin work shortly on "Passerby." He is awaiting the scenario which is in preparation by C. Haddon Chambers.

Wild West Greeting for Tree at Fine Arts Studio

Famous English Actor Makes Entry with Seven Shooter Salvos from Cowboys Amid Applause of Several Hundred Players, Following Welcome from Mayor

Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 31.

THE arrival of Sir Herbert Tree, to make a photoplay of Macbeth at the Fine Arts studio, has stirred the film metropolis as has no other event for months.

He was met at the train by Mayor Sebastian and other city officials, prominent representatives of the British Red Cross and scores of celebrated motion picture people and was given an ovation.

At the Fine Arts studio, his welcome was equally hearty. As he drove up his automobile was surrounded by the band of real western cowboys attached to the studio, who fired a salvo from their six-shooters.

Several hundred players had gathered and warmly applauded. For the players Sir Hebert was welcomed by DeWolf Hopper, Dean of the Fine Arts stars, and George Stone and Francis Carpenter, the two youngest actors, aged four and six.

Director General David W. Griffith and members of the executive staff, received the distinguished guest, who was accompanied by his daughter Iris. They spent the morning watching the various companies at work on the big out-door stages, a new experience to both.

Unusual preparations are being made by the Griffith staff for its first Shakespearian production. An extraordinary amount of research work has been called for in order to secure accuracy of detail and the settings will be of impressive magnitude where opportunity offers.

WALTHALL, SPENCER AND DARWIN ON THE JOB FOR ESSANAY

Henry B. Walthall, who plays the leading part in Essanay's five-act photoplay, "The Misleading Lady," helped in the suggestion and the action of the allegorical cut-ins which show the methods of cave men in obtaining wives.

Mr. Walthall, a deep student and a disciple of Spencer, worked out the Darwinian theory in the make-up of the man and woman who played the allegory. They are dressed, or rather undressed in the costume of our primitive ancestors. This part of the picture is particularly striking.

JUST TO MAKE TALK

By LONGACRE

Our heartfelt sympathies are hereby tendered to Director George Foster Platt, of Edwin Thanhouser's staff. Platt recently attempted to bring out the histrionic abilities of five trade press representatives when they appeared as Boston reporters in the special Thanhouser feature, "What Doris Did," starring Doris Grey, the prize winner of the beauty contest held at the Boston ball.

Personal characteristics of the pressmen would not be downed, and no histrionic talent was discovered by Director Platt. Lynde Denig, for instance, persisted in looking absolutely fiendish, as if he were going to carry off the fair Doris to some distant lair. Jim Milligan thought the picture was to be a Falstaff comic and pulled a lot of small time stuff, while Friends Buckley and Watts allowed their eyes to wander from the setting, and fall on stray Thanhouser beauties who were meandering invitingly about the studio.

Platt, however, is a good director, and we hereby vouch that no adverse criticism will appear concerning this scene, but in future he will do well to keep such exasperating specimens of feminine beauty as Gladys Leslie off the studio stairs when he wants susceptible newspaper men to attempt to act. It simply can't be done.

Around in those places where people really on the inside of things are to be found, one hears considerable mention nowadays of William Nigh. It appears that the Metro organization is expecting great things of this young director, who has succeeded in keeping out of the public eye fairly well. He is a man of original ideas with the vigor required to "put 'em across," and the work he has already done for the Metro program, such as "Emmy of Stork's Nest," and "The Yellow Streak," stamp him with a certain individuality which makes it a reasonable belief that the hopes of the Metro impresario are not ill-founded. Not only does he direct in an incisive and original way, but he is a writer of scripts, himself, and on several occasions has stepped into the breach with an original scenario when the regular avenues of supply had failed. Another peculiarity attributed to him is a rule to appear at least once in every picture he produces. This was true in "Emmy," in which he was seen on the porch of the house when the famous fight started, and in the "Yellow Streak," when he stands beside the road, listlessly watching horsemen dash past. In a picture which he is just completing, he is playing a whole character himself. This is because the man he engaged for the part was seized by a fit of acute temperament, and failed to appear when Mr. Nigh was ready to begin work.

Being on the subject of automobiles, it is competent to present here an affidavit from the West coast, that finally the management of Universal City is preparing to care for the growing flock of automobiles owned by their actors, directors, scene painters and scenario writers. The dimensions of the building are not announced, but we gather that it will be nearly as large as Kitty Gordon's bungalow. It seems that at least five hundred employes of Universal City have cars, and all these must be stored. In addition, it is planned to build a repair shop, and there is some doubt whether a factory, to build cars for the Universal employes, would not be a saving.

"Bill" Muldoon, repairer of men, made his first appearance in the movies in the

WILLIAM NIGH

Raver film, "The Other Girl." Not only was it his first appearance on the screen, but when he came down to New York to see the picture, last week, it was his first sight of a motion picture. Inasmuch as Mr. Muldoon was one of the best actors in the piece, we can understand why he is suddenly enthusiastic about acting, as well as motion pictures generally.

We have never envied Anna Held much, except her salary. Now we realize that if we had an acquaintance as extensive as hers, maybe we could pull down the salary. Miss Held, who is playing in Morosco pictures, sent 3,000 Christmas cards to French soldiers in the trenches. Under the typewritten signature of Pete Schmid, it is stated that she knows personally every man to whom a post card was sent. She knows a lot of people in New York, too.

The agitation, started, it is said, by Petronius, over the correct pronunciation of the proper name "Taliaferro," is not going to be allowed to worry Louise Carbasse, a member of the De Grasse Universal company. This actress heard that a discussion of the proper pronunciation of her name had been started by various publicity men, and immediately took steps to change her last name to Welch. In the future she is to be Louise Welch.

John Oaker, who has played leads in a number of the Centaur features, on the Mutual program, has advised us that he has just signed a year's contract with David Horsely.

The man who can look ahead, and get in just a little in advance of the other fellow, is the one who is going to make the big money. The principle of "come early and avoid the rush" never worked out more effectually than in the picture industry. Arthur James, of Metro Pictures, quotes an instance of this kind of looking ahead, which was brought to his attention by a letter from a Brooklyn man. The letter said:

"I want to be the first man to jump off the Woolworth tower in a parachute. I want your advice, if you will be kind enough to give it to me. What I want to know is how to go about it. That is, to notify the different film companies, and who to see. Also what price to charge. You will greatly oblige me by sparing me some of your valuable time."

The Metro company replied that it has no parachute.

Yes, Tom Moore is in pictures. The celebrated husband of Alice Joyce, brother-in-law of Mary Pickford, etc., has just signed a contract with Lubin, and announces that "you couldn't blow him out of pictures with all the guns of the united armies in the universe." The guns referred to are otherwise engaged, as we go to press. Besides, most everyone is glad to have Tom remain in pictures.

Miss Adele Blood, it is now allowed to become known, received a $10,000 limousine for Christmas. The fact was announced from the studio of the Premo Feature Film Corporation, where Miss Blood is working in "The Devil's Toy." We scorn reference to the appropriateness of the name, but quote the announcement, which adds, "The gift was from a favorite aunt, who never forgets her niece on this occasion." Miss Blood was born in 1886, and we figure that this is her thirtieth such "occasion." If aunty has been real faithful, there should be a neat little string of Blood automobiles about now.

It takes versatility to get a real thoroughgoing line of publicity across in these times; and the modern publicity man is equal to the situation. One of them—and we fancy we know who he is—has turned architect, and is building a little bungalow for Kitty Gordon down on the sands of Long Beach, or Key West, or the Sinai Peninsula, or somewhere.

As we gather it, the plans for this bungalow, though not complete, are somewhat elaborate. Adding up all the conversation, and dividing by six, we find that the structure, in mere size, will not be much larger than the state of Delaware, which everyone knows, is one of the smallest states in the Union, but in decorations, fittings and the like, it would be worthy of attention.

It is to be somewhat Chinesey, we hear, rather in the style of Chi Blah Gooey, of the tenth dynasty, for which Miss Gordon has an inordinate fondness. The architect reports that there are to be a number of ancient vases and jades of the Go Blah Gick period, doubtless the work of Blah-blah himself, as Miss Gordon has discovered the unmistakable blue swirl which was the mark of the Gee-Blooey craft, in which the Blah school predominated.

Nero once built himself a golden house, which occupied most of the hills and valley of Rome. If Miss Gordon can find the plans of this, it is whispered, she will have the building duplicated, as an aquarium for the gold fish in her entrance hall. That's what she thinks of old Ahenobarbus.

As showing what a script reader has to face, it may be stated that out of several hundred manuscripts submitted for the use of Francis X. Bushman, recently, one was found to be available.

What with prosperity in the air, the moving picture business can not but be helped. True it suffered less than any other amusement industry since the European war broke out, but even so it suffered to some degree. Now it has become acclimated to the idea of America as practically the only market for American made films. All the established companies weathered the storm all right. With prosperity gradually sweeping Westward from the Atlantic and Eastward from the Pacific better times are on the way.

One index of Mary Pickford's popularity may be found in the statement of Clinton T. Brainerd, president of the McClure Newspaper Syndicate, which will syndicate a story of Miss Pickford's life, that he believes the Pickford story will be a better seller than those of Roosevelt, Taft or Bryan.

CLIFFE IN A NEW FOX UNDER HARLAN

H. Cooper Cliffe, who has just finished "A Parisian Romance," and George Walsh, who has completed his work in "The Serpent," will begin a new William Fox production under the direction of James Vincent, in which Macey Harlan has an important part.

"Race Suicide" Prolific of Offers from Exchanges

Joe Farnham Announces Reception of Applications for Territory Control Aggregating $50,000 from State Rights Men in This Country and in Canada

APPLICATIONS accompanied with bids for territory control which aggregate more than $50,000 is the compliment which has been accorded to Joseph W. Farnham and his motion picture attraction "Race Suicide," by the exchange men of the United States and Canada.

Little more than two weeks ago Mr. Farnham opened an office at 220 West Forty-second street, with G. Fred Farnham, a newcomer to the film industry, in charge, to handle the distribution of this six part feature.

In that short time, despite the fact that there has been no pre-release showing of his picture, confidence has been manifested in the former general manager of the All Star Feature Corporation and member of the staff of the Lubin Manufacturing Company, to the extent of the bids aforementioned.

"Race Suicide" has been in the course of making for more than the past six months. The subject is one which Theodore Roosevelt made a household topic some few years ago, and which with the awful European strife, again leaps to the front as an issue.

Beginning with a series of pictures of animal life depicting the love or hate of the male and female for issue, pictures which were produced under the direction of Prof. Raymond Ditmars of the New York Zoological Park, the picture carries one back to the pre-historic ages when men ruled by might and not by love.

Then the Roman times, to the mediaeval period, and then on to the present age, when two virile young people are married, the wife planning her future years of motherhood, while the husband discourages the intent under the plea that her younger days should not be ruined by the binding of herself to children until fate comes along to play its hand and the later day never comes, to gladden the heart of the saddened wife.

Prominently cast in the leading roles are Ormi Hawley, Earl Metcalfe, Octavia Handworth, Kempton Greene, Herbert Fortier and Walter Law.

Mr. Farnham plans a trade showing of his picture during the early part of this week, at which time he will make public the names of the exchanges who will handle "Race Suicide."

Radio Sends Wireless of "Preparedness" Subject

Company Makes Announcement of Release Set for "Defense or Tribute?" a Picture Advocating Guarantee of Peace by Armament Against War Possibilities

ANNOUNCEMENTS are going forth to the trade at large from the offices of the Radio Film Company, Inc., 1446 Broadway, New York, to the effect that "Defense or Tribute?" a Radio moving picture production, is a strong motion picture treatment of the "peace-through-preparedness-idea."

When one of the directors of the company was interviewed, he declared that the scenario for "Defense or Tribute?" was written something over six months ago, and that it has been worked out with painstaking care since that time.

Now "Defense or Tribute?" being ready for release, considerable discussion is rife on the claims made by this new historical drama.

"Defense or Tribute?" has for its theme, the idea that America must prepare against a possible enemy. The story links up the various conflicts of history and attempts to prove that war is inevitable—that human nature is the same today as it was in the days of Rome.

Another very interesting phase of the production is that "Defense or Tribute?" points out conslusively that in every conflict of importance, unpreparedness was fatal to a nation.

MARTA (MARGARET GIBSON) ASSISTS THE DETECTIVE (ROY WATSON) TO THE CABIN AFTER THE FIGHT WITH THE LION: SCENE FROM "MARTA OF THE JUNGLE," CENTAUR-MUTUAL FEATURE

TRIANGLE HOPEFUL OF 1,000 SERVICE CONTRACTS SOON

There was an air of aggressive activity around the executive offices and branch exchanges of the Triangle Film Corporation in the closing days of the old year and the opening days of the new.

Triangle heads are preparing a tremendous 1916 campaign. With approximately six hundred theatres lined up in the film service by January 1, the executives confidently expect within the next few weeks to have at least one thousand service contracts actively in force.

The methods of promotion and publicity used will be extensive. Important announcements will be made in the near future concerning the South American and other foreign releases. Here in this country the Triangle will be brought to every locality of playable size.

LOOKING AT "THE UNWRITTEN LAW," CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION'S NEW VEHICLE FOR BEATRIZ MICHELENA

ALLEEN FAYE WROTE HER OWN SCENARIOS IN GERMANY

Alleen Faye, a motion picture actress of considerable experience here and abroad, has taken up her residence in New York.

Her European career included engagements in England, Germany and France, where she played leads for Pathé, Gaumont, Harry Walden at Berlin, and in vampire roles for Kinemacolor. In Germany she wrote her own scenarios. She has also appeared in Edison pictures in America, and in small parts for Universal.

ALLEEN FAYE

MIX, COWBOY STAR, ENTERTAINED BY SELIG

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 31.

Tom Mix, the cowboy star of the Selig Polyscope Company, came from Las Vegas, N. M., to Chicago, Ill., last week and was entertained by William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company.

Mr. Mix was a guest at one of Chicago's leading hostelries and attracted much attention with his cowboy hat and high-heeled riding boots.

Mr. Mix is engaged in filming some spectacular Western dramas.

"Unwritten Law" Best Medium for Star's Talents

Screen Version of Royle Play by California Motion Picture Corporation Lends Itself to Emotional Portrayal of Beatriz Michelena

WITH the final scenes of the production photographed, the officials of the California Motion Picture Corporation declare that in "The Unwritten Law," they have the greatest photoplay yet filmed at their studios. Beatriz Michelena is said to have excelled her characterization of "Salvation Nell," the role played by her in the last California release.

The final touches are now being perfected on it in the producing company's cutting room at San Rafael, California, and advance information gives assurance that the first completed print will have been shipped to the metropolis in the near future.

From the reports there would appear to be an unusual number of climaxes and big moments in the production. The greatest of these, however, comes at the end of the picture and is consummated with Kate Wilson (Beatriz Michelena) on the witness stand in a tremendous court room scene.

It is in this scene, according to her admirers who have had an opportunity of seeing it on the screen, that the California star reaches the greatest height.

It is said that she here excels the pathos of her crying scene in "Salvation Nell," which was the one outstanding feature of that production.

Edward Milton Royle, author of original stage version, is among those most elated over the optimistic reports from producing headquarters.

"If the production comes at all up to reports from California," he declares, "it will be among the greatest features ever shown on the screen. I am particularly well pleased with reports concerning the work of Miss Michelena.

The role is one of tremendous pathos in which the actress has to portray strongest emotions."

The cast supporting Miss Michelena is said to be of uniform excellence. Andrew Robson plays the role of Larry McCarthy and William Pike, who played opposite her in "Salvation Nell," appears in "The Unwritten Law" as John Wilson, her husband. Others in the present cast are Irene Outtrim, Nina Herbert, Frank Hollins and Clarence Arper.

Whole Floor for Lasky Offices in New York City

Company Moves from 120 West Forty-first Street to New Rogers, Peet Building, 485 Fifth Avenue, Making Third Change Compelled by Rapid Increasing Business

WHILE the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company's studios at Hollywood, Cal., have been spreading out over a large tract of land, the executive offices of the firm, situated in New York, have been moved to larger and more commodious quarters also.

The New York offices, heretofore comprising the entire top floor of the building at 120 West Forty-first street, are now situated in the new Rogers Peet Company Building, 485 Fifth avenue, where they take in the entire eighth floor of the building.

The process of moving from the old quarters into the new took place on New Year's day, soon after the return from Hollywood of Samuel Goldfish, executive head of the company.

In the arrangement of the new offices of the Lasky company there has been a marked departure from the conventional system of office architecture. The first thing that will surprise the caller is a big waiting room, handsomely and comfortably furnished with easy chairs and lounges, reading table and writing desks.

The entire Fifth avenue frontage is divided into private offices for Mr. Goldfish, Mr. Lasky, Arthur S. Friend, and a directors' room.

On the Fortieth street side will be the offices of Whitman Bennett, business manager, and John C. Flinn, publicity manager. In the rotunda the stenographic department is situated and in spacious quarters to the rear of the floor is the shipping department.

The move to 485 Fifth avenue is the third time the executive offices of the Lasky company have been changed in order to obtain sufficient room for the business transactions of the increasing activities of the firm.

BEYFUSS, OF CALIFORNIA MOTION, TAKES TRIP EAST

Alex E. Beyfuss, vice-president and general manager of the California Motion Picture Corporation, is in New York, and is located at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. This corporation has recently completed the second of its new series of film dramatizations, "The Unwritten Law," with Beatrix Michelena, but Mr. Beyfuss is not ready to announce details of the film's release and distribution.

The California Corporation, backed by Western capital, came into the production field more than a year ago. They have made several multiple reel features, including "Salomy Jane," "Salvation Nell," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Mignon," and "Lily of Poverty Flat."

Mutual Not Neglecting Short for Long Pictures

Right Along with the Issuance of Its Weekly Releases of Three Five-Reel Masterpictures De Luxe and Three Reelers, Company Is Making Many One and Two-Reel Subjects

ALTHOUGH the Mutual Film Corporation has enlarged its feature output into weekly releases of three five-reel Masterpictures De Luxe, and three three-reel photoplays, the production of shorter pictures is going steadily on.

A comedy drama, "Settled Out of Court," featuring Lucille Ward and William Carroll, from the American studios; a two-part Reliance drama, "The Law of Success," with Olga Grey, Charles West and others, and Cissy Fitzgerald in a Casino Star Comedy entitled "Leave it to Cissy," make up the briefer Mutual offerings for the first three days of January.

For the week of January 3, thirteen one and two-reel releases are scheduled; for the week of January 10, fourteen.

Vivian Rich and Alfred Vosburgh lead off with a two-part American comedy drama, "Matching Dreams," on Monday, January 3, while the comedy pictures of that date include "The Optimistic Oriental Occults," a Falstaff, with Riley Chamberlain and Frances Keyes; and the second of the Vogue Company's output, "An Innocent Crook."

January 4 brings "Billy Van Deusen's Shadow," a one-real Beauty comedy, together with a Gaumont scenic and animated cartoon.

The Horsley studios contribute a two-part drama on January 6, descriptive of the life of a school teacher in the West. It is entitled "The Homesteader," and features Margaret Gibson. "Hilda's Husky Helper," a Falstaff featuring Louise Emerald Bates and Claude Cooper, and "Mutual Weekly, No. 53," also appear January 6.

Friday, January 7, is favored with two dramas, "The Hills of Glory," a Mustang, in which E. Forrest Taylor essays a new type of role; and "Time and Tide," a humorous American picture, in which Alfred Vosburgh and Nell Frenzen are prominent. "Jerry in the Movies," a George Ovey subject, is the Cub comedy for January 7.

Saturday and Sunday, January 8 and 9, "To Be Or Not to Be," a Beauty comedy, and "Alias Mr. Jones," a Casino star comedy, will make their appearance.

Four dramas are scheduled for the week of January 10: "Viviana," in which Vivian Rich, George Periolat, Leslie Reed and others appear; "Marta of the Jungles," a Horsley picture starring Margaret Gibson and portraying African jungle life; "The Secret Wire" and "The Gamble," both presenting Harold Lockwood in the stellar role, supported by May Allison, Harry Von Meter and William Stowell.

The week's comedies are as follows: "Belinda's Bridal Breakfast," Falstaff, featuring the Thanhouser players Barbara Gilroy and Bert Delancy, and a Vogue comedy, yet untitled, on January 10; "The First Quarrel," featuring the Beauty stars, Carol Holloway and John Sheehan, January 11; a second untitled Vogue comedy on January 12; a Falstaff brand comedy, "Reforming Rubbering Rosie," featuring Arthur Cunningham and George Mack, on January 13; "Spider Barlow Meets Competition," a crook comedy from the American studios, with Winnifred Greenwood and Ed. Coxen in the leading roles, and "Jerry in Mexico," another George Ovey Cub release, on January 14; "Getting in Wrong," a Beauty comedy with Neva Gerber and William Carroll on January 15, and "Ham and Eggs," a Casino star comedy featuring Budd Ross on January 16.

"Screen an Ultimate Good to Stage"—Brady

It Will at Least Prove One Grand Purifier of "Legitimate" If It Does Nothing Else Than Put the Kibosh of Fourth Rate Road Companies

WILLIAM A. Brady, the prolific producer of successful "spoken dramas" and one of the main contributors to the World Film Corporation program, contrary to many managers and actors who see in the advancement of the motion picture industry a menace to the stage, believes that the screen will prove ultimately a great boon to the real drama.

"It is true," said Mr. Brady to an interviewer the other day, "that motion pictures have dealt a severe blow to one phase of the theatrical business and for that alone we should be duly grateful.

"I refer to the death of the old No. 1, 2, 3, 4 companies that used to flit about the country perpetrating outrages in the name of histrionic art.

"Motion picture dramas have taught the public the folly of being buncoed out of a dollar and a half or a dollar to witness a fourth-class performance of a big New York dramatic success.

"Of course, this has worked disastrously for a certain element of the theatrical profession. It has been a serious matter for actors of inferior ability and for those managers whose one idea of their business was to make a killing with a play in one season, a cleanup, one grand sweep of every possible dollar.

"But after all, these are the least desirable elements in the business, and it will be just as well when they return to the more prosaic occupations for which they are fitted.

"But to attempt to argue that motion pictures have seriously affected the stage in its highest and truest aspects is absurd. This is a boom season throughout the country.

"Motion picture houses are swamped with patrons, and yet there has been no worthy play or musical entertainment staged this season that has not met with prompt and substantial support on the part of the public.

"Good plays, well presented, do not fail today any more often than before the motion picture was invented. It is merely that the motion pictures have taught the public not to waste its money on inferior theatrical attractions.

"As for the future of the motion pictures, I do not consider myself enough of a prophet to attempt a forecast. I look for a tremendous advancement in the educational aspect of the motion picture.

"I also can conceive the day when the motion picture as a distributor of news will run the daily paper a close race in popular favor.

"The day of the melodramatic 'thrills' on the screen, with its ship-wrecks, train collisions and desperate deeds of daring and peril is rapidly drawing to its close. So too, is the era of photodramatic adaptations of popular novels and old-time plays.

"Virile and vital dramas of modern life, written by men and women who have given the best of their brains to the study of the possibilities and limitations of the film, are rapidly coming to the fore."

KUGLER, CAMERA EXPERT, JOINS TERRISS

One of the first steps taken by Tom Terriss in arranging for the material expansion of the Terriss Film Corporation during the coming year was the engagement of Frank G. Kugler, who will be associated with the actor-director in the direction department of the company.

Because of his long and wide experience in the photographic department of the film industry, Mr. Kugler will also have charge of the Terriss camera forces.

Kugler is best known in this country for his photography of the principal Fox features with Directors Edgar Lewis and J. Gordon Edwards.

MELDRUM WILL SELL "GIRL AND GAME" IN NORTHWEST

Jack Meldrum, former manager of the Universal's Seattle office, has been appointed representative in the Northwest for the new Mutual serial, "The Girl and the Game."

JOSEPH KLEIN A HAPPY PAPA

A son, who has been named Lewis J. Selznick Klein, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Klein on December 26. Klein is Southern division manager for the World Film Corporation.

LEAH BAIRD WROTE HER PRESENT "V" VEHICLE

Leah Baird, the Vitagraph player, is the author of the three-part Broadway Star Feature on which she is now at work and in which she plays a dual role.

LUBIN STARS AND PLAYS: OCTAVIA HANDWORTH, SCENES FROM "A SKATE FOR A BRIDE" AND "A BATH TUB MYSTERY"; AND TOM MOORE

WALTHALL TAKES FLYING TRIP HOME FOR XMAS

Henry B. Walthall, Essanay's leading man, reached Birmingham, Alabama, and his home in time to say "Hello" and "Goodbye" when he went to spend his short Christmas holidays with the home folks.

In the first place he was delayed in starting through finishing of "The Misleading Lady." He left Chicago on the 6:05 train, Christmas Eve, three quarters of an hour late, and got into Nashville, Tennessee, at 10:25, just in time to miss the train for Birmingham.

After a ten-hour wait, he caught the train for Birmingham and reached the city Sunday morning. He spent part of the day there, leaving home again for Chicago at 5 o'clock Sunday night and reaching there Monday about 6:20 P. M.

DAVIS MADE ASSISTANT TO HADDOCK AT GAUMONT

James G. Davis, who has been identified with the Gaumont forces for some time, has been appointed assistant to Director William F. Haddock.

Screen's Full Moon Outshines Crescent City Stage

Film Luminary Engulfs Faint, Scimitar-Like Gleams of Dying Popularity from 2 "Legit" Theatres, Which Had Cast Feeble Light Across Amusement Horizon

Special to Motion Picture News

New Orleans, La., Dec. 31.

AS the natural sequence to an unprecedented shake-up in New Orleans film exchange circles, several important announcements of new theatres and the entrance into this city of the Triangle program, besides the realization that a decided censorship movement is on foot, have kept film men on the qui vive for several weeks.

Gradually, but surely, new conditions here are being created; the early part of 1916 will witness a radical change in every department of the showing of motion pictures.

New Orleans has long suffered from the want of genuine motion picture houses; every film man of prominence who passes through the town decries the lack of a theatre with an orchestra.

Now, from all indications, New Orleans is to get a new and entirely modern photoplay theatre that will be in keeping with the very latest achievements in the motion picture industry.

Eastern investors are negotiating for the purchase of a site for this contemplated theatre, which probably will be erected in Baronne street. To a representative of Motion Picture News, Harold Newman, owner of the property, admitted that Eastern and local capital was interested in the project and that interesting developmets might be expected shortly.

With a new and modern theatre virtually assured, two legitimate houses of New Orleans have turned to pictures. The Crescent theatre, long the home of legitimate productions, will open on January 1 as a motion picture house, presenting the Paramount program.

In addition, it is asserted on high authority that the entrance of the Triangle program is only a matter of a few weeks.

Triangle films will necessarily be shown at one of the theatres heretofore staging only the "legitimate" attractions. Therefore, this list is narrowed down to the Lafayette, Lyric, Greenwall or Dauphine theatres, neither one of which may be said to be in a good location. However, the Triangle program most assuredly will attract crowds wherever presented.

An interesting angle is given the situation by Colonel T. C. Campbell, managing the Tulane and Crescent theatres for Klaw and Erlanger:

"We simply could not get attractions (legitimate) for the price charged."

And so the Crescent theatre has turned to pictures.

Within a week, two handsome new suburban houses have opened. The Ideal theatre, under the management of C. A. Anderson, seating five hundred, is a new addition to the upper section, at Dryades and Cadiz streets.

The U. S. Auditorium, Magazine, near Louisiana avenue, built by W. G. Tebault, Jr., and Ed. B. Stafford, at a cost of $21,000, opened on December 22. Features of this house are a Wurlitzer $5,000 organ and excellent opera chairs. Sid Levy's new Eugie theatre, in Ursuline street, will open within a few weeks.

The censorship situation may be summed up in a nutshell: the women's organizations want censorship, and so far as can be seen, they are in a fair way to get it, for no organized attempt on the part of exhibitors to circumvent their efforts has been noticed.

A. Jules Benedic.

Ellis Is Director for Kalem's "Sis Hopkins"

Company to Support Rose Melville Nearly Organized for Trip to Jacksonville, Fla.—Technical Crew for the Production Already on Way South—Single Reelers First Releases

THE announcement that Robert Ellis has been chosen director for the "Sis Hopkins" company, starts the ball rolling in the production of that forthcoming Kalem special.

The company to support Rose Melville in her screen debut is being rapidly organized and plans call for a start for the Jacksonville studio on Saturday.

A technical crew left New York last week so that no time will be lost in beginning the work of production.

Kalem covered the field thoroughly before appointing a director for the pictures. Director Ellis has shown his worth as a producer of multiple reel features and in the closing episodes of the "Ventures of Marguerite," but it has been only on infrequent occasions that he has been given opportunities for comedy work.

Then the unexpected happened, when "The Sealskin Coat," a coming episode of the "Ventures" was given its first showing to Kalem officials last week. This episode is delightful farce comedy, and the cleanest manner in which Director Ellis handled his material left but one conclusion when the picture was over.

Ellis was speedily informed to prepare for the trip South with the Sis Hopkins company.

For a time it was the intention of the Kalem Company to present Rose Melville in a multiple reel feature before starting the production of the one-reelers which will in February replace the "Ventures" as the Friday General Film release.

But the announcement of Rose Melville's acquisition in last week's trade papers resulted in a flood of letters from exhibitors and exchange men praising the drawing powers of a Sis Hopkins one-reel series so that plans for a feature have been laid aside indefinitely. The single-reelers, for which a number of special scenarios have already been prepared, will be the first thought.

Another item of Sis Hopkins news made public by the Kalem Company, was the announcement that Frank Minzey had been secured to play an important role in the pictures.

Though long prominently identified with the Sis Hopkins stage productions, it took considerable persuasion to induce Mr. Minzey to consent to an appearance on the screen.

NANCE O'NEIL'S EMOTIONAL TALENT TO FIND VEHICLE IN "BONDAGE"

Nance O'Neil is hard at work on the Lubin multiple reel feature "Souls in Bondage," an original story written for the screen by Daniel Carson Goodman, author of "The Crash," and being produced by Edgar Lewis.

NANCE O'NEIL

"Souls in Bondage" was chosen by Miss O'Neil as the story best suited to exploit the talents for which she is known the world over.

HOWARD TO NOVELIZE "U" SCENARIO

The honor of having a novel made from a scenario for the first time seems to have fallen to the Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

George Bronson Howard, the noted dramatist and novelist, saw the rehearsals of Cleo Madison in the Broadway Universal Feature production, "A Soul Enslaved," a five-act emotional drama.

A story by Adele Farrington, which was scenarioized by Olga Printzlau made such a decided impression upon Mr. Howard that he immediately got in touch with Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal, to arrange for the novel rights of the film drama.

Negotiations were satisfactorily completed and Mr. Howard has started work.

Metro's Centre-Rush Dash Toward Popularity Goal

Company Assembles in Film Field Star Players Whose Weight of Stage and Screen Experience, with Knowledge of Fine Points of the Game, Are Expected to Score Victory

METRO begins the new year with a rush that bodes well for the coming season, according to an announcement made at the new offices of that corporation at the Longacre Building.

Two new directors have been added to Metro's already large staff, and a new star will shine from the Metro firmament, a new leading woman, who later will doubtless achieve stellar rank.

C. A. C. Lund, who has a long line of motion picture achievements to his credit is one of the new directors.

The locale of the first feature, which is as yet unnamed is in the snowy wilds of Labrador and thither Mr. Lund will go with a company of Metro players, headed by Hamilton Revelle and a very well-known leading woman who has been selected, but whose name is at present withheld.

Mr. Lund is now in Portland, Maine, whither he has gone to perfect arrangements for this distinctive feature picture. Early this week he telegraphed from that city, that he had chartered two ships, with which the Metro players and camera-men will make the trip into the frozen North.

One of these vessels will carry the party, and is an Arctic-going ship. The other is an old tramp steamer to be used in staging the photoplay.

One of the most startling effects ever shown on the screen will mark the destruction of this latter vessel, which when all is ready will be sent full speed ahead until it crashes into a huge ice berg. The start for Labrador will be made during the next fortnight, Mr. Revelle and the other players, leaving New York early in the coming week.

The production will be made under the auspices of Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., for the Metro program. An unusually strong supporting cast has been engaged. Mr. Revelle, who was last seen on the screen in "An Enemy to Society," a Columbia-Metro feature picture, has been appearing in a prominent role in "Fair and Warmer" one of the big stage successes of the present season, at the Eltinge theatre, New York, under the management of Selwyn and Company. He will leave the cast of that play, to accompany Metro's Labrador expedition.

Metro also announces that Julius Steger, the popular dramatic actor, who recently joined forces with Metro as a permanent star, will begin work immediately upon the strong five-act feature production, "The Blindness of Love. This dramatic vehicle was written by Ruth Mitchel Comfort, the well-known dramatist and novelist. The production will be made by Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., for the Metro program, and will be directed by Charles Horan.

Mr. Horan recently completed "The Rose of the Alley," in which little Mary Miles Minter is starred.

Mabel Taliaferro, who achieved fame on the speaking stage in "Polly of the Circus," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and other notable productions, will begin work on two new Metro wonderplays. The interiors for both will be made in the Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., studio, and the exteriors made as soon as the weather permits.

Edwin Carewe, who directed Emily Stevens in the two wonderful features, "Destiny; or, the Soul of a Woman," and "The House of Tears," and Ethel Barrymore, in "The Final Judgment" will direct Miss Taliaferro, in the new two feature productions.

A new leading man will be seen with Miss Taliaferro in both these features, although he has not yet been selected. The Taliaferro features will also be produced by the Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., for the Metro program.

William Nigh, who is at present directing Valli Valli in "Her Debt of Honor," has a few exterior scenes to make before completing the feature, and as soon as they are finished he will begin work on another big Metro production in which Lionel Barrymore and Marguerite Snow will be starred.

This five-part photodrama is still unnamed, and was written by Mr. Nigh himself, who is also the author of "Her Debt of Honor," and a Yellow Streak," two notable Metro productions.

These features will be produced by the Columbia Pictures Corporation for release on the Metro program.

Howard Truesdell, who has been associated with Charles Horan, as assistant director at the Rolfe studio, is already at work on a new Metro production as co-director with Fred Balshofer, which will be made by the Quality Pictures Corporation.

Mr. Truesdell and Mr. Balshofer will go to Northern Maine to make the exterior scenes. The production is still unnamed, but will be made by the Quality Pictures Corporation for the Metro program.

Mary Miles Minter, who is in St. Augustine, where she has just completed the final scenes in "Dimples," a five-part Metro feature released on February 14, will begin work immediately upon another feature production, "Love Triumphant."

The exteriors of this feature will be made in Florida, and a majority of the supporting cast, that appeared with Miss Minter in "Dimples," will remain to work in the new picture. Thomas J. Carrigan, her new leading man, will be featured in "Love Triumphant," with Miss Minter.

WITH THE WILLIAM FOX PLAYERS AT KINGSTON, JAMAICA

DIRECTOR GENERAL BRENON "SHOOTING" A CHRISTMAS PARTY—MEMBERS OF THE FOX COMPANY LANDING A SHARK

LATEST PHOTOGRAPHS OF FLORENCE LAWRENCE, WHO IS RE-ENTERING PICTURES AS A UNIVERSAL STAR

MRS. LANGTRY SIGNS WITH TERRISS

Lady de Bathe, better known as Mrs. Langtry or "The Jersey Lily," has accepted the offer made to her by her former leading man, Tom Terriss, now an American film manufacturer and president of the corporation which bears his name, to become a screen star.

At the conclusion of her vaudeville engagement, she will be presented by the Terriss Film Company in a motion picture version of a celebrated English novel, which has just reached its tenth edition.

ALBERTSON IS TRANSFERRED TO "VENTURES" COMPANY

Arthur Albertson, who has been playing leading parts with Kalem's Jacksonville, Fla., company, has been transferred to the New York studio and this week arrived and joined the "Ventures of Marguerite" company.

"He Walked In, Turned Around and Out Again"

Goldfish, in Spending Season's Holidays in California and New York, Made Flying Continental Trip to Be in "Both Places Almost at Once"

ONE of the reasons Samuel Goldfish, executive head of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, went to Hollywood, Cal., the middle of December, was to pass the holidays at the Lasky studio.

He had the unique experience of spending the holidays in both California and New York, as he turned right around and made a flying trip back to New York after he had completed important business affairs. He was back in New York again a week before January 1, so he considers he has a seven days' start on the New Year.

Another purpose of the trip West was in the interest of the Actors' Fund of America. Mr. Goldfish is chairman of the motion picture committee of the campaign to raise a million dollars for the fund, and while in Southern California he organized a series of committees and appointed executives to systematize the raising of a portion of the fund.

Jesse L. Lasky accepted charge of the committee there to further the organization of the motion picture interests and workers.

Mr. Goldfish said that the Lasky studios were entering on the busiest period of their history.

"Recently we have been fortunate in some additions to our photodramatic department," said he. "George Bronson-Howard, one of the leading novelists of the country, is now on his way to the Lasky studios to remain indefinitely as a writer of photoplays.

"Paul Dickey, well known dramatist, has also just recently joined the Lasky staff of writers and directors, and in addition we have William C. DeMille, Margaret Turnbull, Marion Fairfax, Hector Turnbull, who wrote 'Temptation' and 'The Cheat,' Luther A. Reed, whom we have just taken from the New York Herald staff, and Jeanie MacPherson.

"Cecil B. DeMille, director general of the Lasky Company, is busier than ever before. I think his production called 'The Golden Chance,' in which Wallace Reid and Cleo Ridgely appear as co-stars for the first time, will equal 'The Cheat,' in which Fannie Ward appeared as the star.

"There remain two of Mr. DeMille's productions in which he directed Geraldine Farrar to be seen by the trade and public. They are 'Temptation' and 'Maria Rosa.'

"When I left the studio all the directors, including William C. DeMille, Frank Reicher and George Melford, were busy with productions.

"We are assembling a collection of screen stars at Hollywood. We have just re-engaged Blanche Sweet for a term of years. Charlotte Walker has just arrived at the studio and will begin the picturization of 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine.'

"Among the other stars who are there permanently are Fannie Ward, who has just finished her third Lasky production; Victor Moore, Theodore Roberts, who has completed 'Pudd'nhead Wilson,' the first Mark Twain photoplay, Cleo Ridgely, Wallace Reid, Mae Murray, Anita King and others."

Florence Lawrence Returns to Screen for "U"

After an Absence of Two Years Star Whose Head Is Reproduced on Cameo Trade Mark of Victor, and Who Practically Organized Company, in "Thelma"

FLORENCE LAWRENCE, after a two years' absence, will return to the screen. The announcement comes from the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, with whom she has signed a contract.

An adaptation of "Thelma," Marie Corelli's novel, will serve as the vehicle for Miss Lawrence's reappearance.

It was in 1906 that Florence Lawrence entered pictures, and it was in 1913 that she retired. When she left the Universal-Victor Company, two years ago, a European tour engaged her attention.

She visited all the important countries of Europe, as well as Egypt, India, and the Far East. Finding that travel offered few real opportunities for rest, she returned to her farm near Westwood, N. J., where she has since spent most of her time, enjoying the quiet of country life. Here she is said to have specialized in poultry raising, rose gardens and fruit trees.

But the screen still called her, and a letter from President Laemmle, of the Universal, containing a request for her to call at his office the next time she happened to be in New York, led to her present contract with her old employer.

As a screen star, Miss Lawrence is of course known to picture-goers the country over. She is said to have been the first actress employed by the Victor Film Company; in fact, she virtually organized it. The cameo trade mark used by this company is a reproduction of the head of Miss Lawrence.

She was also among the first, if not the first, to introduce gowns to the screen. A Fifth avenue dressmaker is now busy preparing a number of creations which Miss Lawrence will wear in "Thelma."

According to advance reports, "Thelma" will offer Miss Lawrence full opportunity for displaying her abilities.

MERMAIDS SPORT IN NEPTUNE'S PLAYGROUND FOR FOX

Annette Kellermann, William E. Shay, little Jane Lee and her sister, Florence Deshon, four score bathing girls, picked from the flower of New York's swimming beauties, who will be seen as mermaids, and some fifteen hundred others, are working on a William Fox feature in Kingston, Jamaica, British West Indies, under the direction of Herbert Brenon.

The picture, when completed, will be known as the Million-Dollar Annette Kellermann picture, and the biggest and most far-reaching screen story ever produced by Mr. Fox.

LAEMMLE OFF FOR "U" CITY

President Carl Laemmle of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company left the day before Christmas for Universal City, where he will spend five or six weeks in looking over the community, and will attend to certain business details of the company, after which he will leave for Hot Springs, where he intends to spend three weeks, unless called home for business reasons.

This will be the first real vacation Mr. Laemmle has enjoyed in several years.

FOX STAGE IS 550 BY 200 FEET

For the erecting of massive sets in filming scenes in the Annette Kellermann picture, Herbert Brenon, who is directing the production for William Fox, at Kingston, Jamaica, British West Indies, supervised the construction of the largest stage in the world, 550 by 200 feet.

Two thousand dressing rooms were built, in close proximity to the stage, to accommodate the players who take part in the pitcure.

Kane-Thompson War Films Get Page in Leslie's

"Somewhere in France," 5-Reel Subject of Events Taken on Battle Fields of Europe, Also Gets Generous Notice in Western Daily

LESLIE'S ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY of December 30 carries a full-page of enlargements from Donald C. Thompson's five-reel French battle pictures, "Somewhere in France," distributed by Arthur S. Kane.

For more than half a century Leslie's has been one of the world's greatest illustrated papers. It has pictured many wars, consequently its staff comprises battle-photograph specialists. The selection of Thompson's film not only means that it is undeniably authentic, but teems with interesting scenes.

In order to give the home folks a special treat, Thompson put "Somewhere in France" on first in Topeka, Kan., and appeared there personally. The Topeka Daily Capital of December 28 carried the following headlines over its review of the films to which it devoted a generous amount of space and an unusually good display:

THOMPSON SHOWS TOPEKA THE WAR

Actual Battles in Which Opposing Forces Are Less Than 20 Yards Apart Included in Topekan's Pictures.

RECORD MOVIE CROWD AT GRAND

Young Kansan, World-Famous, Casually Describes Thrilling Scenes Which Are Thrown on Screen Twice a Day.

To anyone who has met Thompson, or read of the sang froid displayed by this nonchalant camera knight-errant, in mentioning his deeds, these headlines will be appreciated. Part of the Capital's write-up follows:

"Attired in the uniform that he wore in Serbia, on the Russian front, with the Germans, with the Allies and in Turkey, Donald Thompson, a Topeka boy, last night explained his wonderful pictures to the audiences that attended the matinee and night exhibitions of the films.

"When the film shows shells bursting near enough to the trenches to kill one man out of ten, Thompson casually explains that it is an 8-inch shell that spread death and maimed the living.

"Another scene showing men hard at work firing toward the German trenches causes him to explain that in one engagement a million shells were fired from the French side against the Germans.

"Of a long line of wagons, bearing away hundreds of dead bodies, the young soldier of fortune remarks that in fifteen minutes Belgium lost 7,000 soldiers.

"The trenches, crowded with living and dead men, that held the attention of the audience with an absorbing interest that at times made them shudder, is to him an experience that he has passed through so often that he regards it as an incident.

"Standing before his audience last night he seemed to take it for granted that they were more interested in what they saw than what he could tell, though he explained his pictures at frequent intervals.

Miss Ulrich Back from "Paula" Filming in Mexico

Players in Pallas Pictures Company Are Accompanied by Guard of Young Men, Members of Prominent Mexican Families in Los Angeles

LENORE ULRICH, screen star, has just returned to New York from Mexico, where her latest photoplay, "Paula," was staged for the Paramount Program by the Pallas Pictures Corporation.

To get the desired backgrounds, the company journeyed through Mexico, accompanied by a guard of young Mexicans for protection. Forrest Stanley, Herbert Standing, Howard Davies, Jack Livingston, and Velma Lefler will be seen in the supporting cast.

Speaking of her experiences Miss Ulrich said, when seen at the Knickerbocker Hotel, New York, after the return of herself and company from Mexico:

"It was lots of fun, though of course we had to be alert all the time. At first we were all more or less afraid, but this soon wore off. We came across many sorry looking individuals with their donkeys carrying their earthly belongings about, probably searching for a new spot to erect their homes.

"The Mexicans who acted as our guards are young men of the more prominent Mexican families in Los Angeles.

"It is through the courtesy of Oliver Morosco that I have appeared before the camera for Pallas Pictures. Both Mr. Morosco's company and Pallas Pictures are Paramount producing organizations and although I have just signed a two-year contract with Mr. Morosco, the Pallas Pictures company was desirous of securing me for its Mexican film and obtained my release for this one subject."

Advance reports say that this new picture offers Miss Ulrich full opportunities for her talents. Players and members of the technical staff who accompanied her to Mexico are enthusiastic over her work.

Announcement with regard to release of the subject will be made later.

First Selig-Tribune News Pictorial Makes Hit

No. 1 of What Might Be Termed a "Photo Courier," Issued on January 3, Pleases Exhibitors with Its Variety of Material and Novelty of Subjects

THE first edition of the Selig-Tribune, news pictorial released through the General Film Company on Monday, January 3, excited much favorable comment not only with the photoplay public but among the motion picture exhibitors.

The Selig-Tribune, released through cooperation of the Selig Polyscope Company and the Chicago Tribune is to be issued twice weekly, and the methods of distribution have been so arranged that the news film will reach all the General Film exchanges and, through these exchanges the exhibitors, by a right-up-to-the-minute method.

The first edition of the Selig-Tribune covered a very wide field. John D. McCutcheon and other war correspondents have rushed some timely films from the European battle fields, and the preliminary war pictorials, which are strikingly seasonable, will be followed by other European battle scenes which have been taken by staff cameramen assigned to the French, English, Russian, German, Austrian, Italian and Bulgarian forces.

That the organization of cameramen and correspondents working for the Selig-Tribune is a most complete one is shown by the primary work of these staff men for sections of almost the entire world are covered in No. 1 of the weekly.

The photography is good, the titles attractively written, and a place has already been earned for the Selig-Tribune as a news pictorial.

HOUSEWARMING FOR PARAMOUNT

Gathering all departments of its big organization under one roof except that dealing with the Newspictures, the Paramount Pictures Corporation has now moved into its new offices in the recently completed Rogers Peet Building at 485 Fifth avenue, corner of Forty-first street.

The executive offices occupy the whole of the ninth floor, and in addition to this a large suite has been engaged on the floor below, for the accounting, shipping and stenographic departments.

Invitations have been sent out for a reception to be held on the evening of January 5, and another on January 7, at which Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clark and other stars appearing in Paramount Pictures produced by the Famous Players, Lasky, Morosco and Pallas companies will be present.

It will be in the nature of a housewarming, and further details of the affair will be announced later.

BALL WRITES BOOK ON PHOTOPLAY SCENARIOS

"Photoplay Scenarios, How to Write and Sell Them," by Eustace Hale Ball, a volume of 186 pages, published by Hearst's International Library Company, New York, is the most recent addition to the increasing number of manuals for aspirants to successful photoplay writing.

Mr. Ball is himself a successful scenarioist, having been connected as staff playwright scenario editor or producing director with the Reliance, Eclair, Majestic, Solax, Excelsior and Historical Film Companies.

The book is a practical treatise on subjects which the screen writer must understand thoroughly if he is to succeed—manuscript preparation, methods of sale and recording, present day script markets, with lists and addresses; dramatic principle; theme and plot construction; comedy; tragedy; romance; historical plays; characterization; costuming, scenes and sets; technical terms and their uses; editorial rules; censorship conditions; feature scenarios, and sample forms of scenarios.

The author makes it very clear that there is no royal road to photo-dramatic success. He writes from an angle of common sense that is usually absent from books of this kind. Insofar as a general discussion of any art can be valuable, Mr. Ball's volume is good.

GEORGE BEBAN INJURED IN WORLD SUBJECT

Work on the final scenes of the World Film feature in which George Beban is soon to appear, was interrupted last week by a painful accident to the star.

During the enactment of a scene in which Beban engages in a fierce hand-to-hand battle, he received a deep cut across the fingers of his right hand, temporarily disabling him.

In the scene John Davidson, who plays the role of the artist admirer of Beban's "picture wife" was to raise a heavy Japanese jar, swing it over his head, and bring it down with a crash as Beban closed with him.

The scene had been carefully rehearsed and the picture taken up to the point where Beban, armed with a broken sword, forced Davidson against the wall. Here Davidson, under Beban's insistent orders, seized the jar and swung a heavy blow at the star's head. As intended, Beban met the blow with the hilt of his broken sword, but in shattering, a jagged edge of the jar lacerated Beban's hand to the bone.

MIX, SELIG ROUGH-RIDING COWBOY, BACK IN N. M. STUDIO

Tom Mix, the world's greatest cowboy and rough rider, returned last week to Las Vegas, N. M., after a brief sojourn in Chicago as the guest of William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company.

Mr. Mix will immediately transfer his company from Las Vegas to Newhall, California. "I've got a new six cylinder car and can make the twenty-five miles from Newhall to my home in Los Angeles any old evening," stated Mr. Mix with a pleased smile.

Mr. Mix and the members of his company have nothing but complimentary words for Las Vegas and its citizens who tendered the Selig Company every courtesy. However, the beautiful scenery surrounding Las Vegas has all been filmed for Selig plays and it is considered wise to remove elsewhere, for variety is the spice of life.

STRONG CREW OF "LOVE PIRATES" SAIL POPULARITY SEA

The Kalem Company has definitely decided on the players who will be seen in the new series by George Bronson-Howard and the work of production on the initial episode of the series is already well under way.

In addition to the stars, Marin Sais and Ollie Kirkby, who will share honors as the Love Pirates; the principal players in the support will be True Boardman, Paul C. Hurst, Thomas Lingham, Frank Jonasson, Edward Clisbee, and Joseph Marber..

These players have practically all appeared during the course of the "Stingaree" series and their selection for the forthcoming feature is largely the result of the praise given their work in the Hornung stories.

As announced last week, the series is being produced under the direction of James W. Horne.

CLEVELAND FOR CITY CENSORSHIP IN PLACE OF STATE SUPERVISION

Special to Motion Picture News

Cleveland, Dec. 31.

Local censorship was favored at a meeting of ministers and members of the Northeastern Ohio Motion Picture Exhibitors League on December 20. The sentiment of the meeting was that state censorship is not satisfactory.

Ben J. Sawyer told the ministers and exhibitors that three persons, sitting in judgment at Columbus, are not in a position to censor pictures with intelligence or with knowledge of local conditions.

He also called attention to the fact that two films are run simultaneously and at double the usual speed when the censors determine the merits of films.

The meeting was called by Kate Davis, president of the International Peoples Aid Association. Three ministers also gave their views of the motion picture situation.

METRO PRESIDENT VISITS CLARK IN PITTSBURGH FOR XMAS

Special to Motion Picture News

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 31.

Richard A. Rowland, president of the Metro Pictures Corporation, and a partner with James B. Clark here in Pittsburgh, visited Mr. Clark over Christmas. He was accompanied by his wife.

The visitors arrived in Pittsburgh the day before Christmas, and left for the east on Monday evening.

Mr. Rowland's strenuous duties as head of one of the largest film concerns in the east does not seem to have affected him physically, as he states his condition at this time could not be better. He says hard work does not disagree with any one and that it is the right road to success in the motion picture business at this time.

FRENCH EXPERT TO COLOR RAVER'S "OTHER GIRL"

For the coloring of "The Other Girl," its first release, the Raver Film Corporation has secured the services of Monsieur Adrien Avare, an expert for many years connected with some of the biggest producers of motion pictures in France.

He was in complete charge of their technical departments. While he has a thorough knowledge of every branch of the business, he has given particular study to the coloring of film. He is the inventor of several successful formulas for duo-tone work, and has solved many double coloring problems.

Mr. Avare has gone over the entire picture with one regard to the proper arrangement of colors.

He has avoided hasty jumps from one extreme to another, and has blended his duo-tones so that they appear as though one hue flows into the other. The tints were also picked with a view to the scenery and settings to which they were to be applied.

Less than two hundred feet of six reels of "The Other Girl" will be uncolored. Mr. Avare does not believe in applying tints where the natural black and white will deliver the message with more force.

KEYSTONE STARS ARRIVED IN NEW YORK FROM LOS ANGELES

Mabel Normand and Roscoe Arbuckle with their Eastern Keystone company, including Minta Durfee, Al St. John and others, arrived in New York Thursday afternoon, December 30.

The party came through direct from the Coast, escorted by Traveling Passenger Pike of the San Pedro Road. They were met at Grand Central Station by Frank Myers of the New York Central and a number of the New York Motion Picture and Triangle executives.

They will start work soon at the Willat studios in Fort Lee, N. J. Mrs. Ford Sterling (Teddy Sampson) and Sy Chaplin were among the friends who greeted the newcomers at the station.

On New Year's night Mr. Arbuckle, Miss Normand and the other Keystoners were the guests of the New York Globe at the Lexington Opera House.

STORM BLOWS OUT GLASS IN GAUMONT STUDIO

The ninety-miles-an-hour gale which was so destructive in New York Sunday, December 26, blew out a number of panes of glass at the Gaumont studio, Flushing, N. Y. Fortunately, the studio has the protection of the building housing the various property rooms, else it would have been completely wrecked. As it was, the expenditure of twenty-five dollars for glass put the studio in working order again.

VITAGRAPH GETS RIGHTS TO AN ISHAM SUCCESS

The rights to produce one of Frederick S. Isham's Broadway successes have been secured by the Vitagraph Company.

It is being picturized by Col. Jasper Ewing Brady and will be released as a Broadway Star Feature.

Leaguers' Big Sticks Ready for Mulish Censors

Cincinnati Exhibitors Will Go Into Politics to Curb Tendency of Ohio Board to Allow Itself to Be Swayed by Prejudice in Passing on Films, Is Declaration of President Emmert—Wonders to Succeed Pearce as Maryland Head?—Officers Elected at Meeting of January 4

Special to Motion Picture News

Cincinnati, Jan. 1.

THE first definite stand voiced by Cincinnati motion picture exhibitors in support of the fight against legalized censorship waged in Cleveland and other cities of the state, was taken at the annual meeting of the Motion Pieture Exhibitors League of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

President Fred L. Emmert, who was reelected to office, delivered an address in which he declared that the exhibitors of this city would go into politics, if necessary, to meet the attacks of their enemies and to eurb the alleged tendency of the Ohio Board of Censors to allow prejudice to sway eommon sense in the passing of films.

Mr. Emmert read a newspaper clipping which said that Governor Willis of Ohio had objeeted to the showing of the feature, "The Birth of a Nation," during the recent trip of the Ohio Corn Boys to Philadelphia, on the ground that it would arouse raee feeling.

"When a delegation from our league went before the state censors at Columbus we were not told that Governor Willis was against the picture," remarked Mr. Emmert. "If we are forced into politics we can put up a hot battle by throwing our arguments on the screen. I am here to say that I for one will fight to the finish."

A. G. Hettesheimer, who was elected first vice-president, spoke for a larger and better organization so that proper legislation for motion pictures might be obtained.

Great enthusiasm was shown by the members of the league and while no formal action was taken in the matter of censorship not a dissenting voice was raised against Mr. Emmert's words.

The success of the league during the past year was due largely to the fact that it had become affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce.

The eontest between the Red and Blue tickets was interesting. A feature provided by the Red eandidates made a great hit. As the members entered the parlor of the Sinton Hotel where the meeting took place they were met by a young lady with a crown of glorious red hair. She pinned a red earnation on the lapel of each exhibitor and thus urged him to vote for the "Red" ticket. When all had arrived she was introduced as the daughter of A. G. Hettesheimer, one of the candidates of the Red Ticket. Every candidate on that ticket was elected. Other new officers are: M. Marcus, Newport, Ky., second vice-president, H. Serkowich, managing secretary; John J. Huss, treasurer and Jesse J. Meiss, sergeant-at-arms.

WONDERS TO SUCCEED PEARCE AS MARYLAND HEAD

Special to Motion Picture News

Baltimore, Dec. 30.

There is every indication that at the meeting to be held Tuesday, January 4, Guy L. Wonders, manager of the Wilson theatre, will be elected president of the Maryland branch, Motion Picture Exhibitors League of America.

Mr. Wonders will succeed Marion S. Pearce, who was elected last July. When Mr. Pearce was elected, he declined to take the office for more than six months, and it was decided to hold another election in January.

Since that time, it has been deemed advisable to change the time for the annual meeting of the Maryland Branch from July to January.

A number of other officers will be elected Tuesday. First Vice-President William A. Cobb, Second Vice-President J. Thomas Bohannan, and Secretary Frank H. Durkee, whose terms will expire, will be succeeded by other prominent exhibitors in Baltimore.

It has been decided to make a change in the entire executive heads of the league in order to get away, as far as possible, from perpetuation of power.

J. Howard Bennett, national vice-president for Maryland, will also decline reelection. Mr. Wonders, the new prospective president, has taken an active interest in the work of the Maryland branch since its organization, nearly four years ago.

He has been one of the most successful exhibitors in Baltimore, and has had wide experience in theatricals. For a number of years, he was connected with vaudeville houses in several eities in Pennsylvania, and practically his entire buiness career has been spent in theatrical and motion picture environments. A. F. Gillespy.

Cartoonist Powers to Draw for Hearst-Vitagraph

Well-Known Newspaper Caricaturist Will Contribute "Joys" and "Glooms" and Other Animated Satires to New Semi-Weekly News Film

TOM POWERS, the cartoonist, is presented as one of the main features of the Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial.

"Joys" and "Glooms," which have appeared in the Hearst newspapers, will scamper across the screen as a part of the Hearst-Vitagraph semi-weekly news film.

TOM POWERS

"Mrs. Trubbel" will continue to stir up domestic discord, but in thousands of theatres, in addition to the columns of the Hearst papers. "Powers' Phables" will bring in motion on the screen the weaknesses of human nature. "Never Again!" the "Down and Out Club" and "Charlie and George" will be other features to be seen in motion from the pen of Powers.

T. E. Powers began life as a grocery clerk, and he admits himself, that he made a very poor clerk. He was born with a desire to draw.

Finally he obtained employment with a lithographer, receiving for his labors the sum of $2 a week. Despite the fact that he was of a saving disposition, Powers somehow squandered all of his weekly income, and soon concluded that he would have to seek some occupation more remunerative. Having a job which paid better, Powers was able to save more money, and not long after went to Chicago, where he attended art school.

The publisher of a big Chicago newspaper was attracted by some small illustrating Powers had done, and gave him a position. Powers worked with the Chicago newspapers until 1894, when the New York fever got possession of him and he went to that city. Then followed several years with the New York World, until Mr. Hearst concluded that Mr. Powers was too valuable a man to work for anyone but Hearst, and took him over to the Hearst organization, where Powers has been ever since.

CHAPLIN THE RAGE IN PARIS

Special to Motion Picture News

Paris, Dec. 20.

The Charlot (Chaplin) craze in Paris just now is absolutely maddening. It is impossible to watch a show without a Charlot in the programme.

It is generally feared that the enormous duty to be paid on films imported to England, will greatly injure the French and Italian trade, especially the Italians as their government has latterly imposed a tax of three centimes on each meter of film produced.

The first film of a series to be released by the Tiber Film with Lina Cavalieri is ready and will soon be released. The seenario is by Mr. Muratore, the well known opera singer and husband of Madame Cavalieri. A friend of mine who had the opportunity of seeing this film in Rome, tells me that undoubtedly it is the best he has seen for a long time.

OVOCA WILL MAKE ALL KINDS OF PICTURES IN NASHVILLE

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 31.

The Ovoca Motion Picture Corporation, capitalized at $100,000, will begin production here by January 1. The company was organized about two years ago by Harry F. Green, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, and began business at Tullahoma.

The new factory will be located in the Casino at Glendale Park, in Nashville. The company expects to make educational, industrial, special events, religious and dramatic films. A special feature of the manufacture of pictures conducted by the company will be the filming of ritualistic subjects for lodges and similar organizations.

The downtown office and studio will be located at 623¼ Church street.

The incorporators consist of the following:

Harry F. Green, W. H. Hooser, John Trotwood Moore, A. P. Foster, Alfred H. Williams, J. C. Collins, L. M. Hitt, Jas. M. Frank, Joseph W. Byrns, Harry S. Stokes, E. H. Parker, Jos. J. Roach, Richard B. Herzer, F. A. Sullivan, T. T. McCarley, A. G. Brandau, W. H. Wassman, Alfred Levine, E. E. French, Judge S. F. Wilson, Judge J. C. Higgins, Judge W. C. Cherry, Gov. Tom C. Rye, Aaron Bergeda.

Organization was effected with the following officers and directors elected for the ensuing year:

Harry F. Green, president and general manager; W. H. Wassman, vice-president; W. H. Hooser, treasurer; A. P. Foster, secretary; Jas. M. Frank, J. C. Collins, E. H. Parker.

HURST MANAGER FOR PATHE IN INDIANAPOLIS

W. F. Hurst, who has been connected with the Pathé company for about nine years in different capacities, has been appointed manager of the Pathé exchange, in Indianapolis.

Mr. Hurst was travelling auditor, out of the Cincinnati office recently. The Pathé exchange in Indianapolis was established last August in the Willoughby Building, and most of Indiana is covered by the International office. Mr. Hurst succeeds J. G. Lytle.

VITAGRAPH BOY STAR NOT TO LEAVE COMPANY

Word has been received from the Vitagraph studio denying the report that little Bobby Connelly, the six-year-old star, had left the company.

"Sonny Jim" at the present time is very busily engaged in the Edna May picture now in course of production.

LESSER BACK ON WEST COAST AFTER TRIP TO NEW YORK

Sol L. Lesser, head of the Golden Gate Film Exchange, Inc., and the All Star Feature Distributors, of San Francisco, returned from his trip to New York earlier than he had planned. He made many noteworthy purchases of films.

Paramount to Offer Silhouette Motion Pictures

C. Allan Gilbert, Assisted by Other Noted Artists, Will Produce Photoplays Said to Be Unique in the Film World—J. R. Bray Aids Him

IT is usually an outsider who contributes something new and original to an art or science and now along comes an outsider and contributes something new to Paramount.

In this case it is C. Allan Gilbert, who with Charles Dana Gibson, Harrison Fisher, Hamilton King and Howard Chandler Christy, has made the American Girl famous on canvas, who has succumbed to the lure of the photoplay, become a film producer, and announced his intention of bringing out what is announced as a unique form of photoplay which he calls "Silhouette Fantasies," but which, specifically speaking, are whimsical tales told in black and white.

Nor is Mr. Gilbert the only artist connected with the project. Henry Bryant, C. B. Fall and others of the fraternity are assisting him, acting as stage hands even, and are already enthusiastic silhouette film fans.

But Mr. Gilbert's success is largely attributable to J. R. Bray, the originator of the animated cartoon, to whom he went with his idea. Mr. Bray, whose "Colonel Heeza Liar" is now seen only through the Paramount Company, gave the artist his support, with the result that the Bray-Gilbert studios came into being and its output was scheduled for release.

Mr. Gilbert's innovation in film production covers a wide range of subjects, but all of them are presented with a charming disregard for stereotyped methods. He refuses to take his characters seriously, and carries them through a series of droll adventures. "Inbad the Sailor," his first release on January 20, is a typical example.

Mr. Gilbert writes the scenarios himself, and among the other whimsical stories which he is producing for Paramount are "The Chess Queen," "Haunts for Hire" and "The Balloon Tree."

Like the Bray Cartoons, and the Ditmars Zoopictures, which it has just been announced have been obtained by Paramount, the Gilbert Silhouettes will help to round out the programs of Paramount theatres.

"It is our aim," said Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Bray, "to produce photoplays at the Bray studios where animated cartoons are made and at the Bray-Gilbert studios where the Silhouettes are filmed, which will be in every way up to the standard set by the producers of Paramount Pictures."

This brings up an interesting point. Through his skill with the pen, J. R. Bray has found a way to combine the drawn with the actual figure, with the result that the Bray-Gilbert Silhouettes are a mixture of cartoon and real acting.

Transformations, otherwise impossible, are accomplished, and one cannot tell where the acting ends and the drawing begins, it is said.

TORONTO EXHIBITORS AID MILITARY AUTHORITIES TO GAIN RECRUITS

In accordance with a general military scheme evolved by the military authorities in Toronto, Canada, over sixty theatres in Toronto and its suburbs have offered their houses to the recruiting officers, to be used as depots for securing recruits.

Not only are the proprietors allowing their premises to be used during the week, but they are allowing the buildings to be used for recruiting meetings on Sunday evenings, rent free, and supplying light and heat. The men who turn the cranks, and those who supply the music are also doing their "bit," by giving their services, and the film exchanges are going to see that suitable films are provided to help out the work.

NEW COMPANY LEASES STUDIO IN CLEVELAND SUBURB

Special to Motion Picture News

Cleveland, Dec. 31.

August E. Ingold, of Los Angeles, representing a newly-formed film company, has just leased for five years a studio at the corner of Sloan and Detroit avenues, Lakewood, a suburb of Cleveland. This site adjoins the Rocky River bridge and includes 100 feet of the valley.

Julius Keller also is interested in the company, which has not as yet selected a name. Two well-known screen actors have been secured by Mr. Ingold, who will announce their names as soon as the new company is ready to produce.

RUTH ROLAND AND "THE RED CIRCLE" COMPANY AT THE BALBOA STUDIO

INDIANAPOLIS FAVORS CENSORSHIP

An ordinance was passed by the city council of Indianapolis at its meeting Monday evening, December 21, which is believed to be directed against motion picture exhibitors.

The ordinance is known as the anti-music ordinance, and reads as follows:

"Any owner, manager, lessee, operator or person in charge of any place of business or amusement who shall make, cause or permit to be made any music or noise upon any street, alley, highway or other public place in the city for the purpose of attracting attention or soliciting trade or business for such place of business or amusement shall, upon conviction, be fined in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars."

It is understood that Samuel V. Perrott, chief of police, was the instigator of this ordinance.

PUBLIC GETS GLIMPSE OF STUDIO LIFE IN A CLUB

The Cub release on the Mutual program for January 7, entitled "Jerry in the Movies," featuring George Ovey in the titular role, gives theatre patrons an interesting insight into the way motion pictures are made and at the same time unfolds a really humorous story.

The Cub stock company including, besides Ovey, George George, Jefferson Osborne, Louis FitzRoy, Arthur Jackson, Belle Bellett, Janet Sully and Louise Horner, plays this release, which is directed by Milton Fahrney.

PETITIONS TO END SUNDAY CLOSING CIRCULATE IN CLEVELAND

Arnold Goodman, owner and manager of the Wind-A-Meer theatre, East Cleveland, O., arrested recently for operating a motion picture show on Sunday, declares that he will not stop in his effort to pry off the "lid" in that city.

He will open the house and give free shows, if necessary. Petitions to have council abolish the ordinance are being signed at a rapid rate.

BIEGGER TRYING OUT CHILD LABOR LAW IN IOWA

John Biegger, proprietor of the Princess, Sioux City, Ia., is the defendant in a test case to try out the new Iowa child labor law. Lawrence Murray, a 13-year-old selling candy in the theatre, brought on the difficulty.

Biegger is willing to carry up the case to learn, not only for himself, but other Iowa exhibitors, whether minors can be employed in any capacity about a motion picture theatre. In a number of places boys and girls handle the tickets.

MISS COURTOT BEGINS WORK AT GAUMONT SOUTHERN STUDIOS

Marguerite Courtot, best known perhaps as the heroine of the series, "The Ventures of Marguerite," has begun work for Gaumont at that company's Jacksonvile, Fla., studio.

She is being filmed in a photodrama written by her director, Henry J. Vernot. Sydney Mason is playing opposite her.

Vim Funmakers Under Sheltering Palms in Florida

THE VIM COMEDY COMPANY NOW IN WINTER QUARTERS IN THE SOUTH

THIS happy aggregation "underneath the sheltering palms" are the funmakers that are now putting Vim in the General Film Program.

This picture was taken upon the arrival of the Vim Players at Jacksonville, Florida, outside of the Lubin Studio. The Vim Players will share the studio with Lubin during the winter.

Reading from left to right the group consists of: (bottom row) "Bobbie" Burns, Louis Burstein and "Walt" Stull; (second row) "Babe" Hardy, Ione Lyle, Helen Gilmore, Ethel Burton, Edna Reynolds, Mildred Burstein, Anna Mingus and Harry Naughton; (top row) Fred T. O'Neil, Frank Hanson and Robin Williamson.

Blue Bird Sends Envoy on Mission to Exhibitors

N. H. Spitzer Goes as Special Representative on Country-wide Tour to Suggest to Picture Men Proper Methods for Exploiting New Features

W. H. SPITZER, special representative of Blue Bird Photo Plays, Inc., left for Montreal, Canada, last Monday, on the first leg of a country-wide tour. It will be Mr. Spitzer's mission to get in touch with exhibitors and suggest to them the proper methods to pursue in exploiting Blue Bird features.

As a proprietor of theatres in Los Angeles and Seattle, Spitzer obtained a first-hand knowledge of the problems which confront the exhibitor—a knowledge that should enable him to be of assistance to the men who book Blue Bird features and desire to know the best methods of exploitation. This is a problem which will receive Spitzer's special attention during the course of the trip.

"The fact that we have added Mr. Spitzer to our forces is a further indication of our determination to do more for the exhibitor than merely sell him our service," declared a Blue Bird official in commenting upon the reasons back of his organization's move in acquiring the services of the special representative.

"Mr. Spitzer is thoroughly familiar with our policies," this official continued. "He knows what Blue Bird stands for and he knows that we are absolutely determined to stand by every exhibitor who uses our service to the extent of advising him, down to the minutest detail, of the best method to pursue in achieving the greatest possible returns, not only in dollars and cents, but in the good will of his patrons."

While in Seattle, Spitzer took over a theatre which had long been regarded as a "sticker," and not only did he convert it into a highly profitable property, it is said, but by making it the social centre of his community, caused it to become a power for good.

"The value of good will" will be one of the most important points driven home by Mr. Spitzer during the course of his trip.

NIGH "THE WHOLE WORKS" IN COLUMBIA SUBJECT

William Nigh, of the Metro directing staff, has begun work on a five part feature production, yet unnamed, in which Valli Valli is starred, and William Davidson, Frank Bacon, Robert Elliott, Joseph Maddern, R. A. Brosee, J. H. Goldsworthy, David H. Thompson, and other stage and screen artists appear in the supporting cast.

This feature picture was written by William Nigh, who wrote and directed "A Yellow Streak," the Columbia-Metro five part production, recently released, in which Lionel Barrymore is starred.

Mr. Nigh had considerable experience both as stage and screen star before he became a director, appearing in many legitimate productions on the Pacific Coast, and afterwards starring in Reliance features.

His versatility is instanced by the fact that beside directing this new Metro feature, he wrote it, found the exterior locations, formed his own cast, designed his studio sets, and is now playing a prominent role in the production.

Screen Examinations

"THE GOLDEN CHANCE"

(Lasky-Paramount—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

SUPERLATIVES are dangerous, particularly that overworked little four-lettered word "best," and when employed to describe a Lasky picture the danger is even greater, for if we are inclined to say that such-and-such a picture is the best that Lasky has produced, next week there comes another even better, and better than best is—well, it's "The Golden Chance."

It is difficult to draw a definite line between the merits of the story and direction. They are blended together with such a nicety that they seem as one. However, Jeanie MacPherson, the author, deserves credit for the most original plot seen in many a day, and

THE FIGHT BETWEEN MANNING AND JIMMY "THE RAT"

Cecil B. De Mille's direction has offset it to wonderful advantage.

De Mille believes in the scene, that is neither a full set nor a closeup, but one which strikes a happy medium. To gain this effect he keeps his characters continually in the foreground and by so doing he does away with the customary number of closeups.

In "The Golden Chance" the backgrounds are nine times out of ten, subdued to such an extent that the characters in the foreground stand out in stereoscopic relief. The excellent lighting assists this effect to a marked degree. Many of De Mille's scenes of "The Golden Chance" take place at night and subsequently the countenances of the players are clearly defined by rays of light that strike them full in the face, leaving the backgrounds totally dark.

This is all to be expected perhaps from a Lasky picture but never has it created such a good effect, aiding the suspense of the story beyond measure.

Miss MacPherson's scenario, dwelling first on love scenes that are acted delightfully by Cleo Ridgely and Wallace Reid, builds to an intense climax that ends in a smashing punch, when Reid engages in a furious tussle with two gangsters. It is then that the closeup has been used to such good advantage by De Mille. Reid raises the body of his smaller opponent high in the air and throws him—the scene is cut—a closeup of the bare floor shown and on it, an instant later, crashes the body of the gangster.

The story carries with it a load of suspense that keeps the interest at a high pitch every minute of the time. It starts off with an original situation which in itself is enough to awaken even a hardened reviewer, and then develops with an ease and logicality that is excellent. And De Mille or Miss MacPherson, one or the other, deserves to be complimented on the total lack of flash backs. In this case they would be merely burdensome, they would hamper the smooth advancement of the story for the players are able to register their thoughts through the proper medium of facial expression.

Miss Ridgley and Reid as the lovers, act their roles in a brilliant style that could not be impproved upon. Their support from Edythe Chapman and Ernest Joy as the Hillarys is fitting, while Horace B. Carpenter as Denby and Raymond Hatton in another of his "crook" impersonations render two realistic performances that range between the brutal and the humorous.

The story commences with the introduction of Mary Denby, a well-bred woman who is married to a profligate. To earn money she applies for the position of seamstress in the home of Mrs. Hillary. This grande dame is at a loss as to what to do because her prize beauty has been taken sick and is unable to keep a dinner engagement where she was to meet Manning, a millionaire whom Mr. Hillary is anxious to do business with.

So Mrs. Hillary remembering the beauty and easy manners of her seamstress, decides to dress her up and introduce her as an unmarried woman. This she does and the resulting romance with its intense termination we leave to the imagination. But this is hardly right after all. It will take an awfully good imagination to conceive the development and finale of "The Golden Chance" and the best advice we can give is to book the picture and find out for yourself. You'll never regret it.

"CAMILLE"

(World Film—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

"CAMILLE" has been drawn upon for photoplay material heavily, and no doubt it will continue to be drawn upon in the future as it has been in the past, but none of the story's illegitimate offsprings can reach the level attained by the World Film's production. "Camille" is a very fine picture, with its popular lead,

CAMILLE COMMANDS THE COUNT TO LEAVE

popular appeal and intelligent handling, and as a box office attraction it has unlimited possibilities.

Clara Kimball Young is starred. Her Camille is a sympathetic and passionate character, that appeals both in a sympathetic and physical way. Camille carries Miss Young through a wide range of emotions, and in all of them the star displays pleasing skill.

SCENES FROM "FRUITS OF DESIRE," "CAMILLE," AND "THE GENIUS," WORLD FILM PHOTOPLAYS, STARRING ROBERT WARWICK, CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG AND GEORGE FEBAN

Paul Capellani as Duval makes his debut in "Camille" as an American star. He is a most capable foil for the changing moods of the notorious Camille, and acts his part with a strong show of emotionalism, suppressed enough, however, to warrant him a warmer reception at the hands of the American public than he would receive if he acted in the ultra-frantic way of some of his French brothers.

Fred Truesdell has the heavy part of Count d'Arville, while Louie Ducey, Lillian Cook, Robert Cummings and Edward M. Kimball fill the most important of the supporting parts in good style.

"Camille," laid in France, has very aptly been directed by a Frenchman. Albert Capellani has done his work well. His scenes, in particular the interiors, are exceedingly mindful of the pictures that come from the other side of the water.

On the other hand, the manners of the extras as well as the leads show just enough of an European affectation to make the desired atmosphere completely convincing.

The photography is erratic. It is very good at times, but in short scenes here and there throughout the five reels it appears over-lighted, affected by static, or a little bit too dark. When the rest of the scenes were entirely good enough, these slips can hardly be blamed on the particular print.

The story of "Camille" is so well known in every town over five hundred that its relation here is unnecessary, so let it suffice that as a picture "Camille" seems destined to a profitable career. It has a deep appeal running all the way through it and capable and pleasing interpretation furnishes the required finish.

"SORROWS OF HAPPINESS"

(Lubin-Unit—Four Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

THIS subject of Anthony Kelly's is merely an elaboration of the story of the country girl who trusted too well, and the city man who thought too little. It has been produced with an evident and telling attention to detail and logic and although it is inclined to drag here and there on account of the obviousness of the plot, it appeals largely because of its sympathetic nature.

Aiding the production to a considerable extent are the most appropriately chosen exteriors and the intelligently erected interior settings which add genuine atmosphere in every instance. The scenes in the country village are for instance convincing, largely because familiar points of such places have been emphasized or placed before the camera in noticeable positions. On the other hand the city scenes, including a cabaret and various rooms of elegant homes, together with a formidable selection of impressive exteriors, realistically convey the desired atmosphere.

Kelly's scenario, as previously said, dwells on an old plot and through the ingenuity of the wronged girl's sister the evil committed by the weak-willed man is righted. The action moves slowly but by reason of the realism of the atmosphere and the original touches furnished by the author, "Sorrows of Happiness" makes good entertainment.

The leading parts are taken by June Daye and Craufurd Kent, the former making her appeal largely through the characteristics of her sympathetic role.

Inez Buck as the good samaritan sister does bits of real acting here and there, while Bartley McCullum as the girl's father renders a piece of character acting that is admirable.

"THE BLACK CROOK"

(Kalem-General—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

IT is a generation since the naughty classic first began to work its way from coast to coast, and back again. It was naughtier then than it would be considered now. People spoke of it in excited whispers; now they smile to think that its naughtiness ever was considered a feature, for it consisted principally of an open air ballet.

There are few subjects which offer better play for trick photography and the weird effects possible to the camera, and these possibilities have been skillfully utilized; in fact they are so striking as to be the backbone of the production, and make most convincing the black magic and unspeakable arts of the Black Crook, who after all, was only a very much injured gentleman.

He solves the transportation problem in much the same way as they handled it in the old Bagdad Days, and in the times of Hans Christian Andersen. He simply wraps his sable mantle about himself, and with a few words in cuneform, disappears; far away there is an explosion of white smoke, and the Crook appears, right where he wanted to be. Technically this sort of photography approaches perfection in this particular subject.

ONE OF THE NUMEROUS BALLET FEATURES

Much care and thought have also been expended on the settings. There is a scene in the inferno, and interiors of mediaeval palaces and hovels, which are carefully true to the times and manners, and the mediaeval atmosphere spread on the screen is a commendable bit of art.

The ballets are beautifully staged, and make effective pictures in themselves; and in all the subject approaches the dimensions of a great spectacle. The story is too much common property to deserve of space here. The cast includes E. P. Sullivan, Roland Bottomley, Mae Thompson, Gladys Coburn, Charles De Forrest, Henry Hallam, Frank Leonard and Helen Lindroth.

"THE WOMAN IN POLITICS"

(Thanhouser-Mutual Masterpicture—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

A SLIGHTLY unusual twist has been given to the conventional melodrama by Philip Lonergan in this feature offering. The story is simple, direct and has the wide appeal of such stories the country over. No problem, no revelation of character, no unusual situations are involved. The characters are of the familiar stamp and one can almost predict their course of action, and foresee the reckoning which is coming to the guilty, and the reward and happiness due to the innocent.

Most innocent of all these is the girl played by Mignon Anderson. She works hard and sincerely, and her character in this piece is as good as anything we have seen from her yet. She is a young physician, employed in the health department as an inspector. She finds one tenement in terrible condition, and makes out a condemnatory report. It develops that the building is owned by the Mayor, who controls the whole city, including the newspapers, and the heroine loses her job. Appeals to the press are useless, so she prefers charges against the Mayor to the Governor, and a date is set for a hearing.

THE ACCUSATION

In the meantime, the Mayor and his ward-heelers determine to discredit the girl before the hearing is called, and to do this arrange that a man shall hide in her room, and when she enters, have the place raided. This scheme is foiled, cleverly, too, by a young man who has accidentally met the girl, and everything goes wrong.

Then a fire breaks out in the condemned tenement. The girl is in the place at the time; she is rescued, recognized by the Mayor's emissaries, and immediately carried off to an insane sanitarium. The young man in question traces her, and arranges to have her transferred, supposedly at the Mayor's orders. When the two huskies appear leading her, he holds them up, recovers the girl, and arrests them.

The Mayor appears before the Governor, calls attention to the fact that his accuser is missing and asks that the charges be dismissed. Then the girl and her saviour walk in. It develops that the young man is the Governor's secretary, the forces of evil are confounded, and the girl and her ideas triumph.

There are a number of thrills in connection with the fire scene; apparatus is shown dashing through the streets, and there are daring rescues. All in the piece is well staged, and is assisted by excellent photography. Arthur Bauer, Ernest Howard, George Marlo and W. Eugene Moore are also in the cast.

If Your Copy
OF THE NEWS DOES NOT REACH YOU
PROMPTLY EVERY WEEK, PLEASE
ADVISE US.

"MRS. DANE'S DANGER"

(Vitagraph Personally Picked Program—Four Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

THIS picture is representative of the care and intelligence which the Vitagraph Company is giving to its program offerings. These productions are uniformly well acted, the staging is above the average, and the stories are built along human interest lines.

"Mrs. Dane's Danger" adds also the element of suspense. It is a society drama, with a butterfly (Lillian Walker) in the foreground. Her husband (Wilfrid North) gives more attention to business than to his wife, with the net result that his wife attracts an admirer (Donald Hall). The admirer wants her, if he can get her; if not, he wants her pearl necklace as a means of getting himself out of financial troubles. He fails to get her, so he goes to her room at night to steal the necklace. There also goes a down and out broker (William Dunn), intent on the same mission. The butterfly sleeps peacefully while the two thieves, each ignorant of the other's presence, move about the room. When the husband arrives unexpectedly, there is a scene which ends in happy reconciliation between husband and wife.

THE RECONCILIATION

Of such material is the plot built: good, every day, dramatic situations, which, though they do not rise to any great heights, carry the spectator's interest along without jarring, and send him away satisfied.

It seems almost unnecessary to mention sets in a review of Vitagraph society plays, because they are always dignified, pleasing, and often beautiful. Exhibitors who are acquainted with them know what to expect. This picture is also well directed, Wilfrid North being responsible for that. The photography is good as a whole.

The one principal not already mentioned is L. Rogers Lytton, who appears as an unscrupulous money lender. His acting is of higher finish than that of any other member of the cast, but the acting throughout is good.

This is the Reporter with a nose for news, who scandalized a clergyman, shocked his congregation and nearly caused disaster for

"The Other Girl"

SCENES FROM PATHÉ OFFERINGS: "THE RED CIRCLE," NO. 4; "NEW YORK," AND "EXCUSE ME"

"EXCUSE ME"

(H. W. Savage-Pathé Gold Rooster—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

THE humor of Rupert Hughes' well-known farce, which has been played all over the country, has been transferred to the screen in such manner that the laughs register in a long succession. There seems to have been no effort to achieve anything except laughs, and the concentration on this result has been well repaid. The subject offers a striking relief to the general run of pictures on the Gold Rooster program, and should be a welcome diversion.

There is little real dramatic action; no climaxes, and not a terrible lot of story. There is however, a steady thread of plot, running via a Pullman car, from Chicago to San Francisco, and this is kept alive with laughable situations, and nearly as laughable titles. A great deal of humor is in the titles, themselves, which forms the only excuse for there being so many of them.

The settings are of the simplest. The main action occurs in a Pullman car, and its smoking and observation compartments. These are utilized to the fullest, and they provide an ideal ground for George F. Marion to work out his black-face comedy as the Pullman porter.

The story starts with Lieutenant Mallory, who is suddenly ordered to Manila and must catch the Overland limited. He prevails on Marjorie to elope with him, but they are so delayed that they have no time to stop at the preacher's. Also on the train is Mrs. Jimmie Wellington who is going to Reno to get a divorce, and Jimmie himself, who has decided to do the very same thing, each being unaware of the presence of the other. There is a preacher from Ypsilanti, who has decided to break loose from the fetters of his parish for the first time in his life, and last, a former sweetheart of the Lieutenant, who discovers him, and attempts to renew their acquaintance, much to the agony of the prospective bride. The Wellingtons discover each other, and establish an armed truce. Mallory, unable to find a preacher, is spurned by Marjorie, and the woes of all concerned fall on the porter. Finally the train is held up by bandits, and then Mallory distinguishes himself by holding up the bandits and restoring the stolen property to its proprietors. In gratitude, the disguised preacher admits his identity and marries the couple, the Wellingtons, affected by the sight, patch up their differences, and a third couple are induced to join their hands in matrimony. The porter, who has borne the brunt of the trouble begins to collect his reward in the shape of liberal tips.

In the cast are Geraldine O'Brien, Vivian Blackburn, Robert Fischer and Harrison Ford. The sets are accurate, and the impression of a train in motion is convincingly presented. This is the Savage organization's first offering to the screen.

"THE OTHER GIRL"

(Raver Film Corporation—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

"A CLEAN, wholesome picture story, with human characters, and easy to understand," is the announced ambition of the Raver corporation with regard to its first production. This seems to have been accomplished, although neither the story nor its manner of telling rise to the same level of importance as the leading man, one James J. Corbett. "Gentleman Jim" is a good screen figure. He walks into and through his scenes in a wholesome and thoroughly human manner. He is magnetic as a man and capable as an actor, and he holds the center of every scene in which he appears. Moreover, from a box-office standpoint, he has an unusual value. He is still popular throughout the country, and will be hailed with joy in many a town and city.

And those who still worship the old idol will rejoice that there are no feet of clay after all these years.

George D. Proctor made the scenario from the play by Augustus Thomas. He has furnished a direct and simple story, with little touches of nature which embellish it and add appreciably to the characterizations. To these have been added a number of striking exterior scenes of the order which are always acceptable. There are several flashes of Broadway, and one remarkable night-view of the "white lights."

"KID CARNEY" AND HIS VICTIM

The story takes Frank Sheldon, known in the prize ring as "Kid Garvey" to the famous Muldoon sanitarium, where he meets Muldoon in person, and also meets a girl. She does not know his real calling, and they fall in love She is horrified, when she learns, through a reporter, that he is a pugilist, but he convinces her that he is a clean, right-living man, and they decide to elope. Her girl friend plays her false, locks her in a room, disguises herself and takes her place in the pugilist's automobile. An accident occurs in Broadway, a man is injured, and the couple are taken to the police station. The pugilist there discovers the deception in the matter of girls, and to keep the other girl's name out of the papers, induces a vaudeville performer whom he knows to confess that she was his companion. Then comes a happy ending in which three happy couples become happier.

As the real girl Becky Bruce is exceptionally pretty; she is capable also. Paul Gilmore plays the part of a minister with a sense of humor. Muldoon appears as himself, and the cast is completed by Horace Vinton, Mortimer Martini, Louis Thiel, Rawland Ratcliffe, Harry Redding, Ten Eyck Clay, Mona Ryan, Edith Luckett, Frances Thompson, and Lizzie McCall. The direction is that of Percy Winter.

"GREEN EYED MONSTER"

(Fox Film—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

IN this story of horror and death, Robert B. Mantell's acting is powerful and unforgettable. We had the advantage of watching its effect upon an audience, and it is simple truth to say that the spectators were almost awestruck.

The theme is grewsome in the extreme. It calls for nothing less than the murder of a brother by a brother who cannot accept his defeat in love; the placing of the murdered man in a chest by the murderer; the murderer's proposal to his brother's widow, and her refusal. Then the murderer takes her to the chest, and shows her her husband's corpse. She drops dead. Years afterwards, the murderer escorts his nephew to the same place, uncovers the skeleton and collapses.

Through this maze of gloom move Genevieve Hamper, as the wife, Stuart Holmes as the husband, and Mr. Mantell, as the murderer. There are other characters in the story, among them Miss Barry, as a governess with whom the husband maintains a liaison; Henry Leone and Charles Davidson, but somehow the first three sum up the whole thing in its final effect.

AFTER THE MURDER

Mr. Mantell brings to bear on the spectator a sort of Shakespearean pressure. That is, he gathers about him the mood of high tragedy, and registers it. His play of expression is extraordinary. You see cold blooded cunning, despair, hatred, insane affection, the murderer's triumph, remorse. You note that Mr. Mantell delivers these emotions with the aid of very few subtitles.

The production is notable also for the direction given it by J. Gordon Edwards. Mr. Edwards makes the "cut back" the mainspring of his picture, and uses it with great skill. His employment of close-ups was also unusually effective. The action moves with lightning like rapidity.

Interior sets, like all Fox interiors, are handsome, and there are a few exteriors showing the grounds of a country estate. The story was adapted for the screen by Mr. Edwards and Mary Murillo.

"Green Eyed Monster" grips you, and doesn't let go even after you are out of the theatre.

"LYDIA GILMORE"

(Famous Players—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY WILLIAM RESSMAN ANDREWS

PAULINE FREDERICK scores another emotional triumph in the role of Lydia Gilmore, the young woman in Sir Henry Arthur Jones' play, compelled by circumstances to marry a man whom she at first considers in an indifferent light and later comes to hate for his infidelity.

Many scenes stand out from the rest of the drama—the rescue of Lydia Gilmore's son Ned from the pond by Ralph Benham, the sweetheart of the mother in their youthful days; Ralph Benham's confession of murder to his wife on his return from the home of the Staceys; the coaching of the child Ned by his mother to refrain from telling anyone that he saw his father leave the house the night of the crime; the questioning of the lad by the detective; and the youngster's subsequent testimony at the trial; and the mother's sudden resolution not to let her son tell a deliberate falsehood, even to save his worthless father.

Impressive stagecraft was shown in the focus of the camera in the scenes where Lydia discovers from one part of the house her husband making love to Mrs. Stacey; and Mr. Stacey making the same disconcerting discovery from an opposite direction.

The enthralled pair, oblivious to all but their own affairs, is just discernible at the end of a long vista of lawn and shrubbery. Stacey's stealthy movements made on the erring pair and his manner of obtaining knowledge of their appointment when he is supposed to be away in London are thrilling scenes.

Stacey's subsequent actions in thwarting the plans of the guilty pair make plot move with gripping swiftness for the next few hundred feet. One of these scenes in which Stacey is the predominating figure is fraught with sardonic humor. Stacey quietly asks his wife to accompany him to the station and see him off on the night train for London.

Stacey kills time until the train is getting ready to leave the station when on her attempting to step down from the platform he compels her to keep her seat—informing his astonished and terrified wife that she is to go to London instead of himself, while he goes back to the house to keep her appointment with Gilmore.

Miss Frederick receives excellent support in Vincent Serrano, as the erring husband; Thomas Holding as Benham; Robert Cain as Stacey; Helen Luttrell as Mrs. Stacey; Master Jack Curtis as Master Ned Gilmore; and Michael Rale as the detective, an intellectual looking thief catcher.

ACTORS AND DIRECTORS LAUNCH NEW SOCIAL CLUB FOR LOS ANGELES FILM COLONY

Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Los Angeles, Dec. 31.

THE Los Angeles film colony is to have a social club of actors and directors. This was made certain at the most recent of the meetings called for the purpose and held at a downtown cafe during the past week.

At each succeeding meeting the attendance has decreased. At each there was a good show of enthusiasm for an organization, but the initiative was lacking until the actors were on a verge of dropping the matter for the present. While a motion was being considered to follow that plan, Jean Harvez, one of the seven original members of the Friars Club at New York, now a scenario writer for Keystone comedies, told of the experience the organizers had in the formation of that club, how they had "fought and bled," and the final outcome. As the result of this, all took heart and ordered rooms secured, and a meeting called for the opening of the same.

Quarters were secured in the building at 547 S. Broadway, which will be pleasantly furnished. These were opened with a luncheon on the evening of December 9. The organization has more than fifty members, and the assurance of the support of fully three times that many. Fred Mace, Keystone comedian and original founder of the former Los Angeles photoplayers' organization, is acting as temporary chairman.

This is ———

What she is and what she does may never be known unless you see

"The Other Girl"

FOURTEENTH KNICKERBOCKER TRIANGLE PROGRAM

("The Green Swamp"—Kay-Bee. "The Worst of Friends"—Keystone. "The Wood Nymph"—Fine Arts.)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

COMEDY is uppermost in the Triangle offering this week, for although "The Green Swamp" and "The Wood Nymph" both contain near tragedies, the audience at the Knickerbocker theatre, New York, last Sunday afternoon found more things to be amused over than to weep over. And, of course, "The Worst of Friends," a Keystone with Weber and Fields as the chief merrymakers, is no crying matter.

Yet the three pictures are very different. "The Green Swamp" centers about a wife's insane jealousy of her eminently well-behaved husband. "The Wood Nymph" reveals what may happen to an unsophisticated child of the forest, and "The Worst of Friends" uncovers streams of water in the most approved Sennett fashion.

So you see there are several kinds of comedy. Don't misunderstand us. The Ince and Griffith offerings are not funny, in the ordinary meaning of that word; the Keystone production is. All are pleasing, and well done. That was the verdict of the audience, and in this case the audience is the Supreme Court.

TRIANGLE DRAMA AND COMEDY: MARIE DORO AND CORA DREW IN "THE WOOD NYMPH"; JOE WEBER, LEW FIELDS AND ALICE DAVENPORT IN "WORST OF FRIENDS"

Bessie Barriscale is the jealous wife, and Bruce McRae, the devoted husband, in the Kay-Bee subject, the story of which is by C. Gardner Sullivan, and the direction by Scott Sidney. The wife simply will not believe her husband faithful. He is a physician, and the numerous calls he receives are of course intimately connected with his practice. But the wife is determined to think it otherwise, with the result that her failure to deliver a telephone message almost costs a child's life. When her husband contracts lockjaw through carelessness, and keeps her in ignorance of it because of her delicate condition, she comes very near putting an end to his life also, by interrupting, at its crucial moment, the operation upon him. In the end, she is cured of jealousy; her husband recovers; and the moral is driven home.

Miss Barriscale's clever portrayal of jealousy overshadows the picture's more tense moments. Bruce McRae gave a conventionally correct impersonation of the husband; J. Barney Sherry, Milton Ross, Lola May, and Louise Brownell, the other principals, performed acceptably. The cast also includes hospital attendants and patients, villagers, etc. The settings kept largely to interiors, all of which were excellent. The wife's reformation was effectively emphasized by showing a green swamp, symbolic of jealousy, fading into a flower garden, emblematic of faith.

Weber and Fields are at their screen best in "The Worst of Friends," and they are aided by several ultra-Keystone stunts. Chief of these is a long series of steps down which one of Weber's victims is shot on the surface of a raging torrent, when Weber turns the crank that lets the water escape from Mlle. Pashionsky's swimming pool for beauty patients. A speaking tube is converted into a water—projector, with the two comedians at each end; Fields is chased around the swimming pool by a gentleman with a revolver, each sliding on the slippery floor every inch of the way; the comely beauty patients scurrying about to avoid flying bullets; the whole side of a room is blown up by a bomb placed in a trunk, and there are numerous other situations irresistibly funny.

Alice Davenport and Mae Busch are also conspicuous among the players, every one of whom is animated by the true Keystone spirit. Time and again the audience roared at the picture, bestowing their laughs equally upon the typical Weber-Fields pantomime and upon the stunts. Frank Griffith and Jean Havez directed.

Granville Warwick wrote, and Paul Powell produced, "The Wood Nymph," an unusual photoplay because it is mainly a character study. The character is Daphne, a child of the wild, who lives with her mother in the forest. She has been brought up to believe in mythology so that she actually worships gods in the trees, and flits about from one shrine to another. It is difficult to make such a character convincing, but Marie Doro did make it convincing and more. She caught, and pressed, with fine art, the spirit of the wild. Some of the most beautiful scenes that have been given on the screen are found in this picture, and Miss Doro is herself a vision of beauty.

As for the rest of the story, it is slender, and ordinary, serving to bring together Daphne's father and mother, in a none too convincing way. But when Charles West, whom Daphne thinks to be the god Apollo, and Miss Doro hold the screen, the real comedy of personality is at hand, and that is what pleased the audience so greatly. Wilfred Lucas, in the role of Daphne's brother, who comes near villainy, is the best of the other principals, while Frank Campeau, Cora Drew, Fred Graham, and Pearl Elsmore, give sympathetic impersonations.

THE WIFE'S SUSPICIONS ARE AROUSED

One of the most realistic of forest fires occupies much of the footage, and here, as in the other forest views, the photography is flawless. Much of naive humor of the piece is directly due to the skilfully written and skilfully placed subtitles.

This is Lumley

social lion, fond of cafes, cabarets and choristers. Always in trouble yet would have won a jewel but for a mishap to

"The Other Girl"

"LIFE'S WHIRLPOOL"

(World Film—Five Reels)
REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

THIS picture, adapted by E. M. Ingleton and Barry ONeill from the novel "McTeague," by Frank Norris is first, last and always a character study rendered by Holbrook Blinn.

In allowing Blinn a dominating part, which sets off his versatile ability to fine advantage, the co-authors of the scenario have permitted their plot to take at times a meandering course that gives the onlooker rather a vague impression of its purpose and outcome.

Ostensibly the story is built upon the biblical tradition, "The Love of Money is the Root of All Evil." There is a selfish wife who refuses to give her husband any of her hoarded savings after he has lost his job as an honest-quack dentist.

McTeague, the husband, who before has been an acceptable if not a fine man, then buries all love for his wife and allows his nasty and brutal traits to master him. For instance he bites the ends of his wife's fingers and they bleed profusely.

They separate after a while, McTeague having made off with most of the money. He comes back for more later. His wife refuses and he kills her. He flees to the west and is there hounded by a man who became his enemy years before when his wife won a large sum of money on a lottery ticket. They fight to the bitter end in the desert, and although McTeague strangles his enemy, he finds himself chained to the dead man by a pair of handcuffs.

McTEAGUE'S CRUELTY TO HIS WIFE

Blinn gives a strong performance as the brutal McTeague. When he is called upon to be fierce he is, and when he is allotted a comedy bit he renders it in good fashion. In fact, his comedy is one of the best points in "Life's Whirlpool."

But there are times when the picture waxes repelling—the biting and bleeding of the wife's fingers for instance. That scene is undoubtedly intended for realism, but it is stretching the point and so the realism becomes gruesome.

In the beginning when a traveling dentist appears two or three times, we see him at practice, which is not so bad, but neither we nor you take great pleasure in seeing his patients expectorate profusely. And some may perhaps take exception to the manner in which Fania Marinoff writhes over her treasured gold.

Miss Marinoff gives a very expressive performance in her difficult part, while such players as Eleanore Blanchard, Walter Green, Phil Robson, Julia Stuart and Rosemary Dean do creditable work.

As for the direction of Barry O'Neill, the settings, and the fine exteriors, the photography and the lighting, nothing remains to be done there to make the picture praiseworthy.

"THE FOUNDLING"

(Famous Players-Paramount—Five Reels)
REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

THERE are kill-joys everywhere and the obtrusive members of that family who go about under the guise of "champions of the higher art in motion pictures," will naturally attempt to hang, draw and quarter "The Foundling," for that is their way with all good pictures.

Their main argument will be that "The Foundling" would "do very well as a two-reel picture," but in its present state "it is padded and stretched." But, gentle exhibitor, just turn a deaf ear to those foolish remarks.

Perhaps "The Foundling" could be condensed, but we ask you, where would Mary Pickford be without the opportunities to effect her all-powerful and winning mannerisms? The answer is that she would be merely an actress and not the Little Mary that millions go into ectasies about.

For our part we were more than heartily pleased with "The Foundling." We watched Little Mary through all the vicissitudes of a homeless life with a feeling of suspense and tremor, even though we knew for a surety that the end would find her safe in the arms of a loving parent.

Mary Pickford, or if we may be so familiar again, Little Mary, has besides, that rare art of shedding her monstrous salary when she steps before the camera. She is quite able to subordinate herself to even an extra or a group of little children, unsophisticated in everything including acting for pictures. And this estimable asset counts largely for the success of "The Foundling."

In rags all the time, she works, scrubs and laughs her way through these five reels in her usual captivating way. Mayhap her best bit is where she discovers that her new-found friend, a homeless terrier, has been deceiving her and nursing a brood of pups. Her air of surprised indignation at this point is delightful. But at all other times she is quite as irresistible as ever.

The rest of the cast is competent, including a number of kiddies who appear in the orphan asylum scenes. Mildred Morris as Jeannie, displays real ability in a thankless part. Maggie Weston as Mrs. Grimes, is a fine type for the harsh boarding house keeper, while Edward Martindell and Marcia Harris complete the cast.

In closing we make the remark that we are now looking for the Calamity Howler who, a year ago, predicted that in 1916 Mary Pickford would be waning in popularity. We would like to take him to the Strand and place him in the jam that we got caught in on Sunday, January 2.

PATENTS RESTRICTION IS VOID, COURT HOLDS; COMPANY WILL APPEAL

IN the United States District Court Judge Hough has just held that the attempt of the Motion Picture Patents Company to restrict the use of its machine to film made or supplied by its licensees is void.

The result of this decision is, generally speaking, that film exchanges may supply, and exhibitors may use on licensed machines, film purchased from any manufacturer regardless of the notice on the machine.

Counsel for the Motion Picture Patents Company have stated that they will appeal at once to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The Universal Film Manufacturing Company, and the other defendants, denied the validity of the Latham patent on several grounds, but that defense was not passed upon by Judge Hough, although evidence was given on that question which will come before the Court of Appeals.

This is Muldoon

"Billy" for short, a great national figure but belongs in the plot for he squared the police for

"The Other Girl"

"THOU ART THE MAN"

(Vitagraph—V-L-S-E—Six Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

WHEN King David sent Uriah into the trenches, with special instructions that the mitrailleuses be trained on him, he little suspected that in later years his own son would rise up and remark that "there is nothing new under the sun." Then Kipling came along with his touching verse about Jack Barrett, who went to Quetta "because they told him to," and last of all comes the Vitagraph studios with a picturization which justifies all the three sources just quoted.

Not a feature has been added to this Old Testament story of Uriah and the wife whom his King coveted. It has simply been modernized, and in order to split fifty-fifty with Kipling and Jack Barrett, the scene has been placed in India. Never had author or scenario writer an easier job. The paper should read: "Plot by David, scenario by Solomon, locations by Kipling."

A high official, presumably of the British Government, in India, looked upon the wife of a subordinate, and found her fair. To be exact, he registers love at first sight; just at that time a subordinate dies at a remote outpost, a victim of the fatal climate of the locality, and the young husband is promoted to the position at increased salary. He takes the job, soon falls victim to the disease, and is slowly dying while the high official is wooing the wife. Then the wife, who has not decided to accept the attentions, learns that her husband is dying. She has it out with the official, he repents, and goes himself to bring the man out of the plague-ridden country. The wife and a friend accompany him part way, and wait until the husband is sent back to them. He recovers and the pair are shown happy in each other's company, while the high official remains in the plague spot, a prey to his own remorse, and presumable to the plague.

There is a good bit of realism in a wind storm, which develops into a tempest of rain, and the outpost station where the women are awaiting the return of the sick man. The work of S. Rankin Drew as the sick man is to be commended. He gives an excellent portrayal of a man seized by the hand of the plague and slowly realizing the hopelessness of his position. In addition to his work in this capacity, Mr. Drew also directed the production, which in itself must have been no mean task.

Virginia Pearson gives an attractive impersonation of the young wife; unfortunately, she is not always convincing, and her work is not uniform. Quite the opposite in this respect is Joseph Kilgour, as the official. He never allows himself to stray from his character, and it is one well adapted to him. He is at his ease all the time, and evidently has taken the part seriously. George Cooper, Harold Foshay, Billie Billings, William Davidson and Walter McGrail are also in the cast.

In order to preserve the atmosphere of interior India, a whole native village has been constructed, and the street of thatched huts, shown from various angles contrasts sharply with the modern architecture of the headquarters.

"WHAT WILL PEOPLE SAY?"

(Popular Plays and Players-Metro—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

THIS drama of modern society, based upon a Rupert Hughes novel, deals with one of the oldest superstitions of the race: the fear of what other people will say. At the end of the picture the spectator is left with the impression that this idea as a dramatic motive has been subordinated to the presentation of another version of the eternal triangle.

That is to say, the production, as to plot, does not offer anything strikingly original, although it is splendidly mounted and contains some good acting, particularly on the part of Mme. Petrova. Her present role is that of Persis Cabot, daughter of a millionaire on the verge of financial ruin. In order to reinstate him, she marries Willie Enslee, whom she does not love. Before her marriage, she meets Capt. Forbes, an army officer on furlough, and their affair gets under way almost immediately. The upshot of the whole situation is that Persis and Enslee are divorced, and the lovers are left to each other.

This denouement is hastened by two violent scenes, both of which are well acted. In the first, Enslee stabs his wife. In the second, Enslee and Forbes engage in a combat which rages down a stirway into a spacious drawing room, and ends in defeat for Enslee and destruction for several pieces of furniture.

Mme. Petrova makes Persis Cabot convincing, her characterization being far more finished than that of any other member of the cast. Fritz de Lint, as her lover, Fraunie Fraunholz as her husband, Jean Thomas, as the husband's excuse for infidelity, are the other players most in evidence. The addition of Charles Dungan, Zadee Burbank, Marilyn Reed, Elenore Sutter, and William Morse makes the cast complete.

The sets, both exterior and interior, are equal to any Metro has employed. The atmosphere of the piece is essentially that of a scandal in high life, and the settings are in keeping with the atmosphere. Among them are cafe scenes, a country estate, Riverside Drive, and domestic interiors that are artistic and elaborate. Madame Blache directed.

INCREASING POPULARITY OF TRAVEL PICTURES RECOGNIZED BY PRODUCERS

JAMES WARREN CURRIE, writing for the Chicago, Illinois Examiner says: "An announcement by the Paramount Company of a new series of travel pictures, seems to be but another indication of the dawning realization on the part of producers of a deep-seated and stable demand for such films. Pathé Freres also, with prophetic eye, are among the pioneers in the movement to popularize the so-called educational pictures.

"Why this has not been done before is probably a debatable question from the producer's standpoint. Perhaps the time had not yet come when the venture would be profitable from a strictly business standpoint, and yet, Burton Holmes and others have reaped rich reward.

"Unfortunately the word educational as descriptive of travel pictures has a distasteful sound. It brings up to the mind's eye something dry and academic, whereas, in truth, the word applies to one of the most interesting phases of the moving picture world. By 'educational film' the average producer means 'travel' and the traveling means seeing life, not through the eyes of the dramatist but as it really is."

As a starter, the Paramount Company has put out a series of forty Travel Pictures, which include the greater part of the South American continent.

This is the Man who rose from nothing, became world's champion, fell in love with a society bud, then eloped by mistake with

"The Other Girl"

MINA COMEDIES

THEY ADD NOVELTY AND DISTINCTION TO YOUR THEATRE

EVERY THURSDAY ON THE GENERAL FILM PROGRAM. BOOK THEM

"THE MAN INSIDE"

(Broadway Universal Feature—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

NATALIE SUMNER LINCOLN'S novel upon which this picture was based by Raymond L. Schrock was no doubt a difficult piece of literature to adapt for screen production. As a consequence an unusually large number of subtitles have been resorted to in the first two reels, subtitles that accomplish much in the way of the advancement of the story and incidentally that deprive the various players of displaying their ability. The last three reels present a detective story of sensational quality, that is slightly handicapped by an uneven scenario.

The picture is a bit muddlesome in its opening phases, comprised in all the first reel and much of the second, owing to the extraordinary number of characters that have prominent places in the story. Combined with this there is a subtitle opening the second reel that misleads. A murder has been committed in reel No. 1. Then that subtitle reads something to the effect that many years have lapsed. And then we see a man being told that the murder occurred last night. With this bit of confusing literature remedied, "The Man Inside" will present a much better appearance as a whole, because the line denoting the passage of time is continually being contradicted by the action following it.

THE CROSS ON THE DOOR

Edwin Stevens is the legitimate actor starred in this feature and his performance in the roles of twin brothers, one good and the other bad is marked by sincerity and strength. His support in the shape of Harry Benham, Sidney Bracy, Charles Burbridge, Justina Huff, Tina Marshall, Louis Leon Hall and Gustave Thomas is entirely accomplished as is to be expected from such an experienced cast of screen artists.

Those last three reels are, aside from the fact that they are developed rather jerkily, exciting in their good construction. The guilty man, a murderer, two-fold is finally apprehended and brought to justice by his own hand. In a double exposure scene in which Stevens appears in his dual role, the results in the way of acting are unusually satisfactory, although the dividing line is quite obvious.

An actual thrill is also registered in the latter portion of the picture when an automobile crashes over a cliff of great height and rolls over and over in its course to the bottom.

The direction is extremely good, considering the confusing conditions created by the scenario, but Universal has offered photography of a much better quality to its exhibitors.

"TEMPTATION"

(Lasky-Paramount—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

HERE is Geraldine Farrar in her second screen play, in a new mood, and in a great achievement. Any doubts any one may have had with regard to her versatility before the camera are swept aside now. Her role in "Temptation" is as different from her role in "Carmen" as night is from day. She stands alone as a pantomimist whose acting has no bad moments, is astonishingly sustained; and, in its total effect, is nothing less than dazzling.

Miss Farrar needs no subtitles. Her face, her gestures, her whole demeanor are chapters in an open book of emotion every page of which is turned for you at precisely the right moment as the story unfolds.

In "Temptation" Miss Farrar appears as the sweetheart of a poor composer. Together they struggle, she to obtain her rightful place as an opera singer, and he to get an opera produced. Eventually, both succeed, but not until she has agreed to pay the impresario the extreme price. To this she agrees only when her beloved is lying at the point of death, a mental wreck because of his disappointment. She never pays, for the impresario is killed by his jealous mistress.

The central theme of Hector Turnbull's story is built around a woman's fight to keep her love and self respect in the face of a tremendous temptation: fame at the cost of virtue, a subject not at all new. Here, however, it is handled in such fashion as to be dramatic without being ultra-sensational. The action is developed naturally, for the most part. And it accomplishes its main purpose: the providing of a suitable vehicle for the genius of the star. This is no easy matter; but Turnbull has done his work in such a way as to deserve commendation. The story itself will capture the interest of picture-goers, if only because it is made of "strong" material.

The supporting cast is of unusual worth. Theodore Roberts has never done anything finer than his characterization of Otto Muller, the impresario. It is a brilliant piece of acting, filled with fine moments. Pedro de Cordoba is a well-nigh perfect type, physically, for the part of the composer. Elsie Jane Wilson, Raymond Hatton, Earnest Joy, and Anita King complete a cast typical of Lasky.

Cecil B. De Mille, the producer of the Lasky "Carmen," shows the same care in this picture. Nothing has been allowed to interfere with the full expression of Miss Farrar's personality. The sets are by no means so elaborate as those in "Carmen." There are no extraordinary mechanical effects, but the production is adequate.

A scene representative of De Mille's careful workmanship is a dive peopled with unusual types. Here the struggling singer goes in her efforts to earn a little money. The low characters in the place regard her with cynical amusement. She begins to sing. The song is "Home Sweet Home," and gradually you see the dive habitues soften until they are completely won. This change of feeling De Mille brings out most effectively by close-ups of faces that are studies in themselves.

A review of "Temptation" must end as it began—with Geraldine Farrar. An actress who possessed her extraordinary animation, and nothing else, would be well endowed. When you add to that a face which registers every change of emotion, without a single trace of artificiality, and registers it, too, through a sort of shining beauty, you have an actress who would make any story, staged in any fashion you please, memorable.

SUPREME FILM CO. CHICAGO

JUST GETTING WARMED UP
—THE—
COWPUNCHER
THE BIG SENSATION OF THE SEASON
207 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago

Old Judge Bates

wise through years and experience. Adviser to an impetuous youth with a fondness for show girls who were out of the class of

"The Other Girl"

"FIGHTING FOR FRANCE"

(Mutual—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

FIVE reels have been selected from the thousands of feet of film taken by the French official photographers on the battlefields, in the trenches, camps and bases of the French army, and made into a feature for the Mutual Program. The best, both from the standpoints of action and interest, have been selected, and a good, comprehensive view of the actual fighting "somewhere in France" is presented.

These films have been shown in several of the larger cities of this country, under the auspices of the Hearst newspapers. In New York they have been shown to large crowds at the Cohan theatre.

This should be a good basis on which to judge their value to the exhibitor.

There is plenty of action and plenty of interest in the pictures. There is also a notable cast, including among others, such performers as George V., King of England, Kitchener of Khartoum, President Poincaire of France, General Joffre, General French, and several hundred thousand troops. There is no attempt at continuity, or to present a record of events. The film is simply a selection of vital pictures calculated to show just what is occurring on the battlefields, as viewed from the French standpoint. The views include camps, cook scenes, base hospitals, the handling of wounded, the reviewing of great bodies of troops, various styles of guns in action, aviators, and aviation squads in action, cavalry charges, submarines and warships, and the activities of the men in charge of the whole stupendous pageant. As such they are successful. There is in them the thrill which comes with the knowledge that that this is life itself as it is being lived, and not a story based on life as it might be. Not only are they of unusual interest, but they have also an educational value which will recommend them in quarters which would not be interested in the ordinary motion picture.

HAGER GOES TO BUTTE FOR UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE

G. A. HAGER, for two years manager of the Spokane branch of the Universal Film Supply Company, has been transferred to Butte to be manager of the branch there. Mrs. Hager, going with him, will be auditor of the Butte office.

Mr. Hager is succeeded there by W. Potter, for a year with the Universal in Seattle.

Before entering the distributing business, Mr. Potter was an exhibitor in Eugene, Ore., and in Seattle for several years, and is well known in the Northwest.

This is Catherine gay and free. Destined to social prominence she was instead conquered by a man of the people in spite of

"The Other Girl"

Offices For Rent

Outside offices for rent in the most desirable buildings in the Times Square district — the Candler Building, 220 West 42nd Street and the new Film Building, 7th Avenue and 49th Street.

Smaller office spaces—also _outside_—for rental as low as $400.00 a year are available.

For further details, Apply to

Motion Picture News

220 West 42nd Street
New York City

MINA COMEDIES
Clean Cut Comical Comedies
EVERY THURSDAY ON THE GENERAL FILM PROGRAM. BOOK THEM

TABLOID REVIEWS FOR THE BUSY EXHIBITOR

PRODUCTIONS FROM ALL PROGRAMS

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

"The War of Wealth." (Biograph. Three reels. Wed., Jan. 12.)—This is a fast-moving story of love and trickery in Wall Street, surrounded with all the allurements of that attractive region. There are two partners in a banking concern; one falls deeply in love with a girl, which his partner has previously betrayed. The guilty man falls still lower in the moral scale, becomes involved financially, and, in desperation, robs his own bank. The theft precipitates a run on the bank, and of course threatens the innocent partner. At this juncture the girl comes to his rescue, and through the gratitude of an heiress and a bank cashier with whom she is in love, the girl is instrumental in bringing cash from a bank in Philadelphia, in time to prevent a crash. In the cast are Linda Arvidson, Violet Reid, Charles Perley, Robert Drouet and Jack Brammall.

"The Black Crook." (Kalem. Five reels. Mon., Jan. 10.—Reviewed at length elsewhere in this issue.

"Guardian Angels." (Kalem. Tues., Jan. 11.)—Bud and Spike have one of the busiest 1,000-foot comedies of their existence. They are hired to take care of old Mr. Doughbags, and his "little girl Ethel." Ethel makes such a hit that they devote practically all their time to her. They not only neglect their employer, but they become each other's hated rival. Not only do they bang each other up in their efforts to win Ethel's favor, but they damage the woodwork considerably, and end by so rousing Doughbag's ire, both by their neglect and destruction, that they are severed from their job. Ethel Teare, Bud Duncan, Jack MacDermott and Charles Mulgro compose the cast.

"The Purification of Mulfera." (Kalem. Two reels. Wed., Jan. 12.)—In this episode of the Stingaree stories, the noted bushranger takes unusual chances, both to catch a sight of the lady of his heart, and to collect a little change. The Bishop and his curate, on their way to revive the wicked town of Mulfera, are waylaid by the highwayman, who compels them to change clothes; then in the garb of the devines, Stingaree and his aide visit Mulfera, hold a divine service, and when it is at its height, pull their guns and hold up the congregation. They are captured by the real bishop who has reached the town, and sneaks up behind them, and they are locked up. Then the real bishop holds a service, and taking advantage of the occupation of the men, Ethel, the girl in the case, releases the prisoners. Marin Sais, True Bardman, Thomas Lingham, Frank Jonasson, Paul C. Hurst, Edward Clisbee, and Joseph Marber are the cast.

"The Tricksters." (Kalem. Fri., Jan. 14.)—Another of the ventures of Marguerite. The girl is to be a bride in an amateur theatrical performance, and Frank, whose offer of marriage she has rejected, is to play the bridegroom. Through the urging of Holden, a card sharp, to whom Frank owes a gambling debt, Frank conspires to blacken the character of Tom, Marguerite's sweetheart. Tom is waylaid and tied in a deserted shack, and Holden shows one of Tom's checks to the crowd at the rehearsal, to show Tom in a bad light. Marguerite reluctantly accepts the situation and listens to Frank's suggestion that the wedding rehearsal be made real. The minister steps in and the marriage is about to be performed, when Tom, who has worked himself free, appears and stops it. Marguerite Courtot, Roland Bottomley, Robert Ellis, Richard Purdona and Homer Buress lead the cast.

"The Haunted Station." (Kalem. Sat., Jan. 15.)—Another Hazard of Helen. Wood, a railway employe, falls and injures his head. He wanders demented, and is believed to have committed suicide, but his "ghost" appears at night around the station. The "ghost" pursues Helen down the track, to the drawbridge, which to her horror she finds lifted. A workman at the top throws her a rope, which she seizes and uses in climbing to the top, but the "ghost" follows and catches her high up on the structure. There is a thrilling battle in mid-air, in which the "ghost" is finally thrown to the river far below. Helen Gibson, Robyn Adair and Clarence Burton head the cast.

"A Ready Made Maid." (Lubin. Sat., Jan. 1.)—Billie Reeves posing as a maid creates enough comedy in this one thousand-foot subject to make it a worthy number. His tricks such as nailing the clothes on the bed and mixing a cocktail featuring vinegar and bitters are enough to set the ordinary picture house into roars of laughter.

"His Lordship." (Lubin. Wed., Jan. 5.)—A. David L. Don comedy with a plot that however conventional is humorous. Half a dozen pretty girls led by Patsy DeForest furnish delightful and pulchritudinous support to the leading comedian who appears to usual advantage.

"Billie's Headache." (Lubin. Sat., Jan. 8.)—This comedy with Billie Reeves and Carrie Reynolds has some little laughter tucked away between scenes, but not a great quantity until the climax arrives.

"Vengeance of the Oppressed." (Lubin. Three reels. Thurs., Jan. 16.)—This three reeler from the western studio of the Lubin company deals in its first phases with the persecution of the Jews by the Russian Cossacks by way of an immensely strong series of scenes that belittle description. Its latter half shows how one who had suffered terribly at the hands of the soldiers secured vengeance on his chief oppressor. The last part is not as strong as the first but it works up to a good climax carrying much suspense along with it.

Edward Sloman, who directed the picture as well as playing the lead has done his work very well indeed. The first scenes show a complete understanding of the subject. His acting as the revengful Jew in the last part is forceful. L. C. Schumway, George Routh, Francelia Billington, Adda Gleason are other in the cast. The story is the product of the combined efforts of Wilbert Melville and Julian Louis Lamothe.

"By Love Redeemed." (Vitagraph. Three reels. Sat., Jan. 15.)—While this picture has a certain sympathetic appeal, it is not meritorious in all its respects. The characters are not very well defined, while the scenario makes entirely too much of commonplace points. The climax when it arrives is somewhat weak. The scenario was arranged by Alice Williams and produced by C. Jay Williams, with a cast including Jewel Hunt, Garry McGarry, Logan Paul, Anders Randolph and Belle Bruce.

"The Secret Seven" (Vitagraph Broadway Star Feature. Three reels. Sat., Jan. 22.)—Carolyn Birch, Leo Delaney, Harry Northrup, William Humphrey, Templer Saxe and Rose Tapley are the principals in the enactment of this interesting, well staged melodrama. The theme concerns the operation of a gang of counterfeiters. The love interest is well sustained. It was written by Adolph A. Thomas, and directed by William Humphrey.

MUTUAL PROGRAM

"The Law of Suceess." (Reliance. Two reels. Sat., Jan. 1.)—An average story, eentering about the theft of an invention and the subsequent showing up of the thief, after he has amassed millions. It is acted in acceptable manner by William Lowery, Charles H. West, Olga Grey, and Harry Moody in the principal roles.

"Leave It to Cissy." (Casino Star Comedy. Sun. Jan. 2.)—Cissy Fitzgerald, a vivaeious widow, maintains her studio as a rendezvous for gay married men. When the wives arrive, there is the usual number of amusing situations. Miss Fitzgerald is clever in her usual vein, and is assisted by a large cast of Gaumont favorites. Edwin Middleton directed.

"Jerry in the Movies." (Cub. Fri., Jan. 7.)—Jerry gets the idea of being a screen actor, when, strolling through the park he comes upon a regular actor studying a scenario. He gets the manuscript, escapes to his lodging, waves aside the landlady who demands the rent, and begins to "work out" the part. The servant girl is sympathetic, and joins him in a rehearsal of the scene, and in looking over the transom the landlady's husband sees Jerry stab the girl. He calls the police, but Jerry avoids them, and goes off to apply for a job as actor. He gets the job and is cast as a policeman, but his enthusiasm for the work wrecks the studio, and creates a screaming riot among the members of the company. George Ovey is assisted in the east by George George, Jefferson Osborne, Louis Fitzroy, Arthur Jackson, Belle Bennett, Janet Sully and Louise Horner.

"Marta of the Jungle." (Centaur. Two reels. Thurs., Jan. 13.)—The Bostock animals are features in this story of criminals in South Africa. Caulder, a criminal, crossing the veldt, finds a deserted prairie schooner, and inside, the child Marta; her parents have been killed by a lion. Caulder takes the child to a cabin, which is the hangout of himself and his partner, Tom. The girl grows up with them, and is forced to participate in their evil ways. Rolfe is sent from London to run down the band of smugglers, and he soon locates Caulder. Pursuing them he is attacked by a lion, but is rescued by Marta, who takes him to the cabin. She hears Caulder and Tom coming, and hides Rolfe, but they discover him, and recognize him as their pursuer. In the meanwhile, Rolfe's horse, from which he was separated during the encounter with the lion, has returned to town, and his return has given the alarm. A posse sets out, the cabin is surrounded and Caulder killed in the fight which follows. Rolfe and Marta reach an understanding. Margaret Gibson, Stephen Batty, Roy Watson and "Doc" Barlow are in the cast.

PATHE EXCHANGE INC.

"Pathe News," No. 104. (Pathe)—Col. House and Brand Whitloek sail for Europe on the same ship; interesting incidents of the French operations in the Argonne; views of Russian action against the Turks; Pathé Paris fashions in color; 200 school children are entertained aboard the battleship New York at New York; pig culture at Chino, Cal., grammar school; jobless men saw wood for the municipal wood pile in Chicago.

"Ach! Such Crimes!" (Starlight)—This comedy finds Heinie and Louie in a different situation than usual. Heinie is "happily" married, and is set to sweeping the carpet, while deserted Louie, discovers, a band of kidnappers,

MINA COMEDIES They Send You Away Laughing
EVERY THURSDAY ON THE GENERAL FILM PROGRAM. BOOK THEM

Entire Satisfaction to Our Customers

Makes the existence of this company possible. We have successfully been doing business for more than six years. We operate NOW the most efficient film factory in America. We are building—and have nearly completed—the most modern and completely equipped laboratory and studio in the world,

PERFECT DEVELOPING AND PRINTING

INDUSTRIAL MOVING PICTURE COMPANY

WATTERSON R. ROTHACKER, President

223-233 West Erie Street - - Chicago

When the Public by Their Patronage Force All High Class Theatres to Play Return Engagements of

MARVELOUS MACISTE The Giant of Cabiria In 6 Parts

Where State Rights Have Been Sold, is it not time to look for the unsold territory?

HANOVER FILM CO., Inc.

Suite 904, Columbia Theatre Bldg. Phone 9544 Bryant

Broadway at 47th St., New York City

This is the Minister who believes in smiles as a cure for trouble. He fell in love and married

"The Other Girl"

TRADE S MARK

JACK PICKFORD

The International Star, With the Wonderful Collie, "Smudge," in

"WHY LOVE IS BLIND"

A Selig Feature Drama Dealing With Circus Life and Carrying an Unusual Plot of True Heart Interest. Released on Monday, January 17th, Through General Film Service. JACK PICKFORD Will Bring 'Em to YOUR Theatre!

SELIG POLYSCOPE COMPANY, CHICAGO

AND EVERYWHERE

TRADE S MARK

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

and being discovered himself, is forced to join them. Heinie's clumsiness upsets his dinner, and he is sent to the delicatessen for more. On the way home he observes Louie kidnapping a child. He pursues to the kidnappers' lair, and recovers the child, but is arrested and thrown into jail. He escapes and "squeals" on Louie as the real criminal. Louie is locked up and Heinie returns to his wife, broom and dustpan.

"Old Unchanging Holland." (Photocolor-Globe. Split reel.)—This is another of the delightfully tinted scenic pictures, showing the quaint landscape of Holland, with its canals, windmills and characteristic pastures. On the same reel is "Quaint Dances of Japan," in which the little Japanese girls are shown in dainty and attractive pirouettes of their own.

"Luke Learns to Be Literary." (Phunphilms.)—Luke appears in this comedy a book agent out of luck. He fastens himself upon a busy business man. He defies the clerks and stenographers to throw him out, and makes three invasions of the man's sanctum, failing to make a sale. The clerks finally get the proper grip, and Luke goes out rapidly. He goes to the residence district and has the misfortune to attempt to sell a book to the same man's wife, thereby becoming unpopular around the house. Toward evening he meets a girl, of whom he becomes suddenly fond; she returns his affection, and takes him home to meet the folks. The folks are no other than the business man and his wife, and Luke was not only ejected, but also settled down for a good long run.

UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

"Universal Animated Weekly," No. 1. (Wed., Jan. 5.)—Colonel House and Brand Whitlock sail for Europe; war dance in the Philippine Islands; launching of oil tanker, San Francisco; view of the Chicago stockyards; latest winter fashions worn by Mary Fuller, Edna Hunter and Dorothy Phillips; Thomas Mott Osborne; aerial mail service in the Philippines; results of eighty-two mile hurricane in Revere, Mass.; Fred Fulton, challenger of heavy-weight championship; a dozen intimate views of the routine and sport on Henry Ford's peace ship; and Hy Mayer's cartoons.

"Graft." (Universal Special Feature. Fifth Episode. Two reels. Week of Jan. 10.)—This instalment which bears the name of Wallace Irwin as its inspirator is entitled "The Textile Trust and Tom Larnigan" and sets a very high mark for melodramatic suspense. Harry Carey as Tom does battle with Ayres, head of the Textile Trust and his confederates.

Tom is terribly bitter against this grafter and by a trick causes him to murder his own son. Then he is sent to jail and the ranks of "The Fifteen" are reduced to eight.

Thrills created by the story itself and by various incidental scenes aid materially in maintaining the same sensational pace that the preceding numbers caused. Carey will undoubtedly become more of a favorite than he is already through his snappy performances in "Graft."

"Love's Pilgrimage to America." (Broadway Universal Feature. Five reels. Mon., Jan. 10.)—Reviewed at length in the issue of Jan. 8.

"The Boy, the Girl and the Auto." (Nestor. Mon., Jan. 10.)—The plot of the rivals in love has been given a comical twist by Neal Burns in his story of the above title. It has some live and pleasing situations, while the work of Billie Rhodes, Ray Gallagher, Ethyl Lynn, Neal Burns, Harry Rattenberry and Jean Hathaway is entirely fitting.

"The Boob's Victory." (Gold Seal. Two reels. Tues., Jan. 11.)—Reviewed at length in the issue of Jan. 1.

"His Return." (Rex. Tues., Jan. 11.)—A well-done story somewhat contradictory as to its suggestion of the climax and the climax itself, but worked out nicely with action that is motivated by sensible thought. Cleo Madison and Joe King directed from a scenario by Helen Brady while the cast includes Jack Bryce, Mae Gaston, Raymond Russell and Helen Wright.

"Man and Morality." (Victor. Three reels. Wed., Jan. 12.)—Harry Myers can make good dramas and better comedies, but when it comes to morality pictures he goes backward instead of forward. This picture shows the awakening of an idealist, who spurns the girl he loves because her past arises to damn her. He goes to the Philippines to seek mental relief, and there falls under the spell of a native girl who slowly drags him down until the American girl comes to his rescue. When viewed the picture contained several questionable scenes which aroused the wrath of the censors, but doubtless in its present state the picture is entirely inoffensive. The scenes, save for those supposed to have transpired in the night, are very good, the Southern scenes being particularly realistic. Myers appears as the idealist while Rosemary Thelby has both the leading feminine roles and does well in both.

"Gertie's Busy Day." (L-Ko. Wed., Jan. 12.)—By all odds one of the best of the recent output of this company introducing a lot of flirtatious horseplay that accomplishes its comedy mission in most excellent style. Gertrude Selby, Fatty Voss and Reggie Morris are the leads.

"X 3." (Big U. Three reels. Thurs., Jan. 13.)—A detective picture of fair quality written by James Dayton and produced by Jay Hunt. It has a good bit of sentimental human interest action and an interesting love story. In its entirety the picture which shows the detective rounding up a gang of counterfeiters and murderers is quite entertaining, although there is not much suspense because the situations are all so obvious. The direction of Hunt is good save for his tendency to lay stress on points that are in themselves clear enough. Murdock MacQuarrie as the detective, supported by Eddie Polo, Arthur Moon, M. K. Wilson, Edith Sterling and Walter Rogers, fill the principal roles.

"The Rubber Rompers." (Powers. Split reel. Thurs., Jan. 13.)—Up to date the best of the pictured vaudeville acts, showing the weird stunts performed by two acrobatic contortionists. On the same reel with "Transporting Timber in Sweden."

"Transporting Timber in Sweden." (Powers. Split reel. Thurs., Jan. 13.)—A most fascinating educational showing various pictures of the lumber industry in Sweden. One view showing the logs shooting off a long runway into a lake introduces something new in pictures. On the same reel with "The Rubber Rompers."

"Her Defiance." (Rex. Two reels. Fri., Jan. 14.)—A sympathetic subject along conventional lines but benefited by several original situations that add much to its value. The story concerns the country girl who through a misunderstanding believes her city lover has deserted her. Harvey Gates wrote the scenario while Cleo Madison and Joe King collaborated in the production of it, the former also playing the lead in capable style.

"The Ring and the Rajah." (Victor. Fri., Jan. 14.)—A melodrama of English manufacture written by Anne Merwin and produced by Harold Shaw. It presents an exciting story, a little unconvincing at times but developed with skill and presenting an exciting climax. Edna Flugrath plays the feminine lead.

"Flivvers' Good Turn." (Nestor. Fri., Jan. 14.)—Number three of the English comedies featuring Charles Evans, entitled "Flivvers Good Turn," is simply uproarious, even better than the second. Evans has got a true comedy personality and when seen in a picture of funny situations puts his "business" over in excellent style.

"Across the Rio Grande." (Bison. Three reels. Sat., Jan. 15.)—Reviewed ot length in the issue of Jan. 8.

"Uncle Sam at Work," No. 4. (Powers. Sat., Jan. 15.)—This instalment shows various interesting views of life in the navy, and well maintains the entertaining standard of the first three numbers. The photography is good.

"The Little Mascot." (Rex. Two reels. Sun., Jan. 16.)—Appealing largely to juveniles, this H. C. Matthews production featuring Baby Early contains a melodramatic story, somewhat strained in several critical instances, but giving Baby Early plenty of opportunity to exercise her mature ability. The photography is only fair, and some of the principals act amateurishly, but the picture is on the whole quite entertaining.

"Flirting a la Carte." (L-Ko. Sun., Jan. 16.)—This knockabout affair is based on an old plot while its situations present nothing original in the way of laughable entertainment. Alice Howell and Fatty Voss are in the cast and manage to produce a few laughs.

CORPORATION STATISTICS

In Delaware:

LEMON AMUSEMENT COMPANY; capitalized for $2,000: Wilmington, Del. Conducting places of amusement. Incorporators: F. R. Hansell, Philadelphia; George H. B. Martin and S. C. Seymour, Camden, N. J.

REELPLAYS CORPORATION; capitalized for $100,000; Dover, Del. Manufacture moving picture machines. Incorporators: H. O. Coughlan, Joseph H. Curtin and S. A. Anderson, New York City.

PHILADELPHIA BOOKING COMPANY; capitalized for $2,000; Wilmington, Del. To deal in moving picture films, and act as agents for same. Incorporators: F. R. Hansell, Philadelphia, Pa.; George H. B. Martin and S. C. Seymour, Camden, N. J.

In Illinois:

THEATRE BELVOIR COMPANY; operate a place of amusement; capitalized for $5,000; Champaign, Ill. Incorporators: L. V. Russell, E. H. Russell and Mary L. Mayfield.

INTERNATIONAL PHOTOPLAY COMPANY; moving pictures; capitalized for $25,000; Chicago, Ill. Incroporators: Anton Czechowicz, Stanley Snopek, Frank Szosepkowski.

LANDOWNE PHOTOPLAY COMPANY; moving pictures; capitalized for $2,500; East St. Louis, Ill. Incorporators: G. H. Hamilton, M. Hamilton, A. S. Richey.

UNIVERSAL SHOW COMPANY; conduct amusement enterprises; capitalized for $2,500; Chicago, Ill. Incorporators: James T. Clyde, Charles S. Hatch and William H. Luthardt.

In New Jersey:

CRAWFORD THEATRE; 66 Orange street, Newark, N. J.; operate motion picture theatres; capitalized for $100,000. Incorporators: John G. Crawford, 24 South Tenth street,, Newark, N. J.; Frank D. Crawford, 236 North Seventh street, Newark, N. J., and William S. Shriver, 256 Hornblower avenue, Belleville, N. J.

In New York:

CASINO AMUSEMENT CORPORATION OF GLOVERSVILLE, INC.; capitalized for $6,000. Theatrical, general amusement business. Incorporators: Thomas Hubbard, Clinton V. Rowland, Joseph Keck and Horton D. Wright, Gloversville, N. Y.

RICHMOND STOCK COMPANY, INC.; capitalized for $1,000. Theatrical and moving picture business. Incorporators: Benjamin Solomon, Harry Wee and Mark J. Jordon, 116 West Thirty-ninth street, New York City.

THE O'CONNOR-RADIN CIRCUIT, INC.; capitalized for $1,000. Manage theatres, motion picture shows. Incorporators: Thomas F. O'Connor and Mary O'Connor, Lynbrook, N. Y., and Matthias Radin, Rockville Centre, N. Y.

THE UNIVERSAL MOVING PICTURE MACHINE TOOL MANUFACTURING COMPANY, INC.; capitalized for $10,000. Manufacture and deal in motion picture apparatus. Incorporators: Hyman Dashman, 694 Hendrix street, Brooklyn N. Y.; Henry Chertkoff, 808 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Alex. Lashkereff, 358 Forty-first street, New York.

NEW POLICY AMUSEMENT COMPANY, INC.; capitalized for $500. General theatrical and motion picture business. Incorporators: Ben Kahn, 645 West 160th street, New York City; Ben Levine, 118 East Seventeenth street, New York City, and Frank Abbot, 67 Magnolia avenue, Jersey City, N. J.

THE MORTON OPERAS COMPANY, INC.; capitalized for $3,000. General theatrical business. Incorporators: Ollie Morton, Hotel Martin, Utica, N. Y; Arthur Burckley, 702 John street, Utica, N. Y., and John Molloy, Jr., Majestic Theatre, New York.

In Pennsylvania:

BUENA VISTA AMUSEMENT COMPANY; maintaining and operating places of amusement; capitalized for $5,000 Incorporators: Alexander S. Moore, Thomas P. Doyle and William D. Amann, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PENN COUNTIES AMUSEMENT COMPANY; maintain and conduct theatres, playhouses, picture houses; capital stock, $5,000; treasurer, John J. Meily, 228 N. Fourth street, Allentown, Pa.; incorporators: John J. Meily, Allentown, Pa., 50 shares; Edward H. Buss, Emaus, Pa., 34 shares; Leon Buss, Emaus, Pa., 15 shares; Margaret E. Meily, Allentown, Pa., 1 share.

THE JARVELLA THEATRE COMPANY; operating theatre, moving picture house; capital stock, $50,000; treasurer, Aaron Chaitkin, 1413 Irwin avenue, N. S. Pittsburgh, Pa.; incorporators: David Chaitkin, 150 shares; Aaron Chaitkin, 150 shares; George Logue, 5 shares, all of Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE OVEREND AMUSEMENT COMPANY; maintaining and operating theatres, picture houses; capital stock, $5,000; treasurer, Clarence Overend, Second National Bank Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.; incorporators: Clarence Overend, 48 shares; M. R. Overend, 1 share; H. V. Wolf, 1 share, all of Pittsburgh, Pa.

NEMO THEATRE COMPANY; conducting, managing theatres, play houses; capital stock, $5,000; treasurer, Michael J. Boyle, Westmont, Pa.; incorporators: Michael J. Boyle, Westmont, Pa., 26 shares; Thomas Holzman, New York City, 23 shares; Maurice E. Holzman, Johnstown, Pa., 1 share.

In Virginia:

WONDERLAND AMUSEMENT CORPORATION; to operate moving pictures and other places of amusement; capitalized for $20,000; Norfolk, Va. Incorporators: E. L. King, Wm. Byyee and S. E. King, Norfolk, Va.

In Indiana:

CLIFFORD DEVEREUX, INC.; 25 Chestnut street, E. Orange, N. J.; C. Y. Devereux; motion pictures; $50,000; P. A. Hord, Maysville, Ky.; Katherine J. Devereux and C. Y. Devereux, 25 Chestnut street, E. Orange, N. J.

CLEMENTON PARK ASSOCIATION; Clementon, N. J.; J. W. Davis; amusement enterprises; $125,000; O. F. Stem, Berlin, N. J.; E. B. Gibbs, Clementon, N. J.; J. B. Ruth, Laurel Springs, N. J.; F. B. Cook, Camden, N. J.

EAGLESWOOD PARK ASSOCIATION; 143 Smith street, Perth Amboy, N. J.; E. Stremlau; amusement enterprises; $100,000; Wm. Massopuset, Martin Bartos and N. Toft, Perth Amboy, N. J.

We Have Secured Exclusive Rights
for
NEW YORK and NEW JERSEY
on
FIGHTING IN FRANCE
THE OFFICIAL WAR PICTURE LOANED BY THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT TO

This picture has been playing to thousands every day at the Fulton and Forty-fourth Street theatres, New York, and in the Keith theatres in New York and Brooklyn.

These are the only motion pictures exhibited to the Allied Diplomats at the French Embassy at Washington, Thursday, November 18.

Write for Bookings to EXHIBITORS' EXCHANGE, 110 W. 40th St., New York City
PHONE—BRYANT 4200 ROOM 403

QUALITY means
EVANS
means PERFECTION

We Do Particular Work for Particular People
Developing and Printing ONLY

Evans Film Manufacturing Company
Numbers 416-418-420-422 West 216th Street
Telephone 6881 Audubon NEW YORK CITY

NOTICE

No Bookings Accepted
IN Greater New York
UNTIL FEBRUARY 1ST.

BOOKED BY
WILLIAM FOX CIRCUIT
MARCUS LOEW CIRCUIT

Can Accommodate Upper New York
State and New Jersey Exhibitors

FOR BOOKINGS
NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY
ADDRESS
D. J. McGOWAN, 110 West 40th St., New York

PHUNPHILMS

Rolin Made—Pathe Released

The Best We Can Make

ROLIN FILM COMPANY

THE FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

Producing successful dramas re-enacted before the recording eye of the camera by actors and under directors who have created artistic and box office successes in the "legitimate."

EIGHTEEN EAST FORTY-FIRST STREET, NEW YORK William L. Sherrill, President

MINA COMEDIES
Caught With The Goods
RELEASE OF JANUARY 6th. BOOK IT

Calendar of Current and Coming Releases

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

RELEASES OF CURRENT WEEK

REGULAR PROGRAM

Monday, January 10, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—In the Aisles of the Wild, D. (Re-issue), 1000 19857
SELIG—The Devil in Chief, D., 3000 19852
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune, No. 3, News, 1000 19856
VITAGRAPH—When Linn Came Home, D., 1000 19855
LUBIN—The Lost Bracelet, D., 1000 19858

Tuesday, January 11, 1916.

ESSANAY—Angels Unawares, D., 2000 19859
KALEM—Guardian Angels, C., 1000 19861
LUBIN—The Old Watchman, D., 2000 19862

Wednesday, January 12, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—The War of Wealth, D., 2000 19867
ESSANAY—The Fable of the Two Philanthropic Sons, C., 1000 19866
KALEM—The Purification of Mulfera (Eighth of the "Stingaree" Series), D., 2000 19864

Thursday, January 13, 1916.

LUBIN—The Bond Within, D., 3000 19870
MINA—Little Brown Hen, C., 1000 19874
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune, No. 4, News, 1000 19873

Friday, January 14, 1916.

KALEM—The Tricksters (Twelfth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D., 1000 19878
KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURES—The Wood Nymph, D., 3000 19875
VIM—Chickens, C., 1000 19880
VITAGRAPH—When Two Play a Game, C., 1000 19879

Saturday, January 15, 1916.

ESSANAY—Pieces of the Game, D., 3000 19881
KALEM—The Haunted Station (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D., 1000 19888
LUBIN—A Skate for a Bride, C., 1000 19884
SELIG—No Sir-ee Bob (Eighth of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C., 2000 19889
VITAGRAPH—By Love Redeemed, D., 3000 19885

UNIT PROGRAM

Monday, January 10, 1916.

KALEM—The Black Crook, D., 5000 ..... U-1040
VITAGRAPH—The Surprises of an Empty Hotel, D., 4000 ..... U-1030
A Cripple Creek Cinderella, C., 1000 ..... U-1034

Wednesday, January 12, 1916.

LUBIN—The City of Failing Light, D., 4000 ..... U-1035
A Bath Tub Mystery, C., 1000 ..... U-1039

RELEASES OF COMING WEEK

REGULAR PROGRAM

Monday, January 17, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—The Miser's Heart, D., (Re-Issue) 1000 ..
LUBIN—The Little Sister of the Poor, D., 1000 .....
SELIG—Why Love Is Blind (Jack Pickford) .....
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 5, News, 1000 .....
VITAGRAPH—Them Was the Good Old Days, C., 1000

Tuesday, January 18, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—The Angel of Piety Flat, D., 2000 .....
ESSANAY—The Book Agent's Romance, D., 2000 ....
KALEM—The Tale of a Coat, C., 1000 .....

Wednesday, January 19, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—A Life Chase, D., 3000 .....
ESSANAY—Cannimated Nooz Pictorial, No. 4, C., 1000
KALEM—A Duel in the Desert (Ninth of the "Stingaree" Series) D., 2000 .....

Thursday, January 20, 1916.

LUBIN—The Law's Injustice, D., 3000 .....
MINA—Comedy (Title Not Reported) .....
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune, No. 6, News, 1000 .....

Friday, January 21, 1916.

KALEM—A Sealskin Coat (Thirteenth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D., 1000 .....
KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE—Houses of Mystery, D., 3000 .....
VIM—Frenzied Finance, C., 1000 .....
VITAGRAPH—A Telegraphic Tangle, C., 1000 .....

Saturday, January 22, 1916.

ESSANAY—The White Alley, D., 3000 .....
KALEM—The Open Track (An Episode of the H. of H. Series) D., 1000 .....
LUBIN—Insomnia, C., 1000 .....
SELIG—When the Circus Came to Town (Ninth of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C., 2000 .....
VITAGRAPH—The Secret Seven, D., 3000 .....

UNIT PROGRAM

Monday, January 17, 1916.

VITAGRAPH—Mrs. Dane's Danger, D., 4000 .....
Bittersweet, D., 1000 .....

Wednesday, January 19, 1916.

LUBIN—The Evangelist, D., 4000 .....
Fooling Uncle, C., 1000 .....

*Selig-Tribune News Monday's release in the East is Thursday's release in the West; Thursday's release in the East is the following Monday's in the West.

Knickerbocker Star Features

Present an Absorbing, Interesting Drama

PAYING THE TOLL

IN THREE EXCITING PARTS

3 RAPID FIRE REELS

3 RAPID FIRE REELS

AS GOD IS MY JUDGE—I AM INNOCENT

This Feature Will Pack Your House
Three Thousand Feet of Live Wires
Tense, Grim and Powerfully Built
Just the Kind of Feature to Start the New Year
Beautiful and Striking Posters and Photos
One, Three and Six Sheets—READY NOW

Released January 7th 1916

ON THE

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

Knickerbocker Star Features

NEW YORK

Calendar of Current and Coming Releases

MUTUAL PROGRAM

RELEASES OF CURRENT WEEK

Monday, January 10, 1916.

AMERICAN—Viviana, D., 2000 04376
FALSTAFF—Belinda's Bridal Breakfast, C., 1000 04378
VOGUE—Oh, for the Life of a Fireman, C., 1000 04379

Tuesday, January 11.

THANHOUSER—The Name of the Law, D., 3000 04280
GAUMONT—See America First, No. 18, Se., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart., Split Reel 04383
BEAUTY—The First Quarrel, C., 1000 04384

Wednesday, January 12, 1916.

RIALTO—The Secret Agent, D., 3000 04385
VOGUE—A Bum Steer, C., 1000 04388

Thursday, January 13, 1916.

CENTAUR—Marta of the Jungles, D., 2000 04389
FALSTAFF—Reforming Rubbering Rosie, C., 1000 04391
MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly, No. 54, News, 1000 04392

Friday, January 14, 1916.

AMERICAN—The Secret Wire, D., 2000 04393
AMERICAN—Spider Barlow Meets Competition, D., 1000 04395
CUB—Jerry in Mexico, C., 1000 04396

Saturday, January 15, 1916.

MUSTANG—Water Stuff, C.-D., 3000 04397
BEAUTY—Getting in Wrong, C., 1000 04400

Sunday, January 16, 1916.

AMERICAN—The Gamble, D., 2000 04401
CASINO—Ham and Eggs, C., 1000 04403

RELEASES OF COMING WEEK

Monday, January 17, 1916.

MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—See Feature Release Page.

Tuesday, January 18, 1916.

AMERICAN—The Silent Trail, D., 2000 04403
FALSTAFF—Grace's Gorgeous Gowns, C., 1000 04405

Wednesday, January 19, 1916.

THANHOUSER—The Phantom Witness, D., 3000 04406
BEAUTY—Johnny's Birthday, C., 1000 04409

Thursday, January 20, 1916.

FALSTAFF—Pete's Persian Princess, C., 1000 04410
MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly, No. 55, News, 1000 04411
VOGUE—One Reel Comedy? 04412
MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—See Feature Release Page.

Friday, January 21, 1916.

MUSTANG—Wild Jim, Reformer, D., 2000 04413
CUB—One Reel Comedy? 04415
AMERICAN—The Thunderbolt, D., 1000 04416
NOVELTY—Italy's War Equipment, Ed., 1000 04417

Saturday, January 22, 1916.

MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—See Feature Release Page.

Sunday, January 23, 1916.

GAUMONT—See America First, No. 19, Se., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cartoon, Split Reel 04418
BEAUTY—Misehief and a Mirror, C., 1000 04419
VOGUE—One Reel Comedy? 04420

UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

RELEASES OF CURRENT WEEK

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—Grinding Life Down (Fifth Episode of "Graft"), D., 2000 01122

Monday, January 10, 1916.

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURE—Love's Pilgrimage to America, D., 5000 01106
NESTOR—The Boy, the Girl, and the Auto, C., 1000 01107

Tuesday, January 11, 1916.

GOLD SEAL—The Boob's Victory, C.-D., 2000 01108
REX—His Return, D., 1000 01109

Wednesday, January 12, 1916.

VICTOR—Man and Morality, D., 3000 01110
L-KO—Gertie's Busy Day, C., 1000 01111
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Weekly No. 201, News, 1000 01112

Thursday, January 13, 1916.

LAEMMLE—No Release This Week .....
BIG U—"X 3," D., 3000 01113
POWERS—The Rubber Rompers, Vaud., and Transporting Timber in Sweden, Ed., Split Reel 01114

Friday, January 14, 1916.

REX—Her Defiance, D., 2000 01115
VICTOR—The Ring and the Rajah, D., 1000 01116
NESTOR—Flivver's Good Turn, C., 1000 01117

Saturday, January 15, 1916.

BISON—Across the Rio Grande, D., 3000 01118
POWERS—Uncle Sam at Work, No. 4 (Uncle Sam's Proteges at Work and at Play), 1000 01119

Sunday, January 16, 1916.

REX—The Little Mascot, D., 2000 01120
L-KO—Flirting a la Carte, C., 1000 01121

RELEASES OF COMING WEEK

UNIVERSAL FEATURE—The Railroad Monopoly (Sixth episode of "Graft") D., 2000 01140

Monday, January 17, 1916.

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURE—The Man Inside, D., 5000 01123
NESTOR—Mingling Spirits, C., 1000 01124

Tuesday, January 18, 1916.

GOLD SEAL—The Reward of Chivalry, D., 3000 01125
REX—The Silent Member, D., 1000 01126

Wednesday, January 19, 1916.

VICTOR—Her Better Self, D., 2000 01127
L-KO—Saving Susie from the Sea, C., 1000 01128
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Weekly No. 202, News, 1000 01129

Thursday, January 20, 1916.

LAEMMLE—Just Plain Folks, D., 3000 01130
POWERS—Physical Culture Lesson, No. 2. and the Ariel Buds, Vaud. Act, Split Reel 01131

Friday, January 21, 1915.

IMP—Vanity Thy Name Is———, C. D., 2000 01132
VICTOR—A Sea Mystery, D., 1000 01133
NESTOR—Flivver's Famous Cheese Hound, C., 1000 .. 01134

Saturday, January 22, 1916.

BISON—Buck Simon's Puncher, D., 2000 01135
POWERS—Uncle Sam at Work, No. 5 (Protecting the Ships at Sea), Ed., 1000 01136
JOKER—The Whole Jungle Was After Him, C., 1000 .. 01137

Sunday, January 23, 1916.

LAEMMLE—Her Dream Man, D., 1000 01138
L-KO—Mr. MeIdiot's Assassination, C., 2000 01139

IF ONE STROKE OF YOUR PEN WOULD KILL CENSORSHIP WOULD YOU HESITATE?

THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY

THE question of Federal censorship of motion pictures is before Congress again this year. The same bill which had not been reached when the last Congress adjourned has been introduced once more.

When Congress assembles on January 3, it will come up for passage.

A powerful combination is behind the censorship bill to put it through—to load the motion picture with a new and subtle form of special taxation—to create jobs paying up to $4000 a year, in salaries alone, for hundreds of political camp-followers.

What have you done about it?

If you are not awake to what this state of affairs means, you are lagging behind the rest of the business.

Exhibitors, exchange men and producers have this year resolved that such a measure shall not go through, if they can prevent it.

They have already demanded a hearing of the Congressional Committee in charge of this bill, a chance to fight censorship fairly and in the open and purge themselves of the charges which have been falsely made against them.

Will you add your voice to this hearing and help to make it a success? A stroke of your pen will do it.

MAIL THE ATTACHED COUPON, FILLED OUT AND SIGNED, TO MOTION PICTURE NEWS AT ONCE

COUPON

PROTEST AGAINST CENSORSHIP

Motion Picture News,
220 W. 42d Street, N. Y. City.

Gentlemen:

I, ..., the undersigned, believing that censorship of motion pictures is wrong in principle, un-American and undemocratic, do hereby protest against House Resolution No. 456 and Senate Bill No. 2204, and I request that the Committee on Education grant a hearing on these bills so that the real sentiment of the people affected by them can be expressed.

Name .....

Theatre .....

City and State .....

RELEASE DATES FOR READY REFERENCE

ASSOCIATED SERVICE

Week of December 27, 1915.

The Powers That Be, D., 2000....Santa Babara
The Gift, D., 2000.....Ramona
Close Quarters, D., 2000.....Alhambra
Let There Be Light, D., 2000.....Empire
He Who Laughs Last, C., 1000.....Atla
Ike Flivvers with Ford, C., 1000.....Federal
Skating on Thin Ice, C., 1000.....Banner
A Peaceful Agitator, C., 1000.....Deer

Week of January 3, 1916.

The Thought, D., 2000.....Santa Barbara
The Missing Link, D., 2000.....Ramona
The Xmas Spirit of the Slums, D., 2000..Alhambra
The Master Rogue, D., 2000.....Empire
Out of the Pan Into the Fire, C., 1000.....Atla
Ike Meets the Gink of Denmark, C., 1000..Federal
Quitting by Request, C., 1000.....Banner
False Rumors, C., 1000.....Deer

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

BIOGRAPH

12—21. Packer Jim's Guardianship, D.....2000
12—22. The Tides of Retribution, D.....3000
12—27. Heridity, D. 1000
12—29. The Woman of Mystery, D.....3000
1916.
1— 3. The Lesser Evil, D., (Reissue)....1000
1— 4. The Avenging Shot, D.....2000
1— 5. The Skating Rinks, C-D.....3000
1—10. In the Aisles of the Wild, D. (Re-issue).1000
1—12. The War of Wealth, D.....3000

EDISON

12—17. The Hand of the Law, D.....3000
12—18. Santa Claus Versus Cupid, Com.-D...1000

ESSANAY

12—21. The Danger of Being Lonesome, D...2000
12—22. Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 3, Cart. and Scenic, Split reel.....1000
12—25. The Woman with a Rose, D.....3000
12—28. Brought Home, D.....2000
12—29. The Fable of the Heir and the Heiress, C. 1000
1916.
1— 1. Prisoner at the Bar, D.....3000
1— 4. Her Lesson, D.....2000
1— 5. Mile a Minute Monty, Cartoon and Scenic .....Split reel
1— 8. The House of Revelation, D.....3000
1—11. Angels Unawares, D.....2000
1—12. The Fable of the Two Philanthropic Sons, C. 1000
1—15. Pieces of the Game, D.....3000

KALEM

12—22. A Bushranger at Bay (Fifth of the "Stingaree" Series), D. 2000
12—24. The Oriental's Plot (Ninth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
12—25. A Boy at the Throttle (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000
12—28. The Caretaker's Dilemma, C.....1000
12—29. The Taking of Stingaree (Sixth of the "Stingaree" Series), D.....2000
12—31. The Spy's Ruse (Tenth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
1916.
1— 1. At the Risk of Her Life (an Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000
1— 4. The Missing Mummy, C.....1000
1— 5. The Honor of the Road (Seventh of the "Stingaree" Series), D....2000
1— 7. Crossed Clues (Eleventh of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
1— 8. When Seconds Count (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000
1—11. Guardian Angels, C.....1000
1—12. The Purification of Mulfera (Eighth of the "Stingaree" Series), D.....2000
1—14. The Tricksters (Twelfth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
1—15. The Haunted Station (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000

UNIT PROGRAM—KALEM

1—10. The Black Crook, D......5000

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURES

12—31. The Mysterious Bride, D.....3000
1916.
1— 7. Paying the Toll, D.....3000

LUBIN

12—11. Bashful Billie, C.....1000
12—13. The Moment Before Death, D.....1000
12—14. The Great Detective, C.....1000
12—15. The Inner Chamber, D.....3000
12—16. A Thief in the Night, D.....2000
12—17. Sweeter Than Revenge, D.....1000
12—18. An Unwilling Burglar, C.....1000
12—23. Beyond All Is Love, D.....3000
12—25. No Smoking, C.....1000
12—30. The Convict King, D.....3000
1916.
1— 1. A Ready Made Maid, C.....1000
1— 6. Vengeance of the Oppressed, D....3000
1— 8. Billie's Headache, C.....1000
1—10. The Lost Bracelet, D.....1000
1—11. The Old Watchman, D.....2000
1—13. The Bond Within, D.....3000
1—15. A Skate for a Bride, C.....1000

UNIT PROGRAM—LUBIN

12—29. Saved from the Harem, D......4000
12—29. This Isn't the Life, C......1000
1916.
1— 5. Sorrows of Happiness, D......4000
1— 5. His Lordship, C......1000
1—12. The City of Failing Light, D......4000
1—12. A Bath Tub Mystery, C......1000

RELEASE DAYS

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

Monday—Biograph, Selig, Vitagraph, Vitagraph-Unit.
Tuesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Selig.
Wednesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Lubin-Unit.
Thursday—Essanay, Luhin, Mina.
Friday—Edison, Essanay, Kalem, Vim, Vitagraph.
Saturday—Essanay, Kalem, Lubin, Selig, Vitagraph.

MUTUAL PROGRAM

Monday—American, Falstaff, Novelty.
Tuesday—Thanhouser, Gaumont (Cart. and Sc.), Beauty.
Wednesday—Reliance, Rialto, or Centaur, and Novelty.
Thursday—Centaur, Falstaff, Mutual Weekly.
Friday—Mustang, American, Cub.
Saturday—Clipper (Am.), Thanoplay, or Mustang, and Beauty.
Sunday—Reliance, Casino, Thanhouser.

UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

Monday—Broadway Universal Feature, Nestor.
Tuesday—Gold Seal, Rex, Imp.
Wednesday—Victor, L-Ko, Animated Weekly.
Thursday—Laemmle, Big U, Powers.
Friday—Imp, Victor, Nestor.
Saturday—Bison, Powers, Joker.
Sunday—Rex, Laemmle, L-Ko.

MINA

12—16. When the Big Show Struck Squeedunck, C. 1000
12—23. The Little Puritan, C.....1000
12—30. From Blackstone to Stone, C.....1000
1916.
1— 6. Caught with the Goods, C.....1000
1—13. Title Not Reported, C.....1000

SELIG-TRIBUNE NEWS PICTORIAL

Issued every Monday and Thursday.

SELIG

12—16. The Golden Spurs, D.....2000
12—18. Jungle Justice, D.....1000
12—20. Perkins' Pep Producer (Sixth of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C...2000
12—20. Hartney Merwin's Adventure, D.....1000
12—25. The Sacred Tiger of Agra, D.....1000
12—27. The Making of Crooks, D.....3000
1916.
1— 1. The Manicure Girl.....1000
1— 3. The Buried Treasure of Cobre, D....3000
1— 8. Spooks (Seventh of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C.....2000
1—10. The Devil in Chief, D.....3000
1—15. No Sir-ee Bob (Eighth of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C.....2000

VIM

12—31. Ups and Downs, C.....1000
1916.
1— 7. This Way Out, C.....1000
1—14. Chickens, C. 1000
1—21. Frenzied Finance, C.....1000

VITAGRAPH

12—10. Roony's Pipe Dream, C.....1000
12—11. Hughey of the Circus, C.....2000
12—13. Benjamin Bunter, Book Agent, Com.-D. 1000
12—14. A Question of Right or Wrong, D..2000
12—15. The Faith of Sonny Jim, Com.-D....1000
12—16. The Flower of the Hills, D.....1000
12—17. The Deceivers, C.....1000
12—18. A Man's Sacrifice, D.....3000
12—20. Levey's Seven Daughters, C.....1000
12—24. Is Christmas a Bore? C.....1000
12—25. The Thirteenth Girl, D.....3000
12—27. He Got Himself a Wife, C.....1000
12—31. By Might of His Right, C.....1000
1916.
1— 1. The Wanderers, D.....3000
1— 3. The Little Trespasser, C-D.....1000
1— 7. His Wife Knew About It, C.....1000
1— 8. Tried for His Own Murder, D....3000
1—10. When Linn Came Home, D.....1000
1—14. When Two Play a Game, C.....1000
1—15. By Love Redeemed, D.....3000

UNIT PROGRAM—VITAGRAPH

12—27. The Making Over of Geoffrey Manning, D. 4000
12—27. The Pest Vamooser, C......1000
1— 3. Who Killed Joe Merrion? D......4000
1— 3. When Hooligan and Dooligan Ran for Mayor, C......1000
1—10. The Surprises of an Empty Hotel, D..4000
1—10. A Cripple Creek Cinderella, C......1000

MUTUAL FILM PROGRAM

AMERICAN

12—17. In the Sunset Country, D.....2000
12—20. The Clean Up, D.....2000
12—24. Yes or No, D.....1000
12—27. The Tragic Circle, D.....2000
12—31. The Mender, D.....1000
1916.
1— 3. Matching Dreams, C-D.....2000
1— 7. Time and Tide, D.....1000
1—10. Viviana, D. 2000
1—14. The Secret Wire, D.....2000
1—14. Spider Barlow Meets Competition, D..1000
1—16. The Gamble, D.....2000

BEAUTY

12—18. Two Hearts and a Thief, C.....1000
12—21. Making a Man of Johnnie, C.....1000
12—25. That Country Girl, Com.-D.....1000
12—28. Kiddus, Kids and Kiddo, C.....1000
1916.
1— 1. Settled Out of Court, C.....1000
1— 4. Billy Van Dusen's Shadow, C.....1000
1— 8. To Be or Not to Be, C.....1000
1—11. The First Quarrel, C.....1000
1—15. Getting in Wrong, C.....1000

CASINO

12—19. Cissy's Innocent Wink, C.....1000
12—26. Hunting, C.....1000
1916.
1— 2. Leave It to Cissy, C.....1000
1— 9. Alias Mr. Jones, C.....1000
1—16. Ham and Eggs, C.....1000

CENTAUR

12—23. The Winning of Jess (Animal D.)...2000
12—30. The Terror of the Fold (Animal D.)..2000
1916.
1— 6. The Homesteader, D.....2000
1—13. Marta of the Jungles, D.....2000

CENTAUR STAR FEATURES

12—22. The Mystery of Carter Breene, D....3000

CLIPPER

12—11. Curly, D. 3000
1916.
1— 1. The Wrath of Haddin Towers, D...3000

CUB

12— 3. A Shot Gun Romance, C.....1000
12—10. Doctor Jerry, C.....1000
12—17. The Knockout, C.....1000
12—24. Hearts and Clubs. C.....1000
12—31. Jerry's Revenge, C.....1000
1916.
1— 7. Comedy (Title Not Reported).
1— 7. Jerry in the Movies, C.....1000
1—14. Jerry in Mexico, C.....1000

RADIO FILM COMPANY INC.
New York City

The Greatest Thriller Ever Known to the Movies

You theatre-men—here is the "peace or war" picture. Here is the real preparedness drama.

Here is the original moving-picture story about defending America, conceived many months ago and carefully, painstakingly worked out RIGHT. While imitations rushed half-complete to the public, this original version was done CORRECTLY.

While this is the first announcement to the trade, somebody got wind of it, with the result that we have been swamped with requests for the rights.

Now it is up to all you who wish to cash in on the value made for the real thing by the imitations to get after and display

Endorsed by the Nation's Leaders

Governors, mayors, senators, officials of all ranks and stations are sending their approval of "Defense or Tribute?" These endorsements express the sentiment of America itself given through America's official spokesmen.

The names and letters of endorsement are being arranged for publication in next week's trade papers.

DEFENSE or TRIBUTE?

"Millions for Defense, but not one cent for Tribute!"—Pinckney

War, grim, frightful—America at war! The war-germ is never dead; watch us as we trace it through history and you have at once the most thrilling comprehensive idea of the world's evolution.

The invader is at our shores—what shall we do? Shall we sit back calmly, watching our cities and farms desolated and razed?

Here is the visualization of the President's demand for preparedness.

Here is the dramatic crystallization of all America's demand for preparedness.

STATE RIGHTS GOING FAST!

The idea that we were working on this picture leaked out in some way so that today with the first announcement to the trade much territory has already been sold.

The demand is great, so wire or telephone your option now.

RADIO FILM COMPANY, Inc. 1446 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

Long Distance 'Phone, Bryant 4995

RELEASE DATES FOR READY REFERENCE

FALSTAFF

12—16. Bill Bunks the Bandit, C.....1000
12—20. When William's Whiskers Worked, C.1000
12—23. Toodles, Tom and Trouble, C.....1000
12—27. Una's Useful Uncle, C.....1000
12—30. Foolish Fat Flora, C.....1000
1916.
1— 3. The Optimistic Oriental Occults, C.1000
1— 6. Hild's Husky Helper, C.....1000
1—10. Belinda's Bridal Breakfast, C.....1000
1—13. Reforming Rubbering Rosie, C.....1000

GAUMONT

12—14. Seeing America First, No. 14 (Pittsburgh and the Steel Mills), Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart. .....Split reel
12—21. See America First, No. 15, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Car. Split reel
12—28. See Aemrica First, No. 16, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart., Split reel
1916.
1— 4. See America First, No. 17, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart. .....Split reel
1—11. See America First, No. 18, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart. Split reel

MUSTANG

12— 4. Film Tempo, C.-D.....3000
12—10. There's Good in the Worst of Us, D..2000
12—17. In the Sunset Country, D.....2000
12—24. The Pitch o' Chance, D.....2000
12—25. Author! Author! Com.-D.....3000
12—31. The Cactus Blossom, D.....2000
1916.
1— 7. The Hills of Glory, D.....2000
1—15. Water Stuff, C.-D.....3000

MUTUAL WEEKLY

Issued every Thursday.

NOVELTY

12— 8. The Army and Navy Football Game, 1915 1000
12—13. The Book Agent, C.....1000
12—15. A Musical Mix-Up, C.....1000
12—20. The Fiddler 1000
12—22. The Innocent Sandwich Man, C., and Between Lakes and Mountains, Sc. Split reel

RELIANCE

12— 8. Her Mother's Daughter, D.....3000
12—12. The Wayward Son, D.....2000
12—19. The Bankhurst Mystery, D.....2000
12—26. The Law of Success.....2000
1916.
1— 1. The Law of Success, D.....2000
1— 5. The She Devil, D.....3000

RIALTO

12— 1. Lessons in Love, C.....3000
12—15. The Ace of Death, D.....3000
12—29. A Prince of Yesterday, D.....3000
1916.
1—12. The Secret Agent, D.....3000

THANHOUSER

12—12. Her Confession, D.....1000
12—14. An Innocent Traitor, D.....2000
12—19. The Necklace of Pearls, D.....1000
12—21. Ambition, D. 3000
12—28. The Last Performance, D.....3000
1916.
1— 4. The Bubbles in the Glass, D.....3000
1— 8. The Woman in Politics, D.....1000
1—11. The Name of the Law, D.....3000

THANOPLAY

11— 6. Mr. Meeson's Will, D.....3000
11—27. The Valkyrie, D.....3000
12—18. His Majesty the King, Com.-D.....3000

VOGUE

12—27. Sammy's Scandalous Schemes, C.....2000
1916.
1— 4. An Innocent Crook, C.....2000
1—12. Title Not Reported, C.....1000

For
MASTER PICTURES—De Luxe Edition
See Feature Release Page

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC.

The Pathé News—Issued Twice Every Week.

Week of January 3, 1916.

New Adventures of Wallingford, No. 14, Com. D., 2000.....Pathé
Old Unchanging Holland, Col. Sc. and Quaint Dances of Japan, Dances, Split Reel .....Photocolor-Globe
Luke Leans to the Literary, C., 1000..Phunphilms
The Red Circle, No. 4, D., 2000.....Balboa
Ach! Such Crimes! C., 1000.....Starlight
The King's game, Com. D., 5000.....G. R. Plays

Week of January 10, 1916.

From Kabylis to Constantine, Col. Sc., and Unfamiliar Fishes, Ed., Split reel .....Photocolor-Globe
Luke Lugs Luggage, C., 1000.....Phunphilms
Madame X, D., 6000.....G. R. Plays
The Red Circle, No. 5, D., 2000.....Balboa
From Bad to Worse, C., 1000.....Starlight

Week of January 17, 1916.

Railroad Construction on the Dark Continent, Ed., and Lizards, Ed., Split reel...Globe
Luke Rolls in Luxury, C., 1000.....Phunphilms
The Red Circle, No. 6.....Balboa

UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

ANIMATED WEEKLY

Issued every Wednesday.

BIG U

11—24. The Trap that Failed, D.....1000
12— 9. The Sacrifice of J. Jonathan Gray, D..3000
12—16. Col. Steele, Master Gambler, Com. D..1000
12—30. Babbling Tongues, D.....1000
1916.
1— 2. The Honor to Die, D.....3000
1—13. "X 3," D. 3000

BISON

11—20. The Heart of a Tigress, D.....3000
11—27. A Desperate Leap, D.....2000
12— 4. The Connecting Link, West.-D.....2000
12—11. The Lion's Ward, Animal D.....3000
12—18. His Real Character, W. D.....2000
12—25. When Rogues Fall Out, D.....3000
1916.
1— 1. The Dawn Road, D.....2000
1— 8. On the Trail of the Tigress, D.....2000
1—15. Across the Rio Grande, D.....3000

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURES

11—29. The Supreme Test, D.....1000
12— 6. The White Scar, D.....5000
12—13. The Primrose Path, D.....5000
12—20. "Father and the Boys," Com.-D.....5000
12—27. The Nature Man or a Struggle for Existence, D. 5000
1916.
1— 3. Landon's Legacy, D.....5000
1—10. Love's Pilgrimage to America, D.....5000

GOLD SEAL

11—30. The Phantom Fortune, D.....3000
12— 7. Idols of Clay, D.....3000
12—14. Lord John in New York (Adventure No. 1 of Lord John's Journal), D.4000
12—21. "Christmas Memories," D.....3000
12—28. As the Shadows Fall, D.....2000
1916.
1— 4. The Gray Sisterhood (Advent. No. 2 of Lord John's Journal), D.....3000
1—11. The Boob's Victory, C.-D.....2000

IMP

11—26. Man or Money? D.....3000
11—30. Safety First and Last, C.....1000
12— 7. Slim, Fat or Medium, C.....1000
12—10. The Little Lady Across the Way, Com. D. 2000
12—14. Almost a Papa, C.....1000
12—17. The Vacuum Test, D.....1000
12—21. When Love Laughs, C.....1000
12—31. A Tribute to Mother, D.....2000
1916.
1— 7. The Law of Life, D.....3000

JOKER

12— 4. Title Not Yet Decided.
12—11. Slightly Mistaken, C.....1000
12—18. Title Not Reported.....
1916.
1— 1. Lemonade Aids Cupid, C.....1000
1— 8. Those Female Haters, C.....1000

LAEMMLE

12— 2. Gilded Youth, D.....3000
12— 3. The Devil and Idle Hands, D.....1000
12— 5. Does It End Right? D.....1000
12—16. The Bride of Nancy Lee, D.....2000
12—18. The Water Clue, D.....1000
12—22. The Great Fear, D.....1000
12—23. One Hundred Years Ago, D.....2000
12—28. The Evil of Suspicion, D.....1000
12—30. The Little Upstart, D.....3000
1916.
1— 5. The Underworld, C-D.....1000
1— 6. Missy, D. 2000
1— 9. Blind Fury, D.....1000

L-KO

12— 1. Lizzie's Watery Grave, C.....1000
12— 5. A Saphead's Revenge, C.....1000
12— 8. Sin on the Sabbath, C.....2000
12—12. Lizzie's Shattered Dreams, C.....1000
12—15. Blackmail in a Hospital, C.....1000
12—19. The Doomed Groom, C.....1000
12—22. From Beanery to Billions, C.....2000
12—26. Greed and Gasoline, C.....1000
12—29. A Scandal at Sea, C.....1000
1916.
1— 2. Pants and Petticoats, C.....1000
1— 9. Billie's Reformation, C.....2000
1—12. Gertie's Busy Day, C.....1000
1—16. Flirting a la Carte, C.....1000

NESTOR

12— 6. Their Quiet Honeymoon, C.....1000
12—10. Keeping It Dark, C.....1000
12—13. Her Speedy Affair, C.....1000
12—17. Where the Heather Blooms, C.....2000
12—20. Love and a Savage, C.....1000
12—25. When Three Is a Crowd.....1000
12—27. Some Chaperone, C.....1000
12—31. Flivver's Terrible Past, C.....1000
1916.
1— 3. Jed's Trip to the Fair, C.....1000
1— 7. Flivver's Art of Mystery, C.....1000
1—10. The Boy, the Girl, and the Auto, C....1000
1—14. Flivver's Good Turn, C.....1000

POWERS

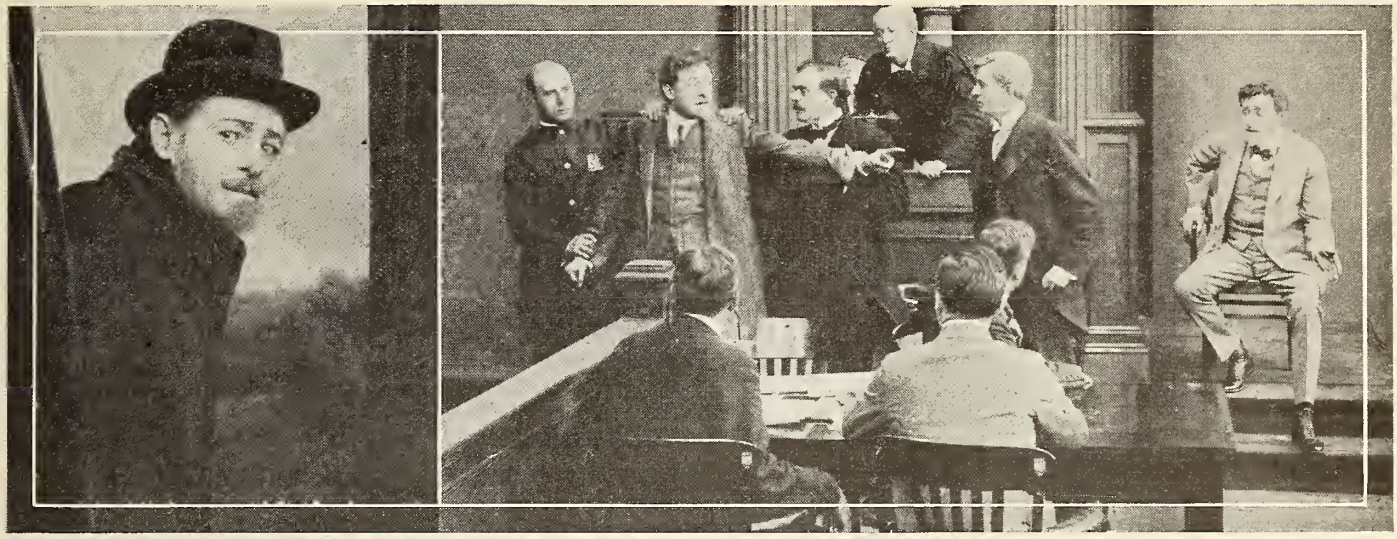
12— 9. The Frolic of the Marionettes, and Nature's Monstrosities, Vaud. and Ed. .....Split reel
12—23. Howard's Monarchs of the American Forest, Vaud., and Wild Bird Life, Ed. .....Split reel
12—25. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 1.....1000
1916.
1— 1. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 2 ("How Uncle Sam Gets His Coin").....1000
1— 6. Physical Culture, Lesson No. 1, Ed., and Carl Emmy and His Dogs, Vaud. .....Split reel
1— 8. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 3 ("Are We Prepared?").....1000
1—13. The Rubber Rompers, Vaud., and Transporting Timber in Sweden, Ed..Split reel
1—15. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 4 (Uncle Sam's Proteges at Work and at Play).1000

REX

11—21. The Mystery of the Locked Room, D.3000
11—28. The Kingdom of Nosey Land, D.....3000
12— 5. Under a Shadow, D.....2000
12—10. The Power of Fascination, D.....1000
12—12. Juror Number Seven, D.....2000
12—19. The Bachelor's Christmas, D.....3000
12—24. The Terrible Truth, D.....1000
12—26. Stronger than Death, D.....2000
1916.
1— 4. Shattered Nerves, C.....1000
1—11. His Return, D.....1000
1—14. Her Defiance, D.....2000
1—16. The Little Mascot, D.....2000

VICTOR

11—17. Lil' Nor' Wester, Sea Coast, D.....3000
12— 1. He Was Only a Bathing Suit Salesman, C. 3000
12— 8. The Awakening of Patsy, D.....1000
12—15. The Widow's Secret, D.....2000
12—24. "The Tale of the C," Com.-D.....3000
12—29. Father's Child, C.....3000
1916.
1— 5. The Heart of a Mermaid, D.....3000
1—12. Man and Morality, D.....3000
1—14. The Ring and the Rajah, D.....1000



The Edison Studios present

A Superb Dual Role Masterplay of Surprising Suspense

The Kleine-Edison feature,

"The Catspaw"

Dramatized from the best seller novel by William Hamilton Osborne

featuring Marc MacDermott and Miriam Nesbitt

Marvellous double exposure photography has aided in making this a Kleine-Edison feature unique for fascinating suspense, perfectly mirroring the charm and grip of the book, "a best seller." Marc MacDermott was never more at home than in depicting with deft skill the two roles he plays—one the gentleman society burglar and the other his "double" who unconsciously furnishes the alibi for him. Easily one of the greatest crook characters on the screen, yet savoring of nothing of the "crook" play. Every scene presents a new twist of surprise. Masterfully plotted to hold suspense convincingly. Miriam Nesbitt, equally skilled, as his crafty companion. Released Wednesday, January 12th.

Already Released

Mrs. Fiske, international star, in an extraordinary production of Thackeray's best novel, "Vanity Fair," picturizing her famous "Becky Sharp." In seven acts. 400 people in cast.

Appealing Mabel Trunnelle and Everett Butterfield in five acts of smashing punch and artistry—a remarkable film founded on the best book of the world's greatest novelist, "The Magic Skin," of Balzac.

Viola Dana, the country's idol, in a powerful play of purpose, "Children of Eve." A pity stirring play in five acts.

Mabel Trunnelle and Marc MacDermott in a strangely fascinating 5-reeler, "The Destroying Angel," from the novel by Louis Joseph Vance.

Released through the Kleine-Edison Feature Service.

George Kleine, 805 East 175th street, New York.

New York	Boston	Toronto	San Francisco
Pittsburg	Seattle	Montreal	Philadelphia
Denver	Cincinnati	Kansas City	Los Angeles
Atlanta	Dallas	Chicago	New Orleans
Minneapolis

FEATURE RELEASES—CURRENT AND COMING

FOX FILM CORPORATION

12— 5. The Unfaithful Wife.....5 reels
12—12. Her Mother's Secret.....5 reels
12—19. A Soldier's Oath.....5 reels
12—26. Destruction .....5 reels
1916.
1— 2. Green-Eyed Monster .....5 reels
1— 9. A Parisian Romance.....5 reels
1—16. The Fourth Estate.....5 reels
1—23. The Serpent .....5 reels
1—30. The Ruling Passion.....5 reels

KLEINE-EDISON FEATURE SERVICE

EDISON
12—8. The Destroying Angel.....5 reels
1916.
1—12. The Catspaw .....5 reels
1—26. The Innocence of Ruth.....5 reels
GEO. KLEINE
12— 1. Canavan .....5 reels
12—15. Bondwomen .....5 reels
1916.
1— 5. The Devil's Prayer Book.....5 reels
1—19. Wild Oats .....5 reels

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORPORATION
11—15. The Woman Pays (Valli Valli)....5 reels
12— 6. A Yellow Streak (Lionel Barrymore and Irene Howley).....5 reels
1916.
2— 7. Her Debt of Honor (Valli Valli)....5 reels
POPULAR PLAYS & PLAYERS
11—29. Barbara Frietchie (Mary Miles Minter) .....5 reels
B. A. ROLFE PHOTOPLAYS, INC.
12—13. The House of Tears (Emily Stevens) .....5 reels
12—27. Black Fear (Grace Elliston).....5 reels
1916.
1—17. A Rose of the Alley (Mary Miles Winter) .....5 reels
1—27. The Upstart (Marguerite Snow).....5 reels
QUALITY PICTURES
12—20. Rosemary (Marguerite Snow).....5 reels
1916.
1—31. Man and His Soul (Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne).....5 reels
2—21. Red Mouse (Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne) .....5 reels

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES

46. The End of the Road (American).....5 reels
47. Inspiration (Thanhouser).....5 reels
48. The Strife Eternal (Mutual).....5 reels
49. The Forbidden Adventure (Mutual)...5 reels
50. The Buzzard's Shadow (American).....5 reels
51. The Mill on the Floss (Thanhouser)...5 reels
52. The Painted Soul (Mutual).....5 reels
53. The Deathlock .....5 reels
54. The Other Side of the Door (American).5 reels
55. The Woman in Politics (Thanhouser)...5 reels
1916. DE LUXE EDITION
1—17. The Thoroughbred (William Russell and Charlotte Burton), D., 5000. American
1—20. The Five Faults of Flo, D., 5000. Thanhouser
1—22. The Bait (William Clifford, Margaret Gibson and Bostock Animals), D., 5000 .....Centaur

PARAMOUNT PICTURES

FAMOUS PLAYERS
12—23. Denman Thompson's Old Homestead .....5 reels
12—27. Lydia Gilmore .....5 reels
1916.
1— 3. The Foundling .....5 reels
1—10. Mice and Men.....5 reels
1—17. My Lady Incog. Com.-D.....5 reels
1—20. Nearly a King, C.....5 reels
1—27. The Spider, D.....5 reels

JESSE LASKY COMPANY
12— 2. Mr. Grex of Monte Carlo.....5 reels
12— 9. The Unknown .....5 reels
12—13. The Cheat .....5 reels
12—20. The Immigrant .....5 reels
12—30. Temptation, D. .....5 reels
1916.
1—13. The Golden Chance, Com.-D.....5 reels
1—31. Pudd'nhead Wilson, Com.-D.....5 reels
MOROSCO PHOTOPLAY COMPANY
12— 6. "Jane" .....5 reels
1916.
1— 6. Tongues of Men, D.....5 reels
PALLAS
12—16. The Reform Candidate.....5 reels
1916.
1—24. The Call of the Cumberlands, D.....5 reels

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION

KAY-BEE-INCE PRODUCTIONS
12—26. The Edge of the Abyss (Mary Boland, Frank Mills, Willard Mack).5 reels 1916.
1— 2. Between Men (W. S. Hart).....5 reels
1— 9. The Corner (Willard Mack-Geo. Fawcett) .....5 reels
1—16. The Beckoning Flame (Henry Wood-ruff) .....5 reels
FINE ARTS-GRIFFITH PRODUCTIONS
12—26. The Penitentes (Orrin Johnson)....5 reels
1916.
1— 2. Cross Currents (Helen Ware).....5 reels
1— 9. Let Katy Do It (Jane Grey and Tully Marshall) .....5 reels
1—16. The Missing Links (Norma Talmadge, Robert Harron) .....5 reels
KEYSTONE-SENNETT PRODUCTIONS
12—26. A Submarine Pirate (Sid Chaplin)..4 reels
12—26. The Hunt (Ford Sterling).....2 reels
1916.
1— 2. Dizzy Heights and Daring Hearts..2 reels
Worst of Friends (Weber & Fields).2 reels
1— 9. The Great Pearl Tangle (Sam Bernard) .....2 reels
1—16. Because He Loved Her.....2 reels
1—16. A Modern Enoch Arden.....2 reels

VITAGRAPH-LUBIN-SELIG-ESSANAY, INC.

VITAGRAPH
12—13. The Price for Folly.....5 parts
12—27. What Happened to Father.....5 parts
1916.
1— 3. Thou Art the Man.....6 parts
1—10. My Lady's Slipper .....5 parts
1—17. Green Stockings .....5 parts
1—24. The Island of Surprise.....5 parts
1—31. Kennedy Square .....5 parts
LUBIN
12— 6. The Man's Making.....5 parts
12—20. The Great Divide.....5 parts
1916.
1—17. Gods of Fate.....5 parts
1—20. The Wonderful Wager.....2 parts
SELIG
12—13. I'm Glad My Boy Grew Up to Be a Soldier .....5 parts
1916.
1—10. No Greater Love .....5 parts
ESSANAY
12— 6. The Alster Case.....5 parts
12—20. A Daughter of the City.....5 parts
1916.
1—17. Captain Jinks .....5 parts
1—31. Submarines of Society .....5 parts

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

BRADY
11—29. The Sins of Society.....5 reels
12—27. Over Night .....5 reels
EQUITABLE
11—15. The Cowardly Way.....5 reels
11—22. A Daughter of the Sea.....5 reels
11—29. Not Guilty .....5 reels
12— 6. The Warning .....5 reels
12—13. The Labyrinth .....5 reels
12—20. Sealed Lips .....5 reels
12—27. The Dragon .....5 reels
FROHMAN
11—12. Body and Soul.....5 reels
SHUBERT
11—15. A Butterfly on the Wheel.....5 reels
12— 6. The Gray Mask.....5 reels
12—13. The Siren's Song.....5 reels
12—20. Camille .....5 reels

FEATURES FOR STATE RIGHTS

ALL FEATURES BOOKING AGENCY
Right Off the Bat.....5 reels
CONTINENTAL PHOTOPLAY CORPORATION
Sept.—A Continental Girl.....5 reels
CORT FILM CORPORATION
The Melting Pot.....5 reels
The Whirl of Life (The Castles).....6 parts
COSMOFOTOFILM COMPANY
Incomparable Mistress Bellairs.....4 parts
Liberty Hall .....3 parts
The Black Spot .....4 reels
Victoria Cross .....4 reels
O-18 .....4 reels
DRA-KO FILM COMPANY, INC.
Aug.—York State Folks.....5 reels
GREAT NORTHERN FILM COMPANY
Sins of Great Cities (Ebba Thomsen).4 reels
The Man with the Missing Finger (Alfred Hertel) .....4 reels
For Her Son (Betty Nansen).....4 reels
A Woman's Honor (Elsie Frolich)...4 reels
The Doctor's Secret (Betty Nansen)..4 reels
A Woman's Conquest (Elsie Frolich).4 reels
HANOVER FILMS
Dec.—Marvellous Maciste .....5 parts
ITALA FILM COMPANY
Cabiria .....
Treasure of the Louzats.....4 parts
Jules Porel—Serpent .....3 parts
IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS, INC.
Aug.—A Mother's Confession .....5 reels
Nov.—The Concealed Truth .....5 reels
K. & R. COMPANY
July—Silver Threads Among the Gold.....5 reels
LIBERTY MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
Sept.—An American Gentleman.....5 reels
Oct.—For $5,000 a Year.....5 reels
Oct.—The Struggle .....5 reels
LINICK AND MELCHIOR
Was She to Blame? (Elm Features)..5 parts
F. O. NIELSEN
Guarding Old Glory .....5 reels
Just Out of College.....5 reels
Thorns of Passion .....4 reels
Little Sunset .....4 reels
The Spoilers .....9 reels
All for a Girl.....5 reels
OCEAN FILM CORPORATION
Nov.—Life Without a Soul.....5 parts
PHOTODRAMA COMPANY
How Molly Made Good.....6 reels
PHOTOPLAY RELEASING COMPANY
Aug.—Sarah Bernhardt at Home.....2 parts
PROHIBITION FILM CORPORATION
Prohibition .....5 parts
REELPLAYS CORPORATION
The Cowpuncher .....8 reels
STANDARD NEWSFILM, INC.
Are We Ready? .....4 reels
STERLING CAMERA & FILM CO.
Land o' the Lost.....5 reels
The Game of Three.....5 reels
SUN PHOTOPLAY CO., Inc.
The Princess of India.....5 reels
WORLD SERIES FILM CO.
1915 World's Championship Series.
(Boston Am. vs. Phila. N.).....3 or 5 reels

WAITING FOR SOMETHING TO TURN UP!

Wilkins Micawber was always waiting for something to turn up. He waited for so blamed long that when Old Opportunity came a-knocking at his door, Wilkins was in the back part of the house.

Don't do the Wilkins Micawber stunt; don't delay your resolution that the SELIG-TRIBUNE is the brightest and breeziest thing that ever did turn up! Emulate the other fellow who is giving the SELIG-TRIBUNE the glad hand and is toting in the sheaves of shekels while the harvest is heavy.

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE, "The World's Greatest News Film," has a standing army of camera men who do not wait for something to turn up, but are there turning the camera crank when the hot stuff develops.

In every part of the wide world where something is likely to happen, there you will find "nose-for-news" cameramen filming live news pictorials for

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE

"The World's Greatest News Film"

Shows The News and Does It First!

TRADE S MARK

LUBIN

FIVE REEL UNIT
RELEASED JAN. 10TH 1916

HERBERT FORTIER
IN

"THE CITY OF FAILING LIGHT"
FOUR ACT DRAMA

"A BATHTUB MYSTERY"
DAVE DON COMEDY

ALSO

JAN. 10TH
"THE LOST BRACELET"
1 ACT DRAMA

JAN. 11TH
"THE OLD WATCHMAN"
2 ACT DRAMA

JAN. 13TH
L. C. SHUMWAY
IN
"THE BOND WITHIN"
3 ACT DRAMA

JAN. 15TH
BILLIE REEVES COMEDY
"A SKATE FOR A BRIDE"
ONE ACT

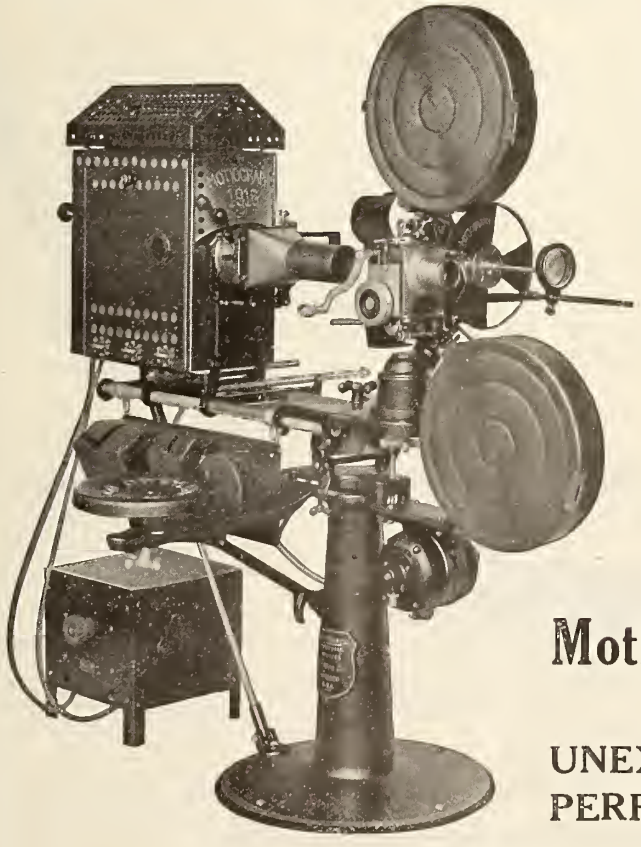
GENERAL FILM
LUBIN
RELEASES

Accessory News

SECTION OF MOTION PICTURE NEWS DEVOTED TO THE
CONSTRUCTION, EQUIPMENT AND OPERATION OF THEATRE, EXCHANGE AND STUDIO

IN BUYING THE MOTIOGRAPH YOU BUY SERVICE AND SATISFACTION

(Read what users think of the Motiograph)



L. C. GILGER Mgr. W. G. GILGER Owner

GILGER THEATRE
NORWALK, OHIO

Dec. 23rd 1915

The Enterprise Optical Co.
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

Congratulations on the efficiency of your shipping department. I wired for another Motiograph, to match the one I bought of you last summer, Saturday noon, and the machine arrived in good condition on Monday, was installed that afternoon and running for our evening show. I think this is the maximum of speed and efficiency.

My operator likes the shutter on the new machine better than that on the older one - tho both are 1916's - so I am enclosing a drawing of this shutter and wish that you would send me one like it as soon as possible and from past experience I know that this means immediately.

Thanking you for the prompt and courteous treatment we have always received at your hands, and wishing you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, I am.

Respectfully yours,

L. C. Gilger

LCG/WW

WE CATER ESPECIALLY TO THE PARTICULAR CLASS IN OUR SELECTION OF PHOTO PLAYS
Newell Theatre
MAIN STREET
USING LICENSED FILMS EXCLUSIVELY
OUR ROAD SHOW CONSTITUTES MODERN EQUIPMENT, BRILLIANT CLEAR PICTURE, SELECTED MUSICAL ACCOMPANIMENT, VOCAL AND ILLUSTRATED NUMBERS

WAGNADA, MANITOBA
Dec. 28, 1915.

Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

I was engaged in installing a Motiograph sold through your dealer in Winnipeg and used same last night and I must say your new 1916 Model can be summed up in four words - "THE ACME OF PERFECTION". The Sliding Disc is surely a winner

Yours very truly,

C. E. Wessel

The Motiograph
is
UNEXCELLED in QUALITY
PERFECT in EVERY DETAIL

Write for Literature

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO., 568 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

Eastern Office
19 West 23rd St., NEW YORK CITY

Western Office
833 MARKET ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Simplex

Report From the Firing Line!

RELIABILITY demanded whether for PROJECTILES or PROJECTORS. "SIMPLICITY in every part, DURABLE, QUIET RUNNING and EASY to PROJECT a ROCK SOLID PICTURE," is the report of MANAGER LANGWORTHY OF SISTERSVILLE, W. VA.

"THEE SHOW"
SISTERSVILLE, W. VA.,
Dec. 6th, 1915.

The Precision Machine Co., Inc.,
317 East 34th Street,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

Noting in the current number of our M. P. World that you had prepared a catalogue and price list of parts, which could be had upon request, we hasten to make the request.

We have been using a Simplex Projector since last April and think it the best upon the market, being in every way just what the name implies, SIMPLICITY in every part, DURABLE, QUIET RUNNING and EASY to PROJECT a ROCK SOLID PICTURE.

Thanking you in advance for the new catalogue, we will say that when the time comes for us to replace our other "old" machine, the new one will be another SIMPLEX, we remain,

Yours truly,
(Signed) O. F. Langworthy, Manager.

Simplex

Trade Mark Pat'd

The PROJECTOR that received the UNANIMOUS APPROVAL of the U. S. GOVERNMENT WAR DEPARTMENT
and
GRAND PRIZE—PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION
Send for Catalog "N"

MADE AND GUARANTEED BY

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.

317 East 34th St. New York

Construction, Equipment and Operation

Accessory News

Section of Motion Picture News

Everything for Theatre, Exchange and Studio

Motion Picture Projection Simplified

By J. H. Hallberg

When the impulse comes in one direction it starts at zero, goes up to the full intensity of the current, which may be 50 amperes; then it drops to zero again, stays out for a fractional part of a second while the current is reversing; then starts at zero in the opposite direction, increases to the full intensity of 50 amperes, and again drops to zero for the next reversal.

46—What is the effect on the arc stream between the two carbon points under this condition?

Ans.—It was stated for the incandescent glow lamp that whenever the current drops to zero, as is necessary to reverse its flow, the power applied ceases for an instant, which allowed the filament to cool off, therefore decreasing its candle power. In a similar manner with the electric arc the interruption, due to the reversal of the current flow, allows the arc stream to cool off with consequent interruption in the illumination.

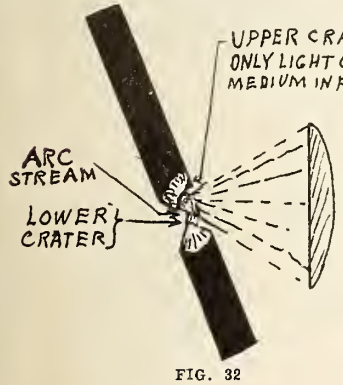

FIG. 32

The electric arc being carried on a narrow stream of carbon vapor, having no body maintaining the heat during the dead period of the arc and furthermore, being surrounded by comparatively cool air, is, therefore, much more sensitive to the reversal of the current.

A 40 cycle system will easily allow the interruptions to be observed in an arc with the naked eye, and the lower the amperes or the power expended at the arc, the greater will be the cooling effect and consequently the flicker.

47—Is the flicker due to the use of A. C. at a projector arc so great as to make it unsuitable for motion picture projection?

Ans.—Up to within a few years ago, A. C. had to be used at the arc of motion picture projecting machines, because D. C. could be obtained in only a limited number of cities and towns and furthermore, the demand for perfect projection has not until recently or within the past year or two called for D. C. at the arc.

With the A. C. projector arc, however, the illumination for projection was not obtained from the arc itself. In the early days with rheostat and choke coil control, advantage was taken of the high degree of incandescence at which the carbon points were maintained, due to the flow of the arc between the points.

With the above mentioned rheostat or choke coil control the distance between the carbon points with A. C. maintaining about 35 to 45 amperes was generally about one-quarter of an inch. In view of this fact, only one of the carbon points could be focused at the time at the aperture of the machine (see Fig. 32).

For convenience of operation the upper carbon point was selected as the more efficient, and anyone who has had experience with the projection of motion pictures using one of the carbon points of an A. C. projector arc lamp, knows how poor and unsatisfactory the illumination from this source has been.

The upper carbon point of an A. C. lamp when properly maintained shapes itself into a small crater, but due to the current interruptions the glow is not constant, although to the eye it may appear constant at frequencies of 50 cycles and above.

The upper crater is heated and allowed to cool off every time the current reverses, but due to the fact that the carbon is a body instead of a vapor like the arc stream, its incandescence or glow is maintained more constant and is, therefore, more suitable for projection than the arc itself. It is also evident that the higher the amperage maintained the greater the temperature and consequently the more constant will be the glow and the higher the efficiency of the illumination.

If Your Copy

of the "News" does not reach you promptly every week, please advise us.

Copyright, 1916, by J. H. Hallberg

Utica, N. Y., Makes Dent on Film Map With the Avon

Theatre, Located on Lafayette Street, With Frontage of 83 by 158 Feet, Is Distinctive Photoplay House, in Classic Style of Architecture—The Management Believes in a Profusion of Light to Draw Crowds and Has Inaugurated an Extensive Illuminating System.

THE recent opening of the new Avon theatre, in Utica, N. Y., by the American Motion Picture Company, gives that city one of the finest playhouses in the country. In construction, adornment and equipment, it leaves absolutely nothing to be desired, and as an example of what a twentieth century amusement place ought to be like, it is worth going a long way to see.

No expense was spared in the attainment of this result. The house is devoted to motion pictures and crowds have been entertained by fine feature attractions. But it has an unusually large stage fitted in a way that would permit the handling of the biggest productions and is in no way lacking in provisions for the accommodation of any line of theatrical entertainment.

The Avon is situated on Lafayette street, the location being one of the most desirable in Utica's theatre district. It has a frontage of 83 feet and is 158 feet deep. It is of the classic style of architecture and presents a handsome appearance. The front is of gray tapestry brick with elaborate terra cotta finishings.

A large marquee extends over the sidewalk in front of the entrance. The extensive system of lighting outside includes the illumination of the marquee. Near the eastern and western ends of the front exterior are two mammoth electric signs, designed by General Manager William L. Foster.

These display the name of the theatre on one side, with the word "photoplays" on the reverse side and each sign has a system of electric working that attracts attention from a great distance.

Flaring Sign Draws by Light and Design

Flames apparently extend upward from a horn of plenty and envelop the whole framework of the sign, gradually receding and rising again. On either side of the front of the house are gateways leading to alleys eight feet wide, these extending to some of the numerous exits of the theatre. The gateways are of a fine design and in keeping with the general style of construction. They are surmounted by electric lights.

Entrance to the main lobby is gained by five pairs of double mahogany doors. The floor of the foyer is of two kinds of marble and the dimensions of this waiting place are 18 by 48 feet, and it is 17 feet high.

The wainscoting is of Italian marble. The electric fixtures are of heavy and artistic design and the decorations of the foyer generally are singularly pleasing. As was the case with the whole interior, this portion of the house lent itself finely to the work of the decorator.

The ticket booth faces the center of the entrance. Leading from the right of the lobby is the manager's office and next to this is the room containing the switchboard operating the lights in the front of the house. There is a commodious rest room for women at the left of the foyer.

The auditorium is reached by four pairs of doors, two on each side of the ticket booth. The classic beauty of the theatre impresses one immediately on entering. There is a chaste plainness about the general line of interior construction and the effect is restful to the eye and artistic.

Three shades of gray with trimmings of gold have been used in the decorations and excellent taste has been manifested in their arrangement and finishing. The system of indirect lighting is one of the features of the Avon. Over five hundred incandescents have been used in such a way that they are concealed from view and give a soft yet powerful illumination.

Ventilating System Keeps Temperature Right

A great system of ventilation was installed at heavy expense in the building of the theatre and the public gets the benefit. There is a constant supply of fresh air, heated to the proper temperature, this being sent into the auditorium from spaces under the floor through metal capped vents. Big fans are in continual operation and as the fresh air comes in the impure air is drawn up and out. The supply of fresh air is more than sufficient for a crowd of a size to tax the house.

Nowhere are advanced ideas more in evidence in the Avon than in its motion picture operating room. There is a deep arch in the ceiling over the forward part of the balcony and above this is the machine booth, which extends the full width of the building and is concealed from the view of the audience.

The equipment was secured from J. H. Hallberg, consulting and expert engineer for the new Rialto theatre now under construction at Forty-second street and Broadway, which is to be conducted by S. L. Rothapfel, who started and directed the Strand. The picture machines offer the last word in construction.

The booth is supplied with a Hallberg Twentieth Century motor generator with switchboard containing volt and ampere meters, field controller and special switches and control devices, by means of which it is possible to use the alternating electric current furnished by the local electric lighting company, this being converted into direct current.

As a result a most brilliant, steady and flickerless picture is obtained. It is possible to operate two individual arc lamps within the moving picture machines at the same time whereby the beautiful dissolving effect allowing one picture to float into the other is obtained. Two of the latest type motor driven Baird projectors are in use. They are of the type of those adopted by the Strand theatre.

Bay of Naples for Picture Setting

The Avon will accommodate about 1,600 persons. There are over four hundred seats in the balcony and in front of them are 23 boxes. The stage, which is in full view from all parts of the house, is 37 by 78 feet in dimensions, and beneath it are 16 dressing rooms. The setting provided for the pictures is an unusually handsome one. There is a fine Italian garden and a view of the Bay of Naples.

Spectacular lighting effects are among the novel features which, together with a selected musical program, rendered by a large and efficient orchestra, assist in entertaining the audience.

No expense has been spared in making the Avon theatre as perfect and up-to-date as possible.

The theatre is owned by the American Motion Picture Company, with headquarters at Buffalo, and is under the direction and management of W. L. Foster and his son, B. H. Foster.

The design, general arrangement and the selection of the equipment was entirely in the hands of Mr. Foster, to whom much credit is due for this magnificent addition to the theatre's exhibition of photoplays.

INTERIOR OF THE CLAREMONT THEATRE, NEW YORK CITY

ACTION
—TRULY PORTRAYED!

Nothing so genuinely THRILLS people or makes their hearts beat faster than good "ACTION" pictures. Actors and actresses risk their very lives to thrill audiences for ONE BRIEF SECOND. But, all this "Blood Curdling" action is for naught if your screen does not show it in its TRUE LIGHT.

MINUSA GOLD FIBRE SCREENS, "Built by Brains," catch every little detail in the film—the fiery eyes of the horse, the froth at his mouth. That is "ACTION"—THAT'S WHAT THRILLS! The delicate gradation of light in the distant mountains is all there, just as the camera saw it. That's the test of a REAL SCREEN—the "MINUSA."

It is to be "THRILLED" that the public come to your theatre. Do you "deliver the goods," or do your pictures look CLOUDY and LIFELESS?

If you knew someone who could greatly increase your Box Office receipts and save fifty per cent of your light bill it would be SOUND business to hire him, would it not?

Well, a "MINUSA" will do both these things, and because of the saving in "juice" the Electric Company pays for it. Is it SOUND business to put in such a MONEY MAKER—Great Guns, can a DUCK SWIM!

ACTION, man, ACTION!! Don't wait—you're losing money.

Write or Wire for Samples and Prices.

The "ORIGINAL GOLD FIBRE SCREEN" Perfected.

MINUSA CINÉ PRODUCTS COMPANY

MINUSA

SAINT LOUIS BROADWAY AT CHESTNUT. | CHICAGO SAN FRANCISCO | PITTSBURGH CALGARY, ALBERTA | NEW YORK 19 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST.

SCREENS "BUILT BY BRAINS"

A clear picture

is as essential as a good scenario. Because the basic product is right the clearest pictures are on Eastman Film. Identifiable by the stencil mark in the margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Projection Problems Answered

Troubles are continually coming up in every booth. Why not see whether the other fellow can help you? Our projection expert is ready and willing to answer any and all questions

WHICH YOU MAY ASK

.....

Without obligation on my part please give me full advice on the following:

.....

.....

Name .....

Theatre .....

Address .....

Projection

Operating Electricity — Questions Answered — Repairing Equipment

Edited by J. H. Hallberg

Who Will Answer All Questions You Send in, No Matter How Simple or How Difficult

CAN TWO COMPENSARCS BE CONNECTED IN MULTIPLE?

T. S., Chicago, Ill.:—I am using A. C. through a Bell and Howell Compensarc with a throw of 110 feet and about a fifteen-foot picture. I have another compensarc. Now, what I want to find out is this. We are using 220 volt compensarcs. Can I connect the two in multiple as in the diagram below, Fig. 1, which when the handle on each compensarc is at 40 amperes will give 80 volts and 80 amperes? Then I can connect a section of a rheostat to cut it down to about 70 amperes.

If this cannot be done, is there any-way I can connect them so I can better my light?

ANS.—Your sketch, as shown in Fig. 1, indicates the two primary windings of the compensators connected in parallel on 220 volts, which should be correct.

However, the secondary connections, as you have illustrated in Fig. 1, indicate the secondary windings connected in series, which, in my opinion, is not workable, because of the fact that if the primary and secondary coils are independent of each other, you would receive about 80 volts as you state, but with carbons set at the regular distance the transformers would deliver over 80 amperes, maybe as high as 120 amperes, and on account of the windings being designed for only about 60 amperes and operated in series, they would soon overheat and burn out.

The use of the rheostat as you indicate in series with the arc, would of course, to a certain extent, reduce the amperes, but still the transformers would be overloaded if you draw more than 60 amperes as you have illustrated the connections.

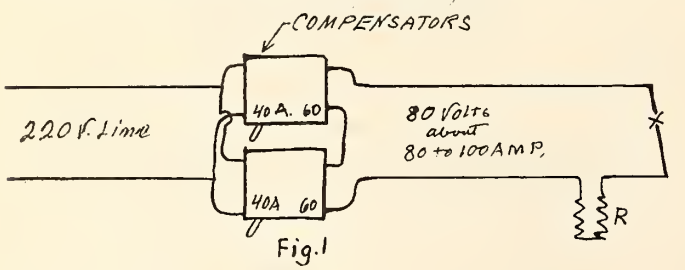

Fig. 1

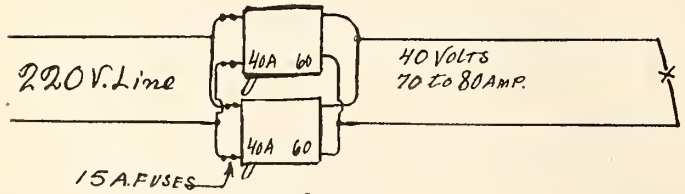

Fig 2.

On the other hand, if your Bell and Howell compensators are constructed with interconnected primary and secondary windings inside of the transformer case or body, then your method of connection would cause a partial short circuit which would burn out the transformers.

The only suggestion which I can offer, and which you may try at your convenience, is to connect your two Bell and Howell compensators as I herewith illustrate in Fig 2, which shows the primary connections in parallel and the secondary connections also in parallel.

Without the use of any resistance in series with the arc which should not be necessary, by placing the switches on the 40 ampere transformer connections, your transformers would deliver approximately 80 amperes to the arc and they could perform this service indefinitely.

By putting one switch on 60 and one on 40 you would receive about 100 amperes at the arc and by putting both switches in the 60 ampere notch you would receive 120 amperes at the arc.

While you may test your compensators as illustrated in Fig. 2, I advise that you put in 15 ampere line fuses on each compensator on the 220 volt side. With this fuse protection you can do no harm to your compensators, and if there are no special interconnections between the primary and secondary windings, the transformers should properly perform the work and give you entire satisfaction.

You will not injure your compensators as long as you do not over-fuse the transformers and all you have to do is to shut off the current in case you should observe any over heating.

I recommend 7/8 inch cored carbons for 70 to 100 ampere A. C. arc, and set the lower carbon straight up and down and the upper at an angle of about 30 degrees back of the vertical position for best results.

WHAT ANGLE FOR SCREEN? WHAT CAUSES BLUE STREAK IN ITS CENTRE?

H. S., Woodburn, Ind.:—We have a screen 9 x 12 feet, sixty-five foot throw, A. C., and the booth is elevated about eight feet. How would you recommend the screen to stand—straight up and down or a slight tilt and how much?

What causes a slight blue streak in the centre of the screen and sometimes all different colors on the whole screen? Is it in the carbons? I have tried different arrangements. We use 5/8 in. x 12 in. and 6 in. soft cored.

We could get an outfit here of a man that generates D. C. driven by a gas engine that is rated at 25 amperes, 1½ K. W., 110 volts D. C. with rheostat that cuts voltage to any size. Don't you think this would answer our purpose, as we couldn't afford to invest in a high-price converter?

When is there the least flicker, with the shutter close to the lens or a little off from the lens?

ANS.—Your specifications for the screen and booth, stating that the screen is 9 x 12, and that the booth is 65 feet away from the screen and is elevated 8 feet, are not complete. If I understand correctly, that the lens of the moving picture machine is 8 feet above the horizontal centre line of your screen, then it should not be necessary for you to tilt the screen.

However, if your booth is placed so high that the centre line of the lens is 8 feet above the top of the screen, with the short throw of 65 feet, you would have a distorted picture and the remedy would be to move the lower edge of the screen forward, about a foot or slightly more, if necessary, to remove the keystone effect.

The slight blue streak in the centre of your screen and the appearance of all different colors on the whole screen at times, is evidently due to the fact that you are using A. C. at the arc. With A. C. it is a difficult proposition unless the most favorable conditions are at hand to produce perfect illumination. Not knowing the style transformer or other means you may be using for the control of your arc, I cannot recommend the best steps to be taken to overcome the blue streak across the centre.

The only suggestion I can give you is to perhaps keep your

SPEER CARBONS

Have Demonstrated the Fact That Projector Carbons Can Now Be

MADE IN U. S. A.

Equal to the Best and Superior to Most Imported Carbons

PLACE YOUR ORDER EARLY!!!

LYRIC THEATRE,
Clarence, Penna., December 24, 1915.

Speer Carbon Company,
Gentlemen:

Your carbons received O. K. this week and will say that they come up to everything you say. I get better light from your carbons on a lower amperage. That means a whole lot. I have a throw of 58 ft. and show a picture 11 ft. x 16 ft. and the light is softer from your carbons and I advise all exhibitors to get your carbons to get better results.

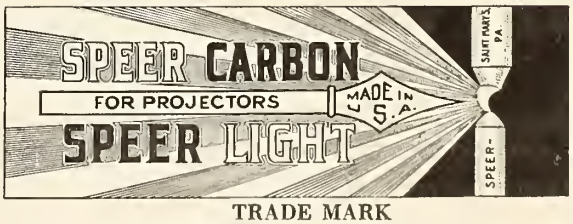
Yours very truly,
John Luckasavage, Mgr.

FIRST COME FIRST SERVED

NET CASH PRICES

½x12, cored, pointed both ends, $37.50 per M. (1,000 in a case)
9/16x12, cored, pointed both ends, $40.00 per M. (1,000 in a case)
⅝x12, cored, pointed both ends, $50.00 per M. (1,000 in a case)
¾x12, cored, pointed both ends, $70.00 per M. (1,000 in a case)
⅞x12, cored, pointed one end, $115.00 per M. (500 in a case)
1x12, cored, pointed one end, $150.00 per M. (500 in a case)

We Fill Sample Orders for 100 Carbons at the Above Pro Rata Prices



TRADE MARK

Our Speer Carbons are absolutely guaranteed to give satisfaction or money back.

Speer Carbon Company Dept. "N"

(Makers of carbon for Electrical purposes during the past 25 years)

Saint Mary's, Pa.

For Sale by Leading M. P. Machine Distributors, Including the Following:

J. H. Hallberg, 36 East 23rd St., New York, N. Y.
E. E. Fulton Co., 154 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
Kleine Optical Co., 166 N. State St., Chicago, Ill.

furnished for ——

Single or Double Arc

Single, two or three phase circuit

110, 220, 440 Volts

A. C. to Controlled D. C.

D. C. to Controlled D. C.

TransVerteR

TRADE MARK

is a complete—upright electrical unit, that furnishes the best possible direct current light for motion picture projection and may be installed and operated in any projection booth.

Better pictures, bigger profit and perfect automatic arc regulation.

Send for booklet "The Perfect Arc"

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.
Department N, Cleveland, Ohio, U. S. A.

REFLEX

(Made in Switzerland)

The Quality Carbons of the World

Reflex D. C. Carbons have a Specially Constructed Negative with Copper Coated Core.

Another operator writes us:

"The light produced by Reflex Carbons is very white and more dense than other brands. I have used all makes of carbons. Your product is the highest class of carbon."

You, Mr. Manager, and you, Mr. Operator, must have the "highest class" carbons to get the best results. Try Reflex. We have a large stock on hand and are receiving regular shipments from our works in Switzerland. Send in your order now.

¾ x 12 plain cored, $10.00 per 100 carbons.
⅝ x 12 plain cored, $7.50 per 100 carbons.
⅝ x 6 copper coated cored, $3.75 per 100 carbons.
½ x 6 copper coated cored, $2.75 per 100 carbons.

If your dealer cannot supply you with Reflex carbons, send cash with your order, or instruct us to ship C. O. D., and we will fill sample orders in lots of not less than fifty each in all the above sizes.

Watch our weekly advertisements and see the results that others are obtaining.

JONES & CAMMACK
SOLE IMPORTERS
12 Bridge Street New York City

arc slightly shorter and move your lamp house and lamp back or forth while the arc is burning with the film gate open, projecting the outline of the screen and continue the movement of placing the lamp and lamp house, until you secure the position where the least discoloration exists. As a general rule, if the carbons are too far apart you will get more discoloration, but with certain types of regulating devices, rheostats, etc., it is impossible to keep the carbons so close together that the blue streak will be done away with.

The D. C. electric generator driven by the gas engine, which you state is 25 ampere, 1½ K. W. 110 volts, is evidently not correctly rated.

A 1½ K. W. 110 volt generator will not deliver over 15 amperes anyway, therefore a mistake has been made somewhere.

A 25 ampere 110 volt generator would be of 2¾ K. W. capacity, not 1½ K. W.

My experience with the small gasoline engine driven generators as a general proposition, has not been satisfactory. They give an unsteady light—are in many instances unreliable and depreciate quickly, being expensive to maintain unless a very skilled person has charge of the equipment, and even then the small cost for gasoline or fuel is only also a very small cost of the actual operation.

I would by all means, recommend that you stay on the electric lighting company's service and provide proper means for regulating and controlling your arc.

The cost of a first-class economizer or transformer equipment varies between $50 and $75, and you should get splendid results with one of these.

The next suggestion would be to install a motor generator, the prices of which range from about $189 to $300, depending upon the size and style of the motor generator.

Concerning your inquiry about the least flicker, I beg to say that as far as the actual flicker is concerned, it makes no difference whether the shutter in front of the lens sits close to the lens or further away from it. It is, however, always advisable to set the shutter as close to the lens as you can get it, because in that position the shutter has a greater range of covering power, the light ray being narrower near the lens which will assist in preventing travel ghost, which might follow the natural wear in the gears and parts, between the intermittent movement and the shutter shaft.

Theoretically it is possible to make the wings or blades of the shutter narrower if the shutter is set close to the lens. The machine manufacturers have, however, standardized certain width blades and for average conditions they may be used close to the lens or a couple of inches away with satisfactory results, but always keep the shutter as close to the lens as convenient.

OMAHA OPERATORS' EXAMINATION FOR LICENSE CERTIFICATE A FARCE

A BOARD to license motion picture machine operators began its work in Omaha early in December. The duties of this board, which includes the license inspector, the fire warden and an assistant building inspector, is to examine the applicant as to his capabilities and, if he is satisfactory, to sell him a license for one dollar.

The truth of the matter is, the board, or a clerk acting for the board, merely inquires the operator's name, whether he ever had experience, then hands out the license and rakes in the dollar.

UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA PLACES ORDER FOR TEN MORE GOLD KING SCREENS

J. W. SCROGGS, director of the Oklahoma State University, was so well pleased with the original order of Gold King Screens purchased recently from the Gold King Screen Company, of Altus, Oklahoma, that he placed an additional order for ten more screens to be delivered at once.

It is reported that another state university will shortly place an order for these screens to be used throughout the state for educational purposes.

BARTOLA ADDS ROAD DEMONSTRATOR AND TWO INSTALLERS TO STAFF

THE Bartola Musical Instrument Company has recently added B. G. Cowham to their staff as a road demonstrator, and have also put on two new installers to work around Chicago.

Success

The successful man in any business is the one who finds out all he can about that business from all the authorities in it and applies that information in building his success.

Good Authorities are hard to find, particularly in the Projection, Musical and Building end of the Theatre business.

J. H. Hallberg
Ernst Luz
Nathan Myers

are the best in their lines in the business.

They are on the staff of the "News" purposely to help YOU.

They will answer through the "News" any and all questions you may ask.

The "News" is your paper—built for you—and is here to help you.

Have no hesitation in asking for this help.

No matter how hard or simple the problem, these authorities are ready to look into it and tell you just what you want to know.

Gain SUCCESS by increasing your KNOWLEDGE.

FABRIL CARBONS

Read this letter and be convinced:

New York, Dec. 20th, 1915.

Have tried the "Fabril" carbons on my machine alternating current in my theatre and have found them to be absolutely satisfactory and have placed an order for same.

(Signed) John J. Wittman.

Eldorado Theatre
President of Cinema Exhibitors Association of Bronx County, Inc.

Habicht, Braun & Co., Film Dept.
161-3 Hudson Street,
New York City.

Uptown Shipping Office:
145 West 45th Street, Room 1013
New York City.

Chicago: 109-111 West Ohio Street,

Pittsburgh: 441 Market Street

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, Inc.
220 WEST 42d STREET, NEW YORK CITY

CANADIAN DISTRIBUTORS:
Allfeatures, Ltd., No. 56 King St., W. Toronto, Can.
Allfeatures, Ltd., Scala Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Can.

The screen on which the picture is projected is the particular bit of equipment about your theatre which makes for either the comfort or discomfort of your patrons. If it's a RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, there is no eye-strain and no discomfort. If it's any other kind of a screen, you're taking chances.

Some projection surfaces "eat current" in a way which would suggest that their manufacturers had had the screen's enormous appetite in mind when the screen was made. RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREENS have been thought out as a means of giving maximum results at the minimum of cost.

Building and Furnishings

Edited by Nathan Myers

REGENT THEATRE, INDIANAPOLIS, A MODERN PICTURE PLAYHOUSE WITH ALL CONVENIENCES

THE Regent theatre, in Illinois street, just south of Washington street, Indianapolis, leased by Bingham, Crose & Cohen for a long term of years, one of the most up-to-date exclusive photoplay theatres in Indiana, opened a few weeks ago with "Damaged Goods," when more than 8,000 people attended different performances during the day.

R. P. Daggett & Co. were the architects and Chiron C. Pierson was the general contractor.

The building is of brick, steel and reinforced concrete construction and is entirely fireproof throughout from basement to roof. The operators' booth is entirely fireproof and equipped with self-closing fire doors and shutters at all openings, and has extra large vents in the ceiling over machines.

The air in the auditorium of the theatre can be changed completely in less time than in any public place in the city through the system of natural and mechanical ventilation. Special attention has been given to the ventilation of the women's retiring room and the men's room and other rooms in the basement.

A perfect ventilating system is provided for the operators' booth. An innovation in photoplay theatres in Indianapolis is the system of aisle lights, by which patrons are enabled to find their seats easily. Sanitary drinking fountains have been provided in the women's and men's rooms. A maid is in attendance in the women's retiring rooms and there are also free telephones and writing desk for the convenience of women patrons.

In addition to the lighting system for the front of the theatre, a big electric sign will be erected which will carry approximately 1,600 lights, on which the names of the current attractions will be displayed. Two extra exit doors in the front of the theatre make it possible for patrons to go out without interfering with those entering the theatre.

The theatre will seat more than 800 persons, and the balcony has been so constructed that it is an ideal place to witness the show.

The front of the building is faced with terra cotta designed to form suitable setting for the Mueller mosaic tile panel extending across the front of the building over the entrance. The main entrance lobby has a red quarry tile floor with mosaic tile paneled side walls with a well-lighted domed ceiling in ornamental plaster. A neatly designed marquise extends across the entire building over the sidewalk covering both the main entrance and the front exits.

The interior has been designed with every requirement of a modern photoplay theatre, and has ample exit and aisle space. The interior decoration of the theatre is in Tiffany effects with mahogany woodwork and seating throughout.

The Rembusch picture screen, designed to prevent the feeling of the picture's being framed in, and to give the setting suitable to the pictures, consists of a high paneled wainscot and ornamental plaster decorations of pleasing design. The screen is the second largest picture screen in any Indianapolis photoplay theatre.

At the front of the auditorium is a high paneled rail or screen, back of the first row of seats, to prevent drafts on those seated near the entrances. On each side of the entrances are stairs leading to the balcony and to the retiring rooms in the basement. The manager's office, and rooms for the use of theatre employees are in the basement.

Special attention has been given to the electrical display of the street front. The entire outline of the front and cornice is studded with electric lamps set in recessed discs in the terra cotta work and is marquise outlined with lights placed back of glass discs, across the front and side. In addition to these there are four large flaming arc lights under the marquise. The domed ceiling of the entrance to the lobby is lighted by five suspended lamps and a row of small lights around the base of the dome. On the parapet wall above the cornice are pedestal and bracket lamp standards of neat design, each equipped with large white glass balls.

The interior of the auditorium is lighted with indirect lighting fixtures with white bowls suspended from the ceiling by chains. Each fixture is equipped with two sets of lamps: one dim for use during the show and one bright for lighting the house when the audiences are enteing or leaving. On the side walls are lanterns with amber shades, hung from pilasters by well-designed brackets.

All exits are marked by large red lamp boxes in plain view from all parts of the house.

Beginning December 5, following the showing of "Damaged Goods" at twenty-five cents for all seats, the Regent will show high-class photoplays at 10 cents. Contracts have been signed for V-L-S-E, Pathé, Metro and Fox productions. The program will be changed Sunday, Wednesday and Friday, each week. Music will be provided by a first-class orchestra.

Bingham, Crose & Cohen, lessees of the Regent theatre, also operate the Colonial theatre, in North Illinois street, where high-class photoplays also are shown.

Continuous shows are given daily at the Colonial from 12 noon to 11 p. m., and at the Regent from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m.

CAILLE AND GUATHARD PLAN TO EXTEND CHAIN OF THEATRES TO TWENTY-FIVE

Detroit, Dec. 31.

A. ARTHUR CAILLE and Henry J. Guathard, who now operate a chain of theatres in Detroit, announce their intention of extending their operations to other cities. They expect before long to have a chain of at least twenty-five houses.

The Norwood, which is their latest theatre, was rented to them on the basis of a ten-year lease.

The Crystal theatre, Sturgis, Mich., had a small fire in the projection room on December 21 that nearly caused a panic.

The Drury Lane theatre, owned by Frank Drew, will be completed about February 1. It is located on Woodward avenue, near Grand Circus Park, Detroit. The new Stratford, Dix and Ferdinand avenues, will be ready the last week in January.

It will be managed by E. V. McGrath. The Regent theatre, Woodward and Horton avenues, Detroit, will be completed and readly about the first of March. William F. Klatt, the owner, may play a combination policy of vaudeville and pictures.

The Globe theatre, Detroit, has declared a dividend of five per cent. The theatre was completely remodeled this fall and the seats increased to 1,000.

OHIO AND TEXAS EXHIBITORS BUSY WITH NEW THEATRES

J. M. PETERSON has disposed of his interests in the Grand and Family theatres, East Palestine, O., to William Haught.

South Brooklyn's new theatre, the "Y," at the intersection of W. 35th street, Pearl road and Altoona avenue, opened recently. Children's Saturday matinees, with educational and comedy reels, will be a feature at the new house. Fred E. Johnson, formerly manager of the Metropolitan theatre, will be in charge.

The new opera house at Marlin, Texas, is just about completed. It will exhibit picture and regular theatrical attractions.

Work is under way on the construction of a theatre in Abilene, by the Abilene Amusement Company, which is expected to be ready for use February 1.

TURNER AND DAHNKEN ENTER STOCKTON, CAL., WITH PLANS FOR $350,000 HOUSE

ONE of the most interesting announcements that has been made in many months in exhibiting circles in the San Francisco territory is that of the Turner and Dahnken Circuit, which has taken the first step in a long considered policy of expansion, and has made complete arrangements for the erection of a magnificent moving picture house at Stockton, California.

The new house to be erected for this concern will be on Weber avenue, the principal thoroughfare of Stockton, on the site of the present Tretheway building, between San Joaquin and Hunter streets. The structure will have a three-story front of reinforced concrete and will have exits on three streets.

A ten years' lease has been taken on the structure, which will be erected by the Henry Cowell Lime and Cement Company, and an end has thus been brought to efforts to enter this field that have extended over three years' time.

The theatre will be equipped in the best manner possible and will be the equal of any house now conducted by this concern. Special attention will be paid to the heating, ventilating and air cooling system, and it is promised that in the summer the house will be even more comfortable than an airdome.

An organ, to cost over $20,000, will furnish music and a stage will be installed in the theatre to make possible the presentation of legitimate attractions, should occasion arise.

The transaction represents an investment of about $350,000, and plans for the structure will be drawn by architect W. B. Thomas of Stockton, the intention being to commence actual construction work early in the spring.

NEWMAN TAKES HOLIDAY TRIP FOR VISITS IN CHICAGO AND CINCINNATI

E. C. NEWMAN, manager of the New York office of the Newman Manufacturing Company plants, located at 108 West Lake street, Chicago, Ill., and 717 Sycamore street, Cincinnati, Ohio, manufacturers of brass lobby display frames, railings and other theatre equipment, left New York for a visit to the Chicago plant, and after a short stay in Chicago will leave for Cincinnati to visit the Cincinnati factory, as well as to renew some old acquaintances, as he is a native of the Queen City.

Mr. Newman, who is a comparatively young man, being only in his twenties, has built up quite a lucrative business for the firm in the East. He has well deserved his vacation, and after spending the holidays with his parents, he will leave shortly after the first of the year for New York, where he will again be glad to greet his old friends.

Before leaving, Mr. Newman advised that all of the works were running full force, and that the prospects for 1916 were very bright.

NOVELTY SLIDE ACTIVITIES UNHAMPERED BY FIRE OUTBREAK IN BUILDING

ON December 27, a serious fire broke out at 67 West Twenty-third street, New York City, the building occupied by the Novelty Slide Company.

Considerable damage was done and at one time it looked as though the activities of the Novelty Slide Company would be entirely stopped. However, owing to the prompt and careful action of Joseph F. Coufal, the general manager of the company, the business is once more running under full headway.

LARGEST THEATRE IN ELIZABETH, N. J., BECOMES PICTURE HOUSE

Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Elizabeth, N. J., Dec. 31.

ELIZABETH'S largest theatre, the Hippodrome, with a seating capacity of 1,800, has been added to the list of motion picture playhouses in this city. After being dark for almost a year "The Battle Cry of Peace" opened the Hippodrome Christmas and completed a four days' run to capacity audiences Wednesday night.

So popular did the reopening of the Hippodrome prove to Elizabeth theatre patrons that the Proctor management in this city, Edward M. Hart, announced the showing of picture features as a permanent policy of the big playhouse.

"The Battle Cry of Peace" aroused exceptional interest. Without exception the audiences were made up of the better class of patrons from the residential sections.

AMERICAN SEATING COMPANY

Exclusive Manufacturers of

Furnishings for Theatres, Schools, Churches and all Public Buildings

When you want Opera Chairs, remember we have

5,000 CHAIRS

ALWAYS IN STOCK

in 6 different styles in Imitation Mahogany and Circassian Walnut finishes, assuring you satisfactory selection and

IMMEDIATE SERVICE

Other designs of Upholstered and Unupholstered Chairs unlimited in number, furnished in 25 to 50 days after receipt of specifications, depending on character of chairs selected.

Our Consultation Service, specializing in designing economical arrangements for theatre seating is tendered to you without any charge whatever.

Descriptive literature on request.

For prompt attention address:

General Offices: 1012 LYTTON BUILDING, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Sales Offices in all principal cities

NATHAN MYERS

Architect

WOOLWORTH BUILDING

Broadway & Park Place New York City

COURT THEATRE BUILDING

Market & High Streets Newark, N. J.

Telephones

Newark .....Market 5254 Long Island.....Sayville 41
New York.....Barclay 6274 Residence .....Waverly 2670

Graduate of College of Architecture, Cornell University

Twenty Years Individual Practice

Consultant to other architects and to builders

ALL THE PLAYERS

of prominence in any sized picture can be furnished instantly. WIRE US YOUR WANTS. If you fail to display the face of a popular player who is appearing at your house you are overlooking an opportunity for larger receipts.

THE FACE OF A WELL KNOWN PLAYER prominently displayed will draw more money than the mere announcement of a name.

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES.

Size 22 x 28 75c Each Size 11 x 14 20c each

SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS $3.00 per thousand. Print your announcement on correspondence side and mail them weekly. PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8 x 10, all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDERS, containing pictures of all the prominent players, including feature stars, $8.50 per thousand. SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of all the players, 600 names, 40c. each.

TRANSPARENCIES, ALL SIZES, from 50c. to $2.50. FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS from $8.00 to $25.00, according to size and frames.

KRAUS MFG. CO., 220 W. 42nd Street, N. Y.

12th Floor, CANDLER BUILDING.

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples free. Write us giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

Directory of New Theatres

This department is designed to be a weekly guide to all sales, leases, construction and remodeling of photoplay theatres. If you are building, selling, leasing or renovating, kindly communicate it at once for publication.

CALIFORNIA

PLANS have been filed with the Board of Public Works of San Francisco by Architect B. J. Joseph for a Class A moving picture building to be erected on the north side of California street, near Polk, for the Royal Theatre Company. The building will be fireproof throughout, with a steel frame and reinforced concrete walls and floor. It will have a seating capacity of about 1,400. Modern heating and ventilating systems will be installed and it is estimated that about $60,000 will be expended on the work.

Negotiations are under way for the resumption of work on the building at Eddy and Mason streets, San Francisco, and present plans contemplate the erection of a moving picture theatre. The report that work is to be resumed at an early date on the erection of the theatre is of much interest and efforts will be made by the owners to get this building under way before others that have been projected can be started.

The Orpheum theatre at Oakland, is now featuring big moving picture attractions and has just purchased new projection equipment for the operating room.

Learning that plans were being considered for the erection of a corrugated iron theatre building on Main street, Grass Valley, to have a seating capacity of 1,200, property owners in the neighborhood voiced their objections to the city trustees. The city officials took action and have made it known that if a new theatre is to be erected in that city it will have to conform to the fire limit ordinance in all respects.

The Imperial theatre, at Eureka, conducted by Pettingill and Pettingill, is to be remodeled.

A moving picture hall is being fitted up at Lytton, by the Salvation Army, which conducts a home there.

The order of Elks has had plans drawn for the construction of a lodge building at Monterey, the lower floor to be used as a moving picture theatre. W. H. Weeks, of San Francisco, is the architect.

The old Star theatre has been opened at Madera, by Chamberlain Brothers, of the Madera Opera House, as the Rex theatre.

The Novelty theatre, at Suisun, has been taken over by J. D. Tam, formerly of the Rex theatre, at Vallejo, and an eight-piece orchestra has been installed to furnish proper music.

The Novelty theatre, on South Elmwood avenue, Lindsay, has been reopened after being dark for months, and is now known as the Empress.

A moving picture theatre with a seating capacity of eight hundred, is to be erected at an early date at Anderson, by C. G. Hainline. It is estimated that the structure will cost in the neighborhood of $6,000.

Messrs. A. A. Graham and Z. Graham, musicians of Los Banos, have disposed of the Liberty theatre at that place to J. Manducci and B. Cavalla.

Rankin's Hall, at Blue Lakes, has been taken over by B. L. Waite, of Arcata, who will show pictures weekly.

The Bell theatre, at Sanger, conducted by M. C. Armstrong, has been improved of late by the addition of considerable new apparatus, including a new Powers No. 6A machine.

The Lyric theatre, at Chico, is being remodeled and will be opened by R. Bauer, under a different name.

The People's theatre, at Martinez, conducted by J. H. Trowbridge, has been closed pending the erection of a new building.

INDIANA

The Peter Pan theatre, Nineteenth street and Central avenue, which is to be operated by the Peter Pan Amusement Company, a new photoplay theatre in Indianapolis, opened December 24. The theatre seats about 400 persons, and music is provided by a four-piece orchestra. J. M. Thomas is the manager of the new theatre.

The Bucklen theatre, at Elkhart, has installed a new $5,000 Kimball pipe organ.

The North Side U. S. motion picture theatre, at Noblesville, has been bought by L. F. Ashley, of Ladysmith, Wisconsin, who has taken charge of the theatre. He bought it from L. J. Dunning.

Joe Bauer has opened the Alhambra theatre at Vincennes. The theatre seats 450 persons and is a fireproof building.

KENTUCKY

Plans are being prepared by S. P. Ostrander, architect, for a motion picture theatre for negroes on Walnut street, near Twelfth street, Louisville. The theatre will be built at a cost of about $25,000, and will have a seating capacity of 800. It will be 40 x 175 feet and will have a new heating and ventilating system, an indirect lighting system and other modern features. A company to operate the house is being organized.

The Peek-in theatre, another modern motion picture house for the exclusive use of colored people, has been built at Owensboro, by Richard Jackson. The building is of brick with an attractive lobby. There is a metal operating room and a modern system for heating and lighting.

MARYLAND

The Howard Amusement Company has been granted a permit for the construction of a one-story moving picture theatre, 37.5 by 121 feet, at 404-406 North Howard street, Baltimore. Sparklin & Childs are the architects and John J. Moylan the contractor. The cost of the structure is placed at $10,000.

A deal was closed recently for the purchase of the Red Mill picture theatre, Lafayette avenue, near Gilmor street, Baltimore. The consideration and the names of the purchasers have been withheld for the present, but the theatre is now conducted under the new management. The house has been newly decorated on the exterior, and the interior has been renovated.

By plans completed by Architect William Frieberg, Jr., for George Kirschenhofer, another motion picture theatre is promised for the eastern section of Baltimore. The plans call for a one-story motion picture theatre to be erected at 1517-21 East Eager street, which will have dimensions of 42.6 by 703 by 25.6, and which is to cost $3,500.

Arrangements are being perfected to rebuild the Broadway theatre, Baltimore, which was destroyed by fire several weeks ago. Harry Lewy, of the Great Wizard, of Baltimore, who is one of the proprietors, and manager of the Great Wizard Company, 30 West Lexington street, is the managing director of the Broadway. The theatre will be entirely refitted with chairs, decorations, screen, and other paraphernalia. Work on rebuilding will begin within the next few weeks.

MASSACHUSETTS

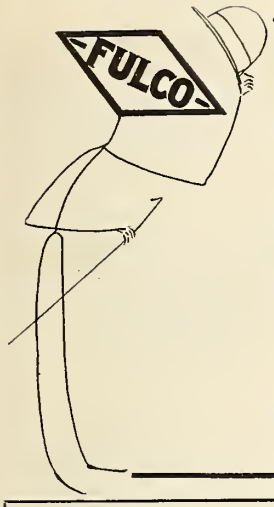
A license has been granted A. L. Ronsseau to carry on the moving picture business at Oddfellows Opera House in East Weymouth and the license of Mr. Coyle was cancelled.

MINNESOTA

The Sandon theatre, just completed by Sandon Brothers, on Walnut street, Mankato, at a cost of over $40,000, is now open. This house is a model of beauty, unique in design, and one of the most modern of any moving picture houses in the northwest. It seats 850.

NEBRASKA

Eric J. Hallgren has purchased the Suburban motion picture theatre at 24 Ames avenue, Omaha.



FULCO FULCO FULCO

WE heartily thank our many patrons for their numerous favors of the past, and hope to serve you all and many more during the coming year in a way that will mean Bigger, Better Business for all.

FULCO FULCO FULCO

E. E. FULTON CO.

The Department Store of the Moving Picture Trade

156 W. LAKE STREET - - CHICAGO

MR. EXHIBITOR

do you know for $39.00 you can equip your No. 6A machine with 110 V. Motor and motor drive, speed controller, switch, etc., and $4.00 more for a 220V ? This is quite a difference from the price you are asked to give up for a similar equipment. Start the New Year right. Save money and get your Money's worth from us. There is a new Motion Picture Machine coming to life and it's going to be a knock-out at a reasonable price. Ask us for information.

STERN MANUFACTURING CO., 109 N. 10th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

We have in stock everything to equip a modern theatre

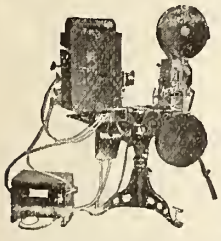
American Slide Company installs two Powers 6B motor driven machines in new Majestic Theatre, Columbus, Ohio. Ask them what they think of them.

We carry in stock a complete line of Powers machines and repair parts, and can ship orders in a moment's notice. Just try us and see. We are agents for

VELVET GOLD FIBRE SCREEN,

Let us demonstrate it to you.

AMERICAN SLIDE COMPANY, 165½ N. High Street, Columbus Ohio.



STANDARDIZE YOUR PROJECTION

Do not be satisfied with any old projection or projection of a mediocre quality. Standardize your protection through operation of the STANDARD. Best results are assured, and you will have a machine that will last for years and years without breaking down or running up heavy repair bills. Ask any operator or exhibitor who knows about the American Standard MASTER MODEL—or write to us for new descriptive circular and expressions from users.

AMERICAN STANDARD MOTION PICTURE MACHINE COMPANY

One Hundred Ten and Twelve West Fortieth Street, New York

We are now showing some New and Very Elaborate Stage Settings for

MOVING PICTURE THEATERS

Our representative can call on you with models. Write us.

EUGENE COX SCENE PAINTING STUDIO, 1734 Ogden Ave., CHICAGO, ILL.

THEATRE AND EXCHANGE MAILING LIST SERVICE

We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc. N 43

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY

80 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK, Phone 3227 Chelsea 425 ASHLAND BLOCK, CHICAGO, Phone 2003 Randolph

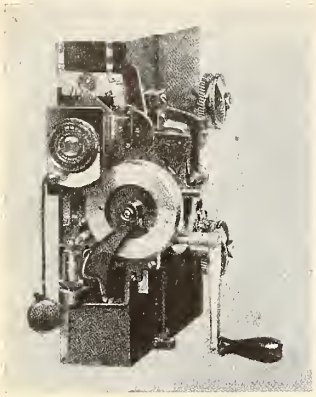
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

"HARD TIMES" FLY OUT OF THE WINDOW

When MOTION PICTURE NEWS Comes In By The Mail

Ask any live wire Exhibitor if it's true



THE UNIVERSAL CAMERA

For Motion Photography

The mechanism is as carefully and scientifically constructed as the movement of a standard watch.

The Universal assembled without the case. Front view showing the lens, flywheel, shutter and aperture adjustment, and the one-to-one crank shaft.

Demonstrational Catalogue on request

The Universal Camera Company
24 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, U. S. A.
1209 Times Bldg., New York

Represented by
Atlas Educational Film Company
821 Market Street, San Francisco, Cal

YOU WOULD NOT HESITATE

If you could know exactly how much you could increase your BOX OFFICE RECEIPTS by installing a NEW UP TO THE MINUTE MACHINE to provide a "PAINTED ON THE WALL" class of pictures, and especially if you knew about our EASY PAYMENT PLANS, by which you can make a new machine pay its own way.

We carry a big stock of POWER'S 6-A and 6-B, NEW 1916 MODEL MOTIOGRAPH AND SIMPLEX MACHINES and all supplies (except films and posters) for the Moving Picture Theatre.

We sell what the people want
Write us today for our catalog and proposition

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY
6th Floor, Cambridge Bldg.
N. W. Cor. 5th and Randolph Chicago, Ill.
Distributors of the
Power's, Motiograph, Edison and Simplex Machines and Genuine Parts

FEASTER DEVICE

FOR PROJECTORS

ELIMINATES REWINDING

QUICKLY ATTACHED IN PLACE OF UPPER MAGAZINE

Saves Time—Labor—Money—Breakage—Delay—Noise and Fire Risk.

Ask Your Dealer.

FEASTER CORPORATION
1482 Broadway, New York

PRINTING and DEVELOPING

IN TWELVE HOURS

PROMPT—EXPERT—DEPENDABLE

4c. PER FOOT
COMPLETE TITLE
5c. PER FOOT

OUTPUT 1,000,000 FEET PER WEEK

Liberty Motion Picture Laboratories
GERMANTOWN PHILADELPHIA PENNSYLVANIA

Tear out this advertisement, write your name on the margin, mail it to us today, and you will receive particulars by return mail

Harry Lawrie, architect, is drawing plans for the motion picture theatre to be erected on the Maul property on the north side of Douglas between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, Omaha, by the Garden Realty Company. The theatre will be completed by May 1, and will seat 1,500. Work on the site has been started. Jake Schlank will be manager.

NEVADA

F. E. Simons, formerly of Montana, has leased the Tessier Hall at Lovelock, and has opened a picture theatre.

Frank Mazatti, who was interested in the Summer Garden Show at Winnemucca last summer has purchased an interest in the Orpheum theatre. A steam heating plant is to be installed in the house.

J. C. Reynolds has disposed of his theatre at Sparks to J C. Squires.

NEW JERSEY

John H. Mannix has closed the Victoria theatre, Bordentown, and is now negotiating for a site upon which to erect a modern motion picture house on Farnsworth avenue.

Nathan Welitoff has prepared plans for a one-story brick motion picture theatre and stores, 47 x 120 feet in ground dimensions, to be erected by Harry Max at the southeast corner of Sip avenue and Enos place, Newark. The premises will comprise the theatre, with a seating capacity of 300, and four stores. The estimated cost is $20,000.

NEW YORK

The Strand theatre, Watertown, recently purchased from Harry Stowell, has been opened under the new management of James Baker and George Waldo.

Tentative plans have been formulated whereby Johnstown is soon to have one of the most modern theatres in Central New York. According to the plans of Manager Joseph A. Colin of the Grand Opera house, that building is to be practically razed in the interior and rebuilt. The new idea of the manager calls for an enlarging of the house by nearly 100 per cent., doubling its seating capacity.

J. F. Emerson, secretary of the Warren Business Men's Association, Warren, opened a moving picture house on the East Side on January 1.

OHIO

Six Cleveland motion picture theatres changed hands in one day in Cleveland at the close of the year. All sales were made through one agency, the sales being as follows:

The Addison theatre, 6418 St. Clair avenue, sold to Paul Pisker, who also purchased the Liberty theatre, 3711 Fulton road.

Henry Miller and wife bought the Nemo theatre, W. 84th street and Detroit avenue.

Aaron Katz secured control of the Eagle theatre, 4609 Denison avenue.

J. F. Johnson took over the Enjoy-U theatre, giving a farm at Chardon to William Carson, the former owner, in exchange.

The new Colonial theatre, Superior avenue and E. 57th street, acquired by M. F. Abrams on a real estate transfer basis.

Cleveland is to have a new theatre at the corner of W. 25th street and Prame avenue. G. T. and Bessie Sharp, who have managed picture theatres in Cleveland for ten years, will manage it. It will have a seating capacity of 900.

The Alhambra theatre, Sandusky, built by George J. Schade at a cost of $75,000, was opened recently. Seat prices range from five to 50 cents. Architects say it is one of the finest theatres in Ohio.

PENNSYLVANIA

M. E. Comerford, already well known as a theatre owner in several Pennsylvania cities, has, in connection with others, just purchased a building on Court House Square, a prominent street of Scranton. The present structure will be torn down and on the site will be built a picture house.

Wilkinsburg, a suburb of Pittsburgh, is to have a new motion picture theatre, with a capacity of eight hundred, and will be erected on the site of the Doris theatre early in the spring. The Doris theatre is to be downtown, and J. W. Hunter, owner of the theatre, will let the contract for the work as soon as all of the bids are in.

Mr. Hunter opened the doors of the Doris theatre more than four years ago and it has proved a big success ever since. The present theatre is located on a lot 25 x 132 feet at 827 Wood

A Hint Is As Good As a Hundred Dollars

if you have sense enough to take it and use it in time.

There Are $100 Hints

in every issue of

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Take "Live Wire Exhibitors" as an example.

One Exhibitor Added $300 to his WEEKLY REVENUE with one of the ideas in that department.

BUT—He Was a LIVE WIRE: ARE YOU?

Make Your Lobby Display Attractive

There is nothing more fascinating to the public than a bright brass frame to display your photos or posters.

We make Lobby and Theatre Fixtures and Brass Rails of every description.

Don't fail to visit our Showrooms.

Write for catalog.

The NEWMAN MFG. CO.

717 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, Ohio

Branch Factories and Show Rooms:
101 Fourth Ave., New York, N. Y.
106-108 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.

Coast representative, G. A. Metcalfe, 117 Goldengate Avenue, San Francisco, California.

FOR SALE

MOVING PICTURE MAILING LISTS

Only complete one to be had, numbering 22,000; price, $40.00; itemized by states, or $3.50 per thousand for states you want. Postage guaranteed.

1173	Film Exchanges	$4.00
149	Manufacturers and Studios	1.00
210	Moving Picture Machine and Supply Dealers	1.50

Write for particulars

Trade Circular Addressing Co.

166½ West Adams Street, Chicago

Franklin 1183 Estab. 1880

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Hallberg's 20th Century Motor Generator

Changes A. C. to D. C. at less cost, yet greater efficiency than any other.
Ask for descriptive circular

Power, Simplex and Baird Machines and Minusa Gold Fibre Screens

LEWIS M. SWAAB

1329 VINE STREET, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

OPERA CHAIRS

Complete Line
Prompt Shipments

Write for Catalogue with Direct Factory Prices

Peabody School Furniture Co.

802 W. Fourth St., North Manchester, Ind.

R. M. SHAW COMPANY

HOLSTON BUILDING KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Selling Motion Picture Machines, Screens Chairs & Supplies of the very best sort

Exhibitors Supply Co.

122 So. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Write for our new 1916 catalogue of theatre supplies and picture machines.

It will interest you.

WRITE FOR OUR NEW

SLIDE CAT.

NOVELTY SLIDE CO.

67 W. 23d St. New York

Projection Problems Answered

Troubles are continually coming up in every booth. Why not see whether the other fellow can help you? Our projection expert is ready and willing to answer any and all questions

WHICH YOU MAY ASK

Without obligation on my part please give me full advice on the following:

Name

Theatre

Address

street. A one-story building costing $15,000 will be erected on the site of the present theatre.

The opening of a pretty and modern picture theatre in the Pittsburgh district will be delayed indefinitely as a result of the death of David Thomas, a well-known business man of that city.

TEXAS

A three-story reinforced concrete moving picture theatre building to cost $35,000, is to be erected at Milam and Prairie streets, Houston, by Hugh Hamilton. The structure is planned to contain offices on the front of the first and second floors and the theatre auditorium to take up the rear. The contract has been awarded.

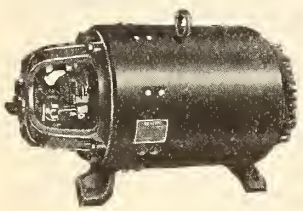
L. C. SMITH, MANAGER OF BROOKLYN THEATRE FOR TISCHLER, MARRIED JANUARY 1

L. C. SMITH, manager of the New Kingston theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., for Max Tischler, who also owns the New Kingston airdome, the Brownsville theatre, Brooklyn, and the Rivington Casino, New York City, married Anna May Krassner, of 850 Longwood avenue, the Bronx, on January 1.

The bridal couple left immediately after the ceremony for Atlantic City, where they remained a week.

Smith was formerly an exhibitor in the Bronx for some months, and is well known in the trade. He is a "live wire" exhibitor, a believer in advertising, and conducts in the New Kingston a modern theatre in an up-to-date fashion. He provides attractive lobby displays and issues an unusually attractive house organ.

HALLBERG
20th CENTURY MOTOR GENERATOR



$249

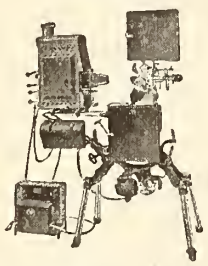
For 30 to 70 Amp. D. C. Capacity

$20 extra for control for (2) 30 to 40 amp. arc's—or $50 extra for control for (2) 30-40 amp. arc's on fine switchboard with volt and amp. meters and special field rheostat—No live part on front of board.

For 110 or 220 volt, 60 cycle, 2 or 3 phase A. C. Line. For single phase, $40 extra.

Weight, 450 lbs. Height, 15" Width, 15" Length, 28"

OTHER SIZES AND STYLES OF ALL KINDS—QUOTED UPON REQUEST



Distributor of
Power's-Simplex-Baird
M. P. Machines

Send for Free Circulars and Catalogues, but for Hallberg's Big 100-page Catalogue, send 25 cents.

I EQUIP THEATRES COMPLETE AND CARRY ALL MAKES CARBONS AND SUPPLIES.

Send $2.50 for latest Operator's Book, "MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY."

J. H. HALLBERG Swedish Electrical Engineer
34 East 23d St. The House of Quality New York

Try Making Up Your Program This Week

From Motion Picture News Release Pages

The ease and rapidity with which you can do it will astonish you

THESE PAGES HAVE BEEN BUILT
FOR YOU
BY MEN WHO KNOW JUST WHAT YOU NEED

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE OR FOR RENT

Completely equipped Motion Picture Studio in New York City. Modern Studio Lighting System. Full line of equipment and scenery. For particulars, address MARSTON & CO., 30 East 42d Street. Tel. Murray Hill 540.

WANTED

Experienced scenario writer and reconstructionist wanted by large producing company. Box No. 18, Motion Picture News.

WHERE TO BUY

COSTUMES

Miller-Costumier, 236 South 11th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

PRINTING, DEVELOPING

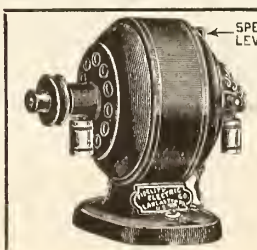
Centaur Film Co., 670-682 Ave. E., Bayonne, N. J.

REWINDERS

Williams, Brown & Earle, Inc., 913 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

UNIFORMS

Fechheimer Bros. (Union-made), Cincinnati, Ohio.



HERE IT IS
Motors for moving picture machines.
110-60 Alternating Current, $14.00
110 Volts Direct Current, 12.00
Furnished complete with speed lever, giving a speed range of 50%.
Immediate delivery for cash with order.
These motors you can attach yourself.
We manufacture Motor-Generator Sets.
FIDELITY ELECTRIC CO.
Dept. N. LANCASTER, PA.

CASTEEL THEATRE CHAIRS

Made only by

WISCONSIN SEATING FACTORIES

"A Decided Innovation in Theatre Chairs"

Factories in
New London
Pt. Washington
Sheboygan
Grafton, U. S. A.

Address:
Theatre Chair Sales Dept.,
NEW LONDON,
WISC., U. S. A.

Please Do Not

fail to notify the News if you change your address. You lose the full value of your subscription if you do no get every issue.

MENGER & RING, Inc.
Manufacturers of
POSTER and LOBBY DISPLAY FRAMES
304 W. 42nd Street New York

WHAT DRAWS THE CROWDS?

Federal Electric Signs. They get the people on the street.

FEDERAL SIGN SYSTEM (ELECTRIC),
Lake and Deslaines Sts., Chicago.

EDISON MACHINE
$65.

Including upper and lower magazines, electric burner, new Simplex rheostat asbestos cord, rewind and lenses to fit measurements, everything ready to run a picture, guaranteed first class condition, for $65. Will ship subject to inspection. Many other bargains in Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Opera and Folding Chairs of all kinds, new and slightly used, at bargain prices. Roll tickets 7½c. a thousand. Film Cement and Oil 15c. bottle. All makes of carbons. We are the largest THEATRE SUPPLY HOUSE west of Chicago.

LEARS THEATRE SUPPLY CO.
509 Chestnut St. St. Louis, Mo.

Music and the Picture

Edited by Ernst Luz

This department is maintained for the exhibitor's assistance with a view of suggesting proper musical illustrations for current photo plays. MOTION PICTURE NEWS will be pleased to help solve any difficulties the exhibitors may have with their musical programs. All communications should be addressed to the Music and the Picture Department.

MUSIC FOR THE PICTURES IS ONE THING, BUT WHAT KIND OF MUSIC WOULD YOU PLAY FOR THESE FILMS?

MUSIC for the pictures is not an unfamiliar subject in these days. But a new relation between music and the screen is being developed at the Bronx Zoo by Curator Raymond Ditmars. That is, of course, assuming that you recognize the spontaneous and unrestrained chatter of simians as a variety of music.

Inasmuch as numerous motion picture musicians will be racking their brains for appropriate music to accompany the Ditmars films some months hence, it may be well to let them know what is being done. There may be some inspiration in the following account.

Monkey talk from an invisible source, loud and as caustic as any simian ever screeched, is the latest feature of everyday life in the monkey house in the New York Zoological Park in the Bronx.

The mystery of the monkey house and the source of the long line of choice simian language was explained by Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of the animal collection and world-wide known authority on reptiles, primates and what not in zoology, now producing films for the Paramount Pictures Corporation.

Recently there was installed in the curator's private office a phonograph into which he dictated his correspondence, memoranda, etc. A few days ago Mr. Ditmars switched the repeating lever from the recording disc and for a time he was not convinced that he was listening to his own voice.

At all events, he did not recognize his own enunciation, and it then and there occurred to him that the phonograph might solve the problem of curing "Hoolock," the white fisted gibbon, of a siege of melancholy from which the ape has been suffering.

Hooloek has been at the park for the last three years, and during that time his lonesomeness became such that his keepers, "Fred" Engeholm and "Teddy" Kiefer, feared for his life. The ape is a product of the Malay Peninsula and is farthest removed from man. His kind are strictly tree animals, talented with wonderful agility and peculiarly shaped in that their arms are about twice the length of their legs.

Hoolock is what is known as a white fisted gibbon, shy and at all times fearful of strangers. It required more than two years of coaxing and petting before he would descend from his perch in the big cage, in which he swings to and fro all day long.

Meanwhile he lived by snatching his food from the floor by suspending himself from a branch of one of the trees in the cage. In the last year, however, he has grown tamer and will now permit his keepers to seratch his back or otherwise pet him, just for companionship.

Mr. Ditmars seems to have settled the apprehension for Hoolock's long life and prosperity by his phonograph stunt. He had the recording disc set in place and while "Teddy" Kiefer stood nearby on the inside of the eage the lonesome ape screeched all manner and kind of gibbon talk into the revolving record.

"Jungle Town" and "Night Time in Monkey Land" were not in it with what Hoolock sent through the horn. Every time Kiefer spoke, the ape, in a lingo known only to himself, yelled and shrieked.

"Fine, fine," said Mr. Ditmars when the phonograph was set in motion and peeled out the jumble of gibberish. The black ape was evidently surprised, if not perplexed. He at first ran away from the mysteriously shaped horn chattering in a high pitch, but eventually was eoaxed back to the front of the cage and soon joined in the bedlam.

It wasn't long until other primates took up the chorus, and among them the monkey house was a wilder place than Borneo. As for Hoolock, he showed immediate improvement under the spell of his mechanical companion, and there is now every indication he will recover from his melancholia.

"But the trick was turned just in time," said Mr. Ditmars. "I hate to fool the little fellow, but it may help to save his life. He sure was lonesome; and why let him pine his life away when the phonograph will keep him company and help make life worth living?"

CHILDREN'S FEATURE FILM CORPORATION FORMED IN LOUISVILLE

THE Children's Feature Film Corporation which was organized recently at Louisville, is planning for its initial release in its new studio now in the course of construction near the Churchill Downs race track. This company will make pictures especially to appeal to ehildren.

Every theatre owner and manager, as well as every musician, has his own idea as to just how pictures should be played and what is necessary in order to make his house popular from a musical standpoint.

Some realize that their knowledge and experience properly treated and set forth will be of value to others who may not enjoy their success, but they do not know how to make their suggestions of benefit to others.

There are also those who want help and these are perhaps the majority. Yet they do not know where or how to get this assistance.

* * * * *

The Music Department of the "News" is for just this purpose.

We will publish the opinions of any of our readers, or we will answer any of their questions; in fact, we are here for the express purpose of promoting better picture music.

Mr. Luz is an expert. It is because of his knowledge that several houses, which in the past have failed, are now making wonderful successes.

Why not take advantage of his knowledge?

* * * * *

Manufacturers of musical instruments and music accessories are also invited and requested to send in to this department news items, descriptions, etc., of anything new which is being placed upon the market and which will be of interest to motion picture theatre owners.

* * * * *

This department is open to all.

Music Plot for Fox Feature, "A Soldier's Oath," Six Reels

By Ernst Luz. Projection Time 75 Minutes

THIS plot is adapted so as to make it possible for the pianist, one man orchestra player, organist or orchestra leader to make some prior preparation for playing the picture. The numbers suggested need not be used; similar numbers, or numbers suggested by the Notes will do as well. It is intended that no unnecessary expense be added for exhibitor or musician.

	Description of Music	Number Suggested	Cue to Stop Number
		PART 1.
1.	Inter. (Cl. Fr.)	"Wedding of the Rose" (C. Fischer)	Child carried to upstairs bedroom.
2.	Sh. And. Int. and Waltz	"Witches Whirl" (E. T. Paul)	"War."
3.	French March	"La Marseillaise" (E. Ascher)	Soldiers march off screen.
4.	Desc. (Plaint. Tsch.) XXXXX	"Barcarolle-June" (C. Fischer)	Connects 1 and 2.
		PART 2.
5.	Desc. (Hy. Pliant.)	"Amo" (M. Witmark)	After father and mother with lamp enter bedroom.
6.	H. Mysterioso XXX	Lake Coll. No. 14—(C. Fischer)	Wife re-enters house after husband leaves.
7.	Agitato (P.-F.-P.) XXX	Lake Coll. No. 12—(C. Fischer)	Child coming downstairs second time.
8.	Desc. (Plaint.)	"Rose Blushes" (M. Witmark)	Connects 2 and 3.
		PART 3.	"The second trench"
9.	Hurry (L. Battle)	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 7"—B2 (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	Duval rescues soldier.
10.	Waltz (Hy.-Leg.)	"Le Poeme" (Jos. W. Stern)	"Did Pierre answer roll," etc.
11.	Desc. (Hy.-Path.-Agit.)	Chanson sans Paroles, by Tschaikowski	Child gives note to Butler at mansion.
12.	Desc. (Rom.)	"Two Lovers" (Ditson & Co.)	Connects 3 and 4.
		PART 4.	"After the war."
13.	Path. Intro. and Waltz	"Sweet Repose" (Jos. W. Stern)	Fire at prison—quick.
14.	Galop	"Diabolos" (Ditson & Co.)	End of fire scene. Cure asleep on lawn.
15.	Desc. (Hy.-Path.)	"Serenade" by Karganoff (G. Schirmer)	Connects 4 and 5.
		PART 5.	"Her first ball."
16.	Waltz (Leg.)	"Druid's Prayer" (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	"The new gardener."
17.	Inter. (L. Desc.)	"Serenade" by Drdla (C. Fischer)	After girl kisses the Cure.
18.	Desc. (S. Hy.-Rom.)	"Cupid's Net" (C. Fischer)	After Count de Morane puts necklace on girls neck.
19.	Desc. (Hy.-Path.)	"Nocturne" by Karganoff (G. Schirmer)	Connects 5 and 6.
		PART 6.	Father and child embrace.
20.	Hy. Dr. Andante	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 1"—C3 (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	"But the Count De Morane is dead," etc.
21.	Agitato	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 1"—B2	Gardener at window of Count Mroane's home.
22.	Mysterioso	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 1"—A1	"It was one of the Morane jewels," etc.
23.	Agitato	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 2"—B2 (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	"He is my father."
24.	Desc. (Hy.-Path.)	"Pensee D'Amour" (C. Fischer)	To end.

This picture is set in French locale; the music in the first reel should have a French suggestion. This suggestion can be omitted after the first reel as the picture becomes very dramatic.

It is more important that you should get dramatic depth in your music, which can not be done when selecting suggestive or characteristic music. Numbers with minor key strains predominant should be used in your set-up.

Music Notes.—No. 1 should be a 2/4 number with a French suggestion. No. 2 and 13 should be concert waltzes with slow melodious introductions. Nos. 10 and 16 should be very slow waltzes played legato. They should have one strain at least in minor key. Nos. 4-5 and 8 must be slow numbers in minor key throughout.

They should have an agitated strain. No. 11 must be a slow number with a positive pathetic appeal. A number in which the accompaniment is syncopated will give the agitated effect necessary for the dramatic action on the screen.

Nos. 12 and 18 should be slow numbers with a romantic suggestion. Do not need to be heavy numbers, nor in minor key. No. 14 should be a light galop, covering hurried action accompanying a fire scene. Nos. 15-19 and 24 should be heavy numbers with a positive pathetic appeal. The usual agitated strain in minor key is essential.

Must be slow numbers. No. 17 is your only opportunity for some light number as a relief and to give the succeeding numbers greater importance. No. 3 should be a march with a positive French suggestion.

The one suggested is very good. Nos. 6-7-9-20-21-22-23 are short melodramatic numbers, sold by Jos. W. Stern and Co., 102 West thirty-eighth street, New York City.

The picture can be well illustrated musically on the organ. When the orchestra is used with the organ, the orchestra should always play the melodramatic numbers.

Special Note.—While this is a six-reel picture, the reels are short and the entire picture should not run over one hour and fifteen minutes.

Mr. Exhibitor: When you are bewildered by the conflicting claims of manufacturers hear and the music problem will be solved. A postal card will bring our catalogue.

THE BARTOLA ORCHESTRA

CHAS. C. PYLE, General Sales Agent 710-711 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Factory, Oshkosh, Wisconsin

HEADQUARTERS FOR MEN AND WOMEN MUSICIANS

ORCHESTRAS under our management playing in many of the principal photoplay theatres. To have real music you want AN ORCHESTRA. No mechanical instrument can ever take its place. At liberty

IMPERIAL LADIES' ORCHESTRA SMITHONEAN QUINTETTE (all men)

We furnish from pianist to orchestra of fifty pieces. Eminent artists, vocal and instrumental.

GEO. W. SMITH, Mgr., 1493 Broadway, New York City

Suite 315. Telephone:—Bryant 3574.

A. B. C. Dramatic Music

Don't be without the new modern Melo-Dramatic Music for Picture Playing.
9 Sets now ready.

Set No. 1 consists of a heavy misterioso. Agitato and Plaintive, for scenes of incendiarism or premeditated murder.
Set No. 2 consists of a long Heavy Dramatic Descriptive and Hurry. Good for scenes of heavy plotting or mysterious action leading to fights or tumult.
Set No. 3 consists of an Agitato-Hurry and Lamentation. Good for fights, riots, etc., ending in despair or death.
Set No. 4 consists of a Light Agitato and Andante movement. Good for quarrels or agitation in society dramas.
Set No. 5 is a Burglar scene opening with the sneaky music, then agitato, hurry and Plaintive. Contains four different numbers.
Set No. 6 consists of a misterioso and Allegro Hurry. Used for plotting ending in great confusion or fights.
Set No. 7 is an Indian scene of three numbers. An Indian mystical opening a fight or battle hurry, closing with an Indian plaintive.
Set No. 8 is a fight and chase scene. Opens with a Hurry, going directly into a concert galop for the chase.
Set No. 9 is a three numbered Storm scene. A. 1 is a Storm Hurry. B. 2 is an Allegro Agitato. C. 3 a Plaintive Andante as an Aftermath.
No picture player can afford to be without these numbers. All numbers arranged for Piano, Organ, One Man Orchestra Player or Orchestral combinations from 2 to 35 pieces. Prices:

Small Orch. including Organ and Cello. 25 cents each Set
Full Orch. .....35 cents each Set
Piano Solo and Accom..10 cents each Set
Extra Parts- ..... 5 cents each part

PHOTO PLAY MUSIC CO., Publishers
No. 1520 Broadway, N. Y. City

Lyon & Healy New Empress 88-Note Electric Player

Plays By Hand As Well As Automatically
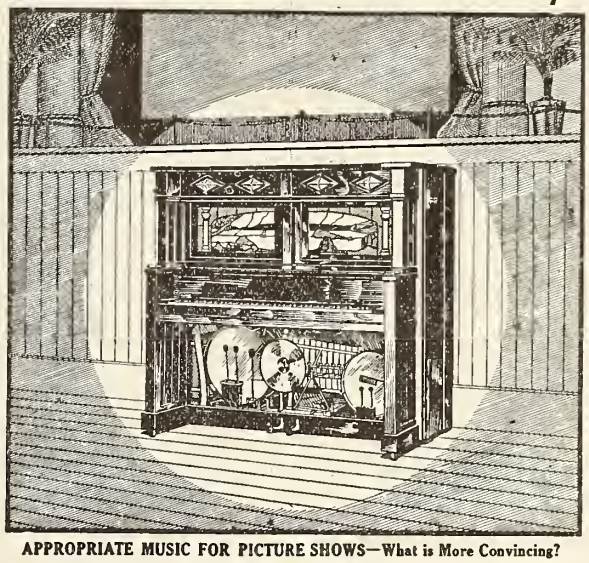
All Orchestral Effects Under Control of Operator

Superior Tone.

Mandolin Attachment and Orchestra Bells played from Keyboard.

Extra Foot Pedals for operating Drums, Cymbal, Indian Block and Triangle.

Many Other Styles.



Dependable.

Noteall effects assembled in standard size piano case, which makes it the inexpensive Player.

Various Musical Combinations.

APPROPRIATE MUSIC FOR PICTURE SHOWS—What is More Convincing?

Testimonials:

Lyon & Healy, Chicago, Ill. Athens, Tex., Aug. 4, 1915.
Gentlemen:—This is to certify that the Empress Electric Piano gives perfect satisfaction in every detail—perfect in harmony—perfect in tone and perfect in electrical work.
J. J. Powers Drug Co.

Lyon & Healy, Chicago, Ill. Girard, Kan., March 2, 1915.
Gentlemen:—The Empress Electric Piano I bought of you last June has given the best of satisfaction and I can recommend it highly to anyone wanting an electric piano. I have three electrics, and if I had to part with all but one, I would keep the Empress Electric.
J. W. Hayter, Luric Theatre.

Get Our Complete Catalog of Automatic Instruments

Lyon & Healy
World's Largest Music House
21-27 E. Adams St.
Chicago

Easy Terms. Submit Your Proposition

75 KIMBALL ORGANS IN CHICAGO THEATRES

Moving Picture Theatres in the city of Chicago are convinced that the beautiful music of the pipe organ is an attraction that can scarcely be dispensed with.

The large number of Kimball Organs in one city is PROOF of the value to the moving picture theatre.

Among our hundreds of customers there are many who will tell you what they think of organ music and of Kimball Organs.

W. W. KIMBALL CO. Established 1857 CHICAGO
Eastern Office:—507 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK CITY

FILL THOSE EMPTY SEATS DOUBLE YOUR RECEIPTS

GET THE OTHER FELLOW'S CROWD with the LATEST STREET, LOBBY AND PIT MUSICAL SENSATION, A DEAGAN UNAPHONE, WITH AND WITHOUT SWELL BOX. TWO MANAGERS, WITH FOUR SHOWS EACH, HAVE EIGHT UNAPHONES IN DAILY USE. LOSSES HAVE CHANGED TO PROFITS. WHY NOT YOU?

WRITE FOR TRIAL OFFER AND CATALOG "F"

J. C. DEAGAN, Deagan Building 1782 Berteau Avenue Chicago, Ill.

NO MATTER WHO YOU ARE IN THE TRADE—

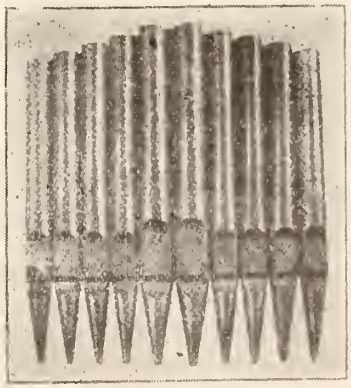
manufacturer, exchange man, exhibitor, operator, actor, director, musician—

THERE IS SOMETHING FOR YOU EVERY WEEK

IN

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

and you always know WHERE TO FIND IT



Write for catalog and full particulars.

Genuine Pipe Organ Display Pipes

for Theatres equipped with One Man Orchestras or any automatic electric players.

There is nothing more pleasing to the eye of the Public than a set of display Pipes highly finished in a rich gold bronze.

Can be installed at a slight cost.

Jerome B. Meyer
Factory & Office, 125 Austin St.
Milwaukee, Wisconsin

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

TABLE OF CONTENTS

JUST A GOOD STORY (William A. Johnston)..... 201
EDITORIALS 202
Lawful Regulation vs. Lawless Censorship..... 203
Biggest Americans Greet Nation Through U Weekly..... 205
Treatment, not Source, Makes Good Photodrama..... 207
Short Profits for Long Pictures, Is Wright's Belief..... 209
The Press, Press Representative and the Picture—XV..... 211
Leaguers' Big Stick Ready for Mulish Censors..... 249
Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew with Metro for Comedies..... 204
Bay State Meets to Safeguard Industry..... 207
Bill in Senate for Better Scenario Copyright Law..... 208
Christie's Nestorites to "Register Absence"..... 208
Mansfield's Wonderful Chevrial Is a Fox Role..... 210
Trade Press Men Play Role of Interviewers for Film..... 210
"Public Is Tired of Flabby Stories"—Horsley..... 211
Marie Doro Signs Long Contract with Lasky..... 212
No Paper-Leaf Fans for World Tropical Scenes..... 212
"January Thaw" of Good Things, for Vitagraph..... 213
"Red Feather" Is Producer's Name for U Broadway..... 213
"Birth of a Nation" Has Longest Run in New York Stage History 224
Metro Sends Bushman-Bayne Company South..... 233
News' Modest Bow to Friends for Christmas Bouquets..... 233
Equitable Ready with Twenty-two Stars for Next Quarter 239
Wild West Greeting for Tree at Fine Arts Studio..... 239
"Race Suicide" Prolific of Offers from Exchanges..... 241
Radio Sends Wireless of "Preparedness" Subject..... 241
"Unwritten Law" Best Medium for Star's Talents..... 242
Whole Floor for Lasky Offices in New York..... 242
Mutual not Neglecting Long for Short Pictures..... 243
"Screen An Ultimate Good to Stage"—Brady..... 243
Screen's Full Moon Outshines Crescent City Stage..... 244
Ellis Director for Kalem "Sis Hopkins"..... 244
Metro Center Rush Dash Toward Popularity Goal..... 245
"He Walked In, Turned Around and Out Again"..... 246
Florence Lawrence Returns to Screen for Universal..... 246
Kane-Thompson War Films Get Page in Leslie's..... 247
Lenore Ulrich Back from "Paula" Filming..... 247
First Selig-Tribune News Makes Hit..... 247
Paramount to Offer Silhouette Motion Pictures..... 250
Blue Bird Sends Envoy on Mission to Exhibitors..... 251
Vim Funmakers Under Sheltering Palms..... 251

DEPARTMENTS

Live Wire Exhibitors..... 218
Among the Exchanges 220
Film News from Foreign Parts..... 223
Looking Ahead with the Producers..... 225
New Laws and Court Decisions..... 234
In and Out of West Coast Studios..... 236
Just to Make Talk 240

REVIEWS

Black Crook, The (Kalem)..... 253
Camille (World Film) 252
Excuse Me (Pathe Gold Rooster)..... 255
Foundling, The (Famous Players) 258
Fighting for France (Mutual) 261
Golden Chance, The (Lasky)..... 252
Green-Eyed Monster (Fox) 256
Green Swamp, The (Kay-Bee-Triangle)..... 257
Lydia Gilmore (Famous Players)..... 256
Life's Whirlpool (World Film)..... 258
Man Inside, The (Universal)..... 260
Mrs. Dane's Dangers (Vitagraph)..... 254
Other Girl, The (Raver) 255
Sorrows of Happiness, The (Lubin)..... 253
Temptation (Lasky) 260
Thou Art the Man (Vitagraph Blue Ribbon)..... 259
What Will People Say? (Metro)..... 259
Woman in Politics (Mutual)..... 254
Wood Nymph, The (Fine Arts-Triangle)..... 257
Worst of Enemies, The (Keystone-Triangle)..... 257
General Film Program..... 262
Mutual Program 262
Pathe Exchange 262
Universal Program 264

RELEASE CHARTS

Release Charts 266, 268, 270, 272, 274

ACCESSORY NEWS SECTION

Motion Picture Projection Simplified..... 279
Projection 282
Building and Furnishing..... 286
Directory of New Theatres 288
Music and the Picture 293

Developing

Printing

Titles

Standard

Filmprint

Corporation

120 School Street

Yonkers, N. Y.

Telephone

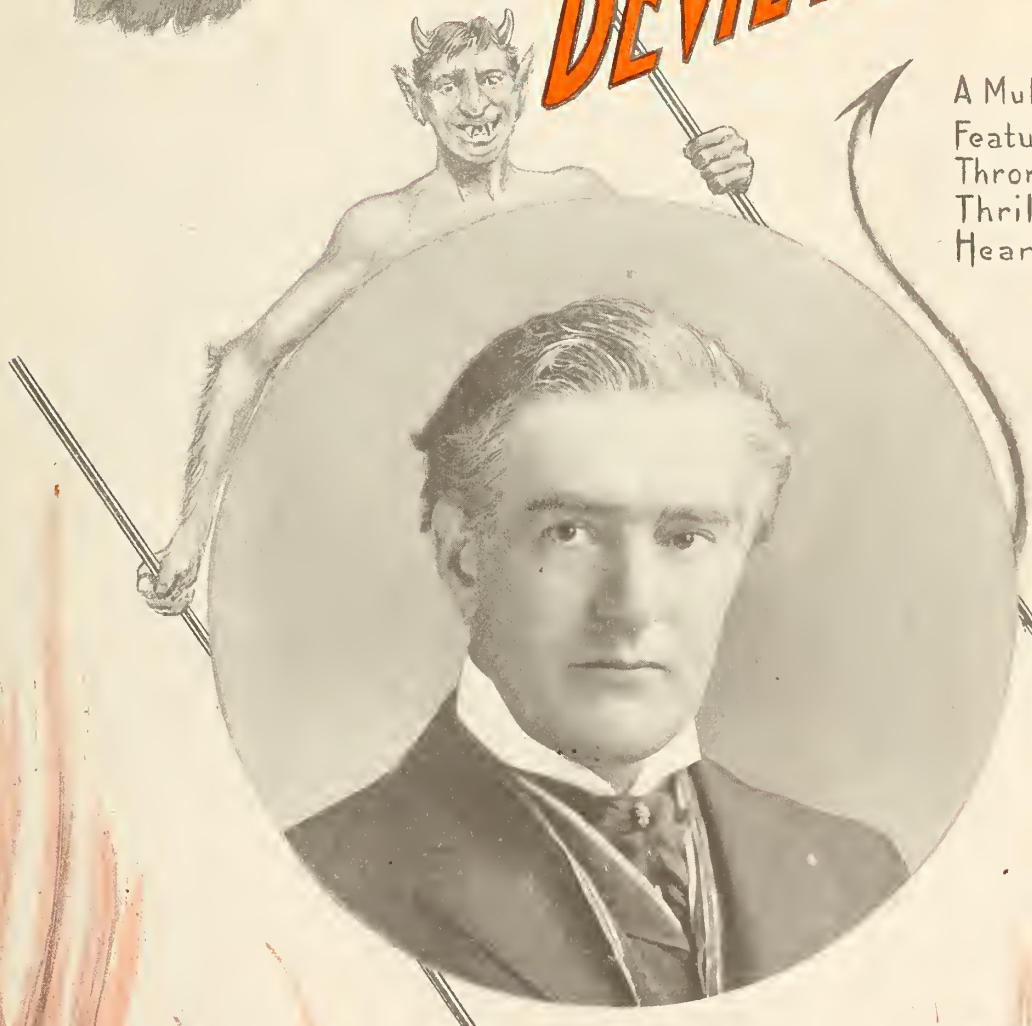
4600 Yonkers

SELIG Offers

TYRONE POWER Supported by Eugenie Besserer, Edith Johnson and Wheeler Oakman in

"THE DEVIL-IN-CHIEF"

A Multiple Reel Feature Drama Thronged With Thrills and Heart Throbs.



Paramount Pictures

Oliver Morosco
Presents

Constance Collier

THE INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS ACTRESS IN

"THE TONGUES OF MEN"

A SPARKLING DRAMA OF LOVE VERSUS DUTY

FROM THE WELL KNOWN PLAY

by

EDWARD CHILDS CARPENTER

PRODUCED BY

The Oliver Morosco Photoplay Co.

RELEASED
JANUARY 6TH
ON THE
PARAMOUNT PROGRAM

Be sure to obtain the special music from your PARAMOUNT EXCHANGE
It will help your showing and if advertised, will attract more patrons

The Oliver Morosco Photoplay Co.

PUBLICITY OFFICE
222 WEST 42ND STREET
NEW YORK, N.Y.

CANADIAN DISTRIBUTORS
FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM SERVICE LTD.
MONTREAL, TORONTO, CALGARY.

STUDIOS
201 NORTH OCCIDENTAL BVD
LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

JANUARY 22, 1916

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

VOLUME XIII NUMBER 3 PRICE 10 CTS

RED FEATHER PHOTO PLAYS

PRESENT

"The Path of Happiness"

A romantic drama of unusual charm

Featuring

Violet Mersereau

with Harry Benham

The charm of this strong drama is irresistible. Dainty Violet Mersereau appears as a sweet and lovable mountain maid, jealously guarded by a hunchback foster brother. The contrast between the many strong situations and the idyllic setting and romantic love theme make a tremendous appeal. In one scene of wondrous beauty, Violet appears as a forest Naiad, disporting herself in the waters in an entrancing manner. A picture that will be hailed with delight by all moving picture lovers.

Arrange for immediate booking with your nearest Universal Exchange.

RED FEATHER PHOTO PLAYS

PARAMOUNT PICTURES

DANIEL FROHMAN
PRESENTS

HAZEL DAWN

IN A NOVEL
DETECTIVE
COMEDY-DRAMA

"MY LADY INCOG."

A RARE COMBINATION OF LAUGHS AND THRILLS

IN FIVE PARTS RELEASED JAN. 17TH.

PRODUCED BY THE

FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM Co

ADOLPH ZUKOR, President,
DANIEL FROHMAN, Managing Director

507 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK

Canadian distributors—FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM SERVICE, Ltd.
Calgary—Montreal—Toronto

48 FAMOUS FEATURES A YEAR

48 FAMOUS FEATURES A YEAR

WORLD
FILM CORPORATION
LEWIS J. SELZNICK, VICE PRES. & GEN'L MGR.
PRESENTS
TWO NOTEWORTHY PHOTODRAMAS
HOLBROOK BLINN
IN
"LIFE'S WHIRLPOOL"
BASED ON "McTEAGUE" By FRANK NORRIS
A WM. A. BRADY PRODUCTION
AND
A REMARKABLE SCREEN VERSION OF
"THE CITY"
THE ACKNOWLEDGED MASTERWORK OF
CLYDE FITCH
FEATURING THURLOW BERGEN
SUPPORTED BY A DISTINGUISHED CAST
A SHUBERT FEATURE
HOLBROOK BLINN
CLYDE FITCH
"THE CITY"
"IT'S A DAMN LIE"
"LIFE'S WHIRLPOOL"
THE SHADOW FALLS

EQUITABLE

Have You Followed the Popular Trend of Gauging the General Excellence of Equitable Pictures Following

Henry Kolker in "The Warning" which was released December 6th and which includes

The Illustrious Artiste
GAIL KANE in "THE LABYRINTH"
A story of life back stage and a career moulded by doubt.

The Magnetic Stage Idol
WILLIAM COURTENAY in "SEALED LIPS"
A heart gripping tale, produced by Ince with an all-star cast.

The Popular Stage and Screen Favorite
CHARLES J. ROSS in "THE SENATOR"
A romance of Capital life, with a series of vivid counter plots.

The widely known film favorite
MARGARITA FISCHER in "THE DRAGON"
One of the most unusual and entertaining tales ever screened.

The debut in filmland of Scotland's greatest actress
MOLLY McINTYRE in "HER GREAT HOUR"
S. E. V. Taylor's story of life as it is little known—with a powerful climax.

America's representative emotional actress
JULIA DEAN in "THE RANSOM"
A fascinating story of mother love, sacrifice and struggle.

and announced

Frank Sheridan in "The Struggle"	Emmett Corrigan in "The Chain Invisible"	Marguerite Leslie in "The Pain Flower"
Gail Kane in "Her God"	Muriel Ostriche in "Babette of the Ballyhoo"	Carlyle Blackwell in "The Clarion"

Here are the leading stars and noted players of the screen world and the stage blended and under the auspices of the most noted directors in filmdom creating visualizations of the most successful writers of the age.

DIRECTORS

John Ince S. E. V. Taylor Frank Powell E. Mason Hopper Harry Handworth Joseph A. Golden Edmund Laurence James Durkin Charles M. Seay

THE ABOVE DIVERSIFIED SUBJECTS AND AMBITIOUS ANNOUNCEMENT OF COMPLETED AND PENDING PICTURES PROVES THE EMINENT EFFORT THE

EQUITABLE PROGRAM

IS MAKING TO MAINTAIN OR IMPROVE, IF POSSIBLE, THE SPLENDID CONSISTENCY ESTABLISHED BY THE PAST SIX PRODUCTIONS.

EQUITABLE MOTION PICTURES CORPORATION
LEWIS J. SELZNICK, VICE PRES. AND ADVISORY DIRECTOR
RELEASING THROUGH
WORLD FILM CORPORATION

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION
MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION
Announces
"VENGEANCE IS MINE!"
A REMARKABLE DRAMA IN FIVE REELS. BASED ON THE THEME OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT featuring popular
CRANE WILBUR
Released Week of JAN. 31ST.
Produced by Horsley

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION
Announces

THE IDOL OF THE STAGE

THE STORY OF A MATINEE IDOL WHOSE LIFE IS FULL OF DRAMATIC INCIDENTS. A PLAY OF "BIG SCENES"—FIVE REELS

featuring the Belasco Star

MALCOLM WILLIAMS

RELEASED WEEK OF JAN. 31ST.
Produced by GAUMONT

YOU are wasting your opportunities if YOU ignore advertising.

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION
Announces

THE WHITE ROSETTE

A WELDING OF THE MEDIAEVAL AND MODERN SPIRIT INTO A POWERFUL AND BEAUTIFUL PLAY IN FIVE REELS featuring the great stars

E. FORREST TAYLOR
AND HELENE ROSSON

RELEASED WEEK of JAN. 31st.

produced by American

MUTUAL PICTURES

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION
Announces
A CLIPPER STAR FEATURE

THE SMUGGLERS OF SANTA CRUZ

AN ABSORBING DRAMA WITH ELABORATE SCENIC EFFECTS

featuring the AMERICAN FAVORITES

CHARLOTTE BURTON AND WILLIAM RUSSELL

RELEASED JAN. 28TH.

Produced by American

MUTUAL PICTURES

The Smugglers of Santa Cruz

American Film Company, Inc., presents

William Russell and Charlotte Burton

the screen's foremost dramatic stars, in this newest of "Clipper" productions

A three-act drama, vigorous, picturesque and spectacular. Wonderful natural grandeur. An exceptional story of the sea. Arrange now to book this big feature.

Directed by Donald McDonald

Released Jan. 28th

A New Mutual Masterpicture—De Luxe Edition

Lord Loveland Discovers America

It's a laugh from start to finish. A five-reel comedy-drama from the popular novel by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, presenting the popular Broadway star.

Arthur Maude

Directed by Mr. Maude

Released Jan. 27th

Distributed throughout the United States and Canada exclusively by Mutual Film Corporation

American Film Company, Inc.

Samuel S. Hutchinson, President

Chicago, Illinois

MUTUAL PICTURES

The Man In The Sombrero

Harold Lockwood

the screen's most popular idol, and his beautiful supporting star, May Allison, play the leading roles in this romantic Western picture. It's a two-part American "Flying A" drama.

Directed by Thomas Ricketts

Released Jan. 25th

A Sanitarium Scramble

Presenting vivacious Vivian Rich and Alfred Vosburgh in a single reel "Flying A" comedy-drama.

Directed by Reaves Eason Released Jan. 28th

Some Night

A burglar steals in where a hundred girls are sleeping. Woe is his! It's a "Beauty" comedy, with Carol Halloway and John Sheehan.

Directed by Jack Dillon Released Jan. 26th

Walk This Way

A side splitting "Beauty" comedy, presenting Neva Gerber and Walter Spencer.

Directed by Jack Dillon Released Jan. 30th

All "Flying A" and "Beauty" productions are distributed throughout the United States and Canada exclusively by Mutual Film Corporation.

American Film Company, Inc.

Samuel S. Hutchinson, President

Chicago, Illinois

MUTUAL SP

. . . . a short, sharp cry, and then she leaped. Down, down through interminable space the form of Helen hurtled. A splash! And then . . .

All Records SMASHED By This Railroad Film Novel!

THE world has learned to expect great things of daring Helen Holmes, yet in the "Girl and the Game" this fearless film star has eclipsed all previous achievements. Her great leap from a dizzy cliff is but one of the thrilling climaxes in chapter four of this marvelous production.

Greatest Newspaper Co-operation!

No film ever produced has been so enthusiastically received by the big newspapers of the nation. These great papers are publishing, week by week, the story of "The Girl and the Game:"

New York World	San Francisco Chronicle
Pittsburgh Press	St. Louis Globe-Democrat
Atlanta Constitution	Cleveland Leader
Omaha Bee	Louisville Herald
Buffalo Courier	Philadelphia North American
Indianapolis Star	Memphis Commercial Appeal
Chicago Evening Post	Milwaukee Sentinel
Detroit Journal	New Orleans Times-Picayune
Baltimore American	Los Angeles Tribune
Boston Globe	Dallas Journal
Cincinnati Times-Star	Seattle Post-Intelligencer
	Kansas City Journal

And One Thousand Others

SIGNAL FILM

SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON, President

Publicity Offices: 222 So. State Street

CIAL FEATURE

THRILLS!

"The Girl and the Game" is the production of guaranteed thrills! President Hutchinson, of the producing company, positively guarantees big, specific thrills in each chapter of this stupendous motion picture triumph. And he guarantees that the thrills presented will make your patrons gasp in sheer amazement.

Half a Million Dollars To Produce Fifteen Chapters!

This vast sum of money was expended to make "The Girl and the Game" the greatest box-office opportunity ever presented. It's a production of fifteen two-act chapters. One chapter released each week. Four now appearing.

The thousands of theatres now showing Helen Holmes in "The Girl and the Game" report stupendous crowds. And crowds bring profits! Get in on this big money-making proposition. Book this huge railroad film novel. Act at once. Now!

For booking information apply to "The Girl and the Game" dept. of any Mutual exchange, or at Mutual Home Office, New York City.

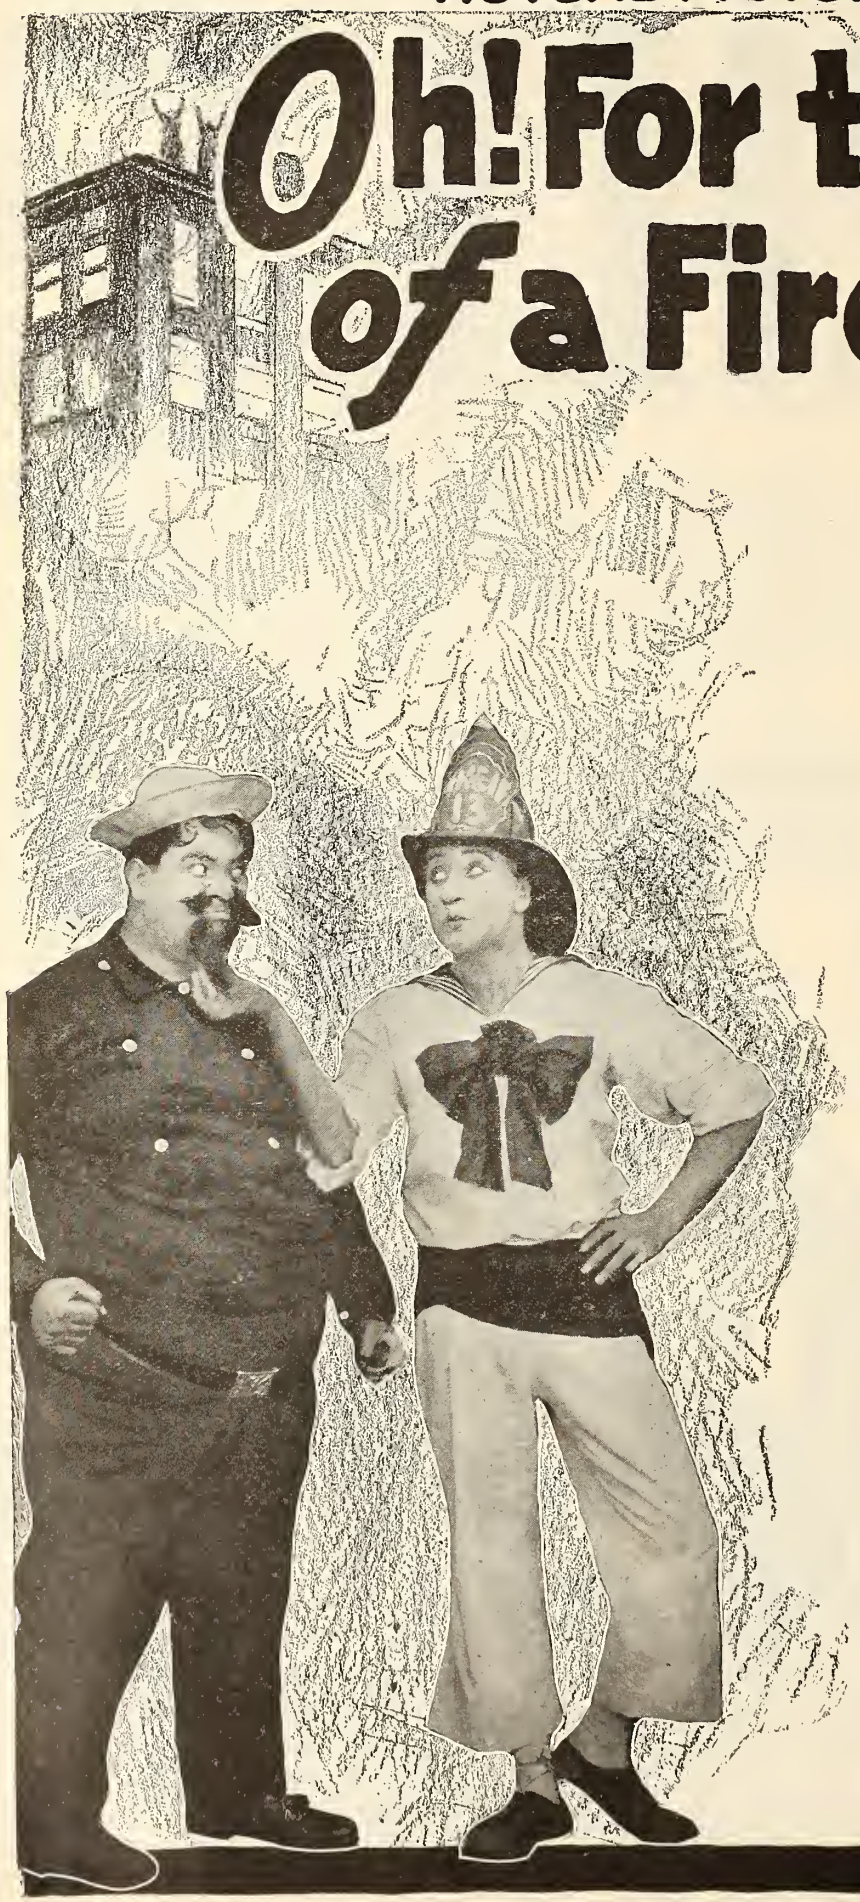
CORPORATION

CHICAGO, ILL.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME

MUTUAL PICTURES

Oh! For the Life of a Fireman!



Slapsticks With a Reason

VOGUE COMEDIES

HERE'S a rip-roaring laugh—a scream for your patrons! Another of those sure-fire Vogue comedies, presenting an absolutely new company of most eccentric comedians.

Released—January 10

Other Vogue Comedy Releases

An Innocent Crook

Sammy's Scandalous Scheme

Are you booking Vogue comedies? They're the cream of all funny films!

Distributed throughout the United States and Canada exclusiuely by Mutual Film Corporation

VOGUE FILMS, Inc.

Executives

JOSEPH H. FINN SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON

Publicity Offices: 222 So. State St., Chicago, Ill.

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

What Every Exhibitor Wants—

Pictures with stars who attract increased patronage.
Pictures of extraordinary merit to satisfy the most discriminating patron.

These qualifications are to be found in a stirring five-reel drama of the Northwest featuring William Clifford, Betty Hart, and the incomparable quadruped pantomimists —the Bostock Animals. Released January 22 as a Mutual Masterpicture, de luxe edition.

THE BAIT

"VENGEANCE IS MINE!"

a remarkable picturization of a tremendous theme—capital punishment. Produced in five reels and featuring the popular star of the screen, Crane Wilbur. Released January 31 as a Mutual Masterpicture, de luxe edition.

THE GIRL OF HIS DREAMS

one of the merriest of the deservedly popular Cub Comedies. Produced in one reel and featuring the funniest man in America, George Ovey. Released January 21 (regular Friday release).

As answering your wants book through your Mutual Exchange these

DAVID HORSLEY PRODUCTIONS

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE
DE LUXE EDITION
EDWIN THANHOUSER
PRESENTS

THE FIVE FAULTS OF FLO

ENVY
JEALOUSY
FICKLENESS
EXTRAVAGANCE PRIDE

FEATURING
THE SUPERB
FLORENCE LA BADIE

STORY BY
LLOYD LONERGAN
AUTHOR OF
"THE MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY"
AND
PHILIP LONERGAN

FIVE REELS
STAGED BY
GEO. FOSTER PLATT

RELEASED THURSDAY JAN. 20

THANHOUSER FILM CORP.
NEW ROCHELLE N.Y.

MUTUAL PROGRAM

EDWIN THANHOUSER PRESENTS

A THANHOUSER PHOTOPLAY

THE PHANTOM WITNESS

A 3-REEL DRAMA OF POWER & SWIFT, MYSTERIOUS ACTION:- WITH

KATHRYN ADAMS

SUPPORTED BY EDWIN STANLEY AND WILLIAM BURT

STAGED BY FREDERIC SULLIVAN

STORY BY PHILIP LONERGAN

RELEASED WED. JAN. 19TH

KATHRYN ADAMS IN "THE PHANTOM WITNESS"

FALSTAFF COMEDIES

GRACE'S GORGEOUS GOWNS 1 REEL

RELEASED TUESDAY JAN. 18TH.

PETE'S PERSIAN PRINCESS 1 REEL

RELEASED THURSDAY JAN. 20TH

BOTH THESE COMEDIES BY THE FAMOUS FALSTAFFERS

RILEY CHAMBERLAIN
LOUISE EMERALD BATES
CLAUDE COOPER
FRANCES KEYES

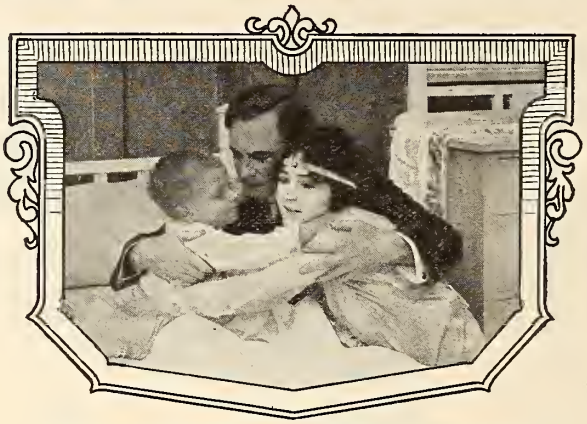
THANHOUSER FILM CORP.

NEW ROCHELLE N.Y.

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES

DE LUXE EDITION

"AS A WOMAN SOWS"
Released January 24



How a Wife Was Saved After She Had Encouraged the "Other Man."

GERTRUDE ROBINSON
ALEXANDER GADEN

"THE IDOL OF THE STAGE"
Released February 3

A Spectacular Romance of Stageland, Society and Convict Camp.

MALCOLM WILLIAMS
The Broadway Favorite

"THE DEAD ALIVE"
Big February Feature

Is She His Wife?
Miss Courtot Plays Two Parts.

MARGUERITE COURTOT
Beautiful as the Dawn

GAUMONT CO.

FLUSHING, N.Y. MADE IN AMERICA JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Two Letters that tell a story

ARTHUR STRINGER
CEDAR SPRINGS
ONTARIO

December the 2nd. 1915.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.
25 West 45th Street.
New York City.
(Attention Mr. M. Ramirez-Torres)

Gentlemen:-

I somewhat belatedly beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 15th, in which you advise me of your acceptance of my serial story, "The Iron Claw" for production in moving pictures. I deeply appreciate the comments thereon by both your Scenario Department and yourself, and there is a not unnatural gratification in knowing that "The Iron Claw" was the vanquisher, as you say, of forty seven rivals. Your decision to produce this Serial in the manner you describe endorses my original blind faith that it's going to make a big success as a moving picture Serial.

Very truly yours,

Arthur Stringer

SCENARIO DEPARTMENT
PATHÉ EXCHANGE, INC.
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
25 WEST 45TH STREET
NEW YORK

November 10th, 1915.

MEMO. FOR MR. RAMIREZ.

Have just enjoyed reading the serial story "THE IRON CLAW" submitted by Arthur Stringer. I am enthusiastic. Indisputably, this is the best worked out idea that has come before me in ages. It will make a rousing motion picture serial, and I strongly urge its purchase.

I will look forward to putting it into scenario form, the material offering a chance for real pleasure for the adapter.

Don't let this get by you! It'll be worth whatever you pay for it!

SCENARIO DIRECTOR.

Grace Brackett Smith

ES/C

The Iron Claw

The PATHÉ EXCHANGE inc.

EXECUTIVE OFFICES
25 WEST 45th ST. NEW YORK

A FEMININE

RUTH ROLAND'S

THE RED

Imagine a beautiful, talented girl who finds herself the battle ground of two warring natures, the one good, the other evil!

You'll agree that in such a story are photoplay opportunities galore!

The PATHÉ

EXECUTIVE

25 WEST 45th ST

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers.

JEKYLL AND HYDE
PART IN PATHÉ'S
CIRCLE

Produced by Balboa, from scenarios by Will M. Ritchey.

Complete in 14 episodes of 2 parts each.

Newspaper stories by Albert Payson Terhune.

NATION WIDE DIRECT-TO-THE-PUBLIC ADVERTISING THAT WILL BRING YOU BUSINESS.

EXCHANGE inc.

OFFICES

NEW YORK

EVERY MOTHER WHO EVER
EVERY SON WHO WILL WANT

MADA

The dramatic success of a

SIX PART GOLD

by Henry W. Savage, featuring

DOROTHY

This wonderful picture, which cost a huge fortune, is easily the most important feature ever put upon a program.

Produced by George F. Marion, who directed Mr. Savage's original theatrical production.

RELEASED

The PATHÉ

EXECUTIVE
25 WEST 45th ST

LOVED A SON—
EVER LOVED A MOTHER TO SEE

ME X

century now put into a
ROOSTER PLAY
he great star of the original cast
DONNELLY

The genius of Bisson, the author, coupled with the extraordinary emotional art of Miss Donnelly, have made a picture which throbs with pathos and glows with mother love.

JANUARY 14th

EXCHANGE inc.
OFFICES
NEW YORK

THE BLACK CROOK

Advertised By Two Generations —Your Profit Is Assured

A Spectacular Picturization That Will Surpass the Fame of the Memorable Stage Production

"The Black Crook" comes to you with live-wire publicity backing. The Twenty-Four Sheet Stand is a dazzling beauty. Then there are two styles of one sheet 4-color lithographs, two threes, and a six sheet. And you must not fail to get the Special Music, prepared by Walter C. Simon, and supplied to exhibitors at fifty cents. Attractive Heralds also

In Five Parts
Released by the General Film Company

KALEM COMPANY

235-239 West 23rd Street, New York City

Pa Says
"PREPAREDNESS is a Big WORD meaning Beat the other
FELLER TO IT"
—PREPARE TO LAFF! — CAUSE
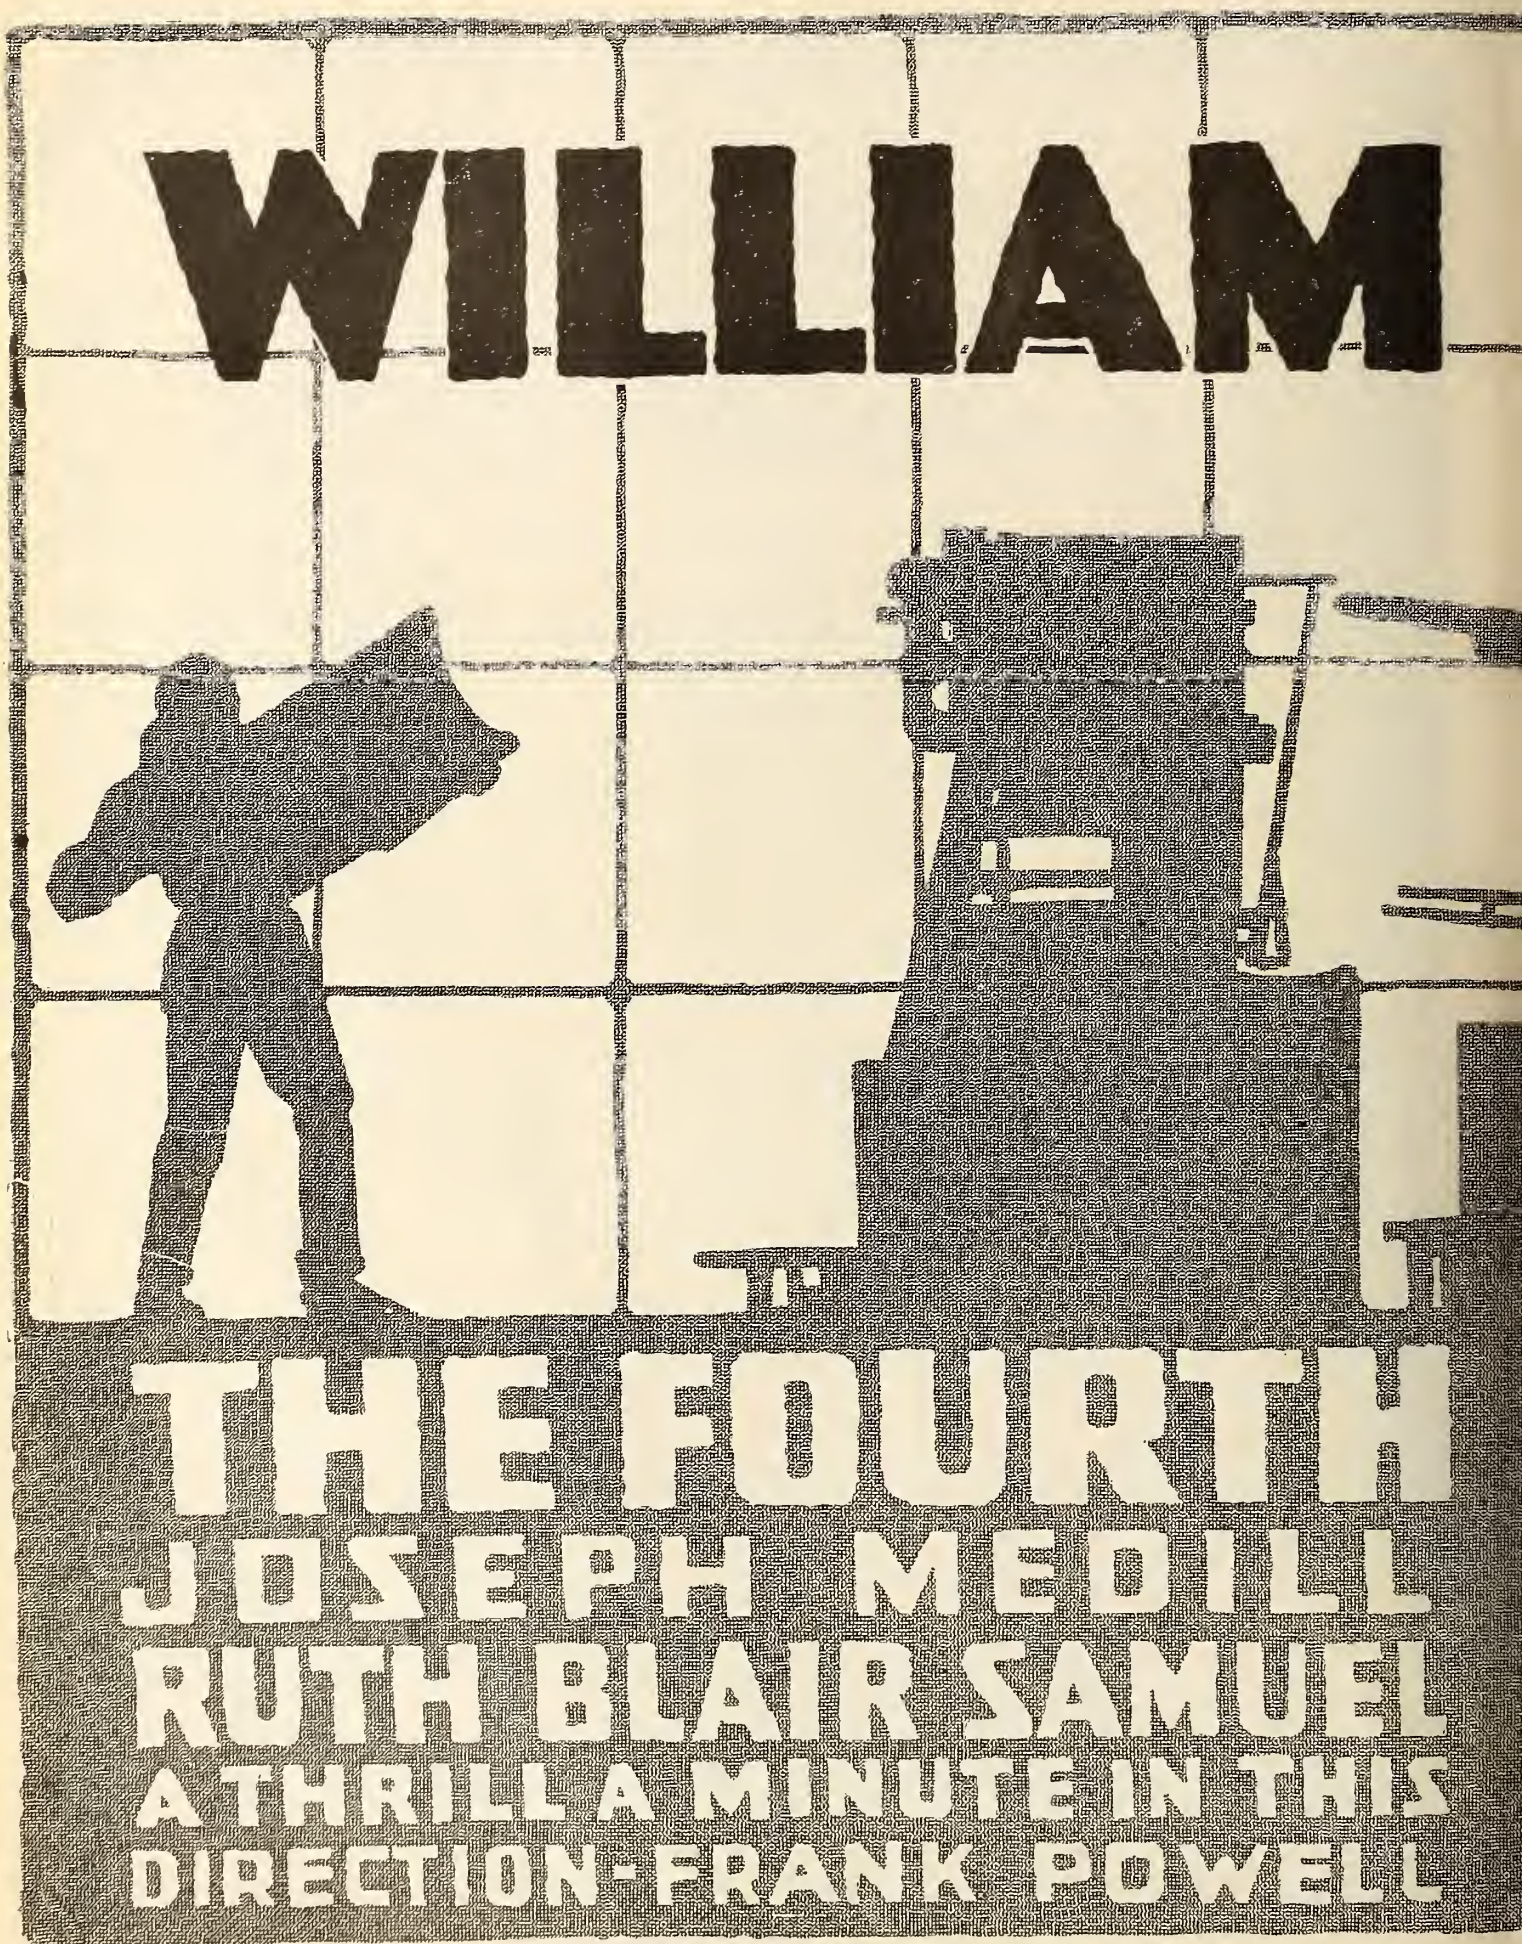
I'm in the movies NOW

TRADE KALEM MARK

SIS. HOPKINS
(MYSELF)



WILLIAM
F.B.I.
THE FOURTH
JOSEPH MEDILL
RUTH BLAIR SAMUEL
A THRILL A MINUTE IN THIS DIRECTION FRANK POWELL

FOX PRESENTS

THE GREATEST NEWSPAPER PLAY EVER WRITTEN

ESTATE BY PATTERSON WITH RYAN CLIFFORD BRUCE

RUSHING DRAMA OF PRINTERS INK

FOX FILM CORPORATION

Paramount Pictures

Short Subjects Variety for Your Program

The single reels released through Paramount Pictures Corporation mean pleased patrons and bigger business for you.

FOR JANUARY

PARAMOUNT-BRAY CARTOONS

The famous Bray animated drawings known and looked for all over the country. Mr. Bray and his associates have created distinctive characters loved by men, women and children.

January 6—Colonel Heeza Liar's Waterloo. Cartoon. Comedy by J. R. Bray.
January 13—Haddem Baad's Elopement. Cartoon. Comedy by L. M. Glackens.
January 20—Inbad the Sailor. A Silhouette Fantasie, by C. Allen Gilbert.
January 27—The Police Dog on the Wire. A Cartoon, by C. T. Anderson.

RARE ANIMAL PICTURES

Arranged and Photographed by Raymond L. Ditmars, Curator of the Great Zoo, Bronx Park, New York City. These unusual and decidedly interesting animal pictures complete each Bray release.

AUSTRALIA'S UNKNOWN

Four one reel Travel Pictures, showing Australia's unknown, will be released one each week for the four weeks beginning Monday, January 10.

These pictures rank high in quality, and are distinctly unusual, interesting scenics. Exhibitors contracting for the South American series of Paramount Travel Pictures will receive these entertaining pictures as a continuation of the series.

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES TRAVEL PICTURES

The finest Travel Pictures ever offered to the Motion Public public; personally photographed, assembled and edited by Burton Holmes.

Instalment No. 1 Released February 7.
"The Cliff Dwellers of America."

Instalment No. 2 Released February 14
"The Grand Canyon."

NEWSPICTURES

See what you read every week!

Paramount Pictures

Paramount Pict

FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH

NEW YORK.

Paramount Program

Paramount Pictures

are the productions of Famous Players Film Co., Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Co., Oliver Morosco Photoplay Co., and Pallas Pictures.

A Partner in Any Business Has a Voice in Its Conduct—

Through its criticism blanks the exhibitor has a voice in the

Paramount Program

It is best today—and bound to be best tomorrow because there is a real system behind it.

The system provides that you by your own voice decide who shall make the pictures, what stars shall play in them, what style of pictures they shall be.

Statistics are compiled from reports sent in by each theatre manager; each picture must come up to the proper standard.

This is one of the reasons why Paramount Pictures are the best and always will be. Have our nearest exchange tell you more about our system.

Paramount Program

res Corporation
ENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
ITY, N.Y.

Paramount Pictures

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

SUCCESS!

Trade Press Predict Box Office Winner for New Raver-Thomas Novelty—

JAMES J. CORBETT

and

PAUL GILMORE

IN

"THE OTHER GIRL"

By AUGUSTUS THOMAS

NEWS: "Corbett magnetic. . . . Will be hailed with joy in many a town and city. . . . Striking exterior scenes. . . . Remarkable night view of white lights." (Thew.)

TELEGRAPH: "Cast excellent. . . . Novelties introduced. . . . Corbett reaching top notch as an actor. . . . Displays skill."

MOTOGRAPHY: Bright humor, interesting characters and acting that is natural should make it a popular attraction.

MIRROR: Story well worked out, clear and comprehensive. Gilmore gave finished and polished performance throughout. Night scene particularly beautiful. (E.)

WORLD: Strong, athletic touch to the Other Girl. Good cast, good drawing power. Broadway at night out of the usual. Other Girl a good initial release.

BILLBOARD: Most desirable feature. One for which there will be a demand.

A MONEY GETTING PICTURE

THE NOVELTY OF THE NEW YEAR

TERRITORY SELLING TO LIVE WIRES

FIVE PARTS

GREAT LINE OF FLASHY PRINTING

Name Your States—Telegrams Answered

ADDRESS QUICK

RAVER FILM CORPORATION

110 W. 40th STREET, NEW YORK CITY

BEATRIZ MICHELENA

HER GREATEST PRODUCTION

"THE UNWRITTEN LAW"

by

EDWIN MILTON ROYLE

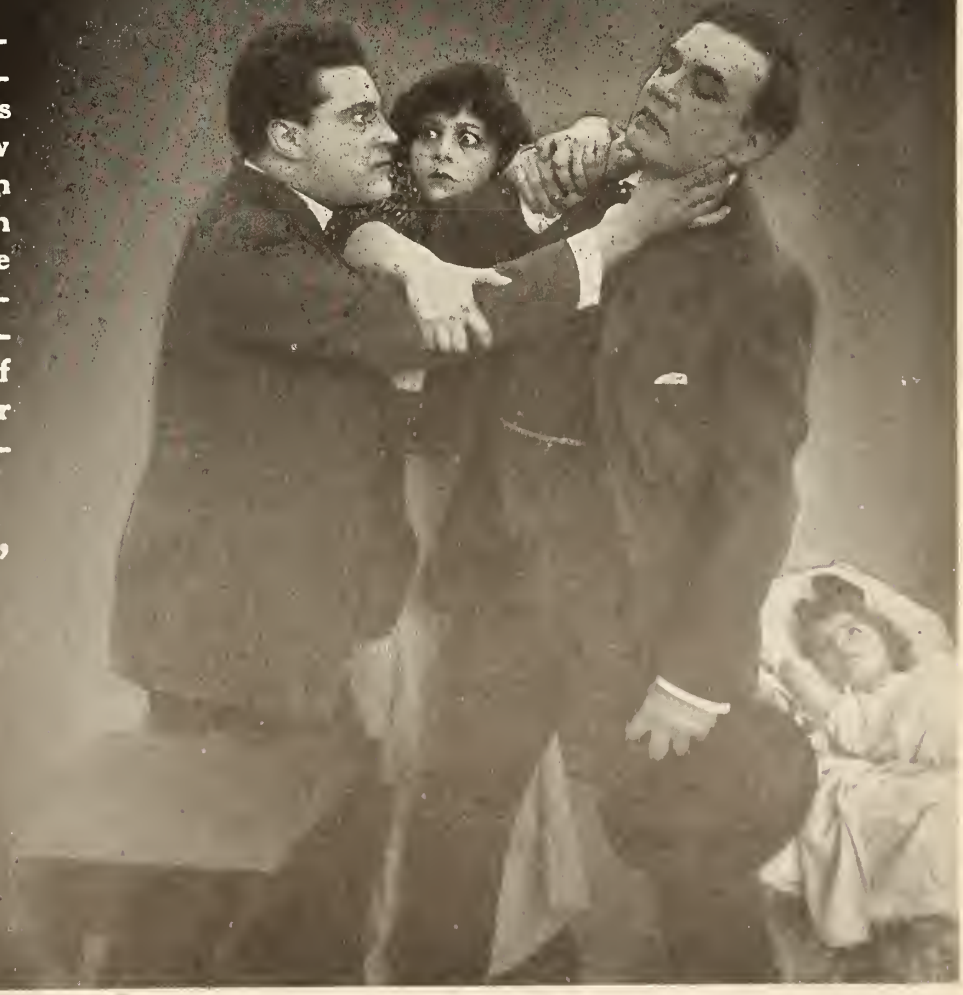
Author of "THE SQUAW MAN"

Prepared in Scenario by

CAPT. LESLIE PEACOCKE

California Motion Picture Corporation announces this feature as the second of a new series of wonder-film dramatizations, with Miss Michelena in the stellar roles and produced under the personal supervision of Alex. E. Beyfuss, after the standard par excellant of

"Salvation Nell"



Scene from "The Unwritten Law" with Beatriz Michelena as Kate Wilson

IVAN Wins

Exhibitors booking Ivan Productions are playing to Standing Room Only. Join this constantly increasing army who are playing capacity with IVAN releases. Get in touch with your nearest Ivan Exchange and book all Ivan Releases for 1916.

Ivan Exchanges

NEW ENGLAND * D. W. Lynch Enterprises, Boston and Worcester, Mass.

NEW YORK & NORTHERN NEW JERSEY * Merit Film Corp., New York City.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA, WEST VIRGINIA * Liberty Film Renting Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

OHIO * Standard Film Service Co., Cleveland and Cincinnati, Ohio.

MICHIGAN * Standard Film Service Co., Detroit.

INDIANA & KENTUCKY * General Feature Film Co., Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

ILLINOIS & SOUTHERN WISCONSIN * General Feature Film Co., Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

MINNESOTA, NORTH & SOUTH DAKOTA NORTHERN WISCONSIN * Zenith Feature Film Co., Lyceum Bldg., Duluth, Minn.

IOWA, NEBRASKA, MISSOURI, KANSAS * Monarch Feature Film Co., Kansas City, Mo.

TEXAS & OKLAHOMA * L. Santikos, Waco, Texas

FOREIGN RIGHTS * Winik-Brock, New York & London.

"FORBIDDEN FRUIT"

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS, INC.

126 West 46th Street
New York, N. Y.

There are still a few territories open for "live-wire" exchange men on options for all coming IVAN productions for 1916.

THE ANIMAL MAN WHO HATED ISSUE

RACE SUICIDE

SIX PARTS
THE SOCIAL PROBLEM OF THE UNIVERSE
WITH

ORMI·HAWLEY
EARL·METCALFE
OCTAVIA·HANDWORTH
KEMPTON·GREENE
AND STUPENDOUS CAST

WITH LOVE FOR ALL AND FEAR OF NAUGHT

THE THOUGHT OF CONSEQUENCE

MID DEBAUCH AND ORGY, MOTHERHOOD IS FORGOTTEN

NO CHILDREN CAN EVER GRACE YOUR HOME

·SOLD ON STATE RIGHTS BASIS·

JOS. W. FARNHAM
220 WEST 42ND ST. ROOM 607 NEW YORK

A Move in the Right Direction

YOU can take desks, chairs, tables, etc., and place them where you will, but an organization moves forward only by the power of its service to others.

Twelve thousand five hundred square feet are now required to house the interests of the home office of this organization.

This is approximately 5,000 more square feet than the area of the organization's former offices.

The move to larger space, made only nine months after the formation of this company, will be significant to the thoughtful observer.

It indicates, more forcibly than words, that the V. L. S. E. has been consistently moving in the right direction—IN THE INTERESTS OF ITS EXHIBITORS—and it points the way for the far-seeing exhibitor, who has not yet become allied with this business-building institution, to move in the same direction himself.

Such an exhibitor could not do better than to start with the releases for the next fortnight, including as they do:

"GREEN STOCKINGS," the popular Broadway stage success, with LILLIAN WALKER.—A five part VITAGRAPH BLUE RIBBON Feature.

"NO GREATER LOVE," a study of a woman's heart, with Sarah Bernhardt's successor—REGINA BADET.—A five part SELIG RED SEAL Play.

"CAPTAIN JINKS," the never-ending success of the late Clyde Fitch, with the captivating stage star, ANN MURDOCK.—A five part ESSANAY feature.

"GODS OF FATE," a red-blooded drama of modern industrial life, with RICHARD BUHLER and ROSETTA BRICE.—A five part LUBIN SOVEREIGN Play.

V. L. S. E. Inc.

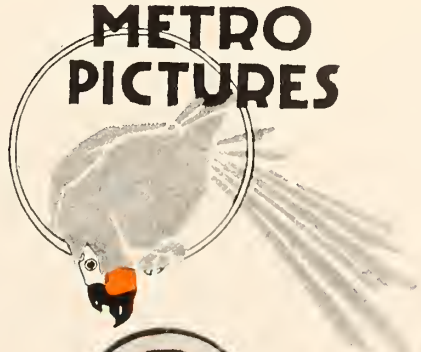
COMING METRO EVENTS

In announcing a return booking of the Metro Wonderplay, "The Soul of a Woman," Mr. John J. Murray, of the Warren Opera House, Warren, Ohio, says:

"Any exhibitor who doesn't use Metro is asleep at the switch."

We are inclined to agree with Murray's frank and unsolicited opinion.

METRO PICTURES



Released on the METRO Program January 24th

METRO PICTURES

Metro Pictures Corporation
presents

VALLI - VALLI
in
HER DEBT of HONOR

A Metro wonderplay in Five supreme acts directed by William Nigh and produced by Columbia Pictures Corporation

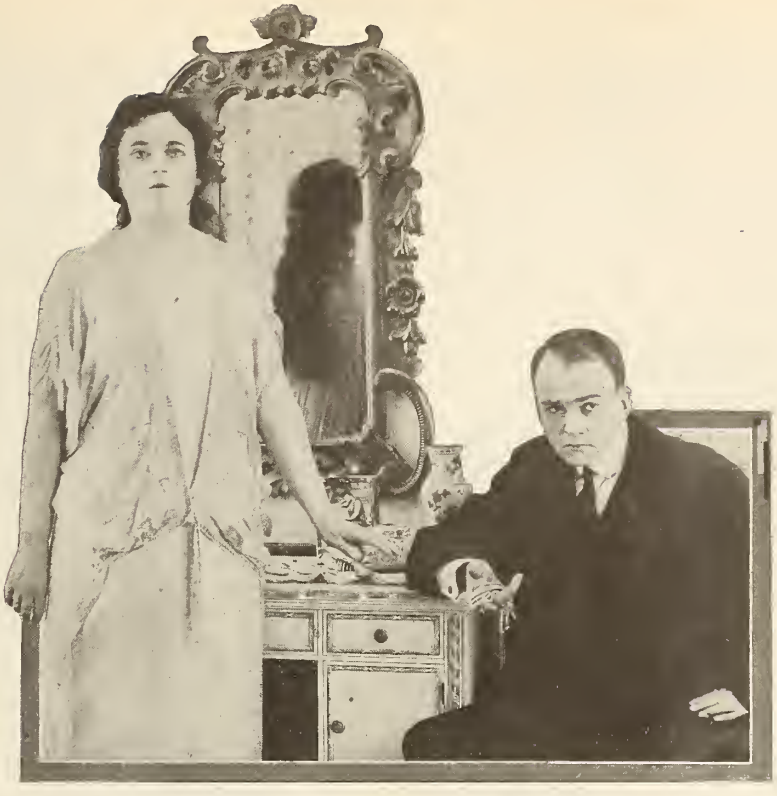
Mr. and Mrs. Sidney DREW will invite you to laughter with a series of surpassing comedies which are not over the heads of children nor under the intelligence of intellectual giants. Their fun will be exclusively presented on the METRO PROGRAM in one reel feature comedies each week, beginning in February. The Drews are welcomed into the big METRO family, because, as the most distinguished fun makers in America, they belong there.

METRO PICTURES



"You Stole Them!"

gasps Cleo—"Your Own Mother's Jewels—For Me!" Even the not-easily-shocked Cleo was horrified at the moral depravity of the man who asked her love—!

RUIN, DEATH AND SHATTERED REPUTATIONS PROVE FRUITS OF THE FAR-BLOWN SEEDS OF HIS BOUNTIFUL HARVEST OF

"WILD OATS"

GEORGE KLEINE'S

enchanting drama of youth and youthful folly
Featuring

MALCOLM DUNCAN

and

ALMA HANLON

will catch your fancy in the first ten feet of film—after that it's smash upon smash, a perfect whirlwind of sensation through five amazing reels of drama in which the central theme is wine, women and cards—

IT'S A KLEINE—on that only program of consistent quality!

RELEASED JANUARY 19th THROUGH KLEINE-EDISON FEATURES

GEORGE KLEINE

805 East 175th St., N. Y. City

NEW YORK
226 W. 42nd St.
CHICAGO
166 N. State St.
ATLANTA
71 Walton St.
BOSTON
14 Piedmont St.

DENVER
405 Railroad Bldg.
PHILADELPHIA
1309 Vine St.
MINNEAPOLIS
708 First Ave., N.

PITTSBURGH
123 Fourth Ave.
KANSAS CITY
209-12 Ozark Bldg.
SEATTLE
204-5-6 Orpheum Theatre Bldg.

SAN FRANCISCO
234 Eddy St.
CINCINNATI
138 W. 7th Street
DALLAS
1812½ Commerce St.

LOS ANGELES
514 W. 8th St.
MONTREAL
204 St. Catherine St., W.
TORONTO
96 Bay St.
NEW ORLEANS
103 Nola Building

A magazine's success is measured by its advertising. Look over the "News."

A TALE OF AN UNCONQUERABLE LOVE

The Strange Case of
MARY PAGE
With HENRY WALTHALL
and EDNA MAYO

FIFTEEN POWERFUL EPISODES

It's Released on January 24
Book It Through the General Film Company

Essanay

1333 Argyle Street, Chicago
George K. Spoor, President

Are You Looking for the Best Photoplays?

Naturally.

Then you will want Essanay.

Ask the exhibitor who uses that brand.

He will tell you that you can book them without looking at them.

But better still; examine Essanay plays.

You will find they have an individuality, a distinctive quality that sets them in a class by themselves.

They are realistic, artistic, fascinating.

Essanay produces only pictures of the highest merit, so it wants you to see them and judge.

To look at them is to book them.

★★★★★★

Watch for the latest

ESSANAY-CHAPLIN

"Charlie Chaplin's Burlesque on Carmen"

★★★

"CANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL No. 4"

By Wallace A. Carlson

Breezy animated cartoons of the news events of the day—January 19

G. M. ANDERSON

is thrilling millions with his great heart-throbbing dramas

WATCH FOR THE LATEST

"The Book Agent's Romance"

2 act drama — January 18

★★★

"THE WHITE ALLEY"

By Carolyn Wells

featuring

Elizabeth Burbridge and Harry Beaumont

3 act drama — January 22

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

Essanay

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

George K. Spoor, President

YOU are wasting your opportunities if YOU ignore advertising.

"The Misleading Lady"

Presenting

HENRY B. WALTHALL

and EDNA MAYO

in Five Acts

Adapted by H. S. Sheldon from the great stage success of Charles W. Goddard and Paul Dickey. Directed by A. Berthelet.

HENRY B. WALTHALL

EDNA MAYO

"The Raven"
"Graustark"
"The Man Trail"
"A Bunch Of Keys"
"The Alster Case"
"The White Sister"
"The Crimson Wing"
"The Slim Princess"
"A Daughter Of The City"
"The Blindness Of Virtue"
"In The Palace Of The King"

Book Essanay's Great Multiple Reel Features

Trademark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. 1907

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

"CAPTAIN JINKS OF THE HORSE MARINES" IN 5 ACTS

ANN MURDOCK

RICHARD C. TRAVERS

ANN MURDOCK AND RICHARD C. TRAVERS

are presented in Clyde Fitch's fantastic comedy, which made such a wonderful stage success. The photoplay is filled with genuine, sparkling humor and comic situations. Arranged and directed by Fred E. Wright.

TRADEMARK Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

Many a packed house is directly traceable to an advertisement in the "News."

Trademark Reg
U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY

"FIRST TO STANDARDIZE PHOTOPLAYS"

1333 ARGYLE STREET, CHICAGO

GEORGE K. SPOOR, President

JAN 12 1916 ✓

"When You See it in 'The News' It's NEWS"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
427 SO. FIGUEROA STREET

NEW YORK CITY
TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY WEST FORTY-SECOND STREET

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
110 SO. DEARBORN STREET

Volume XIII | JANUARY 22, 1916 | No. 3

Skyrockets

FROM "somewhere in Pennsy" an exhibitor writes us a letter which hits a nail on the head with a resounding whack.

It is so bluntly expressive of the truth that we give it herewith without editing:

"My Dear Mr. Johnston:

"I have just finished reading the last issues of the various trade papers and 'house organs' devoted to the motion picture business and am suffering from a headache resulting from trying to total the immense amount of money the new stars are about to receive for their screen debut.

"Why every manufacturer should pick out just one particular week to herald this big bunch of hot air is beyond understanding. Salaries from sixty thousand a month to one hundred sixty thousand per year calls forth the old admonition, tie the bull outside.

* * *

"SOME of the dope may be right, but the press agent is working overtime taxing the credulity of the manager until finally he believes nothing. Some one ought to call a halt and hold this stuff up to ridicule. Unless headed off it will be worse than the accident and insurance policy gags that wore themselves out.

"I do not believe that there is a manager in the business that cares two whoops in h—— what the salaries are—it's only the picture that counts. Will it get by? that's what he asks himself.

"One of your forceful editorials on this would make reading that every manager would thoroughly enjoy.

"Yours truly,
"Old Timer."

* * *

WE agree heartily with the writer that every exhibitor in the land—at least every thinking exhibitor—has come to the same conclusion about studio salaries. So, too, has the newspaper, and so has the thinking public.

The funny part of it is that some of the stupendous salaries reported—so stupendous that one can only regard them as ludicrous exaggerations—are in reality true. Yes, really true.

* * *

THE exhibitor laughs or rails at them; the newspaper editor makes unkind remarks about them; anyone who knows the picture's limit of earnings gets sick over the contemplation of them. But they're true—some are.

Others are only partly true. The producer has made a clever bargain—clever in respect to the present ruinous situation—by which the tremendous salaries reported are merely possible earnings.

Some, again, are plain exaggerations, equally wild and unbiased.

BUT the point is this: True or not, let's keep quiet about them. Facts or exaggerations, let's smother them. Let's do this for the sake of the industry and its reputation with the outside world.

Something, of course, will have to be done to regulate these salaries—and quickly.

As things stand at present an ordinary youth with a pleasant countenance, a full set of teeth, two legs—in short, the physique which most parents give us and an extra change of clothes—can suddenly acquire through tremendous newspaper and screen advertising and through disastrous competition between producers, a salary greater than that of the President of the United States.

* * *

A STAGE star who by dint of years of effort and plain grubbing has eventually reached a sensible and stable salary limit on the stage of five hundred dollars a week is offered nearly half a millon dollars for three years' studio work

The situation is bad. For one thing, the picture cannot possibly repay these unreasonable charges. For another, every studio in the country is in a state—or ought to be—of hectic excitement, unrest and impaired activity.

* * *

WE are not over-alarmed. The same power which can make an unknown youth famous over night has also the power to correct its wild periods of evolution. We refer, of course, to the power of the motion picture. Also, we have faith in the sagacity of the producers to get together and regulate the matter of contracts and salaries before it becomes necessary for them to turn their business over to their stars.

Our concern—and our business—is with the publicity given to these sky-rocket salaries.

The effect of this upon the exhibitor is purely negative.

* * *

IN the first place, he doesn't believe them—even when the salaries are truly reported. But the point is, they are of no concern to him.

He is even predjudiced against the picture heralded as that of a high-priced star, because so many of these have been down-right fizzles. There was nothing to them but the report of a sky-rocket salary.

The vehicle was so poor, or so poorly adapted, or the direction was so inadequate that the star simply slouched through the picture—to get the money. And the result was—a box office failure.

* * *

THE exhibitor does not want to know—he doesn't "care two whoops"—about the salaries.

He wants pictures made from stories so good and true.

(Continued on page 344.)

Copyright, 1916, by Exhibitors' Times, Inc.

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
MOTION PICTURE NEWS EXHIBITORS' TIMES
Published on Tuesday Every Week by

EXHIBITORS' TIMES, Inc.

WILLIAM A. JOHNSTON.....President and Editor
HENRY F. SEWALL.....Vice-President
E. KENDALL GILLETT.....Secretary
H. ASHTON WYCKOFF.....Treasurer and Business Manager
WENTWORTH TUCKER.....Asst. Treasurer
R. M. VANDIVERT.....Advertising Manager
THEODORE S. MEAD.....Chicago Manager
J. C. JESSEN.....Los Angeles Manager
LESLEY MASON.....Managing Editor
WILLIAM RESSMAN ANDREWS.....News Editor

This publication is owned and published by Exhibitors' Times, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York. The offices and principal place of business are at 220 West 42d Street, New York City. The address of the officers is the office of the publication.

Entered as Second-Class matter at the New York Post-Office.

Subscription $2 per year, postpaid in the United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands. Canada, $3; Foreign, $4 per year. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for MOTION PICTURE NEWS at less than these rates. Have the agent taking your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

Vol. XIII January 22, 1916 No. 3

Skyrockets

(Continued from page 343.)

and pictures directed so ably that the star and everybody else in them will act to the limit of their ability, as well as and better than they have ever acted on the spoken stage.

There are such pictures—not enough as yet; but there will be more. They are the pictures "that get by." They are the pictures that send the audience home pleased; they make the reputation of the house that runs them.

* * *

AND sky-rocket salaries and sky-rocket reports of salaries have nothing to do—save harmfully—with their booking or their box office successes.

WILLIAM A. JOHNSTON.

The Danger Within the Industry

THERE is a species of exhibitor who labors under the delusion that the more daring and sensational he can make his advertising on any picture he books, the bigger crowds he will draw and the more popular he will make his house.

Every producer knows this sort of exhibitor.

Every distributor has some of them on his books.

Every exchangeman has some gray hairs in his head for every one of these men he counts among his customers.

* * *

GIVE this exhibitor "The Scarlet Letter," and he would advertise it as "a vivid picture of the way your Puritan forefathers treated adulteresses."

Book him "Hamlet" and he would dilate upon the relation of Hamlet's mother with her husband's brother.

If he could find any way to advertise "The Life of Christ" in a lurid fashion, you could count upon him to do it.

IT goes without saying that such an exhibitor is not only a nuisance, but a positive source of danger to the industry as a whole.

Either he has an incurable, uncontrollable streak of rottenness in his nature, or he is utterly mistaken as to the character and purpose of the motion picture.

In either case he is totally unfit to be an exhibitor, so long as he persists in misrepresenting the pictures he books to the public he draws, through deliberately salacious advertising.

* * *

A NUMBER of cases of this sort have been brought to the attention of MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

We cannot too thoroughly or too vehemently condemn this practice.

That any exhibitor would go out of his way to soil the reputation of the motion picture, to disgust decent people with it, to convince his fellow-townsmen that his theater was a diffuser of lewdness and obscenity, is almost incredible.

But the penalty is swift and severe. No exhibitor can do that long before he reaps his just reward—mothers and children shun his house, patronage falls off, the theatre gains an unsavory reputation, and the police begin to regard it as a place that will bear watching.

* * *

AS for the producer, in self-defence he should refuse to book his pictures with any exhibitor who advertises them in this manner. He cannot afford to permit misrepresentation of his films.

In some cases, such advertising amounts to a selling of the picture to the public under false pretenses. We are inclined to believe that a court of law would take this view of the situation.

At all events, it would be wise for distributors and exchanges to seriously consider inserting a clause in their contracts, forbidding the advertising of a picture in this manner, and making such advertising a breach of the contract, automatically rendering it void.

The Abuse of the "Cut Back"

A FAVORITE method of padding five reel pictures is to repeat scenes, or to alternate between one supposedly dramatic situation and another, until the poor actors and the poor spectators are completely exhausted.

The director who indulges in this sort of thing—probably out of necessity, as he thinks, in order to stretch the picture according to the manufacturer's instructions—may imagine that he is making his picture dramatic. So he is, if he uses the cut back with sense and discrimination.

But when he "cuts back," without dramatic justification, he is abusing a division of screen technique which, when it is employed properly, is tremendously effective. The "cut back" should not be abused any more than the "close up" should. There should be no occasion for its abuse; and there would be none if the manufacturer would stop padding his pictures.

* * *

THIS is only one of a train of evils inevitably born of padding. Length is no criterion of a picture's merit, as everybody ought to know by this time. A one-reeler may be, and often is, very much more acceptable in every way than a five-reeler. It requires great inventive ability to sustain interest through 5,000 feet or more, and few directors, few authors, few players can do it.

And it is not wholly a question of art; it is also a question vital to the exhibitor. He loses money, when his audiences lose interest. The revolt against padding has begun.

Protection Under the Law or Lawlessness in the Name of the Law: Which Will You Have?

An Open Appeal to the Producers, Exchangemen and Exhibitors of the Country—Censorship Is Fundamentally Lawlessness Disguised as Law Because It Deprives Those Who Must Obey It of a Just and Fair Hearing and Consideration of Their Case—The Unrestrained Whim and Caprice of a Body of Untrained Private Citizens Supersedes the Justice of the Courts

AS a business, our opposition to censorship has had two weaknesses.

We have either denounced censorship as un-American and an abridgement of free speech, or we have criticised the various workings of such laws and their various injustices in application.

* * *

UNFORTUNATELY for the first objection, it has no longer any standing in the courts, now that three Federal tribunals have decided that censorship of pictures is not an infringement of the free speech clause.

And to the second, the politician's answer always is: "These things happen in the establishment of a new law. They're only temporary. They will right themselves in time."

* * *

WE have never seen censorship as the political lawyer sees it. We have never offered the political lawyer who swarms in both houses of Congress, a lawyer's reason for opposing censorship.

The Congressman does not look at censorship as you look at it. He does not look at it as the red-eyed reformer looks at it.

To the Congressman, censorship is merely a form of regulation. It differs only in method from the schemes of regulation which he has assisted in fitting to half a dozen businesses during the last few years.

* * *

WITH such a man there are two courses open to you.

You can attempt to convince him that all regulation of your business is wrong.

Or you can admit regulation of business as a principle of government, but oppose the infliction of this particular kind of regulation upon you.

* * *

NOW it is safe to assume that Congress is not "sold" on the question of censorship. They are not committed to censorship, implicitly or explicity, individually or by party.

But it is equally safe to assume that Congress is emphatically disposed to regulate business as a general practice. The record of the last three or four Congresses demonstrate that beyond a doubt.

* * *

TO attempt to convince Congress that any and all regulation of your business is wrong, therefore, is like trying to catch the wind in a butterfly net.

The real hope of the delegation of motion picture leaders which goes to Washington this month is to meet the Congressional committee half-way on the general question of regulation, purge their minds of all censorship germs, and then induce them to accept a substitute proposition of regulation which is all your own.

* * *

THAT substitute is to be found in a simple five-word amendment to Section 245 of the Federal Penal Code. Such an amendment gives Congress and the reform element their "pound of flesh" by explicitly rendering the motion picture business subject to the full penalties of that law.

But, best and most important of all, it guarantees to you freedom from the unlimited, arbitrary tyranny of an irresponsible commission of private citizens, from their snap judgments, their small-town prejudices, their hidebound intolerance, cloaked with all the majesty of the law.

It guarantees you the full rights and privileges of a court trial, the services of competent judges, and every process of law necessary to ensure you a full and fair hearing.

* * *

AND your claim to such protection and privilege is unanswerable.

If your business is to be regulated by the Federal government, why should you not at least have the privilege of seeing it regulated in the same manner as other businesses have been?

There is only one reason—because the existing mode of regulation has been found a failure. But it has not. Every fact obtainable emphasizes the efficiency and adequacy of such a law.

* * *

YOU are not pleading guilty to the manufacture of immoral pictures when you consent to submit to such regulation. You admit nothing.

You are merely claiming the protection of a just, fair and tried law, against the menace of an unjust, an unfair, an untried one.

And you could not be in better company than under the operation of Section 245; it applies as specifically to every branch of the publishing business as it would to you. It embraces the fine arts.

* * *

SUCH a law does not assume that all the pictures you make are obscene and filthy, until you prove them clean, as a censorship law does.

It regards you as a reputable and responsible manufacturer. It declines to interfere with you until evidence competent to justify the charge that you have violated the law is presented.

And even then, your accuser cannot become your judge and compel you to bow to his personal opinion. His case and yours must be tested by the machinery of the courts.

And this law protects you as much as the public against the man who is your common foe—the irresponsible producer. It is he alone who is restrained and hampered by that law, and the government thereby protects you better than you can protect yourself.

* * *

YOU may fear that such a law will produce a horde of Anthony Comstocks. Censorship laws have produced them in hundreds, and let them loose upon you, with a free hand to ravage your business as they see fit, under the protection of a law which offers you no protection whatsoever.

But the instant a Comstock appears under Section 245, you can go into an established court of law to meet him fearlessly, knowing that you will be given every opportunity to submit all the evidence in your favor, that he must establish his by inviolable rules of evidence, and that the decision is not in the hands of a hotheaded commission of Comstocks, like himself, but rests with an impartial, trained judge, with whom the merits of your case are safe.

IT is now not a question of right or wrong. It is a question of circumstances, of expediency, of making the best terms you can with the enemy.

You still have the opportunity to choose between one form of regulation and another form of regulation.

But to say that you shall not be regulated at all is not in your power. That is for Congress alone to determine.

And upon that point Congress has already made up its mind.

We had better make haste to choose wisely and in our own interest while yet there is time, or the opportunity will be altogether denied us.

Ince Community Dedicated with Reception and Ball

Producing Plant at Culver City, California, from Now on the Principal Source of Triangle-Kay-Bee Releases, Scene of Gay Festivity on New Year's Eve

Special to Motion Picture News

Los Angeles, Jan. 3.

THOMAS H. INCE'S new producing plant at Culver City, which in future will serve as the principal source of Triangle Kay-Bee productions, was formally dedicated, last week, with a grand reception and ball which resulted in what is declared to have been one of the most notable gatherings of celebrities in the history of the motion picture industry.

From nine o'clock in the evening until long after the new year had been ushered in, Joviality reigned. Some five hundred well known figures of the west coast photoplay colony attended as guests of Producer Ince and all joined in extending the hand of congratulation to him on the completion of his new plant.

The festivities were held beneath the glass roof of the electric lighted studio—a structure measuring 90 by 165 feet—though the entire plant was thrown open for inspection, under the glare of a myriad lights.

They began with a grand march, which was led by Producer and Mrs. Ince, and continued with a spectacular pantomime illustrating the death of the old and birth of the new year.

The year 1915 was impersonated by Walt Whitman, veteran character actor of the Ince forces, while Anno Domini, 1916, was delightfully portrayed by little Thelma Salter, the child actress.

When the new year had officially been welcomed, the dancing was resumed, and it was nearer daybreak than midnight when the desertion of the big studio commenced.

Invitations to the function were not confined to the motion picture ranks. Representatives of civic, industrial, judiciary and club circles were present and all mingled with the luminaries of the screen world.

Among those in attendance were Mayor of Los Angeles, Charles E. Sebastian, Chief of Police Claire Snively, District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine, justices of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, members of the Board of Supervisors and City Council, and virtually every producer, director and star of the Southern California photoplay colony.

The huge glass studio, banked with palms and flowers, presented the appearance of a mammoth conservatory and the countless electric lights sparkling within could be seen for miles around.

The only building remaining to be built is the administration building, in which the executive offices and scenario bureau will be located. Four of the proposed eight stages are already in use and the finishing touches are being applied to the others. The wardrobe building, too, is still unfinished.

It is being built of brick and re-inforced concrete and will be of four stories.

Producer Ince, while the ball was at its height, stepped upon the rostrum and addressed a few remarks of welcome to his guests.

"I am happy to welcome you here, tonight," he said, "and to wish that your joy may be unconfined. It is indeed a happy occasion for me.

"I invited you here because I want you to share with me and mine the delight that is bound to attend an event of this kind—the dedication of our new plant.

"It is my sincerest wish that what we do within these walls in years to come will be for the further advancement of the motion picture art. A Happy New Year to you all!"

The entire affair was admirably managed by E. H. Allen, business manager of the Ince-Triangle studios.

GENERAL PLANS SHOWING FOR 150 EXHIBITORS IN NEW ORLEANS

Special to Motion Picture News

New Orleans, Jan. 8.

S. T. Stephens, the new manager of the Mutual's offices in New Orleans, announces the apopintment of Al. Durning as general representative, which term includes the handling of Mutual Masterpictures in this territory.

Mr. Durning has resigned as manager of the Greater New York Film Rental Company to accept this position, and Herbert Bozman has been named to fill his former job.

The General Film Company has addressed a letter to all prominent exhibitors in this territory advising that private exhibitors' exhibitions of the General's new unit program will be held every Sunday between the hours of ten and one, commencing January 2.

Under the direction of H. G. Morrow, the new manager, General has built an attractive exhibition room for this specific purpose.

Wild Rumors Aimed at Prominent Film Concerns

Vitagraph, General Film, Lubin, Selig, Essanay, Paramount, National Theatre Owners' Association and a Few Others Targets for Busybodies Who Don't Seem to Shoot Straight

THE year 1916 has started off with a bumper crop of rumors affecting some of the largest and oldest concerns in the motion picture business. Of course, the usual number of "sure-fire" stories have been circulated, in which every company in the business succeeded in stealing every important star from every other company.

But this particular batch doesn't deal with such small fry as actors and actresses; it goes to the very business and financial organization of the companies named, and takes them apart and puts them together again according to its own fancy.

One of the most astonishing of these stories is that the Vitagraph Company of America, capitalized for $6,000 when it was formed, is to be sold and reorganized on a $3,000,000 basis. William Randolph Hearst is named as a prominent figure in the deal.

Commodore J. Stuart Blackton denied the rumor in the most emphatic terms when it was communicated to him.

With the same emphasis General Manager Walter W. Irwin of the V-L-S-E organization scouted the report that Vitagraph, Lubin, Selig and Essanay were to leave the General Film Company and distribute their entire product through the V-L-S-E after January 30, the date their contracts with the releasing organization expire.

John W. Grey from the Vitagraph offices gave out an equally vehement denial of the statement, terming it "yellow" in form and motive.

Paramount Pictures Corporation has likewise been busy on its own account, denying annoying rumors to the effect that it was considering absorbing two other feature companies now releasing their products in conjunction. There was not and never had been any such intention, declared an official of that company a few days ago, regarding the two companies in question.

Meanwhile, interesting statements are promised from the National Theatre Owners Association very soon, and the busybodies who are regularly releasing from five to a whole program of rumors every week have credited every company not definitely affiliated—and a good many that are—with having accepted the new association's proposition. There is no use mentioning names. Suffice it to say that if the theatre owners contracted for one-half the pictures they are credited with getting, they would have to control half the theatres in the United States to keep them earning their cost and a legitimate profit.

Metro, Fox, Universal, Mutual have all been threatened at times during the last three weeks with a severe attack of rumors, but so far they have managed to ward them off, or to escape with a light case.

"UNDINE" DIRECTOR IS READY TO FEATURE EDNA MAISON

Henry Otto, Universal director, who recently completed the five reel production, "Undine," is now in San Diego, with a number of scripts, which he will prepare for early production with Edna Maison and Douglas Gerrard in the leading roles.

Pennsylvania Makes 600 Police Chiefs New Film Spies

Board, After Sending Notices to Everybody in the Departments of the State Government, Calling Upon Them to Watch Pictures Proscribed by Censors, Also Provides City Morality—Guardians with List of Condemned Films, for Purposes of Espionage Toward Exhibitors

Special to Motion Picture News

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 8.

THE most radical step yet taken to enforce the motion picture censorship law in Pennsylvania came to light today when Joseph A. Berrier, chief clerk, at the direction of the State Board, gave out a list of seventy-eight films that were condemned "in toto" in the period from June 1, 1914, to December 1, 1915, with the announcement that the list is being sent to the chiefs of police of 600 cities and towns of Pennsylvania, with the request that the board be notified of any attempt to display any of the condemned subjects.

Pennsylvania exhibitors thought when Governor Brumbaugh recently called upon the employees of every department of the state government, some six thousand men and women located in all quarters of the commonwealth, to spy on the motion picture theatres and report any violations of the law that came to their notice, that the limit of "gumshoe" activity against the motion picture business had been reached. They wondered at the time why it was deemed necessary to single out the motion picture business for this extraordinary surveillance when such widespread police precautions never before were taken for enforcing any other state law.

Their wonderment now has given way to astonishment at the newest evidence of the intention of the state authorities to enforce the motion picture law with more rigidity than any other act on the statute books, especially since official figures just given out from the censors' state headquarters in this city show that, notwithstanding the activities of the six thousand employees of the commonwealth as motion picture detectives for the last several months, there were in the whole of the year 1915 only sixty-four of the three thousand exhibitors of Pennsylvania who were found guilty and fined for displaying films that had been condemned. It has been suggested that the extraordinary activity in seeking out violations of the law may be due in a measure to animosity felt by J. Louis Breitinger, the chief censor, whom the exhibitors' state league sought in vain to have removed from office last spring.

The announcement made today of the plan to provide all the police chiefs with lists of the condemned films, contains the additional information that copies of the list are being mailed to all the exhibitors and to each exchange or film brokers renting films in Pennsylvania, as well as to every manufacturer in the United States. The text of the announcement is as follows:

Pamphlet Issued by Board

"A pamphlet containing a list of subjects condemned 'in toto,' from June 1, 1914, to December 1, 1915, has been prepared in printed form for distribution by the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors.

"A copy of this list has been mailed to each exhibitor of motion pictures throughout the state of Pennsylvania, and to each exchange or film broker renting motion pictures in the state of Pennsylvania, as well as to every manufacturer over the entire United States.

"In addition to this, chiefs of police of over six hundred cities and towns throughout the commonwealth will receive a copy of this list, with the request that the board be notified of any attempts to display any one of the condemned subjects."

At the top of the list of condemned subjects is printed the additional notice, that "information contained in this pamphlet is beneficial to all exhibitors of motion pictures and to the public generally. By mailing any information relative to the exhibition of any one of the condemned subjects mentioned herewith you will greatly oblige the "Pennsylvania State Board of Censors."

Then is printed the following list of "condemned subjects":

"Exposure of the White Slave Traffic," "The Suicide Club," "Horrors of White Slavery," "Victim of Sin, or Damaged Goods," "Life of Evelyn Thaw," "Great Mysteries of New York," "Traffic in Souls," "Outside the Gates," "Wooed by a Wildman," "The Bishop's Silence," "Kreutzer Sonata," "Shackled Souls," "The Truth About Twilight Sleep," "Traffickers in Souls," "Up from the Depths," "His Obligation," "The Paths of Life," "Dr. Carvel's Experiment," "The Vivisectionist," "Heinz's Resurrection," "The Sewer," "The Fire Bug," "Tainted Blood," "Return of Maurice Donnelly," "Back to the Farm," "Willard-Johnson Slides," "The Highbinders," "The Darkening Trail," "True Love of the Mighty Prince," "Spirit of the Poppy," "The House of Bondage," "Lights and Shadows of Chinatown," "Damaged Goods," "Italian-Austrian War," "Pimple Captures the Kaiser," "Pimple in Kilties," "Harry K. Thaw's Fight for Freedom," "The Cup of Chance," "The Game," "Freddy Losefelt from Africa," "Tainted," "Pieces of Silver," "Governor Slaton and Leo Frank," "Shadows from the Past," "The Nihilist," "The Strange Case of Talmai Lind," "Winky and the Ants," "A Mother's Heart," "The Man on Watch," "Struggle of the Strong, or for All Eternity," "It Was Like This," "Stranglers of Paris," "His Daughter's Sin," "Slaves of Morphine," "The Apaches of Paris," "Piercing the Veil," "The Woman Without a Soul," "The Flame of Passion," "Thou Shalt Not," "The Village Outcast," "Breaking the Shackles," "A Desert Honeymoon," "Sins of the Father," "The Great Question," "Submarine Warfare," "The Mix-Up," "A Woman's Past," "A Gangster, or Shadows of the Night," "Jockey of Death," "Was He Justified?" "The Last of the Mafia," "The Devil's Darling," "Pimple Enlists," "The Great Mysteries of New York," "The Dream Seekers," "The God Within," "A Child in Judgment," and "The Man of God."

Fines For Year, $4,815

The headquarters of the censors announces that the sixty-four exhibitors who were fined during the year for exhibiting unapproved films, were required to pay a total of $4,815 in penalties, the fines ranging from twenty-five dollars to three hundred dollars, according to the number of offenses.

The total number of arrests during the year, including exhibitors who offended more than once, was only seventy-five. A number of additional arrests were made for failure to exhibit the approval seal of the State Board on films that had passed muster.

The prosecutions were mainly in Philadelphia, although arrests also were made in Pittsburgh, Reading, Harrisburg, Lancaster, Altoona, Allentown and Scranton.

Rothapfel Takes Hold of Knickerbocker Theatre

Master Film Showman Is Engaged to Remodel Amusement Bill and Will Cut It from 14 Reels to 7, Putting Most of Seats at Twenty-Five Cents

AN entirely new policy will be inaugurated in the exhibiting of Triangle pictures in New York, when S. L. Rothapfel takes hold of the Knickerbocker theatre, Saturday, January 15.

Mr. Rothapfel, who is known to exhibitors all over the country, following his great tour of last fall, when he met and spoke to thousands of them, has not yet completed his plans in detail. He told Motion Picture News this week that the first things he will do will be to reduce both the prices and the length of the program. He said:

"I am taking hold of the Knickerbocker theatre at the earnest request of the Triangle people, who want me to see what I can do to put the house on its feet. It will be closed for a week, and will reopen Saturday, January 15, as an entirely new proposition. It will still show Triangle productions exclusively, but it will be under my management, and operated by my own staff.

"In the first place, I will cut the program to about seven reels for each performance. I will select the pictures myself from the new offerings, but I will not attempt to present the twelve and fourteen reels now offered as one entertainment. Then prices will be put on a fifty and twenty-five-cent basis. A few seats will be held at two dollars, merely to fulfill the terms of the lease, but the best seats will be fifty and twenty-five—mostly twenty-five.

"On this basis I propose to fill out the remainder of the lease for the Triangle company. In the new releases from the Triangle studios, I will be able to make up an excellent program. When my own Rialto opens, in February, I will run Triangle pictures there also, making the first selections for that house. Both places, however, will be run simultaneously with the Triangle program, but I will see to it that they do not conflict, or be placed in the position of cutting each other's throats."

H. E. Aitken, president of the Triangle corporation, said:

"We have invited Mr. Rothapfel to take the management of the Knickerbocker in order that we may have the benefit of his experience in making the house a true model Triangle theatre—something that will show the motion picture managers throughout the country just what can be done in the proper presentation of those plays, and in the management of theatres. We feel that in having the co-operation of Mr. Rothapfel we will accomplish that."

Scenes Representative of "The Bait," a David Horsley Production to Be Released as a Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe

William Clifford and Betty Hart are Featured in This Story of Life in the Great Northwest

"DUMB GIRL OF PORTICI" BOOKED FOR COLONIAL, CHICAGO, JAN. 30

"The Dumb Girl of Portici," the eight-reel special feature produced by Universal, starring Anna Pavlowa, is to take possession of the Colonial theatre in Chicago as soon as "The Birth of a Nation" vacates, which in all probability will be on Sunday, January 30. The prices will range from two dollars down.

The New York premier of this remarkable photoplay has not yet been decided upon but the company has been negotiating for a Broadway house and the Forty-Fourth Street theatre is considered as the most suitable for the exhibition of the picture. It will open there, according to present arrangements, the latter part of February.

Business Shunts V-L-S-E Into Bigger Quarters

Company Formally Installed in Its New Home on Sixth Floor of Mecca Building, 1600 Broadway, New York, with Departments Suited to Facilitate Transactions

FRIDAY was moving day at the V-L-S-E when the attaches of the home office and of the New York branch took up their quarters on the sixth floor of the Mecca building at 1600 Broadway.

This is the floor which was formerly occupied by the Kriterion Film Company and the Kinemacolor Company. It has a total area of 12,500 square feet, which is about 5,000 more feet than the Big Four had on the seventh floor of this building.

Artisans have been working day and night for several weeks past, to get the new offices in apple-pie order. The entire interior has been re-decorated, and many alterations made in the arrangement of the offices, which will make for increased convenience and comfort. The New York branch and the home office of the V-L-S-E proper which in the old quarters were thrown together, will be separated in the Big Four's new home. They will have a common entrance way, the reception hall opening on the Seventh avenue side of the Meca building to the New York branch office quarters, and on the Broadway side to those of the home office.

The suite of offices of General Manager Walter W. Irwin, will be located at the Broadway and Forty-eighth street corner of the floor. Adjoining his will be that of A. W. Goff, assistant general manager, and then in their order, those of Leon J. Bamberger, sales promotion manager, and E. L. Masters, advertising manager.

Opening from the hallway on which these offices face, is the entrance to a large projection room, that will permit of a fifty foot throw. This room will be beautifully carpted, and luxuriously furnished with every facility for the convenience of those whose duties will take them there.

Adjoining the office of Mr. Irwin on the Forty-eighth street side, is a commodious auditing department, next to which is the stenographers' department and the directors' room, facing on the corner of Seventh avenue and Forty-eighth street.

Joseph W. Partridge will have his office next to the directors', and his assistant, F. F. Hartich, adjoining Mr. Partridge's. The New York branch office will have its own cashier, so that there will be no lost motion for exhibitors having business with the branch.

The poster and shipping departments are in the front of the floor in close proximity with the elevators.

The fact that the V-L-S-E has found it necessary to take such commodious quarters after only nine months of operation, would seem to indicate that the reports of the progress which this organization is making are well-founded.

It is said that the lease for these offices covers a long term of years.

"Strange Case of Mary Page" Released January 24

Series, Consisting of Fifteen Episodes of Two Reels Each, Feature Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo in a Tale of Love and Mystery

JANUARY 24 has been set by the Essanay company for the release of the first episode of "The Strange Case of Mary Page," the series in which Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo are to be starred. The series consists of fifteen episodes of two reels each.

The first episode in this tale of love and mystery is called "The Tragedy," and in it is portrayed the murder of Dave Pollock, the crime of which Mary Page (Edna Mayo) is accused. Henry Walthall plays the part of Mary Page's sweetheart, who is the attorney for the defense in her trial.

When the story opens, Mary Page is appearing in the dress rehearsal of a Broadway production. It is her first big part. After the final rehearsal Pollock, who is backing the production, forces his way into her dressing room. Philip Langdon (Mr. Walthall), who has called to congratulate Mary, rescues her from Pollock and gives her a revolver, advising her to use it if Pollock again threatens her.

After the rehearsal the company goes to a hotel for a banquet. Pollock lures Mary into a private dining room and again attempts to force his attentions upon her. She draws the revolver, then loses control of herself, remembering nothing more.

Langdon, who has started in search of Mary, hears the sound of a shot and breaks into the room. There he finds Mary, unconscious beside Pollock, who is dead with a bullet in his heart from the revolver which lies beside Mary.

The guests rush in and find Langdon with the revolver in his hand, stooping over the victim. They seize him as the murderer. In the excitement Mary disappears.

The episodes that follow take up the exciting incidents in the life of Mary Page, who is accused of the murder when Langdon's innocence is established.

In the first episode is portrayed a play within a play. A huge theatre scene shows Mary Page playing her part in the dress rehearsal. Interesting sidelights of life behind the scenes are other features. In the dress rehearsal Miss Mayo, in doublet and hose, has an opportunity to display her swordsmanship, vanquishing a villain in the stage drama in which, in the story, she is starring.

Miss Mayo's gowns are designed by Lady Duff Gordon (Lucile) and the one she wears to the banquet is a beautiful example of the newest spring style in evening gowns.

Bluebird Photoplays Plan Saving for Exhibitors

Lower Cost of Features Through Reduction of Overhead Charges Will Mean Much to the Renter—Company Takes Space in All Universal Exchanges, and Has Benefit of "U" Plants in the East and the West, Is Statement Made by General Manager Hoffman—"Jeanne Dore" with Bernhardt Already Started

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC., makes the first announcement of its plans simultaneously with the appointment of M. H. Hoffman as general manager of the new feature-producing corporation.

Mr. Hoffman has always been a tremendous worker and is a master of "system" in every detail.

Admittedly one of the best systematizers in the business, his organization will become one of the most important factors in the successful progress of Bluebird features.

While Mr. Hoffman retains his position as general manager of the Universal exchanges it is in his personality alone that Bluebird and the Universal at any point meet. Otherwise Bluebird is a separate and distinct organization from Universal, operating along entirely separated lines in distribution and production.

When Mr. Hoffman was interviewed by a representative of MOTION PICTURE NEWS he was enthusiastic over the prospects of his new charge and was ready to outline the plan and scope of Bluebird operations in detail.

Makes His Day 48 Hours

"The directors of Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., have made me general manager of their corporation because of the position I also hold as general manager of Universal Exchanges," said Mr. Hoffman, "and my responsibilities in each of the dual positions will be separate and distinct.

"The fact that it makes more work for me to accomplish means nothing in my life, as I shall be able to crowd two hours' work into one by lengthening my average day to forty-eight hours.

"The arrangement which Bluebird has made with the Universal will eliminate a large part of the overhead expense that feature producers are ordinarily compelled to battle with.

"Bluebird has rented a given amount of space in all Universal exchanges; it will have, through our arrangement, the advantage of the Universal's producing plant at Universal City, as well as access to the new half-million dollar plant of the Universal, over in New Jersey, and in producing its features will employ the services of such players as we shall select from the large producing force the Universal employs.

"Right there, in this particular, is the promise to exhibitors that the saving of the tremendous producing and distributing expense shall be put right into the features themselves.

Exhibitor to Benefit

"The usual heavy outlay that feature producers ordinarily require for building and equipping studios, organizing their acting companies and establishing a distributing service is at once eliminated by the advantages Bluebird Photoplay has in its arrangement with the Universal.

M. H. HOFFMAN

"The exhibitor will, furthermore, benefit in the plan we have adopted for the selection of the subjects that shall be marketed under the Bluebird brand. It is necessary that a jury of fifteen exhibitors pass upon a production before it will be released as a Bluebird.

"If any one of this jury fails to see Bluebird possibilities in a prospective production when it is shown to them in completed form, then it will not become a Bluebird.

"In forming our program the tremendous resources behind the company for making its own productions will not be entirely depended upon. If any feature of Bluebird quality shall be offered in the open market we will purchase it for a Bluebird release, provided it passes the jury of inspectors.

"Indeed our very first release, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, in 'Jeanne Dore,' was purchased in competition with several other feature organizations, after it had been subject to the Bluebird test and passed by the jury.

"My knowledge of every detail of the problem that confronts the film promoter, leads me to believe that in the matter of distribution alone, $35,000 weekly will be saved to Bluebird through its arrangement with the seventy-two Universal exchanges.

"As general manager of both Bluebird and these exchanges I shall be able to turn back to exhibitors the benefits of this tremendous saving, through adding it to the quality of Bluebird productions and the releases that shall be open to purchase on the market.

"Bluebird will make it lively bidding in competition for a feature worthy to become a Bluebird wherever it may be found.

Release Shows Advantages

"Our first release will give an idea of the advantages that come to Bluebird through our system of obtaining features. We purchased Mme. Bernhardt's portrayal of 'Jeanne Dore' at a time when it seemed probable that the wonderful French woman would be in America right now making another farewell tour. The cables have since been telling of Mme. Bernhardt's grievously impaired physical condition, and it seems now to be a conclusion foregone that in the Bluebird film she will make the only remaining tour of this country."

"Jeanne Dore" started, during the past week, a tour of the F. F. Proctor theatres in New York and thus Bluebird Photoplays became fully operative as factors in the American moving picture industry. At Proctor's Twenty-third Street, on January 6 "Jeanne Dore" was shown for the first time in public and its distribution to exhibitors throughout the country has begun.

Two More Directors Signed by Famous Players

John O'Brien with Griffith on the Pacific Coast for the Last Three Years, and Frederick Thompson Returns to His Old Company

TWO important additions have recently been made to the directorial staff of the Famous Players Film Company in the persons of John O'Brien and Frederick Thompson, the latter of whom returns to the company after a short absence.

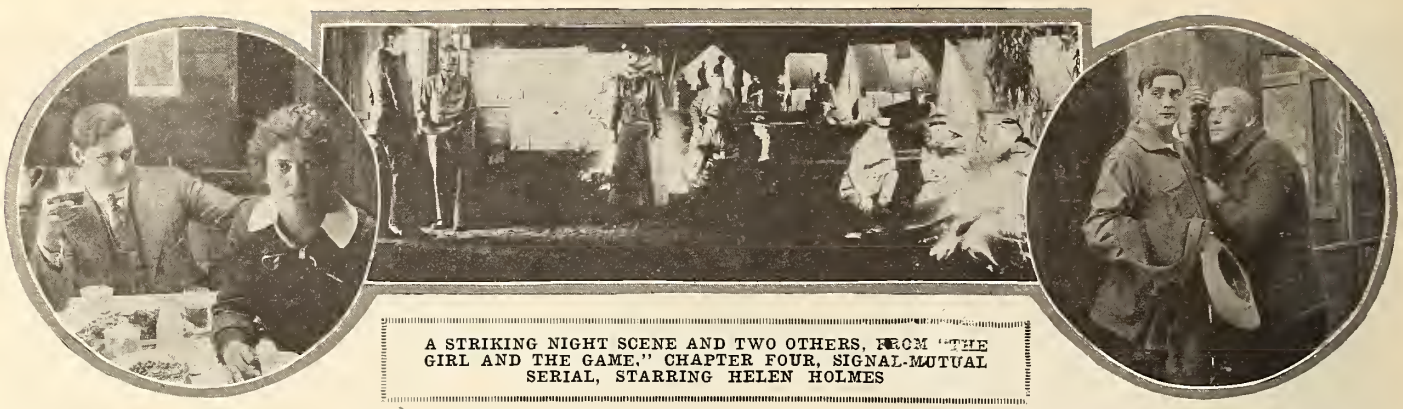
John O'Brien comes to the Famous Players studio from the Pacific coast, where he has spent the last three years in association with David Griffith.

During this time "The Outcast," "The Tear That Burned" and "Her Shattered Idol," in which Blanche Sweet, Mae Marsh, Lillian Gish and Robert Harron were featured, were among his productions that created favorable comment. Previous to his association with Griffith, Mr. O'Brien spent three years directing with "Broncho Billy" Anderson, of Essanay.

The work of Frederick Thompson is equally well known to the motion picture world. After a career as a director with the old Vitagraph company, during which he produced "The Christian," he joined the Famous Players staff and staged "The Sign of the Cross" and "The Spitfire" for that organization.

He then became affiliated with one or two other producing companies, and now returns to the first feature producing concern with which he was identified.

It is of odd interest that J. Searle Daw-



A STRIKING NIGHT SCENE AND TWO OTHERS, FROM "THE GIRL AND THE GAME," CHAPTER FOUR, SIGNAL-MUTUAL SERIAL, STARRING HELEN HOLMES

ley, who is also a member of the Famous Players' directorial staff, should have paralleled the career of Mr. Thompson to a certain extent.

Like the latter, he went to the Famous

FRED THOMPSON, NOW DIRECTING FOR FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM CO.

Players as the first feature producing organization with which he was connected. He then formed his own film company, but returned to the pioneer concern about six months ago.

His next release on the Paramount Program will be "Mice and Men," in which Marguerite Clark is starred.

Mr. Thompson's first picture for the Famous Players under the new arrangement will be "Nearly a King," in which John Barrymore is starred. The first O'Brien contribution to the Paramount Program, through the medium of the Famous Players, is "The Foundling."

LUBIN IS IN MARKET FOR SCENARIOS

The Lubin Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, announces that it is in need of scenarios for three-reel photoplays, featuring Mimi Yvonne (aged 7) and Eleanor Dunn (aged 10).

Three, four and five-reel dramas, and single-reel farce comedies, suited to D. L. Don or Billie Reeves, are also desired.

Three Pallas Pictures Subjects Almost Ready

Dustin Farnum Is Starred in "The Call of the Cumberlands," Florence Rockwell in "He Fell in Love with His Wife" and Lenore Ulrich in a Mexican Drama

FOLLOWING Pallas Pictures' debut in fildom with Booth Tarkington's "The Gentleman from Indiana" and "The Reform Candidate," the Maclyn Arbuckle success, Pallas Pictures company announces that three new photoplays are now in the course of completion.

Starring in these new subjects are Dustin Farnum in "The Call of the Cumberlands," an adaptation from Charles Neville Buck's well known book and incidentally one of the best sellers on the market; Florence Rockwell in "He Fell in Love with His Wife," adapted from the novel of the same name by E. P. Roe; and Lenore Ulrich in a Mexican play of modern times.

Besides presenting a romantic drama which, according to Dustin Farnum himself, even surpasses in quality "The Gentleman from Indiana," the prominent screen favorite's new vehicle offers scenes of natural beauty that are seldom duplicated.

For the Cumberland mountain scenes the entire company was taken to Thousand Pines, a favorite elevation for Californian mountain climbers and called by them "the rim of the world." It is in the heart of the famous Bear Valley country whose mountain lakes are exquisitely Swiss and whose scenic charms, its 2,000 feet precipices and canyons are known to painters from all over the world.

"He Fell in Love with His Wife" presents Florence Rockwell for the first time under the Pallas-Parmount banner. Miss Rockwell is one of the best known of the younger American stars and has a brilliant record in Frohman and Klaw and Erlanger productions. In addition to being a big seller as a novel, "He Fell in Love with His Wife" has also been a reigning stage success for the past three decades.

It is felt by the company that the Lenore Ulrich film affords the pretty actress another opportunity to score on the screen even to a greater extent than she did in "Kilmeny." Miss Ulrich has just returned from Mexico with the Pallas Pictures players where the company enacted most of the important scenes of the new play.

The Pallas Pictures company is also preparing several new offerings.

"U" Puts Another Beauty Contest Winner in Pictures

Thelma Francis, Brunette, Nineteen and Vivacious, Selected at Ball of Southern California Exhibitors' Association, Is the Fortunate Young Lady

THE Universal Film Manufacturing Company has at various times offered an opportunity to young women gifted with the necessary beauty to win contests. Through the beauty contest last summer, five moving picture actresses were enabled to attain the coveted goal of their dreams.

Two of these have already made a lasting name for themselves—Lois Wilson, who is J. Warren Kerrigan's leading woman, and Gloria Fonda, who is playing leads opposite William C. Dowlan.

The most recent actress to be selected in this exciting way is Thelma S. Francis, who was selected at the ball of the Southern California Motion Picture Exhibitors Association, held recently in the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles.

Announcement that the winner chosen by the committee at this ball would be offered a position by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company attracted a bevy of the most beautiful girls in California, and the California Exhibitors Ball proved an array of beauty. The committee was composed of Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company; Crane Wilbur, well-known star of "The Perils of Pauline," and now starring on the Mutual program, and Hobart Henley, star of the "Graft," the new Universal serial.

One of the particular objects of the visit of Carl Laemmle to the Coast was to be present at this ball, and to act as one of the judges.

In spite of the fact that the beauty of California was present en masse, it was not a native Californian who was selected as the fortunate winner.

Thelma Francis is a dainty brunette of unusual type, nineteen years of age, and extremely vivacious. She was induced to be present at the ball through the announcement of the contest, which was carried in the Denver Post, and she went on to Los Angeles with her mother from Denver to be present at the ball.

The young woman will report to H. O. Davis, general manager of Universal City, when arrangements will be made to start her in picture work.

MACK TAKES OVER PICTURES OF AMERICAN CORRESPONDENT COMPANY

The Buffalo Times Motion Picture Syndicate, of which Norman E. Mack is proprietor, has taken over the exhibition rights of The American Correspondent Film Company's latest war features, "The Warring Millions" and "The Battles of a Nation."

Already the films have been shown in New York, Chicago, Buffalo, Omaha and Washington. At present "The Warring Millions" is being screened at the Cohen theatre in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and the Boston Opera House is showing "The Battles of a Nation."

Mr. Mack reports unusual success for the pictures. This report was verified by large attendances wherever the pictures were shown; and press reviews. But what The Buffalo Times Motion Picture Syndicate considers as its laurel wreath is the scramble for state rights. A number of states have been sold, it is reported.

GRACE VALENTINE GOES SOUTH FOR METRO SUBJECT

Grace Valentine, who was featured in "Black Fear," a five-part Metro production, recently released, has gone to Jacksonville, Fla., where she will appear in the role of Eve, in "Man and His Soul," the sensational Metro wonderplay in which Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are starred.

The Garden of Eden scene in which Miss Valentine appears, is one of the big scenes which will be staged in the South. Another will be the destruction of a large factory by fire, in which one thousand persons will appear.

CISSY FITZGERALD SUBJECT ON MARKET JAN. 2

Cissy Fitzgerald will appear upon the screen January 2 in a Casino Star Comedy written by Joseph H. Trant, "Leave It to Cissy."

Variety of Subjects Is Aim of Equitable in Plots

Company Announces Policy of Conserving Subjects Until Their Themes and Stories Lend Diversity to Program Collectively, Following Release of "The Warning"

BIG SETS IN THE EQUITABLE PRODUCTION, "THE STRUGGLE," COMPEL DIRECTOR JOHN INCE TO PLACE THE CAMERA ON THE SIDEWALK—ONE OF THE DEEP SETS IN "THE DRAGON," EQUITABLE

VARIETY of subject is to be the keynote of the Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation in the future, the company announces, as has been the policy since December 6, when Henry Kolker in "The Warning" was released.

"The new policy of reserving and conserving subjects until their themes and plots, and type and character of players would lend diversity to the program collectively," said an official of the company, "came into effect following 'The Warning,' when on December 13 Gail Kane, the foremost Equitable star, appeared in 'The Labyrinth,' a tale of stage life.

"'The Labyrinth' was as different in theme plots and climaxes from 'The Warning' as the imagination could conceive, and then William Courtenay in 'Sealed Lips' followed 'The Labyrinth.' One story deals with the frailty and degeneration of a man of the cloth, and is in direct opposition to the basic principle and atmosphere of either of the two features preceding it.

"Following 'Sealed Lips' came 'The Senator,' in which Charles J. Ross was featured.

"'The Senator' was a picturesque tale of political life and strife, supposedly at the National Capitol.

"Ross and Kolker were entirely different in matter of histrionic work from Miss Kane and William Courtenay.

"'Her Great Hour' told of a flirting wife, devoted husband and hounded shop girl, but was developed in a dignified manner..

"'The Chain Invisible,' which comes early next month, is Richard Le Gallienne's belief that no two people of opposite sex can possibly be thrown into each other's company without absolutely falling in love with each other.

"Emmett Corrigan and Gerda Holmes are to work under the auspices of Frank Powell in this story, while as in direct opposition of effect, local detail and theme 'The Clarion,' with Carlyle Blackwell, will see Samuel Hopkins Adams' treatise against fake nostrums. 'Babette of the Ballyhoo' is another direct divergence from all the other features of the eight and forthcoming ten weeks, in that it tells the story of a little circus girl, her tribulations and her romance, and will be followed by one of the most sumptuous and unusual features Equitable has yet produced, 'Her God,' with Gail Kane, which is so difficult of production that E. Mason Hopper, the director, demanded three months to complete the desert and allegorical scenes alone."

"Madame X," 7-Season Stage Hit, a Pathé Picture

Dorothy Donnelly, Who Created Title Role in Original Production, Under Management of Savage, Will Play Name Part for a Gold Rooster, Released January 14

"MADAME X" has played its melody on the heart strings of the American theatre going public for seven seasons, and the five-reel adaptation of this Henry W. Savage production which Pathe has made for the screen will be released on the Gold Rooster program on January 14.

The producers secured Dorothy Donnelly, who created the title role in the original production. With her screen portrayal of her most popular dramatic vehicle Miss Donnelly is said to add another triumph to her histrionic career. She is supported by a cast under the direction of George Marion.

The play, by Alexander Bisson, is the old, old story of the heart hungry wife, craving love and attention and the wrapped-in-his-business - inattentive - husband. The first of her many steps downward begins with her clandestine meeting with Eugene who loves her deeply.

Floriet, her husband, surprises them and the door of the household which could have held happiness, is closed against her. Later Eugene meets with an accident resulting in his death, and Jacqueline is left alone. She makes one more appeal to Floriet to take her back to their old happiness and for the sake of their own son Raymond. But the closed door is locked forever.

Work is scarce, but lovers are found aplenty, but one by one they tire of her as lovers of that type will. She slides down the ladder of degradation rung by rung until the lowest depths a woman can sink to are reached. Jacqueline now known to the police as "Madame X," has drunk of all the dregs in the cup of life until she finds herself on trial for the murder of one of her lovers.

Her own son, now a promising lawyer, is appointed to defend "Madame X" and the famous court room scene which has the reputation of possessing more dramatic intensity than anything seen in years, follows. The eloquent pleading of her son; her acquittal and her death in the court room in the forgiving of Floriet's arms is a touching scene.

MOSS COMPLETES "ONE DAY," SEQUEL TO "THREE WEEKS"

The screen version of "One Day," written as a sequel to Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks," with Jeanne Iver as the lead, is now complete, under the direction of Hal Clarendon, formerly of Famous Players and Thanhouser. "One Day" will be released on January 15.

The cast includes Victor Southerland, Madge Tyrone, Robert Broderick, Edna Holland, Joseph Dillion, Mrs. James Ellery, Arthur Evers, Mrs. William Hoyt, Walter D. Nealand, Mabel Alden, William Bechtel and Master Richard Rose.

LOOKING AT THE NEW OFFICES OF THE PARAMOUNT PICTURES CORPORATION AT HEADQUARTERS, NEW YORK CITY

New Paramount Offices Get Housewarming on 7th

Event Is Attended by Members of Trade in the City, Out-of-Town Representatives of Company and Marks Era of "Progress, Paramount to the Company"

DETAILED efficiency is the keynote of the new offices recently opened by the Paramount Pictures Corporation on the entire ninth and part of the eighth floor in the lately erected Rogers Peet Building, 485 Fifth avenue, New York City.

The new home of Paramount thus brings all the various departments of the executive end of the organization under one roof.

On Friday evening, January 7, the suite of offices was officially opened in its completed condition by way of a general housewarming given to the trade in general.

Stepping from the elevator, the prospective customer of Paramount encounters the information desk after he has passed through the glass swinging doors. Here sits a valuable young lady who by reference to her Turner-Phone can tell the visitor where any member of the organization is located.

Back of this department is the reception room which leads into the offices of President William W. Hodkinson and Treasurer Raymond Pawley, while to the left extending over the greater part of floor space is the general office.

The printing and mailing departments, occupy space to the rear of the general office, while downstairs are the accounting, shipping and stenographic departments.

Every office in the suite and subsequently every desk in each office is equipped with Turner-Phones and telephones, by means of which the officers and employees of the company can perform their work in speedy and efficient manner.

Carl Anderson, executive member of Paramount, formerly business manager of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, acted in the capacity of efficiency engineer when he planned and laid out with architect J. Albert Thorn, the modern offices.

And they are modern in every respect, arranged so as to do away with waste time and equipped with every device for the rapid accomplishment of the routine work.

The main entrance and reception room adjoining it are decorated in paneled oak while the furniture has been tastefully chosen to conform with the appearance of the rooms. The office of the directors' room, Mr. Hodkinson's and Mr. Pawley's are in mahogany and the general office follows the same style of color and equipment.

The housewarming was attended by various members of the trade, out-of-town representatives of Paramount and the great majority of the office force, besides a number of stars, familiar in the Paramount firmament. Mr. and Mrs. Hodkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Pawley, Adolph Zukor, Daniel Frohman, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pierce, Julian M. Solomon, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William A. Johnston, and C. Allan Gilbert were among the most prominent of those representing positions of executive importance in the business.

On the other hand Pauline Frederick, Marie Doro, Leonore Ulrich, Hazel Dawn, John Barrymore, Jack Pickford and James Kirkwood upheld the histrionic talent of the three contributers to Paramount.

J. R. Bray the cartoonist, a comparatively recent arrival to the organization, headed a formidable array of artists from his studio.

A. D. Flintom, president of the Kansas City Feature Film Company, the Missouri representatives of Paramount, was among the half score picture men from other cities who attended the reception. Refreshments were served.

WONDERS SUCCEEDS PEARCE AS MARYLAND HEAD

Guy L. Wonders, manager of the Wilson theatre, Baltimore, was elected president of the Maryland branch Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, at a meeting of the league, held January 3. Mr. Wonders succeeds Marion S. Pearce, who had been president for the last three and one-half years. Other officers elected were:

First vice-president, Thomas J. Bohannan; second vice-president, Charles Hicks; secretary, J. Howard Bennett; treasurer, Frederick Clements Weber; sergeant-at-arms, Charles F. Habighurst.

At the same meeting it was also decided to map out a very active campaign for the betterment of motion pictures in Baltimore.

SELIG-TRIBUNE POSTERS REPLICAS OF FRONT PAGE OF DAILY

Posters issued with the first number of the Selig-Tribune, the twice-a-week news film issued by the Selig Company and the Chicago Tribune, have caused much favorable comment.

The posters are prepared to resemble the first page of a metropolitan newspaper with headlines and text, with the exception of course, that the layout is greatly magnified.

"Horrors of War" from Pathé Freres on January 24

Three Reeler Shows Sinking of Turkish Vessels by Russian Fleet, the Scenes Taken by Cameraman with a Telephoto Lens on Deck During the Action

"THE HORRORS OF WAR," a three-reel picture which Pathé will release on January 24, is said to convey in a vivid manner an idea of what war really means. Among the scenes which, it is announced, especially impress the observer are the sinking of Turkish vessels by the Russian fleet, the bombardment of various villages along the shore, the gathering of hundreds of dead from the battlefields, and their being dumped in carts at the edge of the burial trenches.

From a pictorial standpoint, the best scenes are those showing the Russian fleet in action in the Black Sea, according to advance reports. The cameraman remained on deck throughout the engagement, and with a telephoto lens obtained views of exploding shells and their effect upon the buildings. An aeroplane is shown dropping bombs from the clouds. A Turkish vessel, under a shower of Russian shrapnel, settles heavily in the water and sinks.

Shortly before Henry Ford chartered his "peace ship," he was invited to see these pictures in New York, and they made a strong impression upon him, it is said.

The views were taken by a free lance cameraman who followed one of the Russian armies. He wandered into the Paris office of Pathé Freres with a few rolls of film. The pictures were screened, and the negatives immediately purchased by Pathé.

His story was that he had been with the Russians for some months, and despite his lack of official backing had succeeded in getting real war pictures.

They provided him with food and shelter through the long marches, and equipped him with clothing. When his stock of film gave out, he managed to make his way back to France.

SECOND SELIG-TRIBUNE CONTAINS NOVEL SUBJECTS

The second edition of the Selig-Tribune brought compliments from many exhibitors and exchangemen. The new posters, prepared to resemble the front page of a newspaper, also proved popular.

Topics for the second issue:—Largest goose farm on earth, Gibson City, Ill.; annual Mummers parade at Philadelphia; cabins in Cascade Mountains buried under 25-foot fall of snow; Pan-American delegates at Washington; Gen. Huerta ill at El Paso; hospital for canine aristocracy in Boston; forcible feeding of a big python at the Chicago zoo; late scenes from war-torn Mexico.

CELEBRATED PLAYERS BUYS SOUTHERN RIGHTS TO WALTHALL SUBJECT

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 10.

The Celebrated Players Film Sales Company, controlled by Julius F. Gazan and Nat S. Wolf, has recently purchased the entire Southern rights for "The Birth of a Man," featuring Henry B. Walthall.

The picture was made by Horheimer Brothers, and its release held back awaiting Walthall's popularity. The United States and Canadian rights are owned by the Celebrated Players Film Company.

Increased Popularity in Films at Buffalo, New York

Competition, However, in the 125 Picture Theatres of the City Affects Prices, Making It Impossible to Maintain a Fixed Admission Charge of Twenty-Five Cents

Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 7.

COMPETITION at fever heat, the advent of higher admissions, augmented orchestras, increased popularity and greater investment in newspaper publicity are the most important changes observed in the motion picture business in Buffalo at the close of 1915 and the opening of the new year.

Many predicted that higher admissions in Buffalo were not possible. The prediction is in a way somewhat true, as witness the Palace theater opening with a new service at twenty-five-cent admission, and one month later, or more exact, on the first of the year, dropping to fifteen cents admission, with the noticeable result of greater audiences as soon as the change was made.

At twenty-five cents business was fair; at fifteen, capacity is the rule. Other houses, showing higher price pictures are the Regent, New Victoria and Shea's Hippodrome. The latter, however, has charged fifteen cents for many months.

It has been proved many times that twenty-five cents is an impossibility as an admission price for pictures in Buffalo, which is not a boost for this city, because many cities of lesser size and importance are getting as high as fifty cents for the same service as many Buffalo houses charging fifteen cents.

It is rumored that Shea's Hippodrome plans to present a program of twelve reels for fifteen cents. The Strand, Buffalo's pioneer picture house, is still plugging along at ten cents, doing a good business, presenting the most consistently good program and accompanying the pictures with music of excellent quality.

The Strand is one of the Buffalo houses that started the present wave of increased newspaper space.

Buffalo has over 125 silent art theatres, which shows that competition is exceptionally keen. The Lyric theater, formerly a film house, has changed to vaudeville and with an elaborate newspaper campaign is doing good business.

The Family, under the management of Edward L. Hyman, formerly assistant manager of the Strand theater, is reviving from a long sleep and at last reports was enjoying exceptional business and, of course, newspaper advertising has been one of the prime factors in its success.

The Elmwood theater, one of Buffalo's finest houses for the exclusive showing of films, has under the management of Elmer S. Davis, formerly of Keith's theater, taken a position in forefront of business prosperity.

Better pictures, better music, better surroundings and better service are some of the causes of its success. Every Sunday the Elmwood features concerts by a ten-piece orchestra. Admission prices remain the same at this theater.

The New Victoria is showing both Paramount and Triangle service and is advertising the fact that it is the only local house doing so. Other houses showing Triangle here are the Palace, Regent, Ellen Terry, Marlowe, Plaza and Cozy Corner. The Palace has first run.

Business during the past six weeks has only been fair, but managers look for a revival during the coming weeks of the New Year. One very noticeable fact in the local picture situation is that it has cut greatly into the local legitimate field.

As for increased prices, managers say that it is their only hope, with the expenses at the operating end of the house soaring daily. The public is demanding the best in pictures, music and surroundings. Those who give the public what they want are doing good business, those who do not "are still in the trenches."

The advertising situation in Buffalo among the newspapers is fair. Some are giving excellent support to the theatres, while a few are not so enthusiastic. Only one is devoting a full page to the pictures in its Sunday issue.

There are prospects that another will add a page soon. However, it seems that these pages when started are not given support by exhibitors with their ads, which is a big mistake.

C. B. TAYLOR.

Bernarr MacFadden in "U" Bi-Monthly Split Reels

Physical Culturist, Magazine Publisher and Proprietor of Restaurants, Will Show Correct Methods for Vitality Improvement in "Building Up the Health of a Nation" Series

"BUILDING UP THE HEALTH OF A NATION" is the general title under which the Universal Film Manufacturing Company will release a series of bi-monthly split reel subjects featuring Bernarr MacFadden, the physical culturist.

These pictures, one of which has already been released on the regular program, display Mr. MacFadden in various poses and health promoting exercises.

It is the belief of the heads of the Universal that the pictures will fill an unusual and desired place on their program, as the exercises and poses of Mr. MacFadden are considered to be very instructive.

Mr. MacFadden is a physical culturist of renown throughout the country. He is owner and consulting editor of the Physical Culture Magazine, in which paper has been published many of his lessons, illustrated to a minute degree.

At present the magazine is devoting five pages to these illustrated lectures in conjunction with the releases of the Universal. He is also proprietor of several MacFadden restaurants in New York and other prominent cities.

Mr. MacFadden has a course of physical exercises which he goes through in the Universal subjects. They include correct exercises for breathing, for strengthening the legs and arms, the back and the chest.

Referring to the series a representative of the Universal said to MOTION PICTURE NEWS, "We are issuing these educational numbers in split reels for a definite reason. A full reel would be too long for an educational of this sort.

"A half reel contains just enough educational and instructive matter to warrant an audience's interest every minute it is on the screen. Such a series has never been produced before to my knowledge and we are confident of a warm reception for our new venture.

"The other half of the reel which will be issued under the Powers brand will contain a scenic, another variety of educational, an animated cartoon, or a pictured vaudeville act. As we can select from any of these varieties, we will be able to add distinct variety to the latter part of the reel.

"On our first subject which has already reached our exhibitors," he continued, "we have received most favorable reports. The audiences are taking to MacFadden's instructions in an intelligent and interested way.

"He is evidently well known throughout the country and his various exercises posed close to the camera are valued by the public."

Mr. MacFadden, though advanced in years, has a strong physique. Every muscle in his body is well developed and so it can be seen that as a consequence his instructions are significant.

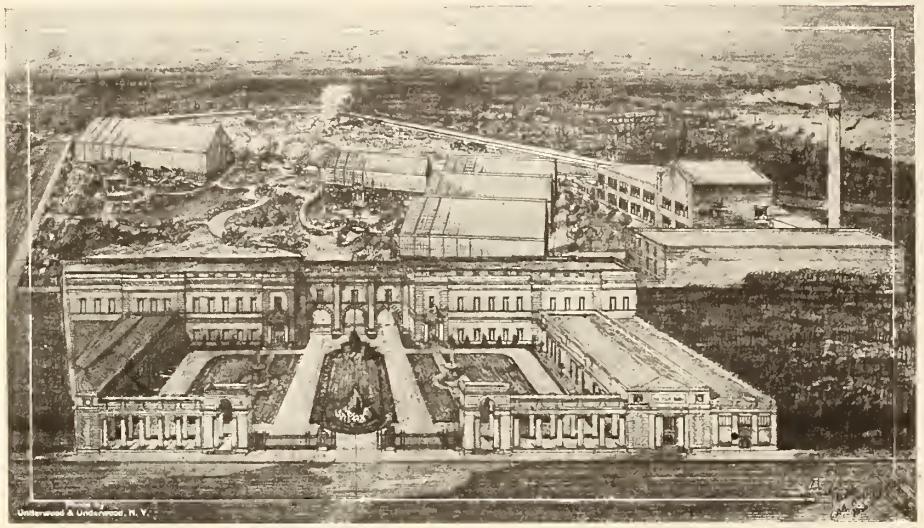
FORSYTHE MADE CHIEF CAMERAMAN FOR MIRROR

W. S. Forsythe, who was picked to look after the photographic work in connection with Annette Kellermann's trip to Jamaica under the direction of Herbert Brennon, has been hired as chief cameraman with one of the companies of the Mirror Films, Inc.

He was prevented from taking the trip to the West Indies by the serious illness of his wife.

A Film City on Long Island Is William Fox Plan

Initial Construction Will Cover Over Sixteen Acres at Corona, Consisting of a Large Two-Story Administration Building, 5 Studio Plants and Other Structures



ARCHITECT'S DRAWING FOR THE PROPOSED FOX FILM STUDIO, FLUSHING BAY, L. I.

WILLIAM FOX, president of the Fox Film Corporation, confirming an earlier brief intimation, has just given out for publication, his complete plans for the creation of an entire "film city" for his company with the definite announcement that work on this project will be under full headway within the coming three weeks.

The initial construction work will cover an area slightly in excess of sixteen acres of ground in Corona, Long Island, beginning at Jackson avenue and extending over and beyond Astoria avenue, down to the waterfront of Flushing bay and extending from Fifty-first street over and inclusive of Fifty-second street and to Firty-third street.

On this sixteen-acre plot there will be erected a large two-story administration building, five studio plants, each a complete and independent unit in itself, a factory for manufacturing much of the equipment required in the making and production of motion pictures; garages, concrete storage warehouses, a miniature hospital and adequate restaurant facilities for taking care of the people employed daily by his company.

To insure against adjacent real estate speculation, Mr. Fox has purchased other adjacent property in addition to that on which construction work is to begin almost immediately and this land ultimately will be used for cottages and homes of such persons as wish to live near their work and derive all of the pleasure of being adjacent to a waterfront in one of the most pleasant locations in the metropolitan district.

A photograph of the architect's plans reveals the location of natural gardens which it is said will be planned by horticulturists, a lake terraced and level sides for utilization in picture production and a large outdoor plain for the taking of big water effects.

The plans for the creation of the William Fox enterprise have been drawn in their entirety by Thomas W. Lamb, of 644 Eighth avenue, New York City, who is one of the country's best known theatre-planning specialists. In New York Mr. Lamb has designed for Mr. Fox the Riverside theatre, at Ninety-sixth street and Broadway, as well as other Fox amusement places.

The Fox Film Corporation, following a definite plan for more than a year of providing for its own needs without placing too much reliance in outside manufacturing sources, will, it is said, have at its Fox City plant one of the largest laboratories and production plants ever built.

No such realty development has hitherto been undertaken in any part of the Eastern half of the United States.

In announcing these plans Mr. Fox had only one comment to make. He said:

"The permanency of the motion picture industry, its vast prospective increase in scope and the new utilization to which motion pictures will be put in the future are the factors that have led us to make this large additional investment. Knowing this, we are ready to back our judgment with our dollars."

All of the detail work and management of this construction operation will be in complete charge of William Fried, of Mr. Fox's staff. Mr. Fried has had similar charge of the building of all of the recent Fox theatre buildings in Greater New York.

DU PONT SUBJECT, BY INDUSTRIAL, SHOWN AT MEETING

Chicago, Jan. 8.

The members of the Advertising Club of Chicago were recently entertained at a lunch given in the club dining room by the Du Pont Powder Company's film, entitled "Farming with Dynamite," which was made by the Industrial Moving Picture Company.

The value of the Du Point film as a publicity factor was explained in an interesting manner by Robert L. Ford of the Chicago office of the powder company.

This is the second event of this kind held by the Industrial Movie Committee of the Advertising Club of Chicago, of which Ed H. Philippi, of the Industrial Moving Picture Company, is chairman.

KALEM PLAYERS HOLD RECEPTION FOR ROSE MELVILLE

Sis Hopkins was welcomed to the ranks of screen characters last Wednesday evening at a reception given her creator, Rose Melville, by her fellow Kalem players and other screen artists now in Jacksonville, Florida.

The screeners turned out in full force and over a hundred were present at the dinner and dance which was given at the Kalem studio. There are eight companies of players now working in and around Jacksonville, including the companies located there for the winter and the feature organizations making brief stop-overs to secure the atmosphere for pictures that will be completed up North.

At Wednesday night's reception William Haddock, president of the Actor's Society of America, and a feature producer, made the address of welcome for the outside players while Kalem's producer, Robert Ellis and Miss Melville responded.

Miss Melville started her initial screen work bright and early Monday morning, and the Kalem studio is now almost as busy a spot as in the past days when three companies used to winter there.

PEGGY HOPKINS TURNS BACK ON SOCIETY FOR A CAREER

Peggy Hopkins, who recently made her debut in motion pictures, playing the role of a society butterfly in "The Turmoil," the five part Metro feature production, was until a short time ago a member of the younger social set in Washington, D. C. She tired of life in society, and turned to motion pictures to exploit her talents. She is an expert equestrienne, drives her own motor car, can sail a boat, swim, dive, and is proficient in many out-of-door sports.

PEGGY HOPKINS

She made such a good impression with small part in "The Turmoil," that she w immediately engaged for a more promine role in "Dimples," the Metro feature which Mary Miles Minter is starred, a which is now in process of production Savannah, Georgia.

GLIMPSES OF ORMI HAWLEY IN TYPICAL SCENES FROM THE JOSEPH W. FARNHAM PRODUCTION OF "RACE SUICIDE"

A. ARTHUR CAILLE DIES SUDDENLY IN DETROIT

Special to Motion Picture News

Detroit, Jan. 8.

A. Arthur Caille, president of the Majestic, Maxine and Ferry Field theatres, half owner of the Norwood and Fine Arts theatres, Detroit, and the Marx and Majestic theatres in Wyandotte, Mich., member of Caille Brothers, manufacturers of the Caille ticket theatre devices, president of the Michigan company of the Metro Film Corporation, and president of the recently organized Majestic Features Corporation, died Sunday evening, January 2, at his home in Second and Palmer avenues, after returning from a visit to his theatres.

He had no sooner entered the house, removed his coat, when he sank on his bed and died a half hour later. Mr. Caille was married only two weeks previous and that same day had returned from his honeymoon. He was forty-eight years old and had lived for twenty-three years in Detroit, where he was born. His death came as a tremendous shock to the motion picture industry and was keenly felt.

He had been looked upon as one of the big men in the industry and he was planning many big things for the coming year. Exhibitors and exchangemen from all over Michigan and Ohio expressed their feelings by beautiful floral gifts.

The funeral was held from his home on Wednesday afternoon, January 5. Henry J. Guthard, his partner in the theatres, John H. Kunsky, his former partner, A. J. Gillingham, of the General Film Company, and George W. Weeks, of the Universal branch, were among the pallbearers.

HALL CAINE'S SON, ON VISIT TO V-L-S-E OFFICIAL, MAY GO INTO FILMS

Derwent Hall Caine, son of the widely-known English author, was the guest of A. W. Goff, assistant general manager of the V-L-S-E last week.

Mr. Caine, who has just arrived in this country, is here to study the motion picture industry from all points, and possibly to appear personally before the camera in some of his father's works.

He has had considerable film experience in London, among the parts he played being that of the lead in the picture version of "The Christian," by the London Film Company.

Thanhouser Forces Gather in Jacksonville, Florida

In Next Ten Days Seven Companies Will Be in Production, in a Studio Capable of Holding Sixteen Sets—"Extras" Are Transported from New York

Special to Motion Picture News

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 8.

THE Thanhouser company arrived in the city on the twentieth and are stopping at the Seminole and Mason hotels. On the way down they produced a comedy aboard the Mohawk entitled, "Perkin's Pease Party," featuring Riley Chamberlain under the direction of William Howell.

They have just started work on a five-reel feature with Harris Gordon in the lead. It will be entitled, "The Oval Diamond," and is being produced by Eugene Moore.

A second company is expected within the next ten days, and in time they will have seven companies in Jacksonville. The studio is the finest in this part of the country and can hold sixteen sets.

The players have a private entrance leading into a large green room which will be fitted up comfortably. Edwin Thanhouser, president, and Lloyd Lonergan, author of "The Million Dollar Mystery," came down to inspect the plant and were delighted with it. They left for the New Rochelle studio last Tuesday.

While in the city Mr. Thanhouser made a trip to St. Augustine to look over some locations. The company now here follows:

George Grimmer, charge of productions; W. Ray Johnston, financial manager; Eugene Moore, director; Wm. A. Howell, director; Billy Sullivan, assistant director; Leo Wirth, assistant director; A. H. Moses, chief cameraman, and William Hollister, technical expert.

Players: Harris Gordon, Louise Emerald Bates, Violet Hite, Barbara Gilroy, Inda Palmer, Leo Post, Sully Guard, Boyd Marshall, Riley Chamberlain, Walter Hiers and Arthur Bauer.

The Thanhouser acting force includes a number of experienced supernumeraries. Contrary to the general practice of depending on local talent to save expense, Mr. Thanhouser set a precedent by transporting them down. He has always been careful about super work in pictures and would rather pay transportation and its incidental increase of expense than hazard the use of novices.

The Thanhouser players will be housed in a beautiful studio which has been put up at an expense of $30,000. It is a permanent edifice with one of the largest glass roofs ever constructed. George Grimmer is in charge.

Glen Lambert.

Lesser Buys "Ne'er-Do-Well" Rights for Country

San Francisco Exchangeman, Who Handled "The Spoilers," "The Christian," and "Cabiria" in the West, Pays Selig $150,000 for Control in All States

AS the result of a deal consummated last week with William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company, Sol L. Lesser has acquired the rights to "The Ne'er-Do-Well" for the entire country.

Mr. Lesser is said to have paid $150,000 for the rights.

"The Ne'er-Do-Well," filmed by Selig, was written by Rex Beach. Mr. Selig escorted a company of players, including Kathlyn Williams, Wheeler Oakman and others to the Canal Zone, where scenes along the big ditch were made. Mr. Lesser considers the picture a worthy successor to "The Spoilers."

"I shall handle 'The Ne'er-Do-Well' for the entire United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast," said Mr. Lesser. "There may be some territory I shall dispose of, as I find many demands for territory for this picturepiay.

"I expect to return home to the Pacific Coast this week, returning to New York City February 1, where my wife and little one will reside henceforth.

"Buying the complete rights to 'The Ne'er-Do-Well' is my biggest deal. I handled 'The Spoilers,' 'The Christian,' and 'Cabiria' out west and was one of the organizers of the Metro Pictures Corporation.

"I started in the moving picture business eight years ago as an exhibitor in Frisco and now operate exchanges in the Middle West. There is a deal already pending by which 'The Ne'er-Do-Well' may open in a Chicago theatre in the loop and Clune's Auditorium at Los Angeles has booked 'The Ne'er-Do-Well' for an extra week."

LIVE WIRE EXHIBITORS

EDITOR'S NOTE.—It is the desire of "Motion Picture News" to include under this heading novel advertising ideas, successful schemes in the management, decoration and equipment of the theatre—everything, in fact, done by the exhibitor to stimulate his trade. We invite every exhibitor to write us about any new enterprise he has; also to come to us for advice or information along any line. Address: Editor, "Motion Picture News," 220 West Forty-second Street, New York City

THE TRADE MARK IDEA IN ADVERTISING IS ONE THE EXHIBITOR SHOULD ADOPT

NEWSPAPER AD SERIES No. 5: FROM THE CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER'S PHOTOPLAY PAGE

Motion Picture Theaters DOWNTOWN
STRAND
The House Beautiful
E. Ninth and Prospect
WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY
EDWIN ARDEN
SUPPORTED BY BLISS MILFORD
IN
"THE BELOVED VAGABOND"
Continuous 11 A. M. to 11 P. M.
Fri. and Sat., WM. COURTENAY in "SEALED LIPS."
Coming—"CAMILLE."
EAST END
ALHAMBRA
EUCLID & E. 105 th
Mats. Daily, 2 and 3:45.
Monday to Wednesday
Grace Valentine
in
'BLACK FEAR'
Children's Matinee Every Day This Week.
Thurs., Fri. and Sat., "ROSEMARY" with Marguerite Snow.
FIRST RUN METRO PICTURES
EAST END.
METROPOLITAN
EUCLID BETWEEN 46th & 55th STREETS
MONDAY TO WEDNESDAY
WILLARD MACK
in
"ALOHA OE"
A Romance of Adventure, Laid in the South Sea Islands
Cavalleria Rusticana
—Mascagni
By the Concert Orchestra and Soloists. H. L. Spitalny, Director.
COMEDY EXTRAORDINARY
"THE SUBMARINE PIRATE"
FEATURING SID CHAPLIN.
TRIANGLE PLAYS
TWICE EACH EVENING.
7 and 9 P. M. Prices 10, 15 and 25c
EAST END
DUCHESS
E. 57th and Euclid.
THE PLAIN DEALER
Announces the Production of the First Official French Government Pictures of
"Fighting in France"
The pictures were taken by order of the French Great General Staff for the National Archives, and are being shown in Cleveland by the Plain Dealer through an arrangement with the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs. They show in detail all the operations of modern warfare, and are therefore as educational as they are absorbingly interesting. Don't fail to bring or send the children—let them see real history in the making.
THREE SHOWS DAILY

ILLUSTRATING DISTINCTIVE TYPOGRAPHY IN THE SMALL PICTURE THEATRE AD

ONE of the first things an exhibitor should do in advertising his pictures through the newspaper is to make his theatre's name a trade mark.

This can be done, of course, in several ways, the most effective being the association of the theatre's name with good pictures. The fact that the exhibitor has good pictures to show, however, will not necessarily bring the largest possible patronage. Only advertising can do that, and advertising of the right sort.

The trade mark idea has already been capitalized in many forms of national advertising, in this business, and in many others. There is no reason why the exhibitor cannot also employ it.

One of the steps toward trade marking the theatre is illustrated in the cut on this page. It is a reproduction of part of the picture theatre directory run in E. Arthur Roberts' photoplay page in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Note that each theatre uses a distinctive typography for displaying its name. The Strand is different from the Alhambra, the Metropolitan from the Duchess, etc. The result is that the theatre's name, and the theatre itself, become associated in the mind of the reader with the "head" he sees each day in his newspaper.

Observe also that these ads gain further distinction from the "Ben Dey" rules used around them. Instead of relying on old-fashioned type faces, have a specially designed cut made of your theatre's name. Use it in all your ads.

Carrying the trade mark idea one step further: Select an attractive phrase descriptive of your theatre—two or three words only, and run it in all your newspaper ads. For example: "The House Beautiful." Then live up to your trade mark.

AN EXHIBITOR WHO KNOWS VALUE OF NEWSPAPER SPACE

Evidences multiply that exhibitors are waking up to the value of big use of newspaper space in advertising.

A recent instance is furnished by the Strand Theatre, Providence, R. I., which used a full page in The Evening Bulletin, that city, to announce a change of policy.

D. Gus Schneider, the Strand's director of publicity, sends MOTION PICTURE NEWS a copy of the page, with this comment: "If this material is of any use to you we will be glad to have you make use of it."

Our answer is: we consider it so useful and so timely that we pass it along to exhibitors everywhere, with this hint:

If you have never tried big display advertising in newspapers, try it now. If you are already a generous patron of the newspaper, keep it up.

EXHIBITORS: PUT THE NEWS ON YOUR REGULAR MAILING LIST

Exhibitors should send MOTION PICTURE NEWS copies of their house organs, heralds and other theatre advertising regularly. Acknowledgement of receipt will be made in this department from week to week, and one or more will be selected for special comment.

Among those recently received: Program of the Grand Opera House, West Chester, Pa.; post card announcement of the Brewster Town Hall, Dykemans, N. Y.; Belmar, Regent and Bellevue Film Forecasts, Pittsburgh; Majestic Monthly, Columbus, O.; Electra Theatre Program, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Swanson Circuit News, Salt Lake City; Hoyburn Theatre Program, Evanston, Ill.; Movie Fan, Grand Junction, Col.; Strand-Rex-Bijou Weekly Review, Spartansburg, S. C.; Iris Gazette, Salisbury, N. C.; Program of the Adelphi Theatre, New York; "Family," Batavia, N. Y.; Arsenal Film Forecast, Pittsburgh; Program of the Circle Theatre, Easton, Pa.; Colonial Theatre Magazine, New York; Movieland, Dallas; the Photoplayer, Boise, Idaho; Lehigh Orpheum Theatre Program, South Bethlehem, Pa.; Orpheum Booster, Detroit; Feature Facts, Billings, Mont.; announcement of opening of Colonial theatre, Springfield, Mass.; herald from Kinema theatre, Fresno, Cal.

PUTS QUESTION OF SUNDAY SHOWS UP TO HIS PATRONS

Out of 952 ballots cast in a ballot box opened by T. Guy Perfect, of the Huntington Motion Picture Company, Huntington, Ind., to find out if his patrons wanted Sunday shows, only fifty-eight of his patrons were opposed to Sunday shows. Mr. Perfect says he does not know whether he will try to keep open on Sundays or not, but that he started the ballot box to find out what the people wanted.

"Many other cities in the state have Sunday shows, and I believe there is an overwhelming demand in this city for the same kind of entertainment," he says.

TORONTO THEATRE ISSUES 40-PAGE CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The Ideal theatre, Toronto, issued a forty-page Christmas program. This theatre is using Universal Service and the program was gotten out in conjunction with publicity department of the Universal Company, which supplied cuts and data.

The make up was good, in that all advertising was balanced with readable copy.

THE HOUSE ORGAN AND ITS PLACE IN THEATRE ADVERTISING

(Fourth of a series of articles on picture theatre advertising by J. W. Martin, Milwaukee correspondent of Motion Picture News.)

The house organ is a newsy little sheet usually gotten up in the form of a booklet or small paper, though it may be published in the form of a card or single slip containing notices of coming attractions, short synopses of coming features and stories on some of the actresses or actors who will appear in the pictures, as wel as any personal appeal the management may want to make to the patrons.

Material for the house organ can easily be gathered from the clip sheets sent out by the various film companies, while the cuts to illustrate the stories can be bought direct from the exchanges, or made up from the photographs at small expense to the exhibitor.

A house organ can be made just as an elaborate or simple affair as the publishers desire. It may be issued by a good newspaper man or press agent who understands make-up in a form that will make it vie with the established photoplay magazines in the interest of the people. The magazinc form of house organs is the ideal one, but also the most expensive. Unless the exhibitor owns a string of theatres, or has a very big downtown house, this form is usually too expensive. From the magazine type, the house organ can be graded down until it loses its identity in the form of a program, the back or one or two pages of which are devoted to photoplay news of interest to the patrons of the theatre. This form of house organ, however, is least effective.

However, there is one thing that should always be remembered when issuing a house organ, and that is that the style, or what newspaper men call the "make-up," can make or mar a publication of this kind. In other words, the headings on the stories, the captions on pictures, the arranging of the stories and cuts on the page, etc., should all be uniform, and for this reason it is best to have someone who has had newspaper or magazine experience supervise the publication of a magazine of this nature.

METRO PICTURES
MONDAY, DECEMBER 27th
THE WORLD'S YOUNGEST STAR
MARY MILES MINTER
WITH THE STAGE'S
OLDEST ACTRESS
MRS. THOMAS W. WHIFFEN
— IN —
"BARBARA FRIETCHIE"
A Thrilling Five-Act Photo-Drama Based Upon Whittier's Famous Poem
and Clyde Fitch's Stage Masterpiece
CAST OF CHARACTERS
BARBARA FRIETCHIE MARY MILES MINTER
Barbara, her Grandma MRS. THOMAS W. WHIFFEN
Captain Trumbull Guy Coombs
Jack Negly Fraunie Fraunholz
Judge Fnetchie Louis Sealy
Colonel Negly Frederick Heck
Arthur Fnetchie Wallace Scott
Sue Negly Ann Q. Nilsson
Mammy Lu Myra Brooks
Uncle Joe Charles Hartley
Fred Gelwex William A. Morse
Tom Green Jack Burns
"BARBARA FRIETCHIE"—A War Story without a Battle. How the flowerlike Barbara, born and reared under sunny Southern skies and named for her old grandmother, a staunch Union supporter, is won away from the cause of Jackson and Lee through her love for a captain of the hated Yankee army, and how in the end she gives her young life for the flag of her fathers and for the man she loves, forms a story of intense, heart-stirring human interest.
METRO PICTURES

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 28th
FINE ARTS FILM COMPANY
PRESENTS
DOROTHY GISH
with WALLACE REID
— IN —
"OLD HEIDELBERG"
Written and Produced by John Emerson Supervised by DAVID W. GRIFFITH
THE CAST
KARL WALLACE REID
Hereditary Prince of Rutania and Nephew of the reigning Prince Rudolf
KATHIE DOROTHY GISH
Niece of the keeper of an inn where Karl lives
DR. JUTTNER KARL FORNES JR
Prince Karl's tutor
LUTZ ERIC VON STROHEIM
Prince Karl's valet
KARL BILZ RAYMOND WELLS
Unmannerly youth lays hands on Kathie, and Prince Karl fights his first duel for her protection
VON WENDEL J. W. MCDERMOTT
A classmate from whom Prince Karl learns the meaning of comradeship
KELLERMAN JAMES GIBSON
The jovial personage who officiates at the students' drinking contests
RUDER | The Innkeeper, and | FRANKLIN ARBUCKLE
FRAU RUDER | his wife | MRS. MADGE HUNT
PRINCE RUDOLF ERIC VON TITZAU
Ruler of Rutania, whom the hand of God prevents from plunging his country into war
KATHIE'S MOTHER KATE TONCRAY
TRIANGLE - KEYSTONE
MACK SENNETT PRODUCTION FEATURING
ROSCOE ARBUCKLE
— IN —
"FICKLE FATTY'S FALL"
THE CAST
THE HUSBAND ROSCOE ARBUCKLE
Mr. Fatty takes the maid for a plunge in the pool
HIS WIFE MINTA DURFEE
Mrs. Fatty pursues him
THE BUTCHER BOY ALFRED ST JOHN
Does likewise
HER MOTHER PHYLLIS ALLEN
Joins in the pursuit
THE COOK GLEN COVENDER
Follows suit
THE MAID IVY CROSTHWAITE
Whose charms lead to Fickle Fatty's fall

The Electra Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., Issues an Attractive 12-Page Magazine, Typical Pages of Which Are Reproduced Above. As the Magazine Is Used as a Program by Patrons at Performances, Complete Casts of Pictures Are Given as Shown Above. It Also Serves as a House Organ, a Page Being Devoted to Coming Attractions. For Its Purpose, the Lay-out of This Publication Is Excellent

ELABORATE STAGE SETS WIN FAVOR OF 'FRISCO PATRONS

The elaborate stage sets featured at the Imperial theatre, San Francisco, in connection with the regular moving picture performances, proved to be a splendid drawing card, and aroused no little favorable comment.

As the Exposition is still uppermost in the minds of so many, this has been seized upon as the motif for a number of settings. Recently the Art Palace, with its beautiful lagoon, was featured, and this week the Tower of Jewels, the most spectacular feature of the Exposition at San Francisco, was reproduced in a manner that brought out much applause at several performances.

ORCHESTRA AND VICTROLA PRODUCE NEW WRINKLE IN MUSIC

Manager Soriero, of the Park theatre, Boston, is a man of novelties. He is not content to let things go on day after day in the same old rut. Consequently, no one who knows him was surprised when at a Sunday night performance recently he turned a new trick with his orchestra and a Victrola.

The orchestra played the accompaniment for the "Lucia" sextette, while canned Caruso and others sang through the machine hidden on a dark stage; and the audience couldn't tell whether the singers were there in person or not. At least they insisted on many encores.

A STRIKING PHOTOGRAPH OF ORMI HAWLEY AS SHE APPEARS IN "RACE SUICIDE," A JOSEPH W. FARNHAM PHOTOPLAY

CO-OPERATES WITH WOMAN'S CLUB FOR BETTER FILMS

P. James Gallagher, proprietor of the Pequonset theatre, Watertown, Mass., recently gave over his house a full evening to Gustave Frohman and the woman's club of that town, for the presentation of a better film program. Mr. Frohman is making considerable headway in bringing the exhibitor and the women's clubs together on the subject of better films.

He is also conducting special film showings among the settlements, and so improving the film's audience, which in turn will improve the film.

DAYTON THEATRE USES CALENDAR AS ADVERTISING NOVELTY

The Mecca Theatre, Dayton, Ohio, has issued an advertising novelty in the form of a calendar in color. A drawing of the theatre exterior, capped by the name of house in ornamental lettering, appears in the center of the calendar. Around three sides of it are pictures of 15 prominent screen actors and actresses.

The calendar proper is placed in the center of the card at the bottom. This is a good advertising stunt, for the reason that it keeps the theatre constantly in the mind of the persons who use the calendar.

NOVEL ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN BY MILWAUKEE EXHIBITOR

A novel advertising campaign was waged in Milwaukee by the Merrill theatre before it opened with Triangle plays. A series of ads playing up the merits of the theatre was run.

The first of these was headed: "Does Milwaukee Want $2 Photoplays?" and ended by stating that they were to be shown at the Merrill for 15 cents. This ad caused much comment. The campaign was handled by the Press Publicity Company of Milwaukee.

AMONG THE EXCHANGES

EXCHANGEMEN AT WORK ON BETTER DELIVERY PLANS IN CAPITAL CITY

THE exchangemen of Washington, D. C., are at present working on plans to better the delivery of both films and paper to the exhibitors in that territory. Since the organization of the National Exchangemen's Association some few weeks ago a number of efforts have been made to remedy many of the evils which now exist in the film business and to create a greater efficiency within the exchanges.

At the meetings which are held periodically such things as these are gone over and discussed. Talks are given by the various members on improved booking methods and pending laws for the keynote of the organization is "efficiency."

With this in mind, the members have been conferring with officials of the various express companies to see what could be done to decrease the number of delayed deliveries and eliminate much of the disappointment thus caused to exchangemen and exhibitors alike.

At the last meeting of the association at which officials of the Adams Express Company were present, the exchangemen were promised a schedule showing the time of arrival and departure of all trains carrying films with respect to all cities and towns in territory served from the capital city exchanges.

Each of the exchanges interested is to have this information placed upon a large blackboard where it can be consulted by the shipping clerks that shipments of films and paper may be gotten to the express offices in ample time to catch the proper trains.

The improved handling of C. O. D. returns was also discussed, the exchangemen having noticed a considerable delay in getting in money in this way. It was pointed out that although the exhibitors pay the amount on the C. O. D. shipments immediately a long time often elapses before exchanges receive the money.

The tracing of these is to be facilitated through the adoption of a form letter by all of the exchanges to be used in the filing of complaints of non-returns.

ATLANTA EXCHANGEMEN SEEK MODIFICATION OF FIRE ORDINANCE

ATTENDED by a committee of four, representing the motion picture film exchanges in Atlanta, a conference was held on Tuesday of last week in that city with Chief Engineer A. M. Schoen of the Southeastern Underwriters' Association on the subject of the ordinance recently passed by the Atlanta Council, regulating the storage and handling of film.

The film exchanges, while not wishing to be arbitrary, nevertheless made some objections to the new ordinance. Chief among these objections was one made to the section of the ordinance requiring the film exchanges to be equipped with automatic sprinklers.

Recognizing the justness of the objection it is probable that this feature of the ordinance will be eliminated, it was stated at the conference, since sprinklers would be of little service in extinguishing fires in film exchanges, such fires being very rapid in combustion and closely resembling explosions.

It is thought that observance of other sections of the ordinance, the text of which was published in a recent issue of Motion Picture News, will render it unnecessary to require sprinklers.

One or two other objections were made by the exchangemen's committee, but they were of minor importance and no difficulty is expected in settling the disputed points. Otherwise the committee is in hearty accord with the purposes and feasibility of the law.

The underwriters' bureau will inspect all exchanges in Atlanta shortly and the law will likely become effective by January 15.

KOHN BUYS APEX FROM SIMMONDS

The Apex Film Exchange, located in the Pantages theatre building, San Francisco, has been sold by J. Simmonds to Marion H. Kohn, who has taken full possession.

Mr. Kohn is well known in that city, having at one time been with Warner's Features, later starting the Globe Film Exchange.

After establishing the latter exchange he was made manager of the Apex, which entered the Frisco field a little more than a year ago, but resigned this position later to come to New York.

SOL LESSER ACROSS THE CONTINENT

Sol Lesser, president of the Golden Gate Film Exchange, Inc., and the All Star Feature Distributors, Inc., has returned to New York after a week's stay at home following his recent trip to that city.

As his business interests have become of national scope it is not unlikely that he will spend much of his time in the metropolis in the future, leaving the San Francisco business to his assistants.

EXCHANGEMEN IN CAPITAL CITY IN GLEE OVER 1916 OUTLOOK

After the expected dullness of the festival season, when Santa Claus received patronage more than the film, motion picture circles report the opening of the new year as most propitious.

The exchangemen are most optimistic of 1916. The recent reorganization of the Fox corporation exchanges places Harvey Day in charge of the Eastern division.

This officer made his first visit to the Washington office and was pleased with the progress and condition of affairs under the present manager, Carl F. Senning.

Another recent visitor to these offices was R. E. Reddish, from the home offices, and he, too, passed favorably on conditions in Washington, D. C.

The Metro Film Service Company, Inc., has undergone some changes. Mr. Allenbaugh, who has been an active member since the conception of this office, sold out his interests to advantage to his associates and he has located in New York.

The officers now stand with L. M. Day, president and treasurer; J. Frank Brown, vice-president and sales manager, and T. E. Kuntz, secretary. Mr. Brown will be on the road most of the time, where his capacity for placing Metro contracts has popularized these features throughout this territory.

Another member has been added to this family, that of Earl E. Reese, who will also be on the road for Metro.

DENNISON AND BACHMEYER MAKE CHANGES

Arthur Hoganson has been appointed special representative for the General Film Company and will work in Detroit and Toledo. He is handling the regular program and the Unit program.

W. C. Bachmeyer, formerly of the Pittsburgh branch of the Famous Players Film Company, has been appointed temporary manager of the Detroit office of the company, succeeding D. Leo Dennison, who has been transferred to take charge of the Chicago branch of the same company.

SIX RULES FOR RETURN OF FILMS FROM UNIVERSAL

Universal exchanges are now sending the following suggestions with shipments to out-of-town customers:

Important to Exhibitors—

1. Do not put wrong band on right reel.
2. Do not hold reels for a month.
3. Ship back on first train after show.
4. Do not patch film with nails, pins or railway spikes.
5. Put on the reel bands tight.
6. Ship back all extra pails and boxes promptly.

V-L-S-E OPENS OFFICES IN CANADA AT TORONTO UNDER GOOKIN

THE constantly expanding business of the Big Four in Canada, has necessitated that combination organizing a special sales service and headquarters in that section of America.

The first of the offices to be opened will be in Toronto, under the management of G. W. Gookin, who will be general manager of the entire V-L-S-E organization in Canada under General Manager Walter W. Irwin.

Mr. Gookin will assemble his entire staff from "native sons" in Canada and will divide the large territory which is to be covered into blocks so that every representative will be in close touch with the exhibitors in his particular quota.

Mr. Gookin, who has been with the V-L-S-E only since last September, provides another illustration of the principle of that organization to make its promotions from the ranks, is well fitted to take care of the big interests which will be under his direction.

For four years Mr. Gookin was instructor of sales for the National Cash Register Company.

It was here that he first became interested in motion pictures, being probably the first sales director to use motion pictures in instructing his force.

Later Mr. Gookin went with the Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Company, of which concern he was general manager for four years.

He was afterward president of the Gookin Bank and Office Equipment Company of Atlanta, Ga., which acted as Southern distributors for the Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Company, the Fireproof Furniture and Construction Company, and the Adder Machine Company, manufacturers of Wales Visible Adding Machine.

When the business of the latter concern was turned by Mr. Gookin over to the Adder Machine Company, the organization making the Wales Visible Adding Machine, Mr. Gookin accepted a subordinate position with the V-L-S-E in order to learn the film industry from the ground up.

He entered the New York office as a shipping clerk first, and was subsequently promoted to the position of booker. A few weeks afterward, he was transferred to the Pacific Coast, where he rendered invaluable aid to Mr. A. W. Goff, coast division manager, and now assistant general manager of the V-L-S-E, in introducing advanced merchandising and advertising methods among the exhibitors of that territory.

Mr. Gookin accompanied by Joseph Partridge, left for Toronto the first of this week, equipped with prints of all V-L-S-E releases and a large quantity of promotion matter.

In addition to the personal sales campaign, the new Canadian manager will inaugurate a widespread and comprehensive mail and advertising campaign which he is unusually well equipped to direct.

The V-L-S-E has been trading in Canada almost from its inception, a large number of its films having been booked in western Canada by the Seattle office and in the large cities of eastern Canada direct from the New York office.

It is expected that this business will be largely augmented with the presence of an organization on the field.

PHILLIPPS' HAND ON THE THROTTLE AT FOX NEW ENGLAND OFFICE IN ABSENCE OF CAMPBELL

BUSINESS for the Fox New England Exchange at 12 Piedmont street, Boston, continues to boom along under full steam whether Harry Campbell, manager, is able to give his full time to it or not.

Half the time now he is flitting about Canada, seeking and finding exhibitors with whom Fox films can be placed. But the New England business, under the direction during Mr. Campbell's absence of Charles Phillipps, does not recede at all.

Just recently arrangements have been made by which Fox films will be shown at the Owl in Lowell, Scollay Square Olympia in Boston, Loew's South End in Boston, and Olympic in Cambridge.

Mr. Campbell is now spending three days in Toronto, four in Montreal, and will spend some time in New York before returning to Boston.

T. B. Spry, of the American Feature Film Company, Tremont street, Boston, which company handles Metro, told the NEWS man the other day that before long larger quarters would have to be taken.

The firm will either build or move into a building at the corner of Piedmont and Church streets, in the motion picture district. At present the executive offices of the company are on Tremont street, some distance removed from the shipping office.

Pathé's color picturization of William J. Locke's "The Beloved Vagabond" has drawn large audiences to Tremont Temple in Boston. This was the first opportunity Boston had had to view a colored film drama.

ADVISES EXHIBITORS TO READ "NEWS" FOR HELPFUL HINTS

Harry Hyman, salesman for the World exchange in Omaha, told a number of small town exhibitors the advantages of having a New Year's Eve show until 12 o'clock. Many exhibitors did, accommodating watch night parties in big numbers, besides many individuals.

"Helping the exhibitor with timely suggestions and explanations helps just as much as selling him good pictures," said Hyman. "The only trouble is I don't know all the suggestions, but I tell 'em to read those I don't know, in MOTION PICTURE NEWS. There they'll find not only those I don't know, but those I figure up myself, because I believe in boosting the business with every idea I can muster."

Hyman is one of the best motion picture salesmen out of Omaha.

EPSTEIN SUCCEEDS FLARITY IN SYRACUSE, NEW YORK

Alfred Epstein, who was manager of the Boston branch for the Pathé, from last January to July, and since then connected with the Twenty-third street, New York branch of the same company, has been promoted to manager of the Syracuse, N. Y., branch, covering New York State. Mr. Epstein succeeds Fred Flarity.

ALFRED EPSTEIN, NEW MANAGER OF THE PATHE EXCHANGE, SYRACUSE, N. Y.

Mr. Epstein is known as a whirlwind salesman, and to him belongs the credit for having been able to book the first Pathé Gold Rooster play in the Strand theatre, New York City.

Through his efforts the "Beloved Vagabond" played at the Strand theatre one week, and he also arranged for an indefinite contract for Pathé comedies and scenics.

V-L-S-E SALESMEN IN KANSAS HOLD CONVENTION

Charles Nichols, the noted baseball player has accepted a position with the Universal Film and Supply Company in Kansas City. He has been with a number of the film companies in this territory. He also was an exhibitor in Kansas City for a number of years.

C. A. Jones has been added to the sales force of the Universal Film and Supply Company, at Kansas City. Jones was, until recently, with the Metro Pictures, Inc.

A V-L-S-E salesmen convention was recently held in Kansas City. The traveling representatives of this firm from all of this territory were there and were in conference with Manager E. R. Pearson and Assistant General Manager Goff.

SHRADER TRANSFERRED FROM CINCINNATI TO CLEVELAND, V-L-S-E

R. S. Shrader, manager of the Cincinnati office of the V-L-S-E Inc., has been transferred to the Cleveland office.

He will be succeeded by C. E. Shurtleff, manager of the Detroit office.

BERNFELD PLACES "RED CIRCLE" IN MANY NEW ENGLAND THEATRES

Pathé's serial, "The Red Circle," is making a big hit throughout the New England territory. The story being printed in the papers, by Albert Payson Terhune, is having a direct effect on the support given to the film serial by the public.

Manager Bernfeld of the New England Pathé exchange has placed the serial in these theatres:

Beacon, Royal, Loew's South End and Comique in Boston; Strand in Haverhill; Bijou in Fall River; Orpheum in Stoughton; Franklin Park and Egleston Square in Roxbury; Colonial in Andover; Rockland in Rockland; Auditorium in Quincy; Star in Lawrence; Everett Square in Hyde Park; Wakefield in Wakefield; the Opera House in Athol; the Day Square in East Boston; Plaza in Worcester; Supreme in Jamaica Plain; Allston in Allston; Royal in New Bedford; Winthrop Hall in Dorchester; Universal in Fitchburg; Lyric in Fall River; Ideal in Milford; Blanchard in Southbridge; Steinberg in Webster; Pastime in West Lynn; Drinkwater Hall in West Hanover; in Rhode Island, Bijou in Woonsocket; in New Hampshire, Nashua in Nashua, Modern in Manchester, Crown in Manchester and Pastime in Tilton; in Vermont, Playhouse in Rutland and Please U in St. Johnsbury; in Connecticut, Empire in Hartford, Lyceum in New London, Circle in South Manchester and Princess in Bristol.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., EXCHANGES FORCED TO MOVE BY UNDERWRITERS

The Eckel Company, controlling the Vinney Building, housing the various film exchanges in Syracuse, New York, have served notice on the Exchanges that they must vacate the building not later than January 31.

The fire underwriters have cancelled the insurance on the entire block until the film exchanges seek other quarters, which is due principally to the fact that the Eckel theatre is located in the building.

This ruling affects the Picture Playhouse Film Company, the Fox Film Corporation, The Greater New York Film Rental Company, The Universal Film Company, The Mutual Film Company, The Exclusive and the United Film Service.

The exchanges are seeking other quarters and expect to find a suitable building to be devoted exclusively to the film business.

LOWREY IS PUBLICITY MANAGER FOR "U" IN DENVER

Elmer J. Lowrey has been appointed publicity manager for the Universal Film and Supply Company of Denver, over the intermountain territory.

Mr. Lowrey has had successful experience in this line of work, having held similar positions with several of the larger theatres.

KINGSLEY IS MADE ASSISTANT FOR FOX IN DETROIT

C. G. Kingsley has been appointed assistant manager of the Detroit branch of the Fox Film Corporation. He was formerly in the Cincinnati branch of the Fox corporation.

GRADY, REARDON AND BUTLER TOUCH HIGH SELLING PERCENTAGES MARKS AT BOSTON

IT was a happy day for Manager Balsdon, of the New England V-L-S-E Exchange at 67 Church street, Boston, when the home office reported to him that last month the three salesmen who work out from the Boston office, F. A. Grady, L. J. Reardon and T. M. Butler, ranked first, second and third, respectively, in the efficiency list of all the Big Four salesmen.

The high standing of these three men was reckoned as follows: Mr. Grady—percentage cost to sell, 3; points on collections, 31; points on advanced bookings, 62; total points collections from August 16, 47; total points advanced bookings, 1,022.

V-L-S-E EXCHANGE, 67 CHURCH STREET, BOSTON, WITH MANAGER BALSDON AND ASSISTANTS POSING FOR THE CAMERA

Mr. Reardon—percentage cost to sell, 3; points collections, 23; points advanced bookings, 66; total points collections, 314; total points advanced bookings, 572.

Mr. Butler—percentage cost to sell, 4; points collections, 21; points advanced bookings, 53; total points collections, 61; total points advanced bookings, 233.

From this it will be seen that Big Four business under the Balsdon leadership is progressing fast and far. Just now particular emphasis is being laid on the Hearst-Vitagraph news service.

Already three full page advertisements have been run in Boston papers and orders for the service are beginning to pour in from exhibitors throughout the territory.

Already the service has been placed in the Bijou, Keith's and the Boston on Washington street, Boston; the new Fenway on Massachusetts avenue, Boston; Mystic, in Malden; Star, in North Brookfield; Blanchard's, in Southbridge; Park, in Spencer; Music Hall, in Webster; Pleasant street, in Worcester, and Premier, Norwood; Dreamland, in Bath, and Cumberland, in Brunswick, Me.; Star, in Dover, N. H.; Globe in St. Johnsbury, and Bennington Opera House, in Bennington, Vt.; Park, in Woonsocket, and Emery, in Providence, R. I.

Recently Mr. Balsdon has built in a cashier's room next to his private office. The exchange is one of the best planned in Boston.

The large force of office assistants is constantly on the jump, and yet ever courteous to the visitor.

The most recent addition to this force is Arthur L. Widner, who formerly appeared before the films at the Vitagraph studios, and who has also written and had produced several scenarios. Mr. Widner has now transferred his attention to the distribution end of the game, and is proving a valuable assistant in the Balsdon office.

VAUGHN SHOWS HOW TO PUT ON EXPENSIVE PICTURE

To show that he could make a costly film pay, at a suburban theatre Cecil C. Vaughn, assistant manager for the Mutual in Omaha, arranged to show "Damaged Goods" at the Suburban theatre, Omaha, at his own expense, providing he could have the profits. He paid the exhibitor rent for the theatre.

Vaughn advertised the picture, which had already been run at a big downtown house, arousing much interest and talk. Billboards and newspapers were used. The exhibitor, who had scoffed at making a one-hundred-dollar-a-day picture pay, watched him with interest.

Vaughn made forty-five dollars over and above all expenses, including the price of the film, rent, operator's expenses, light, music—everything. And the exhibitor was convinced.

UNIVERSAL IN KANSAS OPENS SCHOOL FOR FILM INSPECTORS

A new and very clever plan is being adopted by the Universal office in Kansas City. It is the opening of a school for the benefit of the film inspectors. R. C. Cropper, manager of this office, has mapped out a system whereby every inspector in his employ will undergo a thorough schooling before he or she can go to work on the tables as a full-fledged inspector.

The manner in which this school will be conducted is to give a series of illustrated lectures, starting at the very bottom of it, and following along with every detail, bringing out all the vital points that each inspector should be familiar with.

A book of set rules will be made up so that each one will have it handy at all times, and these rules will also be sent out to each operator throughout the territory who feels in need of such a guide.

This arrangement will place each one of the inspectors in this office in a position to face the angry mob of operators with a clear conscience knowing that they really do know how to inspect film.

Film News From Foreign Parts

"FOR AUSTRALIA" BASED ON DESTRUCTION OF "EMDEN," MAKES HIT AT ANTIPODES

Special to Motion Picture News

Sydney, N. S. W., Dec. 13.

SOME very good features have been shown to the public this last few weeks. The best, being the following:

"Rags," F. P. J; "Alias Jimmy Valentine," World; and "Midnight at Maxim's" Kalem.

The latter proved such a draw that it was given a second week's run.

"For Australia" is the title of an interesting three-reel story produced by J. C. Williamson, featuring Alma Phillips and Boyd Irwin. The story deals with the destruction of the Emden by the Australian cruiser Sydney.

Another film, "How We Beat the Emden," was put on by Australian Films, principally with the idea of drawing patrons from the other film. The picture itself was merely a succession of interest and topical subjects woven together, and a plot that does not reflect much credit on either the author or producers.

A new firm has started in the producing business here—The Double "A"—("All Australian"), and the first subject is now in the making and will feature Dave Smith —the boxer. Let's hope the enterprise will meet with the success it deserves—especially in these strenuous times.

"Twin Beds" is to be presented by the J. C. Williamson management shortly, in this city, and the two leads are Hale Hamilton, who has been with Keystone, and Myrtle Tannehill, whom I had the pleasure of seeing lately in a Kalem Broadway Favorite.

I have viewed several films lately—"The Pit" was one of them—that have spelt our little village here as Sidney. Directors, etc., kindly remember that it is spelt Sydney.

I am looking forward to seeing "Stingaree," by Kalem. Some companies' directors have rather a startling idea of the correct "Australian atmosphere." So, we'll see what Kalem can do.

"Hypocrites," the four-reel Bosworth, is in its last week's run at the Palace theatre, Sydney. The Union Theatres, Limited, are unable to secure a longer lease, so have decided to tour the smaller cities with the subject.

My friend, Tom S. Imru, who conducts the Motion Picture Department in a local weekly paper, The Mirror, has started a photoplayers' popularity contest, and it has been a decided success. The last count of the votes showed the following artists in the lead:

Drama.

Henry B. Walthall, Essanay; Mary Pickford, F. P. F.

Comedy.

Charlie ——? Mabel ——?

Mabel better look out for herself, all the same, as Fay Fincher is just holding the reins for the final spurt.

The next in the running for the Drama are Lockwood, Costello, Kerrigan and Marguerite Clark.

The features to be shown in the city this current week include: "The Crucible," F. P. F.; "Man Who Found Himself," World; "Up from the Depths," M. M. P.

New Zealand has established a board of film censors.

Let us hope that such troublesome animals never arrive this way.

Essanay Features are now conspicuous by their absence, and in the past I have spent many pleasant hours viewing this company's productions. I have been looking forward to see Henry B. Walthall in his new surroundings.

Good wishes for Xmas and New Year.

Hal H. Carleton.

"Onda of the Orient" First "U" Philippine Film

A Number of the Scenes Will Also Be Taken in Honolulu and in Midocean—Company Will Also Visit South Sea Islands

"ONDA of the Orient" is the title of the first picture that Henry McRae's Universal company will make in the Philippines.

The first scenes will be made in and around San Francisco and will be followed by others after the steamer carrying the company sails from San Francisco on its long journey to the Far East.

The company will leave the Pacific Coast metropolis on the liner Tenyo Maru. The first stop will be at Honolulu, where Director McRae plans to take a number of scenes which will fit into his picture.

After departing from the "Paradise of the Pacific," the Tenyo Maru will sail for Yokohama and it is McRae's intention to have the ship stop in midocean in order to make several thrilling rescue scenes for his production.

An Attractive Scene from "The Reward of Chivalry," Gold Seal-Universal, in Which Herbert Rawlinson Is Starred

Arrangements already have been made by the Universal company with the steamship people by which the McRae company will be extended every facility for the filming of all the scenes aboard ship that are desired.

Director McRae has several other stories in preparation. One of these has the Land of the Rising Sun—the cherry-blossom country—for the location of the play and the Celestial Empire will be the location of another of these plays.

In addition to spending some time in Japan and China, McRae will take his Universal company to the South Sea Islands and will also visit New Zealand, Australia and Tasmania.

Under instructions from President Carl Laemmle, thousands of feet of film will be devoted to picturing the daily life and industries of the people of the Orient and of the islands on the Pacific and later will be released on the regular program of the Universal company. These films will be of educational value.

Accompanying McRae on his notable journey will be Fred Leroy Granville, who was the chief camera man of the Steffanson expedition to the Arctic. Granville will serve in the same capacity with McRae.

Granville is a native of Australia and when the company reaches that far away land in the South Pacific. McRae and Granville, accompanied by a guide, will penetrate New Guinea and visit a portion of that state which, it is claimed, has not yet been traversed by any white man.

LOTTIE PICKFORD SOON CAST FOR 5-REELER, AMERICAN

Lottie Pickford is soon to appear in a specially written five-part drama, the title of which the American Film Company has not yet announced.

Looking Ahead With The Producers

NEWSPAPER SCENES OF "FOURTH ESTATE," FOX, TAKEN IN DEPARTMENTS OF CHICAGO HERALD

A STORY of newspaper life entitled "The Fourth Estate," in which the methods employed by the chiefs of the daily press in exposing graft and its attendant ramifications, is the next William Fox feature picture announced for release, the date being January 16.

It tells a story of love, hate, adventure and the final vengeance that overtakes a political judge who consorts with party leaders of questionable reputations.

"The Fourth Estate" was written by Joseph Medill Patterson, a newspaper man himself, who injected into the story that indefinable atmosphere of working life in every department of a newspaper plant that has an unexplainable charm for outsiders.

The story was told in action through the portrayal of the principal characters by Ruth Blair, Clifford Bruce and Samuel Ryan, the settings for the most important scenes being backgrounded by familiar places in Chicago.

The newspaper scenes were taken in the offices and mechanical departments of the Chicago Herald through the courtesy of its owner and editor, James Keeley, who placed his entire plant at the disposal of Director Frank Powell, who supervised the production.

Although Chicago furnished most of the scenes, Director Powell journeyed to Cobalt, Ontario, for the action that was the turning point in the story, and flashes of the snow ladened country in Canada contrast vividly with the hurry and bustle of the Windy City's busy thoroughfares.

The scenes that will most impress those interested in newspaper establishments and their modus operandi, occurs when a big story is ready for release and its journey from typewriter to the printed page of a city daily is flashed on the screen.

"The Fourth Estate" was originally produced as a spoken drama and achieved success. The complete cast includes Clifford Bruce, Ruth Blair, Samuel Ryan, Alfred Hickman, Victor Benoit, Aline Bartlett and Stacey Van Petten.

McCLUSKY WRITES SCRIPT FOR TOURNEUR

Director Maurice Tourneur's first feature picture for the new Paragon Films, Inc., of which he is vice-president and general manager, will be an original photoplay by Lawrence McClusky, in which House Peters will be starred.

Details of the film will be announced.

VITAGRAPH'S "MY LADY'S SLIPPER" SCHEDULED FOR A HIGH KICK AT POPULARITY ON 17TH

"MY Lady's Slipper," a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature in five parts, with Anita Stewart and Earle Williams, produced under the direction of Ralph Ince from the story by Cyrus Townsend Brady, is the principal release by the Vitagraph Company for the week of January 17. It is an elaborate costume production and shows Miss Stewart and Mr. Williams to advantage in the silks and satins of the Louis XVI period in France.

Included in the week's releases is a one-part comedy, "Them Was the Good Old Days," featuring Kate Price, Harry Fisher, and John T. Kelly; "A Telegraphic Tangle," a one-reel comedy by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, and a Broadway Star Feature, "The Secret Seven," produced by William Humphrey and featuring Leo Delany, Carolyn Birch, Harry Northrup, Rose Tapley, Templer Saxe and Director Humphrey.

In "My Lady's Slipper," one of the scenes in particular is taken in the ballroom of the old Havermeyer house, at Fifth avenue and Thirty-eighth street, New York, which has since been torn down. The house-wreckers were already at work when the location was discovered by Mr. Ince.

He and his company of players worked almost night and day to crowd in the necessary number of scenes.

Many of the exteriors were taken near the Vitagraph s new studio at Brightwaters, Long Island. Ince was fortunate in obtaining permission to use the country estate of a wealthy man whose house and grounds were modeled after a French chateau of the Louis XVI period.

Besides Anita Stewart, Earle Williams and Harry Northrup, others in the cast are Joseph Kilgour, Julia Swayne Gordon, George O'Donnell, William Shea and George Stevens. The story was picturized by Edward Montague.

"Them Was the Good Old Days," scheduled for release January 17, tells the story of a grouchy old man whose antipathy to modern things brings on a dream and he lives again in the times of a hundred years ago.

The story was produced by C. Jay Williams from the scenario by Mark Swan, with the three Vitagraph comedians, Kate Price, Harry Fisher and John T. Kelly.

"A Telegraphic Tangle," a one-part comedy with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, is scheduled for release on January 21. It is a story of a man who has a night out against the wishes of his wife.

"The Secret Seven," released January 22, is a Broadway Star Feature in three parts and is a Secret Service play, produced under the direction of William Humphrey. In the cast are William Humphrey, Leo Delany, Harry Northrup, Carolyn Birch, Rose Tapley and Templer Saxe.

DRAMATIC MOMENTS IN THE FOX PHOTOPLAY OF NEWSPAPER LIFE, "THE FOURTH ESTATE," WITH RUTH BLAIR AND CLIFFORD BRUCE

Illustrating Coming World Film Photoplays: (Top, Left to Right) Kitty Gordon in "As in a Looking Glass"; Thurlow Bergen in "The City"; Maurice Tourneur's Artistic Lighting of a Scene from "McGinnis," with George Beban; (Below left) Frances Nelson in "The Point of View"; (Below Right) Alice Brady in "The Ballet Girl"

MARGARET GIBSON A STAR IN "LITTLE LADY OF LIONS," HORSLEY

Production will be started next Monday at David Horsley's studio in Los Angeles on "The Little Lady of Lions," a story of circus life, which in its final form will be released as a Mutual Masterpicture, de luxe edition, in March. The scenario is by Roy L. McCardell, being his first contribution under the arrangement to write animal stories exclusively for Mr. Horsley, and that it will present Margaret Gibson as a star in a five reel production.

The story was written by Roy L. McCardell with Miss Gibson in mind for the leading role.

Miss Gibson's first experience was gained with the Vitagraph company, which she left to join the New York Motion Picture Company. Here she was given opportunity to display her talents, an opportunity of which she took advantage to such an extent that Mr. Horsley, realizing her worth, engaged her when the first chance presented itself. "The Little Lady of Lions" is the second picture, as far as five reel length subjects are concerned, to which the "featured" clause applies.

MANTELL CAST FOR "SPIDER AND THE FLY"

Robert B. Mantell, with Genevieve Hamper and an excellent supporting cast, including Claire Whitney, Henry Leone, Stuart Holmes and Little Jane Lee are working in a William Fox feature entitled "The Spider and the Fly."

The work on the picture is being done in Kingston, Jamaica, under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards.

PAUL GILMORE CAST FOR "HOUSES OF MYSTERY"

Paul Gilmore is featured in the leading role of the Knickerbocker Star Features, three-reel drama entitled "Houses of Mystery," released on the General Film program Friday, January 21.

Mr. Gilmore needs no introduction to filmdom or the theatre going public.

HOLBROOK BLINN, KITTY GORDON, GEORGE BEBAN, AND ROBERT WARWICK IN WORLD'S LIST

THE World Film Corporation's schedule of releases for the first month of the new year brings forward such stars as Holbrook Blinn, Kitty Gordon, George Beban, Alice Brady, Robert Warwick and Fania Marinoff.

Holbrook Blinn adds another portrait to his long gallery in his study of McTeague, in "Life's Whirlpool," a feature based on Frank Norris' novel "McTeague.

In "Life's Whirlpool," Mr. Blinn is supported by Fania Marinoff, who assumes the role of Trina, the woman who despite McTeague's vagaries sticks to him through thick and thin till her situation becomes more than flesh and blood can support. Mr. Blinn is now hard at work on a society drama in which he appears as a social highwayman.

"Fruits of Desire" stars Robert Warwick, in whose support appears a cast including Ralph Delmore, Robert Cummings, Madeline Traverse, who makes her debut under the World Film standard in this drama, Dorothy Fairchild, Phillis Hazeltine, Mildred Havens, James Mack, Alec C. Francis, Harry G. Weir and others. The story of "Fruits of Desire" is based upon Henry Russell Miller's powerful novel of modern life, "The Ambition of Mark Truitt."

Warwick is said to have the strongest part in his film career. The picture is under the direction of Oscar Eagle.

"The Point of View" introduces a new film star in Frances Nelson, in this film version of Jules Eckert Goodman's dramatic story. Miss Nelson plays Myra, a country girl, who is ardently loved by a prosaic grocery "king," but hankers for an artistic career.

She falls into the clutches of Robert Lawton, an artistic libertine. The story hinges on the "points of view" of Robert and Myra. Emile Chautard directs this feature.

Kitty Gordon enters the film ranks in a compelling screen production of F. C. Phillips' sensational novel of smart society life, "As in a Looking Glass." Miss Gordon in this photoplay is provided with a role congenial to her in every way.

She enacts a woman of the "four hundred," and is afforded an opportunity to display an amazing variety of gowns. It is said that she changes her gown with every hundred foot of film.

"The Genius-Pierre" is the title finally selected for the new photodrama in which George Beban, who won screen fame in "An Alien," makes his bow, under the World banner.

Maurice Tourneur, who directed, is authority for the statement that it exceeds in sheer dramatic interest and intensity any drama he has so far directed. George Beban is himself responsible for the scenario.

Mr. Beban is supported by a large cast, including Doris Kenyon, John Hines and John Davidson.

In "The Ballet Girl," Alice Brady is to be seen in a role quite new to this actress. Holbrook Blinn appears as co-star of Miss Brady. "The Ballet Girl" is a William A. Brady production and is based upon "Carnival," the Compton MacKenzie success in which Grace George scored.

In "The Ballet Girl," a distinctive touch is added to the engrossing story and the massive production by the introduction of the ballet of the Metropolitan Opera House. The drama tells the story of a young girl's choice between a career and a life of marriage.

BUTLER PICKED FOR "THE DEAD ALIVE," GAUMONT

W. J. Butler, who has been for six years with the Biograph company, will make his initial bow as a Gaumont character actor in "The Dead Alive," the Mutual Masterpicture in which Marguerite Courtot is starred.

LOOKING AT TYPICAL GILBERT-BRAY SILHOUETTE PICTURES, WHICH WILL CAPER FOR PARAMOUNT PATRONS

"LOVE TRAIL" ADAPTED FROM ENGLISH NOVEL

"The Dope Doctor," a novel by Richard Dehan, has proved so popular in England that it has run through twenty-four editions. The Pathé English office acquired the picture rights, and the feature made from it will be released on the Gold Rooster program, January 21, under the title, "The Love Trail."

In the cast are Fred Paul, Agnes Glynne, and Booth Conway, names which perhaps are not so well known on this side of the water, but stand for popularity in England.

The story is a stirring one, strongly emotional, and deals with South Africa in Boer war times. It shows the regeneration through love of a clever doctor, Owen Saxham, who through misfortune becomes a drunkard.

Interwoven with his life story is that of a girl, brought up in the most criminal and sordid surroundings, who by a happy accident is rescued from her environment by a nun and becomes a splendid woman.

"JERRY IN MEXICO" RELEASED JANUARY 21

The adventures of Jerry, the principal character in the Cub Comedy releases, whose proclivities continually get him into trouble, are continued in the Cub comedy scheduled for release on the Mutual program for January 21.

The picture is called "Jerry in Mexico," and transfers the scene of Jerry's troubles from the states to the country just across the border. George Ovey plays Jerry in this as in all other Cub pictures.

George Ovey's supporting company includes Jefferson Osborne, George George, Janet Sully, Belle Bennett and a host of supernumeraries.

TIGER AND LEOPARD CHEW EACH OTHER UP IN A RED SEAL

According to the manufacturer's announcement, a fight to the death between a royal Bengal tiger and a leopard will feature "Thou Shalt Not Covet," a Selig Red Seal Play, released through V-L-S-E, February 7. The scene was filmed at the Selig Jungle-Zoo.

Kathlyn Williams, who has the leading role, is said to have performed several hazardous feats for the picture, among them a plunge from a runaway horse, a leap from a sinking ship into the sea, and a struggle with a leopard.

FANNIE WARD IN BRET HARTE'S "TENNESSEE'S PARDNER" RELEASED BY LASKY, FEBRUARY 3

ANNOUNCEMENT was made this week by the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, of the photoplays it will release on the Paramount program during February.

The productions and the dates of their release are:

Fannie Ward in "Tennessee's Pardner," a picturization of Marion Fairfax of Scott Marble's version of Bret Harte's story of the same name, February 3.

Charlotte Walker in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," from Eugene Walter's story of the same name, based on John Fox, Jr.'s widely read novel, February 14. Cecil B. DeMille is the director of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

Miss Blanche Sweet in "The Blacklist," a tense dramatic photoplay by Marion Fairfax.

"Tennessee's Pardner," in which Miss Ward will appear, is a tale of the far West, the days of '49, when strong men fought the elements and made brave march across the country to establish a new empire. Of all the stories written by Bret Harte, this narrative of little "Tennessee." is probably the best known.

Among interesting features of the Lasky picturization of "Tennessee's Pardner," is the fact that considerable of the action takes place in the old mission of San Fernando, California. Permission was obtained to use the old mission as the scene of the pictures.

This quaint old place, a relic of a former day, was built by the Jesuits about 1800 and is one of a series of missions, each situated about a day's journey from the other in a line of travel from Mexico to Monterey.

For several years Charlotte Walker appeared as the star on the legitimate stage in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," in which she now appears, under the direction of Cecil B. DeMille, as the photoplay star.

Miss Walker already has appeared in two Lasky productions with exceptional success. They are "Kindling" and "Out of the Darkness." The role of June in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" admirably suits Miss Walker's charm and beauty.

William C. DeMille is directing the Blanche Sweet production, "The Blacklist," which is a photodrama by Marion Fairfax.

WARWICK FINISHES "FRUITS OF DESIRE"

Robert Warwick and the other members of the company producing "The Fruits of Desire," under the direction of Oscar Eagle for the World Film Corporation, completed the final scenes of that feature this week.

After a short rest Mr. Warwick will begin work on a new picture, the title for which has not been chosen.

FANNIE WARD BLANCHE SWEET CHARLOTTE WALKER

MAE MURRAY A LASKY STAR IN JOHNSON ATTRACTION

Mae Murray, beauty and star of "Ziegfield Follies," will make her debut as a photoplay star in the Lasky Feature Play Company's production, "To Have and to Hold," a picturization of Mary Johnson's novel.

Miss Murray and the company that will appear with her and Wallace Reid, who is co-star with her in the production, have left Hollywood, California, and have gone to one of the coast villages where many of the scenes will be taken.

Mr. Reid, who has just made his bow as a Lasky star with Cleo Ridgley in "The Golden Chance," will play the role of Captain Ralph Percy.

The rest of the cast includes Tom Forman, Raymond Hattan, William Bradbury, James Neil, Bob Grey, Lucien Littlefield, Camille Astor and Bob Fleming.

CHARLOTTE BURTON CAST FOR "THOROUGHBRED," WITH RUSSELL

American Film Company announces "The Thoroughbred" as the second of its releases under the head of the Mutual Masterpictures, de luxe edition. William Russell and Charlotte Burton are cast in the leading roles, with the support of an all-star cast of American players, including Lizette Thorne, Roy Stewart and Jack Prescott.

"The Thoroughbred" is the powerful story of a young man's fight to "come back" after a severe financial thrashing on the stock exchange. A score of big scenes are introduced, including a big mine explosion.

VIM TO SUPERSEDE MINA ON FEB. 27

Commencing Thursday, February 27, Vim comedies will supersede MinA comedies on the General Program. Bungles, one of the popular comedians of Europe, was forced on account of the war to cancel his contracts in Europe. The first of his comedies will be "Bungle's Rainy Day," released on the General Program February 10.

He plays the leading parts in all his comedies, directs them and writes his own scenarios. He has made a long contract to appear in Vim Comedies.

DUNKINSON TAKES FALL NOT PART OF THE "BUSINESS"

Harry Dunkinson, comedian of the Essanay company, is recovering from injuries sustained by a fall from the second floor of the new studio last week. Dunkinson, while working in an Ade fable, climbed to the second floor in pursuit of an imaginary thief. There was no floor in the upper part of the studio, just the cross beams, and Dunkinson slipped between them. Luckily the ground was soft and he escaped serious injury.

ESSANAY ACTOR "65 YEARS YOUNG"

Thomas Commerford, who plays the part of the judge in Essanay's "The Prisoner at the Bar," is sixty-five years of age. Mr. Commerford has been in the theatrical business for more than forty years, and from his present appearance has many more years ahead of him. He has snow white hair and is as active as a man half his years.

"THE BAIT" AND "VENGEANCE IS MINE" FIVE REELERS, HORSLEY, RELEASED THIS MONTH

THE plans David Horsley laid out for the production of such of his pictures as are to be released as Mutual Masterpictures, de luxe edition, will be realized this month when the first two of his features—"The Bait" and "Vengeance is Mine!" are distributed. The former is scheduled for release on January 22, and the latter on January 31.

There are several phases which prominently characterize "The Bait," the first of Mr. Horsley's five reel releases, as an application of these principles. It has, first of all, a story. The means of catching big game—the bait, the trap, and the game—are symbolized and applied to landing still bigger game—human lives.

For this particular release a special cast, for the most part, was engaged. The leading roles are interpreted by William Clifford and Betty Hart, the latter playing the titular part of "The Bait."

Mr. Clifford has appeared in David Horsley productions before, but Miss Hart is a newcomer so far as Mr. Horsley's pictures are concerned, as are Oliver C. Allen, Frederick Montague, Edward Alexander and others playing minor parts. Marvel Spencer, a regular member of the stock company, has a prominent place in the play.

The Bostock animals have been requisitioned in a number of instances.

Special effort has also been exercised in the production of "Vengeance Is Mine!" the second David Horsley feature. The picture is based on capital punishment and was written by Crane Wilbur, who also enacts the leading part in the play.

The climax of the story finds the governor of state, always a staunch advocate of capital punishment, brought into a perplexing situation when his brother is convicted of murder and sentenced to be electrocuted.

Mr. Wilbur plays the part of the governor and has in it a character entirely to his liking. His supporting cast is made up of excellent players, including Carl Von Schiller, Brooklyn Keller, William Jackson, Gypsy Abbott and a host of others. The three last named were engaged especially for the parts they portray.

NINE REELS OF DRAMA AND ONE OF COMEDY FROM VITAGRAPH WEEK OF JANUARY 10

THE Vitagraph weekly program announced for release during the week commencing, Monday, January 10, will consist of nine reels of drama and one of comedy.

Monday's releases will comprise a four-part drama and two single-reel dramas. A "Sidney Drew comedy" is announced for Friday, and on Saturday a three-part Broadway Star Feature will close the week's releases.

The four-part drama announced for Monday, in The Personally Picked Program, is "The Surprises of an Empty Hotel," written by Archibald Clavering Gunter and produced by Theodore Marston, with an all-star cast, including Charles Richman, Leo Delaney, Arline Pretty, William Dunn, Robert Gaillard and Ethel Corcoran.

The story holds the interest from the beginning, and, in a thrilling climax, audiences will see a large steam yacht blown to pieces by fifty pounds of dynamite.

"A Cripple Creek Cinderella," a one-part drama released with the locked-reel program, was produced at the Western studio of the Vitagraph company by Ulysses Davis, and was written by Daisy Smith. The cast includes William Duncan, George Stanley, Alfred Vosburgh, Mrs. Vosburgh and Carleton Weatherby.

"When Lin Came Home," a single-reel drama, completes Monday's releases. This drama is one of real heart interest and employs a cast of players, including George Holt, J. Carleton Weatherby, Miss Wolbert and William Weston. The story was written by L. Case Russell and produced by William Wolbert.

Friday, January 14, "When Two Play a Game," a one-part comedy featuring Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, is announced for release. The story was written by William B. Courtney and produced by Mr. Drew.

A three-part Broadway Star Feature, "By Love Redeemed," written by Alice Williams and produced under the direction of C. Jay Williams, is announced for release on Saturday, January 17. The cast includes Jewell Hunt, Logan Paul, Garry McGarry, Anders Randolf, Paul Hornung, and Belle Bruce.

IVAN COMPLETES "A FOOL'S PARADISE"

Ivan Abramson has just completed his latest work, written especially for the screen, "A Fool's Paradise," in the short period of three weeks.

The locale of the story required Atlantic City exteriors, and Mr. Abramson and his entire company spent the best part of a week at this resort getting the proper settings.

On their return they entered into the possession of the Frohman studio, and now after three weeks the picture is completed. It is being cut personally by the director

"A Fool's Paradise" features jointly Paula Shay and Crystine Mayo. The exceptional cast included James Cooley, Jack Clarke and Joe Burke. This feature is scheduled as the regular monthly Ivan release for February.

APFEL AT WORK ON "FIGHTING BLOOD"

William Farnum, heading a company in which Dorothy Bernard is a prominent member, is completing a William Fox feature entitled, "Fighting Blood." It is being produced at the Edendale, California studios under the direction of Oscar C. Apfel.

A Letter to

(No. 115 Straight from the Shoulder Talk b

Dear Old Bill:

When you said "The play's the thing" you said a large mouthful, Bill.

You didn't live in the age of airships and telephones and automobiles and rapid fire guns and other speedy things, Bill, but you put a speedy one right over the plate when you said "The play's the thing."

If all the moving picture companies in the world had sat down for a long time and studied over those few words of yours, they'd have saved themselves many a headache and many a wasted shilling, old boy. But instead of profiting by your wide experience, we all had to find out for ourselves that the play's the thing.

Listen a minute, Shake, and let me tell you what we've all been trying to do in spite of your immortal words. You may flop over in your grave if this ever reaches you; and you'll wonder at the asininity of us moderns, but I'm going to tell you the whole truth, old dear.

We've been trying everything we could think of to fool ourselves and fool the public.

At first the people were satisfied with any kind of moving pictures as long as they moved. We could show a picture taken from the front of a moving train and everybody marveled. But they soon outgrew that.

So then we began to give them little plays. We got away with that for a time. We made some of your old stuff, Bill, and they liked it. But they soon outgrew you. Or we thought they did.

The next thing we did was to put lots of people into the pictures, hoping that the mob scenes would make the people think they were getting their money's worth. At first this was great. But pretty soon the fickle public (we like to call them fickle even when they're not) said:—"Come on now, do something new."

So the next thing we did was to use smashing big sets. We spent thousands and thousands of dollars just to take one big scene, such as a cabaret, or a ball room or something of that sort. At first the people gasped with wonder, but would you believe it, Bill, they soon got so that the President of the Universal Film Mfg. Co.)

Shakespeare

a big set didn't even make a dent in their cerebellums! They were looking for something else and nobody seemed to know what it was.

Then we had a happy thought. We'll give them some well known stars of the stage, b'gosh, and that will make them crazy about us. So we all did that very thing. We flocked into it like a bunch of sheep. We grabbed all the stage stars in sight. Any star with a well known name was good enough. We didn't care about the acting or the wrinkles. All we wanted was a well known name so we could stick it on the posters and beguile the gentle public out of their hard earned simoleons.

They fell for it, Bill. Yes, they fell hard. But after falling they got up on their hind legs again.

They came at us with blood in their eyes and yelled for something else again, as Old Mawruss Perlmutter would say. So we went over into a silent corner, communed with ourselves, and gave birth to a brand new idea. Aha! We would not only give them a well known stage star, but we'd give them a well known play by a well known author.

Chuckle in your grave if you like, Billy Boy, but that's what we did. And for a while it was splendiferous. But only for a while!

And now where are we at? Whither have we withered? Who, how, which, what and why?

The answer is simple, Bard of Avon! We've decided that, after all, THE PLAY'S THE THING! We don't care a tinker's dam who wrote it. If it's a good play, it will succeed. We don't care a hooraw in hades whether we have a stage star in the leading part or not. If it's a good play, NOTHING CAN PUT THE KIBOSH ON IT. We don't care if the whole thing is enacted in one corner of one room in one day. If it's a good play, the people will love it. Away with the big sets unless they are absolutely a necessary part of the play. Away with the mob scenes unless they help tell the good story!

We don't care what we pay IF WE GET A GOOD PLAY! We don't care who plays the lead IF IT'S A GOOD STORY, WELL ACTED AND WELL PRODUCED. We don't care whether it's one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine or fifty reels in length SO LONG AS THE STORY IS WORTHY OF THE LENGTH!

If I knew how to reach you by parcels post, Bill, I'd send you a couple of billion dollars in cash just to show you that the Universal Company (whether any other company does or not) appreciates the boiled down wisdom and essence of the ages in that mouthful that you said when you said "The play's the thing! Yours with best regards,

CARL LAEMMLE.

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO. CARL LAEMMLE, President "The Largest Film Mfg. Concern in the Universe" 1600 Broadway, N.Y.

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

The UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

Greatest program on earth

What other Program, or what TWO Programs combined show regularly a list of stars equal in talent, in popularity or in numbers to the following—who now appear and will continue to appear on the regular UNIVERSAL PROGRAM:

King Baggot
William Garwood
Hobart Henley
Mary Fuller
Jane Novak
Herbert Rawlinson
Ben Wilson
Dorothy Phillips
Matt Moore
Jane Gail
Harry Benham
Rupert Julian
Elsie Jane Wilson
Stella Razeto
Lois Wilson
Billie Rhodes
Alice Howell
Gertrude Selby
Gale Henry
Cleo Madison
William Dowlan
Gloria Fonda
Myrtle Gonzalez
Murdock MacQuarrie

Francis Ford
Grace Cunard
Dorothy Davenport
Agnes Vernon
William Worthington
Gretchen Lederer
Harry Myers
Rosemary Theby
Eddie Lyons
Lee Moran
Eddie Polo
Billie Ritchie
Ella Hall
Robert Leonard
Lois Weber
Phillip Smalley
Marie Walcamp
Rex De Rosselli
Harry D. Carey
Harry Carter
Maude George
Douglas Gerrard
Edna Maison
Olive Fuller Golden

The Universal Program is the basis of the continued success of thousands and thousands of Exhibitors in every part of the world.

Performance alone proves the sincerity of promise. Programs come and Programs go—Program producers spend millions of dollars on paper—but as yet the Universal Program stands so far above them all that its standard will be followed for years to come.

PROOF of our assertion that the Universal Program is the greatest on earth is found every week. FOR INSTANCE, here are the stars who appear on the Universal Program the week of January 31st. Where and on what program have you ever seen such a marvelous aggregation of talent in one, two, three, four and five reel photoplays on a regular program?

Violet Mersereau and Harry Benham
Lee Moran and Eddie Lyons
Wm. Garwood and Stella Razeto
J. Warren Kerrigan
Gertrude Selby and Reggie Morris
Myrtle Gonzales and Fred Church
King Baggot
Ella Hall and Marc Robbins
Frances Ford and Dorothy Davenport
Ben Wilson and Dorothy Phillips
Alice Howell and Chas. Winninger

There is talent—the real thing—good measure, pressed down and running over on every week's Universal Program—drawn from the great list of stars listed opposite. When the Universal does it—it's huge; when the Universal says it—it's true.

You need to know the Universal Program as a big money-making proposition for you. Write or wire your nearest Universal Exchange for full particulars, or address

Universal Film Manufacturing Company

CARL LAEMMLE, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

New Laws And Court Decisions

This department is designed to keep the industry informed of all news concerning new or projected laws, Federal, State, County or Municipal, that may affect the business, and all events involving any branch of the trade with the authorities in all sections of the country

BLUNDER OF CENSORS CAUSE LOSS TO KANSAS EXHIBITOR

On June 22, 1915, Fox's "The Devil's Daughter" was submitted to the Kansas censors and a receipt showing that it was passed was issued. In addition to this receipt, in the weekly bulletin of pictures passed, issued by the censor board, the picture was listed as passed.

On December 29 C. C. Johnson, an exhibitor of Great Bend, is notified by the county attorney that he has been advised by the censors that this picture has not been passed and that if he shows it in his theatre he will be arrested.

Mr. Johnson immediately got in touch with the Kansas City office of the Fox Film Corporation. He was advised that the picture had been passed and could be shown anywhere in the State. He in turn took the matter up with the county attorney and was then notified that the picture had been passed and that he could go ahead and show it.

This caused Mr. Johnson to lose the advertising that he had done on this picture and also caused him to lose his booking on this feature.

Why this kind of censorship?

PENNSYLVANIA CENSORS WIN "SEALED LIPS" CASE

The Pennsylvania Board of Censors is doubtless chuckling in private over the decision in the recent case of the Equitable release of "Sealed Lips."

Judge Martin of Common Pleas Court, No. 5, before whom the case was tried, sustained the decision of the board in turning down the picture. It thus seems that the peccadilloes of a minister must not be viewed by common, everyday folk in the state of Pennsylvania.

Nothing daunted, however, by this little setback, "Sealed Lips" will be reconstructed for the Keystone State and again try its fate before the arbiters of film destiny in that broad commonwealth. In the new version care will be taken to make the clergyman much less of a sinner than he now appears.

It will be interesting to note how this step will affect the action of other producers whose releases are disapproved.

Will they all go to the time, trouble and expense of remaking pictures for the tabooed territory, or will they quietly accept the greater evil of losing the whole profit of condemned films within the scope of the censors' activities?

BILL TO STOP SHIPMENT OF CHILD LABOR PRODUCTS MAY AFFECT PICTURE INDUSTRY

IF the number of bills introduced upon the reconvening of Congress following the Christmas holidays can be taken as a criterion of probable legislation, there should be enacted at the present session a bill prohibiting the interstate shipment of commodities into the manufacture of which child labor enters.

A typical instance is that of Congressman Keating, of Colorado, who has introduced a bill into the House of Representatives (H. R. 6,870) prohibiting manufacturers, producers and dealers from shipping or delivering for shipment in interstate commerce, or having so received of delivering or offering to deliver in original or unbroken packages or shipments, any articles of commerce produced in the United States in any mill, factory, workshop or manufacturing establishment in which children under fourteen years of age are employed, or in which children under sixteen years of age are permitted to work for more than eight hours in any one day, more than six days in any one week, or before the hour of seven a. m. or after seven p. m. of any day.

The bill provides that the attorney general, the secretary of commerce and the secretary of labor are to constitute a board to make and publish uniform rules and regulations for carrying out the provisions of the proposed law.

In the Keating bill it is provided that any person who violates the provisions as proposed, or who refuses or obstructs the entry of an inspector, will be liable for a first offense to a fine of not exceeding $200, and for each subsequent offense to a fine of not exceeding $1,000, imprisonment of not exceeding three months, or both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the trial court.

Some of the other measures, however, provide for heavier fines and imprisonment.

When asked as to the applicability of the law to the motion picture business, Congressman Keating stated to the correspondent of MOTION PICTURE NEWS that it was not the intention of those back of the measure to secure the inclusion of studios where children are employed.

However, in the wording of the bill as it now stands, there is no guarantee that if such a case be brought in the courts the law will not be construed adversely to the motion picture industry.

The law will positively apply to the manufacture of film stock and all commodities used in the studios that may enter into interstate commerce.

EFFORTS TO STOP "NATION" IN VANCOUVER BALKED BY TRADES LICENSE INSPECTOR

THE usual amount of agitation by uninformed persons against the showing of "The Birth of a Nation," has just taken place in Vancouver, B. C., and the city council even tried to take a hand in the matter, but were unable to prevent it.

A protest presented by a committee of colored people was acted upon, and the mayor and council accepted an invitation from Manager E. R. Ricketts of the Avenue theatre to view the picture privately, as the mayor had announced that the council had the power to prevent the showing of the film, regardless of the action of the British Columbia censor, who passed it.

After having seen the picture a special meeting of the council was called, and more than an hour was spent in discussion of the matter, and attempting to arrive at a decision as to whether or not the scheduled exhibition should be allowed to proceed.

Two aldermen especially, Rogers and Mahon, were opposed to the picture, and advised against passing it. Rogers objected to the picture because it is a strictly American production, and Mahon had several reasons, among which were the fear that it might interfere with recruiting, that it is not an educational picture, and that all the villains in the story are not punished.

The trades license inspector finally broke up the meeting by announcing that as "The Birth of a Nation" is not an immoral picture, the council had no power to stop it, and even if it were immoral, that fact first be proven through a court action. T council's power in dealing with films rest solely on moral considerations.

THIRTEEN CHURCHES CAST BALLOTS ON SUNDAY OPENING QUESTION

The members of the thirteen churches of Huntington, Ind., are voting on the question of whether or not they want Sunday motion picture shows. When the local theatres opened a ballot box recently to find out the opinion of the patrons on Sunday shows, which resulted in practically a unanimous agreement that there should be shows on Sunday, the churches said they would take a vote in the churches.

The vote in the thirteen churches was unanimous against Sunday shows and a resolution was passed to the effect that the opening of shows on Sunday would have a decidedly adverse effect on the city; that there was no sentiment for it; that it showed a light and disrespectful attitude toward the day sacred to the majority as a religious season; that it was the opening wedge for Sunday labor, and that it was harmful to children who would be the ones most exploited by Sunday shows.

It will be interesting to note which vote expresses the desire of a majority of the people of Huntington, as both votes are practically unanimous and were directly opposite.

DES MOINES FACES CENSORSHIP AND SUNDAY CLOSING

Des Moines, Ia., one of the best motion picture theatre cities in the Central West, is in the throes of a battle not only for a stringent police censorship of every picture, but for Sunday closing as well.

This is not the first time, however, that Des Moines exhibitors have met such a campaign. Last time, when an attempt was made to get a state law passed establishing a board to censor motion pictures, the exhibitors were successful in getting the bill killed in committee.

This time it is a local affair, with wide publicity and discussion attached, and there is doubt that even the organized front the Des Moines exhibitors are showing in the fight will be successful.

WOODLAND, CAL., TO BE "PURIFIED" BY CENSORSHIP

An ordinance has been drawn up by the city trustees of Woodland, Cal., providing for a board of censorship, consisting of five members whose duties shall be to prevent the showing of objectionable films in moving picture houses, to pass upon advertising matter and upon pictorial post cards.

The provisions of the ordinance allow the censors free access to any house of amusement.

OKLAHOMA CITY CREATES CENSOR BOARD

The City Council of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, has created the office of censor, with the Mayor as censor.

Any manager showing or permitting to be shown, immoral pictures, is subject to both a fine and imprisonment and to have his theatre license revoked.

ACTIVE IN EFFORTS TO INAUGURATE CENSUS IN LAMONI, IOWA

The Parents' and Teachers' Association of Lamoni, Ia., is making strenuous efforts to get a local censorship ordinance. According to latest reports, they stand a good chance of getting it.

CENSORSHIP SITUATION IN BRITISH COLUMBIA AGAIN IN A MUDDLE

THE censorship situation in British Columbia, which for a few weeks was better than at any time since the establishment of the institution in the province, has again become so intolerable that J. R. Muir of the Dominion theatre, in Vancouver, has decided to fight out the whole troublesome question to some sort of a finish.

"I can furnish numerous instances," said Mr. Muir, "which prove that the present censor is erratic and inconsistent in his decisions. In some cases the wording of the Moving Picture Act is rigidly adhered to, and in other cases it is entirely ignored. The local censor insists on judging some plays by the story in the novel on which the play was founded, ignoring the fact that the story told on the screen is entirely different.

"A glaring example of his judgment is the fact that he rejected a George Ade "Fable in Slang" as injurious to the temperance movement, because the actors were not sincere in their temperance work." Several films, by the way, have been rejected for this same reason.

"The Man from Home," Lasky, has just been rejected, and a private showing was promptly held for the press. As a result, local newspapers have taken up the matter, and are giving the censorship question considerable publicity. Some idea of the judgment displayed in these wholesale rejections may be gained from the fact that just previous to the rejection of the wholly unobjectionable "Man from Home," the World Film Corporation's production of "The Family Cupboard" was passed.

Some months ago Manager Meagher of the local office of the General Film Company submitted the Essanay-Chaplin picture, "His Night Out" to the censor, and it was promptly rejected.

The Famous Players Film Service recently imported from London an English copy of the same picture, under the name of "Charlie's Night Out," and although numerous excisions were made, the film was passed, and is now doing the business that should have been done months ago by the Geenral Film exchange. As it is, the Vancouver office has incurred a direct loss of several hundred dollars.

The Ince Mutual "On the Night Stage," which was condemned several months ago, has been submitted to the censor for reconsideration, and after being cut to pieces, was finally passed. The fight scene was entirely eliminated, while a similar scene in the Universal "Judge Not," run during the same week at the Colonial, evidently was not touched.

As shown at the Orpheum, the former picture was little more than a conglomeration of detached scenes. The Lasky film, "The Only Son," run at the Dominion after being passed on reconsideration, was similarly cut, leaving the audience wondering what it was all about.

"Bella Donna" was among the high class productions banned last week. "Zaza," in which Pauline Frederick also appeared, was rejected a short time ago.

One Vancouver exchange particularly has contracts with local exhibitors which insure the exchange itself from loss in case of rejections. If at the expiratioon of these contracts, others as favorable cannot be secured, the Vancouver office will be closed, and the company will withdraw from British Columiba.

SUPREME COURT JUDGES MAY DECIDE ON "NATION" SHOWING

The seven judges of the Supreme Court of the State of Ohio may be asked to act as censors to determine whether the people of Ohio shall be permitted to witness exhibitions of the Griffith masterpiece, "The Birth of a Nation."

The picture, on January 5, was presented for review to the State Board of Censors, and, simultaneously, attorneys representing the producers, prepared to file suit in the Supreme Court, if the State Board should refuse its exhibition.

Several months ago, the film, which portrays conditions in the Southern States during the reconstruction period, was rejected by the censors and has since been barred from the State. Governor Willis at that time stated that he was opposed to the showing of the film because he feared it would incite race prejudice. Not long ago, while the delegation of Ohio Corn Boys were visiting in Philadelphia, the governor created a sensation by refusing to deliver an address if the delegates were allowed to visit an exhibition of the film.

Philadelphians in charge of the entertainment of the visitors have arranged for them to visit a theatre at which the film was to have been showed. Ohio exhibitors and the public in general have repeatedly protested against the elimination of the picture, and numerous requests have been made from the larger cities that it be permitted.

CAMPBELL CONSULTS WITH SELIG FOR "CRISIS"

Colin Campbell, the dean of the Selig directors, went from Los Angeles to Chicago, Monday, January 3, for a visit with William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company.

Mr. Campbell recently completed the production of "Thou Shalt Not Covet," a Selig Red Seal Play written by James Oliver Curwood, and featuring Tyrone Power and Kathlyn Williams, supported by Guy Oliver and Eugenie Besserer, together with an all-star cast of players.

Mr. Campbell expects to return to the Pacific Coast in the near future. He has been consulting with Mr. Selig regarding the forthcoming production of "The Crisis." "Thou Shalt Not Covet" will be released February 7 through V-L-S-E.

COXEN AGAIN ON HIS FEET

Winnifred Greenwood and Edward Coxen once more are appearing together in "Flying A" films. Illness of Mr. Coxen forced his retirement for a period of three weeks. He is fully recovered.

In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. C. Jessen

Special to Motion Picture News

Los Angels, Jan. 6.

ONE of the big sensations of the week in the Los Angeles photoplay colony was the fall of some four or five inches of snow on the north slope of the San Fernando foothills where are located the Pacific Coast studios of the Universal Film company.

The storm came up during the night and continued until nearly noon of Thursday, causing a practical cessation of picture making at that studio. The exterior stages were covered nearly ankle deep with snow, rendering work on them out of the question.

Many of the sets were torn down and rebult in the electric light studios, where the companies worked well into the night to make up for time lost during the day.

Despite the unusual effects offered by the unexpected fall of snow, few of the twenty-six producing companies were working on stories which would permit them to take advantage of it.

A number of snow scenes were made by the comedy companies and other scenes were made for the "Animated Weekly" releases.

Of the dramatic companies, however, that of Cleo Madison, engaged in the production of a five reel feature, "A Soul's Crucible." was the only one in a position to take advantage of it. They happened to be working on some holiday scenes requiring "snow stuff."

Scenes Made in Real Snow

Abandoning the prop effects which they had arranged for these scenes, they made use of the genuine article which had been dropped at their door and they worked throughout the day on exteriors about the studio grounds.

Statisticians and "oldest residents" vary in their statements as to the lapse of time since such a spectacle has been witnessed in the vicinity of Los Angeles. Some say it has been twenty-seven years and others insist that a similar occurence took place in 1903.

Be that as it may, however, the event was an unusual one in Universal City history that will long be remembered.

Members of neighboring studios on the other side of the foothills, not to be completely outdone in the matter of snow, went to the scene with autos, filled them and returned to the studios where they held genuine, old-fashioned snow-ball fights.

Tom Forman, of the Lasky company, returning with such a load, skidded into a curb in front of the studios and wrecked his car. He escaped without injury.

Murdock MacQuarrie, for more than two years one of the best known of the Universal's character leads, who for the past six months has been directing his own productions, left the staff of the Universal on January 1 to assume a positon as feature director with the Signal film company.

His contract with the new organization calls for the production of a five-reeler every four weeks and in them MacQuarrie himself is not to take a part.

Rollin Sturgeon and Company at Bear Valley, Cal., Taking Scenes in "God's Country and the Woman." They Are Now Snowed in in Santa Ann Canyon Road. Nell Shipman and William Duncan Appear in the Foreground of the Picture; Mr. Sturgeon at Extreme Left, and Edgar Keller at Extreme Right.

With this in view and to keep himself from falling into temptation, he has given away his entire wardrobe and make-up kit. No announcement has thus far becn made relative to the name or nature of his first Signal production.

Jacques Jaccard, former director of Kerrigan-Universal features and later producer of Western melodrama starring Harry Carey, will within a few days start directing the action of Sydney Ayres in the production of 101 Bison Western pictures. The first production of the new company will be a filmization of Frederick Remington's novel, "John Irminie of the Yellowstone," with Ayres in the title role.

Jaccard is at present working on a two-reel Western story entitled "The Breed and the Girl" in which William Gettinger and Olive Fuller Golden play the respective title roles.

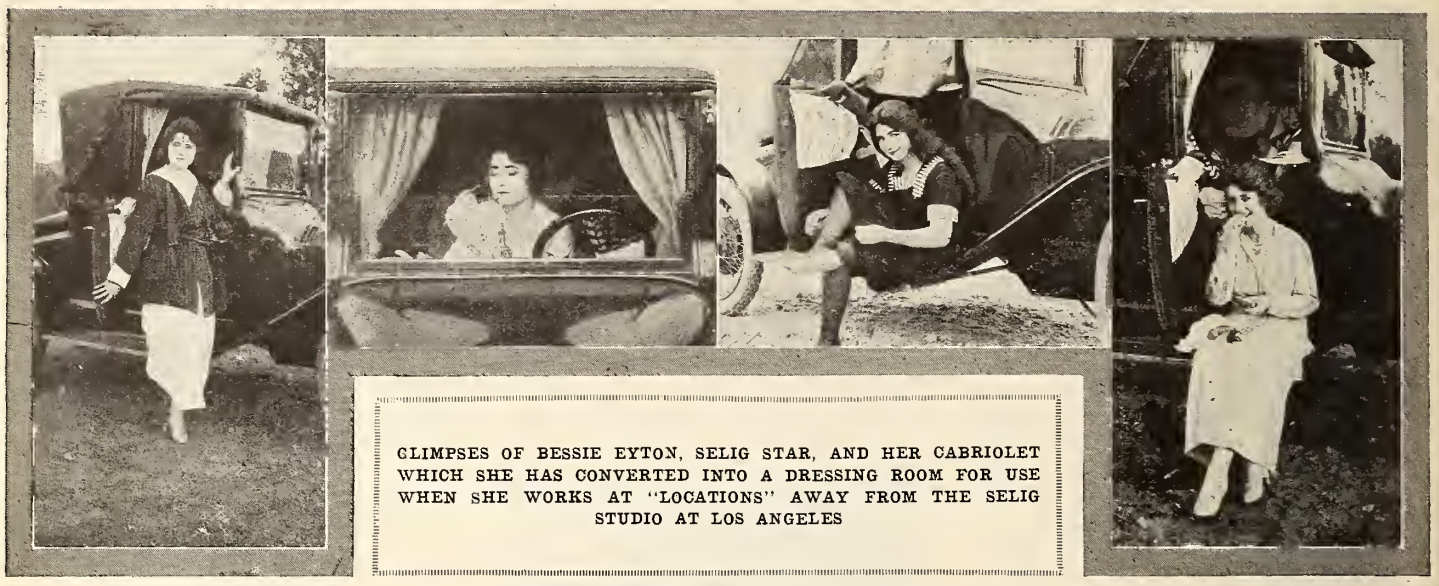
The E. and R. Jungle Film Company last week began the production of another of their one reel Chimp comedies by Frances Caroline Willey, entitled, "Some Detective." In this, as in their last production, Lillian Leighton, of the Bloom Center comedies, will play the leading role.

Lloyd Carleton this week began the production of another Bosworth-Universal five-reel feature. The story comes from the pen of Agnes Hayes and is being produced under the title, "Dr. Samson." Bosworth appears in the title role.

So far as can be learned, Roy Clements, producer of Joker comedies, is the first picture producer to use the multifarious stories told at the expense of the Ford auto in the production of a one reel comedy. He has given his story the title "Affording a Ford" and in it he has used many of the best known of the current Ford jokes as a theme about which to weave his comedy.

Victor Potel and Eileen Sedgwick play the leading roles.

ILLUSTRATING "THE UNWRITTEN LAW," CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE PRODUCTION



GLIMPSES OF BESSIE EYTON, SELIG STAR, AND HER CABRIOLET WHICH SHE HAS CONVERTED INTO A DRESSING ROOM FOR USE WHEN SHE WORKS AT "LOCATIONS" AWAY FROM THE SELIG STUDIO AT LOS ANGELES

The laboratories under construction at the Western Vitagraph's Hollywood plant are rapidly nearing completion and it is thought that they will be ready for occupancy this month.

Vitagraph Laboratories Nearly Ready

The plans for the new offices have been drawn and construction on them is to begin soon. Landscape artists are also at work on the grounds surrounding the buildings, cultivating the land and making ready for planting as soon as warm weather is assured.

Mary Anderson, Webster Campbell, Corinne Griffith and the remainder of that company of Vitagraph players have just returned to the southern studios from Truckee, Cal., where they have been making exterior scenes in the filming of a three-reel story of the north-country. Thus far no name has been given the picture.

The entire Rollin Sturgeon company of Vitagraphers at work in the Bear Lake region on a five-reel Blue Ribbon feature, including some forty extra players, were accorded the privilege of spending their Christmas in Los Angeles, all work being stopped to allow them to make the round trip.

Millard K. Wilson, for nearly two years a juvenile lead at the Universal's Pacific Coast studios, last week left the forces of that organization to assume a place with another of the picture companies in Los Angeles.

Thus far he has made no definite statements regarding the new position, but it is generally understood that it will be with his former U director, Frank Lloyd.

Under the direction of the Smalleys, Tyrone Power is still at work in the stellar role of a Universal Broadway feature. "The Ill-born," which is being staged at Universal City.

Dowlan Completes "One Against Many"

William C. Dowlan has completed a multiple reel film at the "U" studios under the title, "One Against Many." The story was written by Leonora Ainsworth and in it Dowlan and Gloria Fonda play the leading roles.

William Worthington and his company of "U" players are at work on the production of a two reel comedy drama by James Dayton, entitled, "Mrs. Alston's Butler."

It was in the production of this picture that the recently completed electric light studio at Universal City was first used. Herbert Rawlinson and Agnes Vernon appear in the leading roles of this offering.

Under the direction of Otis Turner, Carter De Haven and his wife, Flora Parker De Haven, are being featured at the "U" studios in a five-reel Broadway feature, a comedy drama entitled, "Get the Boy!"

The production is being made from Ford I. Beebe's scenario, taken from Otis Turner's story of that name. Maude George, Bertram Grassby, Harry Carter, Lois Wilson and Howard Holland complete the cast of players.

With Harry Carey still occupying the center of the stage, Richard Stanton is at work on the production of the ninth episode of the serial feature, "Graft," as scenarioized by Walter E. Woods of the company's scenario staff. Hobart Henley, Glen White, Jane Novak, Marc Fenton and Mina Jefries complete the cast.

Jesse L. Lasky left the Hollywood studios of the Lasky for the east shortly after the New Year. His eastern trip will take him to New York where he is to confer with Samuel Goldfish relative to the company policies for the new year.

De Mille's Second Sweet Subject

William C. De Mille is at work on the production of his second Blanche Sweet release. Miss Sweet is supported by Charles Clary, Earnest Joy and Billy Elmer in this production, which thus far has not been named.

Victor Moore of the Lasky company has added another to his list of benefit performances since joining the Hollywood studios of that company. This latest gratis act was performed at the Newsboys' Christmas Dinner where he sang a number of songs for their amusement.

During the production of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," Thomas Meighan, leading man for Charlotte Walker in the production, was badly burned about the wrists when for purposes of production, he thrust them into a fire to burn from them the ropes with which he was bound. The cords caught fire and burned him severely, before bystanders could extinguish the flames.

Margaret Turnbull is at work on the preparation of a story for film adaptation in which Fanny Ward is to be featured by the Lasky company. Miss Ward will be supported by Jack Dean, Sessue Hayakawa and Tsuru Aoki. No name has been given the story as yet.

Jay Hunt, who for the past month has been making "U" releases featuring Murdock MacQuarrie, was this week put in charge of the company engaged in the making of animal pictures at Universal City.

Paul Bourgeois, who has been making these pictures himself will handle the animals under the direction of Hunt, the work of directing, acting and handling the animals at the same time being too much for the trainer. The first of the animal subjects to be made by Hunt is a two reel story of Central Africa entitled, "The Toll of the Jungle."

Julian Produces Own Script

Rupert Julian last week began the production of a one reel drama written by himself under the title, "John Pellet's Dream." Elsie Jane Wilson, Bertram Grassby, Abe Mundon, Sydney Haben and Julian himself comprise the cast in this release.

Director Lynn Reynolds is filming a two-reel "U" subject called "Bonita." Myrtle Gonzalez appears in the title role of this with Frank Newburg opposite. Alfred Allen and Val Paul make up the remainder of the cast.

Travers Vale, late of the Biograph company, has completed his first Universal release since joining that company at Universal City. The title of the story is "The Chasm," written by Harvey Gates, and in its production Franklin Ritchie and Louise Vale play the leading roles.

Max Asher, for more than two years leading comedian with Allen Curtis' company of Joker comedians, this week severed his connections with that company. Nothing definite has been learned as to his future movements.

Calder Johnstone, scenario writer of considerable prominence on the Pacific Coast, has severed his connections with the American Film Company at Santa Barbara.

Cal., and returned to Los Angeles, where he is freelancing.

Francis Ford is at work on the making of a two-reel romance of an imaginery European principality, entitled, "The Madcap Queen of Corona." Grace Cunard appears in the title role opposite Ford. They are supported by a Cast including Peter Gerald, Jack Holt, Neil Hardin, Lew Short, B. Wilson and B. Murdock.

At the Horsley studios, the comedy company under the direction of Norbert A. Myles, has been temporarily suspended. Although it has not yet been definitely decided, it is unlikely that the company will resume work before the end of the rainy season.

Ruth Roland Signs Long Contract

A contract between Ruth Roland and the Balboa Film Company has been consummated by the terms of which Miss Roland will remain in her present position for a term of years. Upon the completion of that company's present serial release, "The Red Circle" Miss Roland will return to work opposite her former lead, Henry King.

ANNA HELD ARRIVING AT THE MOROSCO STUDIO, LOS ANGELES

Charles Chaplin, national character in comedy motion picture circles, has been offered and refused flatly a salary of $365,000 per year—$1,000 a day—truth of which is vouched for by the man who made the offer, John McKeon, eastern representative of the New York Motion Picture Company.

According to the statement of McKeon, the offer was refused because it was not enough, the comedian holding out for almost double that amount. Unless some picture manufacturing concern bids this price for Chaplin, he insists that he will open a studio with his brother. In any event Essanay seems to have lost its stellar comedian.

Approximately 5,000 people from all over the southern end of California gathered at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, on the night of December 31, to attend the New Year's ball given by the southern California Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association.

Practically every picture theatre owner and manager in every city and town in the vicinity of Los Angeles was present with hosts of friends. Prominent photoplayers from all the studios in the state were in attendance to dance the Old Year out and the New Year in.

The grand march was led by Anita King, of the Lasky studios, and William Farnum, and behind them followed scores of the best known and most popular of the Los Angeles photoplay colony.

One of the events of the evening was a beauty contest, the prize falling to Thelma Francis.

Exhibitors' Ball a Success

On the whole this latest of the exhibitors annual functions is regarded as one of the most entirely successful of all that thus far have been given, and much credit for this success is due the committee whose executive ability from which it resulted. That committee was composed of S. D. Perkins, F. U. Anderson, S. McIntyre, J. M. Root, Mike Gore and Judge A. P. Tugwell.

There is at present on foot in Los Angeles a plan whereby the merchants and manufacturers of that city expect to secure much publicity of an international character.

Briefly, the proposal is that the manufacturers of motion pictures with studios in Los Angeles add a short strip of film to each film production from those studios, informing the public that it was "made in Los Angeles."

Several meetings of local business men have been called to determine upon a definite statement of the proposition and the drafting of a suitable request to be presented at a joint meeting of the business men and film manufacturers for settlement.

In choosing it as an efficient medium of advertising, the city of Los Angeles has perhaps voiced the most potent argument indicative of the present-day recognition of the motion picture industry as an international educator.

MYRTLE STEDMAN, THE MOROSCO STAR, AS SHE APPEARED IN DAYS GONE BY

A similar attempt was made about a year ago. Several of the film companies began the propaganda, but the movement was lacking in unity which resulted in a gradual discontinuance of the plan.

The present committee, headed by Mayor Sebastian, seems, however, to be going after the proposition with a deeper interest, which may develop in the launching of the farthest-reaching advertising campaign ever attempted.

Balboa Merger on Foot

H. M. Horkheimer, president of the Balboa Amusement Company, has returned from New York with the announcement that plans for the consolidation of that company with an Eastern organization is pending. Further than this, Mr. Horkheimer refuses to state anything about the proposed amalgamation.

In token of their appreciation of continued faithful service the Balboa Amusement Company presented to each employe of more than two years' continuous service with that concern a Swiss watch. The list ran up close to the half-hundred mark, and included every employe without regard to individual position.

After a year of continuous work at the Balboa studios, Jackie Saunders has left Long Beach for a visit East. After a short stay in New York, Miss Saunders will visit her parents in Philadelphia before returning to her work in the West.

SIR HERBERT BEERBOHM TREE WITH HIS DAUGHTER IRIS ARRIVING AT THE FINE ARTS STUDIO—DIRECTOR LLOYD INGRAHAM WATCHING A DRAMATIC SCENE IN ACTION

SCENES FROM "LOVE THINE ENEMY," "THE WRONG DOOR," AND "THE YAQUI," COMING UNIVERSAL PHOTOPLAYS

R. R. Rockett, business manager of Balboa Amusement Producing Company, who recently went East on a mysterious trip, has returned to his work at the studios, bringing with him a bride of a fortnight. Dodge City, Kansas, was the scene of the wedding, and Marie Constance Martin the former name of the present Mrs. Rockett.

The drizzling rain, sometimes increasing to heavy showers, which swept over southern California on New Year's Day, very effectively interfered with the plans made by the motion picture manufacturers who had sent cameramen and producing companies to Pasadena to make scenes there for use in subsequent releases. Despite the inclement weather, more than 100,000 people gathered to witness Pasadena's annual Rose Tournament, and cameramen from the different pictorial news services standing under umbrellas were able to get bits of the parade as it passed.

Carnival Gets Only "Half Shot"

For the most part, however, the scenes are short and rather cut up, for it too often happened that in the middle of a "shot" a drop of water would be blown in and against the lens, making further shooting out of the question until the lens had been dried.

However, even working under these difficulties, the cameramen were able to get much that was worth while from the long pageant.

Those companies, which had planned to use companies of actors for making scenes to be used in the production of feature dramas, were for the most part compelled to abandon the thought after their arrival at the grounds.

The Universal company, which had through M. G. Jonas, manager of the publicity department, secured park rights for making scenes in their production of "On the Trail of the Sun," were forced to return to the studios with unexposed film. The American company was rather more successful. They secured one scene of the football game between Brown and Washington State universities, showing the removal of the full back, a "plant" of course to be worked into a feature film later.

By getting in out of the rain, cameramen from the various studios were able to make good pictures of the football game between the East and West, which will be shown through the different pictorial news services.

Another New Year's Day event, which drew forth a crowd of motion picture news cameramen, was the opening of the races at Tia Juana, Mex., just south of the International boundry line. Special trains were run from Los Angeles to San Diego, and few of the pictorial news gatherers failed to get much film of the big Western event.

Neva Gerber, late of the American company at Santa Barbara, is playing the lead in a feature picture for the Eldorado company occupying the Crown City studios at Pasadena.

Winter and wood scenes for the second Pallas picture under the direction of William D. Taylor and entitled "David Crockett," starring Dustin Farnum, will be taken at Bear Lake.

Vivian Rich is playing the leading part in the three-reel drama entitled "The Code of Honor," being produced at the American studio, under the direction of Frank Borzage, who also appears in the cast. The other principals are George Periolat and Alfred Vosburg.

Charles Ray of the NYMP studio, who is just completing scenes in the photoplay in which he was starred, will next be seen in a forthcoming production as the son of William H. Thompson.

Raymond West is putting on a war drama at the NYMP studios which has as its principal players, Howard Hickman, Enid Markey and Nona Thomas.

"Ramona," the photodrama being produced by the W. H. Clune Company, under the direction of Donald Crisp, will be ready for exhibition early in February at Clune's Auditorium.

Combined Xmas and Wedding Celebration

A. C. DeLang of the Rolin Film Company, was married last Friday to Annabel Wyatt. Christmas and the wedding were celebrated in one by the management, who gave a spread in honor of the two events.

The twenty-third of the Pathé "Lonesome Luke" Phunphilm series being made by the Rolin company, will contain a very difficult piece of double exposure photography, which is something entirely new in comedy.

Plans are being made by the Rolin company for the entertainment of Henry R. Johnson, second vice-president of the company, who arrived this week from a trip through the Orient.

Mr. Johnson will shortly depart for New York where he will work with Mr. Feeny, general Eastern agent of the Rolin company. Mr. Johnson reports good progress with Phunphilms in all Eastern countries.

FAIR GROUNDS FOR PICTURE USE ONE YEAR MORE

Special to Motion Picture News

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 3.

Director Edward Sloman has been working out two three-reelers at the Lubin studio in Coronado the past two weeks, with D. L. Davis at the camera. The first, "The Redemption of Helene," is a script by Julian Lamothe.

It is the story of a girl born in a country town, who becomes possessed with the idea that she was ordained by nature to be an actress. In spite of the pleadings of her invalid father and her other relatives she leaves the town and goes to the city, drawn by the lure of the Great White Way.

The shock ends her father's life, and she is compelled to make her own way. L. C. Shumway appears as the artist, Melvin Mayo as the theatrical manager, Helen Wolcott as Helene, George Routh as a country sweetheart, May Cruze as a sister of Helene, Adelaide Bronti as a village gossip, and George Spencer as Helene's father.

"Soldier Sons" is the title of the other play. L. C. Shumway takes the part of Lieutenant Bates, who is sent to the Philippines, where he becomes enamoured of a Filipino girl, Nina, played by Miss Wolcott. General Bates, the father of the lieutenant, is impersonated by Mr. Hopkins, while Adelaide Bronti appears as the mother.

George Routh is seen in the character of a Filipino, Carlos, who loves Nina, while Melvin Mayo handles the part of Rosario, the father of Nina.

Most of the members of the Lubin staff went to Los Angeles Friday afternoon, to spend the Christmas holiday with old friends.

The determination to continue the Panama-California International Exposition in this city for another year will afford opportunity to motion picture companies to again make good use of the Spanish architecture in securing good backgrounds for their work.

During the past year more than a dozen companies have visited the exposition grounds for this purpose.

"The Clansman" is again showing at a local house, the Cabrillo, of the Plaza Amusement Company's twin theatres, securing the big attraction.

Jay Morley, formerly with the Lubin Company is now playing in stock with the Jane O'Roark Players at the Empress theatre.

Allen H. Wright.

JUST TO MAKE TALK

By LONGACRE

THE Universal is in receipt of the following letter, which deserves attention, chiefly because of its unusual literary merit. It is suggested by H. H. Van Loan that it be cut out and used as a model. Here it is, as spelled and written:

Hooseck Falls, N. Y. Jan. 5.
Editor Handsome Man Contest
1600 Broadway.

Modesty tends to prevent my exposure.

Just for diversion prompt me too.

Critics have difficulty at times, to conscienticusly chose, between contestants. However personally I would not on account of Godly virtue compete, using good looks as point of judgement. However, I am grateful to nature for my external personality. Now then. Morally and Mentally, It is my pre-eminent inspiration to be a model, moral human, and goodness is my reward. I am six and twenty, Five foot ten and one fifty five.

My name is as common as water, every civilized Christian and Hebrew, from five years up. know it. And its one of the virgin names of the world, next to the style God.

I am perfectly independent and seek not employment. Where personaly praise would not become disintegrated. I am reaching the success that I am striving for. And that success is unlimited, financially, intellectually, morally and physically. I am convincing the world that man can be what he deserves to be though there are numerous, unlimited and almost impassible barriers constantly to overcome in the path.

I am conclusively the man that you want, the man of Destiny, God's man and under honorable circumstances I would consider favorably any thing that is better than I have that would not deter me from being the human of goodness.

By appointment we could go over the ground, almost any time within twenty-four hours notice.

With wishes I am in any event
Truly,

To which we add, manly beauty and brains don't always go together.

We keep hearing about Kitty Gordon's back. Well, here is the back. We present the rear elevation view, not so much because we received it hot from the hands of the publicity man, but to prove that all the evidence in the case is in. We do not care to be under suspicion of aiding in concealing anything! This is the same back which two weeks ago gave the cameraman so much trouble with halation.

We are now advised that it has been insured, and we further understand that rates were quoted by the square yard. On account of our enterprise, readers who are contemplating insuring their backs, or those of their friends, will be able to figure out the cost of such insurance for themselves.

Starting from the center of this back, and laying a course due northwest, or about 315, magnetic, one comes to a gleaming eminence from which may be obtained a view of Kitty Gordon's face. Viewed from this angle the face seems to denote a consciousness that the back is there, coupled with a conviction that inasmuch as it has been insured, it probably will remain there.

Bills of all denominations, to the extent of $50,000, we understand, have been spread across this back to protect it against the action of the Cooper-Hewitts and other studio lights. We decline to comment on the denomination of bills required to cover this surface and still keep within the $50,000.

KITTY GORDON'S BACK AGAIN

We have spoken of this back before; we trust we will not have to again; we are informed that this is all there is of it.

In the old days, when newspaper men worked on newspapers, and took no thought to the film industry, one of the most active members of the brotherhood was Albert S. Le Vino. He worked on a number of New York newspapers, and "worked" is just the word we meant to use.

For instance, he was connected with the American when the Rosenthal story "broke" in 1912; he had been working on an investigation of Rosenthal's charges for several days, and it just happened that he was walking into the Forty-third street entrance to Jack's when Rosenthal was shot, down in the same block. He never did get all the way into Jack's.

Activity was the watchword in those days, and Le Vino has had it so thoroughly infused into his Virginia blood that since taking up picture work he has been one of the most active exponents of the art. Nominally he is secretary of the Arrow Film Corporation, and now that Arrow has actually commenced the production of features for the Pathé Gold Rooster program, he is doing his best to cover the entire ground between the Twenty-third street offices and the Yonkers studio. It may yet be necessary for the Interborough to put on an extra subway train for his benefit.

Do not understand us to infer that Mr. Le Vino jumped from the Hearst staff to the Arrow Company! Not so; he went through a careful General Film-Mutual-Arthur James-Mutual Girl-Reliance course of instruction before he essayed his present job. That may be one reason why he is so fit.

"Lissen" to the roar of the wind down the Hudson River; it brings news of doings at Fort Lee, N. J., and placing our ear to the lower end of the drain pipe, we hear that the industry is again to be revolutionized, and a water-cooled studio is to be among the improvements of trans-Hudsonia next summer.

The Peerless studio is to be insulated with a thin curtain of cold water, beginning at the apex of the glass roof, and running down and out, and light, air, and whoso seeketh work, or the sale of a scenario, must pass through this blanket. The inventor of the new device claims that it will keep out many undesirable things, including heat.

George Irving is putting the finishing touches to a new World feature at the Frohman studios in New York. The picture, to be known as "The Woman in 67," probably will be ready for release this month.

Hugh Ford, director for Famous Players, will not take any peace expedition to Europe, or anywhere else. This week he received a letter addressed to "H. Ford, New York City," which evidently has been floating around town several days in search of a claimant.

The letter read: "Dear Mr. Ford; I regret that pressing business engagements will necessitate my declining your kind invitation to accompany you to Europe in the interests of international peace, etc."

Take a striking similarity in names and initials, like that, and a wide-awake publicity promoter, and see what you get!

Elsie Janis now enters the lists as a playwright, photo and otherwise. Not that she has done anything new, but some of her earlier work has just come to light. It seems that out of a little story she once told grew George Beban's famous sketch "The Sign of the Rose," which later developed into a four-act play, and from that graduated into a regular screen drama, under the title of "The Alien."

Mr. Beban, it is related, heard her tell the story, and was so impressed that he told it himself. Then, at the suggestion of the late Percy Williams he made it into a sketch, and from that into a play, and so forth.

ILLUSTRATING OFFERINGS FROM THE AMERICAN STUDIOS THROUGH MUTUAL. (Left to Right) "THE THOROUGHBRED," "THE SILENT TRAIL," "WILD JIM, REFORMER," AND "MISCHIEF AND A MIRROR"

Mr. Beban has made himself wealthy out of the incident, and is reported to be dogging Miss Janis' footsteps around in the hope that she may tell another story.

All this by way of leading up to the fact that Mr. Beban is now finishing the production of a new feature, "The Genius, Pierre," which will be released by the World Film Corporation.

Students of the geography of New York City have often wondered why the Public Library building was placed so far back from the curb line of Fifth avenue.

Ah, the far-sightedness of the modern architect! Now that Ben Schulberg and John Flinn have moved the Famous Players and Lasky offices into the same building across the street, we see the whereforeness of things which were a mystery before.

Florence Lawrence when she appeared on the stage of Proctor's Twenty-third Street theatre, New York, received quite an ovation when it was learned she was to reappear before the Victor camera. Demon Jack Edwards did the introducing.

MIDDLETON LEAVES GAUMONT IN NORTH FOR JACKSONVILLE

Having completed the present series of Casino Star Comedies being released as Mutual pictures, Director Edwin Middleton will turn his back on the Gaumont Studio at Flushing, L. I., this week for the more congenial climate of Jacksonville, Fla.

On his arrival at the Metropolis of Florida, Mr. Middleton will take up the Gaumont direction of Mutual Masterpictures, de luxe edition, in association with Richard Garrick, William F. Haddock, and Henry J. Vernot, who are already making Gaumont pictures there.

ADOLFI FINISHING FINAL SCENES FOR "MERELY MARY ANN"

The final scenes of "Merely Mary Ann," a film version of Eleanor Robson's play in which she starred successfully on the legitimate stage, are being taken for William Fox under the direction of John G. Adolfi.

Vivian Martin will be seen in the character of the slavey, her first part under the Fox banner. Assisting in the exactment of the various characters are Harry Hilliard, Laura Lyman, Isabel O'Madigan, Sidney Bracey and Niles Welch.

Williams Gives Turbett Credit for Edison Film

Author of "At the Rainbow's End," Starring Carrol McComas with Richard Tucker, in Constant Consultation with Directors at the Studio

A FURTHER indication of the progress of the motion picture in its advance from the one man's idea to nearing a composite of many minds, is evident in the association of author and director in the production of the Kleine-Edison five-reel feature, "At the Rainbow End," from the Edison studios, in which Carrol McComas is starred, with Richard Tucker.

Differing from the arbitrary director of earlier days, when Director Ben Turbett was offered the associated help of the author of "At the Rainbow's End"—Sumner Williams—Mr. Turbett welcomed the idea heartily, although he had a wealth of theatrical experience to draw from.

BEN TURBETT—SUMNER WILLIAMS

Director Turbett is accorded all the credit by Mr. Williams. Mr. Williams was in daily attendance at the studio, the actual directing being done by Mr. Turbett, the former acting in something of an advisory capacity. Mr. Williams, however, had more than theory to advance as he was the adapter of the Kleine-Edison feature, "Vanity Fair," in which Mrs. Fiske appeared. Mr. Turbett also was concerned with that picture, as assistant director, and assembling and cutting the twelve thousand feet down to seven thousand feet—a delicate task, to preserve the spirit of the story and times.

Mr. Turbett brought twenty-six varied years of theatrical experience to motion pictures. Born in Salem, Mass., he was boy soprano in Gorman's Minstrels, later joining the J. R. Wait Opera Company.

With a repertoire of twenty-five operas, two performances a day, for three years straight—summer and winter—Mr. Turbett lost his voice through strain.

It came back a baritone when he went with "The Highwayman," then with the original "Floradora" company, managing the stage for two years. A number of years in vaudeville, with many stock companies, two years with Lillian Russell, and then motion pictures—Edison, where he has been over two years, often acting while the assistant director.

Mr. Williams is a graduate of Harvard College, and has done some magazine writing. He took up the study of the drama while in college. Some time ago he was connected with the Edison scenario department.

Previous to "Vanity Fair" he wrote the feature, "On Dangerous Paths," Edison, in which Viola Dana was featured.

ROBERT HARRON COMES EAST WITH HIS BROTHER'S BODY

Robert Harron, co-star of the Triangle-Fine Arts play, "The Missing Links," and featured with Mae Marsh in "Hoodoo Ann," came East during the holidays on the sad errand of bringing to New York the boody of his brother for burial.

Charles Harron was killed Christmas Eve as the result of a Fine Arts automobile turning turtle at the corner of one of the principal downtown streets of Los Angeles. He was a year older than Robert and had been his inseparable companion ever since D. W. Griffith brought the young actor out to the West Coast.

Mr. Harron stated that production at the Griffith studio is now at its busiest. The sets for the Griffith twelve-reeler, formerly called "The Mother and the Law," occupies buildings covering several city blocks, and the ten Triangle companies are likewise working with intense energy.

SUBTITLES IN ITALIAN AND GERMAN FOR SELIG-TRIBUNE

Another innovation has been added to the Selig-Tribune. In addition to the poster the sub-titles used in the news film are printed in English, Italian and German.

The Press, Press Representative and the Picture—XV

Yes, There Are Cases of Theatres Getting Along Without Advertising in Local Newspapers, But, As One Robin Does Not Make Spring, an Exhibitor Here and There Who Makes Money in Spite of His Neglect of Publicity in His Papers, Does Not Become the Criterion for Success

WHAT the exhibitor in the small town wants to know is—Does advertising in the country town paper, weekly or otherwise, pay?

M. L. Meyer, proprietor of the Palace theatre, Waterloo, Ia., says it does. M. C. Freid, proprictor of the Thelma housc, Pender, Neb., says it does not. Fair Brothers, proprietors of the Rex, Glenwood, Ia., say it helps.

Waterloo is a little city of 27,000 people, with three daily papers.

Pender is a town of 804 souls, with two weekly papers. Glenwood has 4,000 people, with two semi-weekly papers.

All are representative Middle Western towns, which means they can well be considered representative of the average town of their size.

The proprietors of the three theatres are men giving their time exclusively to their business. The houses were made for motion pictures. In every way they typify the up-to-date motion picturc theatre and exhibitor.

Meyer uses quarter pages and half pages to advertise his theatre. He gets free space for reviews of new films. He gives passes to the newspaper men. His show is known far and wide.

On Lookout for New Advertising Matter

He is constantly calling upon the exchanges in Omaha from whom he buys his films, for new kind of advertising matter. He studies closely to get the latest advertising stunts. He uses billboards sometimes; he uses heralds; he has a mailing list and he uses the telephone, but the newspapers are his mainstay.

His business is a marked success. His expenses are heavy compared with the expenses of some other houses. He uses good films, trying to establish a staple reputation.

Manager Freid each week orders a couple of one-sheets, a three and a six-sheet poster, a quantity of heralds, and stops there. Exhibitors in the neighborhood of Pender, Neb., talk about his success. He is making money "hand over fist," they say, and they wonder how he does it.

Absolutely no newspaper advertising, although they have two weekly papers there, benefits his theatre, the Thelma. He pays four dollars or five dollars for a film. He gets crowds, charges ten cents straight, for admission and makes money.

He covers the town with school boys for ten or twenty-five cents an afternoon, distributing heralds. He has a big mailing list and sends the notices of the pictures into the farm houses.

Have the Film Theatre Habit

The only explanation offered in the case of Freid is that he has the community with him. He has the only theatre in the town, and he has been established there for years. The people who see his show actually have the "movie habit," although they live in the country.

They attend regularly. They know what they will see. There is no competition, so they could not see a better picture if they wanted to. And Freid is agreeable, well liked, a regular pillar of the little town.

Glenwood, Ia., is only twenty-five miles from Omaha, Neb. It has just one motion picture theatre, but the people are trained to like the better shows. When "The Birth of a Nation," "The Battle Cry of Peace," "Damaged Goods," and such pictures were being shown in the city, they read the advertisements in the city paper and, train service being good, went up to see the shows.

Their semi-weekly papers every issue carry pronounced advertisements for the Rex. Being decidedly local in their news value, the papers are naturally watched for such things. Fair Brothers do billboard advertising.

Stand Above the Average

They watch MOTION PICTURE NEWS and other trade papers to get up-to-the-minute advertising schemes, and they use them.

They make money. Open only evenings, with afternoon and evenings, Saturday and Sunday, they charge ten cents straight. They use medium class pictures, allowing no one to leave without being satisfied. Both were born and raised in the town and know people for miles round about.

All three of these theatres mentioned were selected because they are such money makers. They stand somewhat above the average. All three have different regard for the value of the press.

Where Meyer actually leans upon the support of the press, Freid of Pender, Neb., ignores the paper utterly. Fair Brothers are half-and-half, you might say.

Is it true that the value of newspaper advertising depends upon the size of the town. Does a town of 27,000 need it, while in a town of 402 can it be ignored?

Judging from these three examples, such might be the case. But these three examples are not duplicated in every similar instance. In other towns of 402 the newspaper helps a great deal. In a few cases exhibitors are managing in towns of 27,000 to get along without the papers.

But from many, many instances subjected to a general review, most theatres, in towns both large and small, use newspaper advertising. And at times it is undoubtedly a real life saver.

Like the case of F. L. Keith, who took the Colonial, Marshalltown, Ia., when the Colonial was losing money daily. Keith advertised steadily when he showed a program. When he showed a feature he made an extra splurge with a cut of large dimensions, securing it through the exchange advance sheet.

Now the Colonial is making money and exhibitors are pointing to Keith as an example of what newspaper advertising not only can do, but generally does.

"Madame Cubist" Is Eccentric Play for Mary Fuller

Another Vehicle for Universal Star Is "The Girl Who Feared Daylight"—Paul Panzer in a Lumberjack Drama, "The Trail of the Wolf"

MARY FULLER has just completed "Madame Cubist," an eccentric play of two reels. It was eccentric in many ways, being an eccentric drama, with eccentric settings and Miss Fuller wore very eccentric and sensational gowns.

Jack Cohn and his "Animated Weekly" department, which was transferred from the old studio on Eleventh avenue to Universal Heights, is going to return to New York City. He will be stationed at 1600 Broadway with his staff of competent cameramen.

Edgar Scott, who has had charge of the cutting room for the Universal Film Manufacturing Company's Eastern studios, has been given entire supervision over the cutting of all Eastern films, and from now on will be known as the "Head Cutter." Not head cutter, just head cutter.

Mary Fuller is starting on another picture called "The Girl Who Feared Daylight." Miss Fuller is of the opinion that this is a play in which she will be given an opportunity to show her ability and versatility.

Director Bob Hill has finally completed the making of his mountain and lumberjack drama, "The Trail of the Wild Wolf," in which Paul Panzer and Wallis Clark had a fight which lasted over twenty minutes, and in which both men were injured.

King Baggot is soon to return to directing. He has already accepted three dramas which he will start work upon shortly. Director Harry McRae Webster, who has been directing Mr. Baggot, will direct Violet Merserean in five-reel Red Feather Features.

O'CONNELL ASSISTS SECRETARY OF INDUSTRIAL

Chicago, Jan. 8.

L. William O'Connell has been appointed assistant to the secretary and treasurer of the Industrial Moving Picture Company.

Mr. O'Connell has had wide experience in the advertising agency field, and is thoroughly conversant with that branch of the advertising business.

For a number of years he has occupied a most important position with the Husband and Thomas Agency of Chicago, which position he resigned to take up his present duties. Previous to his association with Husband and Thomas, Mr. O'Connell was connected with the Lord and Thomas Agency, and also did considerable exploitation work along advertising lines for important interests on the Pacific Coast and in Canada.

ROTHACKER NOT ABLE TO ATTEND BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

Watterson R. Rothacker, president and manager of the Industrial Moving Picture Company of Chicago, in his capacity of vice-president of the Motion Picture Board of Trade, will not be able to be present at the annual meeting in New York on account of a severe accident which nearly resulted in the loss of his right hand.

Mr. Rothacker's many friends will be glad to learn that he is fast recovering and that very fortunately not any permanent injury was done.

Mr. Rothacker gave a talk before the meeting of the national executive committee of the Motion Picture Exhibitors of America, January 6, on the subject of the Motion Picture Board of Trade, of which organization he is one of the vice-presidents.

Four Features for "K-E" Release in This Month

Following "Devil's Prayer-Book," Which Opened the Service of the Companies for the Year, the "Cats-paw" Is Set for the Twelfth

WITH the release of the Kleine Feature, January 5, "The Devil's Prayer-Book," the Kleine-Edison Feature Service opened the new year.

"The Devil's Prayer-Book," is a feature especially written by Max Marcin, author of the dramatic success "The House of Glass" in which Mary Ryan is playing at the Candler theatre, New York, as a starring vehicle for Alma Hanlon. She is co-star with Arthur Hoops in "The Devil's Prayer-Book."

Four features are scheduled for releases through the Kleine-Edison Service during January, two Kleine and two Edison. On January 12 Edison will release "The Cats-paw," founded on the novel by William Hamilton Osborne. Miriam Nesbitt and Marc MacDermott, those two favorites who have not recently been seen together in film, are re-united in "The Cat's-paw," dividing leads in this story of double identity.

"Wild Oats" is the title of the "K-E" offering for January 19, a dramatic piece featuring Malcolm Duncan and Alma Hanlon. "Wild Oats" tells a story of the social-drama variety, dealing with Broadway. Malcolm Duncan makes his premier appearance in the starring role of a wayward son.

Duncan is remembered as one of Harson Grey Fiske's leading men. The feature is a Kleine Feature which required almost two months to produce.

On January 26 the concluding production of the January program will be released. This is "The Innocence of Ruth," a five-part drama, featuring Viola Dana and Edward Earle.

Viola Dana, the star of "The Poor Little Rich Girl," and several big Edison features, including the recently released "Children of Eve," is seen in the role of the gentle demure, but quick-tempered Ruth Travers. "The Innocence of Ruth" is the story of an orphan girl, raised luxuriously by a young but wealthy friend of her deceased father. The dangers of the motherless girl are convincingly shown.

Hartmann Device Throws Figures in Bold Relief

Machine for Throwing Plastic Pictures on Screen in a Way to Make Them "Stand Out" from the Surface, Is Given Demonstration in New York

WILLIAM C. HARTMANN, 1388 Broadway, New York, last week gave a demonstration of a new device which he calls "photoplasts, and plastic pictures," for use as a novelty by exhibitors. It consists of pictures projected by the regular machines, upon a screen set behind an inclined plate glass.

The glass reflects a scene painted on canvas, and forms a background for the figures in the picture. The effect is to make the pictured figures "stand out" from the screen in most life-like fashion.

The photoplast device occupies only about eight feet of depth, and it is argued for it that it may be installed in any theatre which has this depth behind the regular screen. The projection is from the front in the regular way, but special films are required in order to give the desired effect.

These films are taken with the actors working in front of a black background. The background of the finished print is thus rendered opaque, and allows the reflected background to show, by its reflection in the plate glass, in the projected picture.

The films shown by Mr. Hartmann in his demonstration, were taken especially for the device, and consisted of excellently colored costume reproductions of various fancy dances. The plastic effect was remarkable lifelike, and the figures were thrown into bold relief against their surroundings.

It is announced that this device is similar to the "Mysteria" feature recently booked on the larger vaudeville time, except in this case, the projection is from the front, rather than from behind the screen.

WORLD FILM SIGNS ADOLF PHILIPP

Lewis J. Selznick, vice-president and general manager of the World Film Corporation, has signed for a long period, Adolf Philipp, the "German George Cohan," and known internationally as the author, producer and star of some of the biggest dramatic successes that have ever been staged in Europe and America.

Broadway knows Adolf Philipp well, through such hits as "Alma, Where Do You Live?", "Auction Pinochle," "Adele," "The Midnight Girl" and "The Girl Who Smiles," all of which scored heavily during their New York runs and which are now represented on the road by various companies.

Glimpses of Three Coming Metro Photoplays: "Man and His Soul," "Dimples," and "Her Debt of Honor." (Left) A Scene From the First Named

(Top) Bushman and Bayne in "Man and His Soul"; (Center) Mary Miles Minter in "Dimples"; (Right) Valli Valli in "Her Debt of Honor"

General Announces Important Changes in Field Staff

Two New Division Managers Appointed, One for the East and One for Canada—Six Branch Heads Promoted and Three More Engaged, in Accord with President Berst's Policy of Securing Greater Efficiency for Exhibitors, and Rewarding Successful Employes of the Company

FURTHER important changes in the personnel of the field staff of the General Film Company were announced this week from the executive offices, 200 Fifth avenue, New York. The changes are made by President J. A. Berst in accord with his policy of securing greater efficiency for the benefit of the exhibitors, and his desire to promote those who have shown the co-operative spirit toward the man who manages the theatre.

The changes include the appointment of two new Division Managers, one for the East and one for Canada, the promoting of six Branch Managers and the engaging of three more entirely new to the General Film Company.

Country Divided Into Four Districts

Soon after Mr. Berst's election to the presidency of the General Film Company it will be remembered he divided the country into four districts, placing in each a division manager in charge of that division's branches. The four division managers are to take the place of a general manager of the entire organization.

The appointment of V. H. Hodupp, made known this week, completes the quartette of division managers for the United States.

Until Monday, January 10, Mr. Hodupp was manager of the Twenty-third street General Film Company branch. Prior to his connection with the General Film Company Mr. Hodupp had a long and successful film career with Pathé Frérès. He handled many important matters for them. His last work for Pathé was done as manager of their Chicago Exchange.

While Mr. Hodupp has been in the film business practically since its development, he is a man of a finely varied experience. He has operated extensively in real estate and has been successful as a broker in downtown New York.

New Division Manager for Canada

A second important change announced this week from the General Film Company's offices is the selection of H. E. Lotz to be division manager of Canada. Until a few days ago Mr. Lotz was manager of the Mutual Exchange in Montreal. He is familiar with the entire Canadian territory, from Montreal to the Pacific Coast, having spent seven years in the film industry in Canada. His first work for the General Film Company was done as a travelling representative for the Seattle branch.

Van Meter to Minneapolis

Of the six branch managers who receive larger spheres of action, H. H. Buxbaum is transferred from Minneapolis to Philadelphia. Exhibitors and business associates were sorry to see the manager leave Minneapolis. A farewell dinner at which Mr. Buxbaum received a loving cup was one of the features of his departure from the Middle Western city. He is now installed in the Philadelphia office.

The popularity with exhibitors of J. T. Van Meter and his successful business methods while in charge of the Milwaukee branch of the General Film Company led Mr. Berst to select him as Mr. Buxbaum's successor in Minneapolis.

F. L. Hudson, the third manager who is promoted, was especially successful in Los Angeles. He is transferred to Seattle.

T. C. Malcolm is made manager of the Los Angeles branch to succeed Mr. Hudson. Mr. Malcolm was Mr. Hudson's assistant in the California Coast city.

M. Milder is the fifth of the General Film Company managers to be promoted. Mr. Milder is sent from Pittsburgh to Cleveland. He is moved despite the written protest of some of his customoers who asked President Berst to keep him in Pittsburgh. But Mr. Milder's record was so unusual that Mr. Berst wished to give him advancement.

Marentette Promoted at Atlanta

The sixth promotion is that of J. L. Marentette, formerly assistant manager in the Atlanta, Ga., branch. Mr. Marentette becomes manager at Atlanta. He is a well-known southern film man.

The three managers who come to the General Film Company from other organizations are W. C. Brimmer, C. W. Taylor and W. W. Anderson. Mr. Brimmer becomes manager of the Milwaukee branch, succeeding Mr. Van Meter. C. W. Taylor is appointed branch manager in Omaha. He comes to the General from the Mutual, having had charge in Omaha of the Mutual exchange. He has had long experience on the business side of films and has many friends among exhibitors. The third of the new managers, W. W. Anderson, formerly of Pathé Frérès, takes charge in Newark, N. J.

New and larger quarters have been taken by three branches. These are the Baltimore, Newark and Pittsburgh offices. The Baltimore branch is now at 402 W. Lombard street, the Newark at 16-18 Beaver street, and the Pittsburgh at 119 Ninth street.

Raver Release, "Other Girl," Is Well Received

Members of the Trade at Showing of Screen Play Based on Stage Drama by Augustus Thomas See Box Office Possibilities of Corbett as Star

THE first Raver Film Corporation release "The Other Girl," adapted from the play of the same name by Augustus Thomas, one of America's foremost dramatists, was cordially received at its first presentation.

Besides newspaper men there were many state rights buyers present. The press was unanimous in its praise of the picture. Those who were directly concerned in the motion picture business remarked of the big possibilities the picture contained as a commercial proposition, and pointed out the value of James J. Corbett as a box office attraction as well as William Muldoon and Paul Gilmore, who are starred in the picture. Particular mention was made by nearly everyone of the night scene on Broadway.

Many of the buyers purchased their various territories immediately and others who are coming to New York everyday are making the offices of the Raver company their first visit. With the interviewing of buyers, the arranging for the advertising material and making of prints, the offices of this company are busy. The technical end is particularly active and it was necessary to engage William Hartmann to assist Monsieur Avare in the handling of this department.

Many telegrams are received as well as letters requesting terms on open territory. Mr. Raver, president of the company remarked: "There is only one other picture which was as eagerly sought as is "The Other Girl" and that was "Cabiria." While "Cabiria" is a different kind of picture, its size and magnificence is offset in this picture by the great popularity of its players, James J. Corbett, William Muldoon, Paul Gilmore and the others. It is a peculiar picture in its make-up and contains a good deal of novelty.

"The intimate scenes at Muldoon's health farm; Corbett in actual training for the championship battle against Sullivan; crowded Broadway where we staged an accident; a very novel night scene of Times Square showing the great myriad of lights, give this production many unusual angles."

All but about two-hundred feet of the entire five reels of the picture are artistically tinted and toned. The tinting of the picture is considered very good. Many of them are bits of dialogue taken from the play itself.

The paper on "The Other Girl" includes two styles of ones, two styles of threes and one style of sixes. The six sheet has an especially strong punch in it. It shows the automobile which was photographed at Forty-third street and Broadway, one of New York's busiest spots.

The myriad of electric lights are seen in prospect while in the foreground the speeder and victim stand in strong relief.

"FOOL'S REVENGE" IN PICTURES FOR FOX

"A Fool's Revenge," a story of a clown who conceives a terrible revenge only to find he has been laboring under a horrible mistake, is now in course of production by William Fox under the direction of W. S. S. Davis.

Maude Gilbert and William H. Tooker are the principal members of a cast that includes Kittens Reichart, Ruth Finlay and Warner Oland.

ANDERSON CREATES NEW ESSANAY CHARACTER

G. M. Anderson, creator of the famous character of Broncho Billy, Essanay, has created a new character, entirely different, but one representing the spirit of the Western cowboy life.

This character already has appeared in a few of his plays and he is developing it to appear in a new series, all of which photoplays are complete stories in themselves.

G. M. ANDERSON

The character, while a conventional society man in many ways, has a certain marked difference, owing to Mr. Anderson's interpretation.

In the few times the character has appeared, the role is reported to have met with marked approval.

"TEMPTATION" BOOKED TWO WEEKS AT BROADWAY THEATRE

Because of the popularity of the star and the production, the Broadway theatre, New York, extended the engagement of Geraldine Farrar in the Lasky production, "Temptation" to two weeks, instead of keeping it, as is the custom of the theatre to play Paramount attractions, only one week.

This is the first time in the history of the theatre as a home of motion pictures in which a production has been held over a second week.

"ISLAND OF SURPRISE," VITAGRAPH, READY ON THE TWENTY-FOURTH

Vitagraph announces the completion of Cyrus Townsend Brady's "The Island of Surprise," filmed under the direction of Paul Scardon, and featuring William Courtenay, well known for his work on the legitimate stage.

It is a five-part Blue Ribbon Feature and a real thriller in every sense of the word. Assisting Mr. Courtenay in the cast are Eleanor Woodruff, Zena Keefe, Charles Kent, Anders Randolf, Charles Wellesley, Julia Swayne Gordon, Denton Vane and Logan Paul.

Mack's Company to Syndicate Screen Stories

Owner of the Buffalo "Times" Organizes Concern for Placing in Newspapers Throughout the Country Novelized Versions of Photodramas, Including Serials and Features

THE Buffalo Times, which has been doing much the past year in syndicating motion picture stories and film publicity, has opened a New York office in the Times Building, and has entered upon a much broader field of work than heretofore.

This Motion Picture Syndicate Department of the Times, the outcome of much thought and preparation on the part of Norman E. Mack, owner and publisher of the Buffalo paper, has extensive plans for the syndicating, in big and little newspapers throughout the country, of novelized versions of screen plays, including serials and features, besides contracting for the management of the publicity of distributing companies.

Mr. Mack, while attending the exposition in the West last summer in an executive capacity, came in contact with the production of motion pictures and became convinced that the future of the motion picture syndicating business was boundless.

Already the New York office has closed contracts with the American Correspondent Film Company, which handles the German war pictures in this country, for the placement of the company's out of town publicity.

The Kalem company has tendered to the Times Syndicate the rights for the syndicating of the novelization of their new series, "Love Pirates," by George Bronson-Howard. The success which greeted the syndicating of "Lucille Love" and "Who Pays?" by the Times department warranting this action.

John F. Miller, manager of the Syndicate office, said concerning the activities of the concern: "It is Mr. Mack's belief, as it is that of many others, that the motion picture has never received its full share of attention from the daily papers.

"Throughout the country the dailies devote a page at least to sports, chiefly baseball, and receive little if any advertising in return. The pictures, it is plain, have a much larger following than baseball or all the sports put together, but they have been sadly neglected.

"We have already secured co-operation with eighty leading newspapers in the country to further the promotion of all sorts of motion picture publicity, including the novelization of the screen stories.

"They have realized the news value lying in the industry and are ready to grasp at it even without the added stimulus of advertising.

"It is our plan to place readable, interesting publicity back of the pictures, and by so doing stimulate and awaken the interest of the public to the good products of the market. Further than that we have no interests. We will have nothing to do with a picture that has a shady story, for we do not intend to deceive the picture going public."

Mme. Petrova Sweeps Canada in Social Triumph

Metro Star Is Publicly Honored by Society and Government Officials in Montreal—Dancer Is Guest of Honor at Tea Given by Lady Taylor

MADAME PETROVA, Metro star, has returned from a tour of Canada, where she was publicly honored by semi-social and military receptions in Montreal, Ottawa, and Toronto. She went to Canada primarily to appear in person at the dedication of the Metro Pictures, Ltd., exchange in Montreal.

It was arranged to present Madame Petrova's latest starring vehicle for Metro, "What Will People Say," at the Imperial theatre, Montreal, while she was in that city. She appeared in person at the Imperial and was enthusiastically cheered by the audience. After the showing of the feature, Madame Petrova held a reception on the stage, and was presented to many government officials.

Polish by birth, and an enthusiast for the cause of the Allies, Madame Petrova aided by speeches in special recruiting propaganda. Arrangements were completed to conduct the Metro star on a hurried tour of Canada under the auspices of the Special Promotion Committee of the Patriotic Forces.

After a series of receptions at the Windsor Hotel, Madame Petrova was the honor guest at a tea given by Lady Taylor. She then made a tour of the principal hospitals, where she cheered the wounded with songs and recitations. She autographed many photographs for the soldiers.

Upon her arrival in Montreal there was issued a special edition of Montreal Life, a weekly publication dealing with art, society, the screen and the stage. The edition also contained pictures of other Metro stars.

Madame Petrova pressed the button that switched on a flood of light, making Phillips Square bright as day, when Metro's branch office was formally opened. The square was crowded with people. When Madame Petrova appeared at a window in the Dominion Express building, where the exchange is located, she received an ovation, and made a brief speech.

ARGYLE CAMPBELL JOINS MIRROR FILMS

Lawrence Marston, who has been engaged to produce for the Mirror Films, Inc., and who will make the first photoplay in which Nat C. Goodwin appears for that company, has brought with him to the Mirror Argyle Campbell, who has been Mr. Marston's assistant for several years.

Mr. Campbell was aid to Mr. Marston when that producer put on "Thais."

EDMONDSON CONTRACTS FOR ALL FROHMAN FILMS IN BRITAIN

R. S. Edmondson, of the American Film Releases, Ltd., 118 Shaftesbury avenue, London, through his agent Albert B. Ladick, has contracted with the Frohman Amusement Company to control its output for the United Kingdom.

"News" Editorials on Vital Film Subject Make Stir

"A Big Look Ahead" and "National Advertising and the Theatre Program" Open Vein of Discussion Among Advertising Experts, Business Men and Exhibitors—Wadsworth, of Frank Seaman, Inc., Sees "Possibilities of a Series of Pictures Indicating the Utility of a Commodity" a Forceful Medium for Exploiting Merchandise

THE possibilities of the film as an advertising medium, set forth by William A. Johnston in the December 18 and January 1 issues of MOTION PICTURE NEWS, have brought forward by letter a number of interesting opinions from men actively engaged in various lines of business.

Not all these opinions coincide with the views expressed in "A Big Look Ahead" and "National Advertising and the Theatre Program," as these two editorials were headed, but all of them show that the "News" has opened a vein of discussion vital to the motion picture industry.

The salient points of several of these letters follow:

Gerald B. Wadsworth, service department of Frank Seaman, Inc., Merchandising and advertising service, New York City, writes: "In your editorial of December 18 you refer to the possibilities of the film as an advertising medium.

"This is naturally very interesting to us and particularly the writer, because for many reasons it would seem as though the film should be one of the most effective advertising mediums that could be used.

"There are several reasons for this, but primarily because of the fact that the possibility of a series of pictures indicating the utility of a commodity in a detailed way relieves the reader of the necessity of interpreting words.

"It takes imagination for a person to get the idea of an article's various phases of utility. Imagination requires interest and it is not always a simple matter to interest people in something which they think they have no interest in.

"However, with the 'movie' it is possible to make a complete series of impressions regarding the utility of a commodity, thereby establishing interest without calling for any will-effort on the reader's part."

Theatres Might Be Competitors of Dailies

Mr. Wadsworth believes, however, that if advertising should become a part of a moving picture program, the newspapers might consider the picture theatre an advertising competitor, and therefore withold the support many of them now give motion pictures.

Alfred S. Black, president of the Maine Theatre, Inc., Rockland, Maine, who considers "A Big Look Ahead" the most important editorial he has ever read since he entered the motion picture field, discusses the question from the exhibitor's angle: "Screen advertising is advertising that counts. It is before the people and they cannot possibly avoid the same and, if made attractive, I believe can be enjoyed instead of being viewed otherwise.

"We stand ready without question to encourage and use any scheme of advertising that can be worked out to the mutual benefit of the advertiser and the exhibitor and will take our chances on holding our patronage.

"The thought has occurred to the writer as supplementary to national advertising that if local sections of film could be worked out in connection with local advertisers, they would have an additional drawing card, as local screen events of any kind always have a pulling power.

"I can only reiterate that I think you have done more for the exhibitors in opening up this subject than many of them probably realize at the moment."

From H. J. Winsten, of the Chicago-Kenosha Hosiery Company, Kenosha, Wis., comes the following: "I want to congratulate you on your editorial comment in the issue of January 1, particularly where you make the strong point of the difference between the speaking stage and the screen. I think it is a capital idea to give the name, 'The Fifth Estate,' to the moving picture industry.

Directory of Motion Picture Advertising

"I predict that within another year there will be published a book giving the advertising details and opportunities in each community where there are one or more moving picture exhibitors.

"Just as today N. W. Ayer of Philadelphia publishes a directory on newspapers, so there will be published a directory on moving picture advertising that will be so complete that such a concern as ours can negotiate either through our advertising agency or direct with any locality in the United States where we wish to place our advertising.

"It seems to the writer it is very important for you and the other trade papers to advocate that a local exhibitor do not tie up his advertising facilities on any one contract.

"Quite often I get a report from this or that concern stating they are enabled to give me exclusive rights in advertising on certain theatres.

"It seems to the writer that a great mistake is being made by such exhibitors because the time will come when they may wish they had held aloof from any such contract. You could not imagine a newspaper today or a billboard man in the community tying up to any one agent."

Advertising in motion pictures as discussed in the NEWS editorials has already become a reality in Chicago. This advertising is handled by the Felger Film Service and "includes," writes Walter M. Ford, general manager of the Felger Company, 5 South Wabash avenue, Chicago, "the preparation of short advertising films and their display in about sixty of Chicago's best theatres to an attendance in excess of 1,000,000 every month."

Big Concerns Use Film Advertising

The advertisers using this reel are Armour and Company, Morris and Company, Overland Motor Car Company, Diamond Match Company, Continental Trust and Savings Bank, and others of equal prominence. The films are real motion picture advertisements, not crude cartoons, and are prepared in a studio used for that purpose.

Mr. Ford endorses heartily the two editorials. "We believe that your ideas as to the future of motion picture advertising will prove correct," he says, "and we predict that its development will take place far more readily than most people in the moving picture business now think."

An adverse note is sounded by Guy L. Harrington, sales manager, Motion Picture Magazine, Brooklyn, N. Y.: "You are dead wrong. Magazine readers have not 'left the evening reading lamp for the motion picture theatre.' I was in receipt yesterday morning from the N. W. Ayer Agency in Philadelphia of a letter in which they say that the aggregate circulation of the general and woman's magazines in 1911 was 25,301,000; this year this aggregate is 52,-854,000, indicating that magazine circulation has doubled during the last five years.

"I am sure that motion pictures develop the powers of imagination in people and with the development of these powers will come a greater taste and greater eagerness for reading, especially fiction.

"For this reason I believe motion pictures are aiding in the increase in the circulation of magazines rather than hurting their circulation and statistics back up this opinion."

Nevertheless, Mr. Harrington grants the validity of our main argument:

"It is not surprising that are advertisers are anxious to use motion pictures as an advertising medium in some way. Advertisers have always been anxious to use mediums that reach people in masses.

"During the Middle Ages churches were used for advertising purposes and it is possible and probable that at some time motion pictures will be used for this purpose."

CAMPBELL HUNTS LOCATION IN ST. LOUIS FOR "CRISIS"

Colin Campbell, the Selig director, is in St. Louis looking over unusual locations called for in Winston Churchill's novel, "The Crisis," which will be picturized by Selig.

The old slave market, and other locations well known in Civil War days are being inspected by Mr. Campbell.

Mr. Campbell's most recent production, "Thou Shalt Not Covet," featuring Tyrone Power and Kathlyn Williams, to be released through V-L-S-E, February 7, employed a thousand or more extras in a big shipwreck scene, which is said to be highly spectacular.

FIVE THEATRES PEEVE CENSORS IN LOS ANGELES

The new Los Angeles censor board created quite a disturbance during the past week when they called upon the police to confiscate the films being shown at five or six of the downtown theatres which had not been viewed by them.

Their plans are that no films shall be shown in the city unless they have been viewed by the board.

The Supreme in Artistic Accomplishment
of The Silent
Drama

BLUEBIRD
PHOTO-PLAYS (Inc)
ANNOUNCE AS THE FIRST PRODUCTION

The Divine
SARAH BERNHARDT
In The Great French Drama
"Jeanne Doré"
From The Pen of That Illustrious French Writer
TRISTAN BERNARD

• Being the Drama in which the Divine Sarah—made her last •
• Stage appearance •

Communicate with the executive offices of
BLUEBIRD PHOTO PLAYS
1600 Broadway
for booking arrangements and reservation
Or your local
• Bluebird Booking Office •

BLUEBIRD
PHOTO PLAYS

BLUEBIRD
Photo Plays
(inc) ANNOUNCE
The Second
Forthcoming
Production
Presenting Helen Ware
in Secret Love
Adapted From
"That Lass 'O Lowries"
The Famous Novel by Frances Hodgson Burnett
BOOKINGS
May be arranged
By Communicating with The executive offices of
BLUEBIRD
Photo-Plays (Inc)
1600 Broadway
NEW YORK
or your local Bluebird
Booking Offices

LOOKING AT SCENES IN "AS A WOMAN SOWS," MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE, STARRING ALEXANDER GADEN AND GERTRUDE ROBINSON

MOTION PICTURE COSTUME AND CIVIC BALL ON FEB. 19

What its promoters intend shall be a spectacle unique in New York amusement history will be staged in Madison Square Garden, Saturday night, February 19, by the Screen Club and the Motion Picture Exhibitors League, Local No. 1.

It will be a motion picture costume and civic ball, at which will appear screen players in the costume of the role in which they have been most successful. Tickets will be one dollar each.

The grand march will be led by a prominent public man with a screen actress to be selected by a voting contest now being conducted by the New York American.

The general headquarters for the ball are at the Screen Club, 165 West Forty-seventh street, New York.

"Lure of Heart's Desire" Instead of "Rose of Alley"

Metro, Owing to Accident in the Factory, Will Release the Former in Place of the Latter on January 17, the Five Reeler Starring Edmund Breese

OWING to an accident in the factory, which will prevent its release on the date scheduled, January 17, Metro Pictures Corporation has withdrawn from its program for the present the five-reel production, "The Rose of the Alley," in which Mary Miles Minter is starred.

In its place the Metro Pictures Corporation will release the five-part feature, "The Lure of Heart's Desire," instead of a month later, as was previously announced. Edmund Breese, who was last starred in "The Song of the Wage Slave," has the stellar role in this newest Metro wonderplay.

The story has to do with a lighthouse keeper who saves the life of a young society girl. He falls desperately in love with her, as he nurses her back to health, but she refuses his advances because of his lowly position.

Later, in New York, she falls in with a society leech and gambler, who involves her in a blackmail scheme. Disheartened, the lighthouse keeper drifts aimlessly until finally he joins a party of goldseekers bound for the Yukon. There he befriends an Indian girl, who becomes his companion.

In the year that follows he makes his strike, and amasses a fortune. He intends to wed the Indian girl, but decides on one more fling on Broadway before settling down in the North.

He arrives in New York on New Year's eve, and while in a gay restaurant observes his first love with a party of friends. He hastens to her side, tells her of his good fortune, and subsequently proposes to her. She is willing to accept him, but is prevented from doing so by the society-gambler, who threatens her with exposure.

She is obliged to turn down the proffer of marriage, and the now wealthy miner after realizing the perfidy of her character, turns his back on society as a sham. He returns to the North.

Back in Alaska the faithful little Indian girl despairs of her lover's return, and commits suicide at the side of her father's deathbed. The miner returns on the night of her death. Besides her he finds a newly-born babe, which he hastens to administer to, and the remainder of his life is spent in devotion to the little one.

Besides Mr. Breese, the supporting cast, includes Jeanette Horton, Arthur Hoops, Evelyn Brent, John Mahon, and others. The exterior snow scenes were made in the Adirondacks, where an Alaskan street was constructed, and other elaborate sets also built.

One of the attractive scenes is the New Years' celebration, which was made in the famous Murray's restaurant, near Broadway and Forty-second street, New York City, which was made the day after New Year's, and all the waiters, omnibuses and the company of professional dancers employed regularly in the restaurant, were used.

Francis J. Grandon, a new director on the Metro staff, made the feature, and it was produced for Metro by the Popular Plays and Players.

Bud Fisher's Mutt and Jeff for the Screen

Famous Characters Already Familiar to Readers of Two Hundred Newspapers, Will Appear in 300 Feet of Animated Cartoon for Weekly Release

BUD FISHER, creator of Mutt and Jeff, has arranged with the Mutt and Jeff Weekly, Inc., to produce three hundred feet of film weekly for an animated cartoon of these two characters already famous through Fisher's daily comic pictures in more than two hundred newspapers.

The organizers of Mutt and Jeff Weekly Inc., a company formed for the specific purpose of putting these comic creations on the screen, announce that they have brought Fisher into motion pictures at a great cost.

Fisher will develop each week a plot which Mutt and Jeff will carry out on the three hundred feet of film. The two characters will have their weekly adventures all over the world, it is announced, and will follow the news to a certain extent.

The film will be booked with exchanges and exhibitors direct by the Mutt and Jeff Weekly, Inc. Any exhibitor, who is willing to pay the price, can have the film. The announcement of the first release will be made shortly.

Bud Fisher has millions of daily readers in the United States—Canada, Cuba, Mexico, Panama, and South America. He is said to receive $75,000 a year for drawing the Mutt and Jeff cartoons.

"I am only afraid," Fisher remarked the other day, "that Mutt and Jeff on the screen may become more popular than Mutt and Jeff in the newspapers."

The backers of this new motion picture proposition point out that while Mutt and Jeff are limited to a few poses in a newspaper strip, they will be alive and move on the screen.

A number of experienced newspaper proprietors, picture producers and showmen, it is announced, predict great popularity for the new films.

TWO LASKYS, ONE FOR 20TH AND OTHER RELEASED ON 30TH

Two coming photoplays from the Jesse L. Lasky studios will present Theodore Roberts in Puddin'head Wilson," and Blanche Sweet in "The Ragamuffin." The first will be released January 31, and the second January 20.

"Puddin'head Wilson" will be the first of a series of picturizations of Mark Twain's works. The story lends itself well to the motion picture form of narrative, it is said. Roberts will be supported by Thomas Meighan, Alan Hale and Florence Dagmar, among others.

Miss Sweet's role calls for the portrayal of the transformation of a street waif into a useful and happy woman. The play was written and directed by William C. De Mille. Among those who appear with the star are Tom Forman, Mrs. Lewis McCord, James Neil, Minnette Barrett and William Elmer.

Chicago Picked for Annual League Convention

Session Will Be Held in July, from Eleventh to Fifteenth, According to Decision of National Executive Committee at Meeting in Chicago on the 5th and 6th

Special to Motion Picture News

Chicago, Jan. 7.

CHICAGO is the place decided upon for the next annual convention and exhibition of the Motion Picture Exhibitors of America to be held from July 11 to 15, 1916.

Such was the unanimous vote of the National Executive Committee of the Motion Picture Exhibitors of America in a meeting held at the LaSalle Hotel Wednesday and Thursday, January 5 and 6, at which Fred J. Herrington, national president presided.

Besides the national executive committee many prominent exhibitors from all sections of the country were present and the meeting was in every way a most successful one.

The Thursday meeting started with the discussion of a letter received from Mr. J. W. Binder, Executive Secretary of the Motion Picture Board of Trade regarding the exhibitors holding their convention in conjunction with the Board of Trades trade exhibition, which is to be held in New York this spring.

The discussion hinged upon a talk by Mr. W. R. Rothacker, who was present to speak on what the Motion Picture Board of Trade meant to the exhibitor. After this matter had been thoroughly debated by practically all the exhibitors present, it was decided that the Motion Picture Exhibitors of America would hold a convention independently of the Motion Picture Board of Trade, and the following resolution was proposed by Mr. Delvies and seconded by Mr. Jeup "that

F. J. Rembusch of Indiana or W. J. Sweeney of Chicago or both, be directed to act for and on behalf of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of America to secure the co-operation and assistance of the National Board of Trade at their annual meeting January 11, 1916 in New York, in making the national convention and exhibition of the Motion Picture Exhibitors of America, which is to be held during July, 1916, a success."

A vote of thanks and appreciation to the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of Illinois, of whom the National Executive Committee and other exhibitors were guests during their stay in Chicago was then unanimously adopted.

Mr. Phillips asked for the co-operation of the trade papers for the organization and this started a discussion in which the necessity of exhibitors sending in news items and articles dealing with conditions in their section of the country was brought out. President Herrington asked all the exhibitors present to impress the necessity of such action on the exhibitor in their particular territories when they returned home.

The censorship question was discussed and while all the exhibitors present felt that all censorship should be abolished, nevertheless, inasmuch as at the present time this seemed impractical, their opinion was that the present National Board of Censorship was the least of the censor evils and therefore should be supported. In accordance with this opinion, Mr. Phillips of Milwaukee, Mr. Furniss of Duluth and Mr. Slimm of Cleveland were appointed as a committee to draw up the following resolution which was unanimously passed.

"WHEREAS, It has been called to the attention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America in executive session assembled on the sixth day of January, 1916, in the City of Chicago, Illinois, that the National Board of Censors is not receiving the proper support to maintain the Board. NOW THEREFORE, it is resolved that it will be to the best interest of the board in general that the National Board of Censors be not allowed to die. THEREFORE, We, the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, in executive session assembled, recommend that the manufacturers and distributors of films support and maintain the National Board of Censorship as at present constituted. Signed, Chas. H. Phillips, Thomas Furniss, W. J. Slimm."

The following members of the executive committee were present:

Frederick H. Herrington, National president, Pittsburgh; James Delvies, National secretary, Detroit; L. W. Brophy, second National Vice-president, Muscogee, Okla.; Mark E. Corey of San Francisco and Judge A. P. Tugwell of Los Angeles were both unable to be present, sending their proxies to Peter J. Jeup and F. J. Herrington, respectively. Marion S. Pierce was also absent on account of illness.

A few of the exhibitors who were present were:

W. J. Slimm, Cleveland, Ohio, member Ohio State Executive Committee; Frank M. Keeney, National vice-president from Ohio; Charles M. McGowan, special representative from Northern Ohio; G. M. Lutterell, president Illinois State League, Jacksonville, Ill.; W. W. Watts, treasurer Illinois Leage, Springfield, Ill.; F. J. Rembusch, vice-president of the Motion Picture Board of Trade, and president of the Indiana Association of Exhibitors, Shelbyville, Ind.; Clarence Beatty, exhibitor, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Thos. Furniss of the Duluth local, Duluth, Minn.; Chas. H. Phillips, counsel for the Milwaukee local, Milwaukee, Wis.; Henry Trinz, vice-president of the M. P. E. Association of Milwaukee; D. K. Fisher, secretary of M. P. E. Association of Milwaukee; W. J. Sweeney, treasurer Chicago local; Fred H. Hartmen, member of the executive committee of the Chicago local; John H. Freund, president Chicago local; H. L. Leiberthal, chairman executive committee Chicago local.

Paramount Executives at Bray Cartoon Showing

President Hodkinson, Raymond Pawley and Other Officials of Company See 600 Feet of Animated Pictures and 400 Feet of Ditmar Zoo Subject Run Off

AT a private advance showing in New York, "Col. Heeza Liar's Waterloo," the first of J. R. Bray's Cartoon Films released January 6 through Paramount was seen by representatives of the trade and daily press, President Hodkinson, Raymond Pawley, and other Paramount executives last week.

The offering consists of about six hundred feet of Mr. Bray's cartoon and four hundred of Raymond L. Ditmar's Zoo-pictures, "The Skunk and the Weasel."

A unique feature of the Bray cartoon is the subtitles. They are written in doggerel by George R. Meeker. These make a complete synopsis, running in part as follows:

There's a black villain gumshoeing without
To see that our hero is nowhere about.
He winks in a manner exceedingly sly,
Disclosing the fact there's a sty in his eye.
The villain gives chase, the porker gives squeals,
Objecting quite strongly to furnishing meals.
The Colonel half wakens on hearing these screams,
But quickly goes back to the land of his dreams.
That stolen goods are sometimes best
Pop Bear and family can attest
But they wouldn't let slumber over them steal
If they knew the Colonel was wise to their meal.

Three to four thousand drawings are required to make each thousand feet of cartoon film. Every drawing must undergo thirty-four different processes. The accomplishment of this is possible through Mr. Bray's patents.

Mr. Ditmar's nature study presents in an interesting manner the life of wild animals. L. N. Glackens' cartoon comedy, "Haddem Bad's Elopement" will be the next release.

ESSANAY'S NEW STUDIO UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT CHICAGO. THIS STUDIO WILL BE 350 x 175, AND IS SAID TO BE THE LARGEST INDOOR ARTIFICIALLY LIGHTED STUDIO IN THE WORLD

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT GETS RIGHTS TO EVANS NOVEL

The Frohman Amusement Corporation, through the efforts of its president, William L. Sherrill, has secured the photoplay rights to Larry Evan's successful novel, "Then I'll Come Back to You."

In its serial form, it appeared in the Metropolitan Magazine, starting with the February issue and concluding in the November number. During that time, it created much favorable comment and was hailed as a masterpiece of American fiction.

The picture above shows Mr. Sherrill and the author, Mr. Evans, signing the contract for the motion picture rights of this novel, which the Frohman Amusement Corporation will produce as its next release.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM L. SHERRILL, OF THE FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION, SIGNING WITH LARRY EVANS FOR THE SCREEN RIGHTS TO "THEN YOU'LL COME BACK TO ME"

Alice Brady has been selected as the star in this production, playing the part of Barbara Allison, with Jack Sherrill in the part of Steve O'Mara.

Miss Brady's services have been secured for this picture through the courtesy of Louis J. Selznick, of the World Film Corporation.

The entire company will be taken to Asheville, North Carolina, within the next ten days, where the exteriors will be secured.

EXHIBITOR ELECTED AN ALDERMAN —THE FIRST

George Hilkemeier, believed to be the first motion picture exhibitor who has been elected alderman, assumed office January 3, as representative of the sixtieth Aldermanic District, Brooklyn, N. Y. He was a successful candidate on the Democratic ticket at the last election.

Mr. Hilkemeier has been an exhibitor since 1904, in business with William Hilkemeier. At one time they were operating six different houses, and now control two theatres and two airdomes. They were the first in their territory to eliminate the "barker" in front of the theatre.

GEORGE HILKEMEIER

As alderman, Mr. Hilkemeier promises to see that exhibitors get their just rights.

THE PRINCIPAL MEMBERS OF "THE GIRL AND THE GAME" COMPANY ON SANTA CRUZ ISLAND, CAL. THE SECOND FIGURE FROM THE LEFT OF THE PICTURE IS HELEN HOLMES; AT HER LEFT APPEAR DIRECTOR McGOWAN AND GEORGE W. McDANIEL

KLEINSCHMIDT PICTURES RECEIVED IN NEW YORK FROM TRIESTE

The latest news received from Captain Kleinschmidt from Trieste speaks of the wonderful opportunities offered him for the taking of moving pictures and the splendid results he has obtained.

The Graflex pictures he has sent to New York show he has visited all the important battle fronts, and with the army at the taking of Belgrade enjoyed a trip in an aeroplane flying over the city at a height of 3,000 feet, taking pictures, and was one of the first to enter the capital after its capture.

CAPT. KLEINSCHMIDT PREPARING FOR A FLIGHT OVER BELGRADE

He has received high praise from the crown prince and the general staff, and secured permission to go to Trieste and on down the coast in a submarine, expecting to take moving pictures of the torpedoing of a vessel.

He has enjoyed many privileges through the courtesy of the general staff, and has taken full advantage of them.

Captain Kleinschmidt expects to bring over with him some 5,000 feet exhibit and lecture on them.

STREIMER SETS NEW MARK BOOKING E. & R. JUNGLE COMEDIES

Charles H. Streimer of the Greene's Features Photo-play Company closed a contract with the E. & R. Jungle Film Company, of Los Angeles, for New York and Northern New Jersey on Monday the tenth.

At 2 p. m. on the same day he ordered two additional prints, having booked the Loew, Keith, Proctor and Moss circuits and tied up his original prints for a month's solid booking.

"MARY PAGE" WILL BE RELEASED THROUGH GENERAL FILM

"THE STRANGE CASE OF MARY PAGE" will be released through the General Film Company and not through any other channel of distribution despite the many rumors that have been circulated, stating that this was not the case.

This was a statement made by the New York representative of the Essanay Company, which is putting out this series.

Congress Grants Board of Trade Censor Hearing

House Committee on Education Will Begin to Listen to Arguments on January 13 from Members of the Industry Against Law for Federal Supervision of Pictures

CENSORSHIP will be the burning question before the entire industry for the next two weeks by reason of the public hearing which has been granted on House Resolution 456 by the House Committee on Education, Dudley M. Hughes, chairman, through the persistent demand of the Motion Picture Board of Trade of America.

No more striking reason for the existence of the Motion Picture Board of Trade could be cited than the timely and efficient service rendered to the motion picture world by its effort to defeat the attempt of certain political interests, and energetic though misguided reformers in Washington to establish by enactment of Congress a Federal Censorship Law.

Had it not been for the country-wide deluge of telegrams received by the Honorable Dudley M. Hughes, who introduced the bill, it seems quite probable that no public hearing would have been granted by the House Committee on Education, and that its deliberations would have been conducted without any opportunity for motion picture people to present their side of the question.

This is the third time a Federal Censorship Law has been proposed, and a bill introduced in Congress. Both previous times the matter has been disposed of in committee, and now that the entire industry is up in arms, there is every reason to believe that the present measure will be relegated with its predecessors to a condition of innocuous desuetude.

The hearing before the committee is to take place on three successive nights, namely, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 13, 14 and 15. This information was contained in a telegram received by J. W. Binder, executive secretary of the Board.

The two bills, House Resolution 456 and Senate Bill 2204, the latter introduced by Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, are almost identical, and provide for the censorship of motion pictures by a commission of five, to be appointed by the President of the United States, and clothed with arbitrary power to license or prohibit any film which, in the judgment of the commission, is "obscene, indecent, immoral or of such a character that its exhibition would tend to impair the health or corrupt the morals of children or adults, or incite to crime."

The hearing, which will begin on January 13, is upon the House bill, but upon this hearing will depend the fate of both bills. It is the strong conviction of the entire industry, of a great many newspaper and magazine editors, and of a number of well-known writers, that Federal censorship of this kind will not only be one of the most harmful things which could happen to the motion picture art, but a very dangerous precedent to establish.

The plan of the Board of Trade in presenting its side to the House Committee on Education is as follows, and covers the three evenings assigned to those who are opposed to the bill:

Thursday evening, January 13, will be devoted to manufacturers and the most prominent ones in the industry will be present to give their side of the question. Friday evening will be taken up with the arguments of the exchangemen and exhibitors, many of whom have signified their intention of being present.

Saturday evening a number of prominent editors, well-known authors, famous directors of motion pictures, and several stars of national popularity on the screen will be present. At the end of the evening the arguments presented during the three evenings will be summarized and recapitulated by William M. Seabury, general counsel for the Motion Picture Board of trade, who with Mr. Binder will be present at all of the hearings.

A brief based upon this recapitulation will be presented by Mr. Seabury to be incorporated in the records of the Committee on Education. The first three evenings of the following week Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, January 17, 18 and 19 will be devoted to hearing the arguments of those who favor the bill, and at the end of that time two days will be devoted to rebuttal on the part of Mr. Seabury and Mr. Binder, and the formidable array of men who are interested in defeating this Federal measure.

SIGNAL TO PRODUCE MASTER PICTURES FOR MUTUAL DE LUXE

A new company to produce five-reel Mutual Masterpictures, Edition De Luxe, has been organized by the Signal Film Corporation, which is enlarging its force to enable it to become a regular contributor to the Mutual Film Corporation's new feature policy whereby, beginning January 17, three Masterpictures Edition De Luxe, are being released weekly.

Ray Meyers has left the Fine Arts Company to become the director of the new Signal Organization and he will produce under the direct supervision of J. P. McGowan, the director of "The Girl and the Game," the first of the Signal Film Corporation's companies.

For the leading players, three names of real importance in the film world have been secured. Hal Cooley, leading man, has left the Universal to become a Signal player. Rhea Mitchell, whose popularity in Kay-Bee Broncho pictures in the Mutual Program, will guarantee her an enthusiastic welcome back to the Mutual fold, will be the leading woman. Francis McDonald, the successful and talented heavy, is the third actor to be secured by the Signal.

"Sedition," a photodrama by L. Genez, has been chosen by the directors of the second Signal Company for its first screen offering.

Connaught First 7-Day-Run Theatre in Montreal

House Managed by R. Bell Opens with "A Fool There Was," Fox Feature Starring Theda Bara—Exhibitors Exercising Discrimination in Picture Selection

THE first seven-day-run house has made its appearance in Montreal. It is the Connaught theatre, managed by R. Bell, who, in adopting the one-picture-a-week policy, opened with "A Fool There Was," the Fox production in which Theda Bara is starred.

The feature situation in Montreal is still in its infancy, but exhibitors are beginning to exercise more discrimination in selection of pictures. The coming opening of the St. Denis theatre, seating 2,800, the Regent in another part of the city, and two others for which plans have been accepted, indicate keener appreciation in Eastern Canada of features.

Many smaller houses, scattered along Montreal's main streets, however, still combined four to six chorus burlesque shows with showing of features.

Since the advent of the Fox exchange in Montreal, improvement in several directions is manifest. Perhaps the most drastic change made in regular exchange methods involved the handling of nothing but unmounted paper. It had long been the practice for exhibitors to use only mounted paper. The Fox innovation has resulted in clean advertising matter for exhibitors.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN AN UNUSUAL POSE FOR "HIS NAME IN THE PAPERS"; COMING TRIANGLE SUBJECT FROM GRIFFITH

NO CHANGES IN PHOTOPLAY RELEASING COMPANY

A. M. Gollos, president of the photoplay Releasing Company, wishes it understood that the recent death of George H. Baird, a stockholder and director in this company, has in no way affected the financial or business standing of the Photoplay Releasing Company.

He says that while Mr. Baird's business experience was a valuable asset which they are very sorry to lose and that his companionship and warm friendship were valuable possessions, nevertheless the company will continue as before under the direction of A. M. Gollos as president, George N. Gollos as vice president and F. E. Patterson as secretary and treasurer.

GAUMONT COMPANY REACH NEW ORLEANS

In charge of Director Richard Garrick, members of a Gaumont stock company arrived in New Orleans recently to stage at the Fair Grounds a number of scenes for a five-reel Mutual feature, "The Drifters."

The Gaumont company came direct from its winter headquarters in Jacksonville, Fla., and were attracted to New Orleans by the unusual opportunity to stage several scenes amid the thousands of persons who daily throng the track during the course of the racing meet.

The Gaumont company staged a special race with their own jockey riding in the scene. Lucille Taft, beautiful Memphis girl, who within the year has risen in the Gaumont ranks from an extra to a star, is leading woman, while the other principals are as follows:

Iva Shepard, heavy woman; Alexander Gaden, leading man; Albert Macklin, juvenile lead; Stockton Quincy, jockey. Allen Robinson is assisting Director Garrick and Walter Pritchard, his cameraman.

New Orleans' Largest "Legit" Opens with a Lasky

"Temptation," with Geraldine Farrar, Inaugurates for the Crescent Theatre a Policy of All Motion Pictures for the City— Triangles Set for End of Month

Special to Motion Picture News

New Orleans, La., Jan. 8.

A UNIQUE test involving the popularity of motion pictures as compared with the spoken drama, is about to be witnessed in New Orleans.

The Crescent theatre, New Orleans largest legitimate house, opens this week with Geraldine Farrar on the Paramount program in "Temptation," and incidentally an all motion picture policy, while New Orleans theatregoers a few days later will have an opportunity of seeing Miss Farrar in the flesh, as she is billed to appear at the Athenaeum in a concert under auspices of the Philharmonic Society.

Whether Miss Farrar will be more popular in motion pictures at twenty-five cents or in the flesh at three dollars per seat, remains to be seen, and yet all indications of the screen advance sale point to a victory for the screen.

Incidentally it may be remarked that the opening of the Crescent theatre has called for the expenditure of $20,000 in settings, which include a screen, new opera chairs and entire remodelling of New Orleans' oldest legitimate house.

W. F. Bossner, who comes direct from the Strand theatre in New York, is the manager of the Crescent. Originally it was planned to open the Crescent on January 3, but Mr. Bossner did not wish to disturb the arrangements of a road show playing this week.

When this road show closes this week, it means the finis of the spoken drama, while motion pictures will hold the boards for the remainder of this and succeeding seasons.

It is a foregone conclusion that the new policy will be successful.

New Orleans theatregoers certainly will welcome the change. Lately they have been given legitimate attractions of a nature almost mediocre, while from now on they are assured of top-notch motion picture programs.

The date of the opening of the Triangle program in New Orleans has been set for the end of January. Ernst Boehringer, Louisiana exhibitor, with a string of theatres in this state, brought the Triangle program to New Orleans.

Triangle films will be shown first at one of the larger theatres heretofore "legitimate," while for their second run they will be projected at his new Columbia theatre in Canal street.

Further details of the new motion picture house, which probably will be erected in the two hundred block in Baronne street by the Newman interests, will be announced within a short time, it is stated.

The De Soto Realty Company, owners of the attractive proposed site, admitted to a representative of Motion Picture News that details for the new house were being worked out.

Nowadays the motion picture departments of New Orleans newspapers are giving deserved attention to the film exchange men. Ross Hardenbrook, the new manager of World Film, came in this week for an extensive write-up in the Sunday Times-Picayune.

Nobody locally can even imagine such a thing possible two or three, or even one year ago. It goes to show that the newspapers nowadays are ready and willing to co-operate with the makers of moving pictures, and the men who sell them, as well as with the exhibitors.

A. J. Benedic.

Mary Pickford Will Remain with Famous Players

Formation of the Famous Players-Mary Pickford Company for the Production of Features Starring the Well-Known Screen Actress Puts Quietus on Rumors of Withdrawal

ALL doubt concerning the future affiliations of Mary Pickford were permanently dispelled when she decided to remain with the Famous Players Film Company, the first feature organization with which she was identified.

The new agreement into which Miss Pickford has entered with Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players Company, includes the formation of the Famous Players-Mary Pickford Company for the making of feature productions in which Miss Pickford is to be starred, and in which the star retains a half interest.

ADOLPH ZUKOR MARY PICKFORD

Ever since Miss Pickford became a Famous Player star, the end of each year has been the occasion for a ceaseless chain of rumors and doubts concerning the renewal of her contract with the producers. She is always said to be about to join some other company at a fabulous salary.

The formation of the new organization puts a permanent quietus on all such rumors, as Miss Pickford is now a member of the company and is interested in the pictures themselves instead of being a salaried star.

One year ago at the expiration of her contract with the Famous Players, Miss Pickford was rumored to be on the point of signing contracts with three other concerns.

This year the film world was stirred by the news that Miss Pickford had received an offer of $6,000 per week from a big feature concern in recognition of her position as the greatest motion picture star on the screen.

It was after Mary Pickford had scored a personal triumph in the one and two reel productions of the old Biograph and Imp companies that Mary Pickford was starred by David Belasco in the original stage presentation of "A Good Little Devil."

At the completion of the successful run of "A Good Little Devil," the Famous Players Film Company, then a newly formed concern, starred Miss Pickford in a film adaptation of the play—her first big feature.

The success of the screen version of the play showed that Miss Pickford had profited by her stage experience and by her new affiliation.

Though "A Good Little Devil" was the first Famous Players production which was actually screened with Miss Pickford in the stellar role, "Caprice" and "In the Bishop's Carriage," were shown to the public before the first-named production.

During the last three years Miss Pickford has won personal triumphs in many films, among them "Tess of the Storm Country," which long stood as her supreme screen achievement; "Rags," "Hearts Adrift," "The Eagle's Mate," "Such a Little Queen" and "Behind the Scenes."

Of more recent date are the adaptation of John Luther Long's "Madame Butterfly," in which she played her first Oriental role and made a captivating Cho-Cho-San. During the past week she has been starred at the Strand theatre in "The Foundling," in which she has again made a success.

"BY LOVE REDEEMED" FIRST IMPORT SUBJECT FOR JEWELL HUNT

Unusual interest is shown in the new Vitagraph three-reel drama, "By Love Redeemed," which features the latest star of that company, Jewell Hunt.

The story was written by Alice Williams, produced by C. Jay Williams, and besides Miss Hunt, features Garry McGarry and gives splendid opportunities to Anders Randolf, Belle Bruce and Logan Paul to display their talents.

Screen Examinations

"MY LADY'S SLIPPER"

(Vitagraph Blue Ribbon—V-L-S-E—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

PICTUREGOERS who are fond of the Louis XVI costume picture, with its wigs, sword play, snuff boxes, intrigue and clamor, will find "My Lady's Slipper" a subject made to their desire. Earle Williams is the hero, and Anita Stewart the heroine in this Cyrus Townsend Brady romance, whose atmosphere is far removed from the common things of life as we know it. Mr. Williams and Miss Stewart render impersonations characteristic of their abilities.

The picture is mostly concerned with a duel of wits between Francis Burnham, a young American naval officer, and Marquis Du Tremignon, from whose designs Burnham rescues the Countess De Villars. For four reels, Williams and Harry Northrup, in the roles of the two first named characters, carry the main action with incidental help furnished largely, but not entirely, by two other characters—Miss Stewart, in the person of the Countess, and William E. Shea, in the person of Burnham's faithful friend.

That is to say, there is but one real female character of any consequence, and this circumstance tends to make the picture drag at intervals. It also gives the appearance of having been padded materially.

Director Ralph Ince evidently considered that he could not have too many close-ups of such favorites as Williams, Northrup and Miss Stewart. At any rate, the picture, as a whole, is a "close-up" production.

For comedy relief, Shea provides a deal of by play, most of which is good. It is the style of sailor comedy with which everybody who has followed Shea's screen work is well acquainted. The costuming is excellent, and all the players seem perfectly at home in the garb which distinguished the Louis period of chivalry.

Toward the end, when it is perfectly evident that the hero will be cleared of all the charges against him, Julia Swayne Gordon is introduced as the Queen, and Joseph Kilgour, as the King. Both give pleasing impersonations. In these scenes also a number of "extras" are employed. Other principals are George O'Donnell, George Stevens and Charles Chapman, all of whom perform in an acceptable fashion.

"JEANNE DORE"

(Blue Bird Photo Plays—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

FROM a reviewer's standpoint it is instructive to watch the psychological effect of a picture on its audience. It's a sure way of determining whether or not the picture is valuable from the standpoint of the man in the box office.

So, when we inspected "Jeanne Dore" at Proctor's Twenty-third street theatre, New York, we allowed our eyes to drift from the screen now and then and notice the people about us. Everyone admired Sarah Bernhardt. They applauded heartily when she was introduced and they watched her work with fascination. They knew they were seeing a great actress and they admired her.

THE ARREST

The story interested them, too, although the center of attraction was of course the renowned star. But the story held their attention because its ending could only be speculated upon—it was never obvious until a few scenes before it actually arrived.

What is the outcome? How is Jeanne Dore's son going to escape? These were undoubtedly questions uppermost in the minds of everyone. They added that valuable element of mystery that is essential to every narrative, whether it be told on the screen, stage or in cold type.

Scenes from Vitagraph and Lubin Screen Offerings: (Left to right) Earle Williams and Anita Stewart in "My Lady's Slipper"; Lillian Walker in "Green Stockings"; Francis Joyner in "Gods of Fate"

And so it is plain that "Jeanne Dore" is valuable aside from its tremendous drawing power as a box-office attraction. It is not disappointing, and to the audience that witnessed it at its premier New York showing, it was assuredly a meritorious piece of handiwork.

Sarah Bernhardt's acting was excellent. And aside from giving an admirable performance in her own role, she had that added power of shedding unusual significance over the acts of the rest of the cast.

Her support was, consequently, entirely competent. The satellite players knew how to act, but Bernhardt gave added power to their several performances. Raymond Bernard, as her son, made his character agreeably appealing, despite its weakness, while Mme. Seylor and Mme. Costa handled their parts well enough.

The method of production employed by the director is plain and straightforward. Seldom does he bring closeups into play, and the flashback is totally absent. However, he has arranged his scenes in admirable sequence, or perhaps credit for this should go to the cutter.

Bernhardt seldom is seen walking, but between scenes she has moved from one position to another. This has been done in masterly style, and we are inclined to believe that no one would suspect her loss of a leg, from the picture itself.

The drama, which deserves to be termed a tragedy, is by Tristan Bernard. It shows the husband of Jeanne Dore recklessly gambling his fortune away. Finally driven to distraction, he commits suicide, and his wife and son are left to their own resources.

Attaining his majority the son becomes fascinated with a married adventuress. His desperation for money leads him to murder and arrest, and he pays the penalty on the guillotine.

The work of the photographer is good. In general the film is dimmed and subdued, to all appearances purposely. The settings have been arranged with care and show appropriate taste, but all things tend to be subordinated when Bernhardt holds the screen. These times are not unusually plentiful, but enough to give satisfaction to all.

"THE FIVE FAULTS OF FLO"

(Thanhouser-Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

THIS picture is a series of five episodes. Each reel is complete in itself, and each reel is devoted to introducing, exemplifying and curing a fault. The five are Pride, Covetousness, Fickleness, Extravagance and Jealousy, and they take Flo from her school days well past her marriage.

The Flo in the case is Florence La Badie. The faults have been arranged by Lloyd and Phillip Lonergan. They have given the cameraman plenty of work to do, and a couple of regular thrills are provided, as well as a wide diversity of scenes of action.

"HE HAS BEEN CURED OF EXTRAVAGANCE"

In her school days, Flo's pride bars the butcher's daughter from the girls' club, and the lonely girl decides to leave school. She is injured in escaping from a window, and wanders out onto a railway bridge. Flo and her companions see her, and instantly repent. They follow her, just as an express train whirls along, and rescue her at the risk of their own lives, thereafter receiving her as one of themselves. This cures Flo of pride.

As a debutante, Flo covets a famous diamond, which has been purchased for her hostess at a fashionable house party. The diamond is handed around the table for inspection, the lights go out, and when they are turned on again, the stone is found in Flo's hair.

The guests turn against her, and she is about to leave in disgrace when the real thief, in the form of a clever woman society burglar, is found among the guests. This cures Flo of covetousness.

Fickleness leads Flo to go automobiling with a young man without the knowledge of her fiancé. The young man becomes intoxicated, starts a fight, and is put out of the roadhouse where they have stopped to dance. She rides home in the rear seat of the car, but the young man's reckless driving alarms her; she shouts for help, and her fiancé comes along in his car and lifts her out of the tonneau, just before the first car dashes over a precipice and is blown to pieces. This cures Flo of fickleness.

Just before her marriage, Flo develops an absurd extravagance in the management of her father's house. He is on the verge of ruin, and goes to his millionaire brother for aid. The latter refuses, and an argument follows.

Servants break into the room to find the brother dead. Flo's father is convicted, and sentenced to the electric chair. She attempts to save him, and finally gets a confession from the gardener, that he killed the man.

The governor has gone motoring, but while Flo turns off the power at the state prison and delays the execution, her fiancé finds the governor, loads him into an auto at Albany and gets him down to the state prison in time to prevent the execution. This cures Flo of extravagance.

As a wife, Flo is jealous. She follows her husband to the house of a strange woman, gets employment there as a maid, and watches him pay the woman money. Then the police surround the place, and she and her husband have a thrilling escape.

Then she discovers that the place is a gambling house, and her husband is engaged only in straightening out his brother's gambling debts. This cures Flo of jealousy and ends the picture. Others in the cast are Harris Gordon, Ernest Howard, Grace De Carlton, Sam Niblack, Bertha Smith and Helen Eldridge.

"BRITTON OF THE SEVENTH"

(Vitagraph Personally Picked Program—Four Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

ANOTHER Cyrus Townsend Brady story, this picture combines a pleasing love theme with a famous historical incident; the Custer massacre at Little Big Horn, 1875.

To secure the correct atmosphere of army post, and chaparral, the company was sent to Texas, where martial scenes were enacted with the aid of the Seventh U. S. Cavalry. Views of Indian raids, army life, and the massacre itself are, therefore, particularly effective so far as settings are concerned.

In nearly every respect, also, Director Lionel Belmore has done his work well. There are few anachronisms, such as the appearance in one scene of modern railroad cars built of steel, but the production is not materially injured by them. The battle scenes are extensive enough to arouse genuine interest.

At times, the photography is not what it might be. The blue uniforms of the cavalrymen and the glare of alkali apparently refused to blend properly.

The picture, as a whole, however, is good. Darwin Karr, as the plucky Lieutenant who does not permit his dismissal from the army on a false charge to rob him of heroic qualities, gives a sympathetic impersonation; Ned Finley makes General Custer a real character, as indeed the General was; Eleanor Woodruff is a good type as the Lieutenant's sweetheart; Harry Northrup, in the role of a brute husband, and Rose Tapley, as a matchmaker, perform in characteristic fashion. Others in the cast: Logan Paul (in an excellent bit of character work as Rain-in-the-Face), Lionel Belmore, Eulalie Jensen, and Marion Henry.

A fair amount of suspense dominates the action, and has much to do with making the whole acceptable.

SOME OF THE BIG SCENES FROM "THE OTHER SIDE OF THE DOOR," AN AMERICAN-MUTUAL DRAMA

"THE CAT'S-PAW"

(Kleine-Edison—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

THE reviewer wishes to be on record as commending this picture highly. In all the several elements which go to make up a good picture, it excels; not only does it appear that the task of production was approached with a knowledge of what a good picture should be, but great care and skill have been exercised in every possible direction.

The story is clever; the scenario has brought out its full dramatic possibilities; the acting is artistic; the direction competent, and the photography, which includes a great deal of double exposure, perfect. This combination, working as a harmonious whole, has been productive of excellent results.

To Marc MacDermott goes the principal medal. He plays two parts, and in doing so he draws two widely different characters, with a fine hand.

He keeps both characters well within themselves, and never allows his audience to doubt which of the two are on the screen, even though they are identical in appearance. He is supported by

ROXANE ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Miriam Nesbitt, who gives a careful portrayal of a successful adventuress, operating in small city society.

The cat's-paw is an actor, who resembles Kittredge St. John, a high-class crook, who poses as a leader in society. The actor is engaged to take St. John's place in society, in the belief that the principal is a recluse, and wishes to avoid crowds.

Acting in that capacity, the double is a handy alibi when the bank is robbed, and when a burglar rifles Mrs. Paget's jewel safe. Even the woman confederate is fooled by the double, and it is her jealousy which leads her to inform the police and bring about St. John's capture.

Then he escapes by appearing at the trial, and declaring he is the innocent double, and the other man the real St. John. He is later captured when he and his confederate call on a country minister to be married. Instead of a ring, the "minister," a disguised policeman, slips handcuffs onto the couple.

In the double exposure scenes, the work of Mr. MacDermott is so well co-ordinated, and so skillfully handled, that he speaks with himself, answers his own questions and gestures with a conviction which makes it hard to realize that in both cases he is acting to an empty chair.

Excellent sets have been provided for hotel lobby, dining room, club and private residence scenes, and there is an air of conviction carried throughout. William Wadsworth, Yale Benner, Mabel Dwight, Harry Eytinge, Grace Morrissey, James Harris and Brad Sutton are also in the cast.

We sincerely hope this picture proves profitable. Manufacturers should be substantially encouraged to continue such conscientious production.

"BUILDING UP THE HEALTH OF A NATION"

(Powers-Universal—Second and Third Issues)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

BERNARR MacFADDEN, the noted physical culturist, contributes his great store of knowledge to these pictures which Universal is releasing under the general title of "Building Up the Health of a Nation."

The second and third issues of the series, each a half reel in length, take up respectively the correct exercises for strengthening the body and beneficial lung exercises.

MacFadden's pictured lessons are assuredly a welcome addition to the program of Universal. His teachings are elementary and consequently easy to comprehend. That they are valuable and should be profited by, goes without saying.

IN HIS OFFICE

But the split reels thus released are something more than cut and dried poses by a noted man. MacFadden, obviously advanced in years, is the object of admiration when he steps before the camera, every muscle of his body developed to its fullest extent.

And as a result of his prominently strong physique his exercises in which he shows their effect on various parts of the body are unusually significant. They are something more than one sees when he watches a callow youth exhibiting a patent health builder in a cut-rate drug store.

To date the photography has been good and the mounting of the pictures appropriate.

"THE KING'S GAME"

(Pathé Gold Rooster—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

THE turn of the wheel brings once more George Probert to our attention. Sterling actor that he is, he seems to grow in grace with each screen appearance and already he has achieved the ability to make or mar almost any subject. So far he has never marred one, and to "The Spender" and "Nedra" he has added a third Gold Rooster success in "The King's Game.

The word success is here used after a thorough investigation into all its shades of meaning; had this picture nothing of merit in itself, he could carry it along with his immense fund of dynamic good humor, youthfulness and sheer ability.

Mr. Probert plays a dual part. He is the young Grand Duke, educated in America, and fond of American ways, and he is also the nihilist sent over from Russia to kill the Grand Duke. Although the two are physical doubles, Mr. Probert has drawn two widely different characters; there is nothing in common between the buoyant, boyish Grand Duke, and the beetling, sinister nihilist who confronts him across a desk at police headquarters.

The scenario was written by George B. Seitz, and was produced by Arnold Daly. Both have done their work capably; one could wish, however, that some preparation had been made for the two instances in which Mr. Probert confronts himself, instead of the situations being hurled at the spectator as a distinct surprise. So much of suspense and expectancy, with its consequent thrill could have been gained in this way.

"WHY DO YOU WANT TO KILL ME?"

The story opens in Russia. The old Grand Duke of Kiev covets the wife of Count Dardanilis, and in the resulting impasse, both the Countess and the Grand Duke are killed. Dardanilis, with his infant daughter, escapes to America, where he forms a band of nihilists with the object of wiping out the family of Kiev. Twenty years later, the young Grand Duke, only surviving member, is studying in this country, and a nihilist is sent over from Russia to join Dardanilis, and kill the duke. The duke is mistaken for the nihilist, surrounded by the band, and compelled to hurl the bomb.

In the meantime, the real nihilist has been seized by the police, and is chained in the Grand Duke's carriage for a ride through the streets.

He is of course mistaken for the nobleman, and in the riot which follows the hurling of the bomb (really only a box of candy) he escapes. The nihilists also escape, taking the duke with them, and he, with Dardanilis's daughter, now the chief spirit in the band, make their way through the Jersey swamps to a rural rendezvous.

There the real nihilist arrives, and the Grand Duke, denounced, is about to be sacrificed. The girl, however, has fallen in love with him, and protects him until the police arrive.

As melodramatic as the general plot is, it still deserves the name of comedy-drama, for the comedy element is strongly emphasized, and yet harmonizes well with the dramatic theme. Pearl White appears as the daughter of Dardanilis and Sheldon Lewis is featured as another member of the nihilist band.

"A SOUL ENSLAVED"

(Broadway Universal Feature—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

"A SOUL ENSLAVED" might be summed up as a picture based on "the woman with a past" theme, done in a highly satisfying and convincing way.

It is a favorite subject with the photoplay audience, as past presentations of it have testified, and its exhibition in such a well-ordered manner as in "The Soul Enslaved" will undoubtedly be greeted with enthusiasm.

The picture arouses the interest immediately in a speculative way, for it has two threads that seem distantly removed from one another in its first phases. Later, when they converge and the drama proper unfolds itself, it still has the power of retaining the attention for the reason of its popular and sympathetic appeal.

Cleo Madison, co-director with Joe King, is featured as the woman, who is just plain Jane. She has never had a proper home, and after a disordered childhood we see her slaving away in a factory. And then she encounters the easiest way, proposed to her by her employer. She takes it after slight deliberation, because she is tired of a mere existence.

And then one day when she has left the factory owner for another, and has consequently been deserted by him, she meets and falls in love with Newton, a man not above reproach himself. They marry, he knowing nothing of her past. They live in peace for several years and are blessed with a child.

In time, however, the husband learns and leaves her in a rage. But then he ponders over his own past, and discovers that he was just as much of a rotter in his youth, without cause other than animal lust, while his wife he has learned had an excuse, which, however wrong, was warranted to a certain degree. The reunion furnishes a happy ending.

THE ACCIDENT

Tom Chatteron as Newton does creditable work, while Alfred Allen, Douglas Gerrard, Marguerite Gibson and Irma Sorter, who plays Jane in her younger days, accomplish their requirements in finished style.

The photographic effects are excellent. A bit of double exposure work appearing in the final reel being particularly successful in fulfilling its purpose.

The story was conceived by Adele Farrington, and was subsequently scenarioized by Olga Printzlau.

OPERATORS IN TEMPLE, TEXAS, BRANCH ELECT OFFICERS

AT the annual election of officers of I. A. T. S. E. & M. P. M. O. Local No. 331, Temple, Texas, the following were elected: President, Jas. L. LaPrelle; vice-president, R. T. Darnwell; secretary-treasurer, Ross C. Rodgers; sergeant-at-arms, W. F. Tiemans; business agent, A. W. Tiemans; board of trustees: D. D. Walton, A. W. Tiemans, and William McDonaugh.

"THE THOROUGHBRED"

(American-Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

WILLIAM RUSSELL, late villain of the "Diamond from the Sky," comes into his own as a hero. He is easily the feature of this picture, and deserves considerable praise for sincere work, and thoroughness in whatever he undertakes. Moreover, he is a pleasing screen figure, and should be able to attain considerable real popularity.

He is cast as a young financier, who is wiped out in a deal in stocks. He is in love with the daughter of another financier, but on account of the reverse in fortune, cannot marry her.

The secretary to her father is also in love with her, and forces his unwelcome attentions on her whenever possible. At a card game in her father's house, the secretary slips a few cards into the young man's pocket, and then accuses him of cheating. He goes away, under suspicion of everyone except the girl.

The same night the gardener breaks into the house, in search of the secretary, who has wronged his daughter. He gets hold of a valet by mistake, and kills him. He is hidden behind the curtains during the card game, and flees later.

Kelso, the hero, goes West to build up a new fortune; there he runs across the fugitive gardener, and employs him. There also come the girl and her father and his secretary, in order to investigate the mystery of trouble in his copper mine. The trouble has been caused by the secretary, who conspires with the manager to start a strike, then buy out the mine for a low price.

The strike is on, and the party from the East is surrounded by infuriated strikers. There is a pitched battle, which ends when Kelso and his men arrive and put the strikers to flight. Then the whole story comes out; the secretary, accused by the gardener, is compelled to take to his heels, and true man and true woman fall into each other's arms.

"YOUR VALET HAS BEEN MURDERED"

There are evidences of capable direction in the handling of the big scenes, and there is a chase after "horse rustlers" which is immense in its spectacular conception of breadth of vista.

The staging and camera work throughout are excellent, and there is a direct method employed in unfolding the story, which helps it out wondrously. Mr. Russell is supported in the cast by Charlotte Burton, Roy Stewart, Lizette Thorne and Jack Prescott.

"THE TONGUES OF MEN"

(Morosco-Paramount—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

THIS picture is photodrama of the most advanced type. It is one of those subjects which justify the use of the word "drama" as applied to picture plays. Action, spectacle, "business" as it is generally understood—all have been sacrificed for the sake of drama, and the drama offered in its stead is of a type to justify the substitution.

There is a difference between the simple expression "action" and dramatic action. A scene which runs 150 feet, without the introduction of new characters, without the breaking of any glassware, or the tearing of hair and clothing, might be expected to slow up the "action" of any film; but, on the other hand, the flick of an eyelash, or the play of a throat muscle may rank as vital dramatic action.

It furthers the story, or serves to work out a situation. To be sure, such a subject will not "get across" unless the situations are interpreted by artists, and this is one of the strong features of the piece under discussion. It is excellently cast and mounted, and there is nothing to jar upon the conception of the piece as established in the opening scenes.

Constance Collier must come in for the greatest commendation. Her work is simply art, and it is art expressed in the simplest manner, but she has been granted the most capable assistance. In the cast are Elizabeth Burbridge, Forrest Stanley, Herbert Standing, Helen Eddy, Lamar Johnstone, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Miss Marlborough, Charles Marriot and John McKinnon.

Miss Collier portrays a popular diva, who is the talk of the town in her new opera. The Rev. Dr. Penfield Sturgis, attacks her and her opera from the pulpit and she resolves to make him "eat his sermon." They match wits, but the clergyman is outclassed. He ends by breaking his engagement with the daughter of his rector, and in the presence of his protesting vestry, announcing that he is to wed the prima donna. In his next sermon he retracts the last of his attack on the singer, and then she hands his ring back to him, with the explanation that he was never intended to "marry a dramatic soprano."

The minister is ready to concur in this, himself, as he realizes that he does not love the woman, but really loves his original financée. Thus is the happy ending achieved.

Of course, the photography is excellent. With a few trifling exceptions, the settings are skillfully arranged to harmonize with the spirit of the whole, and the atmosphere of "high church" protest is admirably maintained. The author is Edward Childs Carpenter.

"COLONEL HEEZA LIAR'S WATERLOO"

(Bray-Paramount—One Reel)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

THIS is the first contribution from the Bray studios to the Paramount program. It is one of a series of weekly releases of one-reel and split-reel cartoon comedies, which will be used as a relief for the feature dramas of the big program. Although Heeza Liar is well and exceedingly favorably known, his appearance in a release all to himself is new, and should make a very acceptable form of comedy. J. R. Bray, inventor of the animated cartoon process by which the Colonel is produced, has developed not only a very interesting character, but also appears to have an excellent fund of humor, which is drawn on without reserve to send the doughty Colonel through adventures and exploits which it is safe to say no other man could accomplish.

In this case Heeza Liar comes to the rescue of certain humans and animals who are threatened by a huge black bear. He is awakened from a sound sleep to go forth with his trusty gun, and he pursues the monster fearlessly. But for once in his life he stumbles, and the bear is victorious. The Colonel, however, extricates himself in time to save his skin, and be in shape to appear in a new adventure next week.

A new departure is the evident attempt to follow the construction and presentation of the usual comedy picture, that is, in the cutting and arranging of scenes, and the construction is very effective.

On the same reel with this cartoon is a study of reptile life, taken with the assistance of Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of the New York Zoological Park. There are some really remarkable pictures of an encounter between a snake and a weasel which shows the terrified reptile striking at his tormentor.

"HUMANITY BALL" FOR RAISING WAR CHARITY FUNDS

A "HUMANITY BALL" is the latest social event announced in which players of the film world will be prominent. The Universal company, in conjunction with the New York American, has already commenced arrangements for the affair, and it is expected that stars from all the other Eastern companies will lend their efforts to the ball's success.

Players of the Imp and Victor studios, including Mary Fuller, Edna Hunter, Dorothy Phillips and Ben Wilson, have been busy dressing dolls for the occasion. These china creatures will be auctioned off to the highest bidder. The money thus received and the admission fee, a dollar per person, will be donated to the European war sufferers.

"AN INNOCENT CROOK"

(Vogue-Mutual—Two Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

THE first of these new two-reel comedies for the Mutual Program, brings Sammy Burns back to the screen in what promises to be a series of lively slapstick work. Sammy's make-up is such as to remind one of another comedian who has enjoyed his full share of popularity, yet Sammy's work is all his own, and he keeps the cameraman busy in holding him in the picture.

Mr. and Mrs. Loosit sit dozing on a park bench. Sue takes possession of an adjoining bench, and enthralls Mr. Loosit, while his spouse sleeps, and while Tony, Sues's accomplice, "lifts" Mrs. Loosit's watch.

SAMMY AT THE CAFE

Then Sammy appears; he has a nice fat wallet, and Sue gets it, only to find it stuffed with tobacco. Later Sammy finds the stolen watch, pawns it, and meets Sue, taking her to a cafe and "showing her a good time." They are ejected from the cafe, and Sammy is seized upon as the thief, and thrown into a cell.

There is a fight in the station house, and Sammy very nearly makes his escape; reinforcements arrive, however, and he is led into court for trial, where he finds himself confronting a detective who is an old pal.

The detective gives him a good character, and as the real thief is discovered, Sammy is not only released, but is made a member of the police force.

The work all the way through is of the fast, uproarous order, and the action is not allowed to lag at any point in the two reels. Sammy Burns shows himself to be at home in front of the camera, and his work has the nonchalance of long experience. He is assisted by James Gibson, Helen Marlborough, Margaret Seaman, and H. Dougherty.

"GREEN STOCKINGS"

(Vitagraph Blue Ribbon—V-L-S-E—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

LIKE some other Vitagraph offerings we have seen—notably "The Dust of Egypt"—this picture, adapted from a successful stage play, is built upon a genuine comedy of personality.

The central character is Celia Faraday, whom everybody has declined to marry, simply because Celia, though possessed of beauty, has devoted her time to looking after the many wants of the family, composed of her father, her aunt, her younger sister, and her older married sister.

One day Celia surprises everybody by announcing that she is engaged to a Colonel Smith. As a matter of fact, she is not engaged, but it turns out there is a Colonel Smith—in Africa. A letter which Celia did not intend should be mailed ultimately brings the Colonel to Celia, with what complications may be easily imagined.

Lillian Walker, in the guise of Celia of the old maid mood, looks the part perfectly. Later, when Celia embarks upon her adventure, Miss Walker resumes, with fine effect, her wonted role as a society woman, but she keeps always in character. The cast as a whole realizes well the spirit of the piece, and the acting throughout is finished.

Frank Currier has the role of Celia's testy old father; Louise Beaudet that of the aunt who is Celia's main reliance in her love exploit; Adele De Garde is pretty in an ingenue part; Lillian Burns, as the older married sister, screens excellently; Stanley Dark (Colonel Smith) is well cast; Charles Brown, in the familiar character of a Britisher without brains, helps the comedy along; and John T. Kelly, Charles Wellesley, and Denton Vane are the other principals.

Wilfrid North directed carefully and intelligently. The sets are mostly rich interiors. Close-ups are well timed. The action could be shortened without injury, and with advantage to the dramatic effect.

"Green Stockings" is refined, well acted comedy.

"THE CITY OF FAILING LIGHT"

(Lubin-Unit—Four Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

A STORY of unconventional flavor all the way through and one that builds to a climax of excitement and intensity is what "The City of Failing Light," written by Anthony P. Kelly and produced by George W. Terwilliger, Lubin's contribution to the Unit program of Wednesday, January 12, offers.

The plot is in some respects thin for four-reel use, but the interesting nature of the characters and the peep that the observer is allowed into the outcome of the story by reference to the title and introductory events, retain the attention to a good degree.

The direction is very good. It is George W. Terwilliger's which accounts for it. His views of tall city buildings at night, brightly lit with electricity, are obviously of studio manufacture, but for all that the effect they create for the spectator is startling.

DAVID PLAYS THE SAMARITAN

The story introduces John Gray, a harsh factory owner, in estrangement with his wife. Stricken to his bed by an attack of heart ailment, his brother, a happy rover, at the suggestion of the doctor takes his place. A strike is under way and as part of their campaign the strikers cut all the wires in the city, throwing it in darkness.

Coming in touch with the workers intimately, the pseudo factory owner is won over to the strikers' demands and grants them. Returning to his brother's house, his sister-in-law mistakes him for her husband and, as usual, shuns him. But David acts nicely to her and the child. His actions are seen by John, who realizes his selfishness, and so the story ends.

Herbert Fortier, as the brothers, renders two very fine characterizations and wins admiration in his part of David. Octavia Handworth appears as John's wife, while quality support is furnished by William H. Turner, Mrs. William Carr, and young Dorothy DeWolff.

"The City of Failing Light" is noticeable for its lack of love element, and yet through its characters and its original development it appeals strongly.

"A PARISIAN ROMANCE"

(Fox Film—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

WILLIAM FOX has given the late Richard Mansfield's celebrated play settings which may be called, without exaggeration, magnificent. They are almost exclusively interiors, and for massiveness, beauty and depth it would be hard to find their equal.

When we mention the mountings first, it doesn't mean we have told you all the good things that can be said about the production. Nothing of the sort. H. Cooper Cliffe, assuming the role made famous by Mansfield, gave an impersonation of the old roué which completely captured the audience at the Academy of Music, New York, last Sunday. Mr. Cliffe's acting was brilliant; in fact, it was so well done that it impressed one as not being acting at all.

The test of any actor who essays Baron Chevrial is the scene in which the old philanderer drops dead at the banquet table, surrounded by gay companions, with Rosa, the ballet girl, at his left. Mr. Cliffe rose to the test with ease. It was his command of the Baron's weakness for every pretty face he saw, however, which delighted the audience most.

Mr. Cliffe's support was good. We put Dorothy Green first in our enumeration of the other principals, because her impersonation of the ballet girl was second, in excellence, to Mr. Cliffe himself.

Margaret Skirvin, as the Baron's much neglected wife, was acceptable, although Miss Skirvin's work was uneven. At times she failed to register. Others in this carefully selected cast were Angelica Spier, Isabel O'Madigan, Clarence Heritage, Harold Hartzelle, Dion Titheradge, Mrs. Cecil Raleigh.

So far as the story goes, it is mainly a character study of the Baron, but Mary Murillo, who made the screen version, has provided an unusually good vehicle. The direction throughout is adequate.

The picture will go well wherever it is shown.

"WHY LOVE IS BLIND"

(Selig—Three Reels)

REVIEWED BY WILLIAM C. ESTY 2nd

IN this picture Jack Pickford is given far more opportunity for difficult acting than was afforded him in his first Selig appearance in "The Making of Crooks." As the despised, misunderstood hunchback he gives a really memorable performance.

It is hard to think of Pickford's straight, active person metamorphosised into a realistic cripple, but it is done admirably. The next player in rank of importance is certainly the magnificent collie dog that romps gleefully, but intelligently withal, through the three reels. This clever canine performer ought to make a solid hit with the public.

"I LOVE YOU, BOBBIE"

Beauty should be mentioned as well as the beast, and at the expense of offending the lady by mentioning her after the collie, Betty Nathan's interpretation of the little blind girl is excellent. Also in the cast are Guy Oliver, William Scott, Lillian Hayward and Frank Clark. George Nicholls directed the pictures.

Bobby Stone, a hunchback boy, is driven from home by his father's cruelty. He joins a small wagon circus, and falls in love with the pretty daughter of the proprietor.

The girl is blind, and so does not see Bobbie's physical shortcomings. She pictures him as an athletic, striking youth. When the cripple discovers that the girl's father has at last saved enough money to pay for an operation on his daughter's eyes, Bobbie is heart-broken, for he knows that his sweetheart will not love him when she sees his deformity.

He steals the money that is to pay for the oculist, but his honest nature will not allow him to deprive others for his own happiness. He takes the money to the girl and confesses the theft. He also tells her that he is a hunchback. To his astonishment, she replies that she will always love him, because his character is fine and rare, even if his body is broken.

"PIECES OF THE GAME"

(Essanay—Three Reels)

REVIEWED BY WILLIAM C. ESTY 2nd

IN spite of a rather hectic story, with situations of an unusual character, to say the least, the director has produced a play that carries interest and conviction. The deft touches of the producer are everywhere visible, and the picture constantly makes one admire the ability of a man who could produce so much out of such sterile material.

This tribute to the director must not be interpreted as an adverse criticism of the players, for their work is very strong. The cameraman, too, added not a little to the good effect of the finished picture.

GREGORY SEES LOCKER WITH HIS WIFE

When Greda decides to marry Rodger Gregory, it is a blow to Brent, another suitor. Since they are bosom friends, Gregory asks Brent to live with his wife and him. Brent accepts this offer, and so is in a position to know of the frequent visits made on the young matron by a man named Lockert.

One day Brent overhears Lockert pleading with Greda to elope with him, and she consents. Brent goes to Gregory and tells him that he (Brent) has overcome the scruples of Greda.

Gregory ejects Brent from the house, and decides to watch his wife more closely. This increased attention wins back Greda's love for him, and she confesses that it was Lockert, not Brent, who tempted her, Lockert finds Brent and asks his foregiveness, which is given.

In the cast are Bryant Washburn, Nell Craig, Richardson Cotton, and Randall McAllister.

"THE DEVIL-IN-CHIEF"

(Selig—Three Reels)

REVIEWED BY WILLIAM C. ESTY 2nd

IF ever a part suited a man, the role of the primitive caveman in this picture suits the peculiar talents of Tyrone Power. The play deals with primeval passions of a self-exiled anarchist, and so remote from the average human experience are many of the hallucinations of this man, that had Mr. Power allowed the slightest tinge of theatricalism to creep into his interpretation of the part, the effect of the whole piece would have been ruined.

SCENES TYPICAL OF ESSANAY'S "THE MISLEADING LADY," IN WHICH HENRY B. WALTHALL AND EDNA MAYO ARE STARRED

Power never overacts his exacting role, but gives a powerful and convincing performance.

Edith Johnson again demonstrates her versatility in her assumption of the part of a simple, Amazonian girl of elemental instincts. The work of Eugenie Besserer and Wheeler Oakman in minor roles is very good. Colin Cambell, the director, also should come in for a word of praise.

Szecker, an anarchist, is betrayed by his mistress to the police, and when he escapes from prison, he finds her and stabs her to death. He leaves the country, and when the ship is subsequently wrecked, he and a little girl are the only survivors on a little island.

Szecker has made a vow to kill every female that comes in his power, but he decides to let the little girl grow up before killing her. She becomes a delightful little barbarian in the freedom of her life, and one day the woman-hater decides to murder her. Just as he has cornered her, a handsome young naval officer on an exploring trip rescues her from him, but she is slightly wounded by a revolver accidentally discharged. Szecker thinks she is killed, and in an agony of remorse, throws himself over a cliff. When the girl recovers consciousness she smiles up at the face of the young man, and hand in hand they go down to the ship.

"WATER STUFF"

(Mustang-Mutual—Three Reels)

REVIEWED BY WILLIAM C. ESTY 2nd

THE multitude of fans who have been given intimate glimpses of studio routine in the "Buck Parvin" series will get a new angle on picture making in this release. During the action of the play, the Titan Moving Picture Company goes in for marine work, and the spectator is given an opportunity to look behind the scenes during a film shipwreck.

Amid the rocket's red glare and smoke-pot's dense flare, the excited extra people are shown leaving the ship that has been "doomed" by the relentless director.

Aside from being a really exciting scene, this episode will enable the man in Podunk to tell his wife just how they pull the "water stuff" in the pictures.

Art Acord is much more at home on terra firma than he is on board ship, and on that account he is ideally suited for the part of the sea-sick Buck.

Queenie Rosson, a newcomer in the Mustang forces, has stellar honors, and gives a most admirable interpretation of her part. The magnitude of the scenes and the large scale generally on which the picture was made make this one of the best of the Parvin releases.

James Montague, director of the Titan Moving Picture Company, wants an expert girl swimmer to "double" for the leading lady in a shipwreck scene. A would-be screen actress volunteers for this "extra" part, although she cannot swim.

When the big scene is pulled, she jumps into the water, and is almost drowned before Buck Parvin, a cowboy actor in the company, jumps in and rescues her, incidentally saving the scene, from Montague's point of view.

The balance of the cast is made up of Larry Peyton, Charles James, Joe Massey, Hardy Gibson, Ashton Dearholt, Dixie Stratton and Mollie Schafer. William Bertram directed.

"THE CITY"

(World Film—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

"THE CITY," by the late Clyde Fitch, heralded when produced on the stage as his greatest play, because of its fearless arraignment of New York's social and financial life, has been adapted and produced for World Film by Theodore Wharton.

It makes a picture that will appeal to those who live without metropolitan districts and who delight in dwelling on the wickedness and insatiable selfishness of a New Yorker.

They will delight in it because it will work them up to an intense point of excitement, not only once but many times.

And the picturized version of "The City" has a broader appeal than that. For when it closes with a subtitle from the play that tells you to blame yourself for what you are and not the city, it then and there strikes a responsive chord of realization.

"The City" as a picture, however, goes into much merely on the surface. It leaves a great bit to the imagination. And consequently it is a picture that will stick in the memory, for it contains incident after incident that is worthy of thought.

The photo drama has been staged admirably. The small-town home of the banker, the respected man of the town, is typical. The scenes about the church on Sunday morning and the homely and comical touches furnished by the incidental characters of the town complete the atmosphere that contrasts so well with the New York scenes.

The director has been fortunate in obtaining some representative scenes of New York. Broad street and the Curb market, Riverside Drive, Trinity, to say nothing of a cabaret scene of studio manufacture and various other realistic views, interiors and exteriors, contribute to the general realism of the picture.

Thurlow Bergen leads the cast as George Rand who comes to New York full of glowing ideals and who discovers that this cynical place gives not a snap of its fingers for ideals.

Bergen gives an impressive performance. William Riley Hatch, as his father, whose family skeleton furnishes much of the drama of the play, does good work, and Edith Edney and Elsie Esmond as his daughters, and Bessie Wharton and Richard Stewart complete the cast.

Wanted For Foreign Use

Film that has never been exhibited in the British Isles. A responsible American Company, having their own foreign office, can use an unlimited quantity of live, quick action subjects. Advise if you have paper on subjects, and what you have to offer.

Address Box 613, care of MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

A&H.

NEW PANCHROMA TWIN ARC

Model C

Used by leading producers all over the United States and adopted as the standard portable lighting unit for motion picture work.

Price $70

Price of Lamp complete, with collapsible reflector, rheostat and carrying-case containing all, and separate folding stand, $70.00.

8000 Candle Power by Gov't Test

(U. S. Coast Artillery School)

The new model C contains a number of improvements, which our experience of the past year indicates to be of additional convenience to the operator. The rheostat is now mounted on the lamp instead of being placed in the carrying case and the whole lamp has been made more rigid and solid. A special oscillating device fitted to the carbon feed keeps the carbons always in accurate contact. 8000 c. p. guaranteed per lamp. Total weight of each unit less than twenty pounds, exclusive of stand. Correspondence welcomed.

Send for Circular

ALLISON & HADAWAY CORPORATION

Photographic Manufacturers and Importers

Department N, 235 Fifth Avenue New York

"MICE AND MEN"

(Famous Players-Paramount—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

"MICE AND MEN" is notable because of Marguerite Clark, and that means accomplished and delightful acting. Her performance is all the more pleasing on this occasion for her charming beauty is offset to fine advantage by pretty Southern gowns of the hoop skirt variety.

Miss Clark is adorable at all times. At first she appears as an orphan, trying her best to look homely, but Marguerite Clark's face is the worst enemy to homeliness. And then adopted by a bachelor the orphan appears resplendent in 1850 costumes; and in one scene in a night gown where she sits before the fire she wriggles her toes in bewitching fashion.

"Mice and Men" is also notable for its excellent photography and the settings, too, are a credit to Famous Players, while the exteriors filmed in the South fill the bill to a nicety.

Given these things, "Mice and Men" is certain of pleasing, for please it did at the Strand theatre. The people were much delighted with it.

They all laughed at the dainty star and thrilled at the involved climax which brings Madeline Lucette Ryley's story to a close.

Perhaps the person such as the writer, who sees pictures everyday in the week, is inclined to become hypercritical. And maybe the majority of picture patrons will not note the obviousness of "Mice and Men." It is a simple story, apparent from the time the characters are introduced.

THE SCOLDING

Of course, there are cleverly wrought situations and Marguerite Clark, but it seems to us that the play was hardly suitable for five-reel purposes.

Neither the scenario writer nor the dircctor chose to take full advantage of Miss Clark's lively personality. When she appeared she held the screen, attention and admiration, but when she did not, the story was inclined to drag, partly on account of its simplicity and partly on account of its repetition of incident.

And there on the other hand is Marguerite Clark who will win all hearts. She can act as well as look pretty. And she does act.

Charles Waldron as the bachelor who firmly intends marrying the orphan, little Peggy, gives a performance, slowly timed and stately.

Marshall Neilan as his nephew, who preordainedly wins Peggy, is very good and Helen Dahl as the adventuress who gets entangled in a love affair with the nephew plays the part well. We wish the supporting players had not conversed so lengthily in uninterrupted scenes.

It is indeed happy and lucky that Marguerite Clark is leading the cast in "Mice and Men."

She is able to counteract to a satisfying extent the slowness of the story.

"HER GREAT HOUR"

(Equitable—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

DRAMATIC action, with a great deal of what we call "the punch," has been the watchword of Stanner E. V. Taylor, author and director of this subject. There is nothing of startling originality in either plot or handling, and there are certain situations which one will hardly accept, but all in all it is a good entertaining picture.

Mr. Taylor has slurred none of his scenes, and has built up the whole on the principle that whatever is worth doing is worth doing well. His photography has aided him well, and has itself been assisted by skillful lighting and direction of the camera.

It must be admitted that the story is a little shopworn. A shopgirl, accused of theft by Irving, her employer, is befriended by Kirby, the district attorney, who refuses to believe her guilty. He takes her home as secretary to his wife, and there she finds a most intolerable state of affairs.

Irving is in love with Mrs. Kirby, and she, in turn, is carrying on a flirtation with young Barrett. An anonymous letter informs her husband that a scandal will ruin his future, and the little secretary finds this letter, and resolves to protect her protector from such scandal.

In the husband's absence, Irving calls and forces his attentions on Mrs. Kirby, and in repelling him, she accidently kills him. The secretary takes the blame and flees, but Kirby discovers that his wife is the real criminal, and she leaves the house to take refuge with Barrett.

Things so shape themselves that Barrett comes across the secretary, and takes her to his apartments to shelter her, and there she confronts Mrs. Kirby, who has accused her of the murder. The shock of the meeting kills Mrs. Kirby, and in a second attempt to prevent scandal, the girl takes the body home in a taxi, and arranges so that Mrs. Kirby is discovered dead on the grounds of her own home. Kirby and the secretary are later married.

Molly McIntyre gives a convincing and pleasing portrayal of the secretary and Gerda Holmes is well cast as Mrs. Kirby. Richard Lynn, Martin Alsop and P. J. LeMae complete the cast, and make a well-balanced whole. Not the least attractive feature of the picture are the exterior scenes.

The semi-tropic vegetation of California, or Florida, or whereever the pictures were taken, is combined with ancient fortifications which are viewed in vistas of immensity, and present a charming glimpse of unusual landscape. Great care has also been exercised to make the interior sets appropriate.

EDUCATION COMMISSIONER MAKES MOTION PICTURE STUDY PART OF CURRICULUM AT SACRAMENTO, CAL.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION E. J. CARRAGHER, of Sacramento, Cal., who also holds the position of moving picture censor, has completed plans whereby moving pictures will become a regular part of the course of study in the twenty-two schools in that city.

Permanent projection machines will be installed in the high school and in the new William Land School, while a portable machine will be purchased for the other twenty schools.

The Board of Education of Oroville, Cal., is also planning to make use of moving pictures in educational work, and a moving picture machine is to be installed shortly. At Hanford, Cal., a plan has been worked out by George Holt and Jessie Dickenson, of the Central grammar school, whereby moving pictures will be used there.

During the Christmas holidays a State convention of high school principals met at Fresno, Cal., and resolutions were adopted commending visual instruction. The matter was discussed at length and it was decided to put machines in high schools as rapidly as possible.

GREATER NEW YORK EXHIBITORS

Can arrange for Bookings after February 1st

UPPER NEW YORK STATE AND NEW JERSEY EXHIBITORS

Accommodated Now

FOR BOOKINGS
NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY
ADDRESS
D. J. McGOWAN, 110 West 40th St., New York

Try Making Up Your Program This Week

From Motion Picture News Release Pages

The ease and rapidity with which you can do it will astonish you

THESE PAGES HAVE BEEN BUILT

FOR YOU

BY MEN WHO KNOW JUST WHAT YOU NEED

MINA COMEDIES

MAKE YOU PINCH THE FELLOW SITTING NEXT YOU

EVERY THURSDAY ON THE GENERAL FILM PROGRAM. BOOK THEM

Better to read fifty advertisements than to miss the one YOU need.

DIRECTOR At Liberty

Long experience as a producer of high class pictures.

Open for engagement with reliable concern.

Address Box 777

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

If Your Copy
OF THE NEWS DOES NOT REACH YOU
PROMPTLY EVERY WEEK, PLEASE ADVISE US.

SUPREME FILM CO. CHICAGO

JUST GETTING WARMED UP
—THE—
COWPUNCHER
THE BIG SENSATION OF THE SEASON
207 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago

WE ARE ACTIVE
in every branch of the film line. Titles, trick and animated drawings, cartoons and animated trade marks. Developing, printing, tinting and toning stock. "The End." "Part 1-2-3-4-5-6." Write us for prices. We are at your service.
ACTIVE MOTION PICTURE COMPANY, Inc.
1103 West Randolph Street, CHICAGO
"Agents for the Cosmograph Projector"

ACTIVITIES AROUND THE BUSY FILM COLONY AT SELIG JUNGLE ZOO

Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Los Angeles, Jan. 3.

WILLIAM ROBERT DALY is at work at the Selig Jungle-Zoo on a melodrama entitled "Badgered."

Al W. Filson, with the permission of William N. Selig, will appear with Mrs. Filson at the Los Angeles Newsboys' Benefit on January 9. Filson and Errol are famous in vaudeville circles and their sketch, "A Daughter of Bacchus" needs no introduction to theatre goers.

Thomas Santschi has a part filled with opportunities in "The Three Wise Men," now being filmed under the masterful direction of Colin Campbell. Marshall Neilan, famous as an actor and producer, has arrived at the Selig Pacific Coast studios and will immediately start work as producer of Selig comedies and dramas.

Leo Pierson has been transferred to Producer Daly at the Selig Zoo, and will act as assistant. Ernest Sherman is Daly's new camera man.

William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company, has been presented with two baby leopards, one tiger and a pair of lion cubs by faithful mothers who wished to remember him on Christmas. Director T. N. Heffron has just returned from a water trip to San Diego, where he went with his company, headed by Wheeler Oakman and Vivian Reed to complete a Selig drama, "Love Among Thieves."

"It Can Be Done," a Selig feature story dealing with "life back on the stage," is being completed at the Los Angeles studios. Jack Pickford and Fritzi Brunette appear together for the first time and are seen at their best. Edward Peil has the part of the theatrical manager. Bessie Eyton, the Selig actress, is proud of the fact that she began her motion picture career as an 'extra girl." She is a striking example of what an American girl can do in any line of endeavor.

TWO HUNDRED NEW YORK EXHIBITORS SEE "BLACK CROOK" AT SPECIAL SHOWING

OVER two-hundred local exhibitors and a score of prominent New Yorkers were present in Wurlitzer Fine Arts Hall, West Forty-first street, January 5, to attend a special showing of "The Black Crook," Kalem's five-part picturization of the famous extravaganza.

The invited audience was hearty in its approval of the picture. A feature of the exhibition was the playing of specially written music by Walter C. Simon, on the Hall's famous organ. The music played was the same as that published by the Kalem Company and supplied to exhibitors for fifty cents.

One immediate result of the special showing was the booking of the picture by the management of the Stanley theatre, Forty-second street and Broadway.

UNIVERSAL DENIES AL CHRISTIE'S WITHDRAWAL

THE Universal Film Manufacturing Company announces that there is no truth in the story published last week that Al Christie and the Nestor Comedy company was to withdraw from Universal City and ally themselves with another program.

The telegram which was received at the headquarters of the Universal, signed by Al Christie, speaks for itself:

"No truth in rumor have severed connection with Universal. Deny statement to the contrary."

SCENIC and EDUCATIONAL FILMS
Write for descriptive catalogue containing subjects from all parts of the world.
(No Rentals)
GREAT NORTHERN FILM CO. 110 W. 40th St., New York, N. Y.

MINA COMEDIES
Little Brown Hen
RELEASE OF THURSDAY, JANUARY 13th
BOOK IT

FOR GOODNESS SAKE see to it that after your negative has been exposed it is developed carefully and "Right."

INSIST THAT YOUR NEGATIVE BE HAND-CLEANED preparatory to printing.

BE SURE THAT THE NECESSARY TESTS ARE PROPERLY MADE AND ACCURATELY TIMED, so that when the positive is screen-inspected it shows full photographic value.

IN OTHER WORDS, GET "REEL" MANUFACTURING INSURANCE AT THE HOME OF PERFECT DEVELOPING AND PRINTING.

May We Send You Price List and Factory Description?

INDUSTRIAL MOVING PICTURE COMPANY

WATTERSON R. ROTHACKER, President

223-233 West Erie Street - - Chicago

WANTED!

A Capable negative editor—Not the ordinary film "cutter," but a lady or gentleman of expert ability who can edit first negative and can meet exacting requirements. A splendid opportunity in salary and connection is offered by one of the largest and most successful film establishments.

Address, "Rogers,"
Care Motion Picture News.

QUALITY means EVANS means PERFECTION

We Do Particular Work for Particular People
Developing and Printing ONLY

Evans Film Manufacturing Company
Numbers 416-418-420-422 West 216th Street
Telephone 6831 Audubon NEW YORK CITY

A PARADOX

THERE ARE A FEW TERRITORIES STILL UNSOLD ON

In 6 Parts

in spite of the fact that this feature is playing return engagements by request of patrons in territories already sold.

IS YOUR TERRITORY CLOSED?

HANOVER FILM CO., Inc.
Suite 904, Columbia Theatre Bldg. Phone 9544 Bryant
Broadway at 47th St., New York City

THE FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

Producing successful dramas re-enacted before the recording eye of the camera by actors and under directors who have created artistic and box office successes in the "legitimate."

EIGHTEEN EAST FORTY-FIRST STREET, NEW YORK — WILLIAM L. SHERRILL, President

MINA COMEDIES Make You Rip, Rear and Roar

EVERY THURSDAY ON THE GENERAL FILM PROGRAM. BOOK THEM

Better to read fifty advertisements than to miss the one YOU need.

TABLOID REVIEWS FOR THE BUSY EXHIBITOR

PRODUCTIONS FROM ALL PROGRAMS

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

"The Angel of Piety Flat." (Biograph. Two reels. Tues., Jan. 18.)—This is a Western story of love and daring, centering about Dorothy Raymond, the sister of notorious Jack Raymond. Jack, known as "the meanest lying cheat that ever came over the desert," is killed in a fight, and his sister comes to Piety Flat to look him up.

She is like a benediction to the rough settlers, and they immediately form a conspiracy to make her believe her brother is held in reverent and loving esteem, and she is told he has merely gone on a prospecting trip, and will return soon. Big Tom, leader in the kindly conspiracy, falls in love with her, and makes it his business to protect here from any news as to the real fate and character of her brother.

While out photographing the scenery, she is seized by Indians, who misunderstand the nature of her camera. Big Tom, at the risk of his life rescues her, and his perjury for her sake is revealed. But all is forgiven for the cause which inspired it. Mary Malatesta, Ivan Christy, Jack Raymond and W. C. Robinson compose the cast.

"A Life Chase." (Biograph. Three reels. Wed., Jan. 19.)—A good murder mystery, which is unraveled under thrilling, dramatic circumstances, is the theme of this picture. It is an adaptation of a play by Adolphe Belot, of the same name. Bouval, a banker, is found murdered.

His friend Vaubert is convinced that Alvimar, a dissolute bachelor, is the murderer, and the latter is arrested. But the police can find no proof, and release him. Then Vaubert sets out to trap him. Alvimar is introduced to Bouval's widow, who keeps her real identity secret, and as was planned, he falls in love with her.

Vaubert is on the verge of success, and momentarily expects Alvimar to confess to the woman, when it suddenly develops that she has fallen in love with Alvimar herself. She reveals her identity, and the bachelor, in a panic of fear and remorse, kills himself with the same knife that slew the banker. The cast includes Jack Drumeir, Louise Vale, Jose Ruben, Franklin Ritchie, Gus Pixley and Herbert Harrington.

"Angels Unawares." (Essanay. Two reels. Tues., Jan. 11.)—In all the diverse roles undertaken by Ruth Stonehouse, she is never so good as when playing the part of a tough little gamin. In this pretty little story she is at her best, and her support, which includes Edmund F. Cobb, Madge Kearns and Grant Foreman, is excellent.

Freckles, a street waif, breaks a window, and instead of running away she goes in and confesses. She meets Grace Wade, the invalid sister of the clerk of the juvenile court, and the ill-assorted pair become great friends.

Freckles is later sentenced to a reform school for complicity in a burglary, but escapes and flees to the house of her friend Grace. When Grace's brother learns the real facts of the case, he prevails on the judge to release Freckles on parole.

"The Fable of the Two Philanthropic Sons." (Essanay. Wed., Jan. 12.)—The sub-titles are the funniest part of this comedy, as in most of the George Ade fables. Charles J. Stine and Harry Dunkinson avoid the temptation to over-act their parts, and give a very creditable performance.

Ezra and Bill kissed the Walking Vegetables in their native burg good-bye, and in the Wicked City accumulated the Iron Men in Bales.

Ezra wanted to be known in the Jay Town of his infancy as a Philanthropist, so he built a library that set him back 50,000 Bucks. The Rubes said the place looked like a barn, and that nobody wanted the dinged thing, anyhow.

Bill floated into the town one day. He breezed up to the Boys on the Cracker-boxes and bought them cigars. He was escorted to the station and hailed as a prince. Moral: In scattering seeds of kindness, do it by Hand, not by Machinery.

"Pieces of the Game." (Essanay. Three reels. Sat., Jan. 15.)—Reviewed at length elsewhere in this issue.

"The Book Agent's Romance." (Essanay. Two reels. Tues., Jan. 18.)—Not shown for review; the story follows. The book agent (G. M. Anderson) accidentally meets the daughter of a capitalist.

Later the girl and her father start for Europe, and a gang of crooks break into their house and telephone a jeweler to send a valuable pearl necklace to the house on approval. They plan to rob the messenger when he arrives, but the book agent appears, and they mistake him for the messenger.

After a desperate struggle he overcomes the thieves, and then the capitalist and his daughter, having missed their boat, return. The girl recognizes the agent, and her admiration for his bravery is later turned into love.

"Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 4." (Essanay Wed., Jan. 19.)—Split reel animated cartoon, with five hundred feet of burlesque on current topics of the day, and a like length devoted to the further adventures of "Dreamy Dud."

"The White Alley." (Essanay. Three reels. Sat., Jan. 22.)—Not shown for review; the story follows.

At a house party given by Arnold, three of his guests fall in love with Dorothy Duncan, who is engaded to Arnold. When Arnold is found dead in a brick oven, the evidence shows that Dorothy committed the crime. To save her, one of her admirers confesses that he committed the murder.

He is about to be executed, when another of the suitors, Arnold's heir, admits that he killed the man to obtain his fortune. After this confession he takes poison.

In the cast are Elizabeth Burbridge Ernest Maupain, Harry Beaumont and Hugh Thompson.

"The Tale of a Coat." (Kalem. Tues., Jan. 18.)—Bud appears in this comedy as a busy burglar, and he and his associates provide some good comedy. There is a wealthy Sherlock Holmes, who falls in love with Ethel, and calls at the house at the same time as Bud.

Bud, who is assisted by a discharged butler, finds the detective harmless, and walks out with the plunder right under his eyes. The detective's engagement to Ethel is immediately broken, but it is renewed later when the detective finds the thieves have broken into his own apartment, stolen his coat, and left one of their own.

In the pocket of the cast-off is the missing jewelry. Ethel Teare, Bud Duncan, Jack MacDermott, Gus Leonard and Charles Mulgro compose the cast.

"The Duel in the Desert." (Kalem. Two reels. Wed., Jan. 19.)—Stingaree and his pal are captured by the inspectors while carelessly lolling at the spring. They are led off across the desert under guard, and Stingaree resolves on a bold ruse to escape. He pretends to be overcome by the sun, falls from his horse and lies unconscious.

Leaving an inspector to guard him, the others take the pal off to the post, where assistance is looked for. In the long wait in the broiling sun of the desert, Stingaree proves the better "stayer." He plays his game until the inspector, overcome by the sun, falls asleep, then makes his escape. He rides to the post, and after the main body of the police have left for the desert, dashes in and rescues his pal. True Boardman, Paul C. Hurst, Marin Sais, Thomas Lingham, Edward Clisbee and Frank Jonasson compose the cast.

"The Sealskin Coat." (Kalem. Fri., Jan. 21.)—This is another of the "Ventures of Marguerite" series, in which Marguerite is innocently the receiver of stolen goods. A thief, who has stolen a necklace, is pursued, and gets into close quarters.

He sees a fur coat hung out to air, and slips the necklace into a pocket. When he returns for it the coat has disappeared. It is Marguerite's, and she has sent for it to wear. The thief starts trailing Marguerite, and Bill, her sweetheart, who is after the reward offered for the thief, is trailing him.

They all come together at once. The thief gets the necklace, then Bill suddenly gets him, and the reward as well. Marguerite Courtot, Bob Ellis, Richard Purdon and Tom J. Evans are in the cast.

"The Open Track." (Kalem. Sat., Jan. 22.)—This is an especially thrilling "Hazard of Helen." The girl exposes a band of counterfeiters. Later they turn the tables on two railway detectives, and tie the two sleuths to the cowcatcher of an engine. They then start the train running wild.

Helen sees the operation, jumps onto a motorcycle, and pursues; she eventually stops the train after a thrilling leap onto a freight car in motion, and running forward to the engine. Later she helps round up the counterfeiters. In the cast are Helen Gibson, R. Adams, Clarence Burton, Franklin Hall, George Robinson and Glen Gano.

"A Bath Tub Mystery." (Lubin-Unit. Wed., Jan. 12.)—Edwin McKim conceived and produced this comedy with David L. Don, Florence Williams, George Egan and the usual number of pretty girls always prominent in these pictures. The situations are comical in themselves, assuring a good picture to those who appreciate Don's methods.

"The Bond Within." (Lubin. Three reels. Thurs., Jan. 13.)—Edward Sloman's direction is enough to insure a good picture and "The Bond Within" is a very fine picture despite a somewhat padded story by Julian Louis Lamothe.

The idea, however, is very good and the directorial touches are excellent. The closing scenes depict some very fine and realistic battle scenes between Mexicans and Americans.

The cast headed by Adda Gleason and L. C. Shumway and composed of Henry Russell, Joyce Wardlow and Adelaide Bronti in the remaining principal parts does polished work, typical of Lubin's western players.

"Why Love Is Blind." (Selig. Three reels. Mon., Jan. 17.)—Reviewed at length elsewhere in this issue.

"When the Circus Came to Town." (Selig. Sat., Jan. 22.)—Those who have exhibited Bloom Center comedies before will have a pretty fair idea of the abilities and limitations of the Bloom Centerites.

For those who have not seen former releases of this series, be it said that this picture is a rural comedy of an unusual type. The players are very well cast, and the various types portrayed are burlesques on well-known "rube" characters.

In this release there is more slapstick than in previous instalments.

When the circus comes to Bloom Center many

MINA COMEDIES Make You Giggle and Wiggle
EVERY THURSDAY ON THE GENERAL FILM PROGRAM. BOOK THEM

NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS

Comedies That Are

PHUNPHILMS

Produced by Rolin

Released by Pathé Exchange, Inc.

Direction of Hal Roach

LONESOME LUKE	HAROLD LLOYD
Snub	Harry Pollard
Mazie Nut	Gene Marsh
Ethel	Bebe Daniels

Rolin Film Company, Los Angeles

D. Whiting, Gen. Mgr.

A Factory Accident

has made necessary a delay in the release of "The Rose of the Alley" scheduled for January 17. In its place for that date will be released the Metro wonderplay

THE LURE OF HEART'S DESIRE

An original drama in five vital acts starring

EDMUND BREESE

Directed by Francis J. Grandon

Released on the Metro Program January 17.

Produced by Popular Plays and Players, Inc.

METRO PICTURES

Metro Pictures Corporation

YOU are wasting your opportunities if YOU ignore advertising.

of the performers quit it because back salaries have not been paid. To fill up the depleted ranks, the manager hires Ira Pash and Phil Pickle to ride in the chariot race, and the slender Selina Tubbs is engaged for the ballet.

The town folks who were not employed conspire to break up the show. Johnny West loosens the tent ropes, and when the big top collapses a panic ensues. Some of the animals escape, and this adds to the confusion. That night there is no performance in Bloom Center.

The regular Bloom Center cast does the acting.

"The Devil in Chief." (Selig. Three reels. Mon., Jan. 10.)—Reviewed at length elsewhere.

"No Sir-ee, Bob." (Selig. Sat., Jan. 15.)—In this, as in many of the other "Chronicles of Bloom Center," the plot is refreshingly novel and well conceived, but the potential situations are not developed to their fullest by the cast.

The imagination of the average audience would be fully capable of grasping many details that are fully, and sometimes laboriously, made explicit.

Ezra Pash, Bloom Center's popular postmaster, decides that he ought to be given a pension for his work in the Civil War, even though he never saw any battles outside of the current war films. He makes his application, and awaits results.

A stranger comes to town and gets into an altercation with Ezra. In the ensuing fight Pash discards the crutch he had been affecting, and proceeds to clean up the fresh city fellow.

When the mutilated stranger turns out to be the investigator for the pension bureau, and his application for Uncle Sam's bounty is turned down, Pash is a very sad man.

The regular Bloom Center cast does the acting.

MUTUAL PROGRAM

"Viviana." (American. Two reels. Mon., Jan. 10.)—The motivation of this film is not always good, and the plot has many inconsistencies. In spite of these drawbacks, the able cast, which includes Vivian Rich and George Periolat, does much to make the story plausible.

George Perry, a wealthy man-about-town, is interested in Viviana, a stenographer, and his interest is not wholly platonic. When Perry discovers that his sister is about to elope with a disreputable actor, his better nature asserts itself, and he rescues his sister from infamy and Viviana from himself. He becomes a social worker.

Others in the cast are Leslie Reed, Silvia Ashton, and Marion Christie. The director was Reeves Eason.

"The First Quarrel." (Beauty. Tues., Jan. 11.)—Carol Halloway always makes a delightful ingenue in roles of frank frivolity, and in spite of a very lightweight theme to work out, she gets away very well. In her support are those "Beauty" luminaries, John Sheehan, Beatrice Van, Rae Berger and Chance Ward. The picture was directed by James Douglas.

In a quarrel over the propriety of keeping the picture of an old flame, a young married couple engage in their first quarrel. Each decides to bring the other to terms by a threat of suicide.

Both leave a note explaining the tragedy to be, and giving explicit directions as to where the self-destruction is to take place. The two bluffers are finally brought together by an uncle with a sense of humor.

"The Secret Wire." (American. Two reels. Fri., Jan. 14.)—There are thrills, melodrama, love, good acting, and good directing in this picture. Harold Lockwood and May Allison furnish their usual smooth work, and Harry Von Meter and William Stowell are effective, too. Thomas Ricketts had charge of the directing.

Harold Locke is a "trouble shooter" employed by a telephone company to keep its lines in order. He is sent to locate a secret wire that has long baffled the telephone officials.

He discovers that this wire is a secret communication between an automobile dealer and a gang of auto thieves. When the dealer sells a car to Vera, the daughter of a millionaire, he telephones his confederates, and they steal the car and hold Vera for a ransom.

Locke overhears a clue of this crime, and manages to rescue Vera from a burning building where she is bound and gagged. Her feeling of gratitude for her rescuer is changed into love after about eighteen hundred feet have been run off.

"Spider Barlow Meets Competition." (American. Fri., Jan. 14.)—This kind of comedy-drama is not wholly new in conception or treatment. The names of Edward Coxen, Winnifred Greenwood and George Field in the cast are sufficient guarantee that the acting is of a high grade.

When Mr. and Mrs. Dale return from a masked ball, they suspect the presence of a burglar in the house. Mr. Dale's costume is that of a cracksman, so when he starts to look for the intruder, a policeman believes him to be a lawbreaker, and a tussle takes place.

Meantime Mrs. Dale sees the real burglar, and believing him to be her husband, falls on his neck. The surprised crook makes hay while everything is to the merry, and removes a priceless necklace from her person. When hubby and the better half get together, the total results of the evening's experience are a black eye for the former, and a beautiful neck unadorned for the latter. The director was Charles Bartlett.

"Water Stuff." (Mustang. Three reels. Sat., Jan. 15.)—Reviewed at length elsewhere in this issue.

"Getting in Wrong." (Beauty. Sat., Jan. 15.)—Neva Gerber and William Carroll, with their sidekicks, Lucille Ward and Jack Dillon, inject a lot of action into the mediocre story of this piece. The not unusual situation of a bibulous gentleman mistaking an adjoining apartment for his own is the foundation of the plot.

Tom and Alice, who are sweethearts, induce their families to take adjacent apartments. Owing to the similarity of the rooms, and the alcoholic tendencies of Alice's aunt and Tom's father, several mix-ups of a more or less humorous kind develop, and the result is the engagement of the young couple. Jack Dillon directed.

"The Gamble." (American. Two reels. Sun., Jan. 16.)—Will be reviewed next week.

"Ham and Eggs." (Casino. Sun., Jan. 16.)—A really clever comedy. Willie, an artist, is in love with Lucile, the banker's daughter, and at the same time is in a horrible financial situation. When Lucile and her father call he conceals his poverty by painting an order of ham and eggs on a plate.

The banker tells Willie he must accomplish something worth while before he can have Lucile, and that night Willie dreams of accomplishment. He dreams of receiving $10,000 for painting the words "ham and eggs" all over New York, on skyscrapers, sky, churches and parks, and just as he completes the task and receives the check, he awakes to find the landlady calling for the rent.

In the meantime, however, Lucile has told her father of Willie's straits, and the banker, admiring the young man's pluck, decides that he shall be taken into the family. Then a waiter appears, bearing a tray of real ham and eggs. Budd Ross, Marie Weirman, Phin Nares and Katherine Sheldon complete the cast.

"Grace's Gorgeous Gowns." (Falstaff. Tues., Jan. 18.)—This comedy centers about Grace, a stenographer, who had a longing for gowns. A rich aunt died, and after all the various wills were sorted down, Grace was found to be the last heir. So she bought a lot of gowns and went to the shore.

She displayed her gorgeous apparel to the best effect, then, while in bathing, met and fell in love with a life guard. At the same time a new will was discovered, and the latest heir swept down and seized all of Grace's finery, leaving her only the bathing suit.

The life guard rose to the emergency and took Grace home as his wife. Louise Emerald Bates, Bert Delaney, Riley Chamberlain, and Frances Keyes head the cast.

"The Silent Trail." (American. Two reels. Tues., Jan. 18.)—The hero is very manly, the villain very wicked, and the heroine very sweet in this picture—perhaps a bit too much so. There are snatches of melodrama to put punch in the plot. The cast throughout is very good.

Mandott and Martin are suiters for the hand of Helen Hayward, a trapper's daughter. They themselves are woodsmen. Although Helen loves Martin more, she marries Mandott because she is engaged to him, and her sense of honor will not permit her to break her word.

Mandott abuses her constantly, so she often goes to Martin for sympathy. One day Mandott sees them together, and grapples with Martin in a desperate struggle.

Helen rushes off to get the sheriff and stop the fight, but he is already on his way. He has received a message from the New York police to arrest Mandott as a wife deserter.

He shoots at the bigamist as he is escaping in a canoe, and Martin and Helen, hand in hand, see the dead body of Mandott floating by.

In the cast are Ashton Dearholt, Jack Prescott, Charles Newton and Nan Christy. The director was Charles Bartlett.

"Johnny's Birthday." (Bauty. Wed., Jan. 19.)—The plot of this comedy will not tax anyone's brain. John Sheehan, Carol Holloway and John Steppling are delightful in their fun-making, as usual.

Johnny is slated to call on his fiancee on the night of his birthday, but he drinks too many toasts at the club, and becomes beautifully "slanted."

On his way to her house he picks up a dozen or more friends, and a motorman. They call on the outraged girl en masse, and she furiously returns the ring to Johnny.

The next morning he sees the sleeping motorman in his room, and decides to work for him. He takes out a trolley-car, and after he has piloted it a few blocks, his former fiancee gets aboard. When he sees her he threatens to take her on a trolley joyride if she does not wear his ring again, and she willingly consents to become re-engaged.

"Sammy's Dough-Full Romance." (Vogue. Thurs., Jan. 20.)—Not shown for review.

"Wild Jim, Reformer." (Mustang. Two reels. Fri., Jan. 21.)—In a Western drama along conventional lines, it is hard to find a more satisfactory trio of players than Jack Richardson, E. Forrest Taylor and Lizette Thorne. The story is not in any way remarkable, being merely a variation of a favorite theme.

Helen goes West to escape her brutal husband, and there becomes a fast friend of Bill, a prospector. When Helen's husband traces her to her home, he finds Bill there.

He is about to kill the interloper when Wild Jim, a bad man whom Helen had once befriended, steps in. He offers to fight a duel with the husband, and in this encounter kills him.

Helen asks the bandit to reform. Many years later she returns to the mining camp with Bill, who is now her husband. They find an old man, who turns out to be Wild Jim, who has reformed and is now leading an honest life.

"The Thunderbolt." (American. Fri., Jan. 21.—This is rather a neat little tale in which the long arm of coincidence is effectively employed. The cast, which is made up of Helene Rosson, E. Forrest Taylor and Charles Bartlett, does much to add to the power of the drama.

A girl and a young man meet in a frontier saloon. Both have been ruined by the machinations of a man named Berger. This man happens to come into the saloon, and the two victims both wish to obtain revenge.

Both say, "the vengeance is mine." But neither is to be the nemesis, for a bolt of lightning strikes the man dead.

"Mischief and a Mirror." (Beauty. Sun., Jan. 23.)—There is more slap-stick work in this picture than in most of the "Beauty" releases. The story is trifling, but owing to the consistent power of the cast, the interest never flags. The players are Neva Gerber, Wallace MacDonald, Rick Rosson, William Carroll and Lucille Ward. Archer McMackin directed.

Maud doesn't know whether to accept Fred or Tom, so she asks the advice of a medium. This seeress advises her to look into a mirror on Hallowe'en night, and there she will see the face of the man she really loves.

Fred overhears this oracular advice, and on the night mentioned crawls through a window in Maud's house, and stands behind the mirror. But Tom has seen this stealthy move, and calls a policeman to arrest the intruder.

Maud thinks Fred is a burglar, and so faints into the convenient arms held out by Tom. She decides that they are a pretty good pair of arms to protect her for life.

"A Baby Grand (?)." (Vogue. Sat., Jan. 22.)—Not shown for review.

PATHE EXCHANGE INC.

"The Red Circle," No. 5. (Balboa. Two reels.)—"Weapons of War" is the title of this episode, June Travis, the heir to the red circle brand of the criminal Borden family, goes with her "mother" to the seashore. There, in attempting to hide the men's garments she used in protecting her faithful nurse in an earlier episode, she stumbles upon a shack, in which two men are discussing the plans of an invention calculated to increase the horrors of war.

Reaching through the slats of a window, she steals the plans, but the men catch her hand, and see the red circle mark. She extricates herself, makes way with the plans, and throws them into the sea, together with the bundle of clothing. The two conspirators start a search for a girl with a red circle on her hand. Ruth Roland and Frank Mayo are featured in the cast.

"Luke Lolls in Luxury." (Phunphilms.)—Luke and Tommy, his companion, have some very exciting adventures when shipwrecked on an unknown island. The chief of the place puts them to work fanning his six wives, and they soon become unduly interested in the women, and vice-versa. The chief on observing this, starts trouble, but Luke succeeds in deposing him and becoming chief himself. Through the aid of a white man, whose sweetheart has won Luke's fancy, the chief regains his throne, and so hurriedly that Luke and Tommy start on a long swim back to their native land.

"Railroad Construction on the Dark Continent." (Photocolor. Split reel.)—This is a series of unusually picturesque and interesting color pictures of engineering work in the heart of Africa. The difficulties of transporting machinery and equipment, and the natural obstacles to be overcome in the jungle are well illustrated. The views include bits of magnificent scenery, to which the colors add greatly. On the same reel is "The Lizard," a color study of this little-understood reptile.

"CHARLIE'S BUSTED ROMANCE"

OUR FIRST RELEASE
JAN. 31

ONE WEEKLY
THEREAFTER

STATE RIGHTS
FOR SALE

YOU WILL WANT EVERY ONE OF THEM

STAR
COMEDY CARTOONS are proving
Great Money Getters

SECURE YOUR TERRITORY AT ONCE!

HERALD FILM CORPORATION
126 W. 46th St., New York

"TOM MARTIN—A MAN"

A story of a man's sacrifice for the love of a woman and featuring GUY OLIVER and VIVIAN REED. Released through General Film Service on Monday, January 24.

SELIG-TRIBUNE

A news film that has made 'em all sit up and take notice. Gets the news and shows it first. Released Twice Weekly through General Film Service.

"APPLE BUTTER"

A rural comedy released in The Chronicles of Bloom Center Series. Fun all through this film. Released through General Film Service on Saturday, January 29.

SELIG-POLYSCOPE CO.
CHICAGO AND EVERYWHERE

UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

"Graft." (Universal Special Feature. Sixth Episode. Two reels. Week of Jan. 17.)—This number suggested by James Oppenheim commences with a rapid-fire chase and continues at the same rapid and effective gait throughout its length.

The separate title is "The Railroad Monopoly" and in it Harry Carey as Tom Larnigan defeats the head of the notorious Railroad Trust. The big thrill of the number arrives when a railroad car plunges off the end of a drawbridge into the river. For sheer melodrama "Graft" is setting a formidable pace.

"The Man Inside." (Broadway Universal Feature. Five reels. Mon., Jan. 17.)—Reviewed at length in the issue of Jan. 15.

"Mingling Spirits." (Nestor. Mon., Jan. 17.)—One of Al Christie's real good ones with Lee Moran in an eccentric comedy part of humorous dimensions. Eddie gets rid of his spiritualistic mother-in-law by bringing in a sandwich man dressed as the devil. Eddie Lyons, Betty Compson and Stella Adams are in the other important parts.

"The Reward of Chivalry." (Gold Seal. Three reels. Tues., Jan. 18.)—A drama of political intrigue with a pleasing romance interwoven, by L. V. Jefferson. It was made by William Worthington and his company, including Herbert Rawlinson and Jean Taylor, two very accomplished leads.

The story builds to an exciting climax that carries with it a creditable amount of suspense. The naturalness of the action is one of the good points of the picture.

"The Silent Member." (Laemmle. Tues., Jan. 18.)—An original and most entertaining subject written, produced and starred in by Robert Leonard. Its conclusion comes as a big surprise and presents a moral hooked with a laugh that will be remembered. Kingsley Benedict and Marc Robbins are chief of the support.

"Her Better Self." (Victor. Two reels. Wed., Jan. 19.)—A rapid moving melodrama that appears sympathetic at times, but hardly convincing enough to fully accomplish its mission. It was written and produced by Grace Cunard who also plays the leading role, supported by Jack Holt and Irving Lippner.

"Saving Susie from the Sea." (L-Ko. Wed., Jan. 19.)—The story of the rivals in love ending up with a wild chase in automobiles, that crash through fences, houses, barns and the like with exciting comedy as the result. The chase incidentally puts "Saving Susie from the Sea" in the class of very good knockabout farces.

"Just Plain Folks." (Laemmle. Three reels. Thurs., Jan. 20.)—Not yet shown for review.

"Building Up the Health of a Nation." (Powers. Lesson No. 2. Split reel. Thurs., Jan. 20.)—Reviewed at length with other numbers of the series elsewhere in this issue. On the same reel with "Aerial Buds."

"Aerial Buds." (Powers. Split reel. Thurs., Jan. 20.)—Showing the performances of a boy and girl on the trapeze. On the same reel with "Building Up the Health of a Nation." (Lesson No. 2.)

"Vanity, Thy Name Is———." (Imp. Two reels. Fri., Jan. 21.)—With an extravagant wife the poor husband knows not what to do until his mother-in-law comes along and takes the extravagance away.

This is a pleasing comedy-drama with the accent on the comedy, although it waxes rather foolish at times. The subtitles are written in a breezy style that aims at comedy and attains it quite often. Matt Moore "directed himself" and Jane Gail in the principal parts.

"A Sea Mystery." (Victor. Fri., Jan. 21)—Mary Fuller in a fanciful romance in which as the wild girl of the seashore she shows to splendid advantage. Paul Panzer, Robert Lee and Ralph Belmont appear in support of the star.

"Flivvers Famous Cheese Hound." (Nestor. Fri., Jan. 21.)—Charles Evans the English comedian again in a burlesque on the fiction detective. It is full of wildly exaggerated incidents, laughable in itself, and Evans ludicrous makeup increases its value.

"Buck Simmons—Puncher." (Bison. Two reels. Sat., Jan. 22.)—A Western melodrama featuring a realistic gunfight and containing some very good night photography scenes in which there is much shooting.

Leon Kent wrote and produced as well as played the hero, while Edna Maison and Malcolm Blevins furnished quality support. It's a very good Western and will undoubtedly be appreciated by the admirers of this class of picture.

"Uncle Sam at Work," No. 5. (Powers. Sat., Jan. 22.)—This number shows in educational form, the Weather Bureau, the Light House Service, the Revenue Cutter Service and scenes from the U. S. S. New Jersey. Interesting scenes of comparatively unknown organizations.

"The Whole Jungle Was After Him." (Joker. Sat., Jan. 22.)—This was made by Paul Bourgeois and introduces animals in a plot of fairly funny variety. The suitor to win his girl speaks of his bravery as a hunter, and she, doubtful, calls his bluff by releasing a beast (more or less wild) in his house.

"Mr. McIdiot's Assassination." (L-Ko. Two reels. Sun., Jan. 23.)—Reviewed at length in the issue of Jan. 8.

"Her Dream Man." (Laemmle. Sun., Jan. 23.)—A thoroughly enjoyable romance with a strong vein of comedy, containing new and delightfully pleasing situations. Myrtle Gonzalez, Frank Newburg and Val Paul appeared under Lynn Reynolds direction.

INCORPORATIONS

By arrangement with the Corporation Trust Company, 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City, N. J., the company has supplied MOTION PICTURE NEWS with the following special incorporation service:

In Illinois:

WILLIAM T. WARREN FILM COMPANY; Manufacturing moving picture films; $10,000; Chicago, Ill. Incorporators: William T. Warren, William A. Jennings and Joseph Rolnick.

THE COLONIAL FILM CORPORATION; manufacturing films and slides for moving pictures; $10,000; Chicago, Ill. Incorporators: A. M. Gress, R. J. Ray and Sol Rosen.

HARRY CULBERTSON COMPANY; operate places of amusement; $25,000; Chicago, Ill. Incorporators: Harry Culbertson, Elbert C. Ferguson and Edward L. England.

FRANK CALDER AMUSEMENT COMPANY; conduct amusement enterprises; $2,500; Chicago, Ill. Incorporators: Charles J. Martin, Edward W. Weiss and Asher J. Goldfine.

In Maine:

PARK THEATRE COMPANY; theatrical and moving picture business; $10,000; Dexter (Penobscot Co.). Incorporators: Charles A. Haines, Susie M. Haines and Annie M. Wyman, all of Dexter.

In New York:

INTERNATIONAL CIRCUIT, INC.; general theatrical business; $100,000. Incorporators: Gus Hill, 101 7th avenue, New York City; Edw. D. Stair, Detroit, Mich.; Geo. H. Nicolai, 1493 Broadway, New York City.

THE HAVILAND PRODUCING CORPORATION; theatrical; $3,000. Incorporators: Jas. B. Haviland, Alice T. Haviland and Phil Hunt, all of 1493 Broadway, New York City.

PATRIOT FILM CORPORATION; manufactnuring and dealing in moving picture films; $100.000. Incorooorators: Patrick Marron, Margaret Ogg and Robert Leslie Moffett, all of 52 William street, New York City.

REXFORD PARK AMUSEMENT CO., INC., Clifton Park, N. Y.; theatrical and musical enterprises; $10,000. Incorporators: Jas. J. Dignim, Rexford, N. Y.; Carl Schaus, 140 Elmer avenue, Schenectady, N. Y.; Frederick W. Newton, Herkimer, N. Y.

THE ROWLAND WEST FILM CORPORATION; film manufacturing, etc.; $1,250. Incorporators: Harry Harris, Leopold Friedman and Ralph Kohn, all of 31 Nassau street, New York City.

CLINICAL FILM CO., INC.; manufacturing moving picture films, etc.; $500,000. Incorporators: George C. Reid, 36 Marble Hill avenue, New York City; Henry A. Palmer, 537 Ashford street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

STUYVESANT PRODUCING COMPANY, INC.; general theatrical business; $40,000. Incorporators: Gco. F. Walter, 93 Cleveland avenue, Rockville Center, L. I.; Percy J. Bone, 163 Willard avenue, W. Brighton, S. I., and William Neeter, 258 W. 55th street, New York City.

CLINICAL FILM CO., INC.; manufacturing moving picture films, etc.; $500,000. Incorporators: George C. Reid, 36 Marble Hill avenue, New York City; Dorothy L. Hecthaus, 696 Eagle avenue, and Henry A. Palmer, 536 Ashford street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

TOPNOTCH MOTION PICTURES, INC.; manufacturing films and general moving picture business; $20,000. Incorporators: Elsie M. Loeser and Louis K. Ferry, 165 Broadway, New York City, and Holmes Walton, 1432 Broadway, New York City.

AUTHENTIC FILM CORPORATION; manufacturing moving picture films and supplies, etc.; $5,000. Incorporators: Edwin V. MacDonald, 1065 E. 18th street, Brooklyn; C. F. Bates, 3505 Broadway, New York City; Paul Falk, 428 W. 22nd street, New York City.

CLINTCH AVENUE CASINO, INC., Manhattan. To conduct ice skating rinks and moving pictures. Capital, $1,000. Directors: Hawley T. Webster, Andrew Peters and Frank P. Share, 34 Pine street, New York City.

FIFTEENTH STREET AMUSEMENT CO., Brooklyn. To deal in moving picture theatres and films. Capital, $2,500. Directors: Charles Klasky, Regina Ammerman and Rudolph Sanders, 423 Sixteenth street, Brooklyn.

THE LESCO PRODUCING CO., INC., New York City. General theatrical and motion picture business. Capital, $10,000. Directors: Helen White, Meyer Klein and Alex Warner, 52 West 119th street, New York City.

BLUE BIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC., New York City. General motion picture business, general photographic printing and publishing. Capital, $1,000. Directors: William B. Saxe, Paul J. DuBois and Edwin H. Collins, 3750 Broadway, New York City.

SCHENECTADY-HUDSON THEATRE CO., INC., Schenectady. To own and operate theatres and general motion picture business and real estate. Capital, $35,000. Directors: Charles F. Veeder, Charles J. Campbell and John J. McMullen, Schenectady.

WALBILTAN PHOTO PLAY CO., INC., New York City. To conduct moving picture shows and theatres. Capital, $10,000. Directors: Joseph Greenbaum. D. S. Phillips and Joseph A. Tanner, 225 West 134th street, New York City.

YANKEE AMUSEMENT CORPORATION, Brooklyn. Theatre and moving pictures. Capital, $5,000. Directors: Edmund H. Hoffman, Edmund H. Hoffman, Jr., and Frank C. Chumasero, 62 New York avenue, Brooklyn.

CARNIVAL AND FAIR AMUSEMENT CORPORATION, New York City. To conduct shows, theatres, amusements and motion picture houses. Capital, $25,000. Directors: Alfred Cane, David B. Kamisky and Anton Siegel, 233 Broadway, New York City.

STRATFORD CONTRACTING CO., INC., Long Beach. To operate public amusements and exhibitions. Capital, $5,000. Directors: Robert W. Seaton, Alfred Johnson and Walter Swanson, Riverside Boulevard, Long Beach, N. Y.

EXCELLO FILM CO., New York City. To manufacture films, moving pictures and advertising business. Capital, $1,000. Directors: Joseph Hischman, Edwin W. Drucker and Maurice M. Levy, 229 Broadway, New York City.

EDGEMERE AMUSEMENT CORPORATION, Queens. To operate moving picture theatres. Capital, $2,000. Directors: Louis Kramer, Edward Kastner and Louis Gordon, Boulevard and Frank avenue, Edgemere, N. Y.

THE VANITY FAIR FILM CO., INC. To conduct moving picture and amusement enterprises. Capital, $5,000. Directors: MacDonald Devitt, John T. Sturdevant and Joseph P. Shea, Cold Spring, N. Y.

In Virginia:

THE VILLAGE AMUSEMENT CORPORATION; to conduct a moving picture business; $5,000; in Hopewell, Va.; J. M. Luke, L. G. Humphries, Hopewell, Va.; Paul F. Battinger, Petersburg, Va.

GRANBY PICTURE COMPANY, INCORPORATED; manufacture and deal in moving picture machines, films, slides, etc.; $15,000; in Norfolk, Va.; A. M. Cook, P. C. Dearborn, C. C. Jones, all of Norfolk, Va.

ARROW FILM CORPORATION; to carry on business of taking and producing motion pictures, photographs, scenes, acts, plays, exhibitions; $350,000; in Richmond, Va.; Wm. M. Crump, R. E. Payton, Jr., W. W. Beverley, all of Richmond, Va.

RIALTO AMUSEMENT COMPANY, INCORPORATED; to promote, operate and conduct a general amusement entertainments, theatre and moving picture business; $350,000; in Fairfax, Va.; Jerome H. Pennock, 132 Remsen street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; H. C. Brove, 1210 G street, Washington, D. C.; V. L. Abbey, Wardman Courts, Washington, D. C.; F. A. Waldron, East Orange, N. J.; and A. J. Poston, 911 G street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

NATIONAL FILM CORPORATION OF AMERICA; to manufacture and deal in motion picture films, photoplays and photoplay films, cameras, motion picture machines, etc.; $1,000,000; Richmond, Va. Incorporators: Cornelius A. Cole, Hackensack, N. J.; Robt. A. Van Voorhis, Jersey City, N. J., and Arthur R. Oakley, Pearl River, N. Y.

VICTORIA AMUSEMENT CORPORATION; to conduct a moving picture theatre; $5,000; Richmond, Va. Incorporators: Martha A. Loving, Robert S. Loving, Kenneth E. Doyle and R. Clinton, all of Morrisset, Richmond, Va.

In Pennsylvania:

THE PENN COUNTIES AMUSEMENT COMPANY, Allentown, Pa. General theatrical and motion picture business. Capital, $5,000. Incorporators: John J. Meily and Margaret E. Meily, of Allentown, and Edward H. Buss and Leon Buss of Emaus.

STATE RIGHTS BUYERS!!

AT 10 A.M.

We closed a contract for Greater New York, New York State and Northern Jersey with the Greene's Feature Photoplay Co., for a one reel animal comedy feature every week, starring "Napoleon, the Great," and "Sally, His Mate," the famous chimpanzees, produced by the E. & R. Jungle Film Company of Los Angeles.

AT 2 P.M.
(same day)

Chas. H. Streimer called up and ordered two additional prints. He said he had closed the LOEW, KEITH, PROCTOR and MOSS Circuits and needed two additional prints, as those he had originally contracted for were booked up for a month solid.

PROOF THAT EXHIBITORS WANT THESE COMEDIES

HOW ABOUT YOUR TERRITORY?

These territories are already sold

GREATER NEW YORK, NEW YORK STATE and NORTHERN JERSEY—Greene's Feature Photoplay Co., 110 W 40th St., New York.

NEW ENGLAND—E. W. Lynch Enterprises, Worcester and Boston, Mass.

EASTERN PENN., MARYLAND, DELAWARE, DIST. OF COL., SOUTHERN JERSEY and VIRGINIA—Electric Theatre Supply Co., Philadelphia.

KANSAS, MISSOURI, NEBRASKA and IOWA—Monarch Feature Film Co., Kansas City.

DON'T LET THIS OPPORTUNITY GET BY YOU—ACT NOW!

We Are Ready to Show you two months' subjects in advance.
Write, wire or phone.

E. & R. JUNGLE FILM CO., Inc.

Los Angeles, Calif.
1720 N. Soto St.

New York City,
R. 1707, 220 W. 42nd St.,
Phone 5528 Bryant

Calendar of Current and Coming Releases

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

RELEASES OF CURRENT WEEK

REGULAR PROGRAM

Monday, January 17, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—The Miser's Heart, D. (Re-issue), 1000.. 19895
LUBIN—The Little Sister of the Poor, D., 1000..... 19896
SELIG—Why Love Is Blind (Jack Pickford), D., 3000.. 19890
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 5, News, 1000..... 19894
VITAGRAPH—Them Was the Good Old Days, C., 1000 19893

Tuesday, January 18, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—The Angel of Piety Flat, D., 2000..... 19900
ESSANAY—The Book Agent's Romance, D., 2000..... 19897
KALEM—The Tale of a Coat, C., 1000..... 19899

Wednesday, January 19, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—A Life Chase, D., 3000..... 19905
ESSANAY—Cannimated Nooz Pictorial No. 4, C., 1000. 19904
KALEM—A Duel in the Desert (Ninth of the "Stingaree" Series), D., 2000..... 19902

Thursday, January 20, 1916.

LUBIN—The Law's Injustice, D., 3000..... 19908
MINA—A Misfit Baron, C., 1000..... 19912
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune, No. 6, News, 1000..... 19911

Friday, January 21, 1916.

KALEM—A Sealskin Coat (Thirteenth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D., 1000..... 19916
KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE—Houses of Mystery, D., 3000..... 19913
VIM—Frenzied Finance, C., 1000..... 19918
VITAGRAPH—A Telegraphic Tangle, C., 1000..... 19917

Saturday, January 22, 1916.

ESSANAY—The White Alley, D., 3000..... 19919
KALEM—The Open Track (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D., 1000..... 19926
LUBIN—Insomnia, C., 1000..... 19922
SELIG—When the Circus Came to Town (Ninth of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C., 2000..... 19927
VITAGRAPH—The Secret Seven, D., 3000..... 19923

UNIT PROGRAM

Monday, January 10, 1916.

KALEM—The Black Crook, D., 5000.....U-1040
VITAGRAPH—The Surprises of an Empty Hotel, D., 4000 .....U-1030
A Cripple Creek Cinderella, C., 1000.....U-1034

Wednesday, January 12, 1916.

LUBIN—The City of Failing Light, D., 4000.....U-1035
A Bath Tub Mystery, C., 1000.....U-1039

RELEASES OF COMING WEEK

REGULAR PROGRAM

Monday, January 24, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—An Adventure in the Autumn Woods (Re-issue), D., 1000.....
LUBIN—Two News Items, D., 1000.....
SELIG—Tom Martin—a Man, D., 3000.....
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune, No. 7, News, 1000.....
VITAGRAPH—The Cold Feet Getaway, C., 1000.....

Tuesday, January 25, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—Stronger Than Woman's Will, D., 3000..
ESSANAY—Title Not Reported.....
KALEM—Snoop Hounds, C., 1000.....
LUBIN—The Dragoman, D.. 2000.....

Wednesday, January 26, 1916.

ESSANAY—Title Not Reported.....
KALEM—The Villain Worshipper (Tenth of the "Stingaree" Series), D., 2000.....

Thursday, January 27, 1916.

LUBIN—The Embodied Thought, D., 3000.....
MINA—Title Not Reported.....
*SELIG—Selig-Tribune, No. 8, News, 1000.....

Friday, January 28, 1916.

KALEM—The Fate of America (Fourteenth of Ventures of Marguerite Series), D., 1000.....
KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE—Title Not Reported.
VIM—Title Not Reported.....
VITAGRAPH—Peace at Any Price, C., 1000.....

Saturday, January 29, 1916.

ESSANAY—Title Not Reported.....
KALEM—Tapped Wires (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D., 1000.....
LUBIN—Cured, C., 3000.....
SELIG—Apple Butter (Tenth of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C., 2000.....
VITAGRAPH—The Ruse, D., 3000.....

UNIT PROGRAM

Monday, January 17, 1916.

VITAGRAPH— Mrs. Dane's Danger, D., 4000.....? ? ?
Bittersweet, D., 1000.....? ? ?

Wednesday, January 19, 1916.

LUBIN—The Evangelist, D., 4000.....? ? ?
Fooling Uncle, C., 1000.....? ? ?

COMEDY FILMS

POKES AND JABBS

THE GIGGLE PRODUCERS

BUSTED HEARTS

ONE REEL ALL COMEDY

It Means Money To Every Exhibitor To Have Vim Comedies Included In His Service

Every Friday You Can Obtain From G. F. Exchanges Vim Comedies Get 'Em While They're Hot

BUSTED HEARTS

LET LOOSE

JANUARY TWENTY EIGHTH

ON THE

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

Calendar of Current and Coming Releases

MUTUAL

RELEASES OF CURRENT WEEK

Monday, January 17, 1916.

MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—See Feature Release Page.

Tuesday, January 18, 1916.

AMERICAN—The Silent Trail, D., 2000..... 04404
FALSTAFF—Grace's Gorgeous Gowns, C., 1000..... 04405

Wednesday, January 19, 1916.

THANHOUSER—The Phantom Witness, D., 3000..... 04406
BEAUTY—Johnny's Birthday, C., 1000..... 04409

Thursday, January 20, 1916.

FALSTAFF—Pete's Persian Princess, C., 1000..... 04410
MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly, No. 55, News, 1000..... 04411
VOGUE—Sammy's Doughful Romance, C., 1000..... 04412
MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—See Feature Release Page.

Friday, January 21, 1916.

MUSTANG—Wild Jim, Reformer, D., 2000..... 04413
CUB—The Girl of His Dreams, C., 1000..... 04415
AMERICAN—The Thunderbolt, D., 1000..... 04416
NOVELTY—Mr. Bumps, Commuter, C., 1000..... 04417

Saturday, January 22, 1916.

MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—See Feature Release Page.

Sunday, January 23, 1916.

GAUMONT—See America First, No. 19, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cartoon, Split Reel..... 04418
BEAUTY—Mischief and a Mirror, C., 1000..... 04419
VOGUE—A Baby Grand, C., 1000..... 04420

RELEASES OF COMING WEEK

Monday, January 24, 1916.

MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—See Feature Release Page.

Tuesday, January 25, 1916.

AMERICAN—The Man in the Sombrero, D., 2000..... 04421
FALSTAFF—Lucky Larry's Lady Love, C., 1000..... 04425

Wednesday, January 26, 1916.

THANHOUSER—The Burglar's Picnic, D., 3000..... 04424
BEAUTY—Some Night, C., 1000..... 04427

Thursday, January 27, 1916.

MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—See Feature Release Page.
VOGUE—Title Not Yet Decided..... 04428
FALSTAFF—Beaten at the Bath, C., 1000..... 04429
MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly, No. 56, News, 1000..... 04430

Friday, January 28, 1916.

CLIPPER—The Smugglers of Santa Cruz, D., 3000..... 04431
AMERICAN—A Sanitarium Scramble, C., 1000..... 04434
CUB—One-Reel Comedy (Title Not Decided)..... 04435

Saturday, January 29, 1916.

MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—See Feature Release Page.

Sunday, January 30, 1916.

GAUMONT—See America First, No. 20, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart., Split Reel..... 04436
BEAUTY—Walk This Way, C., 1000..... 04437
VOGUE—One-Reel Comedy (Title Not Decided)..... 04438

UNIVERSAL

RELEASES OF CURRENT WEEK

UNIVERSAL FEATURE—The Railroad Monopoly (Sixth episode of "Graft") D., 2000..... 01140

Monday, January 17, 1916.

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURE—The Man Inside, D., 5000..... 01123
NESTOR—Mingling Spirits, C., 1000..... 01124

Tuesday, January 18, 1916.

GOLD SEAL—The Reward of Chivalry, D., 3000..... 01125
REX—The Silent Member, D., 1000..... 01126

Wednesday, January 19, 1916.

VICTOR—Her Better Self, D., 2000..... 01127
L-KO—Saving Susie from the Sea, C., 1000..... 01128
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Weekly No. 202, News, 1000..... 01129

Thursday, January 20, 1916.

LAEMMLE—Just Plain Folks, D., 3000..... 01130
POWERS—Physical Culture Lesson, No. 2, and the Ariel Buds, Vaud. Act, Split Reel..... 01131

Friday, January 21, 1915.

IMP—Vanity Thy Name Is———, C. D., 2000..... 01132
VICTOR—A Sea Mystery, D., 1000..... 01133
NESTOR—Flivver's Famous Cheese Hound, C., 1000.. 01134

Saturday, January 22, 1916.

BISON—Buck Simon's Puncher, D., 2000..... 01135
POWERS—Uncle Sam at Work, No. 5 (Protecting the Ships at Sea), Ed., 1000..... 01136
JOKER—The Whole Jungle Was After Him, C., 1000.. 01137

Sunday, January 23, 1916.

LAEMMLE—Her Dream Man, D., 1000..... 01138
L-KO—Mr. McIdiot's Assassination, C., 2000..... 01139

RELEASES OF COMING WEEK

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—America Saved from War (Seventh Episode of "Graft"), D., 2000..01158

Monday, January 24, 1916.

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURE—A Soul Enslaved, D., 5000..... 01141
NESTOR—Her Steady Carfare, C., 1000..... 01142

Tuesday, January 25, 1916.

GOLD SEAL—Discontent, D., 2000..... 01143
IMP—Hired, Tired and Fired, C., 1000..... 01144

Wednesday, January 26, 1916.

VICTOR—Across the Line, D., 1000..... 01145
L-KO—Knocks and Opportunities, C., 2000..... 01146
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Weekly, No. 203, News, 1000..... 01147

Thursday, January 27, 1916.

LAEMMLE—The Red Lie, D., 3000..... 01148
POWERS—Sammie Johnsin, Hunter, Cart., and Fishing River Lampreys, Ed., Split Reel..... 01149

Friday, January 28, 1916.

LAEMMLE—The Inner Soul, D., 2000..... 01150
BIG U—Nan Good for Nothing, D., 1000..... 01151
NESTOR—Flivvers in the Dance of the Shivvers, C., 1000..... 01152

Saturday, January 29, 1916.

BISON—A Daughter of Pennance, D., 2000..... 01153
POWERS—Uncle Sam at Work, No. 6 ("Saving Wealth and Building Health"), Ed., 1000..... 01154
JOKER—Mrs. Green's Mistake, C., 1000..... 01155

Sunday, January 30, 1916.

REX—His Own Trap, D., 3000..... 01156
L-KO—Cupid at the Polo Game, C., 1000..... 01157

AUTHORIZED STUDIO DIRECTORY NUMBER

JANUARY 29TH ISSUE

This will contain a biography of every prominent actor and director in the industry.

From it every exhibitor will prepare his NEWSPAPER publicity each week. This has never been possible before.

It is a volume which will, from necessity, be always at hand. Its life will be perpetual.

MAILED AT 1 A. M. TUESDAY JANUARY 18, 1916

BE SURE TO GET YOUR COPY

Issued Semi-Annually

RELEASE DATES FOR READY REFERENCE

ASSOCIATED SERVICE

Week of December 27, 1915.

The Powers That Be, D., 2000....Santa Barbara
The Gift, D., 2000.....Ramona
Close Quarters, D., 2000.....Alhambra
Let There Be Light, D., 2000.....Empire
He Who Laughs Last, C., 1000.....Atla
Ike Flivvers with Ford, C., 1000.....Federal
Skating on Thin Ice, C., 1000.....Banner
A Peaceful Agitator, C., 1000.....Deer

Week of January 3, 1916.

The Thought, D., 2000.....Santa Barbara
The Missing Link, D., 2000.....Ramona
The Xmas Spirit of the Slums, D., 2000..Alhambra
The Master Rogue, D., 2000.....Empire
Out of the Pan Into the Fire, C., 1000.....Atla
Ike Meets the Gink of Denmark, C., 1000..Federal
Quitting by Request, C., 1000.....Banner
False Rumors, C., 1000.....Deer

GENERAL FILM PROGRAM

BIOGRAPH

1— 3. The Lesser Evil, D. (Reissue).....1000
1— 4. The Avenging Shot, D.....2000
1— 5. The Skating Rinks, C-D.....3000
1—10. In the Aisles of the Wild, D. (Re-issue).1000
1—12. The War of Wealth, D.....3000
1—17. The Miser's Heart, D., (Reissue)..1000
1—18. The Angel of Piety Flat, D.....2000
1—19. A Life Chase, D.....3000

ESSANAY

1— 1. Prisoner at the Bar, D.....3000
1— 4. Her Lesson, D.....2000
1— 5. Mile a Minute Monty, Cartoon and Scenic .....Split reel
1— 8. The House of Revelation, D.....3000
1—11. Angels Unawares, D.....2000
1—12. The Fable of the Two Philanthropic Sons, C. 1000
1—15. Pieces of the Game, D.....3000
1—18. The Book Agent's Romance, D.....2000
1—19. Cannimated Nooz Pictorial, No. 4, C..1000
1—22. The White Alley, D.....3000

KALEM

1— 1. At the Risk of Her Life (an Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000
1— 4. The Missing Mummy, C.....1000
1— 5. The Honor of the Road (Seventh of the "Stingaree" Series), D.....2000
1— 7. Crossed Clues (Eleventh of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
1— 8. When Seconds Count (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000
1—11. Guardian Angels, C.....1000
1—12. The Purification of Mulfera (Eighth of the "Stingaree" Series), D.....2000
1—14. The Tricksters (Twelfth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
1—15. The Haunted Station (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000
1—18. The Tale of a Coat, C.....1000
1—19. A Duel in the Desert (Ninth of the "Stingaree" Series) D.....2000
1—21. A Sealskin Coat (Thirteenth of the Ventures of Marguerite), D.....1000
1—22. The Open Track (An Episode of the H. of H. Series), D.....1000

UNIT PROGRAM—KALEM

1—10. The Black Crook, D......5000

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURES

12—31. The Mysterious Bride, D.....3000
1916.
1— 7. Paying the Toll, D.....3000
1—14. The Wood Nymph, D.....3000
1—21. Houses of Mystery, D.....3000

LUBIN

1— 1. A Ready Made Maid, C.....1000
1— 6. Vengeance of the Oppressed, D.....3000
1— 8. Billie's Headache, C.....1000
1—10. The Lost Bracelet, D.....1000
1—11. The Old Watchman, D.....2000
1—13. The Bond Within, D.....3000
1—15. A Skate for a Bride, C.....1000
1—17. The Little Sister of the Poor, D...1000
1—20. The Law's Injustice, D.....3000
1—22. Insomnia, C.....1000

UNIT PROGRAM—LUBIN

12—29. Soved from the Horem, D......4000
12—29. This Isn't the Life, C......1000
1916.
1— 5. Sorrows of Happiness, D......4000
1— 5. His Lordship, C......1000
1—12. The City of Failing Light, D......4000
1—12. A Bath Tub Mystery, C......1000

MINA

1— 6. Caught with the Goods, C.....1000
1—20. Title Not Reported, C.....

SELIG-TRIBUNE NEWS PICTORIAL

Issued every Monday and Thursday.

RELEASE DAYS

GENERAL FILM

Monday—Biograpb, Selig, Vitagraph, Vitagraph-Unit.
Tuesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Selig.
Wednesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Lubin-Unit.
Thursday—Essanay, Lubin, Mina.
Friday—Edison, Essanay, Kalem, Vim, Vitagraph.
Saturday—Essanay, Kalem, Lubin, Selig, Vitagraph.

MUTUAL FILM

Monday—American, Falstaff, Novelty.
Tuesday—Thanhouser, Gaumont (Cart. and Sc.), Beauty.
Wednesday—Reliance, Rialto, or Centaur, and Novelty.
Thursday—Centaur, Falstaff, Mutual Weekly.
Friday—Mustang, American, Cub.
Saturday—Clipper (Am.), Thanoplay, or Mustang, and Beauty.
Sunday—Reliance, Casino, Tbanbouser.

UNIVERSAL FILM

Monday—Broadway Universal Feature, Nestor.
Tuesday—Gold Seal, Rex, Imp.
Wednesday—Victor, L-Ko, Animated Weekly.
Thursday—Laemmle, Big U, Powers.
Friday—Imp, Victor, Nestor.
Saturday—Bison, Powers, Joker.
Sunday—Rex, Laemmle, L-Ko.

SELIG

1— 1. The Manicure Girl 1000
1— 3. The Buried Treasure of Cobre, D....3000
1— 8. Spooks (Seventh of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C.....2000
1—10. The Devil in Chief, D.....3000
1—15. No Sir-ee Bob (Eighth of the Chronicles of Bloom Center), C.....2000
1—17. Why Love is Blind.....
1—22. When the Circus Came to Town (Ninth of the Chronicles of Bloom Center) C.....2000

VIM

1— 7. This Way Out, C.....1000
1—14. Chickens, C. 1000
1—21. Frenzied Finance, C.....1000

VITAGRAPH

1— 1. The Wanderers, D.....3000
1— 3. The Little Trespasser, C-D.....1000
1— 7. His Wife Knew About It, C.....1000
1— 8. Tried for His Own Murder, D.....3000
1—10. When Linn Came Home, D.....1000
1—14. When Two Play a Game, C.....1000
1—15. By Love Redeemed, D.....3000
1—17. Them Was the Good Old Days, C..1000
1—21. A Telegraphic Tangle, C.....1000
1—22. The Secret Seven, D.....3000

UNIT PROGRAM—VITAGRAPH

12—27. The Making Over of Geoffrey Monning, D. 4000
12—27. The Fest Vamooser, C......1000
1— 3. Who Killed Joe Merrion? D......4000
1— 3. When Hooligan and Dooligan Ran for Moyor, C. 1000
1—10. The Surprises of an Empty Hotel, D..4000
1—10. A Cripple Creek Cinderella, C......1000

Hearst - Vitagraph News Pictorial
Issued Twice a Week
Tuesday and Thursday
Released through V. L. S. E., Inc.

MUTUAL FILM RELEASES

AMERICAN

12—17. In the Sunset Country, D.....2000
12—20. The Clean Up, D.....2000
12—24. Yes or No, D.....1000
12—27. The Tragic Circle, D.....2000
12—31. The Mender, D. 1000
1916.
1— 3. Matching Dreams, C-D.....2000
1— 7. Time and Tide, D.....1000
1—10. Viviana, D. 2000
1—14. The Secret Wire, D.....2000
1—14. Spider Barlow Meets Competition, D..1000
1—16. The Gamble, D.....2000
1—18. The Silent Trail, D.....2000
1—21. The Thunderbolt, D.....1000

BEAUTY

12—18. Two Hearts and a Thief, C.....1000
12—21. Making a Man of Johnnie, C.....1000
12—25. That Country Girl, Com.-D.....1000
12—28. Kiddus, Kids and Kiddo, C.....1000
1916.
1— 1. Settled Out of Court. C.....1000
1— 4. Billy Van Dusen's Shadow, C.....1000
1— 8. To Be or Not to Be, C.....1000
1—11. The First Quarrel, C.....1000
1—15. Getting in Wrong, C.....1000
1—19. Johnny's Birthday, C.....1000
1—23. Mischief and a Mirror, C.....1000

CASINO

12—19. Cissy's Innocent Wink, C.....1000
12—26. Hunting, C. 1000
1916.
1— 2. Leave It to Cissy, C.....1000
1— 9. Alias Mr. Jones, C.....1000
1—16. Ham and Eggs, C.....1000

CENTAUR

12—23. The Winning of Jess (Animal D.)...2000
12—30. The Terror of the Fold (Animal D.)..2000
1916.
1— 6. The Homesteader, D.....2000
1—13. Marta of the Jungles, D.....2000

CENTAUR STAR FEATURES

12—22. The Mystery of Carter Breene, D....3000

CLIPPER

12—11. Curly, D. 3000
1916.
1— 1. The Wrath of Haddin Towers, D....3000

CUB

12— 3. A Shot Gun Romance, C.....1000
12—10. Doctor Jerry. C.....1000
12—17. The Knockout, C. 1000
12—24. Hearts and Clubs, C.....1000
12—31. Jerry's Revenge, C.....1000
1916.
1— 7. Comedy (Title Not Reported).
1— 7. Jerry in the Movies, C.....1000
1—14. Jerry in Mexico, C.....1000
1—21. One Reel Comedy.....

FALSTAFF

12—16. Bill Bunks the Bandit, C.....1000
12—20. When William's Whiskers Worked, C.1000
12—23. Toodles, Tom and Trouble, C.....1000
12—27. Una's Useful Uncle, C.....1000
12—30. Foolish Fat Flora, C.....1000
1916.
1— 3. The Optimistic Oriental Occults, C...1000
1— 6. Hild's Husky Helper, C.....1000
1—10. Belinda's Bridal Breakfast, C.....1000
1—13. Reforming Rubbering Rosie, C.....1000
1—18. Grace's Gorgeous Gowns, C.....1000
1—20. Pete's Parisian Princess, C.....1000

GAUMONT

12—21. See America First, No. 15, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Car. Split reel
12—28. See America First, No. 16, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart. Split reel
1916.
1— 4. See America First, No. 17, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Jones, Cart. Split reel
1—11. See America First, No. 18, Sc., and Keeping Up with the Joneses, Cart. Split reel
1—23. See America First, No. 19, Sc., and Keeping Up With the Joneses. Cart .....Split reel

WAR!!!

STATE RIGHT BUYERS

"The Greatest Scoop of the War"

ON THE FIRING LINE WITH THE GERMANS

Showing:—

Storming Novo Georgeievsk!

Fall of Warsaw!

Great Seven Day Battle!

Battle Fields From Aeroplane!

Von Hindenberg's Great Drive!

The Kaiser at the Front!

Murderous Machine Gun Fire!

There are dozens of so-called war pictures, but only ONE authentic consisting of 8,500 feet of pulse quickening scenes taken from automobile and aeroplane at the front by daring American Press Photographer, who accompanied Von Hindenberg's army for 7 months.

WILBUR H. DURBOROUGH

10 weeks Chicago, auspices Daily News.
5 weeks St. Louis, auspices Times.
2 weeks Milwaukee, auspices Free Press.
2 weeks St. Paul, auspices Daily News.

AND

Now closing for other big Cities and Dailies. Playing to enormous receipts wherever shown.

The camera doesn't lie. Mr. Durborough is seen in at least 50% of the scenes on the film.

Showing:—

Smashing the Big Forts!

Zeppelin Raids on Warsaw!

Rain of Russian Shells!

Fierce Infantry Assaults!

Miles of Battling!

Terrific Trench Struggles!

Desperate Bayonet Charges!

"There are war pictures and war pictures, but the BLUE RIBBON goes to those taken by W. H. Durborough."—Dec. 10, 1915.

TRIBUNE ADMITS: KITTY KELLY, CHICAGO TRIBUNE

For terms Address War Film Syndicate 308 Mallers Building Chicago, Ill.

RELEASE DATES FOR READY REFERENCE

MUSTANG

12— 4. Film Tempo, C.-D.....3000
12—10. There's Good in the Worst of Us, D..2000
12—17. In the Sunset Country, D.....2000
12—24. The Pitch o' Chance, D.....2000
12—25. Author! Author! Com.-D.....3000
12—31. The Cactus Blossom, D.....2000
1916.
1— 7. The Hills of Glory, D.....2000
1—15. Water Stuff, C.-D.....3000
1—21. Wild Jim Reformer, D.....2000

MUTUAL WEEKLY

Issued every Thursday.

NOVELTY

12— 8. The Army and Navy Football Game, 1915 1000
12—13. The Book Agent, C.....1000
12—15. A Musical Mix-Up, C.....1000
12—20. The Fiddler 1000
12—22. The Innocent Sandwich Man, C., and Between Lakes and Mountains, Sc. Split reel
1—21. Italy's War Equipment, Ed.....1000

RELIANCE

12— 8. Her Mother's Daughter, D.....3000
12—12. The Wayward Son, D.....2000
12—19. The Bankhurst Mystery, D.....2000
12—26. The Law of Success.....2000
1916.
1— 1. The Law of Success, D.....2000
1— 5. The She Devil, D.....3000

RIALTO

12— 1. Lesons in Love, C.....3000
12—15. The Ace of Death, D.....3000
12—29. A Prince of Yesterday, D.....3000
1916.
1—12. The Secret Agent, D.....3000

THANHOUSER

12—12. Her Confession, D.....1000
12—14. An Innocent Traitor, D.....2000
12—19. The Necklace of Pearls, D.....1000
12—21. Ambition, D. 3000
12—28. The Last Performance, D.....3000
1916.
1— 4. The Bubbles in the Glass, D.....3000
1— 8. The Woman in Politics, D.....1000
1—11. The Name of the Law, D.....3000
1—19. The Phantom Witness, D.....3000

THANOPLAY

11— 6. Mr. Meeson's Will, D.....3000
11—27. The Valkyrie, D.....3000
12—18. His Majesty the King, Com.-D.....3000

VOGUE

12—27. Sammy's Scandalous Schemes, C....2000
1916.
1— 4. An Innocent Crook, C.....2000
1—20. One Reel Comedy.....
1—23. One Reel Comedy.....

For
MASTER PICTURES—De Luxe Edition
See Feature Release Page

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC.

The Pathé News—Issued Twice Every Week.

Week of January 3, 1916.

New Adventures of Wallingford, No. 14, Com.-D., 2000 .....Pathé
Old Unchanging Holland, Col. Sc., and Quaint Dances of Japan, Dances, Split Reel .....Photocolor-Globe
Luke Leans to the Literary, C., 1000..Phunphilms
The Red Circle, No. 4, D., 2000.....Balboa
Ach! Such Crimes! C., 1000.....Starlight
The King's Game, Com.-D., 5000.....G. R. Plays

Week of January 10, 1916.

From Kabylis to Constantine, Col. Sc., and Unfamiliar Fishes, Ed., Split reel. Photocolor-Globe
Luke Lugs Luggage, C., 1000.....Phunphilms
Madame X, D., 6000.....G. R. Plays
The Red Circle, No. 5, D., 2000.....Balboa
From Bad to Worse, C., 1000.....Starlight

Week of January 17, 1916.

Railroad Construction on the Dark Continent, Ed., and Lizards, Ed., Split reel...Globe
Luke Rolls in Luxury, C., 1000.....Phunphilms
The Red Circle, No. 6.....Balboa
The Love Trail, D., 5000.....G. R. Plays
Riding the Goat, C., 1000.....King Cole

Week of January 24, 1916.

The Horrors of War, Topical, 3000.....Pathé
Head-dresses of Holland—Colored, and the Ausable Chasm—Picturesque America, split reel .....Photocolor-Globe
Hazel Kirke, D., 5000.....G. R. Plays
The Red Circle, No. 7 (The Third Degree), D., 2000.....Balboa
Shooting at Random, C., 1000.....Starlight

UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

ANIMATED WEEKLY

Issued every Wednesday.

BIG U

12— 9. The Sacrifice of J. Jonathan Gray, D..3000
12—16. Col. Steele, Master Gambler, Com.-D..1000
12—30. Babbling Tongues, D.....1000
1916.
1— 2. The Honor to Die, D.....3000
1—13. "X 3," D. 3000

BISON

12— 4. The Connecting Link, West.-D.....2000
12—11. The Lion's Ward, Animal D.....3000
12—18. His Real Character, W.-D.....2000
12—25. When Rogues Fall Out, D.....3000
1916.
1— 1. The Dawn Road, D.....2000
1— 8. On the Trail of the Tigress, D.....2000
1—15. Across the Rio Grande, D.....3000
1—22. Buck Simons Puncher, D.....2000

BROADWAY UNIVERSAL FEATURES

12— 6. The White Scar, D.....5000
12—13. The Primrose Path, D.....5000
12—20. "Father and the Boys," Com.-D.....5000
12—27. The Nature Man or a Struggle for Existence, D. 5000
1916.
1— 3. Landon's Legacy, D.....5000
1—10. Love's Pilgrimage to America, D.....5000
1—17. The Man Inside, D.....5000

GOLD SEAL

12— 7. Idols of Clay, D.....3000
12—14. Lord John in New York (Adventure No. 1 of Lord John's Journal), D..4000
12—21. "Christmas Memories," D. 3000
12—28. As the Shadows Fall, D.....2000
1916.
1— 4. The Gray Sisterhood (Advent. No. 2 of Lord John's Journal), D.....3000
1—11. The Boob's Victory, C.-D.....2000
1—18. The Reward of Chivalry, D.....3000

IMP

12— 7. Slim, Fat or Medium, C.....1000
12—10. The Little Lady Across the Way, Com.-D. 2000
12—14. Almost a Papa, C.....1000
12—17. The Vacuum Test, D.....1000
12—21. When Love Laughs, C.....1000
12—31. A Tribute to oMther, D.....2000
1916.
1— 7. The Law of Life, D.....3000
1—21. Vanity, Thy Name Is———, C. D....2000

JOKER

12— 4. Mrs. Prune's Boarding House, C....1000
12—11. Slightly Mistaken, C.....1000
12—18. The Opera Singer's Romance, C.....1000
1916.
1— 1. Lemonade Aids Cupid, C.....1000
1— 8. Those Female Haters, C.....1000
1—22. The Whole Jungle Was After Him, C.1000

LAEMMLE

12— 2. Gilded Youth, D.....3000
12— 3. The Devil and Idle Hands, D.....1000
12— 5. Does It End Right? D.....1000
12—16. The Bride of Nancy Lee, D.....2000
12—18. The Water Clue, D.....1000
12—22. The Great Fear, D.....1000
12—23. One Hundred Years Ago, D.....2000
12—28. The Evil of Suspicion, D.....1000
12—30. The Little Upstart, D.....3000
1916.
1— 5. The Underworld, C.-D.....1000
1— 6. Missy, D. 2000
1— 9. Blind Fury, D. 1000
1—20. Just Plain Folks, D.....3000
1—23. Her Dream Man, D.....1000

L-KO

12— 1. Lizzie's Watery Grave, C.....1000
12— 5. A Saphead's Revenge, C.....1000
12— 8. Sin on the Sabbath, C.....2000
12—12. Lizzie's Shattered Dreams, C.....1000
12—15. Blackmail in a Hospital, C.....1000
12—19. The Doomed Groom, C.....1000
12—22. From Beanery to Billions, C.....2000
12—26. Greed and Gasoline, C.....1000
12—29. A Scandal at Sea, C.....1000
1916.
1— 2. Pants and Petticoats, C.....1000
1— 9. Billie's Reformation, C.....2000
1—12. Gertie's Busy Day, C.....1000
1—16. Flirting a la Carte, C.....1000
1—19. Saving Susie from the Sea, C.....1000
1—23. Mr. Idiot's Assassination, C.....2000

NESTOR

12— 6. Their Quiet Honeymoon, C.....1000
12—10. Keeping It Dark, C.....1000
12—13. Her Speedy Affair, C.....1000
12—17. Where the Heather Blooms, C.....2000
12—20. Love and a Savage, C.....1000
12—25. When Three Is a Crowd.....1000
12—27. Some Chaperone, C.....1000
12—31. Flivver's Terrible Past, C.....1000
1916.
1— 3. Jed's Trip to the Fair, C.....1000
1— 7. Flivver's Art of Mystery, C.....1000
1—10. The Boy, the Girl, and the Auto, C...1000
1—14. Flivver's Good Turn, C.....1000
1—17. Mingling Spirits, C.....1000
1—21. Flivver's Famous Cheese Hound, C..1000

POWERS

12— 9. The Frolic of the Marionettes, and Nature's Monstrosities, Vaud. and Ed. .....Split reel
12—23. Howard's Monarchs of the American Forest, Vaud., and Wild Bird Life, Ed. .....Split reel
12—25. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 1.....1000
1916.
1— 1. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 2 ("How Uncle Sam Gets His Coin").....1000
1— 6. Physical Culture, Lesson No. 1, Ed., and Carl Emmy and His Dogs, Vaud. Split reel
1— 8. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 3 ("Are We Prepared?") 1000
1—13. The Rubber Rompers, Vaud., and Transporting Timber in Sweden, Ed..Split reel
1—15. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 4 (Uncle Sam's Proteges at Work and at Play).1000
1—20. Physical Culture Lesson, No. 2, and the Ariel Buds, Vaud. Act..Split reel
1—22. Uncle Sam at Work, No. 5 (Protecting the Ships at Sea), Ed.....1000

REX

12— 5. Under a Shadow, D.....2000
12—10. The Power of Fascination, D.....1000
12—12. Juror Number Seven, D.....2000
12—19. The Bachelor's Christmas, D.....3000
12—24. The Terrible Truth, D.....1000
12—26. Stronger than Death, D.....2000
1916.
1— 4. Shattered Nerves, C.....1000
1—11. His Return, D.....1000
1—14. Her Defiance, D.....2000
1—16. The Little Mascot, D.....2000
1—18. The Silent Member, D.....1000

VICTOR

12— 1. He Was Only a Bathing Suit Salesman, C. 3000
12— 8. The Awakening of Patsy, D.....1000
12—15. The Widow's Secret, D.....2000
12—24. "The Tale of the C," Com.-D.....3000
12—29. Father's Child, C.....3000
1916.
1— 5. The Heart of a Mermaid, D.....3000
1—12. Man and Morality, D.....3000
1—14. The Ring and the Rajah, D.....1000
1—19. Her Better Self, D.....2000
1—21. A Sea Mystery, D.....1000

Here At Last

Bud Fisher's

"Mutt and Jeff"

The most widely advertised comic feature in the world

Laughed at daily by 17,000,000 people through the medium of 200 newspapers has been secured for the patrons of the movies. You see them in the papers now see them come to life.

At Last

300 feet animated cartoon each week under the personal direction of Bud Fisher the highest priced comic artist in the world.

For State Rights

Wire

Mutt and Jeff, Inc.

207 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago

FEATURE RELEASES—CURRENT AND COMING

FOX FILM CORPORATION

12— 5. The Unfaithful Wife.....5 reels
12—12. Her Mother's Secret.....5 reels
12—19. A Soldier's Oath .....5 reels
12—26. Destruction .....5 reels
1916.
1— 2. Green-Eyed Monster .....5 reels
1— 9. A Parisian Romance .....5 reels
1—16. The Fourth Estate.....5 reels
1—23. The Serpent .....5 reels
1—30. The Ruling Passion.....5 reels

KLEINE-EDISON FEATURE SERVICE

EDISON
12—8. The Destroying Angel.....5 reels
1916.
1—12. The Catspaw .....5 reels
1—26. The Innocence of Ruth.....5 reels

GEO. KLEINE
12— 1. Canavan .....5 reels
12—15. Bondwomen .....5 reels
1916.
1— 5. The Devil's Prayer Book.....5 reels
1—19. Wild Oats .....5 reels

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORPORATION
1—10. The Turmoil (Valli Valli and Geo. Le Guere) .....5 reels
1—24. Her Debt of Honor (Valli Valli)...5 reels
2—14. Dimples (Mary Miles Minter).....5 reels

POPULAR PLAYS & PLAYERS
1— 3. What Will People Say? (Olga Petrova) .....5 reels
2—28. The Lure of Heart's Desire (Edmund Breese) .....5 reels

B. A. ROLFE PHOTOPLAYS, INC.
12—13. The House of Tears (Emily Stevens) .....5 reels
12—27. Black Fear (Grace Elliston).....5 reels
1916.
1—17. A Rose of the Alley (Mary Miles Minter) .....5 reels
2— 7. The Upstart (Marguerite Snow)....5 reels

QUALITY PICTURES
12—20. Rosemary (Marguerite Snow).....5 reels
1916.
1—31. Man and His Soul (Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne).....5 reels
2—21. The Bribe (Francis X. Bushman)..5 reels

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES

51. The Mill on the Floss (Thanhouser)...5 reels
52. The Painted Soul (Mutual).....5 reels
53. The Deathlock .....5 reels
54. The Other Side of the Door (American).5 reels
55. The Woman in Politics (Thanhouser)...5 reels

1916. DE LUXE EDITION
1—17. The Thoroughhred (William Russell and Charlotte Burton), Am., D...5 reels
1—20. The Five Faults of Flo (Florence La Badie), Than., D.....5 reels
1—22. The Bait (William Clifford, Margaret Gibson, Bostock Animals), D., Cen..5 reels
1—24. As a Woman Sows (Gertrude Robinson), D., Gaumt.....5 reels
1—27. Lord Loveland Discovers American (Arthur Maude), D., Am.....5 reels
1—29. Betrayed (Grace De Carleton), D., Than. .....5 reels

PARAMOUNT PICTURES

FAMOUS PLAYERS
12—27. Lydia Gilmore .....5 reels
1916.
1— 3. The Foundling .....5 reels
1—10. Mice and Men .....5 reels
1—17. My Lady Incog, Com.-D.....5 reels
1—20. Nearly a King, C.....5 reels
1—27. The Spider, D.....5 reels

JESSE LASKY COMPANY
12— 2. Mr. Grex of Monte Carlo.....5 reels
12— 9. The Unknown .....5 reels
12—13. The Cheat .....5 reels
12—20. The Immigrant .....5 reels
12—30. Temptation, D. .....5 reels
1916.
1—13. The Golden Chance, Com.-D.....5 reels
1—31. Pudd'nhead Wilson, Com.-D.....5 reels

MOROSCO PHOTOPLAY COMPANY
12— 6. "Jane' .....5 reels
1916.
1— 6. Tongues of Men, D.....5 reels

PALLAS
12—16. The Reform Candidate.....5 reels
1916.
1—24. The Call of the Cumberlands, D..5 reels

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION

KAY-BEE-INCE PRODUCTIONS
12—26. The Edge of the Abyss (Mary Boland, Frank Mills, Willard Mack).5 reels 1916.
1— 2. Between Men (W. S. Hart).....5 reels
1— 9. The Corner (Willard Mack-Geo. Fawcett) .....5 reels
1—16. The Beckoning Flame (Henry Wood-ruff) .....5 reels

FINE ARTS-GRIFFITH PRODUCTIONS
12—26. The Penitentes (Orrin Johnson)....5 reels
1916.
1— 2. Cross Currents (Helen Ware).....5 reels
1— 9. Let Katy Do It (Jane Grey and Tully Marshall) .....5 reels
1—16. The Missing Links (Norma Talmadge, Robert Harron) .....5 reels

KEYSTONE-SENNETT PRODUCTIONS
12—26. A Submarine Pirate (Sid Chaplin)..4 reels
12—26. The Hunt (Ford Sterling).....2 reels
1916.
1— 2. Dizzy Heights and Daring Hearts..2 reels
1— 2. Worst of Friends (Weber & Fields).2 reels
1— 9. The Great Pearl Tangle (Sam Bernard) .....2 reels
1—16. Because He Loved Her.....2 reels
1—16. A Modern Enoch Arden.....2 reels

VITAGRAPH-LUBIN-SELIG-ESSANAY, INC.

—Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial—
Issued every Tuesday and Friday.

VITAGRAPH
12—13. The Price for Folly.....5 parts
12—27. What Happened to Father.....5 parts
1916.
1— 3. Thou Art the Man.....6 parts
1—10. My Lady's Slipper.....5 parts
1—17. Green Stockings .....5 parts
1—24. The Island of Surprise.....5 parts
1—31. Kennedy Square .....5 parts

LUBIN
12— 6. The Man's Making .....5 parts
12—20. The Great Divide.....5 parts
1916.
1—17. Gods of Fate.....5 parts
1—20. The Wonderful Wager.....2 parts

SELIG
12—13. I'm Glad My Boy Grew Up to Be a Soldier .....5 parts
1916.
1—10. No Greater Love .....5 parts

ESSANAY
12— 6. The Alster Case.....5 parts
12—20. A Daughter of the City.....5 parts
1916.
1—17. Captain Jinks .....5 parts
1—31. Submarines of Society.....5 parts

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

BRADY
12—20. Over Night .....5 reels
12—27. The Rack .....5 reels
1916.
1—10. Life's Whirlpool .....5 reels
1—24. The Ballet Girl.....5 reels
1—31. Fruits of Desire.....5 reels

EQUITABLE
12—20. Sealed Lips .....5 reels
12—27. The Senator .....5 reels
1916.
1— 3. The Dragon .....5 reels
1—10. Her Great Hour.....5 reels
1—17. The Ransom .....5 reels
1—24. Babette of the Bally Hoo.....5 reels
1—31. The Clarion .....5 reels

SHUBERT
12—13. The Siren's Song.....5 reels
1916.
1— 3. Camille .....5 reels
1—17. The City .....5 reels

FEATURES FOR STATE RIGHTS

ALL FEATURES BOOKING AGENCY
Right Off the Bat.....5 reels

CONTINENTAL PHOTOPLAY CORPORATION
Sept.—A Continental Girl.....5 reels

CORT FILM CORPORATION
The Melting Pot.....5 reels
The Whirl of Life (The Castles)....6 parts

COSMOFOTOFILM COMPANY
Incomparable Mistress Bellairs.....4 parts
Liberty Hall .....3 parts
The Black Spot.....4 reels
Victoria Cross .....4 reels
O-18 .....4 reels

DRA-KO FILM COMPANY, INC.
Aug.—York State Folks.....5 reels

GREAT NORTHERN FILM COMPANY
Sins of Great Cities (Ehba Thomsen).4 reels
The Man with the Missing Finger (Alfred Hertel) .....4 reels
For Her Son (Betty Nansen).....4 reels
A Woman's Honor (Elsie Frolich)....4 reels
The Doctor's Secret (Betty Nansen)..4 reels
A Woman's Conquest (Elsie Frolich).4 reels

HANOVER FILMS
Dec.—Marvellous Maciste .....6 parts

ITALA FILM COMPANY
Cabiria .....
Treasure of the Louzats.....4 parts
Jules Porel—Serpent .....3 parts

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS, INC.
Aug.—A Mother's Confession.....5 reels
Nov.—The Concealed Truth .....5 reels
Jan.—Forbidden Fruit .....5 reels
Feb.—A Fool's Paradise.....5 reels

LIBERTY MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
Sept.—An American Gentleman.....5 reels
Oct.—For $5,000 a Year.....5 reels
Oct.—The Struggle .....5 reels

LINICK AND MELCHIOR.
Was She to Blame? (Elm Features)..5 parts

F. O. NIELSEN
Guarding Old Glory .....5 reels
Just Out of College .....5 reels
Thorns of Passion .....4 reels
Little Sunset .....4 reels
The Spoilers .....9 reels
All for a Girl .....5 reels

OCEAN FILM CORPORATION
Nov.—Life Without a Soul.....5 parts

PHOTODRAMA COMPANY
How Molly Made Good.....6 reels

PROHIBITION FILM CORPORATION
Prohibition .....5 parts

RAVER FILM CO.
The Other Girl.....5 reels

REELPLAYS CORPORATION
The Cowpuncher .....8 reels

STANDARD NEWSFILM, INC.
Are We Ready? .....4 reels

STERLING CAMERA & FILM CO.
Land o' the Lost.....5 reels
The Game of Three.....5 reels

SUN PHOTOPLAY CO., Inc.
The Princess of India.....5 reels

SUPREME FILM CO.
The Cowpuncher .....6 parts

WORLD SERIES FILM CO.
1915 World's Championship Series.
(Boston Am. vs. Phila. N.).....3 or 5 reels

How do you book your pictures?

WE do not know how you feel about our reviews of pictures; but we do feel inclined to tell you some facts about them.

In the first place, we realize that a clear and impartial review of every picture is one of the most important services we can give you. It is only natural, therefore, that we do our best in the matter. That is plain business sense.

* * *

THREE staff men give all their time to this work—and often other staff men help out.

We hold weekly editorial conferences to sharpen up their efforts. These reviewers are the very best men we can get hold of for this particular work.

This reviewing service alone, if it were not included in a large magazine like MOTION PICTURE NEWS, would have to cost you considerable money.

Perhaps you think, because MOTION PICTURE NEWS carries manufacturer advertising, that this influences our reviews. If so, you are dead wrong. If you can prove this to us in any instance we'll admit it in cold type.

* * *

WE sell circulation to the manufacturer, not reviews. If we did not keep our reviews wholly unbiased, we would lose circulation; and the manufacturer knows this. Otherwise he pays out advertising money to get nowhere.

He knows that the exhibitor must have honest reviews. If the exhibitor doesn't get them from us he'll get them elsewhere; and the manufacturer prefers to have his pictures reviewed by recognized experts working for a substantial business institution whose good reputation is its best business asset and cannot be risked.

* * *

WE do not claim that our review service is the only one to take. That would be too much in our interests and too little in yours. The booking of your pictures is too important.

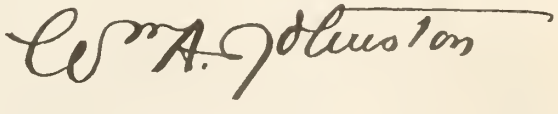
You need every help you can afford to pay for. So we suggest that you read reviews from other sources—provided only these sources are reputable and efficient. Comparative reviews will help you.

* * *

WE only ask this: that, since our interests are the same in the matter, you help us help you. You can do this by writing us a letter.

Criticize our reviews freely. Tell us how they can be improved. Write us whenever any one review, in your estimation, fails to hit the mark.

And if you've got the time, write us right now.



Triangle Plays Are Lobby Crushers

Every exhibitor today is in business for the profit to be made. This profit is dependent on the revenue which is pushed through the Box Office Window, and the live wire is signing contracts for the motion pictures that create the most business for him and therefore the most profit.

The number of TRIANGLE contracts which are being received every week is evidence that exhibitors believe TRIANGLE PLAYS will help solve their problems.

Detroit, Michigan,
December 29th, 1915.

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION,
701 Sincere Building,
Cleveland, Ohio.

We opened Duplex Theatre at ten and fifteen cents. After second week placed TRIANGLE PROGRAM in our house at 25c. and 50c., and our attendance has doubled. Played to over 5000 paid admissions Sunday. TRIANGLE PLAYS make our patrons walking advertisements.

H. M. Payne, General Manager.

This and many other letters and telegrams of the same kind are PROOF that TRIANGLE PLAYS are helping exhibitors increase their box office revenue and their profits. In many cases where a well-managed house has been a continued success the exhibiting of TRIANGLE PLAYS has made it possible to increase both the number of patrons and the admission prices—which automatically increases net profits.

IF YOU HAVE NOT SIGNED YOUR TRIANGLE CONTRACT, BETTER WIRE FOR PARTICULARS.

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION
71 WEST 23rd ST. NEW YORK

Triangle Releases for Week of January 16th

First, there is "The Beckoning Flame," featuring Henry Woodruff and Tsuru Aoki in a thrilling East Indian story that holds with unabated interest the constant attention of your patrons. It's a "somewhat different" picture that commands continued consideration and automatically creates unsolicited recommendations and statements of approval. This sensational picture will win the instant approbation of everyone who witnesses it.

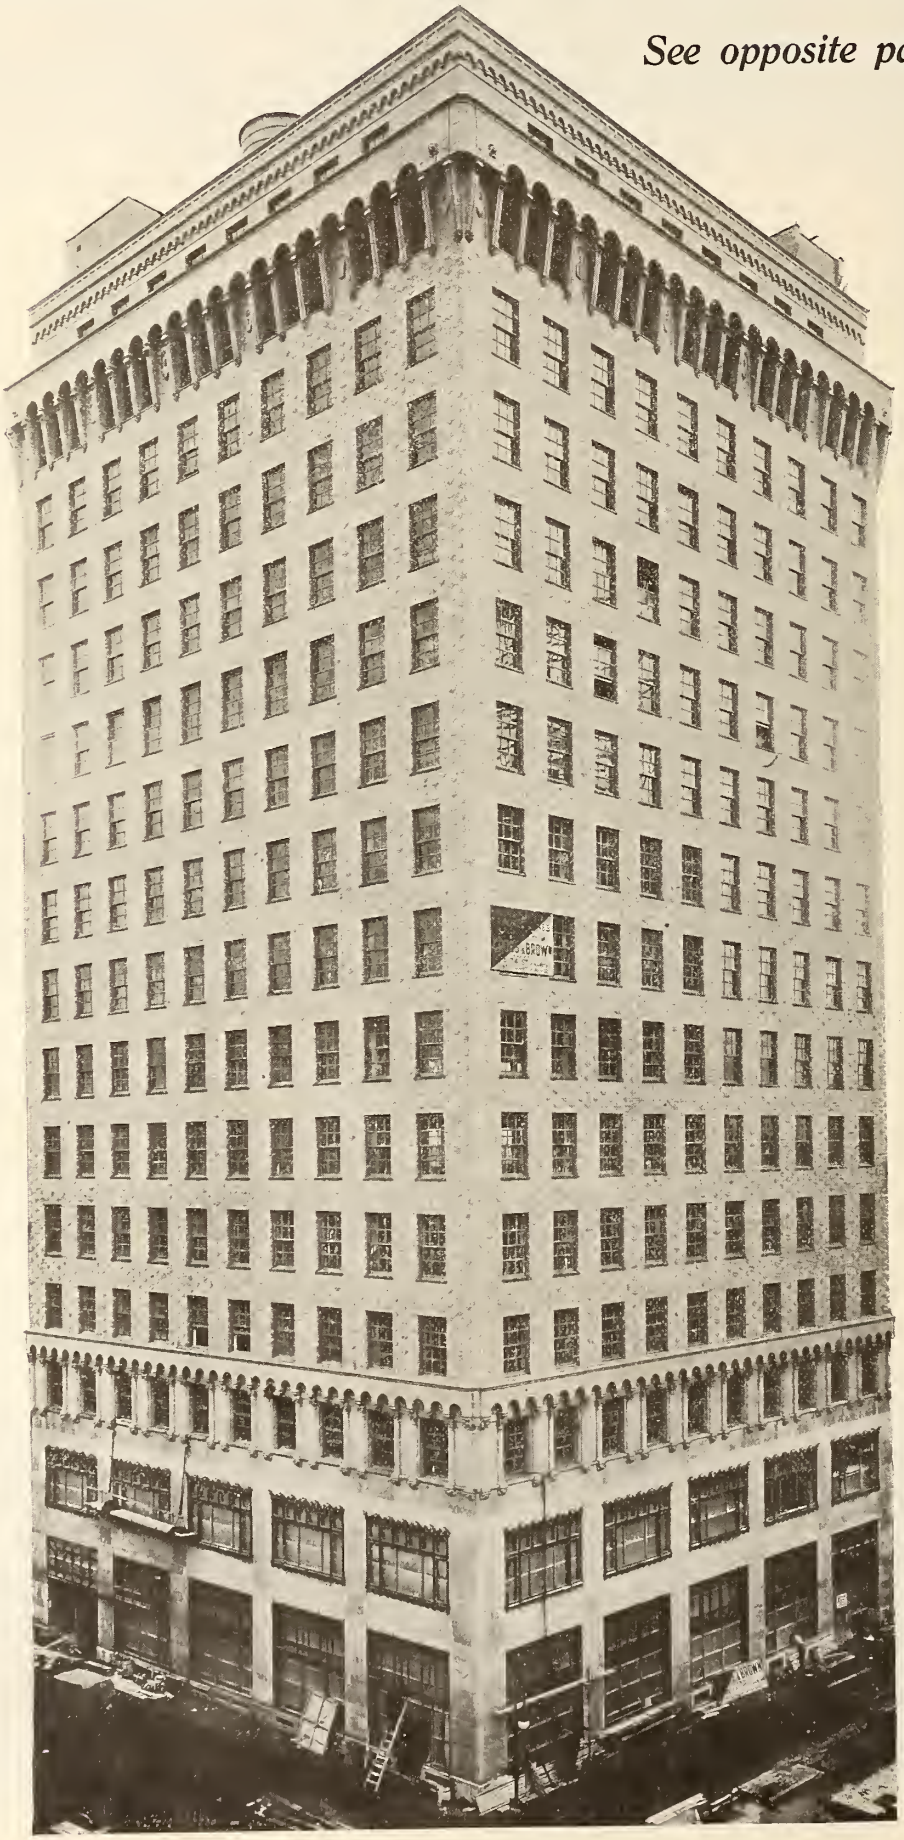
Then Robert Harron appears with Norma Talmadge in her first TRIANGLE PLAY, "The Missing Links," a vivid and dramatic picture that vibrates with tense interest in the solution of an appalling murder mystery. The gripping theme compels undivided attention and the final happy ending will be the sign for spontaneous applause and enthusiasm on the part of your patrons.

For comedy the two Keystones this week will present at their best two Broadway stars famous as laughmakers. Sam Bernard will repeat his success of last week in a ten-laughs-a-minute comedy entitled "Because He Loved Her," and Joe Jackson probably the best known tramp on the stage will make the most serious laugh in his picture "The Modern Enoch Arden."

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION
71 WEST 23rd ST. NEW YORK

Possession February First

See opposite page



A Building For the Film Trade

at

S. E. Cor. 7th Ave. and 49th St.

Especially Constructed for

Executive Offices
Exchange and Projection Purposes

Cross & Brown Co.
Agent

18 East 41st Street
New York

Telephone: 4000 Murray Hill

KLEINE-EDISON

"The Catspaw"
"The Destroying Angel"
"Children of Eve"
"The Magic Skin"
"Vanity Fair"

Something to be proud of - Edison ites
"Some" Features to profit - by - you can

Released Through the Kleine-Edison Feature Service

George Kleine, 805 East 175th Street, New York

New York	Atlanta	Seattle	Kansas City	Chicago	Cincinnati
Pittsburg	Minneapolis	San Francisco	Dallas	Philadelphia	Toronto
Denver	Boston	Los Angeles	New Orleans	Montreal

KLEINE-EDISON

The Selig Tribune

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWS FILM

No. 1 A REEL NEWSPAPER 1916

WILSON'S ADVISER SAILS!

New York, N. Y.—Colonel E. M. House, confidential adviser to President Wilson, leaves for Europe to confer with U. S. Diplomats. Captain Boy-Ed, recalled by the German Government, and Brand Whitlock, U. S. Minister to Belgium, are passengers aboard same ship.

SENATE PAGES DINE WITH VICE PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C.—Pages of U. S. Senate enjoy bountiful Christmas dinner with Vice President Marshall.

GEORGIA WOMEN WEAR OVERALLS

Savannah, Ga.—Georgia women have adopted overalls for house work.

TEST NEW WAR PLANE IN ARMY

Readville, Mass.—U. S. Army experts test new war plane the first to carry two gun turrets.

NAVY HOLIDAY SPIRIT

Boston, Mass.—Blue Jackets on battleship Nebraska are hosts to poor children.

DANIELS SAYS DREADNAUGHTS REACH LIMIT

Washington, D. C.—Secretary Daniels says Panama Canal causes battleships to reach limit in size.

WAR MUNITION PLANTS ACTIVE

Aetna, Ind.—War munition manufacturing companies are guarded owing to disturbances

KEWPIE, BABY ELEPHANT, TAKES BREAKFAST

Selig Tribune Feature Picture—Kewpie, baby elephant at Selig Zoo, gets his breakfast.

HARVARD FRESHIES ACTIVE

Boston, Mass.—Harvard Freshmen get in form for hockey games.

PRETTY DAMSELS SWIM IN ICY WATER

Chicago, Ill.—Pretty girls take usual plunge in Lake Michigan on Christmas morning.

GERMAN TROOPS BRAVE WINTER

Vilkomir, Russia—German reserve forces dig themselves in for a Russian winter.

HOUSES RAZED BY A COASTER

Revere Beach, Mass.—A roller coaster wrecked by a gale destroys two houses and injures people.

NEW SOUTHERN GATEWAY

Memphis, Tenn. — $8,000,000 bridge opening Southern gateway, nearing completion.

Reproduction of the Poster That Drew the Business !

How can an advertiser continue advertising? By giving YOU value.

FLIRTING WITH DEATH

The exhibitor who accepts
A given program
From any exchange
Without first seeing it projected
Is flirting with Financial death.

—o—

We insist that every exhibitor
See all Vitagraph productions
On the screen.

—o—

Eventually this will force
Every other manufacturer
To adopt the open market
Which means
That they must
Bring every production
Up to Vitagraph standard.

REGULAR RELEASES

"THEM WAS THE GOOD OLD DAYS"
Comedy—Monday, January 17th
Featuring John T. Kelly, Kate Price and Harry Fisher

"A TELEGRAPHIC TANGLE"
Comedy—Friday, January 21st
Featuring Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES

"THE SECRET SEVEN"
Three part drama—Saturday, January 22nd

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE

Featuring Carolyn Birch, William Humphrey, Leo Delaney, Templer Saxe, Rose Tapley and Harry Northrup

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

¶ The screen interpretation of the original Broadway success
GREEN STOCKINGS opens up a new avenue of production.

This chic comedy
in which
Lillian Walker is featured is devoid of slapstick or the risque.
It depends entirely upon its humorous situations to carry it on to success.

¶ The ovation given
GREEN STOCKINGS
at the Vitagraph Theatre admirably proves our contention that this comedy is
New Original Unique.
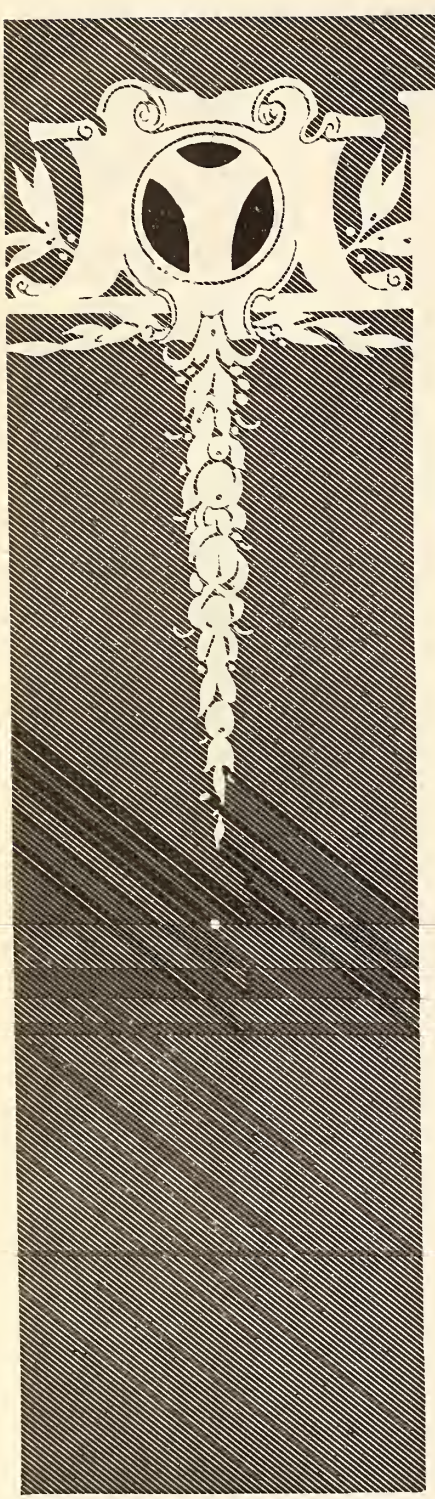
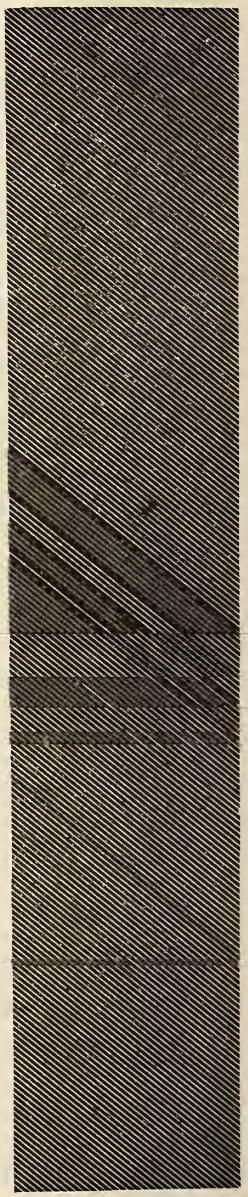
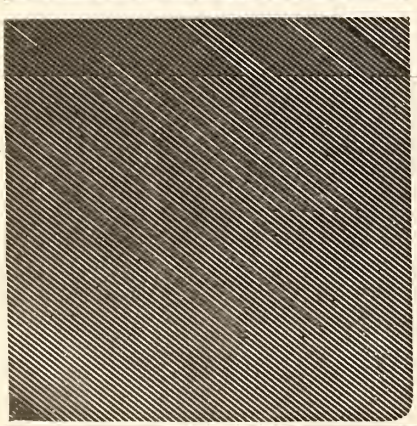
Produced by Wilfrid North
Released January tenth

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

¶For January 17th
The Blue Ribbon Feature
Will be
MY LADY'S SLIPPER
Written by
CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY
Directed by
RALPH INCE
Featuring
ANITA STEWART
and
EARLE WILLIAMS.
¶Produced by
VITAGRAPH
What more could be said?







The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

The name HEARST
Stands for Publicity—
Advertising
And efficient
News service

—o—

The name VITAGRAPH
Stands for Quality—
Gigantic production and Speed in service

—o—

The combination
HEARST-VITAGRAPH
Means a news pictorial
Of the highest class
Backed by Advertising
Of a gigantic
Magnitude

—o—

Hearst-Vitagraph
Will eventually be
The only news reel
In the field
If the term
"News reel"
Is accepted
At its face value

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO LONDON · PARIS

LUBIN

FIVE REEL UNIT
RELEASED JAN. 24TH 1916

GLADYS HANSON
IN "THE EVANGELIST"

DAVE DON COMEDY
"FOOLING UNCLE"

:ALSO:

JAN. 19TH
"THE LITTLE SISTER OF THE POOR"
ONE ACT DRAMA

JAN. 20TH
"THE LAW'S INJUSTICE"
3 ACT DRAMA

JAN. 22ND
BILLIE REEVES COMEDY
"INSOMNIA"
ONE ACT

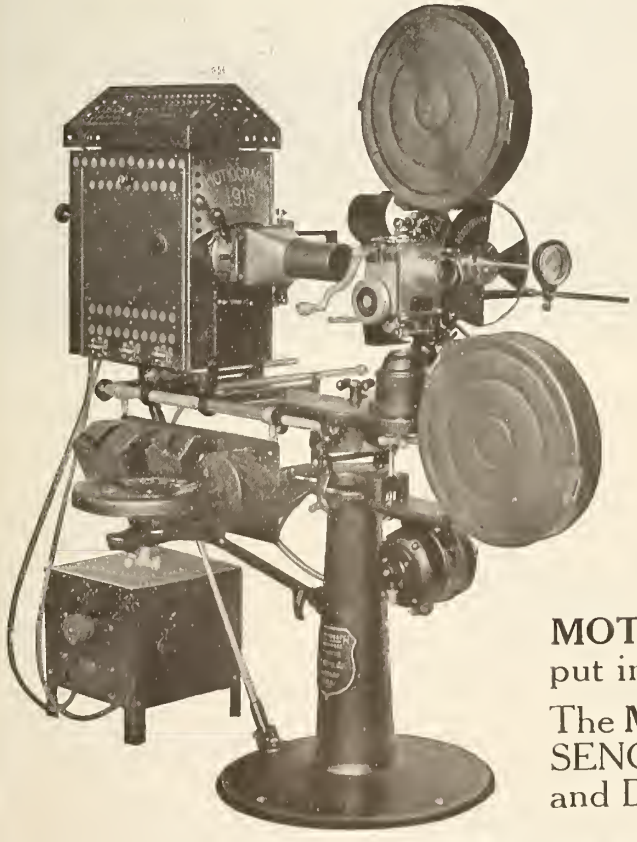
GENERAL FILM
LUBIN
RELEASES

Accessory News

SECTION OF MOTION PICTURE NEWS DEVOTED TO THE
CONSTRUCTION, EQUIPMENT AND OPERATION OF THEATRE, EXCHANGE AND STUDIO

Big Increase In Motiograph Sales

WHY?



MOST MEN WHO APPRECIATE QUALITY AND PERFECT PROJECTION SELECT A 1916 MODEL MOTIOGRAPH.

Nothing that we have said about Motiograph projectors has had as much influence on MOTIOGRAPH sales as the things which MOTIOGRAPH owners say about them every day. There are thousands of exhibitors in this country from whom you will hear higher praise of MOTIOGRAPHS than we would ever put in this advertisement.

The MOTIOGRAPH represents the ESSENCE of SIMPLICITY, STRENGTH and DURABILITY.

Write for Literature

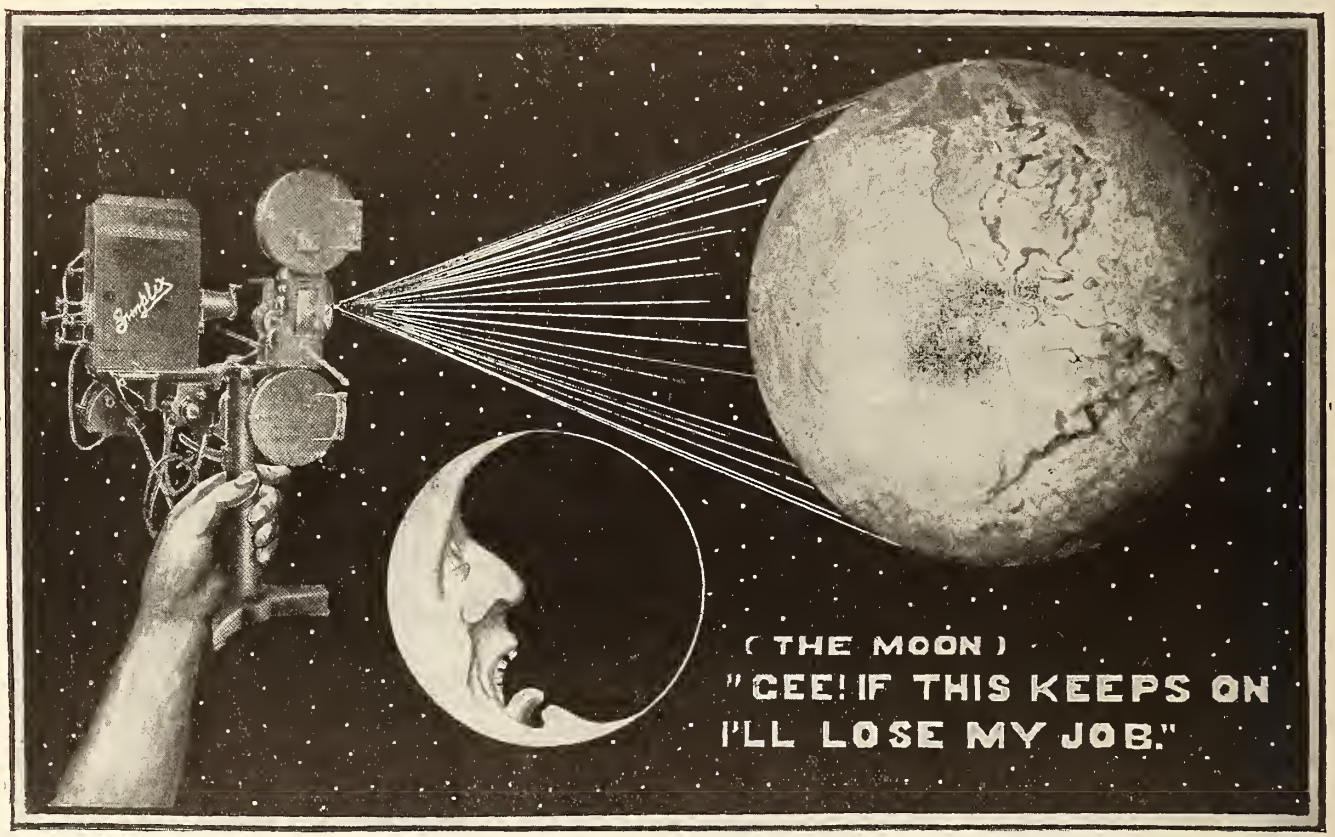
THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO., 568 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

Eastern Office
19 West 23rd St., NEW YORK CITY

Western Office
833 MARKET ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Simplex

THE PROJECTOR WHICH
ENLIGHTENS and BRIGHTENS
EVERY QUARTER of the GLOBE



Simplex

Projectors are used in China, Canal Zone, Philippine Islands, Hawaiian Islands, and the Army Posts all over the United States.

ALL GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS are now demanding

Simplex

The PROJECTOR that received the UNANIMOUS APPROVAL of the U. S. GOVERNMENT WAR DEPARTMENT

and

GRAND PRIZE—PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

Send for Catalog "N"

MADE AND GUARANTEED BY

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.

317 East 34th St. New York

Construction, Equipment and Operation

Accessory News

Section of Motion Picture News

Everything for Theatre, Exchange and Studio

Motion Picture Projection Simplified

By J. H. Hallberg

48—If the upper and the lower crater on the carbon points of an A. C. arc give approximately the same illumination, why not use both of them at the same time for projection?

Ans.—You have been told that it is necessary to have a certain amount of air space for the maintenance of the arc in order to effect combustion of the carbon points. It is on this account that it has been the general practice to use only one (the upper) crater for projection with the A. C. arc.

About eight years ago, however, the author devised a transformer, put on the market under the name of the Hallberg A. C. Automatic Electric Economizer, which possessed the valuable feature of allowing both the upper and the lower craters of an A. C. arc to be focused at the same time on the aperture of the machine, in that manner, producing almost double the candle power or brilliancy of illumination on the screen, with the A. C. arc, as shown in Fig. 33, with carbons set vertically.

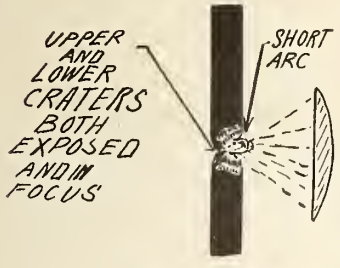

Fig. 33

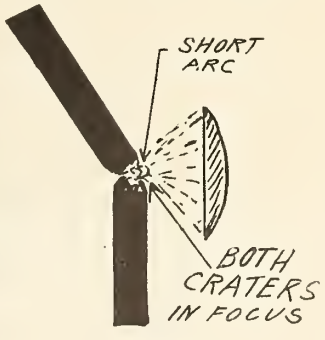

Fig. 34

49—How did this special transformer allow for this method of operation?

Ans.—With the ordinary rheostat, induction and choke coils usually employed for the regulation of A. C. arcs, previous to that time it was necessary to maintain in projector arc lamps between 35 to 40 volts potential drop across the arc.

If the carbons were put closer together the rheostat or the choke coil would absorb the difference in voltage and if the carbons were put still closer together so as to further reduce the arc voltage the illumination would almost disappear, allowing merely a nominal glow instead of the brilliant crater previously maintained.

In other words, with rheostat and choke coil control the arc and the consequent brilliancy at the crater would die out as the carbons were put close together.

The writer determined to produce a transformer which, instead of allowing the arc to die down would have such characteristics that if the carbons were put closer together the result would be to increase the current to a limited extent and the consequent brilliancy at the carbon points with a very short arc.

The results during the original tests were so satisfactory that before long a line of transformers were on the market which would allow the carbon points for an A. C. arc to be maintained so close together that the rear surfaces of the craters almost touched each other, as illustrated in Fig. 33 and Fig. 34, with carbons set at an angle relation to each other.

The arc, instead of being maintained in a long space at 35 to 40 volts was maintained between two surfaces almost touching each other, at 30 to 33 volts, but due to the magnetic blow effect, always present in the lamp house of a projector arc lamp, the arc was stretched forward toward the condensing lenses in the lamp house between the front edges of the craters in such manner that it caused the front edges to burn off faster than the rear edges of the craters, thus exposing the upper and the lower craters to the condensing lenses at the same time.

This was the first great step in advance for the utilization of A. C. for projector arc lamps.

If Your Copy

of the "News" does not reach you promptly every week, please advise us.

Copyright, 1916, by J. H. Hallberg

Merrill, Milwaukee, Unusual in Design, Opens

ONE of the finest theatres in the Middle West is the new Merrill which opened in Milwaukee Wednesday, January 5, to a record-breaking crowd. The opening was preceded Tuesday evening with a unique publicity stunt which Manager H. D. Graham termed a dress rehearsal.

This was an invitation affair for the members of the press and city officials. Though many tried to purchase tickets for this performance, offering high prices, all were refused admission without an invitation.

The theatre, 50x150 exclusive of the lobby, is of fireproof construction. The interior is finished in Renaissance style with low relief non-conventional ornament. The theatre proper is reached through a long lobby with pilastered panels on each wall containing photographs of photoplay stars.

The lobby is finished in the same general style as the theatre. As one passes down the lobby there is no diminution of light noticeable from out-of-doors to the auditorium itself, yet the picture on the screen stands out in bold contrast to the surroundings.

The result has been obtained by a graduated lighting, so planned that the eye adjusts itself to a smaller and smaller amount of light without any effort. The lobby contains six distinct and separate sets of doors, doing away with all chance of draft in the theatre even on the coldest day.

The lobby is also separated from the theatre by a huge fire door which closes automatically in case of fire. The balcony, which seats three hundred, is reached by a wide ample stairway in the rear of the theatre.

The downstair portion of the theatre will seat 1,000. Five emergency exits as well as the regular ones, prove ample security against fire or panic. The theatre is ventilated by a special mushroom washed air system, the foul air leaving the building by outlets near the ceiling and the fresh air entering the theatre from beneath the seats.

Theatre Lobby Made Noiseless by Cork Floor

The floors in the lobby and the aisles are covered with a cork tile with a sub-base of cork, making the theatre practically noiseless.

The woodwork is in black walnut and the decorations, in brown and tan, are the softest and easiest on the eyes obtainable. The ceiling is in lighter colors to reflect the light for the indirect system.

This brown and tan color scheme is a distinct innovation and is the result of the inspection of the leading theatres in this country by Breusts and Phillipps, architects of the Merrill.

Probably the most remarkable feature of the entire theatre is the lighting system. Not only has the indirect lighting system been used throughout the theatre, but instead of the light coming frow bowls and fixtures, not a light source is visible to the eye, the light coming from recesses or coves in the wall, striking the ceiling and thence to the floor, giving a uniformed graduated illumination of very low intensity.

In the foyer of the theatre where this arrangement is not possible the lighting has been accomplished by means of beautiful art glass skylights, which give a soft subdued light and bring this part of the theatre up to the same high grade of illumination as the rest.

For the cleaning of the theatre after the performance, or for any other occasion, when a brighter light is required a third system of lighting has been installed, which gives a direct illumination.

The lighting of the main auditorium has been arranged so as to make possible the very novel and beautiful effect of following the color of the light thrown on the screen and bring "the atmosphere" of the photoplay right out into the auditorium of the theatre.

Moonlight and Twilight Effect

This is something brand new and is secured by a tri-colored system. In addition to the regular white light there are two other complete systems, one giving a moonlight effect and the other the twilight effect. This lighting system is controlled from the booth by the operator so that the change in lighting occurs simultaneously with the change of scene on the screen and, for instance, when a moonlight scene is shown, the moonlight will seem to permeate the auditorium of the theatre.

The lighting of the entrance of the theatre is also most novel and original. The canopy over the sidewalk is surrounded by tungsten lights, which not only illuminate the glass panels on the canopy but illuminate the sidewalk and entrance of the theatre.

This illumination is also increased by means of a large hemispherical unit under the center of the canopy, containing nitrogen-filled lamps, which throws a pure white light over the sidewalk and front of the theatre.

The entrance itself is lighted by means of lamps concealed upon the top of the ticket booth. These lights are all directed towards the ceiling and the light is reflected back to the ground.

The lamps used for this purpose are the largest size on the market today. One throws a pure red light, the second a pure blue light and the third a pure green light.

By means of automatic machinery the various colored lights are made to vary in intensity and the colors are combined in such a way that the resulting light is a mixture of the three colors, making a single resultant tint that gradually varies in make-up.

For advertising and publicity purposes as well as for the convenience of the public, a large illuminated electric clock has been placed over the sign. The clock by use of the so-called "monogram system" indicates the correct time in figures of light three feet high. The figures change every minute.

Huge Sign Over Theatre Canopy

Over the canopy itself a large electric sign has been erected. This displays the name of the theatre as well as the current attraction, all the letters being of the studded lamp type. To increase the attractiveness of this sign and to bring it up to the standard of the rest of the theatre, the surface has been covered with over a thousand "jewels" of the same general type as those used at the jeweled tower at the Panama Exposition.

The jewels are each backed by a small mirror and hung in such a way as to reflect the rays of light as they swing and sway in the breeze. Light is thrown upon the sign by means of powerful lamps placed on the top of the canopy and the front of the building.

A $30,000 echo organ has been installed at the Merrill, and this, together with an eight-piece orchestra under the direction of Nicholas Semaschko, will supply the music for photoplays at the Merrill.

The organ will be played by Ignatz Budzinski and Omar Smith, two of the leading photoplay organists in the Middle West.

The booth, which is located at the top of the balcony, is one of the most commodious and complete in the country. It not only contains plenty of working room for the operator, but a completely equipped workshop and a toilet. Two 1916 Motiograph projectors, dissolver and stereopticons have been installed in the booth.

Something that is rather unusual is the separate steel inclosed booth for the resistance. This booth, which is located outside of the coop, is ventilated from the outside and absolutely eliminates the heat from the booth proper. The installation of the booth was made under the direction of the Wisconsin Theatre Supply Company of Milwaukee.

Comfortable Quarters for Musicians

Arthur Weaver and Theodore Weinstein are the operators. Joe Ryan is the assistant. Very comfortable quarters have also been installed for the musicians, in addition to the usual rest room of the beautifully equipped smoking room and two tile toilets and washrooms.

The Merrill is playing Triangle plays at fifteen cents. W. S. Hart in "The Disciple" and Syd Chaplin in "The Submarine Pirate" was the opening attraction.

Manager Graham, who has been in charge of the theatre from the start, is probably one of the best known photoplay managers in the Middle West.

Before taking charge of the Merrill he was manager at the Butterfly theatre. It is understood that since his successful opening of the Merrill he has received a number of offers to handle other houses.

AMATEUR FILMERS CREATE DEMAND FOR HOME SUPPLIES

UP to the present time there does not seem to have been any concentrated effort on the part of the various supply dealers throughout the country to attract business from anyone except the actual motion picture theatre.

There is, however, a large field outside of the theatres which will eventually develop and become as large as the theatre business itself. This line is with the lodges, schools, churches, clubs and other institutions of either public or semi-public nature.

The Accessory Department of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS is continually receiving requests from manufacturers in the various lines as to how they may obtain distribution throughout the country for motion picture goods which are not always suited to theatre use.

In accordance with the regular policy of the NEWS, we wish to call this condition to the attention of the various supply dealers throughout the country and suggest that they not only set themselves up as the theatre supply dealers of their locality but also as the motion picture information bureau and central authority on all subjects connected with the industry.

There is an unbounded field for the sale of home projection machines, cameras, small specially mounted house screens, small film cleaners, portable booths and other equipment, which must be had before any organization is prepared to give its own motion picture entertainment.

The local amateur and semi-professional equipment for the actual taking of pictures is becoming more and more popular every day.

The exhibitor who would be the semi-professional motion picture photographer, should take local event films continually whenever anything of particular interest happens in his community.

This activity was started some time ago and has been increasing slowly as the exhibitors have realized the vast benefit to be derived, for there is no doubt about it that it brings the people into the theatre, for if there is one thing that the public likes, it is to see motion pictures of scenes with which they are familiar, and particularly to see themselves and their friends on the screen.

Then, too, these events may be of national interest, and therefore there is a very good possibility for any live wire exhibitor to send in his negative to the various topical weeklies and obtain a very good price from these companies for the rights on the film.

In the case of the amateur, the motion picture camera is becoming very popular with the fisherman, the bird lover, the hunter and all other sportsmen. Then, too, the individuals who wish to record the actions of their children are becoming extensive users of motion pictures for this purpose.

These amateur branches are by no means to be ignored by the dealers who carry motion picture equipment, for it will not be long, if it is not the case at present, before most of these people mentioned have their own home projection machines and show their friends with pride pictures which they have taken in the fields, in the woods and in the home.

At the present time the photographic dealer is entering this field more and more and is taking up the distribution of motion picture goods for the simple reason that the demand has been found to exist with no one in particular to supply it.

The NEWS is receiving continually applications and requests as to how best to market products for the use of the amateur. In many cases we have suggested that the local motion picture dealers would be only too glad to take up and push the distribution of the various lines of goods. Almost invaribly we have been met with the reply that but a very small proportion of those who have been approached have signified any willingness or desire to take on this new line.

This is not a healthy state of affairs because the motion picture dealer in any given territory should be an authority and the natural center of all things dealing with the industry.

Therefore, it is suggested that every dealer throughout the country consider the advisability of taking on lines which will appeal to the amateur and actually advertising and making himself the acknowledged center, where the novice may purchase or get advice on all things dealing with pictures.

The NEWS not only wishes to promote this feeling universally among the dealers but also will recommend to the various concerns manufacturing these products the various dealers who desire to take on these lines, providing the companies manufacturing the product are putting out goods worthy of distribution.

If

your Panoramic and Tilting Tripod is not as good as this one—

You are working at a disadvantage.

If your Tripod and head are not like this—
It is not as good.

Shall we prove it?

UNIVERSAL TILTING AND PANORAMIC TRIPOD

Wide spread top legs give truss strength and rigidity.
Segmental slide prevents twitching.
Panoramic table quickly changed to any position.
Positive locking devices. Snap-handles cannot fall off.
Deep cut worms and gears insure long wear.

Can be used with any camera

UNIVERSAL CAMERA COMPANY
24 NORTH WABASH AVENUE, CHICAGO, ILL.
1209 Times Bldg., New York 821 Market St., San Francisco
229 East Sixth St., Los Angeles

Our descriptive Catalogue will be sent on request.

ALL THE PLAYERS

of prominence in any sized picture can be furnished instantly. WIRE US YOUR WANTS. If you fail to display the face of a popular player who is appearing at your house you are overlooking an opportunity for larger receipts. THE FACE OF A WELL KNOWN PLAYER prominently displayed will draw more money than the mere announcement of a name.

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES.
Size 22 x 28 75c Each Size 11 x 14 20c Each

SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS $3.00 per thousand. Print your announcement on correspondence side and mail them weekly. PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8 x 10, all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDERS, containing pictures of all the prominent players, including feature stars, $8.50 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of all the players, 600 names, 40c. each.

TRANSPARENCIES, ALL SIZES, from 50c. to $2.50. FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS from $8.00 to $25.00, according to size and frames.

KRAUS MFG. CO., 220 W. 42nd Street, N. Y
12th Floor, CANDLER BUILDING.

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples free. Write us giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

Projection

Operating Electricity

Questions Answered

Repairing Equipment

Edited by J. H. Hallberg

Who Will Answer All Questions You Send in, No Matter How Simple or How Difficult

REDUCING SPEED OF ONE-QUARTER HORSE-POWER INDUCTION MOTOR

S. M. G., Iowa City, Iowa.—I have a Powers' 6-A machine, and I also have an old ¼ h. p. induction motor of the kind which you press a button when you want the machine to start, and after it is up to speed the starting circuit is disconnected by removing pressure on the button.

I want to know if you could give me directions for making a speed controller for this motor so that I could reduce the speed about one-half, if necessary, the motor now operating at about 1,750 R. P. M., so that it may be belted to the fly-wheel or in other ways connected to my machine. I want to have a range of speed control so as to run a reel in anywhere from about 12 to 20 minutes.

ANSWER.—Your proposition is practically impossible because an induction motor is not suitable for driving motion picture machines or any other device, where a change of speed is necessary unless the speed change is effected by a mechanical contrivance or speed changing transmission between the motor and the machine.

Some people have an idea that it is possible to put in a rheostat or similar controller in series with an induction motor for A. C. and by this means to control the speed as is done with D. C. motors.

This method of control is impossible in induction motors of the ordinary kind and my advice to you is to purchase from your nearest distributor or dealer a complete Powers' motor and attachment and motor with mechanical speed controller which gives the desired results. It costs only $47.50, and if I were you I would not bother with any form of make-shift as it will be a bad investment and will never give satisfaction.

WHEN THE AMPERES DROP FROM 60 TO ABOUT 30 OR 40 WITHIN A FEW MINUTES AFTER STARTING ARC

C. R. D., Walden, N. Y.—We have a Twentieth Century motor generator, recently installed in our theatre which operates quietly and produces a beautiful, brilliant and steady light on our screen. We have also installed with it a volt and an ampere meter on a panel which indicates the voltage across the arc, as we do not use any rheostat or other resistance whatever in series with the generator and the arc.

The ampere meter indicates the amperes passing through the arc. What I want to find out is—why, after trimming the lamp with new carbons and starting the arc and setting the arc voltage at about 50 and the amperes at about 60, do the amperes drop from 60 to about 30 or 40, within a few minutes after starting the arc, but only when we put in new carbons?

ANSWER.—The answer to your question is simple and while you have not mentioned it, there is furnished with the Twentieth Century motor generator a field rheostat connected in series with the shunt field winding on the generator.

The purpose of the field rheostat is to increase or decrease the amperes flowing through the shunt winding of the generator, and by means of this adjustment it will be possible for you to regulate the arc at any amperage within the range of the generator, which is between 30 and 70 amperes for the size machine you have.

It is a well-known fact that carbons were fresh or green points, that is carbon points between which an arc has not previously been struck, introduce a gas due to the excessive presence of core material, which has a tendency to lower the resistance of the arc, therefore, when I first strike an arc with new carbon points, the voltage may indicate 50 and the amperes may be 60, with a certain position for the field rheostat lever and for a certain separation of the carbons.

Now, as the arc continues to consume the carbon points the core filling will be vaporized and before long the surface of the carbon will be partly carbonized and becomes harder, and the core filling recedes below the surface of the carbon, all of which has a tendency to lower the resistance of the arc.

The result will then be as you describe, in that the amperes will fall and the voltage may be slightly increased across the arc. The remedy is then not to increase the power of the generator by cutting out resistance in series with the field rheostat but to move the carbon points closer together to compensate for the decrease in the resistance of the arc as the carbon points have been burned and put into operative condition.

When first striking the arc with new carbons the points may have to be separated as much as three-quarters inch for a short time, but they should gradually be brought together so that within a few minutes after starting the arc the points for a proper arc will not be much over one-quarter inch apart.

The distance between the carbon points must necessarily vary slightly with the amperes maintained across the arc, so that the carbons are closer together with low amperage and further apart when a high ampere flow is maintained across the arc.

FEASTER NOW SELLS NON-REWIND MACHINES, AT $60, WITH DISCOUNTS TO DEALERS

THE Feaster Corporation, with offices at 1482 Broadway, New York City, announces that the new organization, which has taken over the sales management of Byron Chandler, Inc., and is now marketing the Feaster Non-Rewind Machine, has adopted an entirely new policy.

The method of distribution adopted by the old company was on a rental basis of so much a month. The new management has discontinued this old method and is now selling the machine for the flat sum of sixty dollars, with liberal discounts for dealers.

In order that a demand may be created throughout the country, L. A. Hoffman is going on an extended trip, visiting leading dealers throughout the country and addressing the meetings of the various union operators' locals. This promotion trip will also bring the Feaster non-rewind attachment forcefully before every motion picture theatre owner.

Mr. Hoffman plans to start about January 17, his first stop being Washington, D. C., where he will stay about a week.

BUFFALO, N. Y., OPERATORS ELECT OFFICERS

AT the election of the Moving Picture Operators Local 229, Buffalo, N. Y., the following officers were elected: Henry DeVerneuil, Sr., president; J. Smith, vice-president; M. Ostrowsky, treasurer; Leo Hager, financial secretary; M. J. Affachiner, recording secretary; Henry DeVerneuil, business agent; H. Potter, sergeant-at-arms; trustees: M. J. Affachiner, chairman; A. A. Geddis; Leo McGuire; and delegates to Central Labor Trades Council: M. J. Affachiner, Leo Hager and DeWitt Martin.

SPEER CARBONS

Are made under the supervision of scientific men who have at their disposal the most complete laboratory for conducting researches and tests—these advantages account for the wonderful results which are now obtained in service with

Speer Projector Carbons

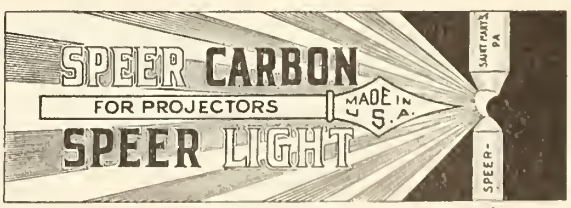
The capacity of our factory is limited, but the new addition will soon be ready for operation. In the meantime we advise you to place your orders now because the shortage in carbons is getting greater and greater every day.

FIRST COME FIRST SERVED

NET CASH PRICES

½x12, cored, pointed both ends, $37.50 per M. (1,000 in a case)
9/16x12, cored, pointed both ends, $40.00 per M. (1,000 in a case)
⅝x12, cored, pointed both ends, $50.00 per M. (1,000 in a case)
¾x12, cored, pointed both ends, $70.00 per M. (1,000 in a case)
⅞x12, cored, pointed one end, $115.00 per M. (500 in a case)
1x12, cored, pointed one end, $150.00 per M. (500 in a case)

We Fill Sample Orders for 100 Carbons at the Above Pro Rata Prices



TRADE MARK

Our Speer Carbons are absolutely guaranteed to give satisfaction or money back.

Speer Carbon Company Dept. "N"

(Makers of carbon for Electrical purposes during the past 25 years)

Saint Mary's, Pa.

For Sale by Leading M. P. Machine Distributors, Including the Following:

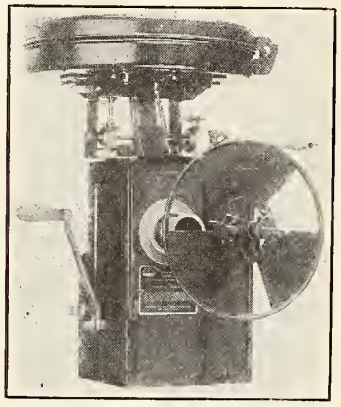
J. H. Hallberg, 36 East 23rd St., New York, N. Y.
E. E. Fulton Co., 154 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
Kleine Optical Co., 166 N. State St., Chicago, Ill.

NEW POLICY

In future all FEASTER NO-REWIND attachments for projectors will be sold outright.

Rentals Discontinued

NEW MANUFACTURING AND MARKETING PLANS BRING REDUCTION IN PRICE



Feaster on Simplex head

SAVES

Time—Labor—Breakage—Delay—Noise and Fire Risk

J. H. Hallberg says: "The device is beautifully designed, perfectly constructed, works easily and to perfection."

Write for terms

FEASTER CORPORATION

1482 Broadway New York City

A clear picture

is as essential as a good scenario. Because the basic product is right the clearest pictures are on Eastman Film. Identifiable by the stencil mark in the margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

PITTSBURGH OPERATORS MAKE EFFORTS TO GET ALL BOOTH OCCUPANTS TO JOIN UNION

THE Moving Picture Operators union in Pittsburgh is making a strenuous campaign in its effort to get all of the men at the crank in that city and its suburbs into the ranks of the union.

That they are leaving no stone unturned to do this is a fact as they have been working with all of the operators and many of them have joined the ranks.

That the motion picture business in that district is better off for having men who have passed the examination of the union is evident. They are not only compelled to pass the city examination but are also made to pass an examination in the union which proves they understand the operation of the machine with which they must work.

The election of the officers for the union for 1916 follows: President, R. C. Freeman; vice-president, J. A. Rhodes; secretary, Joseph Dean; treasurer, H. Brooks, business manager, R. C. Freeman. The offices of the organization are at 127 Fourth avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT INSTALLED IN STRAND, INDIANAPOLIS

RAYMOND Q. DALTON, chief electrician of the Strand Theatre Company, arrived in Indianapolis January 5, to begin the institution of the lighting and electrical equipment of the new Strand, formerly the Lyceum theatre, Indianapolis. The equipment which Mr. Dalton will install was built especially for the Strand theatre, in Chicago, but since the house is being completed for opening earlier than the one in Chicago, Indianapolis will have the advantage of the original ideas Mr. Dalton has worked out in connection with the lighting of a motion picture house and stage.

OPERATORS AND EXHIBITORS IN FRESNO, CAL., SETTLE DIFFERENCES

FOLLOWING a discussion of several weeks between members of the Moving Picture Operator's Union at Fresno, Cal., and the owners of the Jitney and Pastime theatres, in which the operators attempted to unionize the houses, an amicable settlement of the differences has been arrived at.

The local union has just held its annual election, W. Doyle having been chosen president, and G. James, secretary and treasurer.

GOLD KING SCREEN COMPANY APPOINTS E. W. GREEN KANSAS REPRESENTATIVE

E. W. GREEN of Wellington, Kansas, has been appointed state representative for the Gold King Screen Company of Altus, Oklahoma. Mr. Green will make Wellington his headquarters and will keep in direct touch with the exhibitors throughout the state.

Many new sales agencies for the Gold King screen were established by President S. H. Jones on his recent trip North.

BRECK PHOTOPLAY SUPPLY COMPANY IS INCORPORATED IN CALIFORNIA

THE Breck Photoplay Supply Company, Inc., has been incorporated at San Francisco by George Breck, A. Francis, E. B. Rutherford, T. and J. E. Maguire.

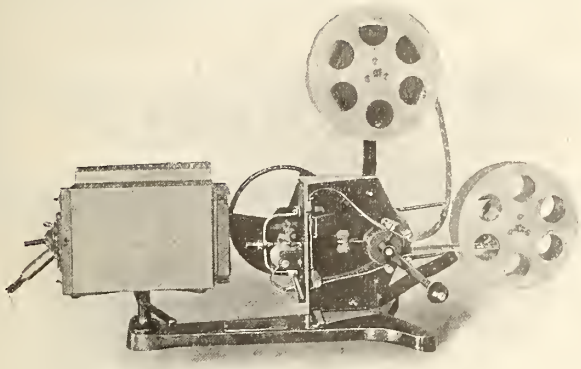
A change is being made in the former business of George Breck, the newcomers having taken over large interests in the new company.

A $100,000 THEATRE FOR MILWAUKEE, ON THIRD AND STATE STREETS

MILWAUKEE is to have another downtown photoplay house, costing about $100,000. It is to be erected by the Metropolitan Investment Company, near the corner of Third and State streets. It will be 50x200. Architects Kirchhoff and Rose are making the preliminary sketches.

NO INCREASE IN LICENSE FEES FOR CALGARY OPERATORS

CALGARY, Alberta, motion picture operators escaped any additional burden at the recent readjustment of the provincial license fees, and will continue to pay one dollar per year.



THE NATIONAL PROJECTOR

Durable in construction, simple in operation, perfect in design. Gives a clear picture without flicker and has been endorsed by leading film authorities. You can use it for pleasure or profit at a fraction of the cost of operating your big machine.

Price $60.00 Weight 27 pounds

Attractive terms to dealers

The National Projector Company, Inc.

30 CHURCH ST. SLOCUM-AVRAM-SLOCUM MANAGEMENT NEW YORK, N. Y.

Get the full value of the new films

Even if your films are the latest and best, the full value of your service is lost if your lens equipment does not bring out all there is in every foot.

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses

put the story on the screen with brilliant illumination and clear definition to the very corners.

The house that uses Bausch & Lomb objectives and condensers is the one with the reputation for "good pictures," and consequently the one with the steady and large ticket-window receipts.

Edison and Nicholas Power Machines are always equipped with our lenses—any film exchange can get them for you.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.

569 ST. PAUL STREET, ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Leading American makers of Photographic Lenses, Projection Lanterns (Balopticons), Microscopes and other high grade optical products.

Orders Galore for

Radium Gold Fibre Screens are being placed.

Merit is winning.

You are entitled to the best projection that money can buy and a Radium Gold Fibre

Screen will give it.

Why Don't You Send In Your Order Today?

Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc.

No. 220 W. 42nd Street, New York City

CANADIAN DISTRIBUTORS—Allfeatures, Ltd., No. 56 King St., W., Toronto, Can. Allfeatures, Ltd., Scala Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Can.

Projection Difficulties Solved

Why be troubled by projection room difficulties?

Make sure of having good projection. When difficulties arise write at once to the PROJECTION DEPARTMENT

Motion Picture News

220 West 42d Street

NEW YORK CITY

Building and Furnishings

Edited by Nathan Myers

ROW OF BOXES IN FRONT OF BALCONY A DISTINCTIVE FEATURE IN THE AVON

THE Avon theatre, Utica, N. Y., an article on which appeared in the January 15 issue of MOTION PICTURE NEWS, has certain additional and distinctive features which are brought out in the accompanying photograph and which are worthy of note by anyone contemplating either remodelling or building.

The row of boxes in the front of the balcony, the best place in the house from which to see a picture, is a feature not yet developed among theatres in general.

These boxes are fitted out with the most comfortable wicker chairs obtainable, which make it possible to charge a much higher price per seat than can be charged for any other in the house, with the added advantage that theatre parties are easily taken care of.

Another point worthy of note is the distance back from the first row of seats at which the screen is placed. This is very much the same as the Strand theatre in New York City, and allows ample room for an effective stage setting, which the designers of the Avon theatre have taken full advantage of.

INTERIOR OF THE AVON THEATRE, UTICA, N. Y.

Another point worthy of particular attention are the stained glass windows on either side of the stage, behind which may be placed electric lights which not only break the monotony of the dark walls, but also lend a most attractive and homelike air, as well as a warmth to the entire interior of the house. Entirely lacking were the blank walls unbroken by a feature of this kind.

W. L. Foster, the general director of the theatre, states that these features, together with those mentioned in the previous article, have been favorably commented upon on every side, and have met with the enthusiastic reception of every patron of the house.

Careful construction of this kind and comfort, with an eye to details, will, if the program is right, make pictures even more popular than they are today, for it will bring out that part of the population which still maintains a haughty attitude toward and refuses to enter the average picture theatre.

HELENA, MONT., THEATRE SOLD

FREEMAN and Kerman have sold the Liberty theatre at Helena to T. C. Penny.

STRAND, LOUISVILLE, KY., MAINTAINS LARGE ORCHESTRA; CHARGES FROM 5 TO 25 CENTS

THE Strand theatre, formerly the Masonic, which has been transformed into one of the handsomest picture houses in the entire South, was thrown open to the Louisville public New Year's day.

The opening was most auspicious from every standpoint and more than seven thousand persons were in attendance at the four shows given on the opening day.

Concerts in conjunction with the films were offered by the Strand twenty-piece orchestra, under the direction of William Paulsen, while a band of fifteen pieces at the entrance to the theatre entertained patrons as they came in and went out of the theatre.

The large orchestra will be a permanent feature at this house and vocal soloists will also entertain. Gold Rooster films will be featured at the Strand. Expense has not been spared in renovating the old Masonic.

The house has been redecorated throughout from the entrance to the stage.

An art dome window with the latest mechanical ticket selling device has replaced the old box office. The color scheme is in old rose and gold and this has been carried out in draperies, carpetings, decorations and lighting effects.

A beautiful stage setting has been installed with fountains and flowers and the Gold Fiber screen has a framing of art glass, illuminated from the reverse side.

The Strand is under the management of R. V. and M. A. McRae. Programs are changed every three days. The scale of prices ranges from five cents for gallery seats to fifteen cents for downstairs chairs and twenty-five cents for mezzanine boxes.

KORNICKER MAKES SUCCESSFUL TRIP THROUGH OHIO, MICHIGAN AND PENNSYLVANIA

ARNOLD KORNICKER, traveling representative for Menger and Ring, New York City, manufacturers of lobby display frames, has returned from a very successful trip through Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

Some of the many theatres equipped by Mr. Kornicker are the new Majestic theatre, Wyandotte, Mich.; the Garden, Norwood, and Broadway-Strand theatres in Detroit; the New Strand in Cleveland, and the new Fifty-sixth street theatre just opened in Philadelphia.

Next week Mr. Kornicker leaves for an extendeed tour covering Missouri, Illinois and the above territory.

Exhibitors not satisfied with their present lobby displays should write the home office, which is in constant touch with Mr. Kornicker. He will be pleased to call on them and offer suggestions.

PIANO DUET MAKES HIT WITH PATRONS OF ARCADE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

NORMAN LUCHES, manager of the Arcade theatre, Washington, D. C., has introduced a music novelty in the form of piano duets for accompanying his pictures.

"I desired a little more volume," said Mr. Luches, "yet I did not want a violin, as many of the other theatres are using. So I hit upon the piano duet plan and it has proved both a novelty and a pleasure to my patrons. There are many beautiful selections that the players may select from and keep within the bounds of picture accompanying."

Printing and Developing

AMERICAN FILM LABORATORIES, Inc.

"The Tiffany of the Film Trade"

THE FINEST FILM LABORATORIES AND STUDIO IN THE WORLD

The New Year has brought us new business.

Why?

LOUIS B. JENNINGS
Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

EDWIN S. PORTER
Vice-President

69-71 West 90th Street

Telephone Riverside 1410 New York City

AMERICAN SEATING COMPANY

Exclusive Manufacturers of

Furnishings for Theatres, Schools, Churches and all Public Buildings

When you want Opera Chairs, remember we have

5,000 CHAIRS

ALWAYS IN STOCK

in 6 different styles in Imitation Mahogany and Circassian Walnut finishes, assuring you satisfactory selection and

IMMEDIATE SERVICE

Other designs of Upholstered and Unupholstered Chairs unlimited in number, furnished in 25 to 50 days after receipt of specifications, depending on character of chairs selected.

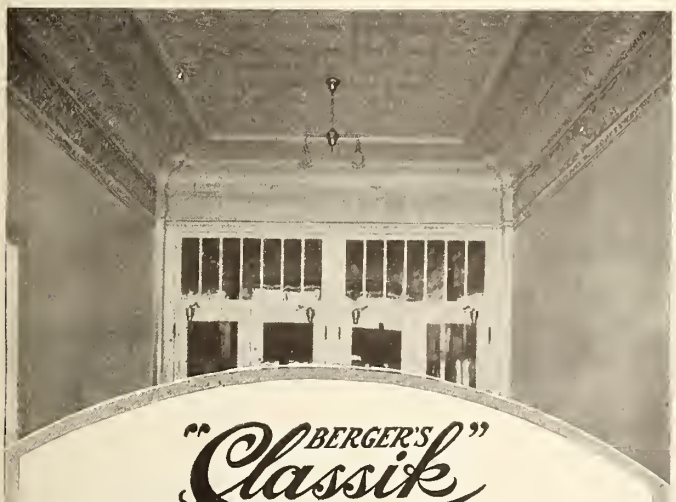
Our Consultation Service, specializing in designing economical arrangements for theatre seating is tendered to you without any charge whatever.

Descriptive literature on request.

For prompt attention address:

General Offices: 1012 LYTTON BUILDING, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Sales Offices in all principal cities



"BERGER'S" Classik STEEL CEILINGS

THE illustration shows a Berger "Classik" Steel Ceiling in the vestibule of the Majestic Theatre, La Crosse, Wis.

From an artistic standpoint, these ceilings are equal in every respect to the most expensive moulded plaster, and harmonize with any style of architecture. Aside from their unusual beauty, these ceilings are a safeguard against fire and are non-collapsible. And the price is RIGHT.

Our interesting Book D.M.N., showing hundreds of beautiful designs, suitable for theatres and halls, sent on request. Write for it today.

The Berger Mfg. Co., Canton, Ohio

Branches: Boston New York Philadelphia Chicago St. Louis Minneapolis San Francisco

Export Dept.: Berger Bldg., New York City, U. S. A.

FOR ARTISTIC LOBBY DISPLAY AND STAGE DECORATIONS

Install our line of Artificial FLOWERS, TREES, VINES, LEAVES, GARLANDS, WREATHS AND PALMS.

Estimates made and theatres decorated under contract by our expert.

Our 32-page catalogue No. 3, illustrating in colors the latest artificial flowers for Theatre decoration FREE.

FRANK NETSCHERT COMPANY, INC.

61 Barclay Street New York City

Directory of New Theatres

This department is designed to be a weekly guide to all sales, leases, construction and remodeling of photoplay theatres. If you are building, selling, leasing or renovating, kindly communicate it at once for publication.

ALABAMA

H. M. NEWSOME has opened his new theatre in Third avenue, between Nineteenth and Twentieth streets, Birmingham. The theatre is as yet unnamed, it being Mr. Newsome's intention to shortly inaugurate a naming contest for his new house.

CALIFORNIA

Miller's theatre at Oxnard has been taken over by a Mr. McCaffey.

The Burbank, one of the oldest legitimate theatres of Los Angeles, was turned into a motion picture theatre on January 9. It is showing Triangle films, and will in future exhibit independent productions made by D. W. Griffith and Mack Sennett.

Tally's Broadway theatre, which has been using Paramount service opened Monday, January 17 with the production of "The Beloved Vagabond," Pathe Gold Rooster Brand.

The Posey theatre at Davis has been taken over by William Pelly and opened again for business on January 1. The house was recently lengthened by thirty feet and renovated.

Extensive improvements are being made at the Valerie theatre, Ferndale, by Manager Pollock, including enlargement of the stage.

The New Gem theatre at Willows has been purchased by Frank Burgi from Messrs. Tipton and Williams, and will be closed, the place being too small to support two moving picture houses.

Moving pictures are to be featured extensively in the future at the grammar school at Pittsburgh, a projection machine having been installed.

New equipment has been installed in the operating room of the theatre of Charles Naylor at Healdsburg, including a Simplex machine and a motor-generator set.

CANADA

The Majestic theatre, Toronto, for some time now unused property, is again the subject of rumor. This time, E. L. Ruddy, well known in this city as the "Billposting Man," is reported to be head of a scheme to rebuild the interior and install a feature film policy. Thomas W. Lamb, the Rochester architect who drew the plans for a big theatre recently erected here, inspected the Majestic recently with a view toward the necessary alterations.

CONNECTICUT

Naugatuck is to have a new moving picture house within a short time, and preparations have been made to open one in the Weisman building on Church street. The Paragon Picture Corporation has secured a lease of the first floor of the building and will convert it into a theatre with a seating capacity of 500.

FLORIDA

T. V. Cashen, Jr., and P. W. Hutchinson have taken a long lease on the Republic, one of Jacksonville's finest houses. The admission price is ten cents for adults and five for children.

ILLINOIS

The Rex motion picture theatre at Petersburg, was recently destroyed by fire. The property was partly insured. Arthur Simons of Petersburg, and W. W. Watts, owner of the Vaudette theatre at Springfield, are owners of the Princess. They expect to rebuild.

Robert Harbison, proprietor of the Princess moving picture theatre, Springfield, has sold the building and closed his show. Whether the theatre will be re-opened is not yet determined.

Two new south side picture houses made their debut in Chicago, December 24. Alfred Hamburger's house, The Prairie, at Prairie avenue and Fifty-eighth steret, one of the finest in his chain of sixteen, opened with a matinee performance, and Ascher Brothers introduced The Columbus, Ashland avenue and Sixty-third street, to the picture going public.

E. H. Ingalls has purchased the Princess theatre, Kankakee.

INDIANA

L. E. Perry, who has been operator of the Crystal theatre, Sturgis, Mich., since last September, has purchased the Majestic theatre at Lagrange, from Charles Griffith.

A new electric music box has been installed at the Arcade theatre, at Winchester, by Tracy brothers, proprietors.

IOWA

Todd and Miers, Mount Ayre, have bought the Star, closing the Princess theatre, which they have been running.

J. E. Benton, proprietor of the Comet, Albia, has installed a $4,500 model K Wurlitzer pipe organ and piano.

Carson and Mace, Moulton, have just opened the Colonial, a new house. It seats 500.

H. N. Spencer, formerly at Ames, has bought the Olympic theatre at Knoxville.

C. L. Elder has bought the Star at Knoxville.

O. W. Tuel has bought the Star at Stewart.

Mrs. L. M. Samuelson has bought the Grand theatre at Lamoni.

The Fairfield theatre at Fairfield, has changed hands.

KANSAS

According to Fred Savage, manager of the De Luxe, Iris and Rex theatres in Hutchinson, a new vaudeville and motion picture theatre is to be erected in that city. The Rex theatre building will be torn down to make room for the new building. Work will be started in the spring.

O. A. Bandy, former road man for Pathé, has purchased the Majestic theatre at Pittsburgh. Bandy is an old exhibitor, having conducted shows in Little Rock, Arkansas, and Memphis, Tenn.

KENTUCKY

The Palace theatre at Corbin, has been closed for a short time while the building was overhauled and remodelled. A new front was among the improvements to be installed.

LOUISIANA

With many of the essential features of the Strand theatre in New York City embodied in their plans, The De Soto Building Company has completed arrangements for the erection of a modern motion picture theatre on the property at Baronne and Gravier streets, New Orleans. These plans will be placed on the market at an early date.

With a stage setting costing $20,000, and under the direction of W. F. Bossner, direct from the Strand theatre in New York, the Crescent theatre, New Orleans, is now an up-to-date motion picture playhouse.

MARYLAND

An amusement place is now being erected at 400-404 North Howard street, Baltimore. The Strand will be the name of the house, and about $20,000 will be expended in the improvement. It will be 37 feet wide by 121 feet deep, and have a seating capacity of 499 persons. It will be of brick and steel construction, with a mastic floor, the front to be of stucco and marble. A big pipe organ, one of the largest in the city, will be installed. In addition to a large lobby, there will be smoking-rooms, restrooms, etc. Sparklin & Childs, are the architects, and John J. Moylan the builder.

The Henry Pfeil Manufacturing Company will soon build a motion picture theatre and apartment house costing $10,000 on the rear of a lot on Robert street, near Pennsylvania avenue, Baltimore. F. E. Beall is the architect, and the building will be one and three stories high, 64 by 70 feet and of brick and stucco.

MICHIGAN

L. H. Gardner, formerly manager of the Strand theatre, Saginaw, has been appointed manager of the Royal theatre, Detroit.

The Butler theatre has opened for business in Ishpeming. It seats 475 people.

The Budde theatre has opened at 612 Bridge street, N. W., Grand Rapids. It is owned and managed by George and Charles Budde, who also operate the Alcazar theatre. The new house has a seating capacity of 500.

NEBRASKA

The Empress, Omaha, has started running features again after months of straight programs. They started with "The Warning," a World film.

The new Eagle theatre, W. J. Reuman, proprietor, Thirty-seventh and Leavenworth streets, Omaha, opened Sunday, December 26, to crowded houses. It seats 600 people.

NEVADA

A new moving picture house has been opened in the Tessier Hall at Lovelock, but a name has not been chosen for it as yet.

NEW YORK

The James McGuire estate has leased the property at Nos. 66 to 70 Madison street, New York City, through to Nos. 46 and 48 Oliver street, to a syndicate headed by Edward Wasserman. The lessees will improve the site with a moving picture theatre from plans by James S. Maher, architect, with a seating capacity of about 600 persons.

NORTH CAROLINA

R. G. Allen, who already conducts a moving picture theatre in Raleigh, has bought the Palm theatre on East Martin street. He will spend several thousand dollars in remodelling the playhouse, after which it will be open to the colored people exclusively.

OHIO

The Dreamland theatre, 703 Euclid avenue, Cleveland, has a new owner. It has been bought by H. E. Gresham, formerly associated with the Pearl theatre. South Brooklyn. The deal was put through by the Square Business Exchange, 110 Engineers Building.

Announcement was recently made by F. E. Simmons, formerly associated with the Dreamland theatre, Euclid avenue, Cleveland, that a syndicate, of which he is an active member, contemplates building a busineess block and large photo play house of an ornate character in Lakewood.

PENNSYLVANIA

W. H. Ketcham has sold his theatre, the Palm Garden, located in Carson street, South Side, Pittsburgh, to J. D. Walker, ex-alderman of the East Liberty district. Mr. Walker is a new man in the motion picture theatre business but states he will continue the policy of the Ketcham management and will no doubt make a success of the place. The theatre has a capacity of 300.

The new Liberty Theater, in Penn avenue facing Shady avenue, Pittsburgh, was opened to the public December 27.

Harry J. Koehler has completed negotiations for the purchase from Ida L. Sithen and F. G. Shisler of premises at the southwest corner of 55th and Woodland avenue, Philadelphia. The lot is to be used as the site for a moving picture theatre.

WISCONSIN

L. P. Nebel & Sons, concrete contractors, contemplate the erection of a picture theatre, store and office building in Sturgeon Bay this spring.

A special election was held in Ripon January 11, for the purpose of submitting the question of bonding the city to raise $30,000 to purchase a site and erect a municipal opera house. It is planned to include a complete photoplay outfit in the new theatre.

furnished for ——

Single or Double Arc

Single, two or three phase circuit

110, 220, 440 Volts

A. C. to Controlled D. C.

D. C. to Controlled D. C.

TransVerteR
TRADE MARK

is a complete—upright electrical unit, that furnishes the best possible direct current light for motion picture projection and may be installed and operated in any projection booth.

Better pictures, bigger profit and perfect automatic arc regulation.

Send for booklet "The Perfect Arc"

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.
Department N, Cleveland, Ohio, U. S. A.

REFLEX

(Made in Switzerland)

The Quality Carbons of the World

Reflex D. C. Carbons have a Specially Constructed Negative with Copper Coated Core.

An English theatre manager writes:

"The REFLEX carbons you sent were very satisfactory, they settled down almost as soon as the arc was struck, maintained a steady amperage and gave quite 25% more light than any carbon I have ever used."

This theatre has used REFLEX carbons steadily for over two years.

You cannot obtain the results you have long wanted unless you use REFLEX carbons. Don't delay, send in your order now.

¾ x 12 plain cored, $10.00 per 100 carbons.
⅝ x 12 plain cored, $7.50 per 100 carbons.
⅝ x 6 copper coated cored, $3.75 per 100 carbons.
½ x 6 copper coated cored, $2.75 per 100 carbons.

If your dealer cannot supply you with REFLEX carbons, send cash with your order or instruct us to ship C. O. D. and we will fill sample orders in lots of not less than fifty each in all the above sizes.

Watch our weekly advertisements.

JONES & CAMMACK
SOLE IMPORTERS
12 Bridge Street New York City

Speedco
Arc Controller
will feed your projection arc—save money—and maintain better illumination than you have ever known.
Let us send you booklet "B"
SPEED CONTROLLER COMPANY, Inc.
257-259 William Street New York

QUALITY SERVICE RELIABILITY
When you want the best in machines or supplies in a hurry, get in touch with us. BY QUICK SERVICE, HONEST REPRESENTATION, BIG VALUES and COURTEOUS TREATMENT, we have become the ACKNOWLEDGED LEADERS in our line.
Let us tell you of OUR PLAN for BIGGER PROFITS and BETTER SERVICE.
We are the leading dealers in Moving Picture Machines and Supplies and can fill your every need. Drop us a line today for our complete catalog and special bargains.
WE SELL ON THE INSTALMENT PLAN
AMUSEMENT SUPPLY CO.
6th Floor Cambridge Building
N. W. Cor. 5th Ave. and Randolph Chicago, Illinois
Distributors of the
Motiograph, Power's, Simplex, Edison and other Machines and Genuine Parts

Make Your Lobby Display Attractive
There is nothing more fascinating to the public than a bright brass frame to display your photos or posters.
We make Lobby and Theatre Fixtures and Brass Rails of every description.
Don't fail to visit our Showrooms.
Write for catalog.
The NEWMAN MFG. CO.
717 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, Ohio
Branch Factories and Show Rooms:
101 Fourth Ave., New York, N. Y.
106-108 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
Coast representative, G. A. Metcalfe, 117 Goldengate Avenue, San Francisco, California.

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR
Hallberg's 20th Century Motor Generator
Changes A. C. to D. C. at less cost, yet greater efficiency than any other.
Ask for descriptive circular
Power, Simplex and Baird Machines and Minusa Gold Fibre Screens
LEWIS M. SWAAB
1329 VINE STREET, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

MUSICIANS COMPLAIN OF DISCORDS IN MANY SCORES WRITTEN FOR PICTURE ACCOMPANIMENT

THE following letter from a musician in the Southwest, who has read with interest the series of articles "How to Play for Motion Pictures," disagrees with certain views expressed on picture music, but the points made by Mr. Street may voice the opinion of many readers of MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

To the Editor, Music and Picture Department.

Dear Sir: I have for some years been greatly interested in reading the articles put forth from time to time about "How to Play for Motion Pictures."

Well, my opinion first of all is that an organist who can improvise well and play from facial expression, is one that cannot very well be dispensed with. Of course, to play a picture entirely through on improvisation alone would make it too monotonous, because one must arrange suitable music to fit the picture and audience, otherwise one's efforts would spell failure.

I have been playing for the Hulsey theatres in Texas for the past three years, and during that period have had experience in the art of playing suitably for the different subjects portayed upon the screen. I should like also to express my opinion in connection with the music that is sent to us to use for the Triangle pictures.

I find in many of the scores some very bad errors, but this may be due to the carelessness of the printers, and think the music sent at times very third rate, and lacking in the knowledge of harmony and key relationship. These are two great essentials to my mind to make everything sound good to the public, for the public must be considered, after all is said and done.

If you are to gain success in the musical world, suitable and attractive music must, and ought to be given. I mention this because the orchestra with whom I work in conjunction with the pipe organ, complain of the awful discords in the musical scores, and true musicians suffer mentally on this account. I hope in the near future this can be improved upon.

I trust this letter may be taken in the spirit in which it is meant, i. e., in all courtesy and kind intentions.

Yours, T. WM. STREET,
Queen Theatre, Galveston, Tex.

TEITEL AND SCHLATTER LABORATORIES AND STUDIOS AT HUDSON HEIGHTS, N. J., NEAR COMPLETION

A PLANT consisting of three steel and glass studios and a laboratory unique in design is nearing completion at Hudson Heights, New Jersey, covering an area of four acres, lying directly opposite the new Hudson County Park, and directly opposite Ninety-sixth street, New York .

Messrs. Teitel and Schlatter, two well-known promoters, are backing the enterprise, known as the Ideal Film Laboratories and Studios. Mr. Teitel, who is a well-known chemist, will install several of his latest devices, including a revolving stage which either lower or rise ten feet, and is sufficiently large for making scenes of bridges, houses, railroad trains, thus doing away with considerable out-door photography.

Mr. Teitel will bring into the market artistically toned as well as combined toned and tinted films, a novelty to the trade. A special department for the manufacture of screens will be inaugurated. A specially constructed twenty-five foot square glass tank is installed to enable the photographing of water scenes without endangering the lives of the actors. The studios contain dressing rooms, shower baths and reception lounges. The cost approximates $150,000 and the plant will give employment to several hundred.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS IS THE SHORT CUT from where you are
TO PROSPERITY
Ask any live-wire exhibitor

START THE NEW YEAR RIGHT

By putting an American BEAUTY ELECTRIC RADIATOR in that frigid ticket booth. How can you expect your cashier to smile a cheerful greeting to customers when she is blue with the cold. Perhaps your pianist needs one also. Only $5.00 each Circular on request.

SEASONABLE AND STAPLE GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION FOR THE PICTURE THEATRE

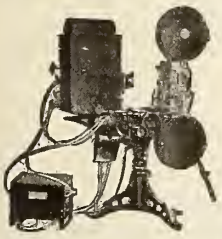
E. E. FULTON CO.
156 W. LAKE ST. CHICAGO

GOODS DELIVERED SAME DAY ORDER RECEIVED

We carry a very heavy stock of Power's machines and parts and can fill your order without a moment's delay. We can supply you with everything that is needed in a Modern Picture Theatre.

We are Agents for the Famous VELVET GOLD FIBRE SCREEN which is truly a revelation as a projection surface. Let us demonstrate to you.

American Slide Co., 165½ N. High St., Columbus, O.



AMERICAN STANDARD USERS SAY

"After using your machine almost constantly for two years, am paying for first minor repair part. Most satisfactory." "I would not take any amount for my Standard as long as I am in the picture game." "Not one penny for repairs during three years; no breakdowns." "The Standard is easiest to operate and people say the pictures cannot be beat."

Every Standard user expresses this message in different words; For economy, durability, ease, and low cost of operation, and for perfection in projection—the American Standard.

AMERICAN STANDARD MOTION PICTURE MACHINE COMPANY
One Hundred Ten and Twelve West Fortieth Street, New York

NATHAN MYERS
ARCHITECT

WOOLWORTH BUILDING
Broadway & Park Place New York City
COURT THEATRE BUILDING
Market & High Streets Newark, N. J.

Telephones
Newark .....Market 5254 Long Island .....Sayville 41
New York .....Barclay 6274 Residence .....Waverly 2670
Graduate of College of Architecture, Cornell University
Twenty Years Individual Practice
Consultant to other architects and to builders

THEATRE AND EXCHANGE MAILING LIST SERVICE

We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc. N 44

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
80 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK, Phone 3227 Chelsea 425 ASHLAND BLOCK, CHICAGO, Phone 2003 Randolph
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

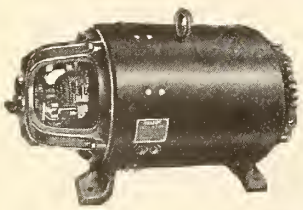
MR. EXHIBITOR

do you know for $39.00 you can equip your No. 6A machine with 110 V. Motor and motor drive, speed controller, switch, etc., and $4.00 more for a 220V ? This is quite a difference from the price you are asked to give up for a similar equipment. Start the New Year right. Save money and get your Money's worth from us. There is a new Motion Picture Machine coming to life and it's going to be a knock-out at a reasonable price. Ask us for information.

STERN MANUFACTURING CO., 109 N. 10th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

"HARD TIMES" FLY OUT OF THE WINDOW
When MOTION PICTURE NEWS Comes In By The Mail
Ask any live wire Exhibitor if it's true

HALLBERG
20th CENTURY MOTOR GENERATOR



$249

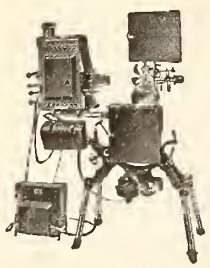
For 30 to 70 Amp. D. C. Capacity

$20 extra for control for (2) 30 to 40 amp. arc's—or $50 extra for control for (2) 30-40 amp. arc's on fine switchboard with volt and amp. meters and special field rheostat—No live part on front of board.

For 110 or 220 volt, 60 cycle, 2 or 3 phase A. C. Line. For single phase, $40 extra.

Weight, 450 lbs. Height, 15" Width, 15" Length, 28"

OTHER SIZES AND STYLES OF ALL KINDS—QUOTED UPON REQUEST



Distributor of

Power's-Simplex-Baird

M. P. Machines

Send for Free Circulars and Catalogues, but for Hallberg's Big 100-page Catalogue, send 25 cents.

I EQUIP THEATRES COMPLETE AND CARRY ALL MAKES CARBONS AND SUPPLIES.

Send $2.50 for latest Operator's Book, "MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY."

J. H. HALLBERG Swedish Electrical Engineer

34 East 23d St. The Hoose of Quality New York

FOR SALE
MOVING PICTURE MAILING LISTS

Only complete one to be had, numbering 22,000; price, $40.00; itemized by states, or $3.50 per thousand for states you want. Postage guaranteed.

1173 Film Exchanges	$4.00
149 Manufacturers and Studios	1.00
210 Moving Picture Machine and Supply Dealers	1.50

Write for particulars

Trade Circular Addressing Co.

166½ West Adams Street, Chicago

Franklin 1183 Estab. 1880

NO MATTER WHO YOU ARE IN THE TRADE—

manufacturer, exchange man, exhibitor, operator, actor, director, musician—

THERE IS SOMETHING FOR YOU EVERY WEEK IN

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

and you always know WHERE TO FIND IT

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE OR FOR RENT

Completely equipped Motion Picture Studio in New York City. Modern Studio Lighting System. Full line of equipment and scenery. For particulars, address MARSTON & CO., 30 East 42d Street. Tel. Murray Hill 540.

FOR SALE

Theatre for sale, seating 1,000; long lease; new building in large Indiana town. Address E. S., Motion Picture News.

SHADOW BOX SCREENS

The last word in picture screens. Inexpensive. Positively the best. Eugene Cox Scene Painting Studio. Chicago.

WANTED

Want to establish mail order business. Looking for a moving picture article. Klein, 155 W. 143d St., New York.

WANTED

Sole Agencies Australasia, evening connected Cinematography, also second hand War Films, Scenics, Exclusive Features any quantity C. O. D. Melbourne. Commonwealth Feature Films, Ltd., 182 Collins Street, Melbourne.

Send for catalog of

NIAGARA GEM SLIDES

Any sample 10c., any dozen $1.75. Now is the time you need slides. Why not take advantage of this offer and order today. NIAGARA SLIDE COMPANY, Lockport, N. Y.

OPERA CHAIRS

Complete Line
Prompt Shipments

Write for Catalogue with Direct Factory Prices

Peabody School Furniture Co.

802 W. Fourth St., North Manchester, Ind.

Information with regard to Cinema business in Europe given free of charge.

G. KACZKA,
32 Rue de Moscou, Paris

MENGER & RING, Inc.

Manufacturers of

POSTER and LOBBY DISPLAY FRAMES

304 W. 42nd Street New York

THE BIOSCOPE

is

The English Trade Journal of the Moving Picture Industry

Annual Subscription (post free) 14s. (Dollars $3.50)

85 Shaftesbury Ave., London, N.W.

Genuine Pipe Organ Show Pipes

for Theatres equipped with Organs or one man Orchestras, installed very inexpensively.

JEROME B. MEYER, Manufacturer

Factory & Office 125 Austin St.
Milwaukee Wisconsin

Exhibitors Supply Co.

122 So. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Write for our new 1916 catalogue of theatre supplies and picture machines.

It will interest you.

WRITE FOR OUR NEW

SLIDE CAT.

NOVELTY SLIDE CO.

67 W. 23d St. New York

CASTEEL THEATRE CHAIRS

Made only by

WISCONSIN SEATING FACTORIES

"A Decided Innovation in Theatre Chairs"

Factories in
New London
Pt. Washington
Sheboygan
Grafton, U. S. A.

Address:
Theatre Chair Sales Dept.,
NEW LONDON,
WISC., U. S. A.

Be your show ever so good, you can't expect people to know it unless you tell them about it. The best means you can employ to do this is a FEDERAL ELECTRIC SIGN.

A FEDERAL ELECTRIC SIGN would increase your attendance and at the same time increase the attractiveness of your theatre

FEDERAL SIGN SYSTEM (ELECTRIC), LAKE AND DESPLAINES, CHICAGO.

R. M. SHAW COMPANY

HOLSTON BUILDING KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Selling Motion Picture Machines, Screens Chairs & Supplies of the very best sort

PICTURE MACHINES

AT LESS THAN HALF PRICE

EDISON MODEL B, everything new but head, which is entirely rebuilt, $100, cost new $225.—MOTIOGRAPH $85, cost new $185.—POWER'S 6-A with motor, everything new but head, which is rebuilt, $230, or $185 without motor. Power's No. 5 head on new 6-A outfit, $150. All machines guaranteed first-class condition and complete in every detail, ready to run picture. Lenses to fit any size picture desired.—NEW RHEOSTATS with all machines. Ft. Wayne and B. & H. Inductors, $30 extra with machine in place of Rheostats.—SIMPLEX machine, used in sample room display thirty days, $255. Bargains in many other machines, send for complete list Opera and Folding Chairs all kinds, new and slightly used. Operating Booths that pass inspection.—PICTURE CURTAINS, $5. ROLL TICKETS, 7½c. per thousand. Film Cement and Machine Oil, 15c. a bottle. All makes and sizes of Carbons. Orders filled same day received.

LEARS THEATRE SUPPLY CO.
509 Chestnut Street ST. LOUIS, MO.

Music and the Picture

Edited by Ernst Luz

This department is maintained for the exhibitor's assistance with a view of suggesting proper musical illustrations for current photo plays. MOTION PICTURE NEWS will be pleased to help solve any difficulties the exhibitors may have with their musical programs. All communications should be addressed to the Music and the Picture Department.

Playing From Inspiration Makes Characters Live

ALICE SMYTH BURTON, expert motion picture pianist and organist of Honolulu, known in private life as Mrs. Jay, is specializing a most unusual grade of music for the motion picture. This promises to be an innovation to all who hear it.

She lives the picture and plays through inspiration as the characters appear upon the screen. Her ability as a musician is of no mean order. She is a talented musician, which naturally assists her in correct modulating of her inspiration music.

Having a natural dramatic ability she forms a correct interpretation of the characters displayed upon the screen, characterizing in detail from tragedy, comedy or train effect, running of horses, etc., blending her music so that it appeals to the public as operatic music does to the libretto.

She has given this work careful study for the past four years. She does not believe in operatic picture music unless adapted to the picture. For examaple—if you use operatic selections, your audience certainly has heard many of them.

This music recalls the words which are entirely unfitted, perhaps, to the words that would be spoken in the scene before them on the screen. Music to suit the picture must not conflict.

Also, there is a decided difference between classic, comedy and "knock-about" music. So few orchestras or musicians realize this fact. I was amused here recently in visiting one of the San Francisco theatres. I noticed the organist used a portion of "William Tell," the Allegro movement. I asked him why he used that music for this barroom combat. The reply was, "Oh, it has a blood and thunder sound to it, so I just use it."

Yes, I appreciated this fact, but it would have been very much better suited to "Wind and Rain Storm," "Storm Dying Away," and "Birds Chirping," than a combat scene. This movement would suit a "Scenic Thunder Storm" with a couple riding and hurrying to get under shelter.

Lack of Interest in Music at San Francisco

It is deplorable, the lack of interest in the motion picture theatres in San Francisco. I have visited them all and can safely say that only a few theatres give music the attention it should have.

The Imperial, under the management of J. Partington, deserves special mention. He combines a well selected orchestra with a pipe organ, the organist playing special pictures, making the music an artistic attraction to his theatre.

I visited the Savoy recently while "The Clansman" was showing. It has had a run of some twenty-eight weeks. The quartet chorus in the cotton picking scene was very effective, but the most effective of all, which showed the leader's fine interpretation of music and the picture, the scene where the sister sits down and plays the piano alone after the boys have left for the war, I noticed a most unusual and effective interpretation.

The leader directed the orchestra to be silent while the pianist played, following the sister playing in her solitude on the screen. It is this class of interpretation that motion pictures require to make them effective. Small details like this make a picture almost living.

The "Portola" also gives attention to music and the picture.

The average houses, however, play electric organs, motion picture players, who know absolutely nothing of music and use no discretion in selections. This beautiful city should wake up and get in line.

Time is not far distant when music and the picture must blend —otherwise, poor business.

BARTOLA REPORTS 100 PER CENT. INCREASE IN SALES FOR 1915

CHARLES C. PYLE, general sales agent of the Bartola Musical Instrument Company, with offices at 710 Mallers Building, Chicago, Ill., states that 1915 showed one hundred per cent. increase in business over 1914.

This is due to the combined efforts of Mr. Pyle personally and the sales promotion work which he has pushed to the limit.

The latest installations reported have been made in New Majestic theatre, Beloit, Wisconsin, managed by Muller and Quiggle; Princess theatre, Benton Harbor, Michigan, operated by M. C. Mellenson; and Peoples theatre, Elyria, Ohio, owned by C. Neufer.

Every theatre owner and manager, as well as every musician, has his own idea as to just how pictures should be played and what is necessary in order to make his house popular from a musical standpoint.

Some realize that their knowledge and experience properly treated and set forth will be of value to others who may not enjoy their success, but they do not know how to make their suggestions of benefit to others.

There are also those who want help and these are perhaps the majority. Yet they do not know where or how to get this assistance.

* * * * *

The Music Department of the "News" is for just this purpose.

We will publish the opinions of any of our readers, or we will answer any of their questions; in fact, we are here for the express purpose of promoting better picture music.

Mr. Luz is an expert. It is because of his knowledge that several houses, which in the past have failed, are now making wonderful successes.

Why not take advantage of his knowledge?

* * * * *

Manufacturers of musical instruments and music accessories are also invited and requested to send in to this department news items, descriptions, etc., of anything new which is being placed upon the market and which will be of interest to motion picture theatre owners.

* * * * *

This department is open to all.

Blue Bird Feature. Helen Ware in "Secret Love"

By Ernst Luz. Projection Time 85 Minutes

THIS plot is adapted so as to make it possible for the pianist, one man orchestra player, organist or orchestra leader to make some prior preparation for playing the picture. The numbers suggested need not be used; similar numbers, or numbers suggested by the Notes will do as well. It is intended that no unnecessary expense be added for exhibitor or musician.

	Description of Music	Number Suggested	Cue to Stop Number
		PART 1.
1.	Light 2/4 (Scotch)	"Rye Reel" (W. Jacobs)	"One among these colliers," etc.
2.	Agitato	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 4"—A1 (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	"Joan Lowrie," etc.
3.	Andte (Short)	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 4"—B2	Pit girl trying to lift basket of coal.
4.	Agitato (Light)	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 4"—A1	Sick pit girl carried into room of house.
5.	Desc. (Hy.)	"L'Ermite" (W. Jacobs & Co.)	"The owners of the Riggan mines," etc.
6.	Light 2/4 (Scotch)	"A Highland Lad" (E. Ascher)	Foreman scolding Joan.
7.	Agitato (Light)	"A B. C. Dramatic Set No. 4"—A1	Engineer goes to Joan's assistance.
8.	Rom. Intro and Waltz	"Tesoro Mio" (C. Fischer)	Connects 1 and 2.
		PART 2.	"At the end of the day."
9.	Factory Whistle Imitation
10.	Desc. (Hy.-Dr.-Ag.)	"Sleepy Hollow" (W. Jacobs)	"Anice goes calling."
11.	Light 2/4 (Scotch)	"Queen Among the Heather" (E. Ascher)	Connects 2 and 3.
		PART 3.	After Anice separates fighting boys.
12.	Waltz (Scotch)	"Blue Bells of Scotland" (C. Fischer)	"Later. That night."
13.	Inter. (Minor)	"Mona" (M. Witmark & Co.)	After mine owner's son enters inn.
14.	Desc. (Hy.-Rom.)	"Twilight" (Chappell & Co.)	Engineer and Lowrie meet on street at inn.
15.	Galop (Hy.)	"Saddle Back" (W. Jacobs & Co.)	After fight. Street scene.
16.	Dr. Andte.	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—B2 (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	After "The home-coming of the vanquished."
17.	Hurry	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 3"—A1	Lowrie off from daughter after hitting her.
18.	Desc. (Hy.-Rom.)	"At Parting" (Ricordi & Co.)	Connects 3 and 4.
		PART 4.	"Lowrie bent on revenge," etc.
19.	Short Hy.-Intro. and Waltz	"Unrequited Love" (Jos. W. Stern)	Joan following engineer on country road.
20.	Hy. Intro and Waltz	"Spring, Beautiful Spring" (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	"Eight o'clock," etc.
21.	Desc. (Hy.-Rom)	"Love's Garden of Roses" (Chappell & Co.)	Connects 4 and 5.
		PART 5.	"Next day. Unsuccessful," etc.
22.	Waltz (Leg.)	"Berceuse Tendre" (Jos. W. Stern)	Page of Bible flashed on screen.
23.	Desc. (Hy.-Path.)	"Lilacs" (Leo Feist)	"One year later."
24.	Inter (Light Desc.)	"Marcelle" (E. Schuberth & Co.)	"The face at the window." (Quick)
25.	Mysterioso	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 10"—A1	One scene.
26.	Desc. (Hy.)	"Roses and Memories" (Berlin & Snyder)	Lowrie following the engineer around big rocks.
27.	Hurry	"A. B. C. Dramatic Set No. 6"—B2	Lowrie thrown over cliff.
28.	8 Bar Andte and Waltz	"Phyllis" (Jos. W. Stern & Co.)	At explosion. (Quick)
		PART 6.
29.	Long Galop	"Quick Action" (M. Witmark)	"——— and for several days, Derrick," etc.
30.	Desc. (Hy.-Path.)	"Spring Dreams" (Leo Feist)	"So, Joan, the pit girl," etc.
31.	Waltz Lento. (Leg.)	"Charme D'Amour" (M. Witmark)	To end.

This picture very admirably combines the dramatic, melodramatic and characteristic. The entire story has a Scotch background. The Scotch musical character should be emphasized in the first three reels, after which the picture becomes dramatic and more serious music should be used.

By adhering to the Scotch in your 2/4 numbers and waltz No. 12, sufficient character color will be obtained.

Music Notes.—Nos. 1-6 and 11 should be light 2/4 Scotch characteristic numbers. No. 12 a waltz and Scotch melodies. Nos. 2, 3, 4, 7, 16, 17, 25 and 27 should be short melodramatic numbers. Nos. 5, 14, 18, 21. 23, 26 and 30 must be very slow legato numbers of very serious effect.

The usual agitated strain in minor will make the numbers more expressive. The romantic and pathetic should be paramount when suggested. Nos. 8, 19, 20 and 28 should be concert waltzes with slow dramatic introductions.

No. 10 must be a slow heavy number with a syncopated accompaniment. Must convey agitation and the dramatic. No. 13 should be a 2/4 number in minor key.

Nos. 15-29 should be galops. Avoid galops that suggest the polka. Nos. 22 and 31 should be very slow dreamy waltzes, played legato. No. 24 should be a 4/4 Intermezzo. Descriptive number. Not slow.

Melodramatic pictures do not usually allow of good organ opportunities. Nos. 5, 14, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 26, 30 and 31 are very good on organ.

Mr. Exhibitor: The word best is not copyrighted, but its synonym, is a registered trade-mark. Have you sent for our catalogue?

THE BARTOLA ORCHESTRA

CHAS. C. PYLE, 710-711 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Factory, Oshkosh, Wisconsin

HEADQUARTERS FOR MEN AND WOMEN MUSICIANS

ORCHESTRAS under our management playing in many of the principal photoplay theatres. To have real music you want AN ORCHESTRA. No mechanical instrument can ever take its place. At liberty

IMPERIAL LADIES' ORCHESTRA SMITHONEAN QUINTETTE (all men)

We furnish from pianist to orchestra of fifty pieces. Eminent artists, vocal and instrumental.

GEO. W. SMITH, Mgr., 1493 Broadway, New York City

Suite 318. Telephone:—Bryant 3574.

A Deagan Electric Una-Fon

USED FOR STREET AND LOBBY ADVERTISING. BRINGS BETTER RESULTS THAN HALF ITS PRICE SPENT IN NEWSPAPER SPACE DAILY. IT IS A MUSICAL SENSATION DE LUXE AND ALWAYS GETS THE CROWD. FOUR STYLES TO CHOOSE FROM.

WRITE FOR TRIAL OFFER AND CATALOG F

J. C. DEAGAN, Deagan Building 1782 Berteau Avenue Chicago, Ill.

DON'T GET THE IDEA

because of their conspicuous success in large installations, that the W. W. KIMBALL COMPANY is high priced and not interested in the musical equipment of smaller theatres.

For every great instrument, such as the three and four manual organs in the Globe Theatre, Boston; the Orpheum, New York; the Arcadia, Philadelphia; the Colonial, Seattle; the Clemmer, Spokane; the Columbia and National Theatres in Portland, there are scores of Kimballs costing $5,000.00 and under—equally successful—in the moving picture theatres of the country seating from 400 to 2,000. Chicago alone has seventy-five such Kimball organs.

Let us figure with you, whatever your problem.

W. W. KIMBALL COMPANY, ESTABLISHED 1857 CHICAGO

Eastern Office:—507 Fifth Avenue, New York City

A. B. C. DRAMATIC MUSIC

Don't be without the New Modern Melo-Dramatic Music for Picture Playing
9 Sets now ready.

Set No. 1 consists of a heavy misterioso. Agitato and Plaintive, for scenes of incendiarism or premeditated murder.
Set No. 2 consists of a long Heavy Dramatic Descriptive and Hurry. Good for scenes of heavy plotting or mysterious action leading to fights or tumult.
Set No. 3 consists of an Agitato-Hurry and Lamentation. Good for fights, riots, etc., ending in despair or death.
Set No. 4 consists of a Light Agitato and Andante movement. Good for quarrels or agitation in society dramas.
Set No. 5 is a Burglar scene opening with the sneaky music, then agitato, hurry and Plaintive. Contains four different uumbers.
Set No. 6 consists of a misterioso and Allegro Hurry. Used for plotting ending in great confusion or fights.
Set No. 7 is an Indian scene of three numbers. An Indian mystical opening a fight or battle hurry, closing with an Indian plaintive.
Set No. 8 is a fight and chase scene. Opens with a Hurry, going directly into a concert galop for the chase.
Set No. 9 is a three numbered Storm scene. A.1 is a Storm Hurry. B.2 is an Allegro Agitato. C.3 a Plaintive Andante as an Aftermath.

No picture player can afford to be without these numbers. All numbers arranged for Piano, Organ, One Man Orchestra Player or Orchestral combinations from 2 to 35 pieces.

Prices:—Small Orch. including Organ and Cello.....25 cents each Set
Full Orch. .....35 cents each Set
Piano Solo and Accom.....10 cents each Set
Extra Parts .....5 cents each part

PHOTO PLAY MUSIC CO., Publishers.
New York Theatre, 1530 Broadway, New York City

PRINTING and DEVELOPING

IN TWELVE HOURS

PROMPT—EXPERT—DEPENDABLE

4c. PER FOOT
COMPLETE TITLE
5c. PER FOOT

OUTPUT 1,000,000 FEET PER WEEK

Liberty Motion Picture Laboratories
GERMANTOWN PHILADELPHIA PENNSYLVANIA

Tear out this advertisement, write your name on the margin, mail it to us today, and you will receive particulars by return mail.

SIMPLICITY * RELIABILITY * ENDURANCE * SEEBURG

¶ A SEEBURG PIPE ORGAN furnishes the best orchestral music for your theatre that money can obtain.

¶ A SEEBURG PIPE ORGAN will pay for itself in a short time by saving you the cost of your present orchestra.

¶ There is A SEEBURG PIPE ORGAN for every size theatre.

¶ These three facts justify your investigating the SEEBURG PIPE ORGAN.

¶ A postal will bring you full information regarding the SEEBURG PIPE ORGAN suitable for your theatre.

J. P. Seeburg Piano Co.

Manufacturers

1004 Republic Building
CHICAGO

BOSTON
M. Steinert Sons
162 Boylston St.

PITTSBURGH
431 Liberty St.

NEW YORK
127 W. 65th St.

ATLANTA
65 No. Pryor St.

SAN FRANCISCO
52 Turk St.

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

TABLE OF CONTENTS

SKYROCKETS (William A. Johnston)..... 343

EDITORIALS 344

Protection Under the Law or Lawlessness in the Name of the Law: Which Will you Have?..... 345
Pennsylvania Makes 600 Police Chiefs Film Spies..... 347
Bluebird Photoplays Plans Savings for Exhibitors..... 349
The Press, Press Representative and the Picture, XV.... 377
General Film Announces Important Changes in Field Staff 379
"News" Editorials on Vital Film Subject Make Stir..... 381
Ince Community Dedicated with Reception and Ball..... 346
Wild Rumors Aimed at Prominent Film Concerns..... 346
Rothapfel Takes Hold of Knickerbocker Theatre..... 347
Business Shunts V-L-S-E Into Bigger Quarters..... 348
"Strange Case of Mary Page" Released January 24..... 348
Three Pallas Subjects Almost Ready..... 350
Universal Puts Another Beauty Contest Winner in Pictures 350
Variety of Subjects Aim of Equitable in Plots..... 351
"Madame X," Seven-Season Stage Hit, a Pathe Picture.... 351
New Paramount Offices Get Housewarming on 7th..... 352
"Horrors of War" for Pathe January 24..... 352
Increased Popularity of Films at Buffalo, New York..... 353
Bernarr McFadden in "U" Bi-Monthly Split Reel..... 353
Film City on Long Island Is William Fox's Plan..... 354
Thanhouser Forces Gather in Jacksonville..... 355
Lesser Buys "Ne'er-Do-Well" Rights for the Country... 355
Williams Gives Turbett Credit for Edison Film..... 376
"Mme. Cubist" Is Eccentric Play for Mary Fuller..... 377
Four Pictures for K-E Release in This Month..... 378
Hartmann Device Throws Figures in Bold Relief..... 378
Mack's Company to Syndicate Screen Stories..... 380
Petrova Sweeps Canada in Social Triumph..... 380
Congress Grants Board of Trade Censor Hearing..... 388
Connaught First Seven-Day Run Theatre in Montreal..... 388
"Lure of Heart's Desire" Instead of "Rose of Alley"..... 385
Bud Fisher's Mutt and Jeff for Screen..... 385
Chicago Picked for Annual League Convention..... 386
Paramount Executives at Bray Cartoon Showing..... 386
New Orleans Largest "Legit" Opens with a Lasky..... 389
Pickford to Remain with Famous Players..... 389

DEPARTMENTS

Live Wire Exhibitors..... 356
Among the Exchanges..... 358
Film News from Foreign Parts.....361
Looking Ahead with the Producers..... 362
New Laws and Court Decisions..... 369
In and Out of West Coast Studios..... 371
Just to Make Talk 375

REVIEWS

A Soul Enslaved (Universal)..... 393
A Parisian Romance (Fox)..... 396
Britton of the Seventh (Vitagraph)..... 391
Building Up the Health of the Nation (Universal)..... 392
Colonel Heezaliar's Waterloo (Paramount)..... 394
City of Failing Light, The (Lubin)..... 395
Five Faults of Flo, The (Thanhouser—M. M. P.)..... 391
Green Stockings (Vitagraph Blue Ribbon)..... 395
Her Great Hour (Equitable)..... 399
Innocent Crook, An (Vogue)..... 395
Jeanne Dore (Bluebird)..... 390
King's Game, The (Pathe Gold Rooster)..... 393
Mice and Men (Famous Players) 398
My Lady's Slipper (Vitagraph Blue Ribbon)..... 390
Pieces of the Game (Essanay)..... 396
The City (World Film)..... 397
The Catspaw (Kleine-Edison)..... 392
The Thoroughbred (American-M. M. P.)..... 394
Tongues of Men, The (Morosco-Paramount)..... 394
Water Stuff (Mustang-Mutual)..... 397
Why Love Is Blind (Selig)..... 396
General Film Program..... 402
Mutual Program 404
Pathe Exchange 406
Universal Program 406

RELEASE CHARTS

Release Charts 408, 410, 412, 414, 416

ACCESSORY NEWS SECTION

Motion Picture Projection Simplified..... 431
Projection 434
Building and Furnishing 438
Directory of New Theatres..... 440
Music and the Picture..... 445

Developing

Printing

Titles

Standard

Filmprint

Corporation

120 School Street

Yonkers, N. Y.

Telephone

4600 Yonkers

SELIG Introduces

Miss Regina Badet to the American Pictureplay Public
In the Sensational and Heart-touching Drama

"NO GREATER LOVE"

A SELIG RED SEAL PLAY WRITTEN BY WM LE QUEUX

BOOK THROUGH V·L·S·E

PALLAS PICTURES

PRESENTS

DUSTIN FARNUM

IN

"The CALL OF THE CUMBERLANDS"

By CHARLES NEVILLE BUCK

RELEASED JAN 24TH

PALLAS PICTURES

PUBLICITY OFFICE
220 WEST 42ND STREET
NEW YORK, N.Y.

CANADIAN DISTRIBUTORS
FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM SERVICE LTD
MONTREAL, TORONTO, CALGARY,

STUDIOS
205 NORTH OCCIDENTAL B'V'D.
LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

PARAMOUNT PROGRAM

JANUARY 29, 1916

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

PARAMOUNT PROGRAM

THE NAME OF LASKY
MEANS
PERFECTION
IN PHOTOPLAY
PRODUCTIONS

LASKY

W. Stephen Bush says about "The Golden Chance"—"It deserves to take its place among the very best Lasky productions. It is bound to add to the prestige of the motion picture everywhere."

JESSE L. LASKY FEATURE PLAY CO., Inc.
FOUR EIGHTY-FIVE FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK CITY

Jesse L. Lasky, Pres. — Samuel Goldfish, Vice Pres. & Treas. — Cecil B. de Mille, Dir. Gen.

LASKY

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS JAN 22 1916

RED FEATHER PHOTO PLAYS

PRESENT

"Right of the Range"

Featuring that Brilliant Broadway Star and Screen Idol

Harry D. Carey

Ably supported by a Brilliant Cast
-Including-
Olive Golden - Peggy Coudray

IF thrills make a picture, this equals ten of them. If strong plot and vigorous acting make punches, this is full of them. If you and your patrons are interested in the sort of picture that COMMANDS applause, BOOK this remarkable feature, and boost it to the limit. The story is as old as the human heart. The settings and scenes are as big, vigorous and wholesome as the Great West.

Write or wire your nearest Universal Exchange for release date and bookings

PARAMOUNT PICTURES

DANIEL FROHMAN
PRESENTS

PAULINE FREDERICK

IN AN UNUSUALLY POWERFUL DRAMA,

"THE SPIDER"

By William H. Clifford.

IN WHICH THE SUPERB EMOTIONAL ARTISTE PRESENTS TWO DISTINCT CHARACTERIZATIONS.

IN FIVE PARTS

RELEASED JAN. 27TH.

PRODUCED BY THE

FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM Co.

ADOLPH ZUKOR, President,
DANIEL FROHMAN, Managing Director

507 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK

Canadian distributors—FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM SERVICE, Ltd.
Calgary—Montreal—Toronto

48 FAMOUS FEATURES A YEAR

48 FAMOUS FEATURES A YEAR

Wm. A. Brady
Picture Plays Inc.
Presents
Robert Warwick
in the dramatic triumph of his career
"Fruits of Desire"
Adapted from
Henry Russell Miller's novel
"The Ambition of Mark Truitt" by arrangement with Bobbs Merrill Co.
This is a man's drama in its account of a battle royal of steel kings. It is a woman's drama in its story of young romance, marriage, divorce, the passions of maturity, and the triumph of love.
WORLD FILM CORPORATION
LEWIS J. SELZNICK, VICE-PRESIDENT & GENERAL MANAGER

Here's Proof
That We Started 1916
Right!
These Stars in February Knockouts typify the Standard we have set for the year.
Clara Kimball Young
Kitty Gordon
George Beban
Alice Brady
WORLD FILM CORPORATION
LEWIS J. SELZNICK, VICE-PRESIDENT & GENERAL MANAGER

Our advertisers tell us when you give YOU the best magazine

PREMO

Famous as the producers of the World Film success

"THE MASTER HAND"

starring Nat Goodwin

also famous for the production now booked through Pathe

"THE GREATER WILL"

starring Cyril Maude

now announce to the motion picture field at large, the news of

A New Premoplay

"The Devil's Toy" is without question the most dramatic production of a decade. It marks the advent of a new sort of drama on the screen. Not only is its superb cast headed by

ADELE BLOOD

famous as EVERYWOMAN

but, supporting this great actress whose fame reaches the smallest town and hamlet in America, is

EDWIN STEVENS

famous as THE DEVIL along with

MONTAGU LOVE

Feature of "The Ware Case"

Montagu Love

Attention is called to the fact that Premo is now at work on another new production.

"TO HIM THAT HATH"

and will star filmdom's beloved hero,

ROBERT WARWICK

Adele Blood

Famous as "Everywoman," known throughout the country. In the great Allegory she appeared for years preparing as it were for this, her greatest characterization. In "The Devil's Toy" she is seen wearing gowns costing thousands.

Adapted from "The Mills of the Gods" by Madden and Marks. Scenarios adapted by and directed by him.

HARLEY KNOLES

The DEVIL'S TOY

"Something New"

The biggest drama of filmdom. A NEW sort of surprise and thrill. The play is not only unusually happy in scenic effects and acting, but here is the perfect tragedy of the year. Every individual scene is worth an advertisement. Every individual scene is worth as much as most plays. Witness the following:

The skating scene in the famous Biltmore Hotel Ice Gardens;

The theatre scene with a hundred stage children;

The great fashion show, the most expensive ever produced, with beautiful mannequins;

The sensational, mystical fade-ins of the Devil.

Scenic sets of tremendous magnitude.

PREMO FILM CORPORATION

Harry Rapf, Pres. Harley Knoles, V.-Pres. and Director Gen.

11 EAST 14TH ST. NEW YORK CITY

(Old Biograph Studio)

EQUITABLE

Regardless of what the other six nights may bring, a contract for the following Equitable features will afford you one big contrasting subject each week.

Arrange your forthcoming seven weeks with one night each week as

EQUITABLE NIGHT

as follows. Taking Wednesday night as an example.

January 19 — Henry Kolker in "The Warning"
The eminent stage star in a powerful allegorical drama.

January 26 — Gail Kane in "The Labyrinth"
The magnetic favorite in the best story of stage life, ever screened.

February 2 — William Courtenay in "Sealed Lips"
One of the most fascinating tales with a series of surprises and remarkable plots.

February 9 — Charles J. Ross in "The Senator"
An unusual story. Episodic, picturesque, romantic and wonderfully produced.

February 16 — Margarita Fischer in "The Dragon"
As strange as the title implies. No story like it ever filmed.

February 23 — Molly McIntyre in "Her Great Hour"
To the screen, what "Within the Law" was to the stage, only more romantic and startling.

March 1 — Julia Dean in "The Ransom"
The representative emotional actress in a vivid story of mother love, sacrifice and man's avarice.

The above features are proven. They have been playing from one to eight weeks and have been unanimously accepted by the trade as real box office attractions.

EQUITABLE MOTION PICTURES CORPORATION
LEWIS J. SELZNICK, VICE PRES. AND ADVISORY DIRECTOR
RELEASING THROUGH
WORLD FILM CORPORATION

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION
offers —

THE DRIFTER

A DRAMA OF DEEP HUMAN INTEREST, DEALING WITH ONE OF LIFE'S MOST COMPLEX PROBLEMS. A MASTERFUL PRODUCTION—FIVE REELS featuring the Charming Actress—

LUCILLE TAFT

And

ALEXANDER GADEN

Released the Week of FEB. 7TH.
Produced by GAUMONT

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION
offers —

POWDER

AN ALTOGETHER STARTLING PRODUCTION - A DRAMA UNIQUE IN THEME AND ABSOLUTELY AMAZING IN ITS INTEREST-COMPELLING QUALITIES

Featuring.....

ARTHUR MAUDE

THE STAGE FAVORITE OF TWO CONTINENTS

Released the Week of FEB. 7TH.
Produced by AMERICAN

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES
DE LUXE EDITION

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION
offers—

THE SOUL'S CYCLE

A SENSATIONAL PHOTODRAMA BASED ON THE THEORY OF TRANSMIGRATION OF THE SOUL...THE SCENES ARE LAID IN ANCIENT GREECE. FIVE REELS

Featuring the Alluring Star

MARGARET GIBSON

AND THE FAMOUS
BOSTOCK LIONS

Released the Week of FEB. 7TH.

Produced by Horsley

MUTUAL PICTURES

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION
offers
A CLIPPER STAR FEATURE

LILLO OF THE SULU SEAS

AN INTENSELY GRIPPING AND SPECTACULAR PRODUCTION PRESENTING BIG SCENES OF TROPICAL SPLENDOR. THREE POWERFUL REELS

Featuring the Eminent Star
HAROLD LOCKWOOD
Supported by
A GREAT CAST - INCLUDING
MAY ALLISON AND WILLIAM STOWELL

RELEASED the WEEK of FEB. 7TH.
Produced by American

THE GIRL AND THE GAME

"THE GIRL AND THE GAME" is a remarkable series of rapid-fire thrills. A half million dollars were spent on these smashing Fifteen Chapters—or over $33,000 on each chapter! Each chapter is a marvelous production in itself.

Thrills Guaranteed In Every Chapter!

President Hutchinson of the producing company definitely guarantees the thrills in every chapter. Every chapter is an individual triumph. Book "The Girl and the Game" and your patrons will cheer each sudden, terrific climax.

CIAL FEATURE

MENDOUS!

-SCENES-CROWDS-RECEIPTS

From thousands of theatres comes the same report of record-breaking attendance and boundless enthusiasm overflowing at each electrifying exploit of daring Helen Holmes in "The Girl and the Game". Each chapter is a ten-strike, jammed with hair-raising situations and tremendous thrills! In Chapter Five, this surprising star leaps from the top of a telegraph pole onto a speeding train. Then she settles a sensational fight on a coal car. Climax follows climax, bringing the big crowds to the edges of their seats.

Book Fifteen Weeks of Big Profits!

Book "The Girl and the Game"—fifteen two-act chapters that crowd your house. One chapter is released each week. Five now appearing. Beautiful Helen Holmes is a fearless heroine who is immensely popular. She is seen in vastly differing situations—in beautiful gowns—then in the humble frocks of a telegraph operator.

Make big money out of this two-mile-a-minute railroad film novel. The thrills on the screen mean jingling thrills in the box-office. Make your house the community center of the greatest in motion pictures. Act now. WIRE your nearest Mutual Exchange.

Over 1000 Newspapers are publishing, for millions of readers, week by week, Frank H. Spearman's story of "The Girl and the Game." The leading newspapers all over the United States are giving more than twice the cooperation ever given before to any film production.

The story is graphic—vivid—describes the lightning-like scenes with remarkable realism and all the power of the great word-painter. It is being followed by enormous numbers of people eager to see the enthralling tale pictured for them on the screen.

New York World	San Francisco Chronicle
Pittsburgh Press	St. Louis Globe-Democrat
Atlanta Constitution	Cleveland Leader
Omaha Bee	Louisville Herald
Buffalo Courier	Philadelphia North American
Indianapolis Star	Memphis Commercial Appeal
Chicago Evening Post	Milwaukee Sentinel
Detroit Journal	New Orleans Times-Picayune
Baltimore American	Los Angeles Tribune
Boston Globe	Dallas Journal
Cincinnati Times-Star	Seattle Post-Intelligencer
Kansas City Journal	and One Thousand Others.

For booking information apply to "The Girl and the Game" department of any Mutual Exchange, or at Mutual Home Office, New York City.

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION

SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON, President

Publicity Offices: 222 South State Street CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

MUTUAL PICTURES

SAMMY'S DOUGH-FULL ROMANCE

THE new screaming hit of the "Sammy" series. The dough flies and the fun follows the dough! Ludicrous situations, sparkling with the inimitable comedy of Sammy, develop fast and furiously into convulsing climaxes. Absolutely a novelty, as are all Vogue Comedies, with new stuff, new stunts and new comedians—a whole company of them that produce laughs at a record-breaking rate.

Released—January 20

And Another Sure-Fire Vogue Comedy

A BABY GRAND

Released—January 22

Slapsticks With a Reason

VOGUE COMEDIES

BOOK Vogue funny films—they become a habit with your patrons. Vogue nights are over-flow nights. Cash in on the cleverest screen comedy.

Distributed throughout the United States and Canada exclusively by Mutual Film Corporation

VOGUE FILMS, Inc.

Executives

JOSEPH H. FINN SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON

Publicity Offices: 222 South State St., Chicago, Ill

MUTUAL PICTURES

The BROKEN CROSS

With Harold Lockwood and May Allison

The thrills and heart-throbs of this strong Western drama bring out the best work of these splendid co-stars—amid settings of supreme beauty! A pendant—a "broken cross"—decides the romance of the disinherited son and winsome Red Cross Nurse. Another "Flying A" two-part play that hits the high mark.

Directed by Thomas Ricketts

Released Feb. 1st

Mammy's Rose

Neva Gerber and Frank Borzage One Reel

Directed by James Douglass

Released Feb. 4th

Billy Van Deusen's Wedding Eve

John Steppling—Carol Halloway and John Sheehan

One Reel "Beauty" Comedy

Released Feb. 2nd

The Extra Man and the Milk Fed Lion

Three-Reel "Mustang" Comedy

Released Feb. 4th

The Laird O'Knees

"Beauty" Comedy

with

Orral Humphrey

One Reel

Released Feb. 6th

American Film Company, Inc.

Samuel S. Hutchinson, President

Chicago, Illinois

All "Flying A" "Beauty" and "Mustang" productions are distributed throughout the United States and Canada exclusively by Mutual Film Corporation.

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE
DE LUXE EDITION

EDWIN THANHOUSER PRESENTS

"BETRAYED!"

A DRAMA OF THE ETERNAL CLASH OF HUMAN FORCES

IN 5 REELS

RELEASED JAN. 29TH

Featuring

GRACE DE CARLTON

AND A SPECIALLY SELECTED CAST

STORY BY PHILIP LONERGAN STAGED BY HOWARD M. MITCHELL

THANHOUSER FILM CORP.
NEW ROCHELLE N.Y.

MUTUAL PICTURES

EDWIN THANHOUSER

PRESENTS

FALSTAFF COMEDIES

LUCKY LARRY'S LADY LOVE — 1 REEL

TUESDAY JAN. 25TH

WITH

RILEY CHAMBERLAIN
BOYD MARSHALL AND
LOUISE EMERALD BATES

BEATEN AT THE BATH — 1 REEL

THURSDAY JAN. 27TH

WITH

BARBARA GILROY
AND FRANCES KEYES

A THANHOUSER COMEDY DRAMA

THE BURGLARS' PICNIC

3 REELS
RELEASED WED. JAN. 26TH

WITH A GENEROUS SPRINKLING OF PRETTY GIRLS IN LIVELY EPISODES, LED BY THE POPULAR

FAIRBANKS TWINS

Staged by WILLIAM PARKE from the story by CLINTON H. STAGG

THANHOUSER FILM CORP.
NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y.

MUTUAL WEEKLY

First Page News!

Get any newspaper man to compare current releases of motographic weeklies, and he will unquestionably tell you the leader is

THE MUTUAL WEEKLY

Compare the latest release, Mutual Weekly No. 54, and see how much MORE FIRST PAGE NEWS it gives than any other News Reel.

You Get These Only in the Mutual Weekly

Mutual Weekly No. 54—FIRST PAGE NEWS—The British cruiser, "Natal," mysteriously sunk with loss of over 400 of her crew.

Mutual Weekly No. 54—FIRST PAGE NEWS—P. & O. Liner "Persia," torpedoed in the Mediterranean, U. S. Consul McNeely being among those drowned.

And many other views of national interest.

Mutual Weekly Leads by Six Weeks

A motographic weekly is just now showing Mr. and Mrs. Walter Estes leading primitive lives in the Maine woods. This was news when it appeared in Mutual Weekly No. 48, the latter part of November, 1915.

Again the Mutual Weekly Leads

The movement of the Seventh Cavalry to the border was shown in the last Mutual Weekly of 1915. This was NEWS when the Mutual used it. Two weeks later another weekly gets it—skim milk. The Mutual gives the cream of the news when it is news.

You can have the Mutual Weekly, too, just as it is shown at the Palace Theater, New York, America's greatest vaudeville theater

For Particulars Visit or Write Any Mutual Branch

Manufactured for Mutual Release by Gaumont Laboratories, Flushing, N. Y.

PELL MITCHELL, EDITOR.

MANUFACTURERS

I HAVE IMMEDIATE MARKETS FOR FIVE REEL DRAMATIC PRODUCTIONS OF HIGHEST CLASS, SUPREME QUALITY. UNITED STATES OR WORLD RIGHTS

ARTHUR S. KANE

901 CANDLER BLDG., 220 W. 42ND STREET

TEL. BRYANT 9725. NEW YORK CITY

THE IRON

PATHÉ'S RED-BLOOD

PEARL WHITE

CREIGHTON HALE
and SHELDON LEWIS,
the "ELAINE" favorites

Publicity, cast, title, story or authorship are what bring the crowds your way. Here you have them all, and all ABOVE PAR!

Story written by Arthur Stringer, and adapted by George B. Seitz. 12 chapters of 2 parts each.
Produced by the Feature Film Corporation, under the personal supervision of Edward Jose.
Released Monday, February 21st.

The PATHÉ EXECUTIVE
25 WEST 45th ST.

CLAW
SERIAL WILL FEATURE

Advertised by the newspapers everywhere.

EXCHANGE inc.
OFFICES
NEW YORK

WHAT DO THE EXHIBITORS

THE RED

"YOU HAVE TURNED PATHÉ SERIALS SURELY

Just to Remind You

Produced by Balboa, from scenarios by Will M. Ritchey; Newspaper story by Albert Payson Terhune. Complete in 14 two-part episodes.

The PATHÉ EXECUTIVE
25 WEST 45th ST.

SAY ABOUT PATHÉ'S

CIRCLE

OUT A WINNER!
DO GET THE MONEY!"

Featuring the popular favorite of the wonderfully successful "WHO PAYS?"

RUTH ROLAND

EXCHANGE inc.

OFFICES
NEW YORK

A 5-part GOLD ROOSTER play adapted which cost PATHÉ for the picture

THE LOVE

Agnes Glynne

The
is a contribution
art in story,
RELEASED

The PATHÉ
EXECUTIVE
25 WEST 45th ST.

Paramount Pictures

1916 1916

Mary Pickford

Has signed a new contract with the Famous Players Film Co.

It costs Paramount one half million dollars to put Mary Pickford's pictures in the Paramount Theatres during 1916.

$500,000.00

Real Money! Just one star! For one year! This is only possible because so many millions of people each week select Paramount Theatres when they go to see high class photoplays.

The reason is plain—

The people know theatres showing Paramount Pictures, as the best theatres—

Cash in on this fact. Write your exchange today.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

189-91

Triangle Audiences Pay Two Admissions

Probably one of the greatest proofs of TRIANGLE SUPREMACY is the fact that exhibitors are constantly wiring us that many of their patrons continually pay two admissions to see the same performance over again. Many a moving picture fan is so thrilled with the breath-taking action in an exciting drama, or so highly amused at the swift-moving comedy in the Keystone, that the small matter of another admission price is not considered.

Pocatello, Idaho, January 4th, 1916.

W. S. Rand,
TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION,
Denver, Colorado.
Triangle opened Orpheum Theatre today. Enormous crowds. Everybody highly pleased. Pictures scored heavily. SOME PATRONS CAME TWICE IN SAME DAY.

Don Carrothers.

St. Paul, Minn., January 3rd, 1916.

Mr. Arthur Lucas,
TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Opened TRIANGLE PROGRAMME January 2nd to capacity house all day. Show great. Wonderful photography, beautiful directing and supreme acting. Great applause and enthusiasm from patrons.

Strand Amusement Company.

It is this kind of testimony week after week that PROVES the quality and value of TRIANGLE PLAYS to the exhibitor. They please the patrons and force cash through the box office windows, which is what most interests the exhibitor.

HAS YOUR CONTRACT BEEN ACCEPTED?

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION
71 WEST 23rd ST. NEW YORK

January 23rd Releases A Triangle Triumph

It is easy for you to appreciate the bewitching charm and delightful fascination of such an alluring atmospheric TRIANGLE PLAY as "The Wood Nymph" in which Marie Doro makes her TRIANGLE debut, and when your patrons first witness this superb production with its beauty and sweetness they will be so impressed that their unsolicited recommendations will create a quantity of business for the second performance.

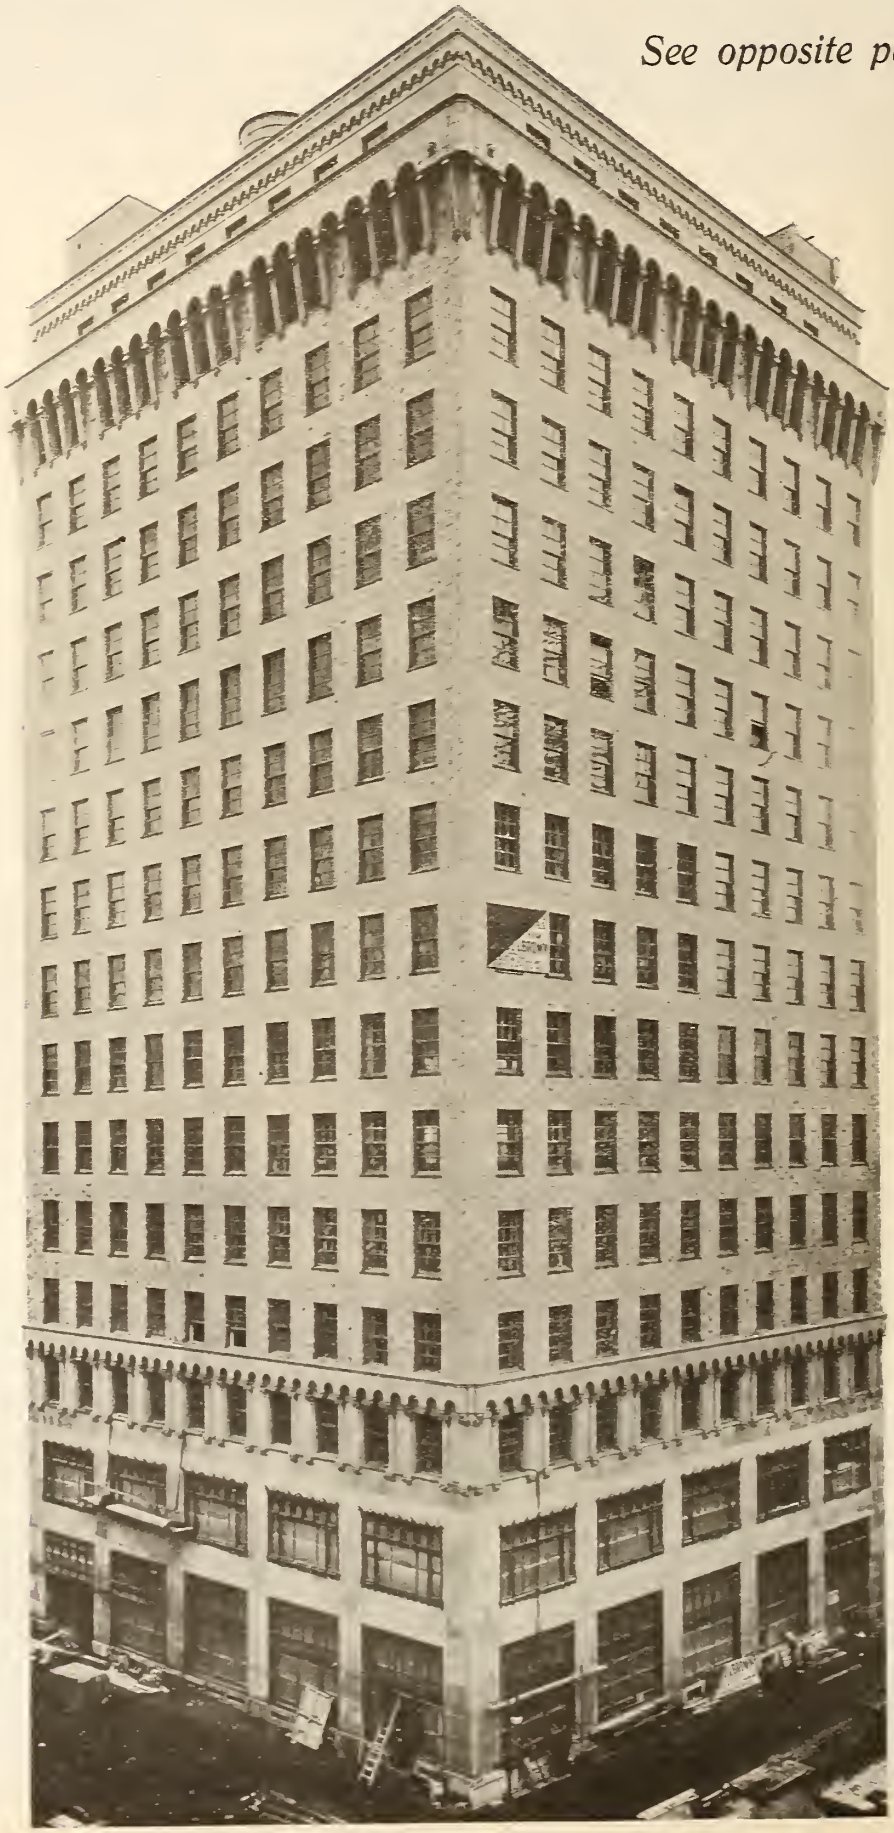
Willard Mack, the popular Broadway star who has made such a marked success in many other TRIANGLE PLAYS, appears this week in a five-reel drama, "The Conqueror," a play of notable strength and absorbing interest. Based on a vital life problem many fathers and mothers are trying to work out, this engrossing picture strikes home and commands the consideration and careful thought of every one of your patrons. It will make a distinct impression.

As for the two comedies, that they are Keystones is almost enough. But when you know that the two pictures, "A Movie Star" and "Perils of the Park," have more than their share of that thousand-laughs-a-minute, rattling, Gatling quality, their success is assured.

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION
71 WEST 23rd ST NEW YORK

Possession February First

See opposite page



A Building For the Film Trade

at

S. E. Cor. 7th Ave. and 49th St.

Especially Constructed for

Executive Offices
Exchange and Projection Purposes

Cross & Brown Co.
Agent

18 East 41st Street
New York

Telephone: 4000 Murray Hill

LUBIN

Released Jan. 24th

"TWO NEWS ITEMS"

One Act Drama

Released Jan. 25th

"THE DRAGOMAN"

Two Act Drama

Released Jan. 27th

"THE EMBODIED THOUGHT"

Three Act Drama

Released Jan. 29th

BILLIE REEVES COMEDY

"CURED"

One Act

GENERAL FILM RELEASES LUBIN

METRO PICTURES

METRO challenged the field to match the best pictures of all programs with Metro's regular productions. The challenge was definite, specific and made in good faith. No company or group of companies accepted the challenge. Metro, therefore accepts, in all modesty, the leadership of the world of motion pictures.

Metro Pictures Corporation

METRO
Pictures Corporation
presents

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN and BEVERLY BAYNE in MAN and HIS SOUL

A 5 Act METRO wonderplay of extraordinary power
Directed by John W. Noble and produced by Quality Pictures Corporation

Released
on the Metro Program
January 31.

ANNOUNCING

Bookings for Metro-Drew Comedies

We recommend that exhibitors get in touch with any of the following offices to arrange now for bookings on the great Metro-Drew one-reel comedies. The releases begin in February.

N. Y. Metro Film Service, Inc.,
110 West 40th St., New York

N. Y. Metro Film Service, Inc.,
35 Church St., Buffalo, N. Y.

N. J. Metro Film Service,
71 West 23rd St., New York

Metro Pictures Corp. of N. E.,
162 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

Metro Film Exchange,
1331 Vine St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Metro Pictures Service,
212 Fourth Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Metro Pictures Service,
9th & D Sts., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Southern Metro Pictures Corp.,
7 Chamberlain Bldg., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Metro Pictures Corp. of Texas,
1905½ Commerce St., Dallas, Texas

Metro Pictures Service,
410 Mallers Bldg., Chicago., Ill.

Metro Pictures Service of Mich.,
260 Equity Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

Metro Pictures Corp.,
920 Walnut St., Des Moines, Iowa

Metro Pictures Service of Minn.,
807 Produce Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.

Metro Pictures Corp.,
1721 California St., Denver, Colo.

Metro Pictures Service,
3618 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

Metro Pictures Service of Ore.,
311 S. Main St., Butte, Mont.

Metro Pictures Corp. of Calif.,
738 S. Olive St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Metro Pictures Service, Inc.,
928 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.

Southern Metro Pictures Corp.,
Nola Bldg., New Orleans, La.

Metro Pictures Service of Ore.,
72 Broadway, Portland, Oregon

Metro Pictures Corp. of Calif.,
55 Jones St., San Francisco, Calif.

Metro Pictures Service of Ore.,
1214 Third Ave., Seattle, Wash.

Starfilms, Ltd.,
Phillips Square, Montreal, Canada

Ruffell's Exclusives, Ltd.,
9 Long Acre, London, England

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

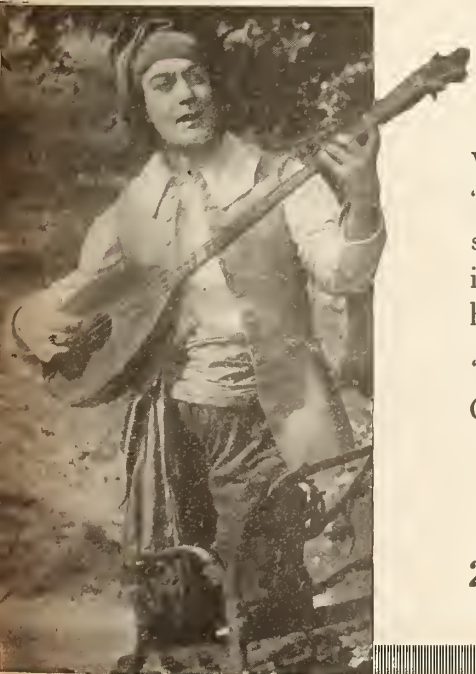
The Black Crook

¶A feature's advertising possibilities is the gauge by which success is measured to-day. What offering among current releases comes to you with greater advertising value than "The Black Crook," famed for two generations in every corner of the country?

A Bigger Novelty Than "Midnight at Maxim's"—Appealing in Its Dramatic Intensity—Dazzling in Its Spectacular Beauty

A Twenty-Four Sheet

Four-color Lithograph of stunning design heads the strong line of pictorial aids. Also two styles of one-sheets, two of threes, and a six sheet. An attractive herald, newspaper cuts, etc. Of the



Special Music

W. Stephen Bush says in the Moving Picture World: "Splendid—Impressive—A complete success." This special score, by Walter C. Simon, which would cost $2 if purchased in the ordinary manner, is supplied to exhibitors at the cost price of fifty cents.

"The Black Crook" is in five parts and is released by the General Film Company.

Kalem Co.

235-239 West 23rd Street :: New York

BEATRIZ MICHELENA, WHO HAS JUST SCORED THE GREATEST TRIUMPH OF HER SCREEN CAREER, IN THE CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION'S DRAMATIZATION OF "THE UNWRITTEN LAW"

WE WILL SHORTLY MARKET

TEN ONE-REEL COMEDIES

comprised in a one-a-week series to be known as

THE MISHAPS OF MUSTY SUFFER

Featuring
in his famous tramp characterization

HARRY WATSON, JR.
of
BICKEL and WATSON

for Which we are accepting EXCLUSIVE SHOWINGS Preliminary to their general Release.

Better class theatres in all principal cities are taking advantage of our new and novel plan for exclusive advance-of-release-date-exhibition.

You don't have to speculate. See them first. 'Phone the nearest Kleine office for screen inspection. Then—after you have seen them you will agree with the Motion Picture News—

"They are a medley of absurd incidents; a delightful extravaganza that keeps a theatreful of people laughing 'till their sides ache,"—which, by the way, is all that any comedy can do!

But see them YOURSELF first. Then let the Kleine man give you details of our plans for exclusive preliminary showings in your city.

GEORGE KLEINE

805 East 175th Street New York City

NEW YORK
226 W. 42nd St.
CHICAGO
166 N. State St.
ATLANTA
71 Walton St.
BOSTON
14 Piedmont St.

DENVER
405 Railroad Bldg.
PHILADELPHIA
1309 Vine St.
MINNEAPOLIS
708 First Ave., N.

PITTSBURGH
123 Fourth Ave.
KANSAS CITY
209 Ozark Bldg.
SEATTLE
204 Orpheum
Theatre Bldg.

SAN FRANCISCO
234 Eddy St.
CINCINNATI
138 W. 7th Street
DALLAS
1812½ Commerce St.

LOS ANGELES
514 W. 8th St.
MONTREAL
204 St. Catherine St., W.
TORONTO
96 Bay St.
NEW ORLEANS
103 Nola Building

Many a packed house is directly traceable to an advertisement in the "News."

BIG FOUR FEATURE PLAY V L S E

Your Interest Is Ours

JUST like "Bobby", your public, absorbed in its activities, needs to be urged to vary from its round.

For this purpose, with every feature play released through V. L. S. E. Inc., is prepared the best we can obtain of all forms of advertising matter for your use to bring the people into your house. Every member of our sales organization is trained and anxious to help you use it to your best advantage.

This is why V. L. S. E. service is particularly valuable to you—our interest lies not only in renting our films but also in helping you to stimulate the public's interest in each one of our plays.

And it is proven over and over again that they are so vitally interesting that seeing one creates a desire to see another.

V. L. S. E.
Inc.

BIG FOUR FEATURE PLAY V L S E

VITAGRAPH
Business Is Good
From every section of the country
East, West, North, South
Come reports that
Business is good.
★ ★ ★
These reports come
From exhibitors who know—
From exhibitors
Who believe in the open market—
From exhibitors
Who pick their programs
On Merit only.
★ ★ ★
And the best part of it all is
They are exhibitors who Use Vitagraph.
They see them on the screen
Use them—
and Business is Good
Regular Releases
"The Cold Feet Getaway"
Comedy—Monday, January 24th
Featuring Harry Fisher and Albert Roccardi
"Peace at Any Price"
Comedy—Friday, January 28th
Featuring Mr. & Mrs. Sidney Drew.
"The Ruse"
Three-part drama—Saturday, January 29th
Broadway Star Feature
Featuring JOSEPH KILGOUR, HARRY MOREY, Denton Vane, Charles Kent, Naomi Childers and Helen Pillsbury.
"Jane's Bashful Hero"
Comedy—Monday, January 31st
Featuring EDITH STOREY, Donald MacBride, Billy Bletcher and Edward Elkas.
The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

VITAGRAPH

A story by the greatest of all screen writers,

CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Directed by a great masterful director,

RALPH INCE

Enacted by stars whom the millions love and admire,

ANITA STEWART and EARLE WILLIAMS,

And produced by a gigantic organization

THE VITAGRAPH

That is,

MY LADY'S SLIPPER

THEY SAY THAT NAMES AND REPUTATIONS
COUNT FOR NOTHING

But Here you have Names
Reputations
Splendid Production
Absorbing Story
And Merit of the Most superlative kind
In each.
Released January 17th thru
V. L. S. E., Inc.

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

VITAGRAPH

Again Cyrus Townsend Brady

Following
My Lady's Slipper
Comes
THE ISLAND OF SURPRISE

By the author of
The Island of Regeneration
CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

* * *

Some say
The Island of Surprise
Is even better than
The Island of Regeneration

* * *

It Features
WILLIAM COURTENAY
The eminent stage star
Eleanor Woodruff
Zeena Keefe
Julia Swayne Gordon
Charles Kent
Anders Randolph
And other popular Vitagraph Stars.
Produced by Paul Scardon
Released January 24th

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

A magazine's success is measured by it's advertising. Look over the N.Y. ...

VITAGRAPH

SCOOPS

HEARST-VITAGRAPH
NEWS PICTORIAL No. 1

Congressman Buchanan Indicted Strike Plotter

British Cabinet Crisis Over Conscription

Survivors of Torpedoed Liner Ancona

Ford Peace Party On their Voyage

HEARST-VITAGRAPH
NEWS PICTORIAL No. 2

President Wilson and Bride On Honeymoon

Ascot Park Motor Speedway Races

Opening of 1916 Racing Season at New Orleans

HEARST-VITAGRAPH
NEWS PICTORIAL No. 3

Strike Rioters Burning East Youngstown, Ohio.

Newly Organized German Artillery in Action

Survivors of The Abandoned Liner Thessaloniki.

And this letter tells the Story

Morrison Hotel
Boston Oyster House

CHICAGO, ILL.
Jan. 6th-16

Hearst -Vitagraph News Pictorial.
Chicago, Ill.,

Dear Sirs:-

Congratulations on your new weekly adventure. I ran #1 first run today at THE BOSTON THEATRE, 21 N. Clark St. and played to a packed house all day, the business being far above what I really expected, as the weather was so cold. The news was interesting and of the most importance and was well gotten up. The photography was excellent and the Powers cartoon was a scream. All that we regretted was that it ended too soon.

With very best wishes for the good work, I am,

Very truly yours,

J. H. Mellor Mgr.,
Boston Theatre 21 N. Clark
Alcazar Theatre 69 W. Madison
Rose " 63 W. Madison.
City

RATES
NEW MORRISON - 625 ROOMS AT $1.50 SINGLE - $2.50 DOUBLE. 150 ROOMS AT $2.00 SINGLE - $3.00 DOUBLE
90 ROOMS AT $3.00 SINGLE - $4.00 DOUBLE
OLD MORRISON - 140 ROOMS WITH RUNNING WATER $1.00 SINGLE - $2.00 DOUBLE.
85 ROOMS WITH BATH $1.50 SINGLE - $2.50 DOUBLE

The VITAGRAPH COMPANY of AMERICA
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
EAST 15th ST. and LOCUST AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
NEW YORK · CHICAGO · LONDON · PARIS

LILLIAN DREW
MARGUERITE CLAYTON
E. H. CALVERT
ERNEST MAUPAIN

are presented in

"VULTURES OF SOCIETY"

In 5 Acts

By Richard Goodall
Directed by E. H. Calvert

TRADEMARK Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

BIG FOUR FEATURE PLAY

1333 Argyle Street, Chicago

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

THE EXHIBITOR WHO BOOKS

The Strange Case of

MARY PAGE

Presents a

WALTHALL-MAYO FEATURE EVERY WEEK FOR FIFTEEN WEEKS

First Release January 24

Book through the General Film Co.

Essanay

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

Geo. K. Spoor, President

The Strange Case of MARY PAGE

By FREDERICK LEWIS, Author of "What Happened to Mary"

FIFTEEN POWERFUL EPISODES

With

HENRY WALTHALL and EDNA MAYO

Directed by J. Charles Haydon
Gowns by Lucile (Lady Duff Gordon)

THESE NEWSPAPERS ARE PRINTING THE STORY

The Albany Times-Union.
The Atlanta Constitution.
The Baltimore News.
The Binghamton (N. Y.) Press.
The Birmingham Age-Herald.
The Buffalo News.
The Chicago Daily News.
The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.
The Cleveland Plain Dealer.
The Columbus State Journal.
The Dallas Times-Herald.
The Dayton Herald.
The Denver Post.
The Des Moines Register and Leader.
The Detroit Free Press.
The Erie (Pa.) Dispatch.
The Harrisburg Patriot.
The Houston Chronicle.
The Indianapolis Star.
The Lincoln Star.
The Los Angeles Express.
The Louisville Herald.
The Memphis News Scimitar.
The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.
The Minneapolis Journal.
The Mobile Item.
The New Haven Union.
The New Orleans Item.
The New York World.
The Omaha Bee.
The Philadelphia Telegraph.
The Pittsburgh Press.
The Portland (Me.) Express.
The Portland (Ore.) Telegram.
The Richmond Times-Dispatch.
The Rochester Union and Advertiser.
The Salt Lake Herald-Republican.
The San Francisco Chronicle.
The Springfield (Mass.) Union.
The St. Louis Republic.
The Syracuse Herald.
The Trenton Times.
The Utica Press.
The Washington Times.
The Wilkes Barre Times-Leader.
The Wilmington (Del.) Journal.
The Worcester Telegram.
AND HUNDREDS MORE.

A Score of Magazines of National Circulation Are Advertising It

Essanay

1333 Argyle St., Chicago
Geo. K. Spoor, President

ESSANAY

PRESENTS

NN MURDOCK

FAMOUS FROHMAN STAR

IN

aptain Jinks
of the Horse Marines"

IN 5 ACTS

dapted from the stage
uccess of Clyde Fitch rranged and directed
y Fred E. Wright

Essanay

1333 Argyle Street, Chicago

George K. Spoor, President

JAN 20 1916
©CI.B354435

"When You See it in 'The News' It's NEWS"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
427 SO. FIGUEROA STREET

NEW YORK CITY
TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY WEST FORTY-SECOND STREET

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
110 SO. DEARBORN STREET

Volume XIII JANUARY 29, 1916 No. 4

The Why and Wherefore of This Issue

THE exhibitor, we believe, will find this Studio Directory number an every-week, permanent help, a business need.

It is issued primarily in the exhibitors' interests. The newspaper and the producer will also find it a convenience which they will want within elbow reach; but it has been put forth in response to the requests of many exhibitors and primarily to fill this practical demand.

* * *

IT is a directory of many players, directors, camera-men and scenario writers—not all, but a great many and as many as we could secure for the first time and for a purpose not clearly understood in advance by all the members of a very busy profession.

All these names are listed alphabetically and cross-indexed for purposes of ready reference.

* * *

EACH name leads to a biography, condensed necessarily, but giving useful information which, if desired, can be expanded; also many names lead to much more complete biographies in the next section where the subject has considered the opportunity important enough to pay for and secure larger space.

First, as to the use of the directory:

The exhibitor, let us say, is making up his theatre program, or advance announcement of preparing publicity matter to give to his newspaper along with his advertising copy.

* * *

HE knows the players to appear in the pictures he has booked and probably also the director, writer and camera-man. He may or may not have at hand information from the manufacturer regarding these persons so important to the picture and to the advertising of it to the public.

But he now has this necessary information in one volume of ready reference and at hand, each week or for any occasion. The information consists of those personal facts which photoplay patrons want most to know about the people of the screen, and which most surely bring them to see those in whom they already feel they have a personal interest.

This, briefly, is the purpose of this Studio Directory number.

* * *

IT is a serious purpose; and like all publications of genuine merit this number was issued because of this serious purpose. We call it an authorized directory because it has been authorized by a majority of the producers. It presents biographical facts, and it is designed quite as much in the interests of the picture as of the player for the simple reason that nothing is more certain to bring people to the screen than interesting personal publicity about the players and creators of the picture.

* * *

THIS volume was not put out to catch advertising, or at a price of several dollars, or with indefinite promises of circulation.

It is one thing to charge a high price for the privilege of seeing one's portrait and biography in a single volume.

It is quite another to put this material into the theatre and newspaper office and thence into million-fold circulation among the public.

* * *

THIS issue goes forth as a regular number of Motion Picture News into the offices of practically every picture theatre and every prominent newspaper in the country; also to all the exchanges and to all the producers of motion pictures. Within the life of the volume its editorial matter ought to reach in newspaper print a very large percentage of the millions whose patronage has advanced this industry to fifth place in our country.

We know of no better, surer way to accomplish this important result.

* * *

OUR work in compiling this Studio Directory has been made difficult by two situations beyond our control: one is due to previous fizzles in the way of directories and to the constant and confusing demand upon directors and players for paid publicity in almost every kind of alleged vehicle, the only certain factor of which was the pay demanded.

The other situation is due to studio disorganization, which kept us from getting the editorial matter desired.

* * *

WE believe that both difficulties will be done away with in the next Studio Directory which is now to be a standard issue, twice a year, of Motion Picture News.

This issue has another value which we want to point out in closing. The advertising of films and accessories carried is but little greater than in our regular issues, but it is so comprehensive of the entire field that the exhibitor will find this issue a valuable and permanent addition to our regular issues as a purchasing guide.

William A. Johnston.

Copyright, 1916, by Exhibitors' Times, Inc.

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
MOTION PICTURE NEWS EXHIBITORS' TIMES
Published on Tuesday Every Week by
EXHIBITORS' TIMES, Inc.

WILLIAM A. JOHNSTON.....President and Editor
HENRY F. SEWALL.....Vice-President
E. KENDALL GILLETT.....Secretary
H. ASHTON WYCKOFF.....Treasurer and Business Manager
WENTWORTH TUCKER.....Asst. Treasurer
R. M. VANDIVERT.....Advertising Manager
THEODORE S. MEAD.....Chicago Manager
J. C. JESSEN.....Los Angeles Manager
LESLEY MASON.....Managing Editor
WILLIAM RESSMAN ANDREWS.....News Editor

This publication is owned and published by Exhibitors' Times, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York. The offices and principal place of business are at 220 West 42d Street, New York City. The address of the officers is the office of the publication.

Entered as Second-Class matter at the New York Post-Office.

Subscription $2 per year, postpaid in the United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philipine Islands. Canada, $3; Foreign, $4 per year. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent taking your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

Vol. XIII January 29, 1916 No. 4

Regulation—The Solution

THE hearings at Washington, despite the serious menace of the Hughes-Smith Bill for Federal censorship, have been of direct and great benefit to the motion picture industry.

For one thing, they drew together all branches of the industry and evolved a fine unity of spirit out of these elements which are and should be as one.

* * *

FOR another, they have developed a very clear and common understanding as to this industry's stand upon censorship.

If we interpret correctly this stand it is as follows:

We are, as a body, utterly opposed to all censorship, Federal, state, local, official and unofficial—to any censorship.

* * *

THIS opposition is first a matter of principle. We object as American citizens, because censorship is unAmerican, because we have no other censorship of any kind in this country, because we demand for our industry the same liberty which every other occupation enjoys.

As business men, we object to censorship because censorship would disrupt and destroy the motion picture just as surely as it would also destroy daily journalism, and we naturally demand for this industry, the fifth estate, at least the same privileges accorded to the fourth estate or to any other vehicle of expression.

We do not want censorship. We want the very name erased from all consideration.

* * *

WE do not want censorship: but on the other hand, we do not ask for license.

We do not ask for license: we ask for and we expect liberty. Liberty—not license.

This same liberty is given the press and the stage. We ask for it, for its principle and its acts.

We want regulation; not license, not censorship, but regulation.

* * *

WE want regulation so that our own industry as well as the public may be protected against the vicious pictures which may be produced by the leeches inclined to prey upon every great industry.

Regulation and censorship are two entirely different matters, although this difference was by no means clear to the Committee on Education before the hearings began. In fact, it was apparent at the outset that the Congressmen believed censorship to be a normal form of regulation.

* * *

CENSORSHIP is special legislation called into being by such extreme situations as war. In the case of motion picture censorship, as proposed by the Hughes bill and as practiced now in the States of Ohio, Pennsylvania and Kansas, all decisions are left to the snap judgments, narrow prejudices, petty tyrannies of a group of untrained private citizens.

* * *

CENSORSHIP belongs to the middle ages, but Governmental regulation is a Twentieth Century and American institution to the principle of which we are all agreed.

It is this regulation by the Government and through its courts which will give us the liberty we ask for, and save us from the censorship and license we equally do not want.

* * *

IT is regulation we must have now or later. Regulation is the rock-bottom basis of this entire agitation. Regulation and only regulation will clear away the clouds of censorship.

The suggestion of Motion Picture News that this regulation be secured through a simple five-word amendment to Section 245 of the Federal Penal Code was ratified unanimously by the representatives of this industry at Washington.

This suggestion was also presented by speakers and through signed statements filed with the committee.

* * *

EVENTS may so shape themselves that the amendment may eventually become a substitute for the Hughes bill.

We believe that this eventually will happen and that the trend of the hearings from whatever angle an argument was introduced led always to this seemingly inevitable solution.

The President and the Screen

AND now the people who can only call the photoplay a "movie," the while they sneer in derision, will have something to think about. President Wilson is going to be the honor guest at a banquet of film men.

Timid social climbers, who have been afraid to do anything more than look askance at the motion picture, will now have an excuse for coming out of their holes. Perhaps they may even get over using the nonsensical term "movie," and be cured of their supercilious disdain.

Even the newspapers—the few who wake up in the night to tell themselves that the picture play will never kill the stage play—may open their eyes. The President has nothing in common with these lofty persons.

His recognition of the importance of the film industry is what one would expect from so clear-sighted a thinker, and so broadminded a man.

Industry, Before Committee, Fights Federal Censorship

Proposes As Substitute for Hughes Bill an Amendment to Federal Penal Code, a Plan Advocated by "Motion Picture News"—Men Prominent in Film Ranks Go Before Congressmen with Arguments in Opposition to Governmental Regulation of Amusements

Special to Motion Picture News

Washington, Jan. 15.

THE hearings on the Hughes Federal Censorship Bill, secured as a result of a wide and vigorous demand from the industry led by the Motion Picture Board of Trade, were opened on Thursday evening, January 13, before the House Committee on Education. The hearings were continued Friday and Saturday, and will be reopened next week.

The most important feature of the hearings was the presentation by the industry of a substitute for the Highes Bill, in the form of an amendment to Federal Statute 245, governing the distribution by express companies and common carriers of pictures, photographs, printed matter, etc., so as to make the law specifically applicable to motion pictures.

Substitute Offered for Hughes Bill

This substitute originated exclusively with Motion Picture News, and was advocated at length in the two last issues of this publication. It was originally conceived and proposed by Lesley Mason, managing editor of the News.

It having become apparent that the members of the committee felt that some kind of regulation for motion pictures was necessary, the film representatives at their Friday caucus determined upon the substitute. Each member present at the caucus filled out and filed with the committee the following form:

I, ..., individually and as the representative of ....., respectfully protest against the enactment of a Federal Censorship Bill in any form. I urge and advocate the amendment of Section 245 of the Federal Criminal Code so as to make it unmistakably applicable to Motion Pictures.

I represent an investment of ..... dollars in the ..... branch of the motion picture industry. My interests employ approximately ..... employees.

By unanimous vote of the caucus the chairman was instructed to extend a vote of thanks to Mr. Mason for his origination and clear exposition of this substitute for Federal censorship.

Film Delegation Present

Thursday morning a delegation of film representatives left New York City for Washington, composed of the following: J. R. Freuler, Nicholas Power, Paul Cromelin, P. A. Powers, J. W. Binder, William F. Seabury, Chester Beecroft, C. Francis Jenkins, Don Bell, F. G. Bradford, F. J. Rembusch, Dr. Jenkin L. Jones and William A. Johnston.

Later arrivals included F. J. Herrington, president M. P. E. L. of America; James Delves, secretary M. P. E. L. of America; and also from Pittsburgh exhibitors, W. H. Ketchun and G. W. Sahner; Messrs. Cocks and Brenton, of the National Board of Censorship; Mr. Moree, secretary of the Mayor's Conference Committee of New York State; S. M. Field, Terence Ramsaye, J. Stuart Blackton, W. W. Irwin, W. Stephen Bush, Attorney F. S. McFarland, of Boston, and the following exhibitors: C. A. McGowan, Cleveland; Charles Segal, Philadelphia; Fulton Brylawski and Tom Moore, of Washington; Guy L. Wonders, president of the Maryland State League; and Thomas D. Goldberg, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Maryland State League; Ben Zerr, Reading, Pa.; Sam Trigger and William Brandt, of New York; Charles Miller, of the Buffalo Times; and Jack Korpel, of the Washington exchange of the General Film Company.

The caucus of these gentlemen and other film representatives held Thursday afternoon at the New Willard Hotel, was one of the most spirited meetings ever held in the history of the film industry.

Crafts Offers His Arguments

The hearing on Thursday evening, contrary to expectations, was opened by the Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, Washington agent of the International Reform Bureau, who rapidly and superficially presented his arguments in favor of the Hughes Bill. The case of the opposition was opened by J. W. Binder, of the Board of Trade, followed by William M. Seabury, P. A. Powers, and Paul Cromelin. Mr. Binder said:

"There are several modes of expression," he said. "One is speech, another is printing. A third is the presentation of news facts or stories on a film. All men have the right to use the first two in an unlimited manner, with due regard to certain responsibilities. If they disregard these responsibilities they are punished. No one attempts to censor speech or to censor everything that is printed. Why then, should a third method of expression, which did not happen to be invented when the Constitution was written, be subjected to a governmental censorship?"

Mr. Cromelin, reviewing the different sections of the bill, pointed out its utter impracticability, and dwelt specifically upon the section dealing with copyrights. On Friday evening an excellent address was made by Cranston Brenton, of the National Board of Censorship, who explained away numerous misconceptions in the minds of the committeemen as to the purpose of the board.

Irwin Makes Strong Speech

Mr. Brenton was followed by W. W. Irwin, who also made a masterly address. These addresses were followed in rebuttal by the Rev. Crafts and Mr. Barber, personal representative of Canon Chase in Washington. Both members were freely heckled by the members of the committee, presenting a situation quite different from that of the evening before. At the Friday afternoon caucus, J. R. Freuler and W. W. Irwin had been selected to speak before the committee for the exchanges, and Fred J. Herrington and F. J. Rembush for the exhibitors. The brief time allowed at the hearing, however, and the refusal of the Reverend Crafts to contribute any of his time, prevented the speeches of Messrs. Freuler, Herrington and Rembush.

The true status of the Hughes Bill, i. e., pre-publicity censorship, the censoring of pictures before their release and exhibition, was explained by the speakers to the committee. The impracticability of the demands of the bill was also clearly set forth.

It was shown, for instance, that the bill would absolutely prohibit the importation of all films and would destroy such important branches of the industry as news weeklies and serial pictures.

Binder Takes the Floor

At the Saturday evening hearing before the House Committee on Education, J. W. Binder, of the Motion Picture Board of Trade, showed the fallacy of the arguments made by a number of women and ministers in favor of censorship.

He particularly attacked the veracity of newspaper accounts which had headlines of crimes "incited by the movies." He told the ladies and the members of the committee that 81 cases where the papers had declared "Movies Incite to Crime" had been investigated, and there was found to have been but one case that was authentic and in which they actually got such local evidence as the name of the play in which there were scenes responsible for the crime, and like information. He declared that the ladies in making such accusations should come before the committee fully prepared to back up their remarks with affidavits, etc. If they would produce a real case of this kind, the Motion Picture Board of Trade would be glad to investigate it.

Woman Opposes Censorship

He read into the record a letter from Mary Gray Peck, of Geneva, N. Y., representing the Federation of Women's Clubs, and formerly assistant professor of English at Minnesota University, which read in part as follows: "For years I have been interested in the motion picture drama, and I am well acquainted with the sentiment of women's clubs in all parts of the country as regards moving pictures.

"I know there is no demand on the part of the women of the country at large for Federal censorship. I know further that there will be a wave of widespread indignation if this proposed bill is pushed through without any popular demand for it.

"Manufacturers have not shown themselves recalcitrant to democratic and constructive censorship. They are interested financially

President Wilson Consents to Be the Guest of the Motion Picture Board of Trade

THROUGH the efforts of J. W. Binder, executive secretary of the Motion Picture Board of Trade, President Wilson will he the guest of that body at a dinner to be given at the Hotel Biltmore, New York City, on the evening of January 27.

The President's consent to attend the dinner and address the members of the motion picture business was obtained as the result of a series of negotiations carried on by mutual friends of the President and Mr. Binder. The President, it is known has always been interested in the astounding growth and development of the motion picture. With his broad outlook upon all matters pertaining to life in any of its phases, he has not heen ignorant of the spread and popularity of this new medium of human expression, and, it is said, has expressed himself to intimate friends in a manner that showed he was keenly aware of the possibilities of the motion picture as a vehicle of thought and idea.

The topic upon which the President will speak to the members of the Board of Trade and other motion picture men who are present at the Biltmore dinner will be of his own choosing, and will be announced within a few days. A thousand guests are expected, and the opportunity is one which every member of the business within easy traveling distance of New York should not miss.

The honor which is conferred upon this industry by being granted the privilege of entertaining the nation's Chief Executive as its official guest is one which should make every exhibitor, exchangeman and manufacturer proud of the industry's record. and alive to its dignity, its influence and its future.

in developing the art to the highest plane, and are moving in the right direction."

Mr. Binder also showed the bad effect censorship would have on the news weeklies through the delay incident to their having to be presented for the approval of the censorship board if the law was enacted. He told of the development of this service and predicted that the presentation of these films would soon be made every other day, so that the news of the country would be shown in pictures almost immediately after such events had occurred.

Herrington Speaks for League

Frederick J. Herrington, national president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, created something of a surprise when he proved quite conclusively that the demand for censorship remained in the minds of a very few people, for he told of how in his travels throughout the country, in his addresses before gatherings of people, he had often asked for a popular vote on censorship and the number of hands that would be raised in favor of censorship would be very small, and those thus voting for it would refuse to give their names and addresses.

He could do better than the ladies in support of his testimony, for he came back at the committee, in response to queries, with tl e names of the places so visited, including San Francisco, where he addressed the Civic Federation; New Kensington, Pa.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Washington, D. C.; Philadelphia, Pa.; and Cleveland, Ohio; offering more names if desired.

He declared himself to be unalterably opposed to any form of censorship, but he believed in the most drastic laws and their enforcement in the case of those degrading or attempting to degrade the morals of the children of this or any other nation and, as national president of the league, pledged himself to support such laws and to give assistance to their enforcement, "for," he said in speaking for all of the league members, "we want clean motion pictures, the manufacturer wants to make clean motion pictures, but I want to say what every one thinks who lives in a state where they have localized censorship—I have not seen any improvement in the State of Pennsylvania over the pictures shown in the District of Columbia, or any of the various other places where I have visited the motion picture theatres."

No Need for Federal Regulation

He told how "The Birth of a Nation" had been padded by the Pennsylvania State Board, had been censored by the mayor of Pittsburgh, and later passed by the Allegheny County courts. This showed the prerogative of the city officials. He stated that the power of censorship of undesirable films was with the officials of every city, town, hamlet and county in the United States, and there was thus no need for Federal regulation.

In referring to the petitions filed by those favoring the passage of the bill he stated that he could obtain a sufficient number of petitions from the opposition to fill several volumes of the Congressional Record, if he resorted to the same tactics as those utilized by the other side, from the State of Ohio.

When asked what was wrong with the Pennsylvania State Board, he replied that it was the inability of these few people to decide for the eight millions of people of that state and that it was impossible to anywhere secure a board that could possibly censor films properly. When taken to the courts only one decision of the board was sustained while six others were revised.

"Censorship Alien to America"

Bainbridge Colby, representing the Hearst newspapers, was present, he said, to add his voice in protest against what he believed to be the fallacious, irrational limitation that underlies the bill. Censorship is truly alien to America and the idea of civil liberty. This would be all right in some highly centralized bureaucratic country like Russia, but not in freedom-loving United States.

"Censorship burned the Bible," he said. "Censorship prevented the publication for 35 years of that book of Sir Isaac Newton in which the principles of gravity were announced."

Mr. Colby read newspaper extracts of the speech of Judge Hughes of the United States Supreme Court, made recently in New York City, which proclaimed against centralized governments and pointed out that there was a deplorable lack of a knowledge of limitations on the part of both National and State officials. "I warn you on the score of humor and fitness," he said. "The idea of censorship is dangerous. The position of passing on every matter with reference to its effect upon the public morals is one no man would care to occupy. He would be called upon to pass upon many things he knows nothing about. Such a proposal as censorship is against all theories of our lives; censorship is rustic, it is provincial, and obsolete. It will be a thing of scoffs and jeers before it is a year old, and you cannot afford to recommend it."

Blackton Defends Industry

Commodore J. Stuart Blackton protested against the allusions made by previous witnesses to the drug habit, the brothel, and all of the other disgusting things which "these good folks have heaped upon our defenceless heads."

He called attention to the fact that most of the accusations against iniquitous pictures were not backed up by full statements of facts. "If I were to come here to combat such a situation, I would get evidence, backed by affidavits," he said. "I would have the names of the pictures, the names of the makers, the names of the theatres where they were shown, and if these ladies would bring such statements to us we would co-operate with them with a view to having the guilty manufacturers and exhibitors punished to the full extent of the law. They come here and speak of things they have seen but there are no bad pictures being shown to the general public." He declared that in the last five years there were only two pictures that came to his attention that were bad, and they had been stopped after the first performance in New York. They were not presented to the National Board of Censorship for its approval. The matter was taken up by the Board of Trade and action taken against those connected with the films. One of these was "Virtue," made by a firm in Philadelphia. In New York the latter was taken care of by existing laws, but the pictures were taken to Philadelphia and the localized censorship board, operating under state laws, allowed them to be shown in Pennsylvania.

(Continued on page 551.)

Exhibitors Throughout Country Denounce Censorship

153 Responses Received to News' Call, from Upward of Forty States, Indicating That Hundreds of Picture Men Do Not Yet Realize What Harm Censorship Will Bring Their Business—Leaving the Manufacturer to Carry the Burden of Warring on Destructive Legislation

TWO weeks ago MOTION PICTURE NEWS inaugurated a campaign among the exhibitors of the country, urging them to support and demand a hearing on the proposed Federal Censorship bill from the Committee on Education of the House of Representatives at Washington.

A page carrying a coupon to be signed by every exhibitor who desired to express himself upon this vital subject was published in THE NEWS for two weeks preceding the hearing. Not only was the coupon a demand for a hearing, but a declaration that the undersigned regarded censorship as a form of regulation not only detrimental but destructive to the industry.

Forty States Represented

One hundred and fifty-three signed coupons were received as a result of the two weeks' campaign. These represent theatre owners in upward of forty states, and every type of exhibitor from the manager of the metropolitan theatre to the exhibitor in a small town.

Considerably more than one hundred and fifty-three theatres are represented in the list, however, which is appended in full below. In many instances, the exhibitor signing the coupon speaks for from three to eight other exhibitors, either as the head of an association of managers, or as himself the owner of a chain of houses.

The result of the canvass is significant of several things. It proves, for one thing, that scores, if not hundreds of exhibitors, do not yet realize what censorship means, what harm it can work to their own business.

The average exhibitor will fill in and mail a coupon inquiring about some new film, some new article of equipment, something which is materially necessary or profitable to him. But the average exhibitor does not consider censorship important enough, or vital enough to him, to put his pen to a dotted line and place himself on record as for or against censorship.

The Exhibitor's Attitude

He believes that censorship is the manufacturer's business, and that he pays the manufacturer enough money every year to enable the manufacturer to fight a battle that is essentially his own without any further aid from the exhibitor. And he is rather pathetically afraid that if he comes out into the open on the censorship question, he will be levied upon for financial contributions. So he stays in his hole and keeps his opinions to himself.

And he has the further feeling that he will suffer only superficially and secondarily by censorship. As long as he can get pictures enough to keep his screen filled every night in the week, the trouble the manufacturer may have to get them to him is the manufacturer's business, not his.

How thorough a misapprehension this is these exhibitors will some day realize. But such are the facts at the present time and it is one of the most lamentable things that can be said about the internal life of the industry.

GROUP OF FILM DELEGATES TO WASHINGTON STANDING ON THE STEPS OF THE WHITE HOUSE JUST AFTER HAVING MET THE PRESIDENT

List of Responses

The complete list of exhibitors who responded to the MOTION PICTURE NEWS call follows:

H. C. Thomas, Dream theatre, Hoquiam, Wash., also president of Grays Harbor Theatre Managers' Association, representing eight motion picture theatres; Roy D. Hess, Royal theatre, Norborne, Mo.; David J. Hennessy, Liberty theatre, Newark, N. J.; Wm. H. Swanson, Rex-Liberty-American theatres, Salt Lake City, Utah; Ellenworth Cameron, New Como theatre (536 W. University avenue), St. Paul, Minn.; R. H. Roy, Red Cliffe, Colo.; C. B. De La Hunt, 346 Winchester avenue, Memphis, Tenn.; C. O. Larson, Crystal theatre, Ceylon, Minn.; V. J. Grunder, Dreamland theatre, Cuero, Tex.; I. G. Roesner, Colonial theatre, Winona, Minn.; A. L. Rawls, Pastime theatre, Columbia, S. C.; E. P. Mathes, Lyric theatre, Stigler, Okla.; H. Hoffman, Lyric theatre, Moline, Ill.; C. S. Cone, Grand Opera House, Wausaw, Wis.; F. E. Gagy, manager, Bijou theatre, Wytheville, Va.; Geo. A. Kellogg, Star theatre, Lakota, N. D.; R. Kovar, Busch theatre, Seattle, Wash.; Russell F. Bouman, Palace theatre, Hartford City, Ind.; J. G. Baxter, Gem theatre, Eureka, Kans.; W. Robertson, Electric theatre, Pleasanton, Tex.; W. C. Wellanson, Princess theatre, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Bernard Antony, Ideal theatre, Ponchatoula, La.; C. M. Schleicher, New Lyric theatre, Swissvale, Pa.; Hurst Bros., Grand theatre, Reno, Nev.; Morris Atlas, Flag theatre, San Francisco, Cal.

Isaac Victor, Victor Amusement Company, Avenue and Savoy, McKeesport, Pa.; N. J. Silverberg, manager, Olympic theatre, Greenville, Pa.; C. H. Dailey, Photoplay house, Akron, Mich.; S. H. Thal, Comique theatre, Dayton, Ohio; Herman E. Nelson, Star theatre, Quincy, Ill.; H. D. Hubbard, Playhouse theatre, Calistoga, Cal.; Joseph A. Murphy, Opera House, Swedesboro, N. J.; H. C. Wasserbaek, Midwood theatre, 1307 Avenue J, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Guy Levonden, Wilson theatre, Baltimore, Md.; J. G. Crouch, Princess theatre, Troy, Ala.; J. L. Backford, Nittany theatre, State College, Pa.; Harry Heiss, Esthena theatre (3628 Wilton avenue), Chicago, Ill.; Mike E. Spooner, Crystal theatre (P. O. Box 135), San Angelo, Tex.; F. J. Potter, manager, Ruby theatre, Chelan, Wash.; W. M. Conroe, Lyric theatre, Conroe, Tex.; O. T. Thom, Pastime theatre, Medicine Lodge, Kans.; Kinsey & Phelps, Broadway theatre, Belgrade, Mont.; Clarence J. Wamack, Majestic theatre, Moose Lake, Minn.; Mrs. Jennie G. Smith, Bijou theatre, Manistee, Mich.; J. M. Bowser, Pastime theatre (Pastime Amusement Company), Tuscumbia, Ala.; R. P. Greer, Palace theatre, Dawson, Ga.; E. E. Benham, The Lyric theatre, Marysville, Cal.; C. G. Behrens, Family theatre, Davenport, Iowa; F. J. Walderson, Electric theatre, Cross Plains, Tex.; A. P. Waxman, Classic theatre, One Hundred and Eighty-first street at St. Nicholas avenue), New York, N. Y.; W. E. Furber, Metro Pictures Corp., of N. E., Boston, Mass.; H. H. Hoke, Colonial-Acme-Dixie-Happy Hour Majestic, Taylor, Tex.

Wallsy Y. Worth, Arcade theatre, Summerville, S. C.; J. J. Sprague, manager, Star theatre, Sarcoxie, Mo.; Edwin L. Barker, Patron theatre, Chicago, Ill.; A. H. Nace, Broad theatre, Quakertown, Pa.; Geo. W. Haertrich, New Dazzleland theatre (2940-46 Frankford avenue), Philadelphia, Pa.; G. H. Hartford, Casino and Imperial, Providence, R. I.; Hardin Entertainment Company, The Odeon theatre, Hardin, Mo.; Hiller Bros. Amusement Company, Unique and Lyric theatres, Eau Claire, Wis.; Dr. P. H. Tellman, Cozy theatre, Long Prairie, Minn; Julius W. Schmidt, Grand theatre, Breese, Ill.; H. N. Turner, Electric theatre, Linton, N. D.; Wm. Parent, Crystal theatre, Decatur, Ind.; W. M. Harwood, Palace theatre, Kinsley, Kans.; E. C. Snodgrass, Snodgrass theatre, Scottsboro, Ala.; S. E. Busby, Sunset theatre, Wolf City, Tex.; W. L. Mack, Grand and Empire theatres, Jonesboro, Ark.; J. Harvey Stevenson, Idle Hour theatre, Kenton, Ohio; Wm. A. Zuber, Alice theatre, Vincennes, Ind.; E. L. Kuykendall, Princess theatre, Columbus, Miss.; H. D. Graham, manager, The Merrill (401 Merrill Building), Milwaukee, Wis.; H. Mayer, Electra theatre, Seventy-fifth street and Third avenue), Brooklyn, N. Y.; Wm. F. Seitz, Jr., Plaza theatre, Sandusky, Ohio; S. H. Blair, manager, Lyric theatre, Mena, Ark.; A. W. Ballinger, Dean theatre, York, Neb.; Lucy B. Marshall, Empress theatre (1106 E. So. Grand avenue), Springfield, Ill.; E. T. Rotkin, New Royal theatre, Farmland, Ind.; W. R. Rowell, Gem theatre (P. O. Box 504), El Dorado, Kans.; E. W. Blythe, proprietor, The Majestic theatre, Decatur, Tex.; Richard Dabb, Lyric theatre, Shenandoah, Pa.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG, AND THE CAR SHE HAS GIVEN TO THE RED CROSS

Pathescope Man Signs

Willard B. Cook, The Pathescope Company (35 W. Forty-second street), New York, N. Y.; T. B. Hurnes, Star theatre, East Brady, Pa.; S. E. Pirtle, Casino theatre, Flora, Ill.; H. E. Newall, Plaisir theatre (Crawford avenue and Irving Park Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.; Frank N. Phelps, New Grand theatre (Grand Theatre Building), Duluth, Minn.; B. F. Metcalf, Luna-Lite theatre, Marion, Ind.; Chas. A. Riva, Pastime theatre, Tilton, N. H.; H. H. Feish, Crystal theatre, Emmetsburg, Iowa; John C. Conner, Broadway theatre (Fifty-second and Grienway avenue), Philadelphia, Pa.; R. B. Wilby, Strand Amusement Corp., Montgomery, Ala.; Ben. H. Zerr, president, M. P. L. E. of Pa. (Schuylkill avenue), Reading, Pa.; Edward Szamerki, proprietor, White Eagle theatre (1127 W. Division street), South Bend, Ind.; W. C. Quimby, Jefferson theatre, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; F. W. Flanagan, Vaudette theatre, Chickamauga, Ga.; Robert Elliot, W. W. Kimball Co. (Theatre Organ Builders), New York, N. Y.; J. I. Davis, Star theatre, Oakford, Ill.; W. L. Myers, Palace theatre, Waterloo, Iowa; A. G. Frohms, proprietor, The Home theatre (3521 Jacob street), Wheeling, W. Va.; Walsh Bros., Keystone theatre, Centralia, Pa.; Frank J. Peng, president, Village Theatre Company (1150 Wilmette avenue), Wilmette, Ill.; M. L. Sparr, Central theatre, Wilmette, Ill.; Joseph Grossman, Standard theatre, Cleveland, Ohio; Doc Robinson, Apollo theatre, Peoria, Ill.; F. B. Lange, Lyric theatre, Ramona, Okla.; John Pekias, American theatre, Elgin, Ohio; P. L. Mahaffey, Gem theatre, Kimbolton, Ohio; A. J. Moeller, manager, Temple theatre, Howell, Mich.; L. E. Soldan, manager, The Rex theatre, Beaverton, Mich.; Frank L. Browne, manager, Allston theatre, Allston Mass.; I. F. McFarland, Marmac theatre, Vandergrift, Pa.

Michael J. Nash, King Bee theatre, St. Louis, Mo.; F. M. Edgett, Lyric theatre, Earlville, Ill.; E. C. Bennett, New Temple theatre, Ocala, Fla.; B. J. Kaplan, Strand theatre, Haverhill, Mass.; R. E. Falkinburg, Empress theatre, Grand Island, Neb.; Thomas Roddy, Majestic theatre, Hibbing, Minn.; O. B. Crane, Crane theatre, Monticello, Iowa; H. H. Burford Bijou theatre (president M. P. E. L. of America, Wis. Branch No. 48), La Cross, Wis.; L. A. Vuettner, Majestic theatre, Cohoes, N. Y.; W. H. Yost, The Vaudette theatre, Fennville, Mich.; W. R. Walker & Son, Isis theatre, Anderson, Ind.; W. H. Wood, Pastime theatre, State College, Pa.; Sparks Amusement Company, Sparks shows and theatre, East Brady, Pa.; J. Tate Powell, Princess theatre, Charlotte, N. C.; Edward Shatzman, Victor theatre, Columbus, Ohio; Franklin P. McCutcheon, Casino theatre, Riverhead, N. Y.; V. H. Oxley, Grand theatre (31 Main street), Bradford, Pa.; Arthur J. Ferry Town Hall, Ridgefield, Conn.; Sidney Rothschild, Rex theatre (578 Prospect avenue), New York, N. Y.; J. W. Farrell, Star theatre (207 Day street), Orange, N. J.; Wm. J. Vernon, St. Regis, Trenton, Regis, Philadelphia Pa.; F. H. Young, Iris theatre, Salisbury, N. C.

A Scene From the Sun Photoplay Production of "The Burglar and the Lady," in which James J. Corbett and Claire Whitney are Starred

Whole Country Represented

M. Silverman, Liberty Film Renting Company (105 Fourth avenue), Pittsburgh, Pa.; H. A. Schuermann, The Grand theatre (P. O. Box 612), E. Stroudsburg, Pa.; G. W. Lees, Keystone theatre (2543 E. Dauphin street), Philadelphia, Pa.; Lee A. Ochs, Costello theatre (23 Ft. Washington avenue), at Broadway and One Hundred and Fifty-ninth street), New York, N. Y.; Jack Gold Family theatre (Third and Harris streets), Harrisburg, Pa.; E. W. Humphreys, Opera House, Woodstown, N. J.; Geo. W. Cuff, Colonial and Halsted theatres, Main street, Orange, N. J.; Frank Pitters, Osceola theatre (258 St. Ann's avenue), New York, N. Y.; Leon J. Bamberger (1600 Broadway), New York, N. Y.; L. P. Goldbaum, Stanley theatre (586-590 Seventh avenue) New York, N. Y.; O. E. Kraus (Pastime theatre (1034 Third avenue), New York, N. Y.; Ludwig L. Linick, McVicker's theatre, Chicago Ill.; S. MacIntyre Photoplay theatre, Los Angeles, Cal.; Daniel F. Eselin, Grand theatre, Cloquet Minn.; L. V. Snow, Opera House, Garrettsville Ohio; O. L. Taylor, Majestic theatre, Lancaster, Ohio; J. F. Higgins, Navajo theatre, Republic Kan.; Samuel Bullock, Cleveland, Ohio.

GUTHARD APPOINTED SPECIAL ADMINISTRATOR FOR CAILLE ESTATE

Special to Motion Picture News

Detroit, Jan. 15.

Henry G. Guthard, business partner, has been appointed administrator of the estate of A. Arthur Caille, of Detroit, Mich. Mr. Caille, who was a well-known Detroit moving picture man, died suddenly a few weeks ago, and it was represented that his business interests demanded that a special administrator be appointed immediately.

His estate is said to be valued at several hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Guthard will carry on without any change or interruption the various enterprises in which he and Mr. Caille were formerly partners.

These include the Majestic, Norwood, Maxine and Fine Arts theatres, Detroit, the Marx and Majestic in Wyandotte, the Majestic Features Corporation and the Michigan branch of the Metro Film Corporation.

Rumors of General's Impending Dissolution Scouted

Approaching Announcement of Decree in Government Suit Against Motion Picture Patents Company Leads to Crop of Rumors, Due to Misapprehension of Judge Dickinson's Ruling—Case of Standard Oil Cited to Show That Financial Loss Does Not Always Follow Federal Action in Courts

RUMORS regarding the General Film Company, which have been in industrious circulation this week have been absolutely discredited in the best informed eircles in filmdom. The rumors are duc to the fact that a decree is about to be filed in the Government suit relating to the Motion Picture Patents Company. It has been stated by gossips that the General Film Company was to be dissolved, that it was to go voluntarily out of existence, that it was to be absorbed by other companies.

While no one is able at the present time to foreeast authentically the terms of the decree which will be filed in the Government suit, there are somc self-evident truths which have been forgotten entirely by the scandal-mongers.

The principal of these is the self-evident fact that the General Film Company is simply one of the defendants in a group of defendants in the Motion Picture Patents case. Judge Dickinson's decision held that the eo-defendants had been guilty of restraining trade; he did not object to the corporate existence of any one of them nor was this matter ever in question. The Government based its findings purely upon the relations between these co-defendants. In stating the aceusation, Judge Dickinson said: "The prayer is that a stop be put, by the power of the law, to the practises charged to be illegal."

Dissolution Question Not Raised

He raised no question of the dissolution of any of the defendant corporations. In his formal finding, Judge Dickinson said: "We conclude with the formal finding, in the language of the Act of Congress, that the contracts, enumerated in the petition, and the combination there described, was a conspiraey in restraint of trade or commeree among the several states, and with foreign nations, and were and are illegal, and that the defendants and eaeh of them (with the exception next noted) have attempted to monopolize and have monopolized, and have combined and conspired among themselves and with each other, to monopolize, a part of the trade or commerce among the several states, and with foreign nations, consisting of the trade in films, cameras, projecting machines and other accessories of the motion picture business, as charged in the petition of eomplaint filed."

The exeeption referred to was the Melies Manufaeturing Company.

Judge Dickinson's Ruling

Judge Dickinson in the final paragraph makes the matter entirely clear. He says "the conclusion is that the probationer is entitled to the relief prayed, so far as indicated by this opinion, and a decree, to effectuate the findings made, may be submitted.

The relief prayed, it will be remembered, was "that a stop be put by the power of the law to the practises charged to be illegal."

Consequently, as in the case of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, there was and is no question of the dissolution of any of the defendant companies. So in spite of all rumors, the General Film Company will not be dissolved. On the contrary it will be in a position under the new policies of co-operation with the exhibitor to serve the exhibitor in the most efficient way.

Men in quarters of filmdom, which heretofore have proved the most authoritative, scoff at the idea that the General Film Company will be dissolved. They assert most positively that the outcome of the Patents case could in no way alter the relation of the General Film Company with the exhibitors and with the manufacturers.

How General Film Operates

The General, they point out, is an organization of exchanges precisely as other distributing agencies are organizations of exchanges. The General company, like its rivals, procures films from manufacturers and like other organizations rents them through exchanges to exhibitors. Its business is conducted lawfully.

For the proof of their assertion that no decision in the Patents case will materially affect the General Film Company, these men instance three sets of facts about which there can be no dispute:

1. Property belonging lawfully to stockholders of a corporation cannot be taken from the stockholders.

2. As the outcome of the Government prosecution of the Standard Oil Company none of its subsidiary companies were put out of existence.

3. In the Standard Oil case, as in the Patents case, the separate entities (separate corporations) were defendants. The Government did not attempt to end the life of any of these, but did object to the relation between them. The General Film Company is simply one of the defendants in a group of defendants.

Standard Oil Case Cited

A peep into the Standard Oil case puts an end at onee, it is asserted in the best informed film circles, to any such idle supposition as that the General Film Company will go out of existence.

In the Standard Oil suit, the Government brought its proceedings against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the parent company, and its thirty-four subsidiaries; that is, the thirty-four companies whose stock was held by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. After the Standard Oil Company had lost the case, and the decree was finally filed, it was direeted that the stock of the subsidiaries held by the New Jersey company be distributed to the stockholders of the New Jersey company in proportion to their holdings. There were six thousand and five stockholders.

The distribution made necessary the use of fractions, the numerators of these fractions depending upon the holding of eaeh of the six thousand and five in Standard Oil Company of the State of New Jersey.

After this stock distribution has been effected, no effort was made to disturb the corporate existence of either Standard Oil of New Jersey or the thirty-four companies. But each of the thirty-four elected its own officers and was placed under its own management.

Unexpected Results of Trust Case

Then unexpected results followed:

Standard Oil stock jumped by leaps and bounds. Prior to the instituting of any action by the Government, Standard Oil stock (Standard Oil of New Jersey) sold around $840 a share. The beginning of the Government suit depressed it. The decree was filed May 15, 1911, and was effective December 1, 1911. In the summer of 1911, prior to dissolution, Standard Oil stoek fluctuated around $500.

At the present time a complete set of fractional certificates representing one share of the old Standard Oil of New Jersey are worth in the open market $1,700.

This immense increase in the value of Standard Oil securities is attributed by Standard Oil offieials themselves, to benefits which came with the dissolution. Each of the companies stood absolutely upon its own merits. Under the old centralized plan, the majority of the companies carried the weak ones. If any one eompany had a deficit, the matter was not in the limelight. Small attention was paid to it. But after the dissolution, the separate management saw to it that there were no deficits. Scientific economies were introduced and modern efficiency systems. Then, too, values which had always lain dormant in the separate companies were developed.

NEW ADVERTISING MATTER FOR "THE OTHER GIRL," RAVER

New and elaborate advertising matter is being prepared by the Raver Film Corporation to accompany its first feature, "The Only Girl," in which James J. Corbett is featured.

Among other things several attraetive new posters have been designed in keeping with the style of the picture; there are one and three sheets, and a six sheet, giving a striking view of the automobile aecident on Broadway, as well as attractive heralds.

The plan of holding all rights until the picture was finished has proved very successful, and the company reports many bookings.

FORTY-TWO THEATRES IN NEW YORK TERRITORY SHOW "H-V"

Forty-two theatres in the territory of the New York branch of the V-L-S-E have showed the first two releases of the new Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial.

Reports from other territories were unanimous in predicting that the pictorial was destined for a large and enthusiastie reception from exhibitors in all parts of the country.

COMPLETE ARRANGEMENTS FOR NEW YORK STATE CONVENTION, MARCH 1-2

Arrangements have been completed for the annual convention of the New York State Exhibitors' League, at Albany, on March 1 and 2. The opening session will be called to order at the Hotel Ten Eyck at 10:30 in the morning of March 1. Delegations from Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Binghamton, Albany, Troy, Utica and other up-state cities have notified the officials that they will be present, and addresses have been announced from men of the greatest prominence in the industry.

This is to be an especially important meeting for several reasons. The two most important subjects to be taken up are the fight on state censorship, and the fight on the proposed Sunday closing law; the exhibitors are united in the opposition to these two measures, and will do everything in their power to defeat them.

Another thing which will come before the convention will be the protest of exhibitors against the practice of many exchanges, of cancelling bookings of various features, because a rival exhibitor has made a higher offer. Many exhibitors have reported that this practice has been growing of late, and the convention has decided on a vigorous protest.

BIG DEAL BETWEEN WORLD FILM, EQUITABLE AND BANKING INTERESTS RUMORED

A deal of considerable magnitude was effected last week, involving the World Film Corporation, the Equitable Film Corporation and Ladenburg, Thalman & Company, the New York bankers. There are many rumors but no statements have as yet been made by the companies or individuals concerned.

Lewis J. Selznick referred inquiries to Ladenburg, Thalman and Company and to Arthur Spiegel, president of the Equitable Film Corporation. Mr. Spiegel said that present rumors were now based upon facts and that a definite statement would be issued shortly, probably for next week's issue of Motion Picture News. Ladenburg, Thalman and Company had nothing to give

BEATTY AND MEGOUN VISIT NEW YORK

W. Clarence Beatty, owner of the Garden and Cameraphone theatres of Pittsburgh, and C. A. Megoun of the Cameraphone theatre, 736 Euclid avenue, Cleveland, have been in town the past week.

Mr. Megoun represented the exhibitors of this territory in Washington at a recent meeting before the Congressional Committee in regard to the censorship bill.

BERST FOR PRESIDENT OF PATHE?

Louis J. Gasnier has resigned from the vice-presidency and general managership of Pathé to become manager of productions of the company.

It is strongly rumored that J. A. Berst, president of the General Film Company, will be tendered the presidency of Pathé, though no definite action has yet been taken by the Pathé board of directors.

Famous Signs Robert Vignola for Director Staff

Among His Best Productions Are: "Don Caesar De Bazan," "The Barefoot Boy," "The Haunting Fear," "The Maker of Dreams," "The Dance of Death"

CLOSELY following the news that John O'Brien and Frederick Thompson had joined the directing forces of the Famous Players Film Company, there comes the announcement that Robert C. Vignola, for seven years director with the Kalem Company, has been engaged by the first-named organization in a similar capacity.

ROBERT G. VIGNOLA

Mr. Vignola is one of the best-known figures in filmdom, having traveled in Ireland, Scotland, England, France, Italy, Algiers, Egypt and the Holy Land during the seven years in which he has been identified with the business.

ILLUSTRATING A STRIKING SCENE FROM "UNTO THOSE WHO SIN," FORTHCOMING SELIG PHOTOPLAY

Among his most notable productions of recent date and those which are most readily called to mind, are "Don Caesar De Bazan," "The Barefoot Boy," "The Haunting Fear," "The Maker of Dreams," "The Dance of Death," and "The Vampire."

It is a peculiar coincidence that Mr. Vignola owes his entry into the motion picture field to another Famous Players director, Sidney Olcott, who engaged him to play his first silent role—an Italian character part.

Into the interpretation of this role Mr. Vignola put the natural powers of national feeling—for he is an Italian—and the experience of eight years on the stage.

So successful was his debut that Mr. Olcott later engaged him to play Judas in "From the Manger to the Cross," the first five-reel film produced in this country, and he became the first actor who was placed upon a permanent salary by Kalem.

Mr. Vignola treasures among his most valuable possessions a handsome loving cup which was presented to him by the players who have been under his direction at the time of his leaving the Kalem Company to join Famous.

The new director's first production under the new banner will be "The Spider," in which Pauline Frederick is starred. It is the Paramount release for January 27. In support of the star there appear Thomas Holding who has appeared with Miss Frederick in many of her most recent productions, and Frank Losee, who was last seen in Denman Thompson's famous role of Josh Whitcomb, in "The Old Homestead."

CIVIC LEAGUE PLANS TO SADDLE NEW YORK WITH CENSORSHIP

Special to Motion Picture News

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 15.

The Rev. O. R. Miller, state superintendent of the New York Civic League, said today that one of the bills which the league will support is a measure to establish a censorship of moving pictures.

"This is one of the bills," said Mr. Miller "that we will endeavor to have the legislature pass at this session. We realize that it will meet with strenuous opposition, but that is nothing new to us, for we have met and overcome obstacles before.

"We think that there should be a state censorship of all moving picture films that are sent out to the public. The bill is now being drawn and will be introduced within a week. I cannot say at this time who will offer it in either house, but it will be in within the next ten days or two weeks."

STAGE DIRECTOR FOR MAUDE ADAMS JOINS THANHOUSER

Edward Morrissey, formerly assistant to D. W. Griffith and producer of several feature pictures, has become a director for Thanhouser.

Mr. Morrisey, who is a graduate of the University of California, was a stage director for Maude Adams and others before he entered the motion picture field.

THREE LUBIN SCREEN OFFERINGS: (Center) Train Wreck Scene in "The Gods of Fate"

(Left and Right) Scenes from "The Law's Injustice" and "The Little Sister of the Poor"

GILMORE AND HENRY MADE BRANCH MANAGERS FOR GENERAL

The appointment of two more branch managers was announced from the executive offices of the General Film Company, 200 Fifth avenue, New York, this week. The appointees are W. J. Gilmore, who takes charge of the Twenty-third street branch, New York, and T. Y. Henry, who heads the Salt Lake City organization.

A number of years ago, Mr. Gilmore, who was then the successful manager of a number of moving picture theatres, decided to go into the business of side films. He entered the Twenty-third street branch in a very unimportant capacity in the distributing room.

Gradually he worked his way upward until he became assistant manager. Opportunity to give Mr. Gilmore advancement came as the result of the promotion from branch manager to division manager for the East of V. H. Hodupp.

T. Y. Henry, who became manager of the General Film Company branch in Salt Lake City, knows his territory thoroughly and has held important executive positions in exchanges throughout the West. Prior to taking charge of the General Film Company in Salt Lake City, Mr. Henry was manager of the World's Film Exchange in Kansas City.

Al Christie Heads Stars Who Stay at "U" City

Among the Other Acquisitions Are George F. Hernandez with Stanton Company, John R. Hope and Harry Depp with the Turner Studio

ALTHOUGH there has been a great deal of wonder expressed at President Carl Laemmle's quick trip to Universal City, a night letter received at the home office of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company in which Mr. Laemmle told of the signing of thirty-five stars for the western studios, accounts to a certain extent for his mysterious visit to the coast.

Al Christie and the Nestor company have renewed their contract with the Universal.

King Baggot, Ben Wilson, Paul Panzer, Matt Moore and Harry Benham will continue to be the male stars attached to the eastern studios, while Mary Fuller, Jane Gail, Dorothy Phillips, Florence Lawrence, Violet Mersereau and Edna Hunter will be featured as the star actresses of the Imp studios.

At Universal City a very recent addition to the list of stars is none other than Stafford Pemberton, late of Ned Weyburn's Town Topics. Robert Leonard, Eddie Lyons, Douglas Gerrard, William Worthington, Hobart Bosworth, Phillips Smalley, Hobart Henley, Francis Ford, Victor Potel, Harry D. Carey, Paul Bourgeois, Arthur Shireley, Herbert Kelsey, Herbert Rawlinson, Sydney Ayres, Rupert Julian, Lee Moran, Sherman Bainbridge, Murdock MacQuarrie and Billie Ritchie continue with the company.

The actresses who have helped to make history for the western Universal studios and who have signed for the 1916 banner year include Lois Weber, Cleo Madison, Mme. Bourgeois, Edna Maison, Agnes Vernon, Marie Walcamp, Billie Rhodes, Edith Sterling, Adele Farrington, Gale Henry, Effie Shannon, Grace Cunard and Myrtle Gonzalez.

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company's Red Feather Features will take the place of the Broadway Universal Feature January 31. The first three releases under the Red Feather Features will be Violet Mesereau in "The Path to Happiness" with Harry Benham, followed by Harry D. Carey in "A Knight of the Range," Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon in "The Sphinx" and a George Loans Tucker film, "The Sons of Satan" being a sequel to this producer's recent photoplay "Traffic in Souls."

Besides the foregoing re-engagements, General Manager Joe Brandt of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company announces the acquisition of the following players at Universal City. George F. Hernandez with Stanton company; John R. Hope and Harry Depp with Turner company; Don Meany, production department and Charles W. Dorian assigned to general stock.

Among the discontinuances of services of the personnel of the Universal City studios announced by Mr. Brandt are, Max Asher of Curtis company; Beulah Lewis, Harry Weil and M. K. Wilson of general stock; D. A. McClish of Turner company; Dorothy Clark, Mrs. Ethel Clark, Golda Colwell and William Carlock of the Carleton company.

Leading Theatres Circuit, Inc., Finally Organized

Michell H. Marks, of the Strand, New York; John Kunsky, of Detroit; Nathan H. Gordon, of Boston, and William Sievers, of St. Louis, Are Officers of the Exhibitor Body

BY the formation of the Leading Theatres Circuit, Inc., during the past week, the bringing together into a body the foremost exhibitors from almost every important city in the United Staes, has been accomplished.

Among the members are listed owners of the majority of the most prominent motion picture theatres of the United States.

The following list of the officers and directors reads like "Who's Who" in the motion picture exhibiting business.

Mitchell H. Mark of New York, who is the head of the New York Strand theatre, is president.

John H. Kunsky, the head of the Kunsky chain of theatres in Detroit, is vice-president.

Nathan H. Gordon, of the Gordon chain of theatres throughout New England, is treasurer.

William Sievers, of the New Grand Central Theatre Company of St. Louis, Missouri, is secretary.

The other directors are:

Stanley Mastbaum of Philadelphia; John P. Harris of Pittsburgh; Aaron Jones, the head of the Jones, Linick and Schaefer Company of Chicago; Emanel Mandelbaum of Cleveland; Louis J. Dittmar of Louisville; Thomas Saxe of the Saxe Enterprises of Milwaukee; Thomas Furniss of Duluth, Minnesota.

It is hoped by the members of the Leading Theatre Circuit, Inc., that by the formation of this company producers of meritorious productions will come into more direct contact with the exhibitor.

It is intended by the organization to further the artistic and commercial possibilities for motion pictures, and to acquire for its members the exhibition rights for any exceptional productions that may be produced from time to time.

It is principally for this plan of co-operation between exhibitors and producers that the Leading Theatres Circuit, Inc., was formed.

"BIG JIM GARRITY" WILL BE PICTURIZED BY PATHE

The Pathé Gold Rooster play, "New York," having been finished, George Fitzmaurice, the producer, has started work on "Big Jim Garrity," another A. H. Woods theatrical production.

Robert Edeson will appear as the star in this picture.

BACK TO THE DAYS OF TOGA AND FLOWING GOWN: Margaret Gibson, George Claire, Jr., and George Stanley in "The Soul's Cycle," a Horsley-Mutual Masterpicture de Luxe

EDITH STERLING AND MAC QUARRIE SIGN WITH SIGNAL

Edith Sterling, who has been playing stellar roles in 101 Bison and Big "U" pictures, has been signed by Signal Film Corporation for its dramatic company.

An exceptionally strong company will be gathered to Miss Sterling's support under the direction of Murdock Mac Quarrie, who has been prominently identified with the film industry almost since its inception.

In addition to winning fame as a director Mr. Mac Quarrie has scored many character hits both in pictures and on the speaking stage. One of his biggest successes was playing the dual role of Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde at the New York theatre for a run of twenty-two weeks.

He goes to Signal from Universal, where in the last eighteen months he has produced eighty-eight thousand feet of dramatic features.

In the supporting company will be Millward Wilson, Norbert Myles and Francis J. MacDonald. The first picture, which will be a multiple reel feature will have in it the throb of a big city, dealing as it will with problems created by congested and struggling humanity, graft, reform and "men higher up."

One Adapted, 2 Originals from Famous for February

"Diplomacy," Featuring Marie Doro, and "Out of the Drifts" and "Nearly a King," Starring Marguerite Clark and John Barrymore, Respectively, Plays Scheduled by Company

THERE will be two original scripts and one adapted play released by the Famous Players Film Company on the Paramount Program during the month of February.

They are "Out of the Drifts" and "Nearly a King," starring Marguerite Clark and John Barrymore respectively, and "Diplomacy," starring Marie Doro.

"Nearly a King," which is being produced under the direction of Frederick Thompson, was originally intended for release in January, but was postponed in order to give the director ample time in which to obtain the best possible results.

"Nearly a King" is the story of an American who is summoned to the Balkans by a mysterious message. Though he knows nothing of it, he is the image of a young prince whose father has insisted upon marrying him to a princess whom the prince has never seen.

The American is to serve as general scapegoat and be married to the princess instead of the prince. But the American meets the princess on the ship and falls in love with her without discovering her identity. From that point on the story develops a whirlwind series of complications that vary from the comic to the tragic with startling rapidity. "Nearly a King" will be released February 10.

"Out of the Drifts," scheduled for February 24, is a tale of the Swiss Alps in which Miss Clark plays a shepherdess, whose lack of sophistication, though it brings her to the brink of disaster, ultimately proves her salvation.

It is the story of a London rake who goes to the St. Bernard monastery to recuperate, and finding there a delightful little girl, persuades her to accompany him to London "to see the world."

But her lover saves the girl from the fate into which she is innocently plunging and the terrible realization of his own bestiality awakens in the roue the dormant good qualities of his character. It is a story of the great out-of-doors with the thrill of the avalanche and perils of the dizzy Alpine heights. J. Searle Dawley is the director.

The third production, "Diplomacy," is an adaptation of the famous Sardou play in which Marie Doro has already scored a great personal success on the stage. As its name suggests, it is a story of international scope involving the stealing of the war plans of one of the great nations by the spies of another.

"Diplomacy," which was said by newspaper critics to be one of the best plots presented on the stage in recent years, is to be released February 28.

Margaret Gibson a Horsley Star in "Soul's Cycle"

Five Reeler, Released February 12 as a Mutual Masterpicture, de Luxe Edition, and Receiving Finishing Touches at Los Angeles Studio, Is by Theodosia Harris

MARGARET GIBSON, recently elevated to stardom by David Horsley, will make her debut as a featured player in a five-reel production, "The Soul's Cycle," which is to be released February 12, as a Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe Edition. The finishing touches are now being put on the production at Mr. Horsley's studio in Los Angeles.

In theme it is unique. It treats with the ancient philosophy that in the immortality of the soul many cycles must be re-lived to round out its perfection, and when one defines the divine law he must go back to the first principles, and even into the animal form, to work up again to his former estate.

In the treatment of this theme Theodosia Harris, who is the author of the story, has evolved a spectacular photoplay. The first half of it is laid in ancient Greece where events so transpire in following the theme that a new sphere of action is created. The scene then switches to the present time.

A special cast was engaged by Mr. Horsley for the production, which is being made under the direction of Ulysses Davis.

The action throughout the story takes place in scenes of magnificance, and those of the first period are particularly elaborate.

"The Soul's Cycle" is the third of Mr. Horsley's features offered as Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe Edition.

CLARA WHIPPLE SUPPORTS MISS LESLIE IN "PAIN FLOWER"

Clara Whipple, leading woman of the Equitable Motion Picture Corporation's stock organization, is playing the ingenue lead in support of Marguerite Leslie in "The Pain Flower."

"The Man Higher Up," in which Miss Whipple was cast to play opposite Frank Sheridan, has been postponed until later.

Goff Predicts Advent of "Minimum and Maximum" Plan

Assistant General Manager of V-L-S-E, Who Has Just Returned from Journey to Exchanges of the Organization, Says That Time Will Soon Be Here When Reels Will Go to Exhibitor by a Method Fixing a Price for a Picture Commensurate with Value of Each Film to the Renter

THAT the time is not far distant when practically every releasing company will abandon the flat rate basis of renting films, and will be forced to adopt the "minimum and maximum" method, or in other words the method which fixes a price commensurate with each film's value to the exhibitor, is the prediction made by A. W. Goff, assistant general manager of the V-L-S-E, who has just returned from an extended trip among the exchanges of that organization.

Mr. Goff, who as Coast division manager of the Big Four, was one of the first to put into practice that organization's policy of "open booking"—or of selling each feature strictly on its merits—produced such a showing for the offices under his jurisdiction, that upon assuming the position of assistant general manager, he made haste in seeing to it that exhibitors in other territories, as well as the exchanges, were fully acquainted with the advantages of this system.

He found during his trip, that not only were exhibitors seeking these advantages, but were exerting all the pressure within their power to induce other companies to adopt this plan.

The "minimum and maximum" method of booking has its basis in the fact that all features cannot possibly be alike in drawing power, and, therefore, in fairness to the exhibitor and the manufacturer, there should be a minimum price for the picture which might be described as that which it is "better for the exhibitor to see before booking," and a maximum price for the picture which is extraordinary and self-evident in its profit-making qualities.

Striking an Average in Price

Between these two scales there is given an opportunity for establishing an equitable price for the picture which is an average in its business-creating qualities.

In other words, such a system enables the manufacturer to obtain for the superior picture a price worthy of its merit, and permits the exhibitor to pay that price for the picture because he is not required to over-pay for features not so good.

On the other hand, this means that if a picture of a doubtful value is offered the exhibitor, and he believes with the right exploitation it will "go" with his patrons, he is given the opportunity to obtain this picture at a figure low enough to eliminate the element of chance and to permit him to make a satisfactory profit upon it.

"In other words," as Mr. Goff put it in an interview upon his return to this city, "we want to insure the exhibitor making substantial profit on every one of our pictures, even those which fall below our standard."

This system, the V-L-S-E believes, is also fairer to its manufacturers, because no manufacturer's product is "tied" to that of another, as it must necessarily be in the case of the single contract or flat rate method of booking.

This flat rate plan means, the V-L-S-E points out, that the producer who creates a feature of exceptional merit, receives the same amount for his production as the manufacturer of a lesser weight production obtains.

Expects Plan to Reduce Cancellations

The elasticity permitted the exhibitor under the "minimum and maximum" system advocated by the Big Four, it is believed, not only will increase business, but will materially reduce cancellations, and to a distributing company, as Mr. Goff states, "An order saved is worth a great deal more than an order made."

Evidence of how this plan impresses the exhibitor and operates against the cancellations of contracts, was afforded in several of the cities which Mr. Goff visited. Exhibitors operating under the flat rate plan, who had not been quite satisfied with their returns, abandoned all thought of cancellation when the "open-booking," "minimum and maximum" policy was explained to them, and announced themselves as enthusiastic converts to this method.

The V-L-S-E's system also means that the public, through their exhibitors, will virtually select their own films. By means of report slips which will be available for patrons of moving picture houses to use, the exhibitor can absolutely verify his own impressions of what his clientele wants, and also ascertain beyond the shadow of a doubt which pictures please them and which do not.

These report blanks will be handed to all patrons in the theatre as they enter, with the request that they give an expression of their opinion on the feature shown, and leave these slips in a box in the lobby as they pass out.

They will also be notified by a slide on the screen, that the exhibitor operates on a basis which permits him to choose that which he believes is best suited to their tastes, and that their cooperation is sought in helping him determine what those features shall be.

Places Films in "Open Market"

In Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City where this plan was gone over with prominent merchandising and advertising specialists, it was shown that not only would it lead to all manufacturers placing their product in the open market and renting it absolutely on its merits, but that necessarily it must force these manufacturers to the consistent use of national advertising in order that the public might be informed what features the manufacturer is producing and what to ask their exhibitors for.

"Exhibitors in illustrating what this method means to them," said Mr. Goff, "frankly confided in me that if it were in effect on the given service to which they are tied by a flat rate contract, they would book only one out of four pictures which they are now forced to take.

"One exhibitor in Chicago who owns eight houses stated very frankly, that as soon as his present contract expires, he will never again make a contract which forces him to take that which the distributor books him or to which there is attached a deposit.

"What this policy will mean to the Big Four as it becomes more widespread, is illustrated by investigation made in one territory which I visited showing that it would be possible under this plan for us to book 456 theatres a week, whereas our possibility now is not nearly so large."

To further increase the helpfulness of the Big Four organization to the exhibitor, this company has begun the establishment of the "block and quota" plan of operation, as it is called.

This plan is one which is used by all the foremost commercial organizations, such as the National Cash Register Company, and which so distributes the customers of the organization among the salesmen, that the representative has time to give them the utmost attention and service.

"Block" System Best for Salesman

Furthermore it is an absolute measure of a salesman's efficiency, and is the fairest possible guage for his advancement.

A "block" is a given number of theatres in a prescribed territory for which the salesman is held absolutely responsible. A "quota" is the amount of business that may be reasonably expected to be obtained from those theatres in that "block."

These "blocks" and "quotas" are equalized insofar as it is humanly possible to do so, throughout the country, so that every salesman can be rated on the same basis, namely: on the number of bookings and the revenue from those bookings which are made in his "block," or to put it another way, on the salesman's cash value to his firm each week.

LE VINO WILL DEVOTE TIME TO SCENARIOS

Albert S. Le Vino has tendered his resignation as secretary and treasurer of the Arrow Film Corporation to resume the writing of feature pictures and to engage in the production of at least one special feature a year.

Mr. Le Vino has been associated with the industry for three years. Prior to his connection with Arrow, he was chief-of-staff to Arthur James, then head of the Mutual publicity and scenario departments. He has written 110 photoplays, seven of them original five-reelers.

In collaboration with Harvey F. Thew he has just completed "The Woman's Law" for Florence Reed, which Arrow will release on the Pathé Gold Rooster Program.

Mr. Le Vino will shortly open his own offices in New York in the film district, where he will be conveniently located near the offices of producing and distributing corporations.

FROM THE FINE ARTS-TRIANGLE STUDIOS: DOROTHY GISH AND OWEN MOORE IN "BETTY OF GRAYSTONE"

UNIVERSAL ENLARGES PUBLICITY AND ADVERTISING OFFICES

In order to accommodate the ever increasing forces of the publicity and advertising departments of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company the offices of the two departments are being enlarged. The quarters have outgrown their usefulness, and the new arrangement will afford all members of the different departments better facilities for accomplishing their work.

The corridor extending from the entrance around to the executive offices has been run through a wall, and then will be extended into one which will go through the publicity department, supply department, advertising department then to the entrance.

This change will afford practically twice the present space used by these departments, the space formerly used by the shippers of the supply department taking over the rooms formerly occupied by the regular shipping department, which has been transferred to Universal Heights.

The departments will have more natural light and the more spacious offices will make a change long needed to meet the demands of increased business in these departments. The work will be completed in about another week.

CALIFORNIA MOTION INSTALLS COOPER HEWITT LIGHTS

The California Motion Picture Corporation has arranged with William C. Hubbard, general sales agent of the Cooper Hewitt Electric Company, of Hoboken, for the installation of its latest electric devices for the taking of studio pictures.

Mr. Hubbard, who has personally equipped over fifty of the studios here and in the West, is to make a special trip to California to install the system.

A special building is being erected for the accommodation of the lights which will supplement the already extensive plant of the California concern.

The decision to use the Cooper Hewitt lights came after a very careful study of the situation. Arthur C. Payne, one of the directors of the California Motion Picture Corporation, and Alex E. Beyfuss, vice-president and general manager, visited last week many of the studios in and around New York, making a comprehensive study of the methods of artificial lighting.

EDWIN BOOTH PLAY, "FOOL'S REVENGE," FOR FOX

A story that served Booth, Barrett, McCullough, Edwin Forrest and practically every famous actor for three generations as a starring vehicle, "The Fool's Revenge," is being produced by William Fox. Maude Gilbert and William H. Tooker are the leads.

Rothacker Plans Big Opening for Industrial Studio

February Fixed for Housewarming of Structure Whose Improvements Include Interior Stage Permitting Company to Use Tall Sets with Artificial Light

EXTERIOR OF NEW LABORATORY AND STUDIOS NOW BEING ERECTED IN CHICAGO BY THE INDUSTRIAL MOVING PICTURE COMPANY. IT WILL HAVE A WEEKLY CAPACITY OF NEARLY 2,000,000 FEET OF FILM

NOW that the exterior construction work on the new studio and laboratories of the Industrial Moving Picture Company, at Chicago, is nearing completion, General Manager Watterson R. Rothacker, and other officers of the company are busy making plans for its opening, which will be one of the big events in filmdom in Chicago, and occur some time in February.

The massive steel and concrete building now rapidly nearing completion by an army of workmen engaged in finishing the interior, has a number of decidedly advantageous features, an important one being that of an interior stage, 53 x 124 feet, which will permit of using sets twenty-five feet in height, thus enabling a producing company to use as large sets as are necessary while filming from artificial light.

In addition to this stage there will be two others, one on the roof of the building 129 x 124 feet and another on a lot adjoining.

Tanks necessary for the studio will represent a big investment. One on the top of the building will have a capacity of 18,000 gallons and be connected with sprinkling devices in every portion of the plant.

Under the interior stage is being built a pit twelve feet wide, twenty-five long and eight deep.

The first floor will contain the laboratories, printing, washing, color and drying rooms, in addition to the big stage, and on the second floors will be found the offices of the company, art department, assembling and cutting rooms, a small theatre and dressing rooms for the players.

MIDDLETON GOES TO JACKSONVILLE FOR GAUMONT PRODUCTION

Accompanied by Mrs. Middleton and the family flivver, Edwin Middleton left New York, January 14, for Jacksonville.

There he will direct one of the Gaumont Mutual Masterpicture companies.

They're Doin' Things Down at Lubin's Besides Dream

Ya-a-s, Sir, Boss, Activity Is Their Middle Name in the Quaker City Plant, with the Clicking of Cameras Getting the Efforts of Authors, Directors, Actors, Extras, Scene Shifters and Others into Permanent Form in the Shape of Features, Comedies, Dramas, "and Sich"

Special to Motion Picture News

Philadelphia, Jan. 15.

THE icy fingers of winter have in no way curbed the activities of the Lubinites. All day and every day, yea, far into the night, are the clicking cameras on the job, turning the efforts of authors, directors, actors, extras, scene shifters and—the like into features, dramas, comedies, Units, three-reelers, two-reelers, one-reelers what not—all is grist that comes to the big mill.

At Twentieth and Indiana avenue, the oldest of the present studios, George Spink now holds down, or rather "up," the publicity end of the plant. George was writing one reel comedies for the Lubinville powers, when he spied an opening in the office and straightway captured it.

He says he has been in the game eighteen long and weary years, as author, actor, any other thing that came his way, but likes this corner better than any he has struck yet. As he has been here one whole month already, he ought to know.

Helping to "brighten that corner where he is" is that indefatigable worker and valuable assistant, Clara Forrest. Men may come and men may go, but Clara goes on forever. Every man who comes to Lubin's declares he could not get on without her.

As efficiency and elimination of waste is the cry at Lubin's, as elsewhere, new steps are continually being taken along such lines. The latest is the installation of several assistants to the art director, Allen Farnham.

With somebody whose sole business it is to see that every set is perfect in detail and every detail in its place when wanted, much less valuable time of director and stars is wasted.

Two Studios Equipped with Lights

Two new indoor studios have just been equipped with Cooper Hewitt and Klieg lights, same as the rest of the studios. Now there is more room for companies on bad days and dark nights.

Earl Metcalfe, who has made a kaleidoscopic jump from handsome hero to comedy director, is busy at Betzwood some days, and busier still at the studio some nights, showing Billy Reeves how to be funny on the screen. He is making a success of his directorship.

Mark Swan is writing the comedies for English Billy now, and they are really funny, so amongst the three of them, something is doing and everybody happy.

It makes you laugh just to look at Dave Don; his is the face of a true comedian. Edward McKim not only directs Don, but writes a lot of the funny scenarios. This company is not only working, but living out at Betzwood.

They say the women of Betzwood are going to elect McKim mayor, he has proved such a philanthropist to the place in giving work to all its idle inhabitants, four loafers, two babies, three scrub women being now on the salary list.

At Seventeenth and Glenwood avenue, where the studio of latest acquisition is located, Edgar Lewis and Jack Pratt hold forth with their respective companies.

This is still too new for the Lubinites to feel real "homey" about it, but accommodations are much better than at the other buildings. Here are green rooms for men and women, large dressing rooms with every comfort, and real bathrooms at your service.

Those tubs were needed the other day. In the "Gods of Fate," Daniel Carson Goodman, author, and Pratt director, a five-reel feature, there is a factory fire scene. Nothing daunted, an empty iron works was bought at Tacony, a Philadelphia suburb, the extras engaged, the actors in their places and the scene set.

Well, they counted without their host, for so quickly did the fire get away with the act it was registering terror by turning into a genuine fire before any one realized it.

Realism Unadulterated

Then excitement reigned supreme. The whole of Tacony's population was on the ground in less time than it takes to tell it; the fire department was called out, and after some work the blaze controlled.

For realism now, commend me to this, the genuine article and trust those cameramen to lose no jot and tittle of the happening. The tubs gaped for the boys on their return.

In this same feature, there is a big railroad wreck. The nearest place where this could be staged on account of space, proper track room and other facilities was at Altoona, over two hundred miles away.

Thither then the company repaired. Two trains, one passenger and one freight were purchased. The trains were carefully placed one and a half miles apart, the throttles opened wide and there was (so the spectators say) the realest wreck ever done, spite of the many that have gone before. In order to get this action from every angle, fifteen cameramen were on the ground.

It being impossible to get close to the explosion ordinarily, one of the cameramen had the happy thought of employing armor plate as a shield. This worked to perfection.

The men encased in shields such as are used in the United States army were enabled to get within twelve feet of the actual wreck.

This photo play, which ought to be a thriller from these two scenes alone, is to be released on V-L-S-E program the middle of January. Rosetta Brice and Richard Buhler are the leads in the big cast.

Since Nance O'Neil and House Peters joined the Lubin forces, a few weeks ago, no new names of prominence have been added to the long list of stars already shining at Lubinville.

Irene Page Solomon.

Metro's Hand Stretches to Antipodes for Business

Company Takes in Australia and New Zealand Through Vogel and Howells, of Sydney, New South Wales, Who Make Contract with Rowland for Shipments, Beginning Jan 11

THE completing link in the world-wide chain which makes Metro, after less than a year of existence, a factor in motion picture affairs in every corner of the civilized globe, is Australia and New Zealand, contracts for which were entered into early this week.

Upon the report of his representatives, B. T. Howells, of Vogel and Howells, of Sydney, New South Wales, came to New York to open negotiations with the Metro Pictures Corporation for the exclusive rights to the Australian market for Metro productions. These arrangements were concluded last week, and the new contracts were signed by President Richard A. Rowland on behalf of the Metro Pictures Corporation, and by B. T. Howells on behalf of his concern, Vogel and Howells, of Sydney, New South Wales. The first shipment of prints to Australia was made on January 11.

Mr. Howells is to remain in New York, maintaining his headquarters here for the purpose of keeping in close touch with the parent organization, and in order to avail himself of the publicity and advertising departments, who will give Australia and New Zealand the benefit of their American campaign plans, copy and literature.

Vogel and Howells have contracted to release Metro pictures through two of the largest film distributing companies in the Antipodes. The Co-Operative Film Exchange, Ltd., of Sydney, Australia, and the Dominion Pictures Company, Ltd., of Auckland, New Zealand.

It is also announced by the Metro Pictures Corporation that Canadian Metro, Limited, who for the past five months has been handling Metro productions in eastern Canada, has contracted for the selling rights in western Canada, and now control the Metro releases for the entire Dominion.

This contract also was closed within the past fortnight, President Rowland acting for Metro, and Herbert Lubin, general manager of Canadian Metro, Limited, acting for the officials of that company.

Ruffles Exclusive, Ltd., of London, who represent the Metro Pictures Corporation in Great Britain and on the Continent, began distribution of Metro Pictures during the past fortnight in the Scandinavian countries. They also hold the exclusive rights to Metro productions in South America, and under their selling campaign Metro plays during the months of December and January have entered Brazil and the Argentine, Spain, Italy and Russia.

V-L-S-E Issues 20 Per Cent. Bonus to Employees

Company Rewards Men in Its Service with Part of Profits for Period of Thirteen Weeks —25 Per Cent. More Participate Than in Last Award

THE bonus of twenty per cent. of the net profits of the V-L-S-E for the past thirteen weeks awarded by the directors of the organization to its employees, was distributed at the home office and all the branches, on Monday of this week.

Fully twenty-five per cent. more persons shared in this liberal division than in the first of these disbursements, made October 19.

Despite this increase in number to whom the profit sharing checks applied, it is understood that this expression of appreciation on the part of the Big Four directorate to its employees, approximated very closely that of the preceding period, indicating that notwithstanding the widespread expansion on the part of the V-L-S-E, the company's business has shown a most substantial increase.

As originally announced, this division will be continued regularly at the expiration of each period of thirteen weeks. The guiding forces of the V-L-S-E feel, it is understood, that the plan of making the company's employees partners in very actuality as well as in theory, has more than paid for itself during the past six months, in the increased co-operation, and in the added business such co-operative service to the company's customers has stimulated.

And, not only does this plan make for greater profit in the end for the employers, but it means greater profit for those whom the organization serves, as exhibitors throughout the country will attest.

For since the increased business placed by each customer of the organization means increased earnings personally to every member of the organization's force, it is to the very vital profit of each individual to see to it that every customer receives the fullest help in developing the possibilities of his business.

"Such self interest," said E. L. Masters, advertising and publicity manager of the V-L-S-E, in commenting upon this latest disbursement, "means service to the theatre owner wilth a capital 'S'—and it may be said parenthetically, that this is the calibre of service which the Big Four is rendering—a service with the breadth and depth that is making the company's sales organization stand out as one of notable efficiency throughout the commercial field.

"Some people have tried to depreciate the value of the Board of Directors' liberality, by declaring that it must eventually come out of the pockets of the moving picture exhibitor, on the ground that we must charge more for our product in order to meet the outlay which these profit sharing checks represent.

"The fallacy of this reasoning is made apparent when consideration is given to the fact that although the individual manufacturers making up the V-L-S-E have a combined capital of from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 the company itself is capitalized for only $40,000.

Instead, therefore, of having to go into Wall Street and issue $6,000,000 worth of stocks in order to get $3,000,000 in cash for which it would be necessary to pay a six per cent. interest charge amounting to $360,000 a year, the V-L-S-E has to meet only $2,400 a year interest on its stock, so that it can give its employees a handsome share of its profits and still offer its exhibitors the most efficient selling service and first grade pictures at prices well within reason."

That the fund is doing much to promote the best interests of the individuals in the organization, is attested by the reports which have been received at the home office, of the usages to which the money has been placed.

HELEN WEIR IS NOW A LUBIN PLAYER

Helen Weir, a newcomer to the Lubin studios, made her first screen appearance in

HELEN WEIR

"A Barnyard Romeo," and later appeared in "The Fatal Card" and "The Incorrigible Dukane." Miss Weir is a native of Anderson, Ind., and confesses to having been on earth just eighteen years.

STONE GRIST MILL BUILT FOR PATHE'S "HAZEL KIRKE"

When the Whartons began to make "Hazel Kirke" for the Pathé Gold Rooster program, they were confronted with the necessity of finding an old stone mill with waterwheel in working condition.

At Ludlowville, N. Y., not far from Ithaca, they hired masons to put up a real structure of stone, modelled on an old engraving of a one-time grist mill in New England. The Wharton mill was put up on the banks of a charming stream with sufficient power to turn the huge wheel their carpenters installed.

A cast, headed by Pearl White, William Riley Hatch, Bruce McRae, Creighton Hale, Florence Edney and Allen Murnane was used in this picture which will bring fond memories to playgoers.

BEAUMONT, ACTOR, DIRECTOR AND SCENARIO MAN, JOINS ESSANAY

Harry Beaumont, well known as an actor on the stage and in photoplays, and as a director, has joined Essanay as a leading man. His first play for Essanay, which is now being produced, is "The White Alley," a three-act drama by Carolyn Wells.

HARRY BEAUMONT

Mr. Beaumont has been in the film business four years, playing juvenile leads and directing. He also has had a wide stage experience. He played the title role in "Chequers," in "Under Southern Skies," "Captain Clay of Missouri" and "The County Chairman."

He played in cities all over the country in stock and was in vaudeville three years.

He is a writer as well as actor and director and has written and produced about seventy comedies and dramas for the screen.

Mr. Beaumont was born in Abilene, Kan. He went on the stage at an early age and has lived in various parts of the country.

RUSSELL AND CHARLOTTE BURTON IN "THOROUGHBRED"

William Russell and Charlotte Burton, the two American players who appeared in "The Diamond from the Sky," will be seen again in the first Mutual Masterpicture, De Luxe Edition, "The Thoroughbred," which is released on January 17.

In this American feature picture Mr. Russell plays the role of Kelso Hamilton, a young chap who loses his possessions in speculation, and then goes west.

Charlotte Burton, too, is seen in a different type of role in "The Thoroughbred" from the ones in which she appeared recently.

She appears as Angela Earle, the daughter of a wealthy New Yorker, and her friends will hardly recognize Vivian Marston, the vampire of "The Diamond" in this gentle character.

Exciting Moments in Chapter 5 of "The Girl and the Game," Signal-Mutual

RUBE MILLER IS ADDED TO VOGUE STAFF OF DIRECTORS

Rube Miller has been added to the directing staff of Vogue comedies. Mr. Miller earned an enviable reputation in the making of comedy pictures for Keystone and L-KO, as well as playing many leading roles.

Madge Kirby and Arthur Tavares, the latter a Keystone slap-stick graduate, will appear under Mr. Miller's direction. Miss Kirby is a typical English girl and is a convert from the speaking stage, where she appeared with Richard Carle and Fred Walton.

In addition to these new stars Alice Neice, formerly character lead for the Lubin-Melville company has been signed to play the heavy dramatic parts.

"Oh, For the Life of a Fireman," a forthcoming Vogue release produced by Jack Dillon, with Russ Powell in the leading role and Priscilla Dean as ingenue, has been shown to exhibitors and declared to be the style of slap-stick comedy desired.

TEN STATES SOLD FOR "MARVELOUS MACISTE"

The Hanover Film Company, handling "Marvelous Maciste," announce that it has sold ten states for this feature as a result of private screenings. It has been sold in all Eastern territory, except Ohio, and in part of the Western territory.

The company has also recccntly acquired a five-reel feature, entitled "Should a Baby Die?" featuring Camille Dalberg, Arthur Donaldson, Gazelle Marche, Sonia Marcelle, and Florence Hackett.

Charles E. Kimball and Samuel Grant are managing the New York office of the company, located at 904 Columbia theatre building.

EARLE TOURS CALIFORNIA FOR PARAMOUNT

Ralph Earle, who was recently appointed news service cameraman for the Paramount News Service, with headquarters in San Francisco, is now touring California to secure material for the new service.

Frank McCoy, who formerly conducted the Regal Film Exchange in that city, has been placed in charge of the Paramount travel series and news service at the San Francisco office of the Progressive Motion Picture Company.

Morosco Closes Contract for Broadhurst Plays

Well Known Dramatist Thus Gives Producer Control of Many Stage Successes, Including "Bought and Paid For," "Kick In," "The Wrong Mr. Wright" and "Why Smith Left Home"

THE Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company has just closed a contract with George Broadhurst for all of his plays and for all of his future productions, extending over a term of years. Among the plays to which the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company has acquired the motion picture rights are the following:

"The American Lord"; "The Wrong Mr. Wright"; "Why Smith Left Hhome"; "The Speculator"; "A Fool and His Money"; "An International Marriage"; "The Crown Prince"; "The Law of the Land"; "The Captain"; "The Easterner"; "What Money Can't Buy"; "Don't Weaken"; "A Man and His Wife"; "A Lucky Dog."

OLIVER MOROSCO — GEORGE BROADHURST

Included in the Morosco-Broadhurst deal also are the following played by T. W. Broadhurst: "Justice"; "The Plainsman"; "The Holy City"; and "Winning Him Back."

Mr. Broadhurst will supervise the scenarios of all these plays. An arrangement has also been made, whereby Mr. Broadhurst will be closely associated with the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company in future and will be in a position to give this company the benefit of his knowledge, experience and skill in the development of these plays upon the screen and the selection of proper artists for their portrayal.

"Mr. Broadhurst is undoubtedly the foremost dramatist in America and his association with this organization proves conclusively the advance that motion pictures are making in the development of the silent drama," said a prominent Morosco official. "Mr. Broadhurst being a comparatively young man, the author of such plays as 'Bought and Paid For,' and 'The Man of the Hour,' it is felt that he should in the next four or five years be able to give to the motion picture art some of the most important original plays ever seen on the screen."

In a thousand word wire received from the Oliver Morosco studios today conveying this information is included some information as to the tremendous royalties Mr. Broadhurst is already receiving from his works and the figure at which his services were obtained.

The wire reads in part: "As illustrating the importance of this acquisition, we would inform you that Mr. Broadhurst's royalties amount to more than $150,000 per year and that several companies were bidding very high for his association with them. The check which passed to Mr. Broadhurst today was undoubtedly the largest check ever passed to any author for his services."

"EXHIBITORS' DIARY" FROM MELIES PUTS "VIM" IN EXHIBITOR COMMENT

That the Exhibitors' Diary, sent out by the Vim Comedy Company as a Christmas present, is appreciated by exhibitors, is witnessed in letters received by the Melies Manufacturing Company. The following is a typical one:

"Vim Comedy Company:

"Gentlemen—Your diary received this morning, and I hasten to thank you for the same. Permit me to add that of all the Christmas and New Year forms of greeting from film manufacturers, yours is far and away the best, and will be more appreciated by exhibitors.

"Wishing you a happy and prosperous New Year,

"Yours, for success,

"F. P. McCutcheon,

"Riverhead, N. Y."

"Photodrama Is a Distinct Art," Declares Tourneur

Traditions of the Speaking Stage Have no Effect on Vice-President and Director-in-Chief of Paragon, Releasing Through World Film, in Selection of Material

MAURICE TOURNEUR, until recently director at the Peerless studio in Fort Lee, New Jersey, and now vice-president, director-in-chief and general manager of the Paragon company, which is to release through the World Film Corporation, is a firm believer in the motion picture as a separate and distinct art.

He cares little for traditions of the speaking stage as applied to pictures, which statement he confirmed when he recently said:

"I do not believe in paying high prices for plays or novels that are purported to have had a successful career in their individual fields. The good picture should be written specially for the screen, and as long as it is good, the name on the leader is secondary.

"But where I do adhere to existing conditions on the speaking stage," continued Mr. Tourneur, "is in the matter of stock companies.

"The picture producer of today is crazy to get a star player, which adds to the picture's box office value but often has a deteriorating effect in respect to its artistic value. A star generally is unused to his or her support and consequently the players are not able to work in unison.

"When work starts at the Paragon studio I intend to retain a regular stock company, the members of which will by constant association with one another before the camera, be fully able to judge each other's work and become familiar with each other's peculiarities. Stars will be employed but they too will in all probability be members of the regular company.

Mr. Tourneur was asked as to the nature of the Paragon-World Film agreement and declined to go into detail.

"Paragon," he said, "is not bound by contract to produce a certain number of pictures a year. We will make as many as possible, probably two or three a month. The length will be five reels."

It is generally known that Mr. Tourneur, a Frenchman by birth, was formerly connected with the French Eclair Company in a directing capacity. He has been in this country for almost two years as director at the Peerless studio, and he says heartily he likes America better than any other land.

"You, over here," he said, "have long thought foreign settings and photography much better than your own. You are wrong, for with the exception of Italy there is no country that can attain such wonderful photographic effects as this. It is merely modesty on your part, for a French producer thinks American pictures better than his in those same respects.

"As for the acting, the American and English players are much easier to work with than the more temperamental Continental. Your European actor will tire after rehearsing two or three times and then fuss and fume when he is obliged to listen to the director. Americans, on the other hand, are willing to work all day on one scene if necessary.

"And as for facilities for pictcure producing in this country and abroad there is no comparison."

Mr. Tourneur has just finished work on a feature starring George Beban, his last with the Peerless studio. The Paragon, now practically completed, will shortly house Mr. Tourneur, Albert Capellani and Emile Chautard, the trio of French directors who have been so successful in this country.

The Paragon studio, situated in Fort Lee, N. J., only a few blocks from the Peerless, is equipped with all the latest improvements. Two revolving stages will allow for the erection of three adjacent settings while the remaining floor space is large enough to accommodate six or eight sets of average size.

SELIG BACK FROM SOUTH

William N. Selig has returned from the South, where he accompanied Colin Campbell, dean of Selig Polyscope Company directors, on an inspection tour of picture play locations called for in the forthcoming Selig production "The Crisis."

True to life scenes, as called for in Winston Churchill's best novel, were carefully inspected and Colin Campbell will at once begin work on the picture.

He has recently visited St. Louis in search of locations.

Mr. Selig has personally planned details of the production of "The Crisis" just as he gave the details of "The Spoilers," and "The Ne'er-Do-Well" his personal attention. A cast of Selig all-star players will be selected and no time will be lost in beginning practical work.

Metro's "Kiss of Hate" an Ethel Barrymore Medium

Five-Reeler Will Be Put in Work by Rolfe, Under Direction of Nigh, Who Will Rehearse Cliffe with Star in Play by Mme. De Gressac

METRO'S next offering, with Ethel Barrymore in the stellar role, will be "The Kiss of Hate," a story of romance, intrigue and politics in Russia, according to an announcement just made in the Metro offices, in the Longacre building, New York. This five-part feature will be put into production immediately by the Rolfe Photoplays, Inc.

Miss Barrymore will have in her cast H. Cooper Cliffe, the noted dramatic actor, who was recently starred in a big production. Mr. Cliffe was last seen on the Metro program, in support of Miss Barrymore, in "The Final Judgment."

William Nigh, one of the youngest directors on the Metro staff, who has gained fame recently with "A Yellow Streak," in which Lionel Barrymore is starred, and "Emmy of Stork's Nest," with little Mary Miles Minter in the stellar part, will direct the new Ethel Barrymore feature.

The story of "The Kiss of Hate," which was written by Mme. De Gressac, deals largely with the question of justice for the Jew in Russia. A prominent and wealthy merchant, who sympathizes with a new revolutionary group that is seeking to obtain equal rights for all, comes under the displeasure of the police and military.

He is murdered and all the male members of his family are banished to Siberia. A daughter, who is noted for her beauty and keen wits, seeks out the superintendent of police, and asks that her brother, who is frail and dying, be returned from Siberia.

The superintendent agrees to act favorably upon her petition, providing she will give herself to him, body and soul. In desperation, the girl consents. A counter plot follows, in which the son of the police head falls in love with the girl.

Complications result, which the girl succeeds in clearing.

The production will be mounted on an elaborate scale, and in the many big scenes several hundred persons will be seen.

A chase by wolves and scenes typical of life in the grim Siberian prison pens will also be among the noteworthy features of the production.

This feature marks the first of the new Barrymore productions since she signed the three-year contract with Metro.

PRODUCER FITZMAURICE, PATHÉ, GETS REAL ATMOSPHERE IN A CABARET SCENE FOR "NEW YORK," FORTHCOMING GOLD ROOSTER PLAY

LOOKING AT THREE KALEMS: "THE MOTH AND THE STAR" (EPISODE 11 OF "STINGAREE"), "WURRA-WURRA," AND "THE LURKING PERIL," AN EPISODE IN "THE VENTURES OF MARGUERITE"

"HAM AND EGGS" LAST CASINO STAR RELEASE FOR GAUMONT

With "Ham and Eggs" on the screen January 16, the final Casino Star Comedy of the present Gaumont series has been released. The scenario is written by Harry Palmer, the Gaumont cartoonist who animates "Keepin' Up with the Joneses."

"Budd" Ross played the star role. The comedy was directed by Edwin Middleton, who left the following week for Jacksonville, where he will direct Mutual Masterpictures at the Gaumont Studios.

KLASKY APPOINTED MANAGER FOR BLUE BIRD IN ST. LOUIS

I. Leon Klasky, formerly with Pathé, and World Film exchanges in St. Louis, has been appointed manager of the Blue Bird Photo Plays, with an office in the Universal Exchange, at 2116 Locust street, St. Louis.

Mr. Klasky has already begun an extensive advertising campaign concerning his features, of which the first to be released is Sarah Bernhardt in Jeanne Dore.

Projection Rooms in Every Branch for General

President Berst's Plan for Saving Time of Exhibitors Is Under Way—Screen Examination Places in Cleveland, Los Angeles and Many Other Cities Near Completion

CONSIDERABLE progress has already been made in carrying out the policy of co-operation with the exhibitor, inaugurated by President J. A. Berst, of the General Film Company. Soon after his election to the presidency, Mr. Berst gave directions that projection rooms for the exhibitors' benefit be established as soon as possible in every branch.

Mr. Berst's idea was to have one or two days' private showing of all subjects, whether on the regular program, the Unit program, or handled by the special feature department.

It was his desire that the exhibitors have an opportunity of seeing all General releases before he booked them, as a first step toward the open booking system favored by Mr. Berst.

A number of the branches have now fitted up projection rooms and are holding private exhibitions for the exhibitors weekly. F. C. Aiken, division manager for the Middle West, arranged for such weekly showings in Chicago.

The first private exhibition for the benefit of exhibitors in Chicago and vicinity was held in the Essanay projection room in the First National Bank building on January 10, when the releases for the week beginning Monday, January 17, were shown.

The exhibition began at 9:30 a. m. and, with an intermission for luncheon, continued until 4:30 p. m. The following day the rest of the releases were shown.

On Monday and Tuesday, January 17 and 18, all General subjects for the following week will be displayed in the projection room of the Selig Polyscope Company. After that date the exhiibtors' showings will alternate between the Essanay and Selig rooms.

This arrangement is to continue until spring, when the Wabash branch will move into new quarters with a large projection room as a prominent feature.

The establishing of this service for exhibitors in Chicago greatly pleased the men who own and manage theatres there and in surrounding towns.

Formerly they were obliged to spend parts of several days in different localities in order to review General releases. Less than fifty per cent. of a week's releases were available for exhibition under the old plan.

In Boston, General releases are shown to New England exhibitors every Tuesday and Wednesday, a week in advance of their release. The Newark branch has a fine projection room.

Before it was fitted up, special showings for the benefit of exhibitors were given in Newark theatres.

Projection rooms are approaching completion in Cleveland, Los Angeles, and many other cities.

"U" Search for Handsome Man Leads to a Prince

His Name Is Pong Yee—He Has Been in America Nine Years After Banishment from His Native Country—He Wants His Life Story Put in the "Pictyoors"

IN its search for the handsomest man, the Universal Film Manufacturing Company announces it has discovered a genuine Korean Prince, Pong Yee by name.

The company started January 1 to look for the handsomest man in America. Among the photographs received was one from Yee, who, on January 5, was stopping at the Dodge Hotel, Omaha, Neb.

This young man, according to the information gathered by the Universal, was banished from Korea at the age of 12, coming to this country where he gained his education at the University of Michigan. He is said to have written two dramatic plays for college production there.

"I have been in America nine years," says Yee in a letter to Universal, "and I spent most of the time up until 1914 studying. Then I was unable to finance myself further to renew my education.

"I am very desirous of writing the story of my life for the films, which I would call 'Prince Pong Yee's Struggling Life,' which I am certain would be of interest to the American people."

The contest will close April 1. Those desiring to enter must send their photographs, with a brief biographical sketch, to the "Handsome Man Contest Editor," care of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, 1600 Broadway, New York, or to the newspaper which is handling the contest in their state.

The announcement of the handsomest man in each state will be made April 15, at which time the photographs of the forty-eight winners and the reports of the various committees will be forwarded to the Universal offices, where a committee will judge who is the winner of the grand prize.

The winner will be given a trip to Universal City, and a year's contract as a motion picture star.

The Universal reports it has received a great many photographs from nearly every state in the country.

FOX DIRECTORS ESCAPE DEATH FROM STUDIO ACCIDENT

W. S. Davis, director of the William Fox production, "The Fool's Revenge," and Arthur Vaughan, assistant director, barely escaped death when an overhead bank of studio lights fell to the floor during the making of that picture.

VIEWS OF STRIKING SCENES IN "A FOOL'S PARADISE," NEW IVAN PHOTODRAMA

ESSANAY STUDIO PROMISED FOR FEB. 1 BY CONTRACTORS

Essanay's new studio, built on the extreme west of the Essanay property in Chicago, is nearing completion, promises being made by the contractors that it will be ready for occupancy in February. Already the executive offices on the second floor are being finished in mahogany.

The studio on the first floor, which has more floor space than any other studio lighted by artificial light, soon will be in use in the filming of the latest Essanay pictures.

One of the novelties of the new building is a greenroom for actors and another for actresses in which those waiting to go on the floor will not be compelled to wait where action is going on.

A system of telephones with automatic exchanges is being installed so that an assistant director may call his cast together without leaving the floor. The whole building will be devoted to the executive offices and the studio with gymnasium, reading rooms and a few dressing rooms.

"AS A WOMAN SOWS," GAUMONT, READY ON JAN. 24

The important part being played by the Gaumont Company in the production of Mutual Masterpictures, de luxe edition, is evidenced by the character and the frequency of its early releases of these five-reel features.

"As a Woman Sows," with Alexander Gaden and Gertrude Robinson is to see the screen January 24.

February 3, Malcolm Williams appears as a Gaumont Star in the big feature. "The Idol of the Stage." Lucille Taft and Alexander Gaden will be seen in "The Drifter" on February 7. Marguerite Courtot is now completing her first Gaumont Feature which as "The Dead Alive" will be released February 17.

EDNA WALLACE HOPPER IS A STAR FOR EQUITABLE

Edna Wallace Hopper, for a number of years, a prime favorite among theatregoers of this country and Europe, who, for the past eighteen months, has been serving in the British Red Cross behind the firing lines in France, arrived in New York last Tuesday on the Lafayette and began work two days later at the studio of the Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation on Fifty-second street, where an elaborate film production is in the course of construction.

Miss Hopper earned her laurels on the American stage in "The Girl I Left Behind Me," as Dolly Chester in "The Younger Son," Betsy in "Poor Girls," and then joined the company of De Wolf Hopper whom she subsequently married. She appeared with Hopper in "Pajandrum" and later starred in "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

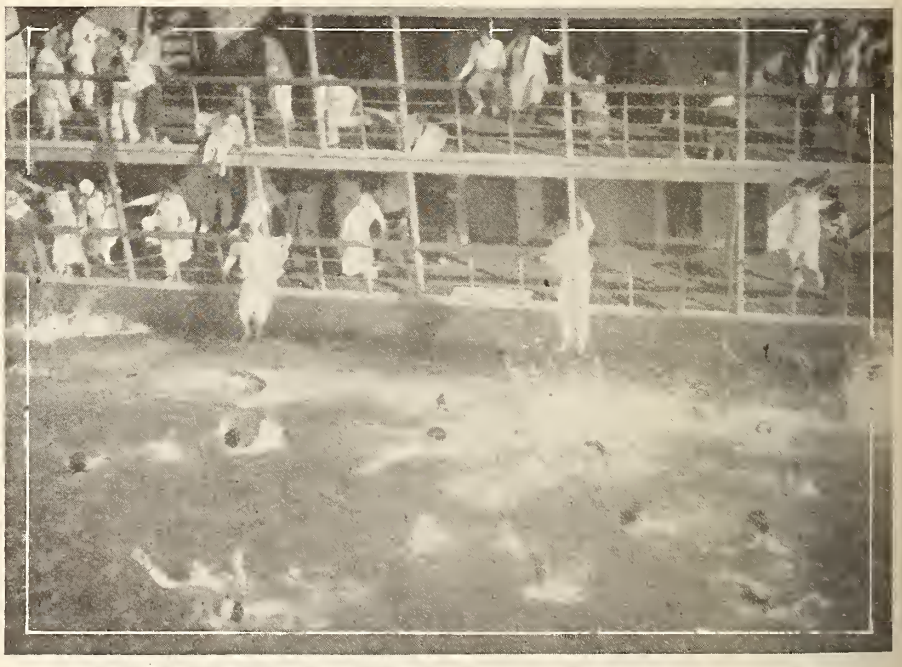
Her work in "The Wonderful Lamp" won fame for her and she was then chosen to play the principal part in "Floradora," a part she has played over and over.

BETTY HART STAR IN "THE BAIT"

In the "copy" announcing the release of David Horsley's five-reel Mutual Masterpicture, de luxe edition, "The Bait," on January 22, Margaret Gibson was mentioned as co-star with William Clifford.

This was due to an unintentional error. The leading role in "The Bait" is played by Betty Hart, a photoplayer of rare ability and with a large following, who gives in this release one of her finest characterizations. The correction is made in justice to Miss Hart.

Vivid Shipwreck Scene, with Thousands Jumping in Water, Part of "Thou Shalt Not Covet," Selig



A VIEW OF THE STRIKING SHIPWRECK SCENE IN "THOU SHALT NOT COVET"

IN the Selig Red Seal play, "Thou Shalt Not Covet," written by James Oliver Curwood, and featuring Tyrone Power and Kathlyn Williams, supported by Eugenie Besserer and Guy Oliver, to be released through V-L-S-E on February 7, there is a succession of photoplay "punches," which are guaranteed to make the photoplay public enjoy the much-wished-for thrills.

There is a true-to-life shipwreck in which an ocean-going liner strikes a derelict, and thousands of men, women and children plunge headlong in their night clothing from the various decks into the dark waters below.

Miss Kathlyn also plunges headlong from the back of an infuriated horse; there is a battle to the death between a royal Bengal tiger and a monster leopard defending its young, and a desperate conflict between white hunters and a horde of African tribesmen.

LIVE WIRE EXHIBITORS

EDITOR'S NOTE.—It is the desire of "Motion Picture News" to include under this heading novel advertising ideas, successful schemes in the management, decoration and equipment of the theatre—everything, in fact, done by the exhibitor to stimulate his trade. We invite every exhibitor to write us about any new enterprise he has; also to come to us for advice or information along any line. Address: Editor, "Motion Picture News," 220 West Forty-second Street, New York City

SEATTLE THEATRE TAKES WHOLE NEWSPAPER SECTION FOR ANNOUNCEMENT OF OPENING

One of the best newspaper advertising stunts ever consummated by an exhibitor came to light in the January 2 issue of the Seattle Sunday Times. An entire section of the paper was given over to the Coliseum theatre, Seattle.

The occasion was the formal opening of the theatre, one of the largest and handsomest in the country. Messrs. Jensen and Von Herberg, the managers, took three and a half pages in the Times for their announcement.

The first page of the section is occupied with a drawing of the theatre, articles descriptive of its construction and equipment, and an eight-column box bearing an announcement to Seattle photoplay patrons.

The following pages carrying advertising from every firm which had anything to do with the building of the theatre: architects, construction firms, accessory dealers, music stores, decorators, etc. A large advertisement of the Progressive Motion Picture Company distributors of Paramount Pictures, also appears. The Coliseum will be a Paramount first-run house.

Every possible angle of interest with regard to the theatre is covered in readable stories. Picture patrons reading this section knew that their city had gained a photoplay house of remarkable beauty and convenience.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS congratulates the managers of the Coliseum on this great piece of advertising. They selected the best medium for it, and carried it out with intelligence and skill.

SOUTH CAROLINA HOUSE ORGAN AN EXAMPLE OF ENTERPRISE

A commendable piece of exhibitor enterprise is furnished in the Strand-Rex-Bijou Weekly Review, house organ of three theatres in Spartanburg, S. C. The Christmas number, which is before us, consists of ten pages, 12x9, and covers.

The pages are about equally divided between advertising and text. We note several exchange ads. in the lot, besides a good representation of Spartanburg business firms. Each of the theatres has a page to itself for announcements of features for the week, etc. In the case of two, the features are itemized; in the other, which evidently a different class house, a blanket statement serves.

There is also a considerable amount of matter about the industry in general—well selected. Some space is devoted to short items. Probably the Review will find it to its advantage to run more of these in future. We suggest also the use of a larger number of cuts. Certainly if the present size is to be continued, it will be practicable to use illustrations to good effect. The illustrations in the Christmas issue are good.

This is another bit of testimony to the growth of house organs from small sheets or folders to sizable magazines—a development that evidences the lifting of photoplay theatres to their rightful plane of dignity.

BOSTON NEWSPAPERS RECOGNIZING IMPORTANCE OF PICTURES

Boston has a new motion picture page which the followers of the films can read every Saturday night. The Boston Traveler is the latest Boston paper to devote special full-page space to the films. Its first page has just appeared, headed by an artistic strip across the eight columns, carrying a good number of advertisements for a first time, and publishing stories both long and short concerning the pictures, including a story of Bernhardt's life, and a well written review of the question of stage stars on the screen.

Solita Salano, who edits the page, is a close observer of the pictures, as well as a well known dramatic reviewer. Her first effort, on the whole, is a credit to the film industry as well as her paper, and is another step toward bringing the public and the film men into closer touch with each other.

It may be noted here that the Boston Transcript, one of the most conservative newspapers in the country, as well as one of the best written and most authoritative on subjects of art, has begun to review the better films. Beginning with the Lasky "Carmen" from time to time initialed criticisms of the more prominent of the pictures have been published, apparently written in an attitude favorable to the film as a whole, but still courageous enough to point out its weak points.

The Boston Sunday American publishes a motion picture page, and the Record

THE SEATTLE SUNDAY TIMES, JANUARY 2, 1916.

NEW COLISEUM OPENS WEDNESDAY

COLISEUM PRODUCT OF SEATTLE FIRMS

Many Leading Local Establishments Represented in Building of Beautiful New Photoplay House.

Paramount Stars to Appear at Coliseum

KNABE
THE WORLD'S BEST PIANO

EXCLUSIVE REPRESENTATIVES
JONES, ROSQUIST, KILLEN CO.
INCORPORATED
1510 THIRD AVENUE

THE SEATTLE SUNDAY TIMES, JANUARY 2, 1916.

NEW COLISEUM OPENS WEDNESDAY

MINUSA

Born in the West seven years ago the MINUSA GOLD FIBER SCREEN today represents the acme of perfection in screen actions. Not the twitching of a muscle, the twinkling of an eye, or the high light of a single hair is missed by the marvelous reproducing powers of this screen. The management of the Coliseum Theatre has installed it in order to give their patrons phenomena that can be truly said to be MOVING PAINTINGS. This order was placed through the H. A. JOHNSON SEATING CO. of Seattle, outfitters for discriminating theatre owners.

MINUSA CINÉ PRODUCTS COMPANY
St. Louis New York
Branch in Seattle

FIRM'S HISTORY IS LIKE FICTION

Coliseum Ushers Pretty Feature

Simplex De Luxe Projector

Seattle Stage Lighting Company

Eighth Ave. Sand and Gravel Co.
Sand and Gravel

Eckart Plumbing & Heating Co.
HIGH-GRADE
Plumbing and Heating

Finishing Hardware furnished by Schwabacher Hardware Co. Seattle

The MacDougall-Southwick
Department of Interior Decoration

ILLUSTRATING THE COLISEUM THEATRE SECTION OF "THE SEATTLE SUNDAY TIMES"

prints a picture department each night. Thus far, however, Boston has no paper publishing a development film page every day in the week.

That will come later, it is safe to predict.

NEWSPAPER DEVOTES WHOLE PAGE TO MILWAUKEE THEATRE

The ever growing importance of photoplay theatres in the eyes of the Milwaukee newspapers could no better be illustrated than by the fact that the Milwaukee Free Press devoted an entire page of the issue of January 10 to the new Merrill theatre, that city.

This page which by the way is the first ever devoted entirely to a Milwaukee photoplay house contained illustrations of the interior and exterior of the theatre and a long descriptive article on the policy of the house on Triangle plays and the construction of the theatre.

The story was written by J. W. Martin of the Press Publicity Company who is handling the press work for the theatre and it was through his efforts that the story was put over.

STRAND PROGRAM

Monday, Dec. 27

DUSTIN FARNUM

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

Tuesday Dec. 28

EUGENIE BESSERER

'The Circular Staircase'

Wednesday, Dec. 29

VIRGINIA PEARSON

"The Turn of the Road"

Thursday, Dec 30

WALLACE REID

"Enoch Arden"

Friday, Dec. 31

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

"Marrying Money"

Saturday, Jan.

HAROLD LOCKWOOD

"The End of the Road"

"THE BANK"

CLARK TO PLAY DUAL ROLE IN GREAT PICTURE

Charming Little Actress will Appear here Monday, January 3, in first Production of Mark Twain's Immortal Masterpiece.

MARGUERITE CLARK

HOUSE ORGAN SERIES NO. 17: ILLUSTRATING STRAND-REX-BIJOU REVIEW, SPARTANBURG, S. C.

A HINT TO EXHIBITORS ABOUT THE IMPORTANCE OF NEWSPAPER PHOTOPLAY REVIEWS

THERE is another angle in the entente between exhibitor and newspaper which needs to be emphasized, and one to which exhibitors would do well to devote attention. It is persuading the newspaper to review the pictures you show at your theater.

This is not possible, to be sure, in every town, because many exhibitors change their program daily. But in the larger cities, where features are run two or three days, there is no reason why the newspapers should not send representatives to witness the pictures, and run reviews of them the next morning or afternoon.

In some cities already the newspapers have made reviews of pictures a regular part of the week's routine; but not in all. Here is a chance for the exhibitor to push his campaign to win the newspaper one step further by claiming for the photoplay the same consideration accorded stage productions. In advancing such a claim he is on sure ground—the tremendous popularity of the motion picture. The newspaper has everything to gain, and nothing to lose, by this forward step. It is a service its readers will appreciate.

Not only so, but the exhibitor will gain thereby additional publicity, legitimate publicity, too, and the kind that will become increasingly valuable to him. Newspaper readers will come to rely on the reviews. The exhibitor will have a new medium for gauging the kind of pictures his town wants.

Invite the newspapers to review your features. Provide the newspapers with a pass to your theater. Tell the newspapers you want them to judge the kind of pictures you are offering. If your pictures are good, you have nothing to fear. If they are not good, the sooner you learn it the better. See that the newspaper reviews your pictures fairly—most of them will, we think. But don't be afraid of honest criticism. Court it. It is one of the ways in which you can make your theater a successful theater.

If your newspaper offers objection to such a scheme, tell it that some of the largest newspapers in the country regularly run picture reviews. If they think it worth while, devote the space to it, other newspapers certainly cannot afford to do less.

And insist on this: the motion picture should be reviewed as a motion picture.

NEWSPAPER AD. SERIES NO. 6

THE LYRIA THEATRE

Iowa's Finest Motion Picture Theatre

Built up to a Standard, Not down to a Price.

TODAY, Monday and Tuesday

Triangle Plays

THOS. H. INCE Production

ALOHA OH

Featuring Willard Mack and Enid Markey

Also 3 Reel Keystone

The Village Scandal

With Raymond Hitchcock and Fatty Arbuckle

This is a great bill—Eight Reels

Willard Mack, the Distinguished Dramatic Star Appearing In "Aloha Oe," a New Triangle-Kay Bee Play.

PRICES 10--15c

SHOWS START 2.30 4:00 9:30 and 9:00

AN AD. WHICH IS POOR TYPOGRAPHICALLY, AND DOES NOT AROUSE INTEREST

The two are very different. Their similarity is only superficial. The motion picture has its own art, its own appeal. The time has come when newspapers everywhere ought to recognize this fact, and one of the surest methods of bringing that recognition is to get the newspaper to run regular reviews of your screen features.

TIME CARD OF DAY'S PICTURES A CONVENIENCE TO PATRONS

A convenience to patrons which many exhibitors overlook is a schedule of hours when each picture is shown during the afternoon and night. This schedule can be lettered on a sheet of cardboard, and placed on a stand in the front of the lobby. Patrons can then avoid, if they wish, entering the theatre in the middle of a feature. One schedule should be made out each day.

Another scheme is to post in the lobby or on the theatre front a calendar of the important pictures of the week. At the end of each day the feature can be crossed off. People passing the theatre tell at a glance what the principal attraction for the day is. This stunt is worked by Loew's New York theatre, on Broadway.

HOUSE ORGAN CARRIES REPRINT OF NEWSPAPER AD

The Village Theatre Company, Wilmette, Ill., sends its house organ, The Village Movie, upon whose excellent make-up we have already commented, to every householder in the village—about 2,200. Several sheets carrying ads. of business houses go out with the Movie as inserts.

The week of January 8 the Movie also carried a reprint of the theatre's advertisement, 3 columns full length page, which had appeared in the two Wilmette weeklies. The Village theatre owners had this ad. especially set up by their own printers, and the type delivered to the newspapers.

AMONG THE EXCHANGES

PAY-IN-ADVANCE SYSTEM IS PLAN UNDER WAY IN NEW ORLEANS TERRITORY

AN endeavor to interest all exchange men in the New Orleans territory with a pay-in-advance system of marketing films, so successful in the New England States, has been made by representatives of two well-known film companies.

On Tuesday of last week an informal "Dutch" luncheon of all New Orleans exchange managers was held at Fabacher's Rathskellar. The pay-in-advance proposition was the piece-de-resistance of the talkfest which preceded the luncheon.

Another reason for this luncheon was that due to many shifts since the New Year, and other changes of personnel, exchange managers were not acquainted with one another.

E. J. Farrell, Southern division manager of the General Film Company, on a recent swing of the territory which will henceforth come under his jurisdiction, sowed the first seeds of the exhibitors' advance payment idea, although the idea had been discussed informally for weeks previous to his visit.

No agreement was reached, it is understood, as the time is not ripe in that territory for any radical, sudden change in the present marketing conditions. But at least exchange managers have had an opportunity to air their views on the subject.

Interest this week centers upon the new office of the V-L-S-E. Some weeks ago C. A. Meade, manager of the Dallas office of the Big Four paid a visit to the Crescent City with the intention of looking over the local situation. He experienced some trouble in getting a location, as offices with fireproof vaults are scarce in New Orleans.

Mr. Meade temporarily took over an office at 316 St. Charles street, and this will be the New Orleans headquarters of the company until permanent headquarters are secured. R. King Evans, an experienced film man of Texas, who accompanied Mr. Meade here, will be the New Orleans manager.

Another new opening in exchange circles of more than passing importance is the appointment of Maurice F. Barr as manager of the New Orleans office of the Blue Bird Photo Plays. Offices for the company have been secured at 912 Gravier street. Effective local advertising had been inserted in advance of the opening of the Blue Bird office.

The New Orleans office will include in its territory Louisiana, Central Mississippi, southwest Texas and southern Alabama.

Mr. Barr is an old newspaper man whose rise in the ranks of motion pictures has been rapid. Only recently he was manager of the New Orleans office of the World Film Corporation.

Sam Dembow, Jr., Southern division manager of the Fox Film Corporation, has left for New York City, after several weeks spent here in the interest of his company.

A permanent manager of Fox will be appointed just as soon as Mr. Dembow arrives in New York, it is stated.

Paul L. Ford, who is booking the official pictures of the fighting in France, which came to New Orleans through arrangement with the New Orleans Time-Picayune and a New York newspaper, reports that booking on the picture throughout several States is heavy.

Samuels and Leopold, of New Orleans, control the picture, with Mr. Ford as their booking agent.

Announcement of the biggest advertising campaign that the New Orleans territory has ever witnessed is expected shortly. One of the biggest film companies will launch it.

S. T. Stephens, the new manager of the Mutual Film Corporation, is devoting his time to improving the efficiency of Mutual. He has added new employes to his already large staff, and in other ways is improving Mutual service.

LISTEN! BENNETT, "IT'S A GIRL"

Anybody who sees Hunter Bennett, sales manager of Mutual, in New York this week, can tell him that Mr. Stephens of New Orleans says to tell him "it's a girl."

Mr. Bennett paid New Orleans a visit a few weeks ago. He went there incidental to the transfer of S. T. Stephens from the Fox office to service as New Orleans manager of Mutual.

The appointment of Mr. Stephens to manage the New Orleans branch of Mutual was an important one, but just at this time there was something far more important happening in the Stephens' household.

For the stork was daily expected at Mr. Stephens' home. Mr. Bennett and Mr. Stephens' are old friends. So an agreement was effected between them like this: If it was a boy it would be named after Bennett, and if a girl, after Mr. Bennett's wife.

It happened last week. It was a girl. Penelope Ida Bennett Stephens is about as enthusiastic a picture fan as her several weeks' experience allows her to be. At present her study is confined to the pictures on the wall of her little bedroom, but to a representative of MOTION PICTURE NEWS she stated that she would accompany her mother to the neighborhood picture show before many months have passed.

"H-V" PICTORIALS KEEP V-L-S-E EXCHANGEMEN WORKING AT HIGH PRESSURE

THE Philadelphia V-L-S-E is always a busy place, but now, since the Hearst Vitagraph News Pictorial has come upon the scene, the office heads positively do not get time to eat.

Ocular demonstration was given of this when a dry sandwich was seen reposing on J. S. Hebrew's desk, which the poor man, between calls and 'phone messages, vainly tried to bite. Exhibitors are just rushing to add the new Pictorial to their program.

Several promotions in the office force have been effected. E. F. Mowery steps from booking clerk to assistant manager. D. F. Heenan becomes city salesman from shipping clerk, new employees filling the old places.

Arthur Lucas, district manager for Triangle, is taking a Western trip in the interests of the Griffith, Ince, Sennet releases.

J. H. Butner, manager, reports good luck for Triangle in his recent Southern tour.

Felt Brothers, now owning the Locust theatre, have also taken over the Belmont and Fifty-second street theatres, and will run Fox features the majority of the time in all three houses.

J. J. Harkins, house manager of the Chestnut Street Opera House, announces "The Fourth Estate," with Clifford Bruce and Ruth Blair as the next Fox feature to run a week at the Chestnut.

Until a new manager is appointed for the Fox Philadelphia office, George Denbow, assistant manager under several regimes, is in full command of the exchange ship.

Simon Libros, of New York, assistant general manager of the Picture Playhouse Film Corporation, was in Philadelphia a few days on his homeward journey, after spending six months visiting all the playhouse exchanges from New York as far west as Denver, as far south as Dallas.

While finding features rather a glut in the Western market, Mr. Libros found results in Philadelphia excellent.

Greater New York Film Rental Company managers are still at their game of hide and seek.

Karl Kinzler's name again adorns the manager's private office. This time it is for keeps, as Austin Interrante has left Greater New York.

Mr. Kinzler has just returned form a little trip through his territory, adding ten new accounts in two days to his Philadelphia office business.

BUSINESS IN THE INTERMOUNTAIN DISTRICT IS VERY ACTIVE, DENVER EXCHANGES REPORT

CARL STEARN has returned to Denver from Memphis, Tenn., where he was manager of the Mutual Exchange of that city.

Stearn will manage the Blue Bird Feature's office at Denver, and as he knows the inter-mountain territory well, his return to Denver is only one more reason why the exhibitors will book the Blue Bird photo plays.

He is thoroughly familiar with the policy of the Blue Bird Features, and his friends feel assured that the success of this particular brand of photo plays is certain. Up to the present Stearn has secured the Paris theatre, Denver; Princess theatre, Colorado Springs; Grand Opera House, Pueblo; West theatre, Trinidad, and Rex theatre, Boulder.

The Paris theatre of Denver is one of the largest and most beautiful theatres on Curtis street—Denver's "white way." With the Paris showing Blue Bird Features, Stearn's smile broadens.

James Cumock is to work under Stearn through the Salt Lake territory.

S. Carmichael, manager of the Fox Exchange of Denver, made a hurried trip to Cheyenne, Wyo., on January 3 to meet General Manager Sheehan and Harry Leonhart, the Western representative of the Fox Corporation.

Mr. Sheehan has been touring the Western States, and will start in his way back to New York City very soon.

H. L. Knappen, manager of the Pathé Exchange in Denver, is making a special tour of the inter-mountain territory, calling on all Pathé customers.

Venadian, Colo., with a population of seventy-five, has a regular picture show under the management of H. R. Mosley. According to Manager M. H. Cohn, of the Paramount Exchange, he has the smallest town that regularly books two features a week.

Cohn also reports that the Bray Animated Cartoons are very successful in that territory.

Manager Louis Goldstein, of the Universal Film Exchange of Denver, has added two more men to his forces. Roscoe Moore, formerly manager of the United Film Service of that city, has resigned to accept a place in Mr. Goldstein's office. It is expected that Moore will head the booking department.

The other addition is M. J. Courson as a roadman. He is one of the livest roadmen in that territory, and is looked upon as a business-getter.

Manager Goldstein reports that the serial "Graft" will be a record-breaker in that territory, and that the Universal program has had an enormous increase in bookings of late.

Manager Scott of the Mutual Film Exchange of Denver, states that "The Girl and the Game," featuring Helen Holmes, is steadily increasing in bookings, and that he looks for this picture to be a record-breaker.

The United Film Service of Denver has had a change in managers again. L. D. Purdy, former manager of the Salt Lake branch of the United Film Service, was transferred to the Denver office. He will succeed Roscoe Moore.

Mr. Moore resigned as manager of the Denver office, and joined the Universal Exchange forces. Moore is a very efficient man, and his acquisition to the Universal is a most pleasant surprise to all of his friends.

W. H. Cree, manager of the General Film Exchange in Denver, has added A. E. Fair and Thomas Hyneman as roadmen to work out of the Denver office. Fair will work the northern part of the inter-mountain territory, and Hyneman the southern part. Both are experienced roadmen, and as new business getters they are proving wonders.

H. Bradley Fish has also taken to the road in quest of new business for Essanay's "The Strange Case of Mary Page," featuring Henry B. Walthall and Edna Mayo. The first release of this picture has been booked for an entire week at the Empress theatre.

This theatre is one of the largest on Denver's great "white way," and is being remodeled. It will be one of the brightest spots on the street.

BOWER JOINS FAMOUS PLAYERS IN QUAKER CITY

Oscar Bower, former General Film manager in Philadelphia, has gone to the Famous Players Exchange, where he will be manager. H. E. Smith, president of the Famous exchange, finds his presence required almost constantly in New York, hence his desire to place in charge an experienced film man such as he knew Mr. Bower to be.

Herbert Given continues as general assistant manager. Oscar Morgan is still attending to the publicity. That is a mistake; Oscar isn't ever "still" when it comes to Paramount publicity.

JACK WARNER BECOMES EXCHANGE MAN AGAIN

For the past six months Jack L. Warner, a well-known exchange man of San Francisco, has been enlisted in the ranks of exhibitors, having been conducting the All Star theatre on Sutter street, but he has disposed of his interests in this house and has returned to the exchange field.

He has recently been made manager of the local branch of the New Film Corporation, and has opened a large exchange at 120 Golden Gate avenue, opposite the California Film Exchange.

TEN ADDITIONS MADE TO V-L-S-E EXCHANGE FORCES, FOLLOWING GOFF TOUR

THE sales force of the Big Four during the past week was augmented by the addition of ten new members, and further increases in the staffs of the branch offices will be made immediately.

The new representatives are attached to the Pittsburgh, Kansas City and Chicago offices. The enlargement of the forces of these offices followed a tour of inspection by A. W. Goff, assistant general manager, and were made necessary by the large volume of business which Mr. Goff found the organizations in those cities were handling.

General Manager Walter W. Irwin has also made several other noteworthy changes, working toward increased efficiency in handling the ever-growing patronage of the Big Four.

One of these is the establishment of a sub-office in New Orleans, at the head of which has been placed R. King Evans, working under the direction of C. A. Meade, manager of the Dallas V-L-S-E office.

Mr. Evans has been associated with Mr. Meade at Dallas for some time past, and has earned his promotion through the splendid showing which he has made for the Big Four, and the regard with which he is held by exibitors.

It is also said that St. Louis, which is at present a sub-office of the V-L-S-E, under the management of S.. W. Hatch, will soon be converted into a branch office. At the present time, E. R. Pearson, manager of the Big Four's Kansas City office, has supervision of the St. Louis sub-branch.

Mr. Hatch, however, has developed his territory to the extent that it is now necessary to make it a buying instead of a relay office.

The Detroit sub-office has been placed in charge of David Kline, the former representative of the Mutual Film Corporation, at that city. This is one of the first vacancies which the V-L-S-E has gone out of its ranks to fill, and was due simply to the fact that Sydney E. Abel, Cleveland manager for the V-L-S-E who has supervision of the Detroit sub-office, has such efficient lieutenants in his own territory, that he did not feel that he could spare anyone of them for the Detroit office.

Mr. Abel now has associated with him also, R. S. Shrader, who was formerly branch manager at Cincinnati—a change which was made necessary by the fact that the climate at Cincinnati did not agree with Mr. Shrader's health.

Mr. Shrader's place in Cincinnati as branch manager has been taken by C. E. Shurtleff, who was formerly in charge of the Detroit sub-office. Mr. Shurtleff's rise has been most rapid, he having only recently been promoted from assistant branch manager at Atlanta to the direction of the Detroit office, and now advanced to the head of the Cincinnati branch.

UNITED FILM SECURES RIGHTS OF STANDARD FOR WASHINGTON STATE

The name "Warner's Features, Inc." has been changed to that of the United Film Service, Seattle, which has also secured the rights for the Standard Feature Film Company's service for the State of Washington. This includes the Apex, Sawyer's and Alliance features, including "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," "Beulah," "Lena Rivers," "Jane Eyre" and other subjects.

The Standard Feature Film Company is located at Portland, Ore. Fred Simonton is the manager.

"SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE" RIGHTS SOLD BY KANE TO FLINTOM

A. D. Flintom, of the Kansas City Feature Film Company, spent last week in New York City. It was Mr. Flintom's first visit to the metropolis in many months, as his rapidly growing film business in the Middle West has occupied his entire attention.

While in New York he circulated among the trade, renewing old acquaintances and arranging for various supplies. One of the subjects for which he secured territory was the five-reel French war picture, "Somewhere in France," which Arthur S. Kane is distributing. Mr. Flintom will handle this in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa.

Other exchanges which have arranged with Mr. Kane to handle the subject in their territories are: Famous Players Film Company, of New England, Boston, Mass; the William L. Sherry Feature Film Company, Inc., 126 West Forty-sixth street, New York City; Famous Players Exchange, 71 West Twenty-third street, New York City; Famous Players Film Service, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.; Famous Players Film Service, Inc., Chicago, Ill.; Famous Players Film Service, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio; Progressive Motion Picture Company, San Francisco, Cal., and Progressive Motion Picture Company, Seattle, Wash.

HOFFMAN AWARDS GOLD WATCH TO HENLEY OF OKLAHOMA CITY

M. H. Hoffman, manager of exchanges for the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, announces that L. L. Henley, manager of the Universal Film and Supply Company, Oklahoma City, Okla., is the winner of the solid gold engraved watch, which he offered six weeks ago to the branch exchange manager who showed the greatest net profit increase for a four-week period beginning November 22.

It is Mr. Hoffman's intention to give a prize valued at one hundred dollars every four weeks to the manager showing the greatest net profit over the preceding four weeks, and Mr. Henley has the distinction of being the first prize winner.

On December 30, when the auditor showed to Mr. Hoffman the standing of all his exchanges for the four-week period ending November 11, it was found that Mr. Henley was first; R. C. Cropper, manager of the Kansas City Universal Exchange, second; S. B. Kramer, manager Universal Mecca Exchange, New York City, third; George W. Weeks, manager Detroit Universal Film Exchange, fourth, and Clair Hague, manager Canadian Universal Film Company, fifth.

The present period closed January 8, and the winner will be announced shortly.

TAUBE AND BYERLE TO HANDLE BLUE BIRD FILMS IN MONTREAL

By far the most important news that has broken in Toronto, during the last few weeks, is that the Canadian Universal company will purchase and book the new Bluebird features.

Mr. Haque, the general manager of the Universal company in Canada, stated that in all probability the head office for Canada for the new company would be at Toronto with branches in Montreal and the West.

Although Mr. Haque will supervise the the new company there will be a traveling manager, who will look after the bookings and general interest of the Bluebird films in Canada.

A comprehensive advertising and publicity campaign is contemplated, which will probably be handled by the publicity department of the Universal company in Toronto.

Mr. Haque has returned to Toronto from Montreal, where, with W. H. Davidson, he completed arrangements with Messrs. Taube and Byerle, by which the latter gentlemen will look after the interests of the Bluebird company in the Montreal district.

EXCHANGEMEN IN DALLAS MAKE CHANGES

Important shifts among Dallas Exchange circles have been announced this week. Exchange men there report that they are getting good business from the exhibitors, and that there has been no lull as is usual following the holidays.

Max Graf, late of the Pacific Coast, has been appointed to manage the Dallas office of the World Film Corporation. L. C. McHenry, it is announced, has resigned from this post, and will take Texas rights to "Cabiria" and also exploit the picture in Oklahoma and Arkansas.

LeRoy Bickell, formerly connected with Paramount, will manage the new office of the Blue Bird Photo Plays, Inc. Incidentally, a number of Blue Bird appointments are announced this week for various cities in the South, including Maurice F. Barr, at New Orleans.

C. R. Scott, formerly with the Film Service Association, now is sales manager for the Dallas Paramount office.

UNION FILM, BOSTON, BUYS RIGHTS TO "BURGLAR AND LADY"

The Sun Feature Film Company has sold the New England rights on "The Burglar and the Lady," featuring James A. Corbett and Claire Whitney, to the Union Film Supply Company of Boston.

PITTSBURGH EXCHANGES COMPLAIN OF CARELESS REEL SHIPMENTS FROM EXHIBITORS

Many of the proprietors of the film exchanges in Pittsburgh are complaining that the exhibitors do not exercise proper care in the return of the films to the exchanges and send them back in such shape that they are ruined in a few weeks.

Films cost money and should be taken care of by the exhibitor as though it were his own personal property and not the property of a corporation.

Not long ago one of the Pittsburgh exchanges received its film which had been sent out in good shape in a tin cracker box. No attempt had been made by the exhibitor to wind it on a reel, but he had run the film off into the cracker box and had shipped it in a tangled condition. The exchange as a result has cancelled its contract with the exhibitor.

That is only one instance and it is possible that a list of printed instructions will be sent to all the exhibitors in that district by the exchangemen.

ROSENBERG LEAVES SEATTLE FOR THE EAST

M. Rosenberg, of Seattle, Wash., well known on the Pacific Coast through his former connection with the Golden Gate Film Exchange, and later through private operations with big feature productions, was in San Francisco last week visiting old friends preparatory to starting for the East to engage in the film exchange business.

BIRSCH GOES TO FRISCO FOR SELIG-TRIBUNE

Harry Birsch, who is to represent the Selig-Tribune in the San Francisco field, with headquarters there, arrived a short time ago to take up his duties, but has not been able to do much work so far, owing to the heavy storm that has held practically all the Pacific Coast in its grip since the first of the year.

KANSAS CITY EXCHANGES ARE CENTRE OF WINTER ACTIVITY

FRED G. Gettinger has been added to the force of the V-L-S-E in Kansas City by Manager E. R. Pearson. Mr. Gettinger is to have the title of manager of the sales promotion department. He went to Kansas City from Norfolk, Nebraska, where he was in the sales department of a large hosiery concern.

According to Manager Pearson, his business there is all that could be expected. It has increased from the day that the office was opened and the indications are that the coming year will be the banner year for that branch.

Good business is reported from the Fox Kansas City branch. Charles W. Harden, the manager, has just returned from a week's trip through Kansas and reports that he closed a contract for Fox Features in Wellington, Wichita and Winfield.

T. Y. Henry has resigned as manager of the World Film Corporation's branch in Kansas City. He is to go with the General Film Company as branch manager at Salt Lake City. Richard Robertson, a former road man for the World in that territory, is to succeed Mr. Henry.

Two old time film men have joined the sales force of the Universal Film and Supply Company, under Manager R. C. Cropper. They are J. E. Dodson and William G. Parsons. Mr. Dodson formerly was connected with the Mutual and the World, while Mr. Parsons has seen service with the old Western Film Exchange and later with the World as assistant manager in Kansas City.

R. C. Cropper, manager of the Universal Film and Supply Company in Kansas City, held a get-together meeting on Monday, January 10.

Practically every employee attended and all are enthusiastic over the indications for good business the new year.

Film News From Foreign Parts

Nearly All Films in Britain Are Made in America

Special to Motion Picture News

London, Jan. 3.

OF considerable interest are the returns which have just been published by the Board of Trade, giving particulars of Britain's trade with America and France in films.

During the eleven months ending November 30, England has imported films to the value of £1,103,002 of which the American contribution was £1,015,342, the French £59,488, and other countries £28,172.

The import trade was at its height in June, when no less than £141,000 worth of film was deposited here, and all with the exception of £6,000 came from the States. Since that time there has been a gradual decline as the following figures will indicate:

	From All countries.	From America only.
July	£129,000	£124,000
Aug.	120,000	111,000
Sept.	112,000	106,000
Oct.	94,500	83,000
Nov.	53,000	41,611

During the eleven months in question, England has exported film to the value of £186,500, and re-exported £155,000. Conditions imposed by the war no doubt are responsible for the decline in imports, although business at the picture theaters has kept up wonderfully.

The film tax too, has evidently had a depressing effect, but now that the duties have been considerably modified, one might reasonably expect an immediate improvement in trade.

Metro films are achieving wonderful success, and it is expected that "The Final Judgment" and "Her Reckoning" will rank among the top-notchers. Metro and the Trans-Atlantic Broadway features seem to be having a neck to neck struggle for supremacy.

Other American films acknowledged by the trade to be of outstanding importance are: "The Criminal" (Broadway) and "The Cheval Mystery" (Universal, Victory Brand). "Across the Great Divide" (Edison) and "Business Is Business" (Broadway) are recording extremely heavy bookings.

Lasky and Famous Players Popular

For all round popularity the Lasky and Famous Players Films win their laurels. The consistent high tone, superb finish, distinctive plot, and delightful acting have won a large following and films like "Esmeralda," "Seven Sisters," and "Incorrigible Dukane" will certainly increase it.

On January 17 will be released the first instalment of a cinematograph record of the doings of the British Army in Flanders and France. Taken with the approval of the Army Council, there will be five sections, each about five hundred feet in length, to be released at intervals of a week.

The photographers were Messrs. Gaumont and Jury. All the profits on the sale or hire of the films will go to the funds for the soldiers. The whole film is absolutely free from "fake," and some of the most striking scenes show: a battery of 9.2 howitzers in action; what the Indian and Canadian contingents are doing, and the aerial machine guns at work.

The First Lord of the Admiralty, Mr. Balfour, and several other notable public men at the Empire Theater, London, recently witnessed a remarkable series of films showing the British soldiers and sailors training and fighting on land and sea. The entertainment, which was given by Charles Anton, was quite educational and the views of the fleet were simply unique, showing service in almost every branch of the navy.

One of the most interesting views was that of Admiral Jellicoe, welcoming the photographing party on board his flagship—the Iron Duke. The exhibition of the film was the occasion of a notable speech of the First Lord of the Admiralty.

Gaumont Opens New Studio

The Gaumont Company has opened a new studio at Shepherds Bush, London, at which it has just completed the first film entitled "Ultus," a five-reel drama. On the occasion of the trade show some five hundred representatives of the film industry were given the opportunity of inspecting the premises.

The commodious building, constructed on the lines of the firm's Paris studio, has great possibilities, and equipped with the company's most modern conveniences and contrivances, is capable of turning out up to 150,000 feet of film per day. To ensure this output, everything has been done in every department to facilitate speedy production, and the resources of the studio as evidenced in "Ultus," certainly encourages the hope that Gaumon't British films will maintain the high standard set by the Paris factory.

In "Ultus" the fertile imagination of the producers is manifest throughout, and the double photography scenes are acknowledged to be superb.

The story is of two fortune hunters. Returning through the desert with a valuable collection of diamonds, one deserts his chum in a state of exhaustion, and hoping for his death, escapes to England, where he quickly obtains rank and position.

His partner, however, survives, and avenges himself in a most extraordinary manner. Every advantage has been taken of the scope afforded for sensation.

A London Screen Club, Perhaps

In emulation of New York, London, it is expected, will shortly have its Screen Club. The proposition has been taken up with enthusiasm. There is plenty of room for a central meeting place of this description, particularly in an industry which commands £14,000,000, and in view of the fact that there are 6,000 theatres in the country.

The promoters have three buildings to choose from, the largest having six floors, and a floor area of 13,300 square feet. It is intended to have a private theater on the premises.

To meet the increasing demand for films of an interesting nature, something apart from dramas and comedies, Kineto, Ltd., is issuing a series of films dealing with the animal world. The first of the series known as the Animal World (475 feet) has such titles as "Our Supposed Ancestors," "Are We Descended from Them?" "Contentment," "Mischief," etc., which are quite expressive of distinctive merits of the production. The second of the series is 425 feet.

The Yorkshire Cine. Company announces that another novel by Victoria Cross, author of "Five Nights," is in preparation for the screen. The title is "Paula." The company is ready to dispose of the foreign rights of a magnificent Bamforth feature, "Won by Losing." Fred Gronback.

FRANCE OFFERS CHANCE FOR PICTURES MADE BY AMERICAN PRODUCERS

Special to Motion Picture News

Paris, Jan. 1.

THE Kinema has undoubtedly become an official function. It is an everyday occurence now, that the President or some of the ministers assist at the opening of some establishments, or are present at the projection of some special films.

Such an event took place last Saturday when "Alsace" with Madame Rejane playing the principal part, was shown for the first time at the theater Rejane. The Minister of Fine Arts assisted at this matinee. The theater was crowded and looked splendid indeed.

Soon after the Marseillaise was played by the large orchestra, Mme. Rejane, quite young looking, with her charming and fascinating smile appeared on the stage and delivered the following speech:

GLIMPSES OF EDMUND BREESE IN "THE LURE OF HEART'S DESIRE," METRO OFFERING JANUARY 17

"Ladies, Monsieur le Minister, Gentlemen: I only consented to be filmed in 'Madame-Sans-Gene.' I really thought that I was entitled to see this masterpiece of Victorien Sardou for myself, having shown it to nearly all the world, I must confess that I was proud and happy at the same time when I was approached with the request to be filmed in 'Alsace,' a piece produced at my theater and created by me. I may also say, that it is a part I love most.

"When first produced in January 1913, I did not think the authors would prove such good prophets. Looking at the beautiful scenery representing the charming town Thann in our beloved Alsace, I never dreamed that only two years later Thann will be French again.

"O dear Alsace! O dear, dear Lorraine! We never forget you. Our husbands and our sons worship your soil. We have pledged our words to our grandparents and to our parents to defend you, to regain your liberty and your independence. Sleep well and in peace, we don't forget you.

"The film 'Alsace' will show you, better than anything else could do, the existing conflict between two nations. To distinguish the difference, no guide nor explanation is needed. Look at the faces, watch the family Schwartz, Hauptmann Karl—they bear the mark of the Uhns. Gretchen (Marguerite) is rather nice looking. What a contrast to her soul.

"She is one of the German girls whose letters have been found with the prisoners taken at our front, who write to their brothers and bridegrooms, 'Don't forget; take all the jewels from the French people you get hold of and send them home.' The pure and innocent home of our Marguerite, from 'Faust,' has been turned into a shop of stolen goods from France. Our melodious linnet turned to a magpie with Gretchen.

"I am very happy that this great film is shown to you for the first time, at my theater, and what is more, the scenes you are going to see on the screen, are actually played just now by our Poilus, who are at Thann and who will soon lead us to victory."

Madame Rejane had to come on again and again, and then the film was projected. No words will describe the effect produced on the audience by this marvellous picture. It is the best of its kind and is bound to go big everywhere.

Mr. Nalpas, manager of the film d'Art looked happy and proud. He fully deserves it.

The "Journèe du Poilu" at the Cinématographs. As all the Cinemas of France agreed to the proposal made by the Syndicate des Directeurs to devote the whole of the takings on Tuesday, December 21, to the funds collected by the organizers of the "Poilu Day," everybody considered it a duty to go to the kinema on that day.

In view of this special occasion, all the establishments organized special shows, veritable galas with artists and music-hall turns. At the Gaumont Palace the Garde Republicain Band played, while the programs were sold by such well-known artists as Mmes. Robine, René Carl, Marcelle Praince, Max Linder, Rigadin, Charlot and Girier.

Special films were shown. All these matinees were crowded. The list is not yet published, but I hear that the receipts have surpassed every expectation.

Not only the theaters in Paris are giving picture shows. Most of the municipal theaters in the provinces have become picture shows. What would have seemed impossible two years ago, has now become a reality. The celebrated Casino at Monte Carlo, the temple of high class music, the home of the greatest artists, is also going in for pictures this season.

I am pleased to have to report that A. Kaffenbourg, an American gentleman who a few years ago opened a large picture show called the American Theater and made a big success, has been awarded a decoration by the French government for many charitable donations since the beginning of the war.

Mr. Kaffenbourg is the only exhibitor in Paris changing his program twice a week and showing mostly American films.

Last Friday saw the opening of a new kinema called Cinéma Saint Paul. It is undoubtedly one of the finest kinemas yet built containing over 3,000 seats.

Good films are very scarce just now. A good American producing firm, with interesting features would do very well in France. The Eclair Company is trying to supply the shortness of American films, by producing some in the neighborhood of Paris.

Mr. Kogan, who was many years with the late Frank Bostock has returned to Paris after an absence of many years. A large kinema was offered to him the same evening. He bought it the next day and opened the house on the following day. This is in the American style—not done here.

J. Downie finds spare time to manage a big kinema at Boulogne, where he shows only American pictures. He represents the Trans-Atlantic Film Company here.

It is remarkable what an enormous demand for films has sprung up in Italy in the last few months. One firm in Rome is releasing "La Dame aux Camelias," "Odette," "Fedora," "Fernanda," with the great Bertini playing all principal parts. The following are in preparation—"Le Fiacre 13," "La Mandiante de St. Sulpice," "Huit Million de Dollars," "Dans l'Enfer" and "La Tour Silencieuse."

G. Kaczka.

CORINNE GRIFFITHS, WEINGARTEN SIGNED FOR VITAGRAPH

Several new faces among the Vitagraph players will be seen in a new release of the company at Hollywood, Cal. Corinne Griffiths, who has the distinction of winning more than one beauty prize in Los Angeles and other California towns, is considered a valuable addition to the screen.

Lawrence Weingarten is another new player. Both will be seen in "Bittersweet," a one-reel drama, written by Daisey E. Smith and produced by Rollin S. Sturgeon. George Stanley, Anne Schaefer and Webster Campbell play important roles in the production.

Vivian Marshall, well known as a swimmer and diver, is to be featured in a new film now under course of production.

TERRISS TO PRODUCE SMITH FIVE REELER

Tom Terriss is busy with the equipping of his new studio in Brooklyn, N. Y., where he will next week begin the production of an original photoplay in five parts by Russell E. Smith, whom Mr. Terriss has especially engaged for the purpose.

Mr. Smith has left the scenario forces of the Equitable and Mr. Terriss has a short option on his services before he leaves for the coast to again join D. W. Griffith, with whom he was associated for several years.

Mr. Terriss will appear in the principal role in the new feature and will direct the picture himself.

STARS AND SCENES FROM WORLD FILM PHOTOPLAYS: (Left to right, above) Kitty Gordon in "As in a Looking Glass," Clara Kimball Young in "Russia," George Beban in "The Genius," Frances Nelson in "The Point of View." (Below) Alice Brady in "The Ballet Girl"

THEDA BARA AS THE SERPENT FOR FOX, RELEASED JAN. 23

"The Serpent," a story of Russian life with Theda Bara, as the Serpent, will be the William Fox release for January 23. The play was conceived by R. A. Walsh under whose direction it was produced.

The story of "The Serpent" opens in the home of a Russian serf, situated near the private estates of one of the Russian nobility.

From this source it builds up to a tremendous climax and involves glimpses of every degree of Russian life, even to that of the Czar, and is tinged with the realism of man-made sports, pastimes and differences that culminate in battle scenes that are realistic reproductions of engagements that have been fought in the present European war, focusing on that part of the great struggle which is now being waged between the Teutonic Allies and the Russians.

The cast included in its principal numbers are Miss Bara, James Marcus, George Walsh, Nan Carter, Carl Harbaugh, Lillian Hathaway, Charles Craig and Marcel Morhange.

UNIVERSAL PLANS THEATRES IN AFRICAN MINE DISTRICTS

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company is going to invade South Africa. In the mining districts, where pictures were shown to the kaffirs, the restrictions placed upon the theatres by the mine management and their strict censorship caused the theatres to go out of business.

President Carl Laemmle, of the Universal, will take hold of about fifteen closed theatres in Africa.

It is Mr. Laemmle's earnest intention to start operations there within the next two months.

IONE BRIGHT CAST FOR MIRROR FEATURE

Ione Bright has just been engaged by Captain Harry Lambart of the Mirror Films, Inc., to play ingenue roles in several Mirror features which will be made and released during this year.

Miss Bright has been assigned to the company under the direction of Lawrence Marston and will play the ingenue lead in the first Mirror feature in which Nat C. Goodwin will be starred.

STEVENSON, BRITISH EDITOR OF UNIVERSAL PUBLICATION, SAILS

George Stevenson, editor of the Trans-Atlantic Weekly, a publication devoted to Universal interests in the British Isles, departs for England January 18. Mr. Stevenson spent the last six weeks in America on a combined business and pleasure trip. He formerly edited the Universal Weekly.

World Plans Signing of More Directors Soon

Company Will Also Enlarge Studios in North as Well as Increase Facilities of Its Plant in Cuba, in the Santiago District

LEWIS J. SELZNICK and other heads of the World Film Corporation have aligned with their interests six of the ablest producers in the business.

Valuable additions to the present corps of directors of World Film are contemplated in the immediate future. Negotiations are now pending for the enlargement of local studio space and facilities in addition to the big plant planned for Cuba in the Santiago district where Clara Kimball Young will be featured in a series of noteworthy film plays.

Each director is in constant personal touch with Mr. Selznick, who inspects every inch of film released.

There is Maurice Tourneur, the big amiable Frenchman whose masterly craftsmanship was never better shown than in the recent World production of "Trilby." There is the veteran Barry O'Neill, and Oscar Eagle, who, before pictures became the rage was doing such important creative work as staging "The Christian," for Liebler and Company.

Hardly less well-known is Emile Chautard, who learned his art staging the first of the famous French film comedies and who since then have given the screen more than a score of successful feature productions. Lastly, and named in that order only because of their comparative youth, come Frank Crane and Edwin August, both of whom have been responsible for numerous film successes, and are now at work upon two of the World Film's productions.

Director Tourneur is at present engaged in screening George Beban's new and delightfully original story temporarily entitled "The Genius-Pierre."

For more than ten weeks, Tourneur, Beban and a company of specially selected actors have worked upon more than 350 scenes and the picture is only now nearing completion.

Director O'Neill, whose latest work is the film presentation of Holbrook Blinn in "Life's Whirlpool," has returned to the South with Mr. Blinn and a large company to begin work on his next production.

This will be a picture dealing with life during the reconstruction period in the South just after the Civil War. Montgomery, Alabama, will be Mr. O'Neill's headquarters until the main exteriors of the new feature play have been completed.

Director Eagle's latest contribution to the World Film program is the presentation of Henry Russell Miller's American novel, "The Ambition of Mark Truitt." The final interiors of this picture are now being completed at Fort Lee, N. J., after which Director Eagle will begin work on a new script with the same star.

Director Chautard is in the middle of his work on the film version of Jules Eckert Goodman's sociological drama, "The Point of View," in which Frances Nelson will make her debut as a star.

Frank Crane at present holds the fort alone in the new Paragon studio where he is putting Kitty Gordon through her first experience as a film star with satisfactory results.

This picture, adapted from the novel "As in a Looking Glass," deals with official and social life in Washington, the nation's capital, and offers both Mr. Crane and Miss Gordon opportunities for colorful and brillant effects.

Edwin August is making his premiere with the World Film as director in the production of a Russian drama in which Clara Kimball Young is next to be seen.

The Press, Press Representative and the Picture—XVI

Publicity Men Must Not "Advertise False Goods"—Boston Man Who Is Close Student of the Industry Declares That a Policy of Frankness Must Be Observed to Get the Best Results—The Public Not Only Wants the Truth, But Insists Upon Getting Facts About Plays and Stars

LET the publicity man beware of advertising false goods. That is the gist of the message given to the NEWS man recently, by a close student of films in Boston, and at the same time a man who knows the newspaper publicity game from A to Z, and back again.

"You will find in these day," he said, "few to dispute your statement that motion picture art has taken its rightful place side by side with the art of the speaking stage. The improvement in projection and in exhibiting generally has kept pace with the better quality of productions made in the great outdoor studios.

"The immense popularity of the films has made possible the lavish productions to which we have become accustomed and which have come to characterize more than any other single feature the art of the cinema.

"So that while in some respects a motion picture production far outstrips in magnitude a production of the regular stage, we have come to regard this form of amusement equal in importance to the drama.

"Since the art has come to occupy this place in the esteem of the people who patronize the screen, the producers have been gradually finding that a great name on the dramatic stage transferred to the films may count for little or nothing with their own public.

"Gallery Gods" Now Screen Angels

"As the theatres have lost their galleries to the moving pictures, so these same galleries, settled comfortably in their new place of amusement, have become familiar with a new technique of acting, and are connoisseurs in the peculiar ability necessary for success in the pictures.

"Accordingly, a famous star of the speaking stage, appearing on the screen, say, in a part similar to her greatest previous success, may, with the help of the publicity man, attract great crowds into the theatres.

"Her first appearance of course interests, and allowance is made for her deficiencies in the technique of the screen. Judgment is suspended until her next attempt. On that her value as a film actress is really based.

"Here is where, however, the publicity man may slip a cog. He should not allow his prejudice in favor of the lady or gentleman, founded on her or his initial success, which in itself was more a matter of novelty than personal ability, to persuade him to say in his advertising anything about the star which is not so.

"For instance, the second film in which that star appears may be of the tawdriest description; it may be unworthy of both her art and that of the film itself.

"Hence, how can she continue to be hailed as a great motion picture actress, if her vehicle is not at all adapted to her ability? And why should the publicity man, if he has any thought at all of the industry as a whole, allow his stuff to become stultified with the stereotyped descriptive announcements.

Must Impress Audience Right

"If he knows that a stranger to the film houses who may be drawn within them to see a familiar stage star perform will probably go out saying, 'Well, if all film stories are as sensational, tawdry and are as carelessly put together as this one, it is a surprise to me why so many people go to see them.'

"Again, three times out of four, the stage star fails in her second film, if she didn't in her first. The work of the screen must above all be intimate, and the emotion genuine. The concentration of attention on a small area makes it imperative that the action which goes on in that area shall be logical, the result of true feeling.

"Any inability on the part of the actor to portray the range of emotion demanded is detected at once. The stage star is usually a failure on the screen.

"Why, then, should the publicity man feel comfortable in booming a film player whom he knows to be unworthy of the title, 'screen star'? It is not inconceivable that in the selling of film publicity, as well as in the selling of soap, there may be such a thing as false goods.

"The picture industry has passed miles beyond the fly-by-night stage. Its business methods, if the industry as a whole is to attain its rightful place, in the fullness of its powers, must be founded upon absolute honesty.

"And there must be as much honesty in publicity as in every other department of the business. The public now doesn't care two bits whether Jennie Prune used to be a famous stage star or not.

The Public Cannot Be Fooled

"Usually, the public knows, when a film player is advertised as so-and-so, the 'famous star of the speaking stage' it's very likely that the lady in question never did much more in a Broadway production than dust the furniture for two minutes after the first curtain rose.

"And when the player really was a stage star, and certainly is not a film star, why try to make her one in cold type? It can't be done. The public won't stand for it. The public wants the truth. Give it to them.

"If you can't find truth to tell, or don't want to tell it, or if you believe the public wants you to try to fool them, then quit. You're back in the Barnum publicity days. Publicity methods, like everything else, are progressing towards the truth in all things."

Booksellers to Help Advertise Pallas Film

Solomon Arranges with Grossett and Dunlap for Edition of "Call of the Cumberlands," by Buck, to Be Put on Sale Simultaneously with Photodrama

PALLAS PICTURES, the new Paramount producing organization, has arranged an advertising campaign for its next release, "The Call of the Cumberlands," starring Dustin Farnum.

After several conferences between the book publishers of this subject, Grossett and Dunlap, Julian H. Solomon, Jr., of the Pallas offices, succeeded in making arrangements to have a special popular edition of the book published, in which will be found stills from the photoplay together with a special frontispiece and autographed announcement from Dustin Farnum himself.

Arrangements have also practically been completed between the publishers and the film producers by which slides can be furnished for the exhibitor's screen announcing the coming of the Charles Neville Buck film at the theatre and also announcing where the special Dustin Farnum edition of the book can be purchased in that locality, thus tying up the sale of the book with the showing of the film.

Another advertising novelty devised by Pallas Pictures is a store window cut-out, announcing the photoplay and so arranged that it can be used as a store card for the book. This cut-out has been gotten up in eight colors mounted on heavy card-board with easel back and presents Dustin Farnum holding a pack of hunting hounds in leash. These will be offered to exhibitors at twenty-five cents each and give him an opportunity to advertise the coming photoplay in every available window in town.

In addition to the above, a throw-away—the store card in miniature—has been gotten up which can be obtained in quantity by the exhibitor from the manufacturer at $1.75 per thousand. These resemble the window card, especially for the purpose of "hooking up" the window advertising with that of the theatre. The throw-aways are also devised so that they can be used as a book-mark in the Dustin Farnum edition.

"SALES REELS" FOR ROADMEN IS PLAN OF DRUM, WORLD

World Film salesmen now carry "sales-reels" with them, as the result of a plan initiated by Harry C. Drum, assistant general manager of the World Film.

The reel consists of about a thousand feet of film, showing scenes from the World's recent features, pictures of stars in novel poses, interesting data concerning the corporation, and descriptive matter concerning its activities.

Lewis J. Selznick, vice-president and general manager, reports that enthusiastic testimonials have been received from all parts of the country as to the actual contracts that have been booked on these sales reels.

EXTRA!!

The Greatest Living Exponent of Physical Culture

BERNARR MACFADDEN

in

SPECIAL UNIVERSAL FEATURE

"BUILDING UP THE HEALTH OF A NATION"

Without a doubt, one of the greatest achievements in the history of Moving Pictures.

AT last it has been accomplished. Bernarr Macfadden in Universal Pictures, in a series of health exercises that will delight his army of followers throughout the world.

You have followed and profited by the health exercise talks and illustrations in Bernarr Macfadden's famous PHYSICAL CULTURE magazine; now you have the opportunity of seeing the exercises demonstrated by Bernarr Macfadden himself in moving pictures.

Every two weeks a lesson on Health Building will be shown in all Universal theatres—consisting of the pictures by Bernarr Macfadden, and complete instructions which enable you to practice them just exactly as he does.

Not in cold type and lifeless illustrations, but in animated moving pictures—personal lessons that would cost you a large sum if demonstrated for you personally or exclusively.

Your Favorite Moving Picture Theatre will show this great series if you simply tell the manager you want to see them.

Read these splendid Health Lessons in the PHYSICAL CULTURE Magazine and see Bernarr Macfadden's demonstration at all Universal Theatres. Exhibitors can clean up with this series. The exercises demonstrated will delight your patrons, pack your house and net you a big profit.

Universal Film Manufacturing Co.

CARL LAEMMLE, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 Broadway, NEW YORK

The UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

Greatest program on earth

According to Shakespeare and Carl Laemmle "The Play's the Thing"

The greatest writers for stage and screen contribute to the excellence of the Universal Program every week. The Universal doesn't care who writes its photoplays so long as they are the BEST—and it produces the works of great writers of reputation because it is usually from their training and experience that THE BEST IS SURE TO COME. Look at this list of writers—among them men and women who are responsible for the greatest stage, screen and book or story successes of the day. They contribute to the Universal Program:

Clara Louise Burnham
Frances Hodgson Burnett
Bayard Veiller
Meredith Nicholson
Lois Weber
George Ade
George Bronson Howard
C. N. Williamson
Mrs. A. M. Williamson
Wallace Irwin
Rupert Hughes
Joseph Medill Patterson
Augustus Thomas
Anne Katherine Green
Louis Joseph Vance
R. W. Kauffman
Eustace Hale Ball
Elaine Sterne
Olga Printzlau
Wm. McLeod Raine
James Oliver Curwood
Peter B. Kyne
Lottie Blair Parker
Wm. Addison Lathrop
Randall Parrish
Hal Reid
Frederic S. Isham
Frederic J. Haskins
Bernarr Macfadden
Phil Hunt
Vera Tyler
Ethel Lloyd Patterson
Joe Mitchell Chapple

On what other program, or what two programs will you find the works of such a list of notables? THEY CAN BE FOUND ONLY ON THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM. That is why when you want to see the best plays to be seen in moving pictures you will find them on the Universal Program at Universal Theatres. Watch for the writer's names on the titles of Universal Features on the Universal Program.

More than a thousand Universal actors will protest the statement that the "play's the thing," and to prove that the Universal believes in competent actors as well as good plays we present the names of the featured players on the Universal Program for the week of February 7:

Billie Rhodes and Ray Gallagher
Bob Leonard, Ella Hall and Rex de Rosselli
Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby
Alice Howell and Harry Coleman
Mina Cunard and Malcolm Blevins
Paul Panzer and Edith Roberts
Baby Early
Francis Ford and Grace Cunard
Rupert Julian and Elsie Jane Wilson
Gertrude Selby and Reggie Morris

Search the world's programs and you will not find such a list of talent except on the Universal Program. Players of personality that capture the fans and win their loyalty appear on the regular Universal Program. They mean profit and popularity for your house.

Universal Film Manufacturing Company

CARL LAEMMLE, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Looking Ahead With The Producers

"TO HAVE AND TO HOLD" WILL BE FILMIZED BY LASKY, INTRODUCING MAE MURRAY AS A STAR

EMPLOYING more than one thousand "extras" in the roles of early Virginia settlers and American Indians will lend atmosphere to the picturization of "To Have and to Hold," from Mary Johnson's novel of the same name, which is now being made at the studios of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company at Hollywood, Cal.

This photoplay, which is a picturization of one of the widest read and best-known novels in the last ten years, will serve to introduce Miss Mae Murray as a photoplay star.

She will divide the stellar honors with Wallace Reid, who recently appeared with Cleo Ridgley in "The Golden Chance."

On the Lasky ranch in southern California they are building an entire village representing Jamestown, Va., as it was in the days of the early seventeenth century.

Among the historical features which will be a part of this production is a representation of the Council Meeting of the Jamestown Settlement, based on authoritative records now in possession of the Congressional Library. The Lasky company is making every effort to give to this production the semblance of historical correctness.

Fannie Ward, the popular comedienne, who has given up her work on the legitimate stage to appear exclusively in photoplay productions of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, will be seen in her third photoplay production by that firm on the Paramount Program, February 3, in a picturization of Scott Marble's play, "Tennessee's Pardner," suggested by Bret Harte's story.

Exceptional interest is felt in this production, in view of the recent success achieved by Miss Ward in Cecil B. De Mille's production, "The Cheat." Previously Miss Ward had appeared in "The Marriage of Kitty."

"Tennessee's Pardner" is entirely different from either of Miss Ward's previous photoplays. The scenes are laid in the Far West in the days when the "forty-niners" crossed the continent, lured by the promise of great riches in the gold regions.

Miss Ward will play the role of "Tennessee," a child whose parents are separated during the journey across the desert and who is left in care of her father's friend when her father is killed.

Some of the scenes in the production were taken in San Fernando Mission, a Jesuit mission built about 1800, which is one of a string of missions extending from Mexico to Monterey and situated about a day's journey apart.

Other portions of the production were made on the great American desert, and one of the interesting features of the picture is the use of an old-time stage coach which was obtained by the Lasky company in a little village in Nevada.

In addition to the star the cast will include: Jack Dean, Charley Clary, Jessie Mae Arnold, Raymond Hatton and William Bradbury.

LARGE SETS REQUIRED FOR "THE CITY," ESSANAY

In the filming of "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines," Essanay's spectacular film version in five acts of Clyde Fitch's satire of the early '70s, the largest sets since those used in "Graustark" were requisitioned.

The action of the story takes place in big places, hotel lobbies, docks, New York streets, the Metropolitan Opera House and in the upper city. Crowds, large, moving, restless, are always in the shifting backgrounds.

Fred E. Wright, who directed the picture, has caught the spirit of bigness that Fitch put in his original story. In the scenes, as well as in the acting, the sense of bigness is ever prevalent. There is scarcely a small set in the whole play. Ann Murdock takes the leading role in the comedy.

VERA MICHELENA, "DRIFTWOOD" STAR, IS VERSATILE ACTRESS

Vera Michelena, who is being starred in the forthcoming release of the Ocean Film Corporation, entitled "Driftwood, or, The Wrong Way," adapted from the stage play written by Owen Davis, is reputed to be one of the most versatile actresses on the legitimate stage, having appeared as prima donna in light opera, leading heavy in dramatic productions, and comedy star.

VERA MICHELENA

Her appearance in "Driftwood" is her initial performance for the screen, and she was rather hesitant in appearing in motion pictures until convinced that her versatility included silent drama.

MABEL NORMAND, ROSCOE ARBUCKLE AND SCENES FROM THREE COMING TRIANGLE-KEYSTONES: "A MODERN ENOCH ARDEN," "BECAUSE HE LOVED HER," AND "FATTY AND MABEL ADRIFT"

ILLUSTRATING "THE CALL OF THE CUMBERLANDS," NEW PALLAS-PARAMOUNT, FEATURING DUSTIN FARNUM AND WINIFRED KINGSTON

JACKIE SAUNDERS TO MAKE WINSOME APPEAL IN "HEART BREAKERS"

Jackie Saunders, who is to be featured in "The Heart Breakers," a stirring semi-comedy in three acts, by the Knickerbocker Star Features, on the General Film Program of January 28, does some exceptional work according to report.

The drama is a combination of hilarity and humanity. Burdened with the prospect of inheriting a fortune, a number of men are awakened with an unusual amount of love and adoration, and while they put in good work with little real success, a young cub reporter edges in and wins the day.

Jackie is one of those persistent and determined actresses; she makes a business of her work, and never flinches before any task and is fearless in every feat.

Jackie has the honor to be chosen out of a large list, by a newspaper syndicate for the illustrations for a series of articles illustrating "screen talk."

REPUBLIC THEATRE USED AS SET FOR "NEW YORK" BY PATHE

On the night of January 3, Pathè got over a new stunt at the Republic theatre, New York, with the assistance of A. H. Woods, the theatrical producer.

As soon as the curtain was rung down at 11 o'clock on "Common Clay," producer Fitzmaurice with his players Fania Marinoff, John Miltern and many extras came in and took possession of the theatre. Special lights were installed and some twenty scenes taken in jig time.

The use of a big theatre as a motion picture set is a new scheme, and proved to be a very effective one. In order to carry out the realism the floor of the theatre was crowded with extras and friends of various Pathé officials. Mr. Woods himself was present and gave many valuable hints as to detail. The picture is "New York," an adaptation of one of Mr. Woods' theatrical productions.

SIXTH VAN LOAN "BUCK PARVIN" STORY UNDER WAY

"The Extra Man and the Milk-Fed Lion," the sixth of the Charles E. Van Loan Saturday Evening Post motion picture stories, in the series, "Buck Parvin and the Movies," is under way at the American-Mutual studios.

"GOLD AND THE WOMAN," A FOX MEDIUM FOR THEDA BARA

Theda Bara has been selected by William Fox to create the leading part in a new feature picture entitled "Gold and the Woman," being filmed under the direction of James Vincent.

H. Cooper Cliffe, George Walsh, the Indian chief Black Eagle; Carleton Macy and Pauline Barry are prominent members.

"STINGAREE" EPISODE RELEASED FEB. 9; "ARTFUL ARTISTS" READY FEBRUARY 1

AFTER establishing a mark as Kalem's most popular serial production, next to the "Hazards of Helen," "Stingaree" will in February round out its twelve-week career. The closing issues of the series begin with "The Villain Worshipper," and will be released next Wednesday.

Though the Hornung series will be officially ended on February 9, it is probable that there are many more months of life awaiting it in the theatres, for the General Film exchanges report a surprising number of exhibitors who are at this late date beginning the series with plans to run through the twelve. Twelve newspapers last week were added to the list of those publishing the stories.

In "The Villain Worshipper" Hornung allows the picture to close with his hero still behind prison bars. Stingaree sets out to cure a misguided youth with ambitions to follow in the footsteps of the bushranger, but his well-meant efforts result disastrously in the young man's capture.

The bushranger then attempts to secure his release and succeeds at the price of his own liberty. As if to further show his disregard for precedent, Hornung follows this episode with "The Moth and the Star," released February 2, which sees Stingaree out of jail and in again.

Had it not been for his audacious daring in attending a concert at which Ethel, his former sweetheart, was to sing, the bushranger might have made good his escape. Needless to say, however, "The Darkest Hour," which closes the series on February 9, enables Stingaree to once more make his escape and this time to find happiness in the arms of Ethel. Like the initial episode of the series, "The Darkest Hour" is an original story written to adapt the novel to screen purposes.

Kalem's five-reel a week schedule includes a varied list of offerings for the early part of February in addition to the "Stingaree" series. Chief in importance on the calendar is the "Hazards of Helen" series, in which the railroad heroine continues to devise new means of tempting fate.

"The Broken Wire," a single reeler released Saturday, February 5, starts the month for the "Hazards."

The next few weeks will also see the release of three episodes of "The Ventures of Marguerite." The trio of "Ventures" has been written by Howard Irving Young around the theme of preparedness and with The Wolf, an international spy, as the central character.

"The Fate of America," scheduled for release on January 28, starts this new series.

It is followed by "The Lurking Peril," on February 4, and "The Trail's End," February 11.

The comedy end of the early February schedule for Kalem is taken care of by "Artful Artists," released February 1; "Wurra Wurra," on February 8, and "A Molar Mix-Up," on February 15. Bud Duncan and Ethel Teare are the featured stars in this trio of releases. Gus Leonard, the former Orpheum circuit star, is also seen in these comedies.

"WIVES OF THE RICH" UNDER PRODUCTION AT SELIG STUDIO

Producer T. N. Heffron has begun work on a Selig multiple reel feature, entitled, "The Wives of the Rich." It tells the story of a young society woman whose predilection for games of chance comes near wrecking her life's happiness.

"THOROUGHBRED," AMERICAN, USHERS IN 6-FEATURES-A-WEEK MUTUAL PROGRAM ON JAN. 17

THE six-features-a-week releasing schedule of the Mutual Film Corporation will be ushered in January 17 with the five-part American Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe, featuring Charlotte Burtin and William Russell, entitled "The Thoroughbred."

"The Five Faults of Flo," a Thanhouser five-reeler, featuring Florence La Badie, and "The Bait," a Horsley production of similar length, starring Betty Hart and William Clifford, will be shown January 20 and January 22, respectively.

One three reeler, "The Phantom Witness," from Thanhouser, with Kathryn Adams and Edwin Stanley in the leads, will appear January 19. In the two following weeks two three-reel features will be issued. The week of February 7 will see the Mutual's new policy of releasing three three-reel pictures a week, in addition to three Masterpictures De Luxe, in full swing, it is announced.

"The Bait" features a pretty girl, who is used as a decoy to lure men to a frontier saloon, where the man whom she thinks is her husband soon despoils them. The drama pictures a parallel in the trapping of wild beasts. "The Bait" gets away form her evil environment, and raises her standards to meet the ideas offered by new surroundings and the man who becomes her real husband.

In "The Five Faults of Flo" the five faults which the heroine possesses are pictured with the climax which brought them to an end. "The Thoroughbred" is a story of commercial intrigue, with Fifth Avenue and Wall Street forming part of the background. It was directed by Charles Bartlett, and is said to be a photoplay of unique appeal.

In "The Phantom Witness" a dead girl comes as a phantom into the court-room of her lover, to testify against the evidence which would make it seem she had taken her own life.

The Mutual Masterpictures, De Luxe Edition, which will constitute the Mutual's release of the second week, are "As a Woman Sows," Gaumont; "Lord Loveland Discovers America," American, and "Betrayed," Horsley.

The two three-reel features of the same week will be "The Burglars' Picnic," Thanhouser, and "The Smugglers of Santa Cruz," Mustang.

VITAGRAPH COMPLETES "A NIGHT OUT," WITH MAY ROBSON

The Vitagraph Company announces the completion of "A Night Out," a new feature showing May Robson, whose name is high in the ranks of histrionic fame. "A Night Out" was written by Miss Robson and Charles T. Dazey, who is noted as the author of "In Old Kentucky."

Cast as Granmum, whose girlhood has been denied her and whose buoyant tendencies are ever squelched by her hatchet-faced daughter, the old lady is a favorite with her two grandsons, entering into their play and pranks with a vivacity belied by her gray hair.

Miss Robson plays Granmum in a thoroughly refreshing manner and throws a personality of youth into the role that marks her "one of the youngest women on the stage." She is assisted by a corps of Vitagraph comedians, including Kate Price, Flora Finch, Hughey Mack, Arthur Cozine, William Shea, Ethel Corcoran, George Cooper, Belle Bruce, Eva Taylor and Charles Brown.

The film was produced under the direction of George D. Baker, and is released through the V-L-S-E.

NO LIMIT TO NUMBER OF REELS IN IVAN FEATURES

Determined not to sacrifice the story value of any productions, the Ivan Film Productions have decided not to limit the length of any of its future releases to five reels.

If the legitimate length of the drama requires six or even seven reels to properly characterize the different roles enacted by the cast, the feature will be released in six thousand or even seven thousand feet, as the case may be. An example of this new policy is "A Fool's Paradise," the Ivan release for February which is a six-reel feature.

DONALDSON AND JOSIE COLLINS CAST FOR ERBOGRAPH SUBJECT

Arthur Donaldson is being starred with Josie Collins in a six-reel feature being financed by Roland West.

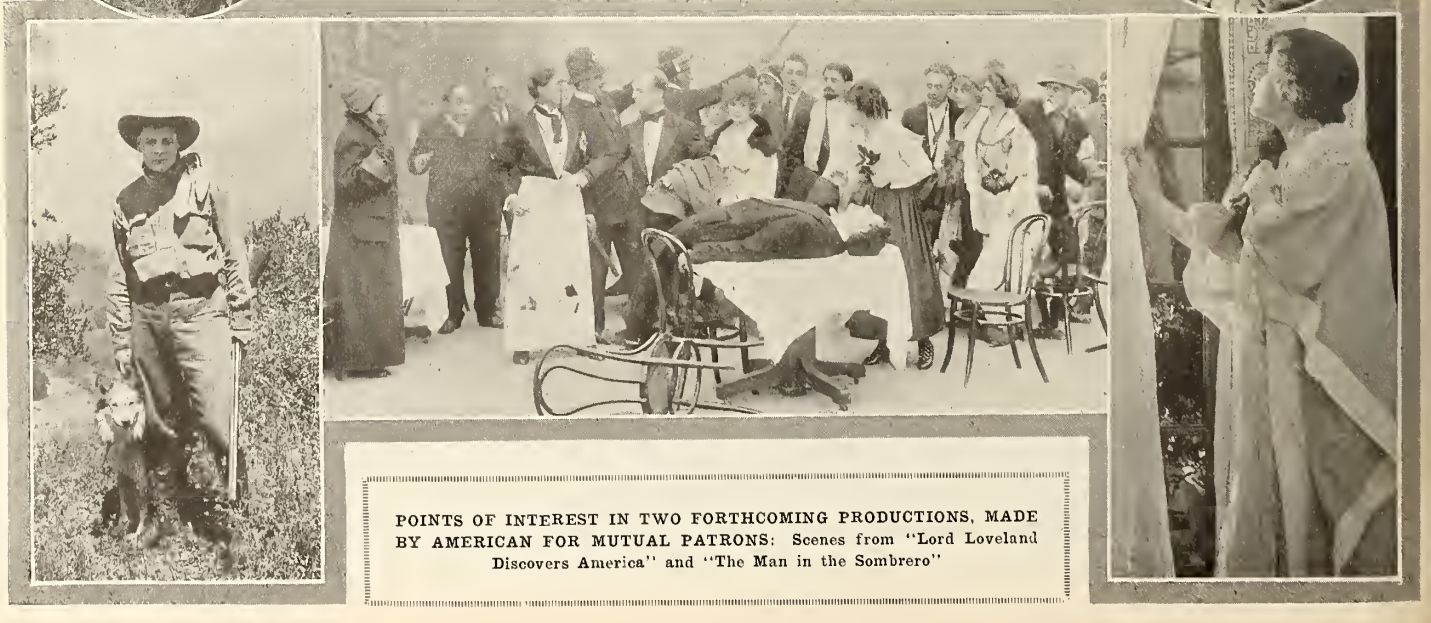
It is an Italian story dealing with the Camorra. Mr. Donaldson will do the heavy lead, and intends to come out with another one of his character make-ups to play the part of a repulsive Italian woman fancier.

The production is being made at the Erbograph studio, New York.

"BRED IN OLD KENTUCKY," K & R, RELEASED SOON

"Bred in Old Kentucky" will be the name of the K & R Film Company, 126 West Forty-sixth street, New York, next feature, which will be released shortly as the production is now complete.

Details of release plans will be announced later.



POINTS OF INTEREST IN TWO FORTHCOMING PRODUCTIONS, MADE BY AMERICAN FOR MUTUAL PATRONS: Scenes from "Lord Loveland Discovers America" and "The Man in the Sombrero"

"ISLAND OF SURPRISE" IS A VITAGRAPH RELEASE FOR JANUARY 24

"THE ISLAND OF SURPRISE," a five-part Blue Ribbon Vitagraph, by Cyrus Townsend Brady, produced by Paul Scardon, featuring William Courtenay, Eleanor Woodruff, Zena Keefe and other prominent Vitagraphers, heads the films released by the Vitagraph for the week of January 24.

On the same day, Monday, "The Cold-Feet Getaway," a one-reel comedy of the "Itsky Series," is scheduled for release; "Too Clever by Half," a Sidney Drew comedy, is offered on January 28, and the Broadway Star Feature, "The Ruse," is released on the 29th.

"The Island of Surprise" is said to be one of the most pretentious of recent Vitagraph productions. The hero is cast away on a South Sea island with the girl he secretly married, and the girl his father expects him to marry. An injury to his head causes a loss of memory, and he forgets the incident of his wedding.

His real wife claims him, and the other girl, believing the wife "bluffing," also proclaims herself as his wife. The hero, mentally incapacitated, is apparently satisfied with either.

This tense situation on the island is broken by an attack by savages, and the three put up a desperate fight with the few weapons they have at hand. Marines from a gunboat arrive in the nick of time, while a blow from a spear restores the hero's memory, and he clears away the mystery.

Included in the cast are Charles Kent, Anders Randolf, Charles Wellesley, Denton Vane, Julia Swayne Gordon and Logan Paul.

"The Ruse" released on January 28 as a three-part Broadway Star Feature, is the first effort as a director of Eugene Mullin. He is also the author of "The Ruse."

The story tells of the efforts of Dallas to wreak vengeance on Cottrell for a defeat suffered on the stock market. Dallas makes use of the secret knowledge that Mrs. Cottrell's brother is a criminal, and forces her into a compromising position.

Cottrell adopts the ruse of pretending an injury to his head that causes a loss of understanding, and in due time discovers his wife the pawn of the villain, and not his paramour.

Joseph Kilgour, Harry Morey and Naomi Childers play the "Triangle," assisted by a cast including Denton Vane, Charles Kent and Helen Pillsbury.

"Too Clever by Half" is a typical Sidney Drew vehicle. "The Cold-Feet Getaway," written by Graham Baker, will be of interest to card-players, in that Itsky, the inventor, shows a contrivance that enables a man to quit a poker game while ahead. The invention works at first and then causes a mix-up that shows that a successful getaway from a poker game is as impossible as perpetual motion. Harry Fisher is the inventor and Albert Roccardi is the poker fiend.

COURT ROOM SCENE IN "MARY PAGE" REPLICA OF THAW-TRIAL CHAMBER

A court-room scene, showing Mary Page on trial for the murder of Dave Pollock, the man she hated, is the basis of the second episode of "The Strange Case of Mary Page," which is to be released by Essanay on January 31.

In this episode Henry Walthall appears as the attorney for the defense, and Edna Mayo as the accused actress.

The court-room, erected in the Essanay studios in Chicago, is a reproduction of the room in which Harry Thaw was tried for the murder of Stanford White.

The exciting stories of the witnesses are shown in fade-backs. Each witness begins his testimony in the court-room, then the film fades away into the portrayal of the story he tells.

In the second episode the prosecution piles up damning evidence against Mary Page, who does not know herself whether she committed the crime of which she is charged.

A sudden twist in the testimony throws suspicion on Philip Langdon (Mr. Walthall). Before him is laid an opportunity to save his sweetheart by a fake confession that he committed the murder.

Miss Mayo wears a new outfit of gowns by Lady Duff Gordon (Lucile) in this episode.

"SHOULD A BABY DIE?" READY FOR THE FILM MARKET

Charles K. Harris has written a photoplay which is now ready for release, "Should A Baby Die?"

Included in the cast are the following: Arthur Donaldson, Florence Hackett, Camille Dahlberg, Sonia Marcelle, Gazelle Marche and Jack Johnson.

The part of the baby is taken by Baby Christine, an infant from one of the hospitals. Mr. Harris contends that love can save the life of a child and mend its broken body, and his new picture tells the story of a child who is thus saved.

The Hanover Film Company, of 904 Columbia Theatre Building, New York City, are handling the state rights on this picture as well as on the six-reel feature production "Marvelous Maciste."

WINNIFRED GREENWOOD CAST FOR "SUPPRESSED ORDER"

An interesting bit of southern romanticism is pictured in the three-reel drama from the pen of Kenneth B. Clarke, "The Suppressed Order," which is being produced at the American studios for release on the Mutual Program.

Edward Coxen plays the role of a young Southern lover, while Winnifred Greenwood is the daughter of a tavern keeper.

Through it all croons Mammy June (Sylvia Ashton), a typical old southern darky who helps roll the burden off the shoulders of the other members of the cast. George Field also appears in this picture.

ANNETTE KELLERMANN PICTURE PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Word has been received from Kingston, Jamaica, where William Fox is producing what is known as the Annette Kellermann picture under the direction of Herbert Brenon, that work is progressing rapidly on this feature.

The principal players working with Miss Kellermann, including William E. Shay, Jane Lee and her sister, Florence Deshon, a host of bathing girls and extras numbering fifteen hundred are being kept busy every minute of available daylight on exterior scenes, and sometimes far into the night under the glare of the huge banks of electric lights installed in the studios.

"RULING PASSION" SENT NORTH TO FOX FROM JAMAICA

"The Ruling Passion," a dramatic story with an oriental atmosphere, has been received by William Fox from his Kingston, Jamaica, studios, where it was filmed under the direction of Herbert Brenon.

In "The Ruling Passion" Claire Whitney will be seen as a girl of the London slums who goes to India, where she comes under the hypnotic influence of a native potentate, portrayed by William Shay, and becomes a member of his harem.

SCENES FROM "THE COLD FEET GETAWAY," "THE ISLAND OF SURPRISE," AND "TOO CLEVER BY HALF," VITAGRAPH PRODUCTIONS

New Laws And Court Decisions

This department is designed to keep the industry informed of all news concerning new or projected laws, Federal, State, County or Municipal, that may affect the business, and all events involving any branch of the trade with the authorities in all sections of the country

OFFICIALS IN BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA, AUTHORIZE SUNDAY OPENING IN RESPONSE TO PUBLIC DEMAND

NOT backed by any concerted move on the part of the exhibitors, but simply because the public demanded them, Sunday motion pictures will henceforth be projected in Birmingham, Ala., without any interference on the part of the city authorities, it was decided by the city commission of Birmingham on Christmas Eve, following three days of decidedly unharmonious debate.

The demand for Sunday motion pictures in Birmingham was first agitated in that city two years ago not by the exhibitors, but by a newspaper, the Age-Herald. Since that time the question has been paramount to any other issue in the Alabama city.

All throughout the various debates staged at the city hall in December, the theatre managers did not participate in any way, nor did they attempt to influence the commissioners; the movement for the opening of screen houses being kept up by the Age-Herald in response to a strong public demand for innocent entertainment on Sunday.

Heretofore the moving picture theatres kept open on Sunday, in defiance of the blue laws. No opposition came from the city commissioners, despite the blue laws on the subject. At first the opposition against Sunday showing came from the Pastors' Union.

This organization practically withdrew from the fight, which was taken up by a laymen's committee. . About eight weeks ago the Sunday theatres were opened at the request of Arlie Barber, a city commissioner, two other commissioners of the city's five giving their consent.

Immediately after the opening of the theatres, E. F. Morgan, an anti, marched his forces to the city hall and staged an elaborate and spectacular attack on the action of the commissioners.

He cited an ordinance enacted in 1911 that made it unlawful for motion picture houses to open on the Sabbath.

The three commissioners who had authorized the opening of the houses sought to repeal this ordinance, and explained that once having taken a stand to allow the theatres to open they were loath to see them closed again. Those in Birmingham who favored the closing of the theatres, requested that the law be not repealed until they prepared for a referendum.

Before a referendum, or election, could be called, it was necessary to first get up a petition against Sunday pictures which would contain 1,500 names of qualified voters.

After three days of sensational meetings in which virtually the whole city participated, the situation was saved by an amendment to the existing ordinance; the amendment in itself repealing the offensive portions of the old law and legalizing Sunday motion pictures.

This amendment forbids the opening of any business house, forbids any person working or causing others to work for him, with the exception of druggists and cigar dealers, and newspapers up until 12 o'clock noon, but permits strictly musical concerts or entertainments, if the vaudeville feature is eliminated. With reference to motion pictures, it permits the operation of "high grade" moving picture shows on Sunday.

T. S. Abernathy, president of the Strand Amusement Company, operating one of the largest houses in the South, in Birmingham, declared to Motion Picture News that exhibitors in the city had never requested the opening of the shows on Sunday, but that this request came from the public and the newspapers.

He said the exhibitors were given to understand six weeks ago that their theatres would not be closed unless the antis presented a petition with 1,500 qualified voters calling for a referendum.

Most of the exhibitors had signed up for Sunday film many weeks in advance, and had the ruling of the commissioners been adverse, it would have worked quite a financial loss to them.

SAN FRANCISCO'S STAND ON CENSORSHIP MAY HALT LOS ANGELES PRODUCERS' MIGRATION

ACCORDING to the plans of the city lawmakers an amendment to the present ordinance governing theatrical and motion picture performances was to have been passed at the regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco on January 3, but unexpected opposition developed to the plans and action on the proposition has been deferred until January 17.

In the meantime arbitrary action has been taken by the chief of police in regard to the showing of "Birth of a Nation," and as a result of his action three performances have been lost, with the usual annoyances.

The action of the chief of police is regarded by the owners of the films as being entirely unwarranted and in case it is desired to press the matter it is confidently believed that damages could be recovered from him.

His attitude in the affair was in the nature of a surprise, as the picture recently closed a memorable run of thirty weeks in this city without the least amount of trouble, although harassed in the suburban cities of Oakland and Berkeley.

The new ordinance that is proposed is designed particularly to fit the case of this picture.

That the measure was not passed at the meeting this week is due largely to the energetic opposition of the local newspapers and it is possible that this subtle influence will work to prevent its passage at a later date.

Not only are the papers opposing the passage of this amendment, but they are advocating the repeal of all censorship laws, insisting that the same laws and the same influences which now compel newspapers, publications of all kinds, and the theaters to remain within the proprieties, would have the same and a sufficient, effect upon motion pictures.

It is pointed out that there is now an adequate law in San Francisco, Ordinance No. 959, which expressly forbids improper exhibitions of all kinds, and that if this is enforced there is no need of anything additional in the line of regulation. Under the terms of the proposed measure no picture treating of any political or social movement might be safe for there are but few pictures teaching a lesson to which some one might not take exception.

Another reason why the amendment recently drawn up will probably be allowed to die a peaceful death is because of the fact that censorship in Los Angeles has reached such a stage that producers there are said to be actually looking for new locations and are investigating the San Francisco Bay district.

While the proposed move is looked upon by many as being merely a club held over Los Angeles to secure a marked modification in its policy of censorship those in a position to know declare that it is a fact that many really plan to move their studios.

It is realized that the passage of such a stringent ordinance would have the effect of driving producers to some other locality, and San Francisco is making a strong bid for their favor.

3 MANAGERS ARRESTED IN AUBURN, N. Y., FOR SUNDAY OPENING

Alfred F. Hanning, Charles W. Purdy, and J. Howard Morgan, managers of the Auditorium, Jefferson and Cornell theatres, Auburn, N. Y., respectively, have been arrested charged with sabbath breaking in opening the Cornell theatre. The men were taken to the city hall where they were admitted to bail for five-hundred dollars.

The Cornell theatre opened at 2 p. m. the day of the arrest and over five-hundred tickets were sold in a very short time. Hanning operated the box office, Purdy took the tickets and Morgan ran the projection machine. In this manner each of the three theatres became party to the action.

Officers were stationed at the door and after permitting a complete performance the arrests were made.

The decision to open and charge admission was decided upon after careful plans had been mapped out. For the past three Sundays the theatres have presented free shows and the police have been powerless to act.

The former mayor would not permit Sunday pictures and the new mayor has taken the same stand.

The picture interests will fight the case to the highest court in the state if necessary.

TOOK FIVE JURIES TO CONVICT CROWN IN TEXAS

It took five juries to convict P. C. Crown, manager of the Crown theatre in Houston, Tex., who unwittingly exhibited "The Soul of Broadway," in that city without a permit. On four previous occasions the juries in this cause celebre of motion pictures in Texas were unable to agree.

It was Mr. Crown who pioneered in the art of bucking the arbitrary demands of the Houston board of censors. No less than nine times was Mr. Crown arrested, his showed closed by the police, his operators and ushers arrested, all because of the showing of "The Soul of Broadway."

No less a person than Mayor Campbell was called into this censor controversy, which had its beginning early in November, as detailed in a page article in Motion Picture News several weeks ago.

The fifth case was tried late in December in the Houston corporation court, with a special prosecutor, Sewall Meyer, acting for the censor board. Despite a vigorous defense conducted by Mr. Crown's lawyers this fifth jury decided in favor of the censors, fining Mr. Crown $100, the maximum penalty.

Finis of the case has not yet been written, for Mr. Crown has announced that he will appeal it through every court in the country if necessary.

BAY STATE EYESIGHT BILL FILED IN GENERAL ASSEMBLY

The first of the bills to regulate the business of exhibiting motion pictures in Massachusetts has been filed in the general assembly. As predicted in the Motion Picture News, it would require a ten-minute interval of other entertainment after every thirty minutes of motion pictures, under penalty of fifty dollars fine or six months imprisonment.

Thus would those who safeguard the health and eyesight of the residents of the commonwealth perform their bounden duty even in the film house. No mention is made, however, of the sins which may be committed in the name of the cheap vaudeville, which would undoubtedly crowd into more picture houses than it has already entered, under that indefinite phrase, "other entertainment."

The measure is sponsored by Representative Chapman, of Cambridge—"Charlie" Chapman they are calling him. The newspapers speak of him as the only actor "by profession" in the new house.

LOUISVILLE, KY., THEATRES MUST NOT GIVE AWAY PRIZES

Managers of motion picture theatres in Louisville, Ky., have been notified by the Commonwealth attorney's office that the practice of giving away prizes at the houses under their control must stop.

It has been the custom at many theatres, particularly in the residential districts, to give a ticket to each patron entitling the holder to a chance on prizes such as turkeys, candy and household articles. This is declared by the Commonwealth's attorney to be a violation of the lottery laws.

CALIFORNIA CENSOR PICKS PICTURES FOR SCHOOLS

E. J. Carragher, of Sacramento, Cal., a commissioner of that city and official censor of moving pictures for the capital of California, is selecting pictures for use in the public schools of that city and has delegated Harold J. McCurry, a photographer of that place, to assist him.

CHARLOTTE BURTON IN "THE THOROUGHBRED," A MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE, DE LUXE

CANNOT CHARGE MORE THAN $10 LICENSE FEE IN BANGOR, MAINE

City Solicitor Phillips B. Gardner, Bangor, Me., has notified the city clerk, Victor Brett, in answer to the latter's query about the moving picture house license fee, that the city cannot charge in excess of $10, as was formerly the case. His communication follows:

"Dear Mr. Clerk: At your request I hereby submit the following answer to the question raised in your letter of recent date relating to the charge for annual licenses to a theatre devoted exclusively to moving pictures.

"After looking into the above law I am of the opinion that under Chapter 241 of the laws of Maine, 1915, the municipal officers shall not charge a license fee to theatres devoted exclusively to moving picture exhibitions, exceeding $10."

STATE RIGHTS FIGHT OVER FILM, "GUARDING OLD GLORY"

A merry state's rights fight was started in New Orleans courts recently, with H. A. Segrave and R. Williams, exchange men, as the litigants. The latter are trying to enjoin the Columbia theatre, owned by Ernst Boehringer, from showing "Guarding Old Glory," on the grounds that they hold the exclusive right to feature the picture in Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma, and that the Columbia theatre has obtained the picture from the Southern Feature Film Company of Jacksonville, Fla.

After a bond of $1,000 had been furnished, Judge Porter Parker in the Civil District Court ordered a preliminary injunction.

LEXINGTON, KY., JUDGE FINES THREE FOR SUNDAY OPENING

Fines of $10 each have been assessed against four picture theatres at Lexington, Ky., the Ada Meade, the Gem, the Colonial and the Orpheum, in verdicts by a jury which tried the indictments returned last summer charging the theatres with violating an old blue law statute forbidding the conduct of amusements on Sunday.

Judge Kerr declared that the theatres are liable to indictment for each offense if the matter is brought to the attention of the grand jury. It is believed, however, that the law will not be enforced.

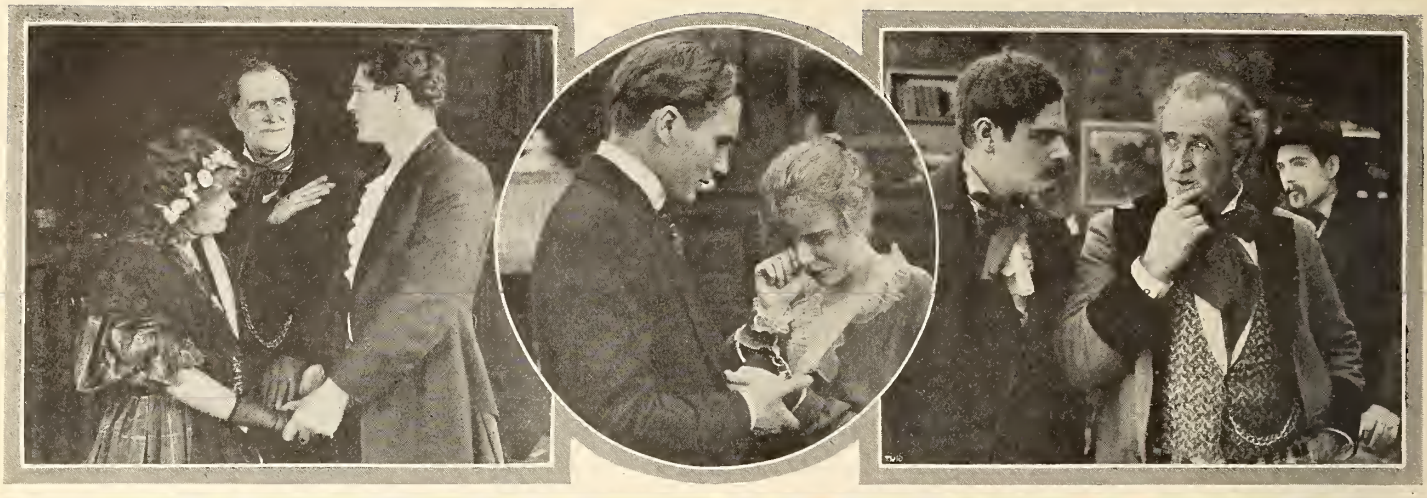
All of the theatres have been open on Sunday since the indictments were returned several months ago, and the authorities have not interfered.

INDIANAPOLIS LEAGUE HOLDS MEETING

The Indianapolis Motion Picture Exhibitors' League held an interesting and well attended annual meeting last Thursday, at the headquarters in the Saks Building, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

President, Joseph H. Gavin; vice-president, R. R. Bair; secretary, A. C. Zaring; treasurer, J. J. Herbert; business manager, Dr. J. W. Rhodes.

L. S. Muehmore, of the Cincinnati branch of the Triangle Film Corporation, was a visitor at the headquarters of the league last week.



ILLUSTRATING "PUDDINHEAD WILSON" AND "THE RAGAMUFFIN," TWO NEW LASKY PLAYS, STARRING THEODORE ROBERTS AND BLANCHE SWEET

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS ENLARGES OFFICES

In an endeavor to keep pace with its constantly increasing business, the Ivan Film Productions have extended their office space so that it now covers the best part of the ninth floor of 126 West Forty-sixth street.

The new suites contain the offices of Mr. Chadwick, the vice-president and general manager; Mr. Abramson, the director general of productions, and H. Samwick, the treasurer. The office of Jacques Kopfstein, the director of publicity, is also situated in the new wing.

A special room has been set aside for the Ivan exchanges and this will be the headquarters of Ivan exchange owners when in New York.

JACK PICKFORD GUEST OF SELIG

Jack Pickford, youngest member of the versatile Pickford family, that includes Lottie and Mary Pickford, was a guest on Monday, January 10, of William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company.

Mr. Pickford was enroute from New York City to Los Angeles, where he will again resume his duties with the Selig Pacific Coast studios. Mr. Pickford will be starred in a series of unusual dramas prepared for him by the Selig company. He was in Chicago but a few hours.

Popular-Metro's List Includes 3 Petrova Films

Francis J. Grandon at Work on a Release, Not Yet Named, Featuring the Dancer, Who Left the Stage to Appear Exclusively in Pictures for a Term of Years

POPULAR Plays and Players productions for Metro during 1916, according to an announcement made this week at the Metro offices in the Longacre Building, 1476 Broadway, will be ushered in by three five part features for Mme. Petrova, Metro's emotional star, while Edmund Breese, whose first Metro production of the New Year, "The Lure of Heart's Desire," was released in the Metro program, January 17, is shortly to be at work upon another feature photoplay, as yet unnamed, under the direction of Francis J. Grandon.

Mme. Petrova, who has now given up her stage engagements altogether, to devote herself exclusively to the production of photoplays for Metro, under the direction of Popular Plays and Players, has already begun work on her first picture.

It is called "The Soul Market," and presents a story built round society and the stage which will call for the highest display of Mme. Petrova's emotional powers.

This feature, with Mme. Petrova and a supporting cast, is now being made in the studio at 228 West Thirty-fifth street, which was recently taken over by the Popular Plays and Players to produce Metro features.

"The Soul Market," is an original story, written especially for Mme. Petrova by Aaron Hoffman. The central character, that of a prima donna, which is essayed by Mme. Petrova, is somewhat different from the vampire roles she has had in the past.

Beside glimpses of life behind the scenes, written by a man who is thoroughly familiar with that life, there will also be shown an interesting phase of New York society, the kind that mingles with the stage folk, such as may be seen nightly along the Great White Way in the restaurants and cabarets.

Following "The Soul Market," Mme. Petrova will immediately begin work on another five part screen production for Metro, "The Scarlet Woman." Next she will be seen in "Playing With Fire." All three of these features were written by Aaron Hoffman especially for Mme. Petrova.

Mr. Hoffman was a writer of musical comedies and vaudeville plays in the country, before he began to devote himself to the silent drama. He wrote most of Rogers Brothers musical comedies, also such productions as "Tom, Dick and Harry," for Watson, Bickle and Roth, and all the Yorke and Adams productions.

For more than fifteen years Mr. Hoffman has written monologues for Lew Dockstader, Bobby North, Cliff Gordon, and other headliners. He now has sixteen playlets running in vaudeville. Incidentally, Mr. Hoffman is vice-president of the Popular Plays and Players.

"Life Without Soul" Shows Life and Soul in Chicago

Ocean Feature, Based on Famous Shelley Story, and Now Exhibited Under Auspices of Celebrated Players Company in Western Metropolis, Favorably Received

"LIFE WITHOUT SOUL" is creating a sensation in Chicago, where it is being exhibited, under the auspices of the Celebrated Players Film Company of that city who have purchased that, as well as all future productions for the next five years to be released by the Ocean Film Corporation.

Certain exchange men, in the first instance, while lauding "Life Without Soul" as an artistic and meritorious production, believed that it was in advance of the time. However, Joseph L. Friedman of the Celebrated Players, communicated with the home office of the Ocean Film Corporation and advised that company that "Life Without Soul" recently played at the De Luxe theatre on Wilson avenue in Chicago, where it played to a greater business than this house had in the four weeks previous.

From the Western Kriterion Film Service of Minneapolis, comes the report "Life Without Soul" has been booked solid for twenty-eight days.

From the Greene's Feature Photoplay, controlling New York State, Charles H. Streimer, the manager of that company states that he is receiving numerous requests for bookings which will occupy all three prints working for the next forty days.

The succeeding release of this company is an adaptation from "The Fortunate Youth," by William J. Locke.

PALS CLUB, SAN FRANCISCO, TO GIVE BALL

The Pals Club of San Francisco, with which a number of prominent film men are affiliated, will give a ball at the Exposition Auditorium at an early date, the guest of honor to be Art Smith, the aviator.

The birdman has promised to do a little entertaining himself and will demonstrate the great size of the auditorium by making an indoor flight.

Miss Young Attributes Her Success to World Film

"One Does Not Achieve Success Alone," Declares Screen Star—"No Matter How Hard an Actress May Strive and Give the Best Within Her, Without the Extraneous Aids of Lavish Investiture of Scenery and Direction Her Efforts Accomplish Little"

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG, the star developed by the World Film Corporation, is the most popular actress upon the screen today and she can prove it.

Not only by the notable World Film Corporation successes in which she has been starred, including her latest triumph Camille, but also by the vote of more than one million ballots she received as the overwhelming victor of a recent nation-wide popularity contest.

Miss Young, since her enlistment under the banners of the corporation of which Lewis J. Selznick is vice-president and general manager, has bounded in little more than one year to rightful claim to the title "star of stars."

The beautiful young artiste, who like most truly great personalities in any line of endeavor is modesty itself, says:

"Any success I may have attained, I feel grateful to the World Film Corporation for placing within my grasp. No matter how hard an actress may strive and give out of the best that is within her, yet without the extraneous aids of lavish investiture of scenery, direction and constant reaching out for splendid vital stories, such as mark Mr. Selznick's ambition, and that of the World Film Corporation, her efforts would accomplish her little.

"I feel that whatever meed of praise may be accorded me, the major share of the credit must still be due to those who placed it within my grasp by their unfailing support and magnificent productions and capable casts.

Intelligent Co-operator of Star and Company

"One does not achieve success alone. No human being can truthfully say 'I did.' In this world of ours—particularly in the motion-picture art—one depends so much upon the intelligent aid and co-operation of others. Truly then should any screen artist in speaking of his work say 'We did.'"

Miss Young was born in Chicago and educated at Benton Harbor, Mich. Her father was Edgar M. Kimball, an eminent and much loved actor, and her mother was the beautiful Pauline Mattern, whose dramatic genius was as marked as her loveliness. Miss Young made her stage debut when she was three years old.

Forgetting her lines, however, which were about equal in number to her years, she stepped to the footlights, on her appearance on the stage, and burst, in a shrill treble, into "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay!" which was then epidemic. Her first Broadway engagement, after a series of triumphs throughout the country, was in musical comedy.

Then came the pictures, and in the interests of a screen series Miss Young toured the world, in addition to starring in big features.

Since joining the World forces, Miss Young has become the idol of the screen. Her latest picture is "Camille," and it is sufficient testimony to her wonderful work in this production that of her as "the Lady of the Camellias," Archie Bell, the famous critic of the Cleveland Leader, wrote:

"Miss Young fully upholds Bernhardt's acting in World Film production of the classic 'Camille.' Deprived of the spoken word she yet succeeds in placing herself well in line with the most famous impersonators of Dumas' heroine. . . . She is also beautiful to look upon. . . . Miss Young elevates herself to a position of distinction by Camille."

Helen Ware a Blue Bird Star in "Secret Love"

Screen Version of "That Lass o' Lowries," by Frances Hodgson Burnett, Directed by Robert Leonard and Visualizing Life in Mining Village, Ready January 31

THE first release made by Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., "Jeanne Dore," which shows Mme. Sarah Bernhardt in the last play in which she appeared upon the stage, is followed by "Secret Love," announced for January 31, in which Helen Ware will be introduced as a Bluebird star.

In their authoritative announcements Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., declared that every factor in high class production of photoplays would be standardized in excellence with their productions.

The star of their films, the character and quality of their scenarios and the completeness of their productions would maintain an even ratio of excellence. And it is declared by the Bluebird people that "Secret Love" makes good these announcements in every particular.

"Secret Love" is the screen-title of Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's widely-read novel, "That Lass o' Lowries." The original caption to the story was not theatrically suitable, and the change has resulted in a film-title that concisely and clearly indicates the nature of the plot.

The action is located in a coal mining village, and the scenes carry such exciting episodes as an explosion of fire-damp in the coal mines; the excitement, above ground, attendant upon the rescue of the entombed miners.

There is a realistic fist-fight, and there is another struggle for life pictured while two men grapple to the death on top of a giant rock. This particular scene ends in a backward fall by a man who drops percipitately into jagged stones fifty feet below.

Interlarded with these sensations are the episodes of "Secret Love," the dominant thread being carried by Helen Ware, who, as a humble and hard-working toiler in the coal fields, is secretly in love with the chief engineer of the mines.

There is another love entanglement that is equally secret, and less honest; and a third thread of love which entangles a pretty daughter of the local minister with a missioner among the miners. Robert Leonard directed the production and is said to provide many vivid scenes.

Australian Rights to Triangle Go for $200,000

President Aitken Announces an Aggregate Annual Business for the Company of $6,400,000 —Corporation Plans to Enter the Canadian Field

WHILE S. L. Rothapfel is making the reconstructed and re-opened Knickerbocker theatre a model playhouse for public and exhibitors. President H. E. Aitken announces an extension of Triangle Film Corporation service not only in this country but also and particularly in foreign lands.

New contracts yielding income of $500,000 per annum have been signed, he states, since December 22. This makes an aggregate annual business of $6,400,000 thus far secured.

What is perhaps the most interesting part of President Aitken's statement refers to the completion of the Australian and Canadian deals.

The importance of the Australasian field may be gauged from the fact that the corporation is to receive a minimum guarantee of more than $200,000 a year for the showing of Triangle films in that territory, which includes not only Australia but New Zealand. Tasmania and the lesser British possessions in the antipodes.

Another interesting announcement is that the Triangle will immediately enter Canada in a big way. Arrangements have just been closed for a Dominion-wide service. The names of the syndicate handling the Canadian service will shortly be made known.

Drawing cards in the Dominion will be such Triangle stars of English nativity or residence as Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Mary Anderson de Navarro, H. B. Warner, Syd Chaplin, Bruce McRae, Frank Mills and others.

Great building and enlarging activities have been going on at Griffithville, Culver City and Keystone, together with the constant increasing of companies in the East.

WORLD COMPANY, 150, GOES SOUTH FOR EXTERIORS

Holbrook Blinn, Barry O'Neill and a company of more than 150 persons will leave for the south this week on a special train to begin work on a pretentious feature picture for the World Film Corporation.

The present title of the story is "The New South," though this may be changed. The picture deals with the period of reconstruction just after the close of the Civil War.

CAMPBELL COMPANY WILL BE IN SELIG CHICAGO STUDIO IN 6 WEEKS

Within six weeks Colin Campbell, dean of the Selig corps of directors, accompanied by such Selig stars as Bessie Eyton, Wheeler Oakman, Thomas Santschi and Eugenie Besserer, are expected to arrive in Chicago, where they will utilize the Selig Chicago studios.

While in Chicago, these and other stars will enact scenes called for in Winston Churchill's story of "The Crisis." The company will also go to St. Louis, Mo., to film scenes called for. Many of the old landmarks described in Churchill's story are yet standing in St. Louis.

Thousands of extra players will be used in the production of "The Crisis." The production will probably run ten or more reels, and William N. Selig, president of the Selig company, is giving the plans for "The Crisis" his personal attention.

Second of Weekly Group of Edition De Luxe, Mutual

"As Woman Sows," Released January 24; "Lord Loveland Discovers America," Ready on the 27th; and "Betrayed" Follows Two Days Later

SECOND of the weekly group of three Mutual Masterpictures, edition de luxe, to be released by the Mutual Film Corporation are announced as follows:

"As a Woman Sows," five reels, Monday, January 24; "Lord Loveland Discovers America," five reels, Thursday, January 27; and "Betrayed," five reels, Saturday, January 29.

"As a Woman Sows," first of the feature release for the week, is a Gaumont production, featuring Gertrude Robinson, supported by Alexander Gaden.

"As a Woman Sows," which marks the initial release of the Gaumont studios, under the title of Mutual Masterpictures, edition de luxe, depicts the story of a young wife's folly, in which Miss Robinson portrays the part of the wife.

The story is based on a man's fight for political supremacy, during which he becomes so absorbed in politics that he neglects his wife, leaving her to the companionship of an unscrupulous friend.

In support of Miss Robinson and Mr. Gaden appear Covington Barratt in the role of Bobbie Hayward; John Reinhardt, the popular Gaumont-Mutual heavy, as Robert Chapman; Charles W. Travis, famous for his many character impersonations in Mutual releases, as Joseph Willoughby; Mathilda Baring as Aunt Abbie, and Yvonne Chappelle, a recent addition to the Gaumont forces, in the role of Georgia.

"Lord Loveland Discovers America," second of the Mutual Masterpictures, edition de luxe, for release during the week of January 24, is a filmization of the famous story of the same name by C. N. and M. Williamson.

In this production, second of the Masterpictures, edition de luxe, produced at the American studios, Arthur Maude scores one of his greatest screen achievements in the role of Lord Loveland.

Constance Crawley, who has shared honors with Mr. Maude in a number of feature productions screened at the American studios for the Mutual, appears in Mr. Maude's support.

The cast includes, besides Mr. Maude and Miss Grawley, William Carroll, Charles Newton, William Frawley, George Clancy and Nell Franzen.

The story, briefly, concerns an English nobleman, who, pressed by debtors, flees to America in the hope of recouping his fortune. The adventures he meets with rounds out a story, the like of which has seldom been presented on a motion picture screen.

"Betrayed," second of the Masterpictures, edition de luxe, screened at the Thanhouser studios, on release January 29, is a story of the East and the West, presenting Grace De Carlton as the star, supported by Robert Whittier.

"Betrayed" was written especially for Miss De Carlton. As the daughter of an old Indian chief, who quits the Western reservation for the Eastern metropolis, this young star renders an exceptionally powerful characterization.

For the filming of "Betrayed," a dozen or more full-blooded Indians were obtained with the sanction of the Federal Government, with the understanding, of course, that they would be returned to the reservation immediately after the picture had been completed.

Durkin, Equitable, Gets Back From Jacksonville

Director, Who Went South with Carlyle Blackwell Company to Film Scenes for "Clarion," Based on Adams' Story, Will Finish Drama at Flushing Studio

JAMES DURKIN, who is producing "The Clarion" for the Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation, in which Caryle Blackwell is to make his debut on the Equitable program, returned early this week from Jacksonville, Florida, where for the past month he has been busily engaged on the exterior and newspaper scenes called for by the Samuel Hopkins Adams' story.

Mr. Durkin will complete the production at the Equitable Flushing studio.

Frank Sheridan, Arthur Ashley, eighteen other principals and the directorial staff, headed by John Ince, will go to Buffalo, New York, shortly to work out on the ice of Lake Erie.

Several of the scenes in "The Struggle," Sheridan's first Equitable vehicle, requires winter, water and ice scenes—and from upstate reports, they will get plenty of winter stuff at Buffalo.

Harry Handworth, the latest acquisition to the Equitable directing roster, is at work on Marguerite Leslie's first screen effort "The Pain Flower." This title will, in all likelihood, be changed.

The story is more vivid than the original scenario portended and necessitates a more formidable title.

George Anderson, Fritzi Scheff's husband, is the male lead.

Henry Kolker, who created so favorable an impression in "The Warning," a Triumph-Equitable production, was to have begun work at once on his second feature.

However, previous to his joining the Equitable forces he had entered into a contract which called for his association with Billie Burke and President Spiegel of Equitable, rather than embarrass him, has suspended his contract until May 15, at which time Mr. Kolker will become an exclusive star for the Equitable.

Burton King, recently of the directorial forces of the Famous Players Film Company, joined the producing staff of the Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation, last week, and has already begun work on the feature "Man and His Angel" in which the two noted players, Jane Grey and Henri Bergman are co-starring.

Irving Cummings will not play opposite Mary Boland in "Three Pairs of Shoes" and Adolph Majou, instead, has been given the part. In addition to Miss Boland and Mr. Majou, Marion Singer, Enid Francis, Charlotte De Felice, Albert Bechtel and Dave Wall have important roles.

Edmund Lawrence, producer of "The Warning," is in charge of production while the picture is being staged at Triumph's Bronx studio.

BERESFORD SIGNS WITH MIRROR AS TECHNICAL DIRECTOR

After touring the country with Irving, after staging Fritzi Scheff musical comedies for Charles B. Dillingham for four years and after sundry other stage and picture experiences, including the technical direction of three Universal studio plants in the East, Frank S. Beresford is about to add to his years as an expert in the mounting of things theatrical by accepting the position of technical director of the Mirror Films, Inc.

His force of artists and workmen is now at work at the Glendale studio of the Mirror company getting ready for the first picture in which Nat C. Goodwin will appear and on the big sets for a historical spectacle which will be the first picture produced for the Mirror by Captain Harry Lambart, its chief producer.

JAN. 23 SET FOR RELEASE OF "KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES"

With the various changes being made in Mutual releases, the "See America First" scenic and the animated cartoon, "Keepin' up with the Joneses," both on the same reel, change from Tuesday to Sunday.

The first Sunday release will be dated January 23. The Mutual Traveler acts as guide to St. Paul and Minneapolis, and the cartoon shows how the McGinises go in for Tuna fishing.

THEDA BARA CAST FOR "GOLD AND THE WOMAN"

Theda Bara has begun work on a new picture entitled "Gold and the Woman," in which she will be seen as a Mexican adventuress.

It is being produced for William Fox by James Vincent and includes in its cast such well known screen stars as H. Cooper Cliffe, who created the character of Baron Chevrial in photoplay; George Walsh, Carleton Macy and Pauline Barry.

In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. C. Jessen

Special to Motion Picture News

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.

THE first five-reel photoplays produced at the David Horsley studios for the Centaur Film Company, to be shown on the Mutual program, have been completed.

The first is "Vengeance Is Mine," which was written by Crane Wilbur, who is also starred in the play, and was directed by Robert Broadwell.

The second is "The Bait," starring William Clifford, which was written by William J. Bowman in collaboration with Theodosia Harris, and under the direction of the former. Edward Alexander and Betty Harte are the other principals.

Director Broadwell, in charge of the company featuring Crane Wilbur, is now at work on a five-reel, up-to-the-minute Western drama, entitled "A Pal of the Devil," which was written by Lillian V. Brockwell.

In this, Mr. Wilbur portrays the dual role of a "gentleman sheriff" and a young French surveyor, who, as the result of his half-witted brother being put to death for the crime of another, abandons society and becomes a bandit.

Principals in "Pal of the Devil"

Other principals in the cast are Steve Murphy as Pascal, the Mexican bandit; Louis Durham as Bill Holden, the political crook; Francis Raymond as Paul Belleau, the half-wit; and George Clare, Jr., in the part of Senator Thurston.

Director William J. Bowman has been selected to direct the photoplay written by Roy McCardell, author of "The Diamond from the Sky," who was recently engaged by David Horsley.

This is entitled "The Little Lady of the Lions." A circus will describe this feature best, and will bring before the camera many of the Bostock wild animals.

C. O. Sprenger, of the David Horsley publicity department, has severed his connection with that company.

Director Fahrney, who is in charge of the company featuring George Ovey at the Horsley studios, has completed his thirty-second picture in as many weeks, which is entitled "Jerry in Mexico."

He is now at work on his thirty-third, entitled "The Girl of His Dreams." In this, Jerry, taken by George Ovey, after gazing at a flaming poster depicting a Grecian scene, falls to sleep in a dry goods box in an alley, and dreams he is a Grecian nobleman and that his sweetheart and he are Grecian youths surrounded with every luxury.

He is awakened by officers who mistake him for a burglar, and after proving his innocence, he aids in capturing the criminals.

Brothers United by Screen

The Crapo brothers, Arthur and Albert, who have been lost to each other for nine years, were recently reunited through the screen, when the former, a sailor on the Atlantic visited a New York theatre which was showing "The Counsel for the Defense," in which his brother Albert played a prominent part.

Albert Crapo is known to the profession as "Bert Francis," and is a member of the Balboa producing company. This brings out another phase of the screen's service to humanity.

Bessie Eyton, Edith Johnson, Marion Warner, Wheeler Oakman and Frank Clark composed the cast for the Selig multiple reel feature entitled, "The Cycle of Fate," which was written and is being produced by Marshall Neilan. The story is intensely dramatic with a very out of the ordinary ending.

"Wives of the Rich," is the title of another Selig multiple reel feature being produced by T. T. N. Heffron. This reveals the story of a society woman whose love for games of chance almost ruins her life's happiness.

The story has a novel and unusual ending. The cast is composed of Harry Mestayer, Grace Darmond, Lafayette McKee, Lillian Hayward, William Hutchinson and Emma Glenwood.

Producer Frank Beal of the Selig company will soon take up the work of a subject entitled "The Devil, the Servant, and the Man," which will offer exceptional opportunities for Kathlyn Williams and Eugenie Bresserer, two principals of the cast.

Phunphilms Tickle Ribs in Upper California

Reports to the effect that Phunphilms are daily getting bigger in demand in Northern California, were made by General Manager Whiting of the Rolin Company, who recently returned from a trip to San Francisco.

High voltage electrical currents is the latest method utilized by the Rolin company to obtain new and alarming effects for its most recent Phunphilm picture produced for Pathé.

The recent rains caused the ground and woodwork to become very damp, which short-circuited some of the current, and the whole company was very much shocked, as were also the feelings of several visitors present.

Harold Lloyd, the "Lonesome Luke" of the Rolin comedies, and Del Lampton, the Rolin fat boy, unfortunately got into a wrestling match and Lampton was the loser of over five pounds of avoirdupois by the unusual exercise.

The management has made the statement that if it ever happens again Lloyd's salary will be docked at the rate of ten dollars a pound.

The new Culver City studios of the New York Motion Picture Corporation has been completed with the exception of a few finishing touches to many of the buildings, and the stocking of wardrobe and property rooms. The Culver City studio will in the future be recognized as the producing headquarters for this corporation.

(Right and Left) WHEN SNOW CAME TO UNIVERSAL CITY; (Center) FLOAT ENTERED BY UNIVERSAL CITY IN THE PASADENA ROSE TOURNAMENT

FRANCIS FORD AND GRACE CUNARD ARRIVING AT U CITY IN THEIR SNOW COVERED LIMOUSINE

Production has begun in earnest, and the majority of scenes for forthcoming Ince-Triangle-Kay-Bee subjects will be made here. A reception and ball, held last week, marked the opening of this big producing plant.

Staging Plays in Four Glass Studios

Under the supervision of Thos. H. Ince, directors Reginald Barker, Raymond West, Walter Edwards and Charles Giblyn are now staging subjects in the four mammoth glass enclosed stages.

Director Barker is working on interior scenes for the feature starring William Collier, Jr. This is a war drama with a heart interest and young Collier appears as the boyish hero of a romance.

The company, under the direction of Charles Giblyn, is working on a pretentious modern society story which stars Bessie Barriscale, supported by William Desmond and Franklin Ritchie.

Director West is engaged in making scenes for the subject in which Enid Markey will make her debut as a Triangle star. Several very elaborate sets are being erected for this.

Director Edwards is working on a production in which William H. Thompson and Charles Ray will be co-stars. This is a modern problem play, and will contain a number of scenes in which three or four hundred people will take part.

Directors William S. Hart and Charles Swickard are still working at the Inceville studios. Hart is making exterior scenes for the Canadian Northwest story in which he is starred; and Director Swickard is making preparations for his next production.

Song by Ince Gains Popularity

Reports received by Producer Thos. H. Ince are to the effect that his song, "Peggy," the music of which was adapted by Victor L. Schertzinger from the incidental music of the photoplay of the same name, and dedicated to Billie Burke, who was starred in the production, is daily gaining in popularity.

This song was introduced in Los Angeles at the initial showing of the production.

Richard V. Spencer of the Ince scenario staff is reported dangerously ill at his home in Hollywood, as the result of contracting a very severe cold, which later developed into pneumonia.

H. B. Warner has completed his work in a Triangle Kay-Bee feature under the direction of Charles Swickard, and is now enjoying a short vacation at San Diego, after which he will begin rehearsals for the stellar role of another Ince subject which is being prepared by J. G. Hawks.

Alexander Moore, Philadelphia publisher and husband of Lillian Russell, was a recent visitor at Inceville. He was escorted by Frank Tannehill of the Ince scenario department from Los Angeles, and shown about the grounds by Producer Ince. Later in the day he visited the new Culver City.

Members of the Los Angeles photoplay colony have entered with considerable enthusiasm into the business of raising funds for the Actors' Fund of America.

Before leaving for New York, Jesse L. Lasky, chairman of the California Committee, called a meeting of the committee to discuss ways and means and decide upon a definite campaign to be launched later for the purpose of raising the desired funds.

Actors' Fund Day on February 10

According to the plan as now outlined, the campaign will open formally on February 10, which has been named Actors' Fund day at practically all of the Los Angeles motion picture theatres.

Actors and actresses picked from among the most prominent on the coast will work on the principal streets of the city selling tickets to the various theatres. In addition to this, the other theatres are to charge a somewhat higher price of admission, all surplus to be devoted to the cause.

On the night of February 12, a ball will be given in one of the principal hotels of the city, all the money received from the sale of tickets to be used for the same purpose.

In addition to this, on the evening of March 3, Al Levy, proprietor of the popular cafe of that name, has promised to donate as his share, sixty per cent. of the gross receipts of the evening to swell the fund.

Notices calling for subscriptions have been posted at the various picture studios and already a considerable sum has been subscribed.

Friday evening, March 31, has been chosen to conclude the campaign. From one till six o'clock on this day a monster benefit is to be held, at which many of the head-line vaudeville acts will appear, together with other acts cast from the various studios.

De Mille at Work on "Blacklist"

At the Lasky studios, William C. De Mille is at work on the production of another Blanche Sweet feature, "The Blacklist." As the title suggests, the story deals with American labor troubles and the consequent shutouts that follow in the wake of such disturbances. Miss Sweet appears in the role of an anarchist.

The heavy fall of snow in southern California during the latter part of last week caused an indefinite postponement of the making of the mountain scenes in Cecil De Mille's production of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

The company was on their way to the mountain location when the storm struck, but had to abandon the trip because of the depth of the snow. Charlotte Walker is being starred in this production.

Anita King, the Paramount Girl, has once more (if but temporarily) taken up her wanderings. In answer to a wire received on New Year's day, she left Los Angeles within two hours of its receipt and arrived in Seattle in time to open the Coliseum theatre of that city on Tuesday night.

Before leaving her hotel the following morning, she received two other wires requesting that she stop at Tacoma and Portland on her return trip to Los Angeles. She complied with the requests, arriving at the studios five days later.

The Lasky company is at present building at San Pedro two ships, replicas of the type in use at the time of the story, "To Have and to Hold," which that company is to use in the production of their filmization of the novel of that name.

The ships will be ready by the first of the week, when they are to be taken to Catalina for the necessary scenes.

More than one hundred extra players will be used in these scenes as background for

VIEWS OF "THE MAN IN THE SOMBRERO," AN AMERICAN-MUTUAL PHOTOPLAY

GLIMPSES OF "THE UNWRITTEN LAW," CALIFORNIA M. P. CORPORATION'S NEW VEHICLE FOR BEATRIZ MICHELENA the action of the two principals, Wallace Reid and Mae Murray.

Stage in Lasky Projection Room

A stage is to be constructed in the projecting room now in course of construction at the Lasky studios in conjunction with the new laboratories being built at that studio.

Upon its completion, a cast chosen from the players at the studio are to present at the opening, an original one-act satirical drama, based on the motion picture industry. The name, or more exact nature of the playlet, are thus far not public property.

To Anne Schaefer, of the Western Vitagraph studios, is due much of the credit for Santa Monica's securing the first prize award at the Pasadena Rose Tournament.

Miss Schaefer attended to the selection and robing of the girls who rode on the float and also planned a big portion of the floral decorations through which the first prize was granted.

"Dusty" Rhodes, internationally known for the endurance race he ran with a dog team in Alaska, and who is at present working at the western Vitagraph studios, is rapidly recovering from a severe injury sustained when he leaped from one of the company's trucks that threatened to overturn as it skidded into a curb.

William Wolbert's company of Vitagraphers have returned from Truckee, and Rollin Sturgeon has returned from Bear Valley to the Hollywood studios of that company.

Sturgeon to Begin "Bittersweet"

Rollin Sturgeon is soon to begin the production of a Vitagraph feature by Daisy E. Smith entitled, "Bittersweet." The east includes George Stanley, Anne Schaefer, Webster Campbell, Corinne Griffith and Lawrence Weingarten, the latter two being new additions to the Vitagraph staff.

William Wolbert is soon to commence the production of another Vitagraph picture featuring Mary Anderson in the stellar role. The story comes from the pen of William E. Wing, and is to be told in three reels. It is thus far unnamed.

Sydney Ayres, who for the past fifteen months has been acting in the capacity of actor-director at the Universal Pacific Coast studios, has left the service of that company.

Mr. Ayres has made no announcement as to what his plans for the future are, although he would not deny that he will continue before the camera at some one of the other studios.

Acting in accordance with his promise made at the Exhibitors' New Year's ball at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, has placed the name of Thelma Francis on the payroll of the western studios of that organization with the word "lead" opposite it.

To add to the evening's entertainment at the ball, President Laemmle, as guest of honor at the function, asked permission to inaugurate an impromptu beauty contest, the winner to be given a position at Universal City. A committee consisting of Mr. Laemmle, Hobart Henley and Crane Wilbur accordingly passed on the feminine members of the grand mareh as they marched past them in review.

Thelma Francis was chosen above the others and the offer of a position in pictures was made her. She accepted, and this week her name was added to the list of leads at the Universal City studios.

Beauty Contest Winner from Stage

Although Miss Francis is unfamiliar with the motion picture industry, she is not entirely inexperienced in dramatic work. She was formerly a resident of Denver, where she studied dramatic expression under Maude Fealy, later playing minor parts in stock company engagements in that city.

Thus far no director has been assigned to Miss Francis, although her work before the camera is to begin early in the coming week.

A "council of war" between the heads of the Universal and former Director General Henry McRae, this week resulted in the temporary postponement of the latter's proposed trip to the Orient, where he was to have made a number of feature films for the U program.

According to the new arrangement, McRae will shortly begin the production of more 101 Bison pictures of the big, outdoor, spectacular type. Marie Walcamp, his former leading woman, will return to his producing company. Beyond Miss Walcamp no cast is officially announced.

No statement has been issued relative to the length of time the trip to the Far East has been postponed, but it is thought that it will not take place for several months.

The Universal City studios this week received a big consignment of Cooper Hewitts for use in the recently completed indoor studio at that plant. Twelve producing companies are at present staging scenes for forthcoming productions inside this studio.

Brother of Cochrane a "U" Director

George Cochrane, brother of Vice-president Robert H. Cochrane of "U," this week was added to the producing staff at Universal City. His first picture is a one reel drama entitled, "Shackled," adapted for the screen by F. McGrew Willis from the story by Laura Oakley.

Douglas Gerrard, Carmen Phillips and Jay Belasco play the leading roles. The story deals with the reformation of two characters through a series of coincidences.

Ernie Shield and Roy McCray were this week made co-directors on the Universal City producing staff. They are to produce one reel comedies, the first being a story by Ben Cohn entitled, "Time Flies." The co-directors, Sherman Bainbridge and Lois Wilson appear in the leading roles.

Ella Hall is soon to appear in the title role of a five reel comedy drama by Calder Johnstone entitled, "A True Story of Cinderella." Robert Leonard will direct the production and play the leading male role.

In an accident occurring during the production of "The Madcap Queen of Corona," Grace Cunard was last week seriously injured and forced to go to a local hospital, where an operation is regarded as imperative.

The injury is regarded as doubly serious because of a similar hurt received during the production of the "Lucile Love" serial and its subsequent tearing open during the production of "The Broken Coin" serial.

Ferguson a "U" Producer

Edward Ferguson, Elsie Ferguson's husband, next week becomes a member of the Universal's western staff of producers. His first production is to be a two reel drama of theatrical life entitled, "Their him.

True to their promise, the Christie comedy companies this week packed their belongings and moved from the Universal's studios to their own headquarters in the original Universal studios on Gower street, the studio recently vacated by the Quality Film Company.

THREE SCENES FROM "HER GOD," A NEW EQUITABLE FEATURE WITH GAIL KANE

Although no longer a direct part of the Universal company, their Nestor Comedies will continue to remain a part of that company's program. Al E. Christie, however, will be the head of the new concern, and the productions of the two companies will be handled by the "U" exchanges on a footage basis.

Under the new conditions, the two producing companies remain the same. Christie himself will direct one of them with Lee Moran, Eddie Lyons and Betty Compson in the leading roles, while Horace Davey will handle the second troupe, using for his leads Neal Burns, Billie Rhodes and Ray Gallagher.

The remainder of the companies remain the same, Ethel Lynn, Stella Adams, Harry Rattenbury, Harry Lyons, Gus Alexander, George French and Eddie Burns comprising the list.

The troubles of a muchly-married man who employs a too-pretty maid for his wife form the basis of this week's Joker offering from Roy Clements' company. Victor Potel, Jane Bernoudy and Eileen Sedgwick are cast for the leading parts. The film is entitled, "When Slim Picked the Peach."

"Dr. Samson" Director by Carleton

"Dr. Samson," a five reel story of the deliberate administration of an overdose of morphine to a helpless patient whose suffering cannot be relieved, is occupying the attention of Lloyd Carleton's company.

The story comes from the pen of Agnes Hayes, and in its production, Hobart Bosworth in the title role is supported by a cast including Dorothy Davenport, Gretchen Lederer, Emory Johnson, Charles Hickman, Adele Farrington and Margaret Whistler.

Joseph De Grasse is staging the first scenes in his production of a five reel story by Isabel Ostrander entitled, "The Altar of Friendship." The story is of the comedy drama type.

Jay Hunt is at work on the production of a two reel animal drama by Rex de Rosselli and Allen Watt entitled, "The Toll of the Jungle."

The scenes are laid in Central Africa, and deal with the life in the wilderness of that locality. Edythe Sterling, Rex de Rosselli, Colin Chase and T. D. Crittenden appear in the leading roles.

Jacques Jaccard is this week producing a two reel western drama entitled, "The Breed and the Girl," with Harry Carey and Olive Fuller Golden in the two name parts.

This is the first of the Jaccard pictures to be started since the return of Carey from the "Graft" serial.

Le Saint Completes 4th Episode, "Lord Jim"

E. J. Le Saint this week is concluding his production of the fourth episode in his production of the series, "The Journal of Lord John," as adapted for the screen by Harvey Gates from the fiction story by C. N. and A. M. Williamson.

As in the preceding chapters, William Garwood, appears in the feature role with Stella Razeto opposite him and a supporting cast including Ogden Crane, Grace Benham, Laura Oakley, Carmen Phillips and Albert MacQuarrie.

Cleo Madison is making the concluding scenes in her production of the five reel story of character reformation, "A Soul's Crucible." Miss Madison is supported in this by a cast including Edward Hearn, Ray Hanford and William Mong.

"Bonita," with Myrtle Gonzalez in the title role, is the name of a two reel story which Lynn Reynolds is this week making at the "U" studios. As the title suggests, the story is laid in Mexico.

The supporting cast in this subject is composed of Walter Belasco, Marjorie Lake, Fred Church, Val Paul, Alfred Allen, Betty Rogers and William Brunton.

"The Illborn," a five reel picture in which the Smalleys are featuring Tyrone Power, is rapidly nearing a conclusion. The story deals with the much discussed question of eugenics and tells some pointed truths in an unusually frank manner.

The question of illicit birth regulation forms the basis of the plot. The supporting cast is a large one, including Marie Walcamp, Helen Riaume, Cora Drew, Rene Rogers, A. D. Blake, Juan de la Cruz, C. Normand Hammond, William Hope, Marjorie Blynn and William Haben.

Stanton on 11th Graft Episode

Episode eleven of the "Graft" serial is this week occupying all the attention of Richard Stanton and his company of "U" players. The story deals with the overthrowing of another of the ring of trust magnates by Bruce Larnigan in the avenging of his father's death.

The cast comprises Glen White, Marc, Fenton, Jane Novak, Hobart Henley, Mina Cunard, Jack Connelly, J. F. Evers, E. Clark and Frank MacQuarrie.

Otis Turner is well along with the production of the five reel comedy drama, "Get the Boy," featuring Carter De Haven and his wife, Flora Parker De Haven.

William Worthington is filming a one reel comedy drama entitled, "A Rainy Day," scenariorized by Ben Cohn from the story by Robert McGowan. Herbert Rawlinson is cast for the leading role in this with Edna Maison, Herbert Barrington and George Berunger supporting.

"Leap and Look Thereafter" is the title of a one reel Joker which Allen Curtis is this week producing at the "U" studios. The story was written by William Farmer, and in it Cale Henry, William Franey, Milburn Moranti and Lillian Peacock play the leading roles.

Robert Ross, assistant to Henry McRae during his incumbency in the position of director general of the "U" studios, and Joe King, co-director with the Cleo Madison Company, this week terminated their connection with the "U" studios.

SOL LESSER WILL OPEN OFFICES IN NEW YORK CITY

Sol L. Lesser, who recently returned to San Francisco after a flying trip to Chicago to negotiate the purchase of the rights to the Selig multiple reel production of "The Ne'er Do Well," with Colonel William N. Selig, will return to New York City, February 1, and establish offices here.

Mr. Lesser promises to become identified with some important undertakings shortly thereafter, but until his arrival in New York declines to go into particulars.

JUST TO MAKE TALK

By LONGACRE

A TERRIBLE accident is reported from the World studios; one of those regrettable incidents which could not have been foreseen. A scaffolding on which three painters were at work, painting a fresh coat of anti-halation gamboge on Kitty Gordon's back, collapsed and hurled them into the river.

Fortunately, the river was not frozen, and the men were picked up unhurt by the whale-boat crew of a passing tramp submarine. Gamboge, as it is explained to us, is a thick yellow paint, which absorbs the rays of light, and things, and is useful in preventing glare from highly polished surfaces.

We do not know what river it was the painters were thrown into, but this is the same 24-sheet back mentioned on page 78 of our issue of January 1, and page 375 of our issue of January 22. A limited quantity of these back numbers are now on hand at this office. Yes, we used the term "back numbers" intentionally.

From a source which will be revealed upon receipt of a properly countersigned request, enclosing four cents in stamps, we have it that Arthur James, after viewing a number of recent releases of the ——— and ——— companies, sat down and scribbled the following parody on the fly leaf of his own private copy of the Pentateuch, and handed it to Albert Le Vino:

"Censors to right of them,
Censors to left of them,
On into the Valley of Death
Rode the sex hundred!"

The Film Uplift is upon us. At a late hour last night, the World Film publicity staff capitulated and admitted that the ballet scenes in the new Brady production, "The Ballet Girl," will be used to instruct the aspiring dancers at the Metropolitan Opera in New York. It seems that in filming the subject, in which Alice Brady is featured, the entire corps de ballet of the Metropolitan was used, and so pleased was M. Bartik, ballet master of the Metropolitan, with the result that he secured a copy of the film to be used in training future coryphees.

Arthur Langan, of the Sun Feature Film Company, has been cast as a proud father. He announces the arrival, on January 3, of Miss Mignon Zinna Langan, who weighed in at eight and a half pounds.

We have it on excellent authority, and nice yellow bond paper, that the William Fox company, which has been operating in the West Indies since last August, has certainly given Jamaica the time of its life. Such things as a group of divine water nymphs, such as Tigellinus used to set afloat on the Lake of Agrippina for Nero's benefit, swimming about in St. Anne's bay, headed by Annette Kellermann, have not only awakened natives to the pitch of enthusiasm, but the announcement that they will continue to thus swim until April, has resulted in a scheme to start dollar excursions from Cuba, Panama, Curacao, Barbadoes and Way Island to see these beautiful fishes disport themselves in the waters which made Schley and the green swizzle famous. The picture, when it is finished, surely ought to live up to all the mighty things which Mr. Fox expects, if time, money and infinite care mean anything.

Realism's the thing; it is, however, sometimes risky. Malcolm Duncan, while working in the new Kleine-Edison picture, "The Scarlet Road," played the part of a hobo; he was walking along the railroad track, paced by a battery of cameras, when a train whistled behind him. The director shouted for him to keep going, and not step off the track until the engine arrived, thus hoping for a little additional realism.

Mr. Duncan followed instructions, but the engineer of the train didn't see the cameras, and took Mr. Duncan at his face value. He threw three lumps of coal and a wrench at the "hobo." The silver lining is found in the fact that one of the lumps of coal missed.

If this space is blank next week, it will be because we are busy weeping with and for Gail Kane; she is down in Arizona, bemoaning the fate of the poor Indian. She had to play the part of an Indian in her next Equitable release, and a mining friend down in Tucson told her that only nitrate of silver would give her complexion the proper shade; so she tried it. It worked beautifully; in fact, it still works. Miss Kane can't get the complexion off, and she has sat down to wait until it wears off, which we understand will be in time for the Decoration Day celebration at Painted Post. Miss Kane and her mining friend do not speak as they pass.

The population of Bayside, L. I., rises up in a body to deny that their own "Jim" Corbett has been seriously injured in an automobile accident. Furthermore, the population asserts its belief that no automobile accident could hurt "Jim" seriously; he might be dented a trifle, but it would take something more than a mere combination of automobiles to make him take the count.

He was in a slight accident last week, but he refuses to admit much of any injury, and around McKenna's grill they are saying that he hurt his left side slightly, but not so that he has had to miss the 8:42 train any morning since.

Incidentally, the static little suburb of Bayside is becoming a great colony of motion picture people, and "Jim," who has had a cottage there for several years, is about the center of the colony; among others are William Farnum, Cyril Scott, George Irving, Arthur James, Maurice Costello, Tom Geraghty, John Clymer, and an all-star cast.

With the Fox studios moving out to join the Gaumont and Equitable at Flushing, Bayside is looking for a still greater influx of "movie" people. If real estate interests find this announcement of any value to them, they may call at this office at any time any day for it.

We are not the first to note, nor the first to offer comment on the fact that Edna Mayo carries a powerful lot of dog through most of her scenes. We understand that Edna has considerable fondness for the dog, and can forgive much for the sake of this. We also like dogs.

But what we do incline to kick at is the retarding of action in the first part of the pictures while the other characters are required to shake hands with the dog. We are in touch with considerable money, offering at odds of eight to three, that the actors don't enjoy it any more than we do.

We have long suspected Paul Gulick of kidding about that position of "City Editor" on the Motion Picture Weekly; now we take it all back. Paul has shown us a letter from Robert S. Doman, who now holds down the "city" desk, written from Christiana, where he joined the Ford peace party. It is a most interesting letter, but is too long by 1,337 words for use in this space. Furthermore, if Paul Gulick ever offers us a job as "city editor" we're going to make him specify what city he means.

Two lucky things have happened to us since this cruel war started: one was deciding not to go short of Bethlehem steel, and the other was staying away from that crop of rumors which was let loose in New York last week. A lot of the other fellows got hurt in both cases.

In Memoriam Note.—At the latest luncheon of the publicity committee of the Board of Trade, held at the Hotel Hermitage, New York City, January 13, the members of their committee took their coffee black, out of respect for J. W. Binder, suddenly called away to Washington.

WILL LOUIS JOINS VIM COMEDY COMPANY

Will Louis, formerly director of the Edison comedy productions, has severed his relations with that studio and has joined the Vim Films Corporation at their Southern studios in Jacksonville, Fla.

NAT GOODWIN BEGINS PICTURE FOR MIRROR

Nat C. Goodwin, now working in his first picture for Mirror Films, Inc., will have as his leading woman Margaret Greene, who has appeared in prominent legitimate successes besides being a screen actress of ability.

MARGARET GREENE

Miss Greene was in the original productions of "Broadway Jones," "Ready Money" and "Seven Keys to Baldpate." She was starred at the Longacre theatre, New York, in "Tipping the Winner," and recently appeared with William Gillette in repertoire.

Her principal screen appearances have been for Pathé.

PATHE CLUB TO GIVE NIFTY BALL, WITH EVERYBODY IN "EVENING" SCENERY"

The Pathé Club, a social organization formed by members of the Pathé organization, having tried its wings at its first "beefsteak" last Saturday, is now preparing for something nifty in the way of a ball.

New York clothiers and haberdashers report marked activity in "evening scenery," and those members of the club who are unmarried have become very popular with friends of the fair sex. The date and place have not yet been announced.

LEAGUE-SCREEN CLUB BALL CREATES INTEREST IN FILM CIRCLES

The New York Exhibitors' League, in conjunction with the Screen Club, is preparing for one of the most elaborate social events of the season in the ball to be given at Madison Square Garden, February 19.

Already the interest in the affair has beaten all records, and it is announced from the League headquarters that all the prominent manufacturers and distributors have taken space, or will be represented prominently at the ball.

Prominent actors and actresses have signified the intention to be present, and there is now every indication that the ball will be a complete showing of "who's who" in films.

Irwin Argues for Rights of Motion Picture

Points Out at Hearing on Hughes Bill That the Screen, as a Method of Thought Transmission, Should Be Accorded Same Privileges as Press

IN his argument before the House Committee on Education at Washington, Walter W. Irwin, general manager of Vitagraph-Lubin-Selig-Essanay, Inc., spoke in part as follows, opposing Federal censorship of motion pictures:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee on Education:

"In addressing you, I speak primarily as a citizen, and secondarily as the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Motion Picture Board of Trade of America.

"I am here to perform a duty which the industry owes not only to itself, but to the public at large. That duty, is to see to it, so far as in my power, that the American public does not unthinkingly step back into the tyranny of the Middle Ages, and the resulting darkness.

"The mediums of thought transmission are by word of mouth, writing, printing, painting, drawing, sculpture, song and the moving picture.

"Because of the principles of American freedom, upon which this Government was founded, neither the editor, sculptor, song writer nor painter is compelled to present himself at Police Headquarters before he publishes. On the contrary, his publication is permitted without restraint; and thereafter he is held responsible.

"Why then should the motion picture be differentiated? The picture in motion has become the most effective medium for the transmission of thought, so far known to the world. In fact, there seems to be a spirit to restrict it and punish it because of its very effectiveness, and because of this effectiveness, this power to enlighten, educate and entertain, it is daily gathering unto itself, thousands of adherents," continued Manager Irvine.

"And how does legalized censorship work in actual practice?

"In Pennsylvania, 'The Battle Cry of Peace,' a picture showing the invasion of New York City by a foreign enemy and demonstrating the defenceless condition of our country, was almost destroyed of its value by the censors ordering that there be stricken out, the scene in which a mother saved her two children from worse than death itself; the very scene which would make any man with red blood in his veins feel that he would be willing to die in the trenches one hundred times to save his family from such an outrage, and realize that this country must be prepared to protect the women and children, at least within its borders, from unspeakable crimes. It was only after serious argument and a threat to take the matter to the court, that the censors consented to let the picture retain this effective object lesson.

"Have we not the same right to preach national defence in a picture as is possessed by the editor of a newspaper? Are we to be denied our right to show this intense picture to the people of the interior states, so that their representatives will be permitted to recognize that the interior of the country owes a duty to both seaboards, and thus vote for a proper appropriation for national defence? Shall a vehicle of thought transmission, which will go a long ways towards accomplishing what forty years of oratory and editors have failed to do, be denied upon the arbitrary whim of a few individuals who do not agree with this policy?"

Snow Storm Hits Universal City and Visits 2 Days

Studio Grounds Get 8-Inch Coat and Directors Freeze on to the Chance of Taking Winter Scenes Without Leaving Their Doorsteps for the Mountains

UNIVERSAL CITY was treated to the surprise of its life the other day when it was chosen for a first-class snowstorm, said to be one of the finest ever heard of west of the Rockies.

The studio grounds at the picture city and the hills in the background were covered with a carpet of four to eight inches. The producers, seeing the chance to make some real "winter stuff," got busy immediately.

Cleo Madison's company abandoned their properties and snow effects, stepped forth into real snow, and made some pictures of the real thing, which will be seen in "A Soul's Crucible."

The Francis Ford company put on a one-reel drama in which snow played a prominent part. The story was written hastily by Grace Cunard under the title "The Dumb Bandit," and from the time of the conception of the idea until th camera got to work barely one hour and a half had elapsed, it is said.

The snow remained on the ground two days, and during that time the company was able to make all the exteriors necessary for their winter scenes, and by the time the snow melted they were ready to begin photographing spring and summer scenes.

Statisticians and oldest residents disagree in the matter of dates, some saying that nothing like the recent snowstorm has been known in the Universal City section for more than twenty-seven years, while others declare that a similar storm took place in 1903.

PARSONS GOES TO TAMPA FOR STUDIO; WILL PRODUCE COMEDIES

William Parsons stopped in from California on his way to Tampa, Fla., where it is reported that he is negotiating for a site for a motion picture studio. Mr. Parsons said that he had just incorporated the National Film Corporation of America, under the laws of the State of Virginia, and that this company would supplant the old National Film Corporation.

He announced at the same time that he had contracts with Paul Gilmore and James J. Corbett and that he intended to produce one reel comedies and five reel features for one of the leading distributing companies.

WILBUR IN DUAL ROLE IN "A LAW UNTO HIMSELF," HORSLEY

As the second of his five-reel features presenting Crane Wilbur as the star, David Horsley announces "A Law Unto Himself," a drama of the West, the production of which was started last week at Mr. Horsley's studio in Los Angeles under the direction of Robert Broadwell.

The story is by Lillian Brockwell and features Crane Wilbur in a dual role, that of a Western sheriff and of a French surveyor. The two are almost identical in appearance, a fact which leads to many strong situations throughout the picture.

For its enactment Mr. Horsley has selected a cast of well-known players in support of Mr. Wilbur, including Carl von Schiller, George Clare, Jr., Louis Durham, E. W. Harris, Francis Raymond, Steve Murphy and Mae Adams. The five last named were engaged especially for this release.

"A Law Unto Himself" is the second of Mr. Horsley's features with Mr. Wilbur to be distributed as a Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe Edition, and will be released February 28.

WRESTLING CHAMPION TO STAR WITH KING BAGGOT

Joe Stecher, the wrestling champion, is to appear in a motion picture production soon to be put on by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

That he was not under contract with the management of the wrestling tournament has been officially denied by Ben Atwell, publicity representative of the tournament.

The fact in the case is that King Baggot has had for consideration for some time a motion picture play in which a man appearing well enough to be a leading man was also an expert wrestler. That combination was found in Joe Stecher, and as soon as it was announced that King Baggot would start directing pictures again, it was decided to put on this photoplay, with Joe Stecher and King Baggot in the leading male roles, Baggot being the villain.

Stecher is expected in New York City, January 15, and King Baggot expects to start on the production of the photoplay on the seventeenth. It will take from ten days to two weeks to produce this picture.

FRITZI BRUNETTE PLAYS LEAD IN HER FIRST V-L S-E

"Unto Those Who Sin," a Selig Red Seal Play, will be released through V-L-S-E on Monday, March 6. This drama will feature Fritzi Brunette.

The drama is from the pen of James Oliver Curwood and Miss Brunette wears a large number of gorgeous gowns. She is supported by an all-star cast of players. This is the first V-L-S-E subject in which Miss Brunette has enacted the leading role.

PATHE COMPLETES "LIGHT THAT FAILED"

Edward José, the Pathé producer, has now finished "The Light That Failed," the Gold Rooster play adapted from Kipling's famous novel.

He says that in his opinion it is the best picture he ever made.

Looking at Helen Gibson in a Scene from "The Hazards of Helen," An Episode of Kalem Railroad Serial

MRS. BREUIL FOR SPECIAL WORK WITH MIRROR FILMS

Unexpectedly thrown on her own resources at more than thirty years of age, Mrs. Beta Breuil a few years ago plunged into the busy whirl of the motion picture business, rising in a short while to the place where she organized and headed the scenario department of the Vitagraph Company of America.

Now, she had been engaged by the management of the Mirror Films, Inc., to do special work on several features which the Mirror will produce in the next twelve months.

A SCENE FROM "JERRY'S REVENGE," A RECENT CUB RELEASE IN WHICH GEORGE OVEY IS STARRED

CALIFORNIA CORPORATION TO PUT ON "THE WOMAN WHO DARED"

Because of the world war now waging unusual interest centers in the story of "The Woman Who Dared," by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, an exciting story of foreign politics, adventure and intrigue, which is announced as the third release of the California Motion Picture Corporation in its new series of film productions of which "The Unwritten Law," by Edwin Milton Royle, is the second.

"The Woman Who Dared," will also provide a new avenue of endeavor for Beatriz Michelena, whom the California Motion Picture Corporation has been exploiting in a list of feature films which include "Salvation Nell."

As "The Unwritten Law" with Miss Michelena in the star role will be the January release of the California company, "The Woman Who Dared," will be the March release. Official announcement of the May release will be made in due time.

While no information has been vouchsafed as to the method of release of the new productions of the California Motion Picture Corporation it is announced that it will abide by its decision to limit their output to six pictures a year. This policy will be adhered to in order that the determination to produce pictures far above the average feature film may be assured.

VIVIAN RICH FOR CHARACTER PART IN A MUTUAL

Vivian Rich and Alfred Vosburgh, the American (Mutual) stars, are scheduled for a bit of character interpretation in "Dollars of Dross," which is being produced under the direction of Frank Borzage for release in the Mutual Program.

The plot development brings the two principals of the play—the misunderstanding daughter of a money-mad father, and a young clergyman—to the conclusion that love, after all, is far greater than riches.

In the cast supporting Miss Rich and Mr. Vosburgh are Louise Lester and George Periolat.

"A FOOL'S PARADISE" WILL APPEAR IN SIX REELS

The policy of the Ivan Film Productions to manufacture five-reel photoplays will be departed from when "A Fool's Paradise" is released February 10.

Director Abramson and his staff found that the strong dramatic value of the story would lend itself better to six reels than the usual feature length, thus giving the artists who portray the various roles a better opportunity to display their versatility.

McGOWAN CAST FOR DANGEROUS FEAT IN SIGNAL SUBJECT

James P. McGowan, playing the crook in, as well as directing, "The Girl and the Game," offers a unique thrill to the fifth chapter of the big Signal-Mutual feature.

While a train is moving he clings to the sides of four cars, one after another, and erases the name of the consignee from the billing cards tacked on the cars so that the ties with which they are loaded might come into the possession of the crook's employer.

The Supreme in Artistic Accomplishment
of The Silent
Drama

BLUEBIRD PHOTO-PLAYS (Inc)

ANNOUNCE AS THE SECOND PRODUCTION

HELEN WARE

in

"Secret Love"

Adapted from "That Lass o' Lowries"

The Famous Novel by Frances Hodgson Burnett

BOOKINGS

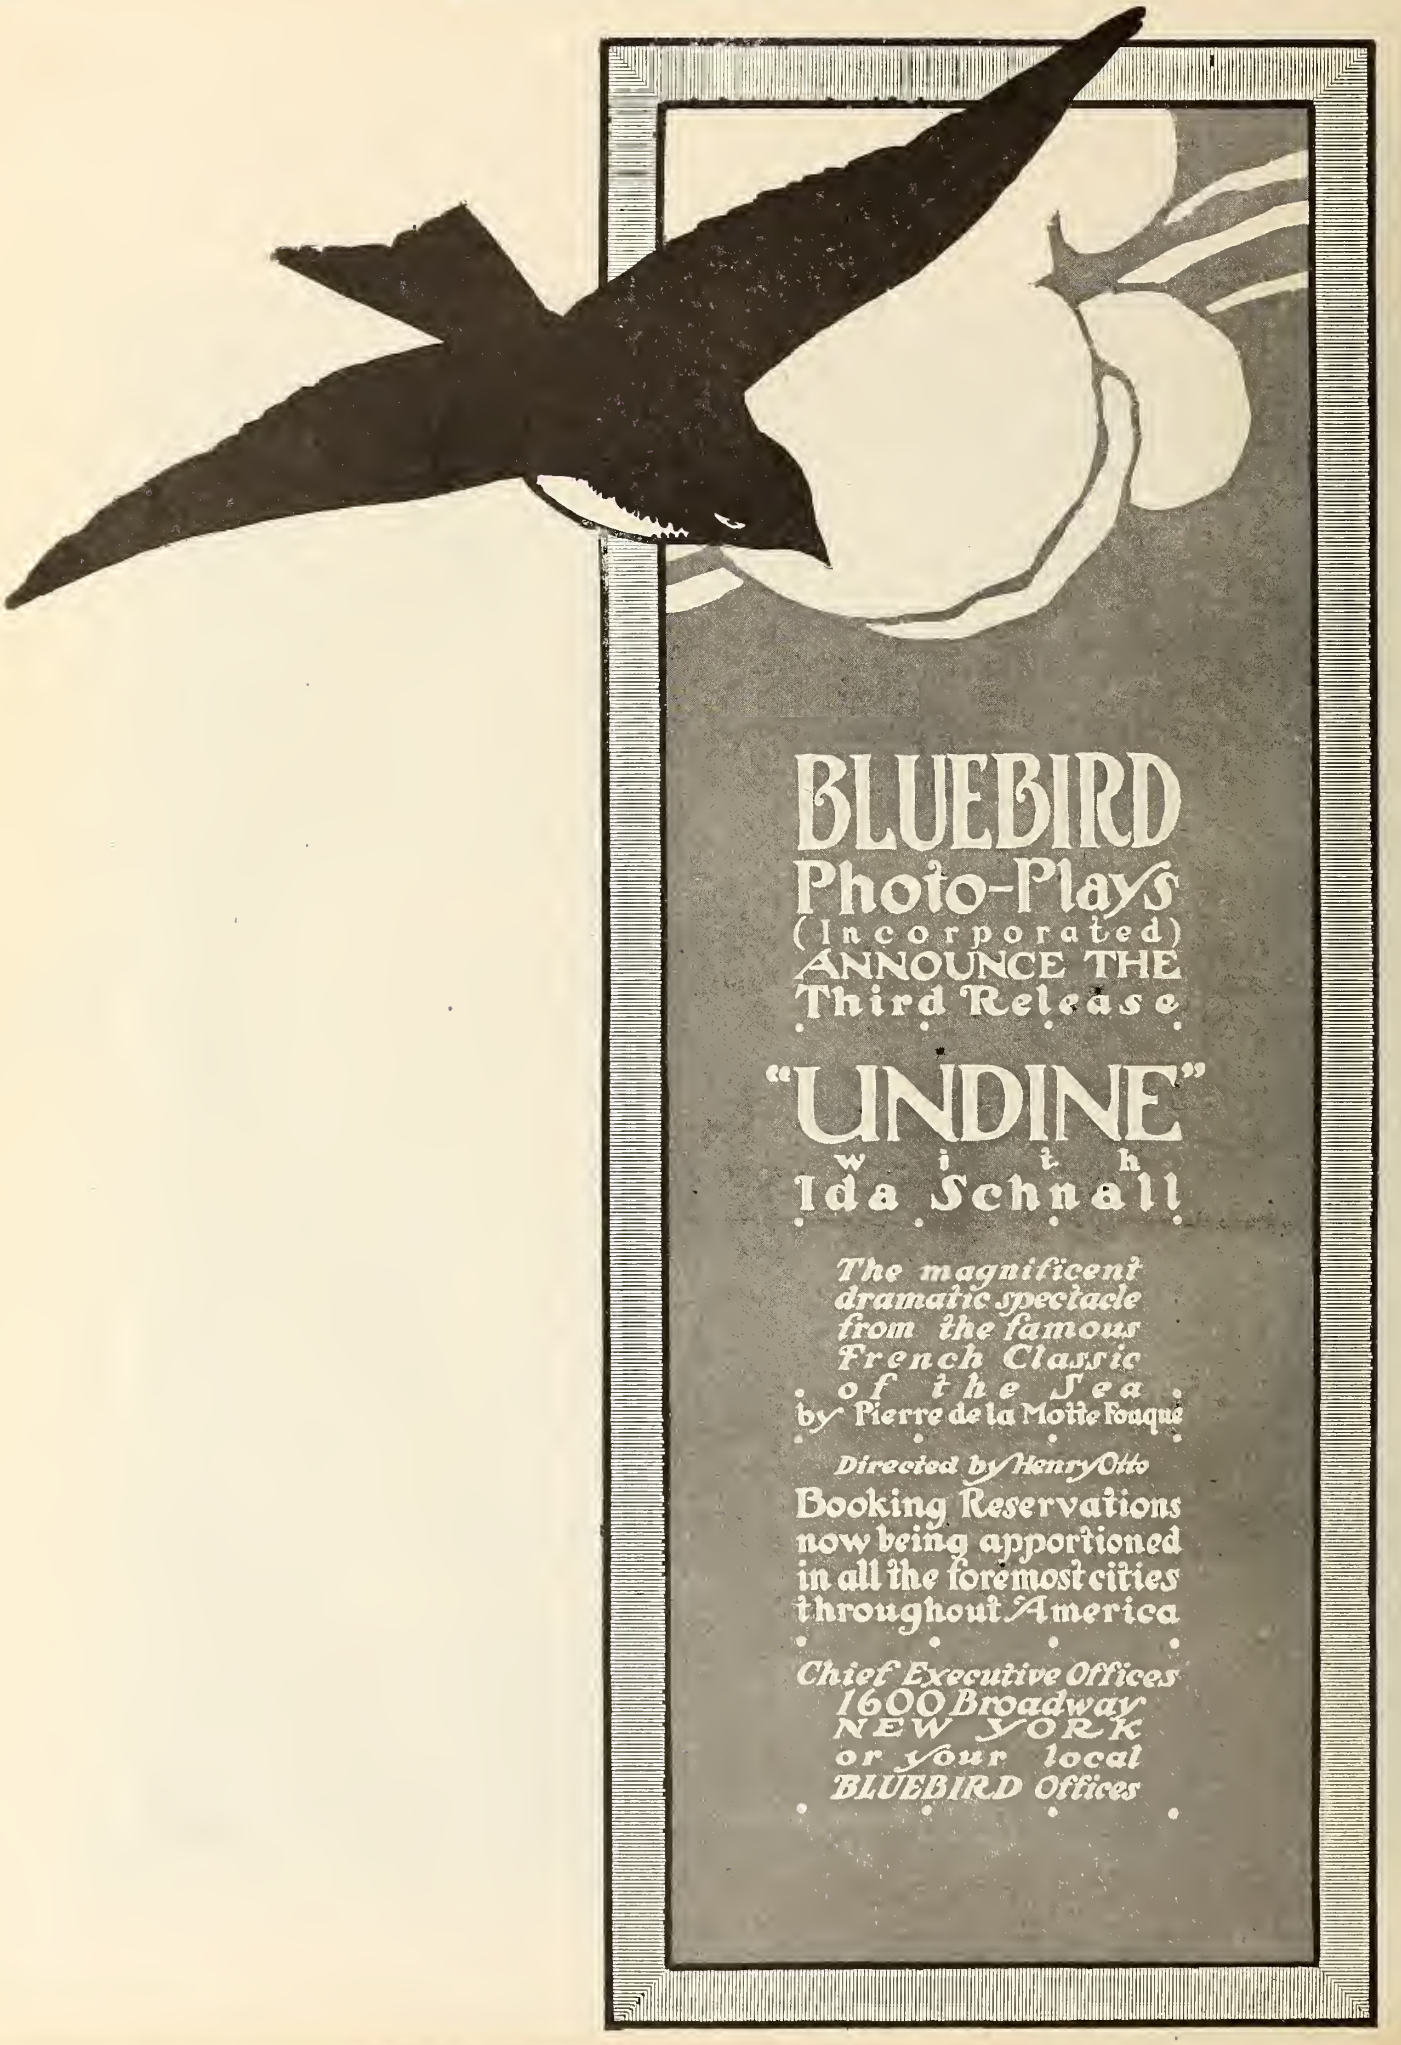
May be arranged by Communicating with the Executive Offices of

BLUEBIRD PHOTO-PLAYS (Inc)

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

or your local BLUEBIRD booking offices

BLUEBIRD PHOTO PLAYS INC



BLUEBIRD
Photo-Plays
(Incorporated) ANNOUNCE THE Third Release
"UNDINE"
with
Ida Schnall
The magnificent dramatic spectacle from the famous French Classic of the Sea by Pierre de la Motte Fouqué
Directed by Henry Otto
Booking Reservations now being apportioned in all the foremost cities throughout America
Chief Executive Offices
1600 Broadway
NEW YORK
or your local
BLUEBIRD Offices

THREE SCENES FROM THE NEW ONE-REEL COMEDIES FEATURING BICKEL AND WATSON—RELEASED BY GEORGE KLEINE

HORSLEY SIGNS DURHAM, BALL PLAYER-ACTOR

For the role of the heavy in "A Law Unto Himself," a five reel feature production starring Crane Wilbur, which is to be released February 28 as a Mutual Masterpicture, De Luxe Edition, David Horsley announces the engagement of Louis Durham, a man who has achieved popularity in two widely removed fields of endeavor.

Durham first came into the limelight of public favor in 1904 as a baseball player. In that year he joined the Brooklyn Club of the National League as a pitcher.

He jumped that organization, however, for the Coast "outlaw" league, playing in that circuit for three seasons. In 1908 he was signed by Indianapolis of the American Association, where his good work attracted the attention of the New York Giants, who signed him for the folowing season.

He was with the Giants until 1911, when an accident to his pitching arm put an end to his baseball career.

After a long rest he went to California and was engaged by the New York Motion Picture Company. Among the productions in which he appeared were "The Brink," in which he played opposite Florence Wynant; "The Financier," with George Fawcett, and "The Three Musketeers," with Orrin Johnson.

500 NEWSPAPERS WILL USE SECOND SERIES BEATRIZ MICHELENA "TALKS"

Through arrangements just consummated with over five hundred of the leading newspapers of the United States, Beatriz Michelena, heroine of the recently produced "The Unwritten Law" and a number of other celebrated features released under the California brand, is shortly to have published her second series of "Talks With Screen Struck Girls." These talks, each of which is to be a short and poignant observation, are to appear once a week in various papers and are to run over an indefinite period of time.

Some months ago Miss Michelena completed a first series of these talks and the interest at that time created and the innumerable requests for similar advice are responsible for the present series.

Through her "Talks" Miss Michelena will have the opportunity of accomplishing much along the lines indicated in her declaration of purpose, since the circulation already assured them is about ten million.

"Australia's Unknown" from Paramount on January 10-17-24-31

AFTER forty weeks of phenomenal success with the South American Travel series, which concluding release was issued the first week of January, the Paramount Pictures Corporation, during the four weeks of January, between the time of the beginning of the Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel Pictures and the conclusion of the South American series, will release four travel subjects picturing "Australia's Unknown." The release dates are January 10-17-24-31.

The requests for these travel pictures emanate from the exhibitors themselves, with whom Paramount is in continually close touch.

The "Australia's Unknown" pictures were taken by Frank Hurley, who was the chief photographer of the Shackleton Expedition.

Beginning by auto in the heart of the city of Sydney, Australia, the exploring party continues over tilled countries, sandy wastes and barren lands. Prior to reaching their destination, "Australia's Unknown," they view on their way artesian wells of boiling water spurting forth 1,500,000 gallons each day; trains of bullocks, which with the camels, are the chief beasts of burden of the country, dragging tons of freight from the interior to the nearest railway terminus.

Other pictures show civilized natives and white men hunting wild horses; roping and branding them; the gathering of water lilies from the pods of which flour is made; unique shower baths improvised by the partially civilized blacks; the mountains made by white ants which took thousands of years to construct; the "ships of the desert" as in the Sahara clime; ranches of cattle and sheep; and the burial of natives in tree tops.

Still other phases of life in Australia are revealed in pictures of wild duck swamps, a virtual paradise for the huntsman; fights between land lizards and dogs. Thence continuing overland through tall grasses and over streams, the spectator arrives far inland, only to find the chief inhabitants, aborigines, the race of dark-skinned people that has been so rapidly dwindling since the coming of the white man.

The first release of the Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel pictures will be on February 7, which will follow "Australia's Unknown," and take the adherents of the Paramount Travel Pictures throughout the world during the coming year.

Knickerbocker Theatre Opens Under Rothapfel

Theatre After Being Closed a Week, Throws Open Its Doors with Mixed Program of Feature, Pictorial and Travel Subjects and Other Entertainment

AFTER having been closed for a week, the Knickerbocker theatre, the first run Triangle house in New York City, opened Saturday, January 15, under the management of S. L. Rothapfel. The program consisted of "Peggy," the Thomas H. Ince picture starring Billie Burke; "Because He Loved Her," a Keystone with Sam Bernard; the fourth number of the Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial and a travel number, "Rivers of France," Beacon brand, as well as a dance, executed by Hilda Biyar and a song by Ruth Freeman.

The prices have been reduced to twenty-five and fifty cents, with a few seats being held at two dollars for patrons who wish to reserve seats in advance.

The music plot for the main feature, "Peggy," was the subject of much complimentary discussion. The incidental theme, "Peggy," the lyrics of which were written by Mr. Ince, and the music by Victor Schertzinger, proved to be a catchy air.

Mr. Rothapfel's method of direction was noticeable in respect to every detail of the program's presentation. The music in its entirety was exceedingly well arranged and adapted for the pictures. The ushers had been visibly drilled along the manager's particular lines. A finger to the cap and a 'Thank You' were never forgotten.

Among the special guests at the reopening of the Knickerbocker were Billie Burke, Florence Ziegfeld, Jr., and party of thirty, Mary Pickford, Allan Dwan, Mary Boland, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barrymore, George Beban, Adolph Zukor, Mr. and Mrs. Al Jolson, H. E. Aitken, Roy Aitken, Charles Kessel, Ingalls Kimball, members of the Goelet family, owners of the theatre, Diamond Jim Brady and party, F. S. Smithers, R. H. Mainger and many others.

"JEANNE DORE" IS BOOKED FOR PROCTOR HOUSES

Blue Bird Photo Plays, Inc., announces that it has disposed to the circuit of F. F. Proctor houses the first run rights for twenty-three weeks of its first picture, "Jeanne Dore," starring Sarah Bernhardt.

Following this exclusive booking the feature will be placed on the open market through all the Blue Bird exchanges.

Proctor's Twenty-third street theatre was the first house to secure the initial release.

"Don't Blame the Pictures for Stage Failure"

Ridgley, Edison Director, Finds in Weakness of Many Speaking Dramas Now on the Boards the Reason Why People Prefer to Attend Screen Showings

"YOU hear a great deal these days," remarked Director Richard Ridgley, as he stopped in the midst of a scene, at the Edison studio, where he was putting on the last of the Kleine-Edison feature, "The Crucifixion of Phillip Strong," "about the inroads that the motion picture has made into attractions on the stage.

"Now I don't doubt this is true, but I do object to the plaint that many of the theatrical producers put up, throwing a certain onus of criticism on the photodrama, as if it were a weak substitute or an interloper that had given the stage a deadly blow.

"I am not attempting to hold any brief for pictures in this discussion, which has many angles, but an experience of mine at a New York theatre this week fully convinces me that they, the theatrical men, are either trying to throw sand in our eyes, or that they are throwing it into their own eyes and do not realize it.

"I had not been to a theatre in some little time, so I thought I would go to see a play which was getting quite a bit of notice in the New York theatres. So that I could give it full attention and enjoy it to the full, I went alone. I asked for a seat at a price that would ordinarily give me a seat downstairs. I was astonished at being directed up some several flights of stairs, to the top (nearly) of the house. It was about time to start the play. I looked down at 'the house.' 'The house' wasn't there—it looked quite like a barren waste. I guess I spoke my mind to the usher about 'prices and people.'

"The play had not been started when the usher came up to me and said that the manager wished to see me, to give me a seat downstairs. I did not know the manager, nor he know even my name, of course. It would appear that 'the house' made him nervous as to how the play was going to fare, to be so solicitous.

"As to the play itself, I can't conceive what induced them to put it on. I shall leave it unnamed. But it was by a famous dramatist whom I admire. All through the first act, the characters sat and talked and talked.

"The rest of the acts were much the same way—talk, talk. There was nothing to it as a play, although it did afford occasional chances for character acting, an actor's opportunity, not the play's.

"Despite all these very evident reasons for the apparent non-appeal and non-success of the play, I thought I would ask, as I went out, of a man who was connected with the management, the cause for the poor house. 'Oh, motion pictures!' was his reply with an air of helplessness.

"Why should motion pictures be charged with such failures when they will have the prices of admission so high, put on a play with so little appeal, and then hide behind the prestige of a great author's name, implying in their charges that the motion pictures have lowered the taste of the play-going public?"

Director Ridgley has produced two of the four five-act features so far released by Edison through the Kleine-Edison Feature Service and by their success—"The Magic Skin," and "The Destroying Angel"—may safely be spoken of as a man who knows whereof he speaks.

He is now at work on a Kleine-Edison feature, in five acts, in which Mabel Trunnelle and Robert Conness are to be featured.

"Heart Interest Is Best Element" — Horkheimer

Secretary of Balboa Declares That This Quality, Interesting Women and Children, Is Only Sound Foundation for Story of Photodrama Expected to Make a Hit

FILMDOM'S best asset is the interest of women and children. Anything that offends them in a moving picture is against the best interests of the screen.

Such are the conclusions of E. D. Horkheimer, secretary and treasurer of the company that makes the Balboa feature films, after a careful review of the subject on which the whole censorship agitation as it refers to the cinema industry, is based.

The salacious picture is short-lived and it has never been known to create a dependable clientele for any house that specializes in it.

"Heart interest is the best element," says Mr. Horkheimer, "with which to hold picture goers. It applies to the story paper as well as to the spoken drama. Just recall the novels and plays that have gone on indefinitely, like Tennyson's brook, and analyze them.

Their heart interest is what has always appealed to the multitude. In every man, woman and child there is a better nature, as represented by the heart. It can only be touched by a clean story.

"For sake of argument, it is granted that there is a certain class of persons who take some passing delight in seeing things which are not wholesome. But they are only a small part, when taken into consideration with the whole.

"And even these would hesitate to disport the same amusements before their own mothers or children—if they should be blessed with the latter. Here's an infallible test: Is it fit for your mother or your child?

"I realize that there are certain things represented in productions at times from the very best motives of the producer, which advertisers distort in order to make a sensual appeal.

Then, too, some stories, which have been written with a good motive in view, are twisted out of all semblance to the original for the purpose of pandering to the baser part of men and women. But happily, they are becoming fewer and fewer.

"'Dirty dollars are not lasting,' Mr. Horkheimer observed. "The companies that are going ahead are the ones that are putting on photoplays with a constructive viewpoint. Wholesomeness must be the keynote. Each pictureplay should point a moral.

"That does not mean we are to screen dry sermons.

"I don't agree with one theatrical producer's recent remarks that most people want nasty plays, either on the stage or on the screen. I can't think so meanly of the multitude.

The discerning film producer will eschew the pornographic, for it must in time rob him of his own self respect; and it's bad business in the long run. The exhibitor knows this since the patrons of nasty pictures are mostly fickle; while those that prefer the good and clean and wholesome are steady and dependable."

KUHN, PROMOTER OF MUTUAL ADVERTISING, JOINS MAHIN AGENCY

Paul R. Kuhn, for the past five years associated with the Nichols-Finn Advertising Company, has severed his connection with that organization to join the Mahin Advertising Company, Chicago.

Mr. Kuhn is well known in film circles, having planned and written the advertising campaigns for "The Million Dollar Mystery," "The Diamond from the Sky," "The Girl and the Game," the Chicago Tribune's Belgian war pictures and the widely advertised film, "The German Side of the War."

Recently Mr. Kuhn has given much of his attention to the interests of the Mutual Film Corporation in promoting "The Eight Million Dollar Mutual Program" and "Mutual Masterpictures, De Luxe Edition."

Ever since the motion picture industry began to break into the advertising limelight, Mr. Kuhn has been identified with its advertising activities. He has successfully applied the power of advertising to such organizations as the Mutual Film Corporation, the American Film Company, the Indian Film Company, the Syndicate Film Corporation, the North American Film Corporation and the States Film Corporation.

In his new association Mr. Kuhn will handle all the advertising for George Kleine's new motion picture novel by Rupert Hughes, in which Billie Burke and Henry Kolker will be featured.

BLUE BIRD PHOTOPLAYS OPENS NEW YORK OFFICES IN MECCA BUILDING

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., has opened executive offices on the seventh floor of the Mecca Building, 1600 Broadway, with Sol J. Berman in active charge.

One of the departments which will cooperate to the fullest degree with the exhibitor will be the publicity end of Bluebird service.

Industry Before Committee Fights Federal Censorship

(Continued from page 503.)

He combatted the remarks that suggestive films had an evil effect upon the minds of children for those of the age referred to by the ladies in their testimony could not grasp the meaning of the pictures. Some of the ladies had given the committee to understand that the reason why certain children whom they reported upon had left theatres was because of the showing of immoral films.

He referred to the "Scarlet Letter," and asked what that story would mean to a child of eight or nine years, or ten years. It would prove a very dull and uninteresting picture and the child would not like it. When the child arrives at the age of understanding and knows what the story of the scarlet letter means, if it has the right to read that book it would have the right to see the picture; they are equally licentious or equally harmless.

He stated that he had been informed by exhibitors who make a practice of showing five-reel features that the children do not visit their theatres any more. The stories are too heavy for them and they prefer the comic reels. He said it was somewhat up to the parents to look after their children.

"Safety First" for Crafts

He declared that we cannot make pictures entirely for childern any more than Congress can make laws to regulate Sunday schools; nor could pictures be made for Sunday schools or for the saloon interests.

He caused the face of Mrs. Crafts to color with pride when he paid tribute to the merits of her husband, but brought down the wrath of that lady when he explained that these merits consisted of the ability of that witness to evade answering the direct questions of the committee, and his ability to sit through a production of "Hamlet" with its three murders, without a quiver, but who shivered when witnessing a Wild West production. He said the "safety first" laws should be applied to Dr. Crafts.

Dr. Brady Makes Forceful Speech

All through these remarks, made in a most gentlemanly way, devoid of actual criticism of the manner in which the ladies had presented their case, and delivered in a well modulated voice, the ladies sat transformed. Their surprise was almost complete, but when the Rev. Dr. Cyrus Townsend Brady took the stand and complained that because of their having declared themselves as the representatives of every other person in the land, he had no one other than himself to represent. He said that it was appalling that in Washington, governed by Congress, it was impossible for the ladies to see a single decent picture and asked as to what must it be in other sections of the country.

Probably never before has the committee had the opportunity of listening to so forcible a speaker, and they appeared duly impressed when he pointed out to them that it was not good business for the manufacturers to make a bad picture; these may have a certain appeal, yet will not produce good business. Those who do the best business are those sending out the best and not the worst types. He declared that there were parts of the Bible that children could not read with profit; until they reach the years of discretion some parts are not good for them to read.

Evils of Federal Censorship

"This proposed censorship would make the Government control the amusement of the poor man," he said, "and it would discriminate against the poor man, for the motion picture is the poor man's grand opera, his golf, his club, his trip to Europe, his only recreation. I defy any of you gentlemen on the committee to mention five grand operas in which the story, if told in English, would not bring a blush of shame to your cheeks. And yet no one censors grand opera. Salome, dancing the dance of the seven veils, never worries the police. The licentious story of Carmen is never censored in grand opera, and yet in motion pictures, I am told, everything that is done on the stage is by the same person who appears in the pictures, and yet in motion pictures there is the suggestion that it should be censored. If there is a censorship it should be that of public opinion."

Dr. Brady intimated that there were other things that needed censoring far more than motion pictures and took a sly rap at Congress when he said that the body will even be censored, in fact it was censored about every two years.

"Moving pictures have already done more to elevate morals, he said, "than anything else, for it has put out of business nearly every low-down, cheap, common variety show that used to tour the country and attract the youth. And another thing it has done; it has lessened the loneliness, the lack of amusement and the monotony of the life, and to an extent that cannot be imagined, of the farmer's wife, and there has been brought to the people of the small communities, at a price within their reach, the great characters of the stage, celebrities of the great cities, the manufacturing industries, and the world itself has been brought to these people. You can establish a board of censorship, but if you do it will blot out a lot of that and there will not be as many theatres left. People will not invest their money in the motion picture industry with censorship hanging over their heads."

Dr. Brady questioned the correctness of the statements of the previous witnesses to the effect that they represented such large interests, and he asked, "What is back of it all?"

Church vs. Motion Pictures

He declared that the church is back of this desire for censorship and it would seek the protection of the laws from anything that appears undesirable to its interests. "One of the greatest American principles that we should insist upon is that the complete disassociation of the church and the State," he declared, and in concluding his case of Church vs. Motion Pictures, he pointed to the fact that where there had been 4,000 saloons in Pennsylvania there were now but 500, and motion pictures thus did what the church has been unable to do.

"The church has never been able to completely free itself of the idea that it needed and must have in some way the co-operation of the State. The church is always calling upon the State to pass laws to make men righteous when it is the business of the church to make men righteous. There is no more pernicious tendency in American institutions than the tendency of the church as an organization to come up and demand the passage of laws to do what the church itself should do.

"If the church cannot compete with motion pictures, it is losing its influence. When I have a church and find that the people are forsaking it and going to the theatres, I do not go to the State and urge the passage of a law to bring back my congregation to me; I go out after the people with the persuasive powers of the spiritual laws."

The members of the House Committee on Education are: D. M. Hughes, Danville, Georgia; Wm. W. Rucker, Keytesville, Missouri; Robert L. Doughton, Laurel Springs, North Carolina; John W. Abercrombie, Tuscaloosa, Alabama; Caleb Powers, Barboursville, Kentucky; Horace M. Towner, Corning, Iowa; Edmund Platt, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Simeon D. Fess, Yellow Springs, Ohio; Claudius U. Stone, Peoria, Illinois; John A. Key, Marion, Ohio; William J. Sears, Kissimmee, Florida; Benjamin C. Hilliard, Denver, Colorado; Frederick W. Dallinger, Cambridge, Massachusetts; S. Taylor North, Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania, and Robert M. McCracken, Boise, Idaho.

BURLEIGH AND PAUL, ENGLISH ACTORS OF RENOWN, CAST FOR PATHE'S "THE LOVE TRAIL"

IN Pathé's "The Love Trail," adapted from the very successful English novel, "The Dop Doctor," by Richard Dehan, appear two young actors—Bertram Burleigh, who plays Lord Beauvayse, and Fred Paul, who is cast for the "dop doctor."

Mr. Burleigh is only twenty-five years old and was intended for the law, but ran away from home and secured a very silent part in a road show. An accident resulted in his being given a few lines to speak.

Luck was with him, for a famous London manager saw him and hired him for a "real show." He worked up to leads in such plays as "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," "Priscilla Runs Away," "The Second in Command," and "Mogda."

Mr. Burleigh considers acting in pictures a higher art than on the stage, because the story one has to tell must be told without the aid of the voice.

Fred Paul has had years of experience as photographer, actor and producer, a happy combination for a motion picture player. He was with Cyril Maude for four years, and was stage manager for Weedon Grossmith. His London experience includes stage management at the New theatre, the Garrick, and the Playhouse.

ASHLEY MILLER A MANY-SIDED MAN

Ashley Miller, the moving picture director who is staging Arnold Daly's "Ashton Kirk, Investigator" serial is a many-sided man. He is something of an author, a good deal of an actor, and as Mr. Daly expresses it, "Some director, believe me." He is an expert swimmer, a canoeist, a yachtsman and last, but not least, the "skipper" of the houseboat Arkady.

His wife, Ethel Browning, well-remembered for her work in the support of Mrs. Fiske in "Marta of the Lowlands," is the mate of the Arkady, and bears the proud distinction of being the captain of the houseboat's tender, Arcadian. This summer, while Mr. Miller has been hard at it producing pictures, the couple have been roughing it on the Arkady safely moored at the anchorage of the Huguenot Yacht Club off New Rochelle, N. Y.

Bullock Endorses "News' " Censorship Substitute

"Ohio Is With You," He Writes, in Vigorous Support of Plan Advocated by This Magazine for Amendment to Section 245 of the Federal Penal Code

THE plan of action just outlined and advocated by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, consisting of an amendment to Section 245 of the Federal Penal Code forbidding the transportation of obscene or indecent matter by express companies or common carriers, as a substitute for censorship, has been vigorously endorsed by Sam Bullock of Cleveland, Ohio, in a letter to the NEWS.

It is here reprinted in full:

Editor MOTION PICTURE NEWS,
New York City.

Dear Sir: Your advocacy for an amendment to Section 245 of the Federal Penal Code should meet with the approval of the entire trade.

In every instance where the writer has fought censorship and its advocates they invariably admit when "cornered" that government regulation would suffice and your proposed amendment would provide for the whole nation just what we so earnestly desire—national and legal regulation without legalized censorship, with its horde of political prudes and patriotic pap suckers.

Our Federal penal code would then be applicable to all states in which "bad" pictures might be found circulating just the same as the Federal penal code is now quickly and effectively applied in all states where "bad" money is found circulating. No exhibitor, exchangeman or manufacturer would risk running foul of a government sleuth by circulating illegal pictures, and as motion pictures can only be made profitable by publicly exhibiting them, your proposed amendment should appeal very strongly to the nation's lawmakers.

You are right when you say that "Congress is emphatically disposed to regulate business as a general practice." It is so with "statesmen" of every degree from the village "burgess" to the state governors, and events of the past three years have proved that upon the question of "regulation" as applied to pictures some governors are as "nutty" as a village burgess.

Your state and national lawmaker feels that he is elected to make some kind of laws. Very few of them have studied the question of censorship. "Bad" pictures are being discussed everywhere by their constituents "back home," and though they will admit they never see any themselves, they tell you "I see no reason why moving pictures should not be regulated like other business."

A Senator from Cleveland made that very statement last April to the writer at a public hearing in City Hall, though he admitted that he was a movie fan and "had never seen a bad picture yet." He added, "If not legalized national censorship what have you to offer?"

On with the amendment and down with legalized censorship. Ohio is with you.

SAM BULLOCK, Cleveland, O.

No Need for Federal Censorship, Says Freuler

Existing Laws More Than Ample to Safeguard Public Against Any Possible Abuses of Motion Pictures' Rights of Publication, Is the View of Mutual President

"THERE are many reasons why persons concerned in or identified with the motion picture industry should be opposed to censorship, but there are certain fundamental reasons why every citizen should fight censorship, whether it appears as a menace to our free press, our free speech or motion pictures," says John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation.

"Nothing but indolent neglect on the part of the people makes any censorship of the picture possible.

"It is my sincere belief that no existing laws or ordinances of censorship for motion pictures are constitutional. If they are the Constitution ought to be revised.

"Yet even now the annual effort to put a national censorship law through our national legislature is under way.

"It is my contention that the enforcement of the existing laws is more than ample to safeguard the public against any possible abuses of the motion picture's rights of publication.

"When a man desires to publish a pamphlet, a book, a tract, a newspaper or a handbill he is not under our present system required to submit his copy to some board of censors or judges who shall determine whether or not it shall be permitted to be cast into type. If he does, however, publish matter that is obscene, immoral, indecent, treasonable, or otherwise dangerous to society he can be punished by process of law. To that condition of regulation, and to no other, will the motion picture submit.

"Frankly I do not believe that there is to be found anywhere any considerable amount of disinterested sincerity among those who agitate for the censorship of the motion picture. There are of course not a few persons in every community who desire to regulate the life of everybody in it, who yearn to tend to everybody's business, who must be fussing about something. Admitting the misguided sincerity of these few—are their desires for millenial perfection to be permitted to undermine human liberty?

"I know of no body of city or state censors now operating under existing laws which has not been embroiled in situations which have raised questions over its sincerity of purpose. There is no such thing as intelligent censorship."

MacFadden Health Culture Exercises New in Films

Universal Expected That "Building Up the Health of a Nation" Will Prove Helpful in Spreading Knowledge of Best Methods for Obtaining Robust Condition

THE "Building Up the Health of a Nation" series which exhibit the noted physical culturist, Bernarr MacFadden in poses and exercises for the benefit of the human body, is considered by the Universal Company, its producers, to be a new departure in the film world.

Mr. MacFadden has never appeared before the camera, and physical culturists have been overly prominent in screen work. Mr. MacFadden has long since enjoyed wide notoriety and popularity, due to his health teachings in The Physical Culture Magazine. Articles bearing his signature are now being run in this widely circulated monthly in conjunction with the pictures for which he is posing.

Special heralds have been prepared by Universal for this instructive series, featuring Mr. MacFadden prominently. The pictures, released bi-monthly in split reel form, contain various lessons for building up the body.

An interesting fact in connection with Mr. MacFadden is that many of the moving picture stars of the present day are graduates and students of his theories.

Alan Holubar, of the Eastern Universal Company, is directing these pictures, and to date has shown Mr. MacFadden to every possible advantage. The camera is well placed, the scenes well arranged and the lighting effectively attended to. The films are released as Powers subjects.

FOX CONSIGNMENT OF CAMELS ASTONISHES NEW YORKERS

The curious who happened to be near Forty-eighth street and Madison avenue, New York City, around ten o'clock one day recently, thought a circus had become mixed-up in its dates and that spring had arrived, when ten camels accompanied by a Howdah in full Arabian costume were led from a private car.

The camels were a consignment from winter quarters at Bridgeport, Conn., shipped to the William Fox Film Corporation, to be used in a picture being taken in Kingston, Jamaica, British West Indies, in which Annette Kellermann is being starred under the direction of Herbert Brenon.

The camels were headed for Pier No. 1, North River, where the steamer Sorteduero, which had been chartered, was awaiting to take them to Kingston, after having been diverted from Port Antonio.

Screen Examinations

"THE STRANGE CASE OF MARY PAGE"

(Essanay-First Chapter—Two Parts)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

AN insatiable villain constantly crossing the path of two lovers furnishes a situation sufficiently exciting to open a serial and perform the necessary function of stimulating the interest for further instalments to come.

"The Strange Case of Mary Page" goes even a step farther than that. The villain is killed, ostensibly by the heroine and subsequently she vanishes and leaves no trace of herself.

With such a mysterious ending and with such a triangular situation carried throughout the two reels, this foremost chapter of Essanay's serial does all that an opening number can do and ever does, in a style that leaves little room for improvement.

Henry Walthall appearing as Philip Langdon, the young attorney in love with Mary Page, gives a polished performance.

None of his opportunities are too insignificant for him to disregard. He centers his abilities on every scene, and the result is a finished characterization of a part that would otherwise appear shallow.

Edna Mayo as Mary Page acts very well, save in one or two closeups when her emotional bits seem slightly overdone.

Miss Mayo besides acting and looking pretty, wears a varied selection of costumes, including an evening wrap the replica of which has never seen either sun or electric light.

The heavy is Sydney Ainsworth and the theatrical manager is nicely played by Harry Dunkinson. Others are Frankie Raymond, William Chester, Miss Valli, Frank Hamilton and Arthur Bates.

Mary Page is an actress engaged to Langdon. The angel back of the show is envious of the young lawyer and time and again makes advances toward the girl but to no avail. The first performance is a great success and a dinner is arranged afterwards.

By a trick, the angel Pollock lures Mary into a private room and there attacks her. A shot rings out over the building and the guests entering discover that Pollock is dead and Mary half unconscious beside him.

For only a moment the dead man and the girl are left alone and the next instant the detective and her lover return to discover that the girl has disappeared.

J. Charles Haydon has used effective methods of direction. His theatre scenes are real, and the back stage atmosphere, always attractive to the uninitiated, is very good. The method of showing the effect of the shot in the hotel by having people in every room start and run is excellent.

Frederick Lewis is the author of the stories. The Photographic effects, including those introduced in the auditorium of the theatre, are entire effective.

"THE MISLEADING LADY"

(Essanay—V-L-S-E—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

THIS subject is an excellent vehicle for Henry Walthall. There are a number of excellent actors now appearing on the screen, some of them essentially screen actors, and others successful stage actors who have been made over, but we seriously doubt if any of them excels Walthall in depth, quality and versatility, or as a pleasing and sympathetic figure.

He commands and holds the sympathy, with little regard to the character he presents, and in the "Misleading Lady" he has occasion to use this quality to its fullest power.

The picture is quite a literal translation of the play, by Charles W. Goodard and Paul Dickey, which registered a success on Broadway in 1913, and later "went big" on tour all over the country.

In fact, so literally has the play been moved to the screen that there are at least two characters brought into prominence who really have no reason for appearing at all in the picture version. However, they do not hold up the action appreciably, and they form diversions which are useful constructively.

Mr. Walthall portrays a popular young explorer, who returns from Patagonia in time to join a fashionable house party. Before he appears, Helen Steele, a member of the party, makes a bet that she can get him to propose to her before her fiance, a powerful financier, arrives.

She "goes after" the explorer so successfully that he proposes, then the other members of the party jump out of their hiding places and congratulate her. The young explorer, realizing that he has been made sport of, leaves the party. On his parting with Helen she tells him he has much to learn of women, and should try the "Patagonian method" of stealing a woman, and studying her at his leisure.

He immediately acts on her advice, steals her and carries her off in his automobile to his mountain bungalow, where he chains her in a room and makes notes of her moods. She saves herself after knocking him senseless with a telephone, and after her fiance and others have arrived in pursuit of her, and have left again, she returns to see if the explorer has recovered from his wound. They fall into each others arms.

ILLUSTRATING "THE STRANGE CASE OF MARY PAGE," THE ESSANAY SERIAL, IN WHICH HENRY B. WALTHILL AND EDNA MAYO ARE FEATURED

Edna Mayo is acceptable as Helen Steele, and exhibits some gorgeous and becoming gowns. In fact, the mounting of the entire piece is faultless, and most of the scenes are attractive.

THE TRAP IS SET

The cast is completed by Sydney Ainsworth, Edward Arnold, Harry Dunkinson, John Junior, John H. Cossar, Frances Raymond, Charles J. Stine, Grant Mitchell and Renee Clemmons. Some pleasing work is also contributed by young women whose names are not furnished.

"BETRAYED"

(Thanhouser-Mutual Masterpicture—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

STRONG situations with logically worked out action, and of good dramatic quality, combine to lift a somewhat threadbare theme out of the rut, and make of it an acceptable picture. Although there is much of the obvious in the unfolding of this plot, there is a touch of real poetry and humanity, which is attractive.

The piece is well cast. Grace de Carlton is an appealing and sincere figure as an Indian girl, the product of modern civilization, and Robert Whittier gives a strong and forceful picture of her brother, a young college student. For the rest, there is Gladys Leslie, of ingenue type, and as pretty as seventy feet of lilacs, and Roy Pilcher, who plays a polite and refined young villain.

VISITORS AT THE RESERVATION

The drama is not a "western." It is located in an Indian reservation in New York State; the young Indian leaves his little sister and people and goes away to college, where he makes his mark as student and athlete, and becomes popular. He meets and falls in love with the sister of a fellow student, but finds her engaged to a young millionaire.

Then the Indian girl wins a scholarship, and joins her brother at college. She immediately attracts the attention of her brother's fellow student and the following winter finds the young man and his sister up at the reservation, inspecting a piece of land they have inherited.

The young man carries the Indian girl away to a cabin on this estate, and there her brother finds them the next morning. He binds the young man, goes and gets his sister, and threatens to treat her in the same manner in which his sister has been treated.

Then the Indian girl appears, and in the presence of her brother, the man who has betrayed her, and his sister, she kills herself.

Overcome with his sorrow, the Indian abandons his plan for revenge and sends the white people away. These last scenes are taken up in the snow covered woods, most of them are very attractive.

There is a little discrepancy in the showing of the rowing races at College; the races, evidently films from the library, show the crews skimming over summer waters, but the flashes of the spectators show them shivering in wintry air, with frozen breaths. These scenes are short and may not impress the average beholder.

"BILL PETERS' KID"

(Vitagraph Broadway Star Feature—Three Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

THIS is one of the most human pictures we have seen in some time. Its plot is not new. There is nothing pretentious about it. Its very simplicity wins your interest, and keeps it, chiefly because of the acting of Mary Anderson.

Miss Anderson is Winnie Peters, a wild, untamed child of the desert, who stamps on flowers, murders rabbits, and otherwise conducts herself in a refreshingly uncivilized way.

PROTECTING THE KID

Along comes Dick Stowell, who has been sent out from the East to superintend the Gila mine. Winnie begins to have doubts about herself, and of course ends by falling in love with Dick, but not until, after a term at school, she makes him get down on his knees and admit that he does like little girls who stamp on flowers, murder rabbits, and visit the rooms of a strange man, as Winnie had done once, out of entirely innocent curiosity.

This child of the desert is made natural and convincing by Miss Anderson. Her acting gives distinct promise, if she can retain the ease of expression she shows in this offering. Her support is satisfactory, William Duncan, William Bainbridge and Fred Behrle being the other principals.

Rollin S. Sturgeon, the director, deserves credit for producing a Western subject much above the average. He chose his locations well, many of the scenes having desert backgrounds of wide sweep.

The action moves with a fair degree of rapidity. Several incidental touches, such as close-ups of Winnie with her favorite pet, a horned frog, help to create the proper atmosphere, as well as to interpret character.

YOUR MONEY BACK IF NOT PLEASED

$1.00 FOR 10 WEEKS OF WID'S INDEPENDENT REVIEWS OF FEATURES

FOLLOW THE ARROW!

READ THAT OFFER CAREFULLY, MR. EXHIBITOR

That's putting it up to you—man to man. "Wid's" has grown quietly but rapidly for five months. It has won success through merit. "Wid's" is written for the readers. In another six months I expect to have practically all of the exhibitors of the country as subscribers.

I want you—now!

I do not insist that I'm always right—but—in "Wid's" you get the honest opinion of one man on all the features. To determine the real value of a feature it is a great advantage to be able to read the judgments of one man who sees all the features and so make COMPARISONS. That is an important point! Think it over a minute!

Even though you have contracted to play all of a certain company's releases—you want to know which ones will stand heavy advertising.

You may remember me from my work as advertising and sales manager of ECLAIR. Three years ago I edited the ECLAIR BULLETIN under the name of "ME." I have had practical—not theoretical—practical experience as an exhibitor—in both small towns and cities—experience as advertising and sales manager, film cutter, producer, and a year at the N. Y. EVENING MAIL specializing as a critic of features, establishing the first successful film department in a New York City daily. I have had an unusual opportunity to study the film business from every angle.

Now, don't say to yourself—"That's fine, I'll write Wid tomorrow."

Do it now—Tomorrow you might forget it.

I want to show you—now!

Wid Gunning

ADDRESS ME
TIMES BUILDING, N. Y. CITY

"WID"

MAKE ALL CHECKS PAYABLE TO WID GUNNING TIMES BLDG. N.Y. CITY

To all Road Men for Exchanges

I have an interesting proposition to make any man calling on more than a hundred exhibitors regularly. Write me about it.

Read on the next page what men who have sent "five for a year" say

YOUR MONEY BACK IF NOT PLEASED

$1.00 FOR 10 WEEKS OF WID'S INDEPENDENT REVIEWS OF FEATURES

READ WHAT THESE MEN SAY

They Sent "Five"—They're Pleased

There are hundreds like them—Join the "Happy Family"

R. J. CLARK, Empress Theatre, Missoula, Mont.
"Wid's" is one of the cleverest things of its kind ever gotten up, and meets a long felt want of the higher type of exhibitor. I will take great pleasure in referring my friends to your magazine.

G. H. FOSTER, Marion Photoplay Co., Marion, Ohio.
After reading two sample copies of your "Films and Film Folk," I find myself "falling" for the most intelligent feature reviews I have ever read. Start me with No. 1.

F. L. STANNARD, Mgr., Gem Theatre, Wenatchee, Wash.
I think "Wid's" great. What we need is some honest opinion and you certainly are giving it to us. Keep up the good work.

E. O'KEEFE, Regent Theatre Co., Billings, Mont.
We look forward to "Wid's" each week with great eagerness. It is the best guide for exhibitors we have yet struck. Your publication is by far the most reliable for us. We wouldn't be without a single issue of "Wid's" for anything. I enclose herewith several names of friends of mine who I am sure would like your publication and would take it, if they have not already done so. Wishing you success in your splendid undertaking.

JAMES Q. CLEMMER, Clemmer Theatre, Seattle, Wash.
Knowing your reputation as the leading critic in this big country and needing just such criticisms as you give, I am enclosing check to cover a year's subscription on "Wid's." I consider your unbiased criticisms invaluable. The Clemmer Theatre usually plays the biggest features and we are prone to listen to a real authority.

CARMACK & BOWER, Olympic Theatre Co., Pocatello, Idaho.
We are very well pleased with your dope on features and look forward to each issue.

RALPH R. RUFFNER, Liberty Theatre, Spokane, Wash.
Your style is infectious and we hope we are not taking advautage of you by guaranteeing a continuation of "Wid's" when we send Five Iron Men along.

H. A. SIMS, Liberty Theatre, Salt Lake City, Utah.
We find "Wid's" very useful. I consider your publication to be something that the exhibitors have been in need of for a long, long time. I believe what the picture industry needs today is a fearless publication along your line.

L. G. ROESNER, Colonial Amusement Co., Winona, Minn.
Your publication deserves a large following. Have boosted to all my friends in this locality.

F. J. McWILLIAMS, Casino Theatre, La Crosse, Wis.
Let's have 'em all from Sept. 9th. We might miss something good otherwise.

V. B. VALLEAU, Broadway Theatre, Albert Lea, Minn.
My first two second glance at "Wid's" convinced me that I could no longer do business without it. It's the best ever and I hasten to send you my check for one year to begin with No. 1. See that we do not miss a single week in the future. Otherwise it would "bust up the show."

T. GUY PERFECT, Huntington Motion Picture Co., Huntington, Ind.
Your criticisms seem to be just what we are looking for.

GEO. J. WARREN, Tepee Theatre, Red Cloud, Neb.
Sure I want "Wid's" and from Number 1. Success to your new enterprise for your reviews are sure, reliable and indispensable to the exhibitor using features.

L. A. DeHOFF, New Theatre, Baltimore, Md.
It is just the article the exhibitor needs and the sooner he begins to realize it the better. Wish you to mail the latest issue to the following and you have the liberty of using my name at any time that it will benefit the circulation of your work.

O. J. SYBERT, C. & M. Amusement Co., Marietta, Ohio.
I wish to say that "Wid's" is the most popular publication that comes to our desk. We look forward to it and are always ready to consult "Wid's." The solution is that he is always invariably right.

FRED H. WOODYATT, Bio Theatre, Moline, Ill.
We have become very much interested in "Wid's." It looks mighty good to us.

N. I. WALKEN, Columbus Theatre, New Kensington, Pa.
I look over the same issue at least several times, not because I wish to refer to who turned out the best picture, but more particularly because it is such interesting material.

D. FILIZOLA, Theaterette, Fort Scott, Kans.
Add my name to your list of "Wid's" Boosters. I think it is the best little advice producer in the business.

O. B. CLEVELAND, Lyric Show Co., Lebanon, Tenn.
.....If you will write the following gentlemen you will probably secure their subscription for your very valuable weekly. We believe in it.

TALI ESEN MORGAN, Mgr. Auditorium, Ocean Grove, N. J., formerly Mgr. Broadway Theatre, N. Y. City.
Permit me to express to you my deepest appreciation of the splendid work you are doing. I have followed your reviews closely for the past year and, in almost every case, I have agreed very thoroughly with your views on the pictures, most of which, as you know, I have seen.

W. L. HOLT, Managing Owner, National Theatre, Lynchburg, Va.
Take it from me, you are the "real thing." I devour your "Films and Film Folk" and every statement, remark, suggestion and criticism you make is TRUE. Thank you, you are "the goods."

S. L. ROTHAPFEL, Mgr., New Rialto Theatre, N. Y. City, Original Mgr. Director of Strand, N. Y.
Have always found your criticisms to be thoroughly reliable and written with a great deal of ability. Honest criticism of motion pictures is a very rare article, and I do not hesitate in saying that I think your criticisms are usually among those I seek first. I wish there were more in the film business like you.

S. H. FRIEDLANDER, Empire Theatre, Los Angeles, Cal.
You have struck the "keynote." No exhibitor should do without your clever journal of review. It is what I have been seeking for a long, long time. I am "with you" and wish you success and shall preserve every issue of "Wid's" for reference.

THOMAS FURNISS, Brunswick Amusement Co., Duluth, Minn.
I have always found you sincere in giving "constructive" criticism. Any one can write that a film is fine, good, bad or rotten, but there has never before been any one to my knowledge in the film world who gave such "constructive" criticism as yours. You tell "why" the film is good, bad or indifferent and that makes all the difference in the world. You see things as the man behind the box office has to see them. You have done more for me than if I had a man paying him a hundred a week to look at films, because I think the training you have had is worth many hundred a week. There are really few absolutely capable judges of films from the viewpoint of the exhibitor.

B. A. ROLFE, Mng. Director Strand Theatre, N. Y. City; Pres. B. A. Rolfe Photoplays, Inc.
You are known everywhere through the excellence of your work and your competence as a critic.

C. A. HOWE, Regent Theatre, Riverside, Cal.
Just what I have been waiting for. Success to you.

"WID"

MAKE ALL CHECKS PAYABLE TO WID GUNNING TIMES BLDG. N.Y. CITY

GLIMPSES OF THEDA BARA IN HER NEWEST PHOTOPLAY: "THE SERPENT," WHICH WAS DIRECTED BY RAOUL A. WALSH, AND WILL SHORTLY BE RELEASED BY WILLIAM FOX

"THE PATH OF HAPPINESS"

(Red Feather—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

ELAINE STERNE, author of the production which happens to be the first of the Red Feather brand, has written a very pretty romance, and it has been handled to good effect.

Miss Sterne has paid special attention to detail, local, color, human interest touches, and the careful delineation of her principal character, Joan, an unsophisticated, wild girl of the backwoods.

Joan is indeed a most attractive personality. She sings with the birds and fondles a pair of little puppies, she wonders at the origin of an inanimate doll and when she receives her first kiss she runs wildly away through the woods.

What is more, Joan goes bathing in a lake, unhampered by clothing, just as nature intended her to.

Violet Mersereau has fitted herself to this attractive role in a manner that leaves no room for improvement. She dominates the majority of the scenes, and with her vivacity and complete air of innocence she makes a fascinating figure of Joan.

Miss Sterne has in fact created a lasting character, ably interpreted by Miss Mersereau, but the author has paid little attention to plot, evidently intending to let Joan carry the picture of herself.

To a certain extent this is the result, but there are times when the ambling nature of the action becomes tiresome. It is not Miss Mersereau's fault for she is better than we have ever known her to be, but the story does not give her quite enough support in carrying the interest.

In other respects Miss Sterne's offering calls for praise. There is the unsophisticated country girl and there is no betraying or unhappiness; there is a quarrel between two men and not a blow is struck, and when the city man is disillusioned by his first fiancee he produced no pistol from the desk drawer. In this way does the picture justify its title.

Harry Benham makes a very nice hero of Merrill, the city man, and Sydney Bracey carries the character role of Grekko, a hunchback in love with Joan, in convincing fashion. Others are Florence Crawford, Joseph Phillips, Dorothy and Leland Benham.

The all important matters of photography and locations have been attended to in appropriate style. The exteriors, for instance, show careful selection and furnish the desired atmosphere of the backwoods to a marked degree.

The story tells how Merrill, a business man, broken down by hard work and forsaken by his fiancee comes to the country to recuperate. Here he meets Joan and in time they become greatly attached to one another.

Grekko, Joan's adopted brother, interferes out of jealousy, and the finale produces a certain amount of suspense when the hunchback attempts to kill his formidable rival.

His shot reaches Joan instead, but she recovers and the two lovers are left to resume an unmolested career on the Path of Happiness.

"TOM MARTIN—A MAN"

(Selig—Three Reels)

REVIEWED BY WILLIAM C. ESTY 2nd

MOST Selig fans know Guy Oliver as a suave, cynical heavy, or as a light-weight society character. This vehicle, in which he has the title role, presents him in a totally different part, and one that he interprets with surprising power. The supporting cast, consisting of Vivian Reed, Lillian Hayward, Al Filson, and Fred Hearne, is adequate.

At the end of the second reel the hero proves his valor and wins the girl, and the villain is discredited. This at first seems to be the logical ending of the drama, but the third reel introduces complications that bring about a tense and tragic finale. Although the closing scenes are grewsome, they give Guy Oliver an opportunity for some of his most compelling work.

Tom Martin, the village blacksmith, is in love with Mary Brandon, and they are engaged. When Gordon is engaged to teach the district school, he boards with the Brandon family, and Mary begins to get interested in him. One day a mad dog attacks a crowd of school children, and Gordon's craven heart prompts him to run away. Martin kills the dog, but not before he has received several bites.

He cauterizes these at his forge, but he is infected with rabies. Realizing that he is going mad, he forges a chain, and fastens himself to a timber, so that he may not injure anybody in his delirium. Mary, completely won back by his bravery, goes to his shop, only to find him in the frightful convulsions of hydrophobia.

QUEBEC EXHIBITORS LEAGUE HOLDS BANQUET ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Toronto, Jan. 15.

THE Exhibitors' League of Quebec held a most successful banquet on New Year's Eve at which the general good feeling and unity of the industry in eastern Canada was greatly increased and fortified.

But theatres and exchanges were well represented and the speeches were both frequent and brilliant. George Nicholas, managing-director of the Independent Amusement Company, and Mr. McMahon, secretary-treasurer of the same company, were particularly to the front in this respect, while Messrs. Bell, of the World Film, and Spardacus, of the Fairyland theatre, contributed a few remarks.

The toast of "Our King and Country" was responded to by Mr. Byerlie, and the toast to the "ladies" by Mr. Taube, both gentlemen representing the Universal Company.

C. B. Price, general manager of the Mutual Company in Canada; Mr. Slessinger, of the Francais theatre; Mr. Hirsch, of the Tivoli theatre; Mr. Kaufman, of the Famous Players Company; and Mr. Hepworth, of the Mutual Company, were among those who took a prominent part in the proceedings.

"MY LADY INCOG"

(Famous Players—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY WILLIAM RESSMAN ANDREWS

HAZEL DAWN is seen in a detective comedy drama in "My Lady Incog." The action of the plot does not get in full swing until near the end of the first reel, but everything goes along with so much vigor from then on that interest in the story is maintained to the end without lagging. The sets, with the Florida background, cannot help to give the picture an air of sylvan novelty.

Nell Carroll is a Southern belle who suddenly finds that her property is heavily mortgaged, and poverty stares her in the face. At the suggestion of her lawyer she enters the employ of a detective agency, on the lookout for the right person to send to the wealthy Palm Beach colony in Florida for the purpose of discovering the perpetrator of a series of daring robberies in that exclusive social community.

She is introduced to the members of the colony as the Baroness Du Vassey, and very soon becomes the object of affection of Teddy De Veaux. The private detective at the hotel where Nell first stays learns of her real object. In reality he is a member of the gang of crooks he is supposed to help protect the hotel guests against. He warns his confederates.

The man who does the actual robbery plans to checkmate the activities of the girl detective by a trick, and make her return North. He represents himself as the "Baron Du Vassey" on the night of the first social function Nell attends at the home of the De Veaux.

This leads to embarrassing complications with the heir of the house, who had proposed to the girl, and now wonders why she had allowed him to declare himself if she already had a husband. Overcome with chagrin at her predicament, the girl steals from the house that night and returns to New York. The "Baron" is caught in the act of robbing the De Veaux safe and is put under arrest with his confederate by the local police.

When Nell Carroll, desperate from her failure to earn enough money to pay off the interest of the mortgage, goes to her lawyer for further advice, he tells her to ask for more time from the man who holds the mortgage, as he had just come up from Palm Beach and was then in the office.

To her amazement she sees in him Teddy De Veaux, who had gone North, after her unceremonious flight, in search of her, and all ends happily.

Sidney Olcott showed better directing skill in the later part of the picture than in the first, but evidently he did his best with the scenario given him to work upon. Miss Dawn's acting will make the audience forget, however, any discrepancies in the earlier episodes. As the story is wholesome and contains many amusing comedy scenes, no one will notice the few slow moments in the first reel.

Robert Cain was good as Teddy De Veaux and Frank Wunderlee gave an interesting character in Bull Rice, the fictitious detective.

"HER DEBT OF HONOR"

(Columbia-Metro—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

WHEN this picture is dissected and each essential element that is prominent is judged by itself, there is much to say concerning its merit. William Nigh, for instance, gives a wonderfully expressive performance in the role of the degenerate half-breed, Olin Varcoe. He looks the part and his acting defines the character as feeble-minded, lustful, yet withal a little sorrowful, to a lasting degree of strength.

And then the photography furnished by Nigh's cameraman abounds in light effects of a rare quality. Rays of light strike just one spot in the scene, the characters move across the spot, perhaps only their legs, or a quick view of their faces, is obtained, yet withal the action is significant. Subdued backgrounds have in many instances been employed with equally good effect.

Again, there is a fight. Fights are no uncommon thing in pictures of today, but the fight between Nigh and William Davidson is wonderful because of its realism and the state of mind that the two men are in, when it comes about. Nigh's bones must be wondrously strong, for he is thrown ten feet to the hard floor.

The acting other than Nigh's is praiseworthy. Valli Valli as Marian Delmar gives a most expressive account of herself. Davidson as Hartfield, the lover, does good work, and Frank Bacon and Mrs. Brundage in character parts perform creditably. Others are J. H. Goldsworthy, Ilean Hume, Frank Montgomery, David H. Thompson, R. A. Breese and Jack Murray.

As a whole, "Her Debt of Honor" fails to measure up to its individual, particular merits. The story is a mystery intentionally so at first, but its complications are too manifold to permit of clear understanding.

It resolves itself finally into a characterization of a degenerate rendered by Nigh. His is a weird character, futuristic, uncanny, yet pitiable. His numerous attacks on the girl, Marian, will not be enjoyed by those who frown on anything connected with sex.

The story takes up Marian, an artiste, who is receiving an income from a man unknown to her. She resolves to discover his reasons for supporting her, and enlists as his nurse when he starts to see his "mother." This Varcoe is utterly ruined by riotous living and his "mother" is shocked with him.

But papers are discovered, and Varcoe discovers that his real mother was an Indian. He attempts to take liberties with Marian, who has discovered that Varcoe's father has robbed her father, but at length Hartfield interferes. The fight is terrific, but it remains for another Indian, whose daughter Varcoe had wronged, to do the killing of the degenerate.

Again we must speak of a distinct merit. The locations are fine. The Canadian border is the locale for the greater part of the action, and the old house employed gives an impressive air of gruesomeness to the story itself, which certainly warrants such an atmosphere.

"HIS VINDICATION"

(Cosmofotofilm—Four Reels)

REVIEWED BY WILLIAM RESSMAN ANDREWS

"HIS VINDICATION" is a clean, clear-cut melodrama, free from any taint of "the sex problem." The story goes along in a whirl of exciting incidents, all developed with pleasing consistency, with the possible exception of the son's failure to recognize his father on the latter's return after a ten years' absence.

However, the succession of surprises the producer has managed to put in the story for the delectation of the spectator, holds the interest and disarms criticism. The various big scenes which bring out the ruling trait of the various characters are provided for by the introduction earlier in the plot of fitting incidents. Consequently nothing is sprung on one's attention with a disconcerting abruptness.

The son's love of card-playing for high stakes is an example of the careful construction observed by the scenario writer. As a lad the son sees his father and his guests sit late over their game in the library, and instead of staying in bed, goes to the servants' hall and insists upon playing poker with one of the footmen.

This comes in the first reel, without at first apppearing to have any excuse for its being. But in the last reel we see the young man, ten years later, an inveterate gambler, upon whose ruling passion the logical development of the plot depends. For, in a card game at the same table, in the same part of the room where the lad's uncle was murdered years before, a scene is enacted which enables the father, escaped from penal servitude for the alleged murder of his brother, to detect the real murderer.

As two country squires sit at a table in the village inn, a stranger claims acquaintance, introducing himself as "Captain" Haverleigh. They invite him to dinner, and a game of cards is proposed after the meal. Haverleigh feigns drunkenness, and for the purpose of proving an alibi, makes sure that on his way back to his quarters in the inn he is seen by a number of persons.

Later he disguises himself, drops from the inn window, and goes back to the home of his host. He is detected in the act of robbing one of the brothers, but throttles him and manages to escape. Because a servant had overheard high words between the brothers, George Faulkner is accused of the crime.

The picture shows many glimpses of country inns and the types of village frequenters of sanded-floor tap-rooms. The scenes in the quaint inn, apparently at least a hundred years old, will be of particular interest to American audiences as they reveal phases of life with which we are totally unacquainted. There is the fat old landlord, rotund of paunch from frequent imbibing of his home-brewed ale; the sly poacher who steals in and sits quietly in a high-backed settle before the open fire. He sits and sips some of the jolly landlord's best until the appearance of a friend, when he stealthily draws from the inner recesses of his coat the furry and feathery spoils he has succeeded in getting past the eye of the squire's gamekeeper.

TWO SCENES FROM "FALSE COLORS," CHAPTER 6 OF PATHE'S "THE RED CIRCLE," AND A SCENE FROM "HAZEL KIRKE"

"THE TRAIL OF THE WILD WOLF"

(Imp-Universal—Two Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

THIS first two-reel production written and staged by Robert Hill, gives credit to Universal for placing confidence in his directorial ability. It is truly an excellent two-reel subject, bordering on the melodramatic in a few of its phases, yet possessing a power to convince.

Commencing with a situation that creates a strong portion of suspense. it continues with incident after incident working up to an effective climax.

It is a simple story and it is told directly, with the utmost simplicity and yet it is pictured in such an intelligent manner that it fascinates throughout its length.

There are little touches here and there during the two reels, that count much toward the logic of the picture, instilling realism where it is necessary and aiding the suspense to a marked degree.

We sincerely hope that in the future Robert Hill will give us more such pictures. Simplicity of story, no double exposures, fadeouts, or flashbacks—the effect produced by these last omissions is in the present case admirable.

The cast has aided Mr. Hill generally in meritorious fashion. Edith Roberts, vivacious, bright, petite, black haired and clever, as the old trapper's younger daughter, creates a character that captivates.

THE WOLF DISTURBS THE TRAPPER'S HOME

Sydell Dowling as the other daughter, though not fitting any too well into the story's atmosphere, performs her part with sincerity.

Paul Panzer as her lover is a fine type and a good player, while Frank Smith as the father and Willis Clark as the "Wolf" complete the well rounded cast.

The story tells in simple terms how The Wolf attempts to make off with the older daughter of the old trapper. Pursued and overtaken by the lover of the girl he is forced to fight and is no match for the stalwart hero.

The fight incidentally is executed with skill. It is realistic and not repelling. Hill evidently wanted to put on a good fight, and we presume he bothered little about surpassing the one in "The Spoilers," the thorn in the side of so many ambitious producers.

The scenes, filmed while the ground was covered with snow add the necessary atmosphere, while the few settings that appear are good. The photography is likewise of a fine variety. In fact, "On the Trail of the Wolf" is a two-reeler that can deservedly be featured.

"JUST FROM SWEDEN"

(Gold Seal-Universal—Three Reels)

REVIEWED BY PETER MILNE

WHETHER "Just from Sweden" be the title under which this three-reeler goes out to Universal exhibitors, or whether it will be twisted into "Yust fram Sveden," affects its quality not in the least, for in it Bob Leonard once more offers himself in his popular role of The Boob.

However, the picture in hand is not much like his last production, "The Boob's Victory," for that excellent two-reeler was practically entirely comical. "Just from Sweden" is a molodrama that offers comedy as a side issue, just enough, in fact, to balance the picture in desirable style.

Leonard's brainless expression when essaying a Boob's part is quite in a class by itself. He acts his part skilfully and as an instance of this we cite his encounter with the foreman of the lumber camp and the interpreter.

When the latter speaks his face lights up with understanding and comprehension, but when the over-zealous foreman puts in a word he immediately takes on the vacant, "I think you're crazy" stare. Such moments as these are, too, the chief ones that create the comedy.

Ella Hall, this time appearing as his wife, acts equally as well. Her expressions vary as do Leonard's and in appearance she makes an attractive opposite for the burly star. Rex De Rosselli is a very melodramatic villain, while others are Marc Robbins and Duke Worne.

The story opens with the arrival of the Swedish pair in America. A reel later they are installed in a northern lumber camp and the foreman is turning envious eyes toward the wife. The Big Swede is his enemy from first to last and the foreman attempts to incriminate him before their employer, but his plans, though not nipped in the bud, are frustrated in the end and the Swede is promoted to the foreman's job.

Leonard's photographer, Mr. Irish, has as usual furnished clear camera work, aided by excellent light and shadow effects when the action shifts to the forest.

The atmosphere of the lumber camp is well conveyed, save for the scenes in which Leonard is seen hewing away at giant trees, not handling his axe in very experienced fashion.

SPECIAL MEETING OF SCREEN CLUB COMMITTEES IN PITTSBURGH CALLED FOR JANUARY 23

A SPECIAL meeting of the various committees of the Pittsburgh Screen Club has been called for Sunday, January 23, in the rooms of the organization in the Cameraphone building, Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh.

There is a number of important matters to come before the membership committee, and the matter of completing the plans for the holding of the big ball in Motor Square Garden is also coming up for discussion. The ball is to be held on the evening of February 14.

The committees in charge of the decorations will make a report at the meeting on Sunday, January 23.

"THE RANSOM"

(Triumph-Equitable—Five Reels)

REVIEWED BY OSCAR COOPER

"THE RANSOM" is a story of the stage and therefore draws upon a source of dramatic material which seems to be increasingly attractive to makers of photoplays. It is also a picture with a "punch," and although the "punch" is built up in the last few hundred feet, and is preceded by action which drags perceptibly at times, it is effective when it finally does arrive.

The plot takes a mother from her home in the country to the glitter of city life, where she attempts to become an actress. She is a failure, and, taking the line of least resistance, becomes the mistress of a theatrical man.

Years afterward, her daughter comes to the city, succeeds on the stage, and engages her mother, who has sunk to the lowest depths, as her maid. The mother conceals her identity.

THE MOTHER'S APPEAL

When the theatrical man attempts to lead the daughter into evil ways, the mother "ransoms" her by killing him, and dies without revealing who she is.

In pleasing contrast to the sordid, almost dismal tone of much of the picture, a wholesome love story is introduced near the end. In the earlier scenes also life's sunnier moments have their innings in the portrayal of the mother's devotion to her baby.

Julia Dean gives a sincere interpretation as the mother. Except for its denouement, the plot does not permit Miss Dean to do much more than walk through the part. Her acting is restrained, however, and in keeping with the gloomy atmosphere that characterizes most of the footage.

Louise Huff is captivating in the role of the daughter; Kenneth Hunter is satisfactory as the villain, and with James Hall, Ethel Lloyd, William Mackey, Lorna Volare, Evelyn Dumo, and Adelaide Lawrence, the cast is complete.

Edmund Lawrence provided direction that is adequate. The mountings and photography are of the superior sort. A marionette show, rural exteriors, interiors of apartments, views of a theatre within and without, a dive scene, stand out as scenes especially worthy of enumeration. Eve Unsell wrote the scenario.

"MADAME X"

(Henry W. Savage-Pathé Gold Rooster—Six Reels)

REVIEWED BY HARVEY F. THEW

WITH Dorothy Donnelly, the star of the original stage production, in the leading role, a tensely dramatic picture has been made out of this notable success. It has not been possible in all cases to build up the same strength of dramatic situation, or to take the fullest advantage of it—that depended too much on the lines of the play, but wherever possible, these lines have been preserved in the shape of titles, and a strong subject is the result.

Miss Donnelly has adapted herself admirably to the unusual and exacting requirements of the camera; her work is convincing, and shows deep study and sympathy, and there are few cases in which her emotions fail to register.

Several of the scenes are cut rather short, and the situation is introduced somewhat suddenly, but this appears to be necessary where such long lapses of time are covered, as in this subject. As a whole, the picture dovetails together well, and the story is presented in a straightforward manner, easily understandable.

Madame Floriot, wife of a young Paris attorney, is cast off by her husband when he finds her in a compromising position. She goes to her lover, and when he tires of her, she wanders on about the world, going lower and lower, until twenty years later she is a creature of the streets, in the grip of absinthe and drugs.

She falls in with a crowd of sharpers, who find out enough of her history to realize that they can make money out of it, and they plan to start for Paris, hunt up her husband and blackmail him. To keep her son, who must now be a man, from knowing of her and her condition, she shoots the leader of the band.

She is arrested, and under the name of Madame X is brought to trial. By a strange freak of fate, her son is appointed to try her, it being his first case. He pleads for her so well, accidentally hitting on her real life and the actual cause of the murder, that she is acquitted. Her husband, who is in court, recognizes her, and the boy learns he has saved his mother. Overcome by the mortification of having her son learn her condition, she collapses and dies in the empty court room.

This play, as thus constructed, presents some great difficulties for any artist, but it must be said that Miss Donnelly rises to them ably. She never shows that she is hampered by the limited stage of the studio.

"THE LAW'S INJUSTICE"

